TO THE READER.

WHEN it pleaſed GOD to remove me from Briſtol to a private Living in Somerſetſhire, where I had more Leiſure for my Studies, I happen'd to read over the Preface of the moſt learned Archbiſhop Uſher to his Annals, in which he mention'd his (a) Opinion concerning a more exact Method of a Chronological Syſtem of the Sacred Scriptures by the Help of Aſtronomy, and a competent Skill in the Jewiſh Learning. I was far from thinking myſelf ſo well skill'd in either of theſe Studies, as to undertake a Work of this Nature; however ſeveral (b) Texts of Scripture coming into my Memory, made me endeavour to attempt it. I made many Calculations to no Purpoſe, and beſtowed many an Hour about it, with this View, that if it was above my Ability to perform it, it could but be buried in Oblivion; but if GOD ſhould enable me to do it, it (c) might be uſeful. Sometimes I deſpair'd of Succeſs, and laid the Deſign aſide; at other Times I had Hope, and then fell to it again. At laſt I flatter'd myſelf, that I had ſucceeded, and then digeſted my Thoughts into ſome Method. After this, coming to London, to aſſiſt in the Correction of the Arabick Pſalter, and New Teſtament, for the Benefit of the poor Chriſtians in Aſia, I ſhewed my Thoughts to ſome Friends, who adviſ'd me to publiſh them; to which I comply'd, with a Deſign not to have exceeded fourſcore or an hundred Pages in the whole. A few Sheets being printed off, I was inform'd, that a Work of this Nature was intended to be publiſh'd from the Papers of the moſt famous Sir Iſaac Newton. Upon this I ſtopp'd, expecting great Aſſiſtance in my Deſign from that moſt able Hand. When it was publiſh'd, I found his Aſtronomical Obſervations to be very few, and even thoſe not to be ſatisfactory. And as the Septuagint and Samaritan Verſions would deſtroy the Authority of the Hebrew Text, by Placing the Date of the Creation too far forward; ſo I found, that Sir Iſaac's Hypotheſis would have the ſame Conſequence, by bringing the Hiſtory too far backward. Of this I ſhall only give two Inſtances: He (d) tells us, that the Canaanites, who fled from Joſhua, retired in great Numbers into Egypt, and there conquer'd Thammuz King of The Lower Egypt, and reigned under their Kings Salatis and others, until the Days of Eli and Samuel. And that the upper Parts of Egypt were in the Days of Joſhua under many Kings, which reigned at Coptos, Thebes, This, Elephantis, and other Places, which by Conquering one another grew by Degrees into one Kingdom, over which Miſphragmuthoſis reigned in the Days of Eli. In the Table of the Kings both of Upper and Lower-Egypt, there is no ſuch Name as Thammuz. And they, who have Skill in the Oriental Learning, know that (e) by Thammuz is meant the Sun, which is at too great a Diſtance to be conquer'd by any of this Globe. But all this is brought to prove, that there were many Kings in Egypt like thoſe in Canaan, and that the firſt King over all Egypt was he, whoſe Daughter Solomon married. But the true Hiſtory is this: Mizraim the Son of Ham went into Egypt, where he reign'd as their firſt King, with others of his Poſterity after him, and liv'd in Upper-Egypt. In Proceſs of Time, a great Number of Shepherds going promiſcuouſly out of the Land of Canaan, ſeize on the Lower-Egypt as fit for Paſturage, and call themſelves Canaanites. This occaſions a War between Upper-Egypt and them, and ſo to defend themſelves, they chooſe Salatis, a famous Warriour, to be their firſt King. Many of them being tired out with long Wars, return again to Canaan before Abraham's Time; ſo that at his firſt coming thither, he found (f) that the Canaanite was then in the land. After this Abraham (g) goes into Egypt, and whilſt he was there, theſe Canaanites divided themſelves into two Bodies. One of them kept together in great Numbers, and applying themſelves to Merchandiſe, were call'd Canaanites, which Word in Hebrew ſignifies Merchants. The other applied themſelves to Feeding of Cattle, and ſeparating into leſſer Bodies were call'd Perizzites, or Villagers; and ſo Abraham at his Return from Egypt found, that not only the Canaanite, but alſo (h) the Perizzite was then in the Land; and theſe being formidable Enemies, as having been ſo long bred up to Wars, are ſo often (i) mark'd out by GOD for utter Deſtruction, with the reſt of the Families of Canaan their Anceſtor. Soon after (k) they ſet up a King over them, who dwelt in Gerar. About the Time of the Death of Abraham, Tethmoſis or Amoſis King of Upper Egypt, conquers theſe Paſtors, ſhuts them up in the City of Peluſium, and after a long Siege gives them Leave to retire into the Land of Canaan, and ſo takes Poſſeſſion thereof by ſurrender. Theſe coming from Peluſium to Canaan are call'd Philiſtines, and in the Land, which was afterward ſo call'd from them, Abraham (l) ſojourned many days. In Iſaac's Time they alſo had (m) ſet up a King over themſelves, and he dwelt for ſome Time among them. Theſe Wars occaſion'd by Shepherds coming from Canaan to Egypt was the Cauſe, that afterwards in Joſeph's Time, (n) every ſhepherd was an abomination to the Egyptians, and the ſame was alſo ſaid of (o) the Hebrews, by which they meant all thoſe, who came from Aſia over the River Sihor into Egypt, and therefore in Deriſion they call'd them Hebrews, or (p) Runagates. This made Joſeph (q charge his Brethren with being Spies, and the Charge was moſt heavy, conſidering that the Canaanites, from which Land they came, had involv'd them into ſuch a long and dreadful War, and had been but lately expelled from thence, and might be ſeeking an Opportunity to return thither again. Thus according to the Catalogue of the Egyptian Kings taken by Eratoſthenes from the Egyptian Records, and the Account which we have of them in Manetho, as mention'd (r) by Joſephus, every thing agrees with, and illuſtrates the Scripture Hiſtory. But if, with this learned Author, we place Salatis the firſt King of Lower-Egypt after the Days of Joſhua, it will be very hard to account for a (s) Pharaoh in Egypt in Abraham's Time, which was always the Name of their Kings; and that afterward Joſeph was Governor over (t) all the land of Egypt under Pharaoh, which Country was ſo large, that (u) ſix hundred thouſand men that were Iſraelites, beſides women and children, could be kept in Bondage in a Part thereof, and who were miraculouſly preſerv'd from (x) the Plagues which fell upon the reſt of the Land at the ſame Time. Thus the Chronology of this learned Author puts the whole Scripture Hiſtory into Confuſion, and therefore he ſhould not have mention'd in the leaſt, that he had made his Syſtem agreeable to thoſe ſacred Writings.

I ſhall only add one Inſtance more from this Author. He tells us, (y) that GOD gave to Shiſhak ממלכות הארצות, the kingdoms of the lands, and puts down the Hebrew Words and the Text for a Proof of it, and prints the Words GOD gave to Shiſhak in Italick, as a Part of the Text. He labours very hard to prove Seſoſtris the King of Egypt, who ſucceeded Pharaoh-Amenophis, that was drowned in the Red-Sea to be the Shiſhak in Rehoboam's Time. This Seſoſtris made very large Conqueſts in Aſia, like Alexander the Great. The Time when his Brother Danaus came into Greece, who from him were call'd Danai, fixes his Reign to a very great Certainty. Shiſhak did only come to Jeruſalem, and did not touch any of the ten Tribes of Iſrael, where Jeroboam reign'd, who had (z) liv'd with him a long Time in the Reign of Solomon, and probably invited him to diſtreſs Rehoboam, againſt whom he had rebelled, that he might be the ſafer, when the Kingdom of Judah was impoveriſh'd. However, to make Shiſhak and Seſoſtris the ſame, this learned Author quotes for Scripture, that GOD gave to Shiſhak the Kingdoms of the Earth. But there is not ſuch a Word in the whole Scripture. The (a) whole Verſe, which he quotes, is this, Nevertheleſs they (the Jews) ſhall be his ſervants; that they may know my ſervice, and the ſervice of the kingdoms of the countries. So that when this learned Author ſaith, that he hath made his Chronology agree with Scripture, he can only mean the Scripture of his own Making. Herodotus (from whence the Account of all the Actions of Seſoſtris is chiefly taken) tells us, that in the Countries which he conquered, he ſet up Statues to ſhew his Conqueſts, repreſenting the Valour or Cowardice of his Enemies, that he ſet up ſome in the Land of Canaan, which branded the Inhabitants with the greateſt Marks of Infamy, and that he (who was born above an hundred Years after the Babyloniſh Captivity) ſaw ſome of them ſtanding in that Country. Now if they had been ſet up in Rehoboam's Time, in any Part of the Kingdoms either of Iſrael or Judah, can we imagine, that after Shiſhak and his Army (b were gone out of the Country, the Inhabitants would not have pull'd down ſuch Monuments of their own Shame? But the true Story is this: Seſoſtris came to the Crown of Egypt, when the Iſraelites paſſed thro' the Red-Sea; he marches with his Army into Canaan and other Places, which he conquers, and puts up ſuch Marks as theſe of his Conqueſts. After this he puts up Viceroys, in all the Cities, to gather Tribute, and ſend it to him. When he died, Buſiris (the cruel Tyrant, eſpecially to Strangers) ſucceeded him in Egypt. His Cruelties occaſion'd all theſe Viceroys in the Land of Canaan to revolt, and ſet up themſelves as Kings; ſo that Joſhua found (c) one and thirty of them in the Land at his Coming thither; and this was the viſible Providence, whereby their Strength was weakned, and Joſhua was enabled to conquer them one after another. Whilſt theſe Viceroys continued in the Country, the Inhabitants dared not to deſtroy thoſe Statues, and after Joſhua's Time the Iſraelites let them ſtand; becauſe it was no Reflection upon them, but only upon the Inhabitants, which were before them, and ſo they remained until the Time of Herodotus.

But to return from this Digreſſion. After a few Sheets of this Work had been printed off, I was adviſ'd by ſome Friends, contrary to my firſt Inclinations, to enlarge the Work by ſeveral other Additions, and particularly by a Hiſtory of the World from the Creation, until the Time when Dean Prideaux began his learned Connection, and to add what could be found for this Purpoſe, in the Writings of the moſt authentick Eaſtern Hiſtorians, ſuch as Sanchoniathô, Abul Pharagius, Elmacinus, Eutychius and Joſephus; and Propoſals for Subſcriptions were printed accordingly. As ſoon as Sir Iſaac Newton's Chronology was extant, I found it contrary to all Mankind, and utterly deſtructive of the Scripture Hiſtory, which made me oblig'd to confute it in (d) a ſmall Octavo printed for that Purpoſe, and this delay'd the other Work for ſome Time. When I began to think on the Particulars promis'd in the Propoſals, I found the Work to be much more difficult, and to require much more Time to finiſh it, than I at firſt imagin'd, and, as I fear, beyond my Abilities. However, I was oblig'd to perform what I had promiſed. I hope, that I have reconciled the Differences of Numbers throughout the Old and New Teſtament, ſo that there is no need to alledge, that any of them were alter'd by Tranſcribers, but that the Original is ſtill preſerv'd pure and intire. I hope, that I have reconciled the various Accounts of Time among the Chaldeans, Grecians, Perſians and Egyptians, and made them agree with thoſe of the Hebrew Bible, in Oppoſition to the Septuagint, and eſpecially the Samaritan Verſion, who place their Account too high, as well as others, who place it too low. I have done my beſt to reconcile the Chineſe Chronology with Scripture, from the Engliſh and Latin Authors already extant concerning this Nation; but I am told, that a Book is printing at Rome in Latin on this Subject, written by one who had been a Miſſionary in the Country for many Years, who learned the Language and Character, and hath ſpent moſt of his Time in Comparing their Hiſtorians for this Purpoſe, and that this Book when printed, will give entire Satisfaction, where we are yet in the Dark. I have endeavour'd to make the beſt Uſe, which I could, of the Eclipſes mention'd during the Scripture Hiſtory. I own, that thoſe three mention'd by (e) Archbiſhop Uſher, for which he quotes (f) the Prophet Amos, did not anſwer my Expectation, which I impute to my own Defects. However, I am told that Mr. Whiſton intends a Diſcourſe on this Subject, which will be ſatisfactory to the learned World; and when this Treatiſe, with the other juſt now mention'd, ſhall be publiſh'd, I know not what will be farther wanting to render our Chronology moſt complete, and exactly agreeing with the Scripture Hiſtory. I hope, that I have prov'd, that the moſt ſolemn Acts of Devotion, and other religious Tranſactions mention'd in the Old Teſtament, eſpecially from the Creation to the Time of Moſes, were performed on that Day, which we call Sunday, and that the Sabbath was alter'd from the firſt to the laſt Day of the Week, only among the Children of Iſrael at their Departure out of Egypt, in Commemoration of ſo great a Deliverance; and that it was reſtor'd again to the firſt Day of the Week by Our SAVIOUR's Reſurrection. This will, I think, more fully prove the Morality of our Chriſtian Sabbath, ſince no other Nation in the World was ever oblig'd to obſerve the Jewiſh Sabbath, more than the Dutch, French or Swedes are oblig'd to obſerve the 29th Day of May, or the fifth Day of November, which we commemorate for particular Reaſons. I hope alſo, that I have proved, that the Year of Jubilee was a Type of the Nativity of Our SAVIOUR, and that the Sabbatical Year was a Type of his Reſting in the Grave, and that their Epochas correſponded with their reſpective Years; which not only ſerves to rectify and confirm our Chronology, but alſo ſhews the great Wiſdom and Foreknowledge of GOD, in Appointing theſe Ordinances ſo long before. And I hope, that thoſe Subſcribers and others, who have been juſtly uneaſy at theſe long Delays, will be ſatisfy'd, that it is publiſh'd at laſt. Beſides the Difficulty of the Work, the Impreſſion hath met with ſo many Misfortunes, and I have had ſo many Avocations and Diſtractions from my Study, and ſo much Sickneſs of my own, and in my Family, which if they were proper to be mention'd, would ſufficiently plead my Excuſe; however it gives me ſufficient Cauſe to bleſs GOD, that I have diſcharg'd my Promiſe, and liv'd to finiſh it, as well as I could.

(b) 1 Kings 14. 25 to 29. 2 Chron. 12. 1 to 10. (c) Joſhua 12. 9 to the End. Thus alſo there were five Kings of Midian in the Time of Balaam for the ſame Reaſon, Numb. 31. 8, and Joſh. 13. 21. (d) Animadverſions on Sir Iſaac Newton's Book, intitled, The Chronology of antient Kingdoms amended. London, Printed in the Year 1728.

It is a great Satisfaction to me, and I hope it will be to others, that in the Scripture Chronology I never differ from Dr. Prideaux; and even from the Creation of the World, to the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, I never differ above five Years from Archbiſhop Uſher, the late Biſhop of Worceſter, or Mr. Marſhall. In Confuting the Samaritan Chronology, and alſo the Septuagint, I agree with Dr. Prideaux, and eſpecially with the Editors of the Polyglot Bible, who were the moſt learned Men in the World, and by far the beſt Judges of this Caſe; who alſo thought, that there would never have been the leaſt Room for ſuch a Controverſy. As for Sir Iſaac Newton, he is contrary to all Mankind, and tears up all former Learning by the Roots. I know not of one Author, with whom he agrees, except Sir John Marſham, and with him only in making Seſoſtris the ſame with Shiſhak in Rehoboam's Time; whoſe Authority is the leſs to be regarded, becauſe he rightly places Danaus the Brother of Seſoſtris contemporary with Moſes above five hundred Years before the other.

In Framing this Work I cannot expreſs the great Aſſiſtance, which I had from the Labours of thoſe great Men, who paved the Way, and without whoſe Works it had been impoſſible for me to have done any thing of this Nature, particularly the moſt Reverend Archbiſhop Uſher, the Right Reverend Biſhops Cumberland, Patrick, Beveridge, and Kidder, as alſo the Learned Bochartus and Hottinger; beſide thoſe of our own Nation, as Dr. Lightfoot, Prideaux and Welles, Sir Walter Raleigh, Mr. Mede and Mr. Marſhall, whoſe Writings are in the greateſt Eſteem in the learned World; and I ſhould be ungrateful, if I did not expreſs the many Civilities, which I received from the Reverend Mr. Reading, the Keeper of Sion-College Library in this City.

The Maps in Page 114, 115 and 117, being taken out of the Account which Strabo and Ptolemy give us of the antient Geography, differ very much from thoſe at the End of the Book, which are taken from our lateſt Authors. The Reaſon of this Difference muſt be either becauſe the Antients, or the Moderns have been miſtaken, or that ſome of the four great Rivers leading to Paradiſe have changed their Courſes in ſo great a Length of Time. The firſt of theſe Reaſons ſeems to be much the more probable.

If any Expreſſion ſeems ſevere, or written with too great a Warmth, the Reader will conſider, that it is only where the Authority of the Sacred Scriptures is vindicated, and the Credibility of its Hiſtory is aſſerted. The continual Attacks of theſe Books in this Age, beyond what was ever known before, are ſufficient to raiſe the Blood of all Chriſtians, and provoke their Indignation.

To conclude, If what I have done can be ſerviceable to vindicate the Authority of thoſe Sacred Writings, and eſpecially of the Hebrew Text, I ſhall have my End, and ſhall have cauſe to bleſs GOD, who hath enabled me to finiſh it. But if, thro' any Defect of mine, it ſhall happen to be otherwiſe, I have this Satisfaction left, that what I have done will only fall by it ſelf, and what other Perſons have wrote for the ſame End, may, notwithſtanding my weak Endeavours, have its due Effect.

Scripture Chronology.

CHAP. I.

From the Creation of the World to the Flood.

HE who conſiders the exact Motions of the heavenly Bodies, and eſpecially of the Sun and Moon, may thereby be fully convinc'd, That the Orderer of them is a moſt wiſe and a moſt powerful Being; or, as we commonly ſay, That there is a GOD. And he who ſhall conſider, how exactly theſe Motions do correſpond with ſeveral remarkable Paſſages in the Sacred Scriptures, beyond all the Poſſibility of human Contrivance, cannot but be equally ſenſible, That theſe Scriptures were communicated to us by that GOD, who gave the Laws of Motion to theſe heavenly Bodies; and that from the firſt Creation of them, he infallibly foreknew whatſoever ſhould come to paſs in Time, until the Frame of this World ſhall be diſſolv'd. And thus (a) The inviſible things of him are clearly ſeen from the creation of the world, being underſtood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and godhead, and moſt wiſe Providence; ſo that they, who deny it, are without any excuſe.

2. Thoſe Sacred Scriptures being therefore reveal'd to us by this GOD, they muſt neceſſarily be moſt certain and true: And as they give us an Account of Time from the Creation of the World; ſo they are the Ground of all Chronology. All other Tables muſt be rectify'd by them, and ſuch Accounts, which cannot be reconcil'd to them, muſt be rejected as falſe. And as GOD did (b) from the Beginning of the Creation appoint the two great lights, of the Heavens (as they appear unto us) even the Sun and Moon, to be for ſigns, and for ſeaſons, and for days, and for years, (tho' not in the Method of Judicial Aſtrology, as ſome have vainly imagin'd) ſo it may be ſurprizing to behold and obſerve the Harmony, which there is between the Motions of the Heavens, when compar'd with the Types and Propheſies, and the Tranſactions on the Earth.

3. Before I proceed to demonſtrate the Truth of the Scripture Chronology, by ſuch Aſtronomical Obſervations as may illuſtrate it, it muſt be obſerv'd, That for the better Calculating the Place of the Sun, or Moon, at any Time given before our SAVIOUR's Nativity, (on which

And thus (a) The inviſible things of him are clearly ſeen from the creation of the world, being underſtood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and godhead, and moſt wiſe Providence; ſo that they, who deny it, are without any excuſe.

2. Thoſe Sacred Scriptures being therefore reveal'd to us by this GOD, they muſt neceſſarily be moſt certain and true: And as they give us an Account of Time from the Creation of the World; ſo they are the Ground of all Chronology. All other Tables muſt be rectify'd by them, and ſuch Accounts, which cannot be reconcil'd to them, muſt be rejected as falſe. And as GOD did (b) from the Beginning of the Creation appoint the two great lights, of the Heavens (as they appear unto us) even the Sun and Moon, to be for ſigns, and for ſeaſons, and for days, and for years, (tho' not in the Method of Judicial Aſtrology, as ſome have vainly imagin'd) ſo it may be ſurprizing to behold and obſerve the Harmony, which there is between the Motions of the Heavens, when compar'd with the Types and Propheſies, and the Tranſactions on the Earth.

3. Before I proceed to demonſtrate the Truth of the Scripture Chronology, by ſuch Aſtronomical Obſervations as may illuſtrate it, it muſt be obſerv'd, That for the better Calculating the Place of the Sun, or Moon, at any Time given before our SAVIOUR's Nativity, (on which all or moſt of theſe Obſervations depend) the Year of his Nativity, according to the Vulgar Account, is called Annus Chriſti 00; the following Year is Annus Chriſti 1. and agrees with our Year commonly ſo call'd; and the Year before the ſaid Nativity is Annus ante Chriſtum 1. and is the ſame with the Year, which in other Tables is call'd Annus ante Chriſtum 2. So that theſe Tables differ the Space of a Year from moſt, or all others, in their Reckoning of Time from the Creation of the World to the Birth of CHRIST; becauſe others leave out the Year, which is here inſerted and call'd Annus Chriſti 00. And ſo they make the Facts Anno poſt Chriſtum 1. immediately to ſucceed the Facts Anno ante Chriſtum 1. without the Space of a Year between them. And as they reckon'd the Birth of CHRIST to have been in the latter End of December; ſo they generally reckon'd that whole Year to have been the Year before his Birth; becauſe the whole Year according to their Computation, except one ſingle Week, was actually paſt, before he was born. However the Julian Period, being the ſame in all Tables, will plainly ſhew the Agreement or Diſagreement, which is between theſe and any other, that ſhall be compar'd with them.

4. The firſt Advantage by inſerting a Year, which is call'd Annus Chriſti 00. is, That as it was a Biſſextile Year, ſo when an Allowance is made for a common Year, and for the Biſſextile Day of that Year, then in all Calculations for the preceding Years (the fourth Year being then the Biſſextile both before and after) our common Aſtronomical Tables will equally ſerve for the Years both before and after our SAVIOUR's Incarnation, if in calculating the Place of any of the heavenly Bodies for any Year given, which precedes the Birth of CHRIST, a Subſtraction is made of a Year and a Day, as will be evident from the following Calculations. But the Method for calculating the heavenly Motions for any Time given, which follows the ſaid Birth, is the ſame, which is us'd by all others.

5. Another Advantage by placing Ciphers for the Year of CHRIST's Birth is, That two Years being given, the one before the Birth of CHRIST, and the other after; and both Numbers being added together, the Total will ſhew the exact Number of Years between them:

Thus,

From the Year before the Birth of CHRIST	1
To the Year after the Birth of CHRIST	1
The Total is	2 Years.

Or thus,

From the Year 1. before the Birth of CHRIST to the Year of of his Birth is	1 Year.
From the Year of the Birth of CHRIST to the Year after his Birth is	1 Year.
The Total is	2 Years.

Or thus,

From the Creation of the World to the ſame Day in the Year of the Birth of CHRIST is	4007 Years.
From that Day to the ſame Day in this preſent Year are	1726 Years.
Therefore from the Creation of the World to the ſame Day in this preſent Year are	5733 Years.

And conſequently the Sun being created on the twenty fifth Day of October, the Number of Days from thence to the twenty fourth Day of October incluſive, in this preſent Year, may be thus computed:

In 5733 Years there are of common Days	2092545 Days.
In 5733 Years there are of ſupernumerary Days in the Leap Year	1433 Days.
Therefore from the Creation of the World to October 24. incluſive Anno Domini 1726. were	2093978 Days.

The not obſerving this Rule hath occaſion'd the Error of a ſingle Year in ſeveral Chronological Computations, which hath alſo ſpoil'd all ſuch Aſtronomical Obſervations of theſe preceding Years, as proceeding from ſuch a Hypotheſis, in which a ſingle Year is miſtaken, by leaving out the Biſſextile Year of CHRIST's Birth; and by leaving out that Year the Biſſextile Years have been alſo ſet in their wrong Places.

6. But to proceed in ſuch an Aſtronomical Method, as may ſerve in ſome Meaſure to fix the Year of the Creation of the World, and illuſtrate the Account which the Scriptures give us thereof, we muſt take it for granted, That the Sun was created on or near the Autumnal Equinox, which in that Age of the World uſually happen'd upon the twenty fifth Day of October, if we reckon ſo far back by Julian Years, as may appear by (c) Calculation. The (d) Talmudiſts affirm, That the World was created in the Month Tiſri, and that for this Reaſon the firſt Day thereof was a holy

holy Feſtival. And they alſo add, That in the Month of Tiſri, which was about the Autumnal Equinox, the Patriarchs were all born, and that in the ſame Month they all died; and that only Iſaac was born about the Paſſover. In the Beginning of the Year, or of the Month Tiſri, (e) Sarah, Rebekah, and Hannah had the Promiſe of a Son. In the Beginning of the old Year, or Tiſri, Joſeph was brought out of Priſon. In Tiſri the ſervile Labour of the Iſraelites ceaſed in Egypt. In Niſan their full Deliverance came, and in Tiſri they ſhall be ſaved by the Coming of the Meſſias. But ſuch Teſtimonies are not to be depended on. It is certain, that the Feaſts in this Month among the Jews were more in Number, and more ſolemn than in any other Month of the Year beſides; and if all which they ſay could be prov'd, they had ſufficient Reaſons to obſerve them. However, at the Autumnal Equinox all the Fruits of the Earth were fully ripe in their proper Seaſon; and therefore the Earth was compleatly furniſhed for the Reception of all living Creatures. From this Time the Antemoſaical World did begin the Year, until the Alteration took Place, which (f) was appointed by GOD at the Deliverance of the Iſraelites out of Egypt. And even the Jews do ſtill obſerve this Method in their civil, tho' not in their ſacred Years: So that according to their Way of Reckoning, as it hath been eſtabliſh'd among them by (g) Rabbi Hillel, the full Moon immediately following the Autumnal Equinox is the Middle of the firſt Month. Thus the new Moon, or the Beginning of the firſt Month, ſometimes comes before, and ſometimes follows the Autumnal Equinox; but the full Moon is always fix'd immediately to ſucceed it.

7. Let us now conſider the State of Adam at his Creation. He being a perfect Man muſt firſt obſerve a real Diſtinction between Day and Night, the Sun being viſible in the one, but inviſible in the other. Then he muſt obſerve, that, cloudy Weather excepted, the Sun did ſhine by Day, and that Darkneſs ſucceeded after the Sun was ſet; which gradually increaſing for about the Space of an Hour and an Half, it was then totally dark, and the Stars appear'd; and thus the Light and the Darkneſs conſtantly ſucceeding each other, he might at firſt compute the Length of his Life by Days. And thus alſo the Diſtinction of twelve Hours darkneſs, and twelve Hours light, makes every Day to begin at the Evening, as it was from the Creation. After this (h) the Moon being paſt her full, Adam muſt behold it riſing later and later in the Evening, until it diſappear'd; ſo that Adam, being depriv'd for ſome Time of the Benefit thereof, could not but with Pleaſure obſerve her Returning in the Evening and Increaſing, when ſhe was paſt her Change; and then Adam might properly begin the Computation of the next Month, and after that reckon his Life not by Days only, which would ſoon increaſe to a great Number, but by Months, and begin the Months ſucceſſively, whenever the Moon did firſt appear in the Evening after her Change. Thus began the Computation by Days and Months, the Sun directing the one, and the Moon the other. Beſides, when GOD had created the World in ſix Days, and reſted on the Seventh, he conſecrated it as a Day of religious Worſhip and Abſtaining from Labour, and gave a Command to Adam and his Poſterity to obſerve the ſame, which naturally brought in a Computation of Weeks. Adam, being alſo created when the Sun was near the Autumnal Equinox, might obſerve, that the Sun did riſe and ſet in the oppoſite Parts of Heaven, and this Obſervation might eaſily be confirm'd by two Trees or other Marks, which ſtood directly Eaſt and Weſt from each other; and by his taking Notice, that the Sun riſing did caſt its Shadow from the firſt to the ſecond Mark, and that the Sun ſetting did again caſt its Shadow from the ſecond Mark to the firſt. Then he muſt obſerve, that the Sun in the Winter did not appear at Mid-day ſo high, as it had appear'd before in the Autumn, but that it gradually declin'd toward the South: He muſt alſo obſerve, that it roſe and ſet more Southwardly, and conſequently, that the Shadow from two ſuch Trees, or Marks, at the Sun's Riſing and Setting appear'd more Northwardly, until it came to its greateſt Declination; and he might probably obſerve, that then the Days were ſhorter, and the Weather was colder. And perhaps the Senſe of his Sin might occaſion a Fear, leaſt he ſhould be totally depriv'd of the Benefit of the Sun, and the World might return to its firſt Sate of Darkneſs again. But after this he obſerves with Comfort the Sun gradually returning to the Equinoctial Line, and that at the End of half a Year the Riſing and Setting was exactly the ſame as at the Creation. This might occaſion a Query, Whether this Space was not a ſufficient Quantity of Time, whereby to compute a larger Revolution of the Sun, which we call a Year? But this Query might be ſoon anſwer'd, when he obſerv'd a ſouthern Shadow at the Sun's Riſing and Setting, which never happen'd before: And that, as after the Equinox at the Creation, the Sun at Mid-day appear'd lower, and gradually declin'd, and accordingly did riſe and ſet more Southward, and that the Days were ſhorter, and the Weather was colder; ſo after this Vernal Equinox the Sun at Mid-day appear'd higher, and gradually aſcended, and accordingly did riſe and ſet more Northward, and that the Shadow appear'd more Southward, and that the Days were longer, and the Weather was hotter, until the Sun came to its greateſt North Declination; after which Time it gradually declin'd again from the Summer Solſtice, as it had aſcended from the other, and this Declining continued until the Time of the Autumnal Equinox. But then it was eaſy to obſerve, that the Sun did riſe and ſet again in the ſame Place as at the firſt, that the Shadow at its Riſing was more and more Northward; that at Mid day the Sun appear'd lower, that the Days grew ſhorter, and the Weather colder; that the ſame Fruits were ripe again in their proper Seaſons, and that all Things appear'd as they were at the beginning of the creation. And thus as a Lunar Revolution or a Month was fix'd before; ſo the Solar Revolution or the Year was fix'd now. Thus theſe (i) two great Lights, according to their original Intention, did diſtinguiſh the Seaſons, the Days, the Months and Years. And thus began the Computation of Weeks by a divine Appointment, and the Computation of Days, Months, and Years by a natural Obſervation of the Sun and Moon, until in Proceſs of Time ſeveral Nations did make particular Alterations in the Beginnings of their Days, Months and Years; yet ſtill retaining a great Regard to the original Conſtitution. And as the full Moon, and not the Change, on the Year of the Creation, was very near to the Autumnal Equinox; ſo this might well occaſion Adam's computing the ſucceeding Years by the full Moons, which happen'd either upon the Autumnal Equinox or the next after; ſo that the preceding new Moon ſhould always begin the Year.

8. The Method being thus fix'd, it might be eaſy and natural about the Time of the Autumnal and Vernal Equinoxes to obſerve the Length of the Shadow of any Pillar, or Stick of Wood, particularly at Noon, and make Marks as Standards to fix thereby their Obſervations for future Years, and add ſuch Elliptick or other Lines for this Purpoſe, as is uſual in ſome Herizontal Dials, that ſo it might be known thereby, Whether the Sun's Declination was Northward or Southward? And whether it was much or little? This I take to be the great Perfection of the Chaldean Aſtronomy in the moſt early Times. And thus Adam, tho' he had but little Skill in that Science, might at firſt naturally begin a Computation of Days, and Weeks, and Months, and Years, the Number of which could not be miſtaken, being fix'd by the diurnal Motion of the Sun, by divine Inſtitution, by the Change of the Moon, the annual Revolution of the Sun, and the Seaſons of the Year, which were conſequent thereupon. And tho' the Number of Days in a Month or a Year was at firſt uncertain; yet being ſubject to future Amendments, it might frequently be corrected, and the future Obſervations of about an hundred Years might ſo far rectify their Numbers, as to make them a ſufficient Direction for common Uſe.

9. Secondly, We muſt take it for granted, that the Garden of Edon, where our firſt Parents Adam and Eve were plac'd, lay near to that Part of the Land of Shinar, where Babylon was afterward built. This is fully prov'd in Latin by the famous Bochartus, and in Engliſh by our own Country-Man Sir Walter Raleigh, and is aſſented to by the moſt learned and beſt (k) Commentators, who allow, that the four Rivers mention'd by Moſes might antiently meet near that Place, and could meet in no other. And the plain level Ground in all that Country, eſpecially toward the South, Eaſt and Weſt, might give an Opportunity to the Patriarchs at firſt, as it did to the Chaldeans afterward, to make their Aſtronomical Obſervations.

10. A late (l) learned Author in the Oriental Languages, and eſpecially in the Arabick, gives his Opinion, that our Maps of Aſia and Africa are very defective as to their Longitude and Latitude, except a few Places publickly known; and that they may be corrected and amended by the Arabian Geographers. What Uſe may be made of them in other Inſtances, I ſhall not determine; but, I think, that in the Caſe of Babylon they are very defective. Firſt, Becauſe they always reckon Babylon and Bagdad to be the ſame Place: And, Secondly, Becauſe they differ among themſelves in ſetting down the Longitude and Latitude even of the City of Bagdad.

11. That in the firſt Particular they were miſtaken, is evident from the Teſtimony of (m) the famous Bochartus, and alſo (n) a late learned Country-Man of our own, whoſe Words I ſhall tranſcribe, viz. About the Year before CHRIST 293. Seleucus built Seleucia on the Tigris at the Diſtance of forty Miles from Babylon. It was plac'd on the weſtern Side of that River, over-againſt the Place where now Bagdad ſtands on the eaſtern Side, which ſoon grew to be a very great City. For by Reaſon of the Breaking down the Banks of the Euphrates, the Country near Babylon being drown'd, the Branch of that River, which paſſed thro' the Midſt of that City, being ſhallowed and render'd unnavigable; this made the Situation of Babylon at this Time ſo very inconvenient, that when this new City was built, it ſoon drain'd the other of all its Inhabitants. And in a ſhort Time after the Building of Seleucia, Babylon became wholly deſolated, ſo that nothing remain'd of it but its Walls.——It muſt be acknowledg'd, that there is mention made of Babylon, as of a City ſtanding long after the Time where I have plac'd its Deſolation, as in Lucian, Philoſtratus, and others. But in all theſe Authors, and wherever elſe we find Babylon ſpoken of as a City in being after the Time of Seleucus Nicanor, it muſt be underſtood not of Old Babylon on the Euphrates, but of Seleucia on the Tigris. For as that ſucceeded in the Dignity and Grandeur of Old

Babylon,

Babylon, ſo it did alſo in its Name. At firſt it was call'd Seleucia Babylonica, that is, the Babylonick Seleucia, or Seleucia of the Province of Babylon, to diſtinguiſh it from the other Seleucia's which were elſewhere; and after that Babylonia ſimply, and at length Babylon. That Lucan by his Babylon, in the firſt Book of his Pharſalia, means no other than Seleucia, or the New Babylon, is plain. For there he ſpeaks of it as the Metropolis of the Parthian Kingdom, where the Trophies of Craſſus were hung up, after the Vanquiſhing of the Romans at Carrhæ. which can be underſtood only of the Seleucian, or New Babylon, and not of the Old: For that New Babylon only was the Seat of the Parthian Kings, but the Old Babylon never. And in another Place, (i. e. Book 6. Verſe 50.) he deſcribes it as ſurrounded by the Tigris, in the ſame Manner as Antioch was by the Orontes. But it was the Seleucia, or the New Babylon, and not the Old, that ſtood upon the Tigris. And as to Philoſtratus, when he brings his Apollonius (the Don Quixot of his Romance) to the royal Seat of the Parthian King, which was at that Time at Seleucia, then call'd Babylon, he was led by that Name into this groſs Blunder, as to miſtake it for the Old Babylon; and therefore in the Deſcribing of it he gives us the ſame Deſcription, which he found given of Old Babylon in Herodotus, Diodorus Siculus, Strabo, and other Writers. But it is no unuſual Thing for Romancers often to make Blunders and Miſtakes in the Geography of the Places, where they lay the Scenes of their Fables. And that the whole Story of Apollonius Tyaneus, as written by Philoſtratus, is no more than a Romance and a Fable, is well known. —————— And perhaps the giving of the Name of Babylon to Seleucia was that which gave Riſe to the preſent vulgar Error, that Bagdad is now ſituated in the very Place, where formerly Old Babylon ſtood: For when Bagdad was firſt built, it was truly upon the ſame Plot of Ground, where formerly Seleucia, or New Babylon ſtood. For as Old Babylon was exhauſted by Seleucia; ſo afterward was Seleucia by Cteſiphon and Almadayen, and theſe two again by Bagdad, it being the Humour of the Princes of thoſe Ages to build new Cities to be Monuments of their Names, and to deſolate old ones in the Neighbourhood for the peopling of them. —— So that they are much miſtaken, who think Bagdad to be the ſame with Old Babylon. For that was upon the Euphrates; but Bagdad is upon the Tigris, at the Diſtance of forty Miles from the Place where that old City ſtood. Thus far this learned and judicious Author.

12. As to the ſecond Particular it is evident from their own Authors. For Babylon, or Bagdad, according to Abu'l Feda, in a Manuſcript given to the Univerſity of Oxford by the learned Dr. Pocock, is in Longitude 70$^{d.}$ 44$'$. and in Latitude 33$^{d.}$ 25$'$. According to Naſſir Ettuſi it is in Longitude 80$^{d.}$ and in Latitude 33$^{d.}$ 20$'$. And according to Uleg Beig it is in Longitude 80$^{d.}$ 00$'$. and in Latitude 33$^{d.}$ 21$'$. as appears from a Book tranſlated out of the Perſick Language by Gravius, or Greaves our own Country-Man. And Father Riccioli a modern Author puts Bagdad, or Babylon, in Longitude 71$^{d.}$ 00$'$. and in Latitude 33$^{d.}$ 25$'$.

13. It may therefore be own'd, that tho' the Arabians might formerly have been eminent Geographers; yet they muſt not be intirely depended upon. Neither can it be deny'd, that the Chriſtians now as far excel the Arabians in that Science, as the Arabians of old excell'd other Nations. And as degenerate as the Chriſtians are; yet wherever they have gone, that Bleſſing ſeems to have attended them, that they have made more Diſcoveries in one Year in a ſtrange Country, than the Gentile Natives have made in many Ages before. Our own Countryman Mr. Eachard puts London in 18$^{d.}$ 36$'$. of Longitude, as Babylon in 79$^{d.}$ 00$'$. and in the Latitude of 35 Degrees. As therefore they differ among themſelves, and as the Difference of forty or an hundred Miles in Longitude, or even of nine or ten Degrees, will in the Caſe before us make no ſenſible Alteration in Aſtronomical Computations; ſo I ſhall rather chuſe to confine my ſelf to the judicious and learned Bochart, who in his Map (*) of Meſopotamia places Babylon in the Longitude of 77$^{d.}$ 46$'$. from which ſubſtract the Longitude of London, and the Difference of 59$^{d.}$ 10$'$. which being reduc'd into Time is 3$^{h.}$ 56$'$. 40$''$. and he places it alſo in the Latitude of 34$^{d.}$ 15$'$.

14. Thirdly, In all Calculations before the Time of Joſhua an Allowance muſt be made for the Sun's ſtanding ſtill twelve Hours at his Requeſt; that is, the Earth mov'd in her annual Motion, but her diurnal Motion was ſtop'd for ſo long a Space, ſo that both the Sun and Moon ſeem'd to abide ſo long in the ſame Poſition. This gave the firſt Occaſion for the Story of Phaethon, ſo well known in the Heathen World. The true Account whereof is thus ſet down in (o) the Sacred Scriptures, Then ſpake Joſhua to the LORD, Sun ſtand thou ſtill upon Gibeon, and thou moon in the valley of Ajalon. And the ſun ſtood ſtill, and the moon ſtayed, until the people had avenged themſelves of their enemies. Is not this written in the book of Jaſher, So the Sun ſtood ſtill, and the moon ſtayed, and haſted not to go down about a whole day?

15. That this Day was about the Space of twelve Hours, whilſt the Sun ſtood ſtill, ſeems to have been the Opinion of the Son of Sirach, who (p) ſpeaking of Joſhua, ſaith, Did not the ſun go back by his means? And was not one day, that is the Space of a natural Day, in which the Sun in thoſe Countries did generally ſhine about twelve Hours, as long as two ſuch Days? There (q) was once a thick darkneſs in the land of Egypt three days; when they ſaw not one another, neither roſe any from his bed in three days. But this was not occaſion'd by any defect of the celeſtial Bodies, either in Light or Motion, becauſe at the ſame Time the children of Iſrael had (as uſually) light in their dwellings. And there ſeems to be another Miracle of the ſame Nature in the Time of Hezekiah. But this did not happen by any retrograde Motion of the Sun, or rather by any retrograde Motion of the Earth; but only in the apparent Shadow of it. Neither was it thus in all Parts of the Earth alike; but only upon the Sun-dial of Ahaz. And this, tho' happening only to a private Dial, was ſufficient, as it was intended, to ſatisfy a private Perſon. When (r) Hezekiah ſaid unto Iſaiah, What ſhall be the ſign, that the LORD will heal me? And that I ſhall go up to the houſe of the LORD the third day? Then Iſaiah ſaid, This ſign ſhalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing which he hath ſpoken. Shall the ſhadow go forward ten degrees? or go backward ten degrees? And Hezekiah ſaid, It is a light thing for the ſhadow to go down ten degrees; nay, but let the ſhadow return backward ten degrees. And Iſaiah the prophet cried unto the LORD, and he brought the ſhadow ten degrees backward, by which it had gone down in the dial of Ahaz. It is (s) certain, that the conſtant and uniform Motion of the heavenly Bodies receiv'd no Alteration in the Time of Hezekiah, as it is evident from the three Eclipſes of the Moon, which were mention'd by Ptolomy (one about eight Years, and the other two about ſeven Years before it) the Calculation whereof, being computed backward from our Times, brings us to the ſame Time of the Day as it was then obſerv'd by the Chaldeans, in the ſame Manner as if no retrograde Motion of the Sun had happen'd at all. So that neither this in Hezekiah's Time, nor the other in the Time of Moſes could make any Alteration in the Length of the Day or Night, or in any Aſtronomical Computations. And (t) there was no day like that, which was in the Time of Joſhua, either before it or after it, that the LORD hearkned to the voice of a man, for the LORD fought for Iſrael. And therefore this alone, which was in the Time of Joſhua, is to be obſerv'd in all the following Calculations.

16. Laſtly, We muſt take it for granted, that the weekly Sabbaths, which were obſerv'd before the Time of the Moſaical Law, were obſerv'd on that Day of the Week, which we call Sunday, and not on that Day, which we call Saturday. This ſeems to me to be fully and plainly prov'd by a late Author, who (u) aſſerts, That all the Patriarchs from Adam to Moſes had ſtated Places for divine Worſhip, and a ſeparate Maintenance for the Prieſts of the moſt high GOD. That they had ſet Times for their ſolemn Aſſemblies, and that theſe Times were weekly and of divine Inſtitution; and that particularly when Cain and Abel ſacrific'd, there was no other Computation of ſuch Times, as related to their publick Worſhip, except by Weeks; and that Job himſelf obſerv'd a ſeventh Day. And then he endeavours to prove, that theſe weekly Sabbaths obſerv'd before the Moſaical Law, were Sundays and not Saturdays. To this end he particularly affirms, that the ancient Poets had Reſpect not to the Saturday but Sunday in their Encomiums of the ſeventh Day. That Tertullian, Juſtin Martyr, and Ignatius, among the primitive Fathers are expreſs for this Purpoſe; and that Juſtin Martyr affirms in an Apology to the beſt Philoſophers then living, that the Chriſtians celebrated Sundays as the prime Day, wherein GOD perfected the Creation. Hence he infers that there was a vaſt Diſparity between the fourth Commandment, as (x) it was deliver'd by GOD, and as (y) it was deliver'd by Moſes, the firſt being univerſal and perpetual, and the other particular and temporary. That the law, which CHRIST JESUS came not to deſtroy, had reference to the Antemoſaical Sabbath. That the Saturday-Sabbath was only a Memorial of GOD's Deliverance of the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt, and that the Patriarchs celebrated the Sunday-Sabbath in Hopes of their own by CHRIST's future Reſurrection. But the whole Book being profeſſedly written upon this Subject, his Arguments are too many and too long to be here inſerted.

17. Another learned and judicious Author (z) expounding the fourth Commandment ſaith, that nothing is therein expreſly requir'd, but that after every ſix Days Labour there ſhould be a Day of Reſt, and that the different Method of computing Days for the fixing upon the Seventh for a ſtated Reſt, is not inſerted in this Law. That (a) the Explication of the Day, according to the Letter of the Law is thus, Six days ſhalt thou labour, and do all thy work. But the ſeventh (that is, after theſe ſix) thou ſhalt do no work. It is not ſaid, The ſeventh Day of the Week as the Days are number'd in Egypt, or in any other particular Part of the World; but the ſeventh with reference to the ſix before mention'd. It is (b) thought probable, that the Day inſtituted by Moſes was not the ſame which had been obſerv'd before. If it had been the ſame, it would vaſtly have ſtrengthen'd this Law of Moſes to have inſerted an Account of the ancient Practice. But when he ſeems ſo much concern'd to eſtabliſh his Law of the Sabbath, and aſſigns as the main Reaſon the Iſraelites being brought out of Egypt, on the Day which he now fix'd upon; and ſo obtaining Reſt from their hard Labours, and alſo ſpeaking of its being a Sign and Token of a farther Reſt, which they were to be led into, and a Miracle muſt be wrought particularly to ſecure the Honour of the ſeventh Day, in GOD's giving them on the day before the bread of two days, that there might not be ſo much as their ſeeking for, or preparing their Bread on the ſeventh Day; this ſeems to be a Point ſo much labour'd, becauſe he fix'd on a Day different from that of the Patriarchs; and therefore he never once mentions the Example of any one of them, tho' that might have done as much to recommend his ſeventh Day to the Seed of Abraham, as any Thing elſe which he alledg'd. However, this would have been ſuch an additional Strength to his Law, that we can hardly think he would have omitted it, had his ſeventh Day and the ſeventh Day of the Patriarchs been exactly the ſame. The more he ſeems concern'd to ſecure the Obſervation of this Sabbath (and there is nothing about which he expreſſes more Concern than this) the more ſtrongly will the Argument here conclude, that he would have ſupported it by Alledging the Example of the Patriarchs, if their Example had been full to his Purpoſe.

18. However (c) it is evident, that the Meaſuring of Time by Weeks prevail'd every where in the World. Thoſe Nations, which had no Knowledge of the Jewiſh Records, fell readily into this. And whatever Names they had to their Days, they had but ſeven to make up their Week. This plainly ſhews, that there muſt be ſome original Law and Foundation for ſuch a Practice, before the Jewiſh Law was written.

19. And as they divided their Time into Weeks; ſo they conſtantly obſerv'd one Day in ſeven as a Day to be kept holy. A Sabbath was ſo much obſerv'd all the World over, that a ſeventh Day (as Biſhop Patrick tells us from Philo the Jew) was truly call'd ἑορτὴ πάνδημος, or the Univerſal Feſtival. Heſiod, one of the moſt antient Greek Poets, who is ſuppos'd to be cotemporary with Homer, ſaith, Ἱερὸν σέβδομον ἦμαρ, The ſeventh Day is holy. Clemens Alexandrinus (d) hath prov'd by many Authorities, That the very Heathen knew, that the ſeventh Day was to be kept holy. Others quote Joſephus, Ariſtobulus, Homer, Euſebius, and other Authors to this Purpoſe. And (e) Steuchius (a Man of ſo much Fame for general Learning, that he is ſaid to be worthy of eternal Remembrance, and to be indeed the Ornament of Italy) affirms, as the Reſult of his great Reading and Obſervation in this Matter, That (f) a ſeventh Day was every where, and in all Ages accounted venerable and holy. So that when the primitive Fathers tell us, that the Patriarchs did not ſabbatize more Judæorum, they do not tell us that they kept no Sabbath at all, but only that they did not keep the ſame Sabbath with the Jews; and when the heathen World exclaim'd againſt the Jewiſh Sabbath, they only blam'd it, becauſe it was not the ſame Day, which others obſerv'd.

20. And now let us ſuppoſe a Day of Reſt orderly obſerv'd from the Creation of the World, and then we muſt conclude, that the Day, which was in moſt common and univerſal Uſe, was moſt likely to be GOD's ſeventh Day. For when Nimrod (who is alſo Bel, Belus, and Baal) began to worſhip the Hoſt of Heaven, and to ſet up Idolatry (whoſe Practice the other Potentates of Aſſyria and Chaldea afterward follow'd) it is moſt reaſonable to imagine, that that Day would be appointed for the Worſhip of their chief God the Sun, which Day the antient Patriarchs had in the higheſt and greateſt Veneration. This, no doubt, was the ſeventh Day according to their Account, which GOD at firſt bleſs'd. And therefore the Heathens call'd it Dies Solis, and we from them call it Sunday.

21. Againſt this it may be objected, that the ſeventh Day is mention'd, as the Day which was to be kept holy, and that this muſt be the ſeventh Day of the Week, the ſix firſt Days whereof were ſpent in the Creation of the World, and then the ſeventh Day was obſerv'd, which muſt have been the ſeventh Day of the Week according to the Jewiſh Cuſtom, and not the firſt Day as we Chriſtians do obſerve it. But to this it may be anſwer'd, that this ſeventh Day is no where ſaid to be the ſeventh Day of the Week. We grant, that it was the ſeventh Day after GOD's ſix Days Work; but yet it was the firſt Day of the Week from the Creation of Man, and ſo it hath continu'd ever ſince. In (g) the Beginning of the ſixth Day GOD created the beaſts of the earth after their kind, and cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind; ſo that Adam and Eve being the laſt of all the Creatures, were not form'd until the latter End of the ſixth Day. And after the Creation of Adam he fell into a (h) deep ſleep, ſo that he could not tell how that ſmall Part of the Day paſs'd away. The following Night and Day, or the evening and the morning of the ſeventh day, was therefore Adam's firſt Day. It was in reality the firſt complete Day of his Life and Being, which like the firſt fruits were to be dedicated to GOD. And as we cannot but imagine, that Adam would ſo number his days, that he might keep an exact Account how old he was, or how many Days he had liv'd, until Times were otherwiſe fix'd; ſo he would begin the Meaſure of his Weeks, and the Number of his Days at the ſame Time. Thus his firſt Day was a Sabbath, when his Days and Weeks began, and ſo after ſix Days Employment about this Earth, he muſt go on to make every ſeventh Day, or the firſt Day of every Week to be a Day of holy Reſt, as the firſt Day of his Life was; and thus it continu'd without any Interruption until the Time of Moſes.

22. But when the Day, which GOD had ſet apart for his own Service, was every where perverted by the heathen World to ſerve their idolatrous Purpoſes, and devoted to the Worſhip of their chief Deity the Sun; and when GOD had choſen the children of Iſrael, as a peculiar people to himſelf, that they ſhould worſhip and ſerve him alone, and had brought them out of the land of Egypt, and out of the houſe of bondage; then he particularly directed in the ten Commandments, that they ſhould have no other gods but him; and that they ſhould not make unto themſelves any graven image, nor the likeneſs of any thing that is in the heaven above, or in the earth beneath, or in the waters under the earth, and that they ſhould not bow down themſelves to them, nor ſerve them; becauſe he was the LORD their GOD. Thus he thought fit more effectually to break off the Iſraelitiſh Nation from Idols, and from the Heathen and Egyptian Superſtitions; and that to this End they ſhould go into a direct Oppoſition to them in the Day ſet apart for their religious Reſt. For this Reaſon among others they muſt keep Saturday, when the heathen World obſerv'd the Day, which they call'd Dies Solis or Sunday. And in a Way analogous to the firſt Sabbath; as GOD created the World in ſix Days, and then reſted the ſeventh day from all his works; ſo Moſes gave them a Liberty, that ſix days they ſhould labour, and do all that they had to do. But then he would have them worſhip the GREAT CREATOR of all Things on that Day, which according to the Egyptian Computation of the Week, was then alſo called the ſeventh Day. This occaſion'd the great Averſions between the Jews and all other People, and that they were reproach'd as ſingular, for the Day which they obſerv'd and kept holy. By this Method they were ſet at the utmoſt Diſtance from the Worſhip of Idols, and were not to have any Communication with them ſo much as in the Time and Day of their chief Solemnities. And it muſt be acknowledg'd, that all this was little enough to preſerve the Jews from falling into the Idolatry of the Nations round about them.

23. The particular Time, when this Alteration was made, ſeems plainly to be intimated in (i) theſe Words, And in the firſt day there ſhall be an holy convocation; and in the ſeventh day there ſhall be an holy convocation unto you: no manner of work ſhall be done in them. This particularly refers to the firſt and ſeventh Days of the Feaſt of unleavn'd Bread, which (k) began on the fifteenth Day of the firſt Month, and ended on the twenty firſt. And in the Year when the Children of Iſrael went out of Egypt, when this Feaſt was firſt appointed, it anſwer'd to the reſpective Days of the Week; ſo that on the firſt Day there might be a holy Convocation, as it was the antient Sabbath; and on the ſeventh Day there might be a holy Convocation, as it was the new Sabbath. And thus the (l) Children of Iſrael coming out of Egypt, on the Night which began the fifteenth Day of the firſt Month, might obſerve that Part of the Day, as long as the Sun appear'd, as a Time of Reſt after ſo long and tedious a Journey. And in the ſame Manner paſſing through the Red Sea, on the Night which began the twenty firſt Day of the firſt Month, according to the conſtant Opinion of the Jewiſh Writers, and as it is approv'd by our beſt Chronologers, and ſeeing the next Morning the Egyptians dead upon the Sea-ſhore, they accordingly ſpent the remaining Part of the Day in praiſing GOD, and Reſting from their Journeys, as they had done on the fifteenth Day of the ſame Month, or the firſt Day of the ſame Week. And thus, as we Chriſtians obſerve the firſt Day of the Week, becauſe on the firſt Day CHRIST roſe from the Dead, and alſo we obſerve Eaſter Day, as the Day of the Year on which this Miracle happen'd; ſo the Jews obſerv'd the ſeventh Day of every Week, becauſe on that Day of the Week their Deliverance was compleated; and they alſo obſerv'd the twenty firſt Day of the firſt Month, or the Feaſt of unleaven'd Bread, becauſe it happen'd on that Day of the Year. But as the Jewiſh Sabbath was introduc'd, when the Iſraelites came out of Egypt; ſo I ſhall reſerve the farther Diſcourſe thereof for its proper Place.

24. I know, that it is the general Opinion, that the twenty ſecond Day of the ſecond Month, after the Iſraelites came out of Egypt was obſerv'd as a Sabbath, and ſeveral endeavour thus to prove it. The (m) Iſraelites came into the wilderneſs of Sin on the fifteenth day of the ſecond Month after their departure out of the land of Egypt. Immediately upon their Coming thither they murmured againſt Moſes, and GOD rain'd Manna for ſix Days, and the ſeventh Day was the Sabbath. So that according to their Computation the Sabbath was on the twenty ſecond Day of the ſecond Month, and conſequently on the fifteenth Day of the ſame. Some urge this as an Argument, that the Sabbath was then alter'd from ſome other Day to the twenty ſecond Day of the ſecond Month, becauſe the Iſraelites travail'd on the fifteenth, and reſted on the twenty ſecond as a Sabbath. And others plead from hence againſt the Morality of the Sabbath, becauſe the Iſraelites travail'd on the fifteenth Day of the ſecond

Month,

Month, which must as certainly be a Sabbath, as the twenty second was. But in answer to all this, it is no where said, that the six Days, in which the Manna rain'd, are to be computed immediately from the fifteenth Day of the second Month, but from the Day on which they murmur'd; neither have we the least Intimation, that they murmur'd on that very Day, when they came to the Wilderness of Sin. Without doubt they brought Provision with them for one, two, or more Days, and they who had been so lately sensible of GOD's Mercies, would not murmur, until they were reduc'd to some Extremities. It is probable, that they murmur'd on the Sabbath Day, because it was an Act of the whole Congregation of the Children of Israel, when they were assembled for a much better Purpose; and then they had the Manna rain'd from Heaven the six Days following about their Camps. But the true Account seems to be this. They came to the Wilderness of Sin on the fifteenth Day of the second Month. Their Provisions lasted on the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth Days, and being then spent, they murmur'd on the nineteenth Day, which was their Sabbath. A judicious Author (n) tells us, that no other Reason can be giv'n for the mentioning the fifteenth Day of the second Month, but because the Sabbath did begin from thence. But another may argue with as much Force of Reason thus, It is certain that the Sabbath did not begin from the fifteenth Day of the second Month, because this Day is particularly mention'd, as a Day in which they journey'd, and not as a Day in which they rested. If one particular Person could not find out the true Reason; yet it doth not also follow, that the true Reason cannot be found out by another. It is a sufficient Reason to me, that Moses (o) reckoning up their Journeys, puts the Wilderness of Sin at the Time of the seventh Resting, which shews, that as they came so far in the Space of a full Month; so they might easily have enter'd Canaan in the Space of a whole Year, if their Sins had not caus'd them to wander in the Wilderness.

25. I have been so long on this Subject to prove, that the Patriarchs before the Time of Moses obsery'd the same Day of the Week for a Sabbath, which we now observe; because the fixing of the Distance of several Years which happen'd before the Time of Moses, from the Birth of CHRIST, depends hereon; as particularly the Year of the Creation, the Year of the Flood, and the Year of the Promise given to Abraham, as well as the Year when the Israelites, departed out of Egypt, which will appear by the following Computations. And as such Epochas as these being the most ancient, are the most difficult Parts of Chronology; so when these are settled, the rest will be made more easy.

26. In these following (p) Chronological Tables, I place the Year of the Creation in the 4007th Year of the World, before the vulgar Year of the Birth of CHRIST, which (by adding (q) a Year in these Tables for the Year of his Birth) is four Years before the Date hereof, as it is commonly computed, as was the 706th Year of the Julian Period. In Order to find out the Days of the Week for the respective Year, I divide the Sum of 706 by 28, or the Cycle of Years for finding out the Dominical Letter, whence it appears, that the Remainder is 6, which is the Number for the Cycle in the said Year, and consequently shews, (r) that the ancient Sabbatical, or our Dominical Letter for that Year was G. And as the Sun, on the twenty fifth Day of October near Noon, came to the Point of the Autumnal Equinox; so it is very remarkable, that this was upon a Thursday, or the fourth Day of the Creation, and consequently that this Day began about the Time of Sun Setting in the Evening before. And it is surprizing to find, how exactly the Place both of the Sun and Moon doth answer to every Thing in the before-going Hypotheses, as will appear from (s) the Calculation of both, for the twenty fourth Day of October, at six of the Clock in the Afternoon, in the Longitude of Babylon, being the Time in which the fourth Day of the Creation began.

27. It appears from this Calculation, that not only the Sun is at such a Distance from the Equinoctial Line, as to pass over it the next Day near Noon, which can happen but once in seven Years, on any particular Day of the Week; but the Position of the Moon is also as remarkable. The Creation of the Sun and Moon is (t) thus describ'd by Moses. And GOD made two great lights, the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night. And GOD set them in the firmament of the heav n, to give light upon the earth. And to rule over the day, and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness. And GOD saw that it was good. This Text seems to tell us, that the Moon was a great light; and so it was, being (u) not a Days Distance from the Place of her Full, and ruling over the Night, as rising within three Quarters of an Hour after Sun set, and thus giving Light unto the World. And as the Son of Sirach saith, (x) It was a light, which then decreas'd in her perfection. And (y) as the Moon was in North ascending Signs, with a great North Latitude; so it rose in the Evening of the sixth Day at about eight of the Clock, which was about half an Hour after the Twilight ended, and was sufficient to give Adam a clear Notion of the Evenings, with which the Days were to begin, and make him more sensible of the Benefit of the Moon, which was created for his Use. Besides, it is also remarkable, that this fourth Day of the Creation was the fifteenth imaginary Day after the Moon's φάσις, or of the Month, according to the ancient Way of Reckoning. This Adam might be ſenſible of after ſome Time, by keeping an Account of the Days of his Life. For as ſoon as he knew how many Days did make a Month, he might know how many Days were wanting to fill up the firſt Month, and ſo he might reckon, that the Creation of the Luminaries was upon the ſuppos'd fifteenth Day of the firſt Month. And this may be the Reaſon, that the Jews in Conformity to the ancient Patriarchs, when they began their Year, did not reckon from the new Moon, which began the Month. But that was always accounted the firſt Month, whoſe fifteenth Day was either the Day of the Sun's Tranſit over the Equinox, as at the Creation, or that which immediately follow'd. And ſuch a Poſition (z) of the Heavens, as this was, in which the Sun paſſes over a Point given upon a particular Day of a Week, and a particular Day of the Moon's Age, is ſo rare, as not to happen above once in two hundred Years.

28. Such a Poſition makes it probable, that the Motion of the celeſtial Bodies, or of our Earth receiv'd no Alteration at the Time of the Deluge, notwithſtanding what hath been aſſerted to the contrary. If ſuch an Alteration ſhould be granted, it would intirely ſpoil all the precedent Aſtronomical Calculations, particularly ſuch as relate to the Creation of the World and the Beginning of the Flood. The Advancing of this Notion was occaſion'd by another, viz. That the Deluge was caus'd by the Paſſage of the Comet, which was ſeen in 1680 ſo near the Earth, as to affect it in ſuch a ſtupendous Manner by its Atmoſphere; the Truth whereof depends upon two Suppoſitions, Firſt. That the common Chronological Tables are true in Reſpect to the Year of the Flood, and Secondly, that this Comet's Motion is rightly calculated, and therefore admitting, that the latter Suppoſition is true; yet if I have rightly ſtated this Matter (and I hope it will appear ſo to be) this Comet came not to the Earth's Orb until four Years after the Flood, which intirely ſpoils all Notions of this Nature. They who look upon the Deluge as the miraculous Effect of an almighty Power to take Vengeance on a ſinful World, may be fully ſatisfy'd, how it came to paſs, without any farther Inquiry, and that the Deſtruction of every living Creature (thoſe in the Ark only excepted) was all that was intended; and they who ask concerning any Particular, Why it was ſo? may receive a ſatisfactory Anſwer, Becauſe GOD thought fit that it ſhould be ſo. And they, who with all Modeſty and Humility do inquire, How can theſe things be? may have all their Doubts and Scruples reſolv'd from the Mouth of CHRIST himſelf in a few Words (a) With men it is impoſſible, but not with GOD; for with GOD all things are poſſible. But the many Attempts us'd of late to reſolve it into the Effects of natural Cauſes, ſeem rather to be a Limitation of the GOD of Nature, as if in ſuch an extraordinary Caſe he could not act without it, and is not only attended with ſuch horrid Conſequences, which I dare not mention, but hath prepar'd the Way to the boldeſt Attack upon the Credit of Miracles and all divine Revelation, which perhaps was ever ſeen or heard of ſince the World began. Philoſophy, which was intended only as an Handmaid to Divinity, is too often exalted into the Throne to depoſe her Miſtreſs, and too many Men treat of Scripture Truths by inquiring after them in ſuch a Manner, as if the principal Thing, which they intended, was to prove them to be falſe. And the many Difficulties, which are rais'd about them in this Age of Infidelity, ſeem to have no other View, than to make them all ſuſpected, and ſo to leſſen the Authority of that Book, which gives us this Account; and if it can be exploded, then all Things muſt be falſe, which ſome private Perſons ſay, that they cannot comprehend, and all Laws muſt be void, which they are not willing to ſubmit to, which will leſſen the publick Authority both of GOD and Man, and then the Creation of the World, and the Reſurrection of our Bodies muſt expect to meet with the ſame Treatment, and at laſt all Notions of the Immortality of the Soul, and all future Rewards and Puniſhments will be look'd upon only as idle Fancies. That one large heavy Body will attract another from its own Orb is too evident to be denied; but the Wiſdom, Power, Goodneſs and Providence of GOD ſeems to be very evident in this, that notwithſtanding ſuch an Alteration when the Earth and Planets return to their own Orbs, they go on in the ſame Motion, which they had before. Thus (†) The LORD is king, and the Governour of the whole World, he hath girded himſelf with ſtrength, to prevent ſuch Confuſions, which would otherwiſe happen, he hath made the round world ſo ſure, that it cannot be moved. And ever ſince the world began hath his throne been eſtabliſh'd, and his Dominion hath been from everlaſting. The Moon, which is the nearcſt Planet to us, is attracted out of her Orb by the Force of the Sun, either annually by the Sun's mean Anomaly or Diſtance from the Apogæum, or

(z) As there are ſeven Days in a Week; ſo the Sun could only paſs over the Autumnal Equinox on a Thurſday, probably but once in ſeven Years; and as there are at leaſt nine and twenty Days in a Lunar Month, ſo by multiplying 29 by 7 it appears, that the fifteenth Day of the Month could probably happen at ſuch a Time only once in 203 Years. But if we conſider, that the Sun came to the Autumnal Equinox at or near Noon in that Day; and that the Moon came to her aſcending Node, at Hor. 2. A. M. as if the one was to begin its Motion from a particular remarkable Point of the Equinoctial, and the other from a particular remarkable Point of the Ecliptick, notwithſtanding their conſtant Variation from thence, and that the Moon in the Evening of the ſixth Day, when Adam was created, had ſo great and ſuch an increaſing North Latitude, and was in North aſcending Signs, which made her riſe the earlier. All theſe Things put together make ſuch a remarkable Poſition of theſe two Luminaries, that it is more than probable, that the like, in all Reſpects, hath not happen'd ſince the Year of the Creation. (a) Mark x. 27. (†) Pſal. xciii. 1, 2, 3.

monthly by its Full and Change, which is call'd The Variation. Beſides the Moon is drawn at every Change farther from the Earth, and at every Full nearer to the Earth by the ſame Force, and the Attraction at the Change is greater than at the Full, but yet all Things return afterward to a regular Order. And GOD hath given us above an hundred thouſand Inſtances of this Nature in the Planet neareſt to us, when no ſuch Effect hath follow'd as hath been imagin'd, that we might not aſcribe too much to a ſingle Inſtance of the ſame Nature on another Occaſion. Beſides, If a Comet upon its Approach to the Earth's Orb ſhould attract the Earth to a greater Diſtance from the Sun, yet after it had been equidiſtant from the Sun, it would attract it again toward the ſame Orb, and if upon its approach from the Earth's Orb it ſhould attract the Earth nearer to the Sun; yet after it had been equidiſtant from the Sun with the Earth it would attract it back again, and leave it nearer its own former Orb. So before ſuch a prodigious Alteration is aſſerted by the Coming of a Comet near the Earth, it ſhould be well conſider'd, Whether an Elliptick Motion, and an Aphelion and Perihelion being common to all the other Planets as well as to the Earth, this Phænomenon cannot as well be accounted for ſome other Way? Secondly, If the coming down of one ſingle Comet ſhould make ſo vaſt an Alteration in the Orb of our Earth, why the ſame Comet having deſcended ſeven Times, and above twenty other Comets, which deſcend more frequently ſhould never ſince make the leaſt Alteration (which we know of) in any one of the Planets either as to their Motion or eſpecially their Latitude, which would be more eaſily diſcern'd? Thirdly, Whether ſuch a Comet paſſing (as is ſuppos'd) from the Orb of the Earth to the Sun in about ten Days could have Time enough to draw the Earth both from and to the Sun at different Times ſo far that the Exceſs ſhould be an Excentricity of about 1350000 Miles, or four Times the Diſtance between us and the Moon? Fourthly, Whether any Comet is big enough for ſuch a prodigious Attraction in ſo ſhort a Time? Fifthly, Whether it would have been poſſible for any Creature to have liv'd in the Ark under ſuch a prodigious Motion both to and from the Sun at different Times, as is ſuppoſed in ſuch a Caſe? Sixthly, Whether ſuch a prodigious Motion in ſo ſhort a Space would not have deſtroy'd the Earth, and have ſcatter'd it into Atoms? And Laſtly, If this Comet ſhould make ſo great an Attraction in this Orb of the Earth, and comes always nearer to the Orb of Venus, whether at another Time it might not have came ſo near to Venus herſelf, as to have made a greater Attraction? Whereas at this Time tho' the Eccentricity of the Earth being in proportion to its Diſtance from the Sun is as 1 to 60; yet the ſame Proportion of Venus is but as 1 to 140. Concerning all which Queries I ſhall determine nothing, but leave it all to thoſe who are more learned in theſe Studies to make the Computations, if they ſhall think it to be worth their Labour. There are others who tell us, that before the Flood the Poles of the Ecliptick and the Equator were the ſame, and conſequently that there was but one Seaſon, Ver erat æternum, throughout the Year. And yet the Scripture tells us, that (b) before the Flood, there was ſeed time and harveſt, and cold and heat, and ſummer and winter, as conſtantly ſucceeding each other as day and night. Others tell us, that before the Flood there was only an intire Plain without either Mountains or Rivers, or Seas. But the Scripture tells us, (c) that on the third day of the Creation GOD commanded the waters of the Earth to be gather'd together in one place, and that the dry land ſhould appear. And it was ſo. And GOD called the dry land earth, and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas. And GOD ſaw that it was good. That (d) a river went out of Eden, aad from thence it was parted, and became into four heads; which are ſo deſcrib'd by their Names, and by the Countries, thro' which they paſs, that even at this Time we exactly know two of them, and can gueſs with the utmoſt Probability of the other two. And to urge no more Texts, (e) The Son of GOD, who was ſet up from everlaſting, from the beginning, or ever the earth was, is thus deſcrib'd as exiſting from the Creation. When there were no depths, I was brought forth; when there were no fountains abounding with water. Before the mountains were ſettl'd; before the hills was I brought forth: While as yet he had not made the fields, nor the higheſt part of the duſt of the world. When he prepar'd the heavens I was there; when he ſet a compaſs upon the face of the depth. When he eſtabliſhed the clouds above, when he ſtrengthned the fountains of the deep: When he gave to the ſea his decree, that the waters ſhould not paſs his commandment, and when he appointed the foundations of the earth. Then I was by him, as one brought up with him; and I was daily his delight, rejoycing always before him: Rejoycing in the habitable part of the earth. So that from theſe, and (f) the like Deſcriptions we may conclude it moſt agreeable to Scripture to affirm, that in the ordinary Courſe of Nature, (g) All things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation. And when (h) vain man would ſeem wiſe by advancing ſuch Notions in Philoſophy, which contradict the Scriptures, they need no other Anſwer but this, (i) Let GOD be true, but every ſuch man be counted for a liar.

finding out of their Sabbath, or Days of Worſhip, I have added (k) two Tables; the Uſe of them is, to find the Day of the Julian Year, and alſo the Day of the Week, in which any given Day of the Patriarchal or Jewiſh Year did happen. Thus, Find by the Calculation of the Moon's φάσις, or firſt Appearance, (of which (l) afterward) or the firſt Day of the Patriarchal or Jewiſh Year given, as it is in the Julian Calendar. From thence take (m) the Number correſponding to the Day before, either in the Common or Biſſextile Year. To this add (n) the Number correſponding to the Patriarchal or Jewiſh Year, and the Total is (o) the Number, which in the Julian Calendar ſhews the Day of the Month requir'd.

To find the Day of the Week, Divide the Year of the Julian Period by 28. and with the Remainder enter the ſecond Table, where you will find a Dominical or Sabbatical Letter for a Common Year, or two Letters for a Biſſextile or Leap Year, the firſt Letter anſwering to the two firſt Months, and the ſecond Letter anſwering to the ten laſt Months. Theſe Letters (p) will ſhew the Sabbaths, or LORD's Days, oppoſite to the reſpective Days of the Month, by which any other Days of the Week are eaſily found out.

An Example of this we have in (q) this preſent Chapter, and the Addition of the two following will be ſufficient to illuſtrate this Rule.

Firſt, The Flood began (r) on the ſeventeenth day of the ſecond month, which was (s) ſeven days after GOD had (t) ſpoken unto Noah. Therefore GOD ſpake unto Noah on the tenth Day of the ſecond Month. I deſire to know, what Day of the Julian Year, and what Day of the Week this was.

Anſwer, According to theſe Tables the Flood began in the 2352d Year before CHRIST, I find by (u) Calculation, that the Year began upon the twelfth Day of October, the Moon being firſt viſible on the Evening before. This being a Biſſextile Year, the (x) Number correſponding to that Day is 286. and therefore the Number correſponding to the laſt Day of the Patriarchal Year is 285. The (y) Number correſponding to the tenth Day of the ſecond Month is 40. which added to 285 is 325. and this (z) Number in the Biſſextile Column anſwers to November 21. and was the Day of the Month when GOD ſpake to Noah.

To find the Day of the Week. According to theſe Tables the Flood happen'd in the 2361ſt Year of the Julian Period, which being divided by 28. the Remainder is 9. So that (a) C is the antient Sabbatical Letter for the latter Part of that Year, and proves (b) that it was upon the Day of their Sabbath, when GOD ſpake unto Noah.

Secondly, In (c) the following Year on the twenty ſeventh day of the ſecond month GOD ſpake again unto Noah. I deſire to know on what Day of the Julian Year, and on what Day of the Week this alſo was.

Anſwer, I find by (d) Calculation, that the new Year began on the ſecond Day of October. The (e) Number correſponding to that Day is 275. and therefore the Number correſponding to the laſt Day of the preceding Year is 274. The (f) Number correſponding to the twenty ſeventh Day of the ſecond Patriarchal Month is 57. which added to 274 makes 331. which anſwers in a common Year to (g) the twenty ſeventh Day of November, on which Day GOD ſpake again to Noah.

To find the Day of the Week for the ſame Day in the ſame Year in theſe Tables. The Year of the Julian Period is 2362. which being divided by 28. the Remainder is 10. which Number (h) ſhews B to be the antient Sabbatical Letter for that Year, and (i) that it was the Day of their Sabbath, when GOD ſpake ſpake again unto Noah.

				Embolimæan Year ends	Embolimæan Year ends.

Note, That 19 Julian Years make 6939d. 18h. and the twelve common Years among the Jews of 354 Days, with the ſeven Embolimæan Years of 184 Days, which are in the ſame Space of Time, make but 6936 Days; ſo that in nineteen Years among the Jews it muſt happen, that ſometimes three Days and ſometimes four Days muſt be wanting to make the Number complete: Hence it is evident, that not only ſome of the common Jewiſh Years muſt conſiſt of 155 Days, but alſo that another Embolimæan Month muſt be inſerted in about 152 Years. But I have taken no Notice either of the additional Day, or of the extraordinary Embolimæan Month in theſe Tables, becauſe they are of no Uſe in the following Calculations.

30. How long Adam continu'd in the State of Innocency cannot be ſo eaſily determin'd. There are ſome who affirm, that he fell on the ſame Day in which he was created, and endeavour to prove this Aſſertion, from (k) the Words of the Pſalmiſt, who having ſhewn the carnal Confidence of Man, proves it to be vain from this Expreſſion, Man being in honour abideth not; or as others tranſlate it, Adam being in honour lodged not there all night. But this is impoſſible. The moſt probable Account is this, Adam was created toward the latter End of the ſixth Day, being the laſt of all the Creatures. On this Day GOD cauſed a deep ſleep to fall upon Adam, took one of his ribs, and form'd Eve thereof, but conceals her from him. Immediately upon this follows the Sabbath, or Day of Reſt. On the next, or eighth Day, GOD brings all the beaſts of the earth, and all the fowls of the air to Adam, whilſt he gave names to them all; but obſerving that all the other Creatures had Mates, he could not but be griev'd, becauſe he alone was left deſtitute of ſuch a Comfort and Aſſiſtant. Upon this GOD brings Eve to Adam, who preſently knew who ſhe was, and of what ſhe was made, and is a plain Argument, that we ſhall know one another in Heaven, when we ſhall be reſtor'd to our primitive Innocency. Then GOD inſtituted the holy Ordinance of Marriage to continue to the End of the World, joyn'd Adam and Eve together in this State, took them from the Place where they were, and ſettl'd them in the Garden of Eden, which he had before made, to dreſs it, and to keep it, with a full Liberty to eat of the fruit of every tree in the garden, except the tree of knowledge of good and evil. On the ninth Day Adam and Eve follow their Work, and the Devil, envying their Happineſs, contrives Means to make them loſe their Innocency, and ſo to plunge them and their Poſterity into Miſery, and it was not long before he was too ſucceſsful. Our Saviour ſaith, that (l) the Devil was a murderer from the beginning. The Syriack Tranſlation, which Language CHRIST ſpoke, renders it from in the beginning, the common Phraſe, whereby the Jews expreſs'd the ſix Days of the Creation. The Jews, who ſtood by and heard theſe Words, could no otherwiſe underſtand them, than that the Devil was a murderer from that very Day in which Adam was made, or from a Time very near it. And ſince (m) whoſoever hateth his brother is a murderer in the Sight of GOD; ſo in this Senſe he murder'd our firſt Parents, at leaſt intentionally, on the Day that they were created. And ſo CHRIST meant in theſe Words, as ſpeaking according to the common and familiar Language of that Nation. It is therefore without all Queſtion, that the Devil would loſe no Time; but as he was fallen himſelf, ſo being full of Spite at the Happineſs and Honour of Adam, he would haſten all that he could to bring him out of that State, which he ſo much envy'd. Beſides, if Adam and Eve had been long practis'd in Obedience, they had not been ſo ſoon ſhaken, when they came to be try'd. And the Speech of Eve to the Serpent (n) as it is in the Hebrew, We ſhall eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden, and not We have eaten, ſeems to intimate that they had taſted but of few Trees before. And it is evident, that they had not as yet taſted of the Fruit of the Tree of Life, (which they could not but deſire) tho' it grew in the middle of the garden. It is therefore moſt probable, that (o) the other Occurrences mention'd in the Scriptures, might take up ſo much Time, as until the tenth Day from the Beginning of the Creation, and that (p) on the tenth Day our firſt Parents fell from their original State of Innocency. And it is remarkable, that (as if it was to keep up the Remembrance of this great Misfortune) the tenth Day of the ſeventh Month among the Jews (which anſwer'd to the tenth Day of the firſt Month in former Ages) was appointed by GOD, as (q) a day of atonement, or a ſolemn Faſt, (call'd (r) the faſt by Way of Eminency) in which there was to be an holy convocation, and an offering made by fire, and every Perſon, whether he was one of their own Tribes, or a ſtranger, which ſojourned among them, was oblig'd to afflict his ſoul, under the Penalty of being cut off from among his people. The great Afflictions and Humiliations, ſo ſolemnly to be perform'd, ſeem all to ſhew, that on this Day Afflictions began, and that they ſhould be all humbled for that Sin, of which they were all guilty in their firſt Parents, and which was the firſt Cauſe of all the Miſeries, that have happen'd ever ſince. However, the great Solemnities us'd (s) on that Day may induce us to believe, that there was a more than ordinary Occaſion for them; and all other Accounts hitherto given (which I know of) are no Way ſatisfactory. Among all thoſe Rites and Ceremonies, that of the (t) two Goats cannot be ommitted. On this Day of Expiation the Scape Goat was preſented, and the other was ſacrific'd. On the ſame Day that Adam and Eve ſinn'd, they were condemn'd but eſcap'd, and (u) GOD made them coats of ſkins, and cloath'd them. Theſe Skins were ſuppos'd to be taken from the Beaſts which were ſacrific'd. Thus as Sin brought Death among the Creatures; ſo the firſt living Creature that died was a Type of CHRIST, who was (x) the lamb of GOD ſlain from the foundation of the world. On the Day that Adam ſinn'd, he had the Promiſe of a Saviour, that (y) the ſeed of the Woman ſhould bruiſe the Serpent's head. And on this Day of the Year alone the Jews thought it lawful that the ſacred Name JEHOVAH ſhould be pronounc'd by the High Prieſt alone, when he came out of the Holy of holies, and when the Promiſe ſeem'd to be repeated in the ſtrongeſt Terms, (z) The LORD ſhall bleſs thee, and ſhall keep thee. The LORD ſhall make his face to ſhine upon thee, and ſhall be gracious unto thee. The LORD ſhall lift up the light of his countenance upon thee, and ſhall give thee peace. On the Day that Adam ſinn'd he was liable to die; but he eſcap'd, and (a) a ſin-offering interpos'd; and GOD appointed CHRIST JESUS for a Mediator, on whom as on the Goat the Lot fell, that he ſhould be crucify'd and ſlain. The Jews tell us, that the Scape Goat was tumbl'd from a high Rock and daſh'd in Pieces. For this there was no Command in Scripture, but only (b) that he ſhould be ſent into a land not inhabited. Joſephus ſaith, that he was (c) ſent into a Deſert without Bounds, (as the World was at firſt) which muſt be thoſe Deſerts of Arabia, that lay eaſtward from the Land of Canaan. Thus Adam was expell'd into a barren and an uncultivated Land, and he went eaſtward becauſe (d) on that Side of the Garden the Cherubims were plac'd to prevent his Returning again. And the Hebrew Phraſe (e) a land of ſeparation to which the Goat was ſent, ſeems more particularly to allude thereto. As he, who conveigh'd away the Scape Goat, was thereby render'd unclean; ſo all the Poſterity of Adam was unclean by him. And as he, who was unclean by Accompanying the Scape Goat, was oblig'd to waſh his cloaths and bath himſelf in water, before he was fit to come into the Camp, which might conveniently be done in the River Jordan; ſo CHRIST JESUS by being baptiz'd in Jordan, did (as our Church expreſſeth it) ſanctify water to the myſtical waſhing away of ſin, and eſpecially of that Original Sin, which we had by Adam, it being thus apply'd to ſuch who had no other. Thus all Mankind, to whom Adam's firſt Tranſgreſſion is imputed, muſt be baptiz'd with water, before they can come into the camp, be admitted into the Congregation, or eſteem'd as Members of the Church of CHRIST. And tho' ſome Parts of the Jewiſh Law were dark and obſcure; yet the Doctrine of Original Sin was (f) clearly reveal'd, and (g) plainly expreſs'd. It may be objected, that it is very improbable, that Adam and Eve would ſtay ſo long in Paradiſe, and not eat of the Fruit of the Tree of Life. But to this it may be anſwer'd, that upon Suppoſition, that he was brought thither on the eighth Day, and fell on the tenth, he could be there but one whole Day and Part of two more before he fell, and made us all liable to Death; and ſo long was CHRIST JESUS in a State of Death, before he deliver'd us from it. But when Adam was in this happy State, he preſum'd like St. Peter too much upon his own Strength, and perhaps might be willing to intitle his Poſterity to eternal Life by his own Obedience; and ſo he neglected to taſte of this Fruit, until he was hurry'd away by the Violence of the Temptation, and then he loſt the Opportunity.

(k) Pſalm xlix. 9, 10. ואדם ביקר בל ילין

31. There have been ſome Men, who (conſidering the long Lives of the Patriarchs) have entertain'd an Opinion, that (h) the Years in that Age were not Solar but Lunar Revolutions, that is, ſo many Lunar Months, of which ſeven and thirty do make ſomething more than three of our common Years. And thus they ſay, that (i) Methuſelah, the oldeſt Man mention'd in the Scripture, liv'd nine hundred and ſixty nine Years, or Lunar Months, ſo that he died, according to our Computation, when he was about eighty Years of Age. But he who only conſiders, that if this was true, then (k) five of the Antediluvian Patriarchs muſt each of them have a Son before they were nine Years old, and that alſo (l) Cainan, Mahalaleel, and Enoch, muſt each of them have a Son in the ſixth Year of their Age, according to our Computation, may without any other Arguments be convinc'd, that this Hypotheſis is impoſſible. Beſides, the Genealogies between the Flood and Abraham, together with thoſe of the later Patriarchs, will afford much greater Difficulties; all which will be eaſily remov'd upon this Suppoſition, that the Lives of Men did gradually grow ſhorter from the Creation to the Time of Moſes, in the ſame Manner as the Scriptures relate them. Had the antient Years been Lunar of one Month, and not Solar of twelve, by which the ſame Duration of Life had been differently meaſur'd in different Ages, the Number of Years which Men liv'd, muſt have alter'd on a ſudden in the Proportion of twelve to one, when the Year was chang'd from being Lunar to Solar, which would no doubt have been referr'd to, and they could not have alter'd gradually and gently, as it is evident that they did. If the Years were Lunar, when the Patriarchs liv'd between nine hundred and a thouſand, what Years muſt they be immediately after the Flood, when they liv'd between four and five hundred? Or after the Tower of Babylon was built, when they were ſhortn'd to between two and three hundred? Or in Jacob's Time, when their Lives were between one and two hundred Years? Or how can they account for the reſpective Years, in which theſe Patriarchs had Children? But St. Auguſtine (m) hath long ſince confuted this Notion in this Manner: How can it be ſaid, that (n) the waters were upon the earth in the ſix hundredth year of Noah's life, in the ſecond Month, and the ſeventeenth day of the month, unleſs the Months were the ſame as they are now? And if the Months were the ſame, Why not the Years? And afterward in the End of the Flood it is thus written, (o) The ark reſted in the ſeventh month, on the ſeventeenth day of the month upon the mountains of Ararat. And (p) in the tenth month upon the firſt day of the month were the tops of the mountains ſeen. And this firſt Month, ſecond Month, ſeventh Month, and tenth Month, happen'd in the (q) ſame Year of Noah's Life, who liv'd (r) nine hundred and fifty Years. And (s) in the ſecond month on the ſeven and twentieth day of the month, GOD ſpake again unto Noah. So that here are ten Months in the ſame Year, and ſeven and twenty Days in the ſame Month. If then there were ten Months in the ſame Year, Why not twelve? And if there were ſeven and twenty Days in the ſame Month, Why not thirty? So that if the Years were twelve Times as ſhort as they are now, then the Months alſo muſt be twelve Times as ſhort, as they are now. And the ſame muſt alſo be ſaid of the Days, ſince (t) the tenth Month is mention'd in one of the Years of Noah, and the (u) ſeven and twentieth Day in one of the Months. According to this ſtrange Way of Reckoning, the Flood, which (x) the Scripture ſaith, was upon the earth forty days and forty nights, muſt be tranſlated, three Days and eight Hours. But who can endure ſuch a Vanity and Abſurdity? Such a Method inſtead of Confirm- ing the Scriptures, will deſtroy them, and by Attempting to ſolve one Scruple, will not only raiſe many, but leave them both unanſwer'd, and unanſwerable. And therefore (as he there adds) their Day muſt be the ſame with ours now, which is divided into twenty four Hours, and takes up the whole Space of Light and Darkneſs, in which the Sun paſſeth from any one Meridian to the ſame. Their Month muſt be the ſame with ours now, only determin'd by the Space of one Change of the Moon to the other. And their Year muſt be the ſame with ours now, containing all the four Seaſons, and determin'd by the Revolution of the Sun to the ſame Point of the Ecliptick. And therefore there can be very little Difference between a thouſand Years at that Time, and a thouſand Years in any other Age of the World.

32. The Jews obſerve (as was (y) before mention'd) that all the Antediluvian Patriarchs were born at Autumn, in the firſt Month of the Year according to their antient Account. As this cannot be contradicted, ſo if it is granted, then Noah was entering upon the (z) ſix hundredth Year of his Life when the Flood came, and when he was (a) ſix hundred Years old complete, and entering upon the ſix hundredth and firſt Year of his Age, he was in the Ark, whilſt the flood of waters was upon the earth; in which Year he alſo (b) landed on the Mount Taurus, or Caucaſus, theſe being the higheſt of all thoſe which are call'd The Mountains of Ararat, which alſo lie (c) eaſtward from Babylon. And therefore as Methuſelah liv'd (d) to be in the nine hundredth and ſixty ninth Year of his Age; ſo he died but a very ſhort Time before the Flood, which the Jews do generally affirm, and (e) his Name ſeems to intimate. And as Adam was created in Autumn Anno Mundi 1. ſo he was one Year old in Autumn Anno Mundi 2.

33. The Hiſtory of the Creation and of the Times before the Flood might, by Reaſon of the long Lives of the Patriarchs, be more eaſily conveigh'd down by Tradition, until a Method was found out to perpetuate the ſame in Writing. For Noah was born but an hundred and ſix and twenty Years after Adam died; and Methuſelah liv'd two hundred and three and forty Years cotemporary with Adam, and near ſix hundred Years in the Time of Noah; ſo that he alone might eaſily communicate that Knowledge to the one which he had receiv'd from the other. And after the Flood Noah died but two Years before Abraham was born; and Terah, Abraham's Father, liv'd an hundred and twenty eight Years cotemporary with Noah, and ſeventy five Years with Abraham; ſo that Terah, Noah, and Methuſelah alone might convey down the antient Knowledge even from the Creation until the Time of Abraham, when an effectual Care (f) was taken to continue the ſame among his Poſterity. And how far others alſo might be ſerviceable to ſuch a Deſign, may be farther obſerv'd from (g) the following Chronological Table.

N. B. That in all theſe Tables I reckon by Julian Years, each Year beginning on the firſt Day of January. (a) Tho' there is no Time fix'd in Scripture for the Birth of Cain and Abel; yet as GOD had (a) given our first Parents this Blessing, to be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth; so it cannot be suppos'd, that they were long without Offspring.

(b) The Murder of Abel could not be long before the Birth of Seth, because (b) he was the next born of all the Sons and Daughters of Adam after the said Murder. It was always Customary to give Names to Children almost as soon as born, and in those early Ages the Names were given as a Memorial of something remarkable, which happen'd about that Time. And (c) the Name of Seth with the Reason thereof shews, that the Murder of Abel was then fresh in the Memory of Eve.

(c) That something of a very bad Consequence happen'd at the Birth of Enosh is plain, because his Name signifies sorrowful. And the Reason is given (d) Then began Men to deify other Creatures, or to call them by the name of the LORD. This being the literal Interpretation of the Hebrew Text, and the Targum of Jonathan Ben Uzziel translating it in the same Manner; and both the Persick Translation and the Septuagint, and many learned Expositors favouring this Sense, I take it to be the same with (e) They ascribed unto stocks and stones the incommunicable name. And the History of Sanchoniatho, as it is interpreted by the late learned Bishop Cumberland, gives very great Reason to conclude, that Idolatry, or at least the Worshipping or Deifying of Creatures, might begin about this Time in the Race of Cain,' tho' it made but a slow Progress for some Ages after.

(d That Noah was an hundred and twenty Years employ'd in Building the Ark, (f) seems very evident. And it is probable, that GOD directed (as (g) the Septuagint expresseth it) that it should be made of square Beams, not of Boards, and as others say, of that Wood which was most lasting. The Word גֹּפֶר in Hebrew may perhaps signify the Cypress by an easy Variation of the same into Greek and Latin, and other Languages. And the Arabick شمشار signifies the same, according to the constant Opinion of the Moors and Arabians; as the learned Dr. Castle assures us in his Lexicon. It was a Wood both durable and fit for Shipping, and therefore (h) our Translators joyn it with the Oak for this Reason. And of this Alexander's Navy was built at Babylon, so that it grew in great Plenty in those Parts. GOD said (i) that his Spirit should not always strive with man by publick Punishments, for that he also is flesh, frail and mortal, and then the World would never be repleniſh'd. However he would make one Example of his Justice at the End of one hundred and twenty Years, which was the Time that the ark was preparing, and which if regarded might have led them to repentance. When GOD said, (k) The end of all flesh is come before me, it signifies no more than, that the End is determin'd, and shall come in its due Time, unless prevented by Amendment of Life, as appears from the latter Part of the same Verse, Behold, I will destroy them with the earth. The Placing of the preſent for the future Tenſe is very uſual in the Scriptures, of which there are (l) ſeveral Inſtances. However, if Noah was an hundred and twenty Years in Building the Ark, then it is certain, that he began to build twenty Years before the Birth of either of his three Sons, and in this Senſe alſo (m) By faith Noah, being warned of GOD of things not ſeen as yet, moved with fear, prepared an ark for the ſaving of his houſhold.

(e) That Japhet was the eldeſt Son, Shem the ſecond, and Ham the youngeſt, appears from the Texts quoted in the Table. Beſides, (n) Japhet is expreſsly ſaid to be the elder Brother, and (o) Ham is ſaid to be the younger; ſo that Shem of courſe muſt be the ſecond, Japhet, who was the elder Son, muſt be born when (p) Noah was five hundred years old, and therefore he muſt be in the ſix hundredth Year of his Age (q) at the Flood. Shem the ſecond Son was two Years younger than Japhet; ſo that (r) he muſt be an hundred Years old, two years after the flood. There is no certain Account of the Age of Ham, but it is probable, that he was not much younger than the other two, becauſe (s) he was alſo marry'd at the Time of the Flood. Tho' Shem was not the eldeſt; yet he (t) is always nam'd the firſt, becauſe the Genealogies and the Chronology are kept up in his Line, and the principal Parts of the ſacred Hiſtory relate to his Family. The like Method is alſo obſerv'd at the Birth of Abraham, as will appear in its proper Place. Tho' Ham was the youngeſt; yet he is always nam'd next, becauſe (u) he was the Father of the Canaanites, and (x) the Egyptians, which take up a conſiderable Part of the Moſaical Hiſtory; and Japhet is named laſt, becauſe none of the ſaid Hiſtory relates to his Poſterity.

(f) The Placing this Year as the Year of the Flood is liable to two Objections, which at the firſt View ſeem ſo great, that I had not plac'd the Beginning thereof in this Manner, had I not been forc'd by Aſtronomical Calculations ſo to do. The firſt is, that Noah is (y) ſaid to be ſix hundred years old, when the flood of waters was upon the earth; and in theſe Tables he is but five hundred and ninety nine Years old. But this Expreſſion is (z) afterward explain'd, that it was in the ſix hundredth year of Noah's life, when he was more than five hundred and ninety nine Years old, and entring upon the ſix hundredth Year of his Age. Thus in many Caſes we uſually ſay, Annus inchoatus pro perfecto habetur. A very famous (a) Author among the Jews lays down this as a Rule to be obſerv'd, that Part of the Month is as the whole, and Part of the Year is as the whole. This is evident from moſt of the (b) Expoſitors, who have treated on the Reſurrection of our SAVIOUR, as mention'd in the Creed, or on thoſe Texts, which afford any Difficulty in this Caſe, and whatever Cavils have been ſince made, it is plain, that the antient Jews and the Apoſtles underſtood all theſe Expreſſions only in this Senſe. For when CHRIST ſaid, (c) As Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; ſo ſhall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth; and (d) After three days he ſhall riſe again; his Enemies only deſir'd, (e) that the ſepulcher ſhould be made ſure until the third day. And (f) his Friends expected the Accompliſhment thereof, when the third day came, ſince theſe things were done. The other Objection is, that Methuſelah is ſaid (g) to be nine hundred and ſixty nine years old when he died. But in theſe Tables the Flood is plac'd at that Time, when he was nine hundred and ſixty eight Years old. But this will alſo be explain'd by what is already mention'd. He was above nine hundred and ſixty eight Years of Age, and entring into his nine hundred and ſixty ninth Year. And if he was born in the Beginning of the Year, or at Autumn, (as the Jews aſſert) then he muſt be of the Age here mention'd, before (h) the ſecond month and the ſeventeenth day of the month, when the Flood came, and conſequently he died but (i) a little Time before it, or in the Week before it, if a Jew in this Caſe can be credited.

CHAP. II.

Of the antient Method of computing Years and Months.

BEFORE I proceed to ſuch Aſtronomical Obſervations as will be neceſſary in the remaining Part of this Work, the Method of computing their Years and Months in thoſe antient Times muſt be fix'd, as far as poſſible.

2. Firſt, The World being created near the Autumnal Equinox, it is plain, that as the firſt Day and firſt Week, ſo the firſt Month and firſt Year began at that Time, and that the Years were ſo far fix'd, as to begin about the ſame Seaſon, or at leaſt, as near as they could compute, within about ſixteen Days before it, or ſixteen Days after it. When GOD created the Sun and Moon, he particularly appointed (a) that they ſhould be for ſigns and for ſeaſons, or to determine the Jewiſh Feaſts, which happen'd upon the ſelect Days of each Month, and for the Diſtinction of days and years; ſo that they could as certainly compute the Number of Years by Summers, as the Number of Days by Sun riſings. And therefore if at firſt they might make a Difference of a Month or more in ſome Years, for want of that Skill in Aſtronomy which hath been in later Ages; yet the Number of their Years in general might ſtill be the ſame, and theſe leſſer Deviations would be ſo reckon'd in ſucceeding Years, that the Julian or Gregorian Year might ſerve for a juſt Computation without a ſenſible Difference from the Beginning of the World. Thus (b) a Year in Hebrew comes from a Verb, which ſignifies to repeat or double, becauſe it is only a Repetition or a Revolution, and the Learned may obſerve the ſame in the Syriack and the Arabick, and more eſpecially in the Chaldean Language. So that the Beginning of the Year was not moveable to all the different Seaſons; and in this it not only differ'd from the Mahometan Year, which conſiſted ſometimes of 354 and ſometimes of 355 Days, but never of more; and thus in the Space of about 33 Years it gains a Year more than is in the common Account. And it alſo differ'd from the Æra of Nabonaſſar, which, tho' at firſt it was thought to be exact; yet differing about ſix Hours from the true Time, and leaving out the Biſſextile Day in every four Years, did in the Space of 1460 Years begin four Times on each Day of the common Julian Year, and ſo made one Year more than the other.

3. That the Jewiſh Year was thus fix'd to the Seaſons by divine Authority, and conſequently unalterable is very evident, becauſe (c) GOD not only ſettled the Month in which the Year was to begin; but alſo expreſly commanded, that the Feaſt of the ingathering of the Fruits ſhould be always at the end of the year, and in that particular Seaſon, when they had gathered in their labours out of the field, and was therefore as immoveable as the Harveſt itſelf. The (d) Feaſt of weeks was to be of the firſt fruits of the wheat harveſt, and the principal Solemnity of that Feaſt was to be obſerv'd ſeven Weeks after the Paſſover; and this Paſſover is deſcrib'd (e) to be at the Time, when they did begin to put the ſickle into the corn, which in thoſe hot eaſtern Countries was at the Spring of the Year. And (f) on the Morrow after the Sabbath in the Paſſover Week, which anſwers to our Eaſter Sunday, they were requir'd to bring a Sheaf of the firſt ripe Fruits of their Harveſt to the Prieſt, to wave the ſame before the LORD, which, as it was a Type of CHRIST, was always fix'd to the ſame Day in which he (g) roſe from the dead, and became the firſt fruits of them that ſlept. So that their Feaſts and the Years, which depend upon them, were as certainly fix'd to the Seaſons of the Year, as our Eaſter is fix'd to be within a certain Space of Time after the Vernal Equinox, and our other Seaſons are alſo fix'd, which depend upon it.

4. Secondly, As it is plain, that the antient Year did begin about the Time of the Autumnal Equinox, and that all the other Seaſons were fix'd thereby, and even that the Jews have ſince obſerv'd the antient Method in their civil, tho' not in their ſacred Years; ſo it is as evident, that (h) when the Iſraelites came out of Egypt, the Beginning of the Year was chang'd to the other Equinox, or from the Autumn to the Spring. The ſame Methods, by which they obſerv'd the Autumnal Equinox in former Ages, would afterward be of equal Uſe for Obſerving the Vernal Equinox in the other Computation. And as formerly the full Moon immediately after the Autumnal Equinox was the Middle of the first Month in many or all other Nations; so the full Moon immediately after the Vernal Equinox was the Middle of the first Month among the Jews. And to prevent any Variation of these Seasons, they added an Intercalary, or supernumerary Month (as Occasion requir'd, and as the Jews do still observe it) once in three Years, or more particularly seven Times in nineteen Years.

5. Thirdly, It is evident, that their Computation of Months at first was made by Lunar Months, which began upon the Evening, when the new Moon did first appear. Accordingly they reckon'd their Days from Evening to Evening. And this made the Feast of the new Moons to be so remarkably observ'd among them. Thus at the Creation the Evening and the Morning, or the Darkness and the Light made each Day of the first Week. For this Reason (i) the Jews were oblig'd to celebrate their sabbaths from even to even. This Method was also in Use among other Nations, who reckon'd by Lunar Months as the Athenians and the Mahometans. For as there was a Necessity of Beginning their Months from the Evening; so there was a Necessity of Beginning their Days from the same Time. This Computation of Lunar Months began from the Creation. And thus (k) the Moon was appointed for signs and for seasons, to determine when their solemn Feasts should happen, and accordingly when their Months and Days should begin and end. It is evident, that this was afterward the Method in Use among the Jews. GOD (as (l) the Son of Sirach observes) made the moon to serve in her season for a declaration of times, and a sign of the world. From the moon is the sign of feasts, a light that decreaseth in her perfection. The month is called after her name, increasing wonderfully in her changing, after the Month is begun, being an instrument of the armies above, and shining in the firmament of heaven. And thus from the Beginning the Month in Hebrew was call'd (m) the Moon, or (n) the Renovation of Light. And (o) the Accent, which somewhat resembles a Semicircle is call'd The Moon a Day old, or The Moon newly begun.

6. Fourthly, It is evident, that for the better Determining the Beginnings of some Months a due Care was taken in the respective Evenings to observe, Whether the Moon was then visible or not? and report the same to such, who had a Power to fix the Months. This was done in Greece to the Ἔφοροι or Magistrates at Athens, and in the Land of Canaan to the Sanhedrim at Jerusalem. This Method was certainly us'd in the old World until the Time of Moses at the Autumnal Equinox; and after that by the Jews at the Vernal. And it is very probable, that in Process of Time, when they were settl'd in the Land of Canaan, that they made their Observations also on the Beginning of the seventh Month (or at the Autumnal Equinox) because of the great Number of Feasts, which were therein by divine Appointment, that so they might be more exact in the due Time of their Celebration: And that afterward, when the the Number of their Feasts and Fasts did increase, Observations were also made in the other Months, in which they were celebrated: And that this was their Method until their famous Astronomical Year was settl'd by Rabbi Hillel about the Year of CHRIST 358. This Method, which they us'd, is exactly describ'd by the Talmud and Maimonides in this Manner. In the greater or outer Court of the Temple there was a House or Room call'd Bethjazek, where the Senate sate all the thirtieth Day of every Month to receive the Witnesses of the Moon's Appearance, and to examine them. And here they always had a Feast, provided for the Entertainment of those that came, to encourage them to come the more willingly. In antient Times they did admit of Strangers, and receive their Testimony, if it was approv'd of by Examination, as, How large was the Moon? What was the Distance of her Setting after the Sun? Which Way were her Horns turn'd? In what Part did she set? Were the two Ends of the Horns perpendicular to each other? Which Way did the upper Horn decline? And how much? And thus, they, who had some Skill in Astronomy, and had been us'd to ask such Questions, recorded the Answers, and made proper Observations from them, and might be able to detect a Fraud, if any was intended. In Process of Time they began to be more shy, and to admit of no Evidence, but such as were approv'd of to be of the Jews Religion. If there came approv'd Witnesses upon the thirtieth Day of the Moon's φάσις or Appearance, then the chief Man of the Senate stood up and said, It is consecrated, that is, that Day is a holy Feast, or the Month is begun, and the People standing by caught the Word, It is consecrated, and repeated it to one another. Whereupon there was Notice presently given to all the Country, which was done at first by (p) blowing of trumpets, and after that by Lighting of Torches from Mountain to Mountain; but afterward (to prevent Impositions by any of the former Methods) by sending Messengers from Place to Place over the whole Land. But if when the Consistory had sate all the thirtieth Day, there came no approv'd Witnesses of the Moon's Appearance; then they made an Intercalation of one Day, and decreed the following thirty first Day to begin the new Month. And yet notwithstanding, if after the fourth or fifth Day there should come some Witnesses from afar, who testify'd, that they had seen the Moon in her due Time, nay, sometimes if they came toward the End of the Month, and if the Witnesses remain'd constant, when the Sanhedrim had us'd all Means to frighten them from such a Testimony, ny, that ſo, if poſſible, they might decline a new Conſecration, that even then they were bound to alter the Beginning of the Month, and to reckon it a Day ſooner, that is, from the thirtieth Day.

7. Fifthly, In later Ages the Jews thus obſerv'd ſeven Months and no more in the Year. As, 1. the Month Niſan, or the Beginning of their Eccleſiaſtical Year, that the People might know the right Day of the Paſſover. 2. The Month Ijar, becauſe of the ſecond Paſſover in that Month. 3. The Month Ab, becauſe of the two Faſts in that Month for the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem. 4. The Month Elul, that they might the better know how to begin the next Month Tiſri, or their civil Year. 5. The Month Tiſri, becauſe of their new Civil Year, the Day of Expiation, and the Feaſt of Tabernacles. 6. The Month Ciſleu, becauſe of the Feaſt of the Dedication of the Temple, after it had been profan'd by Antiochus. And, 7. The Month Adar, becauſe of the Feaſt of Purim eſtabliſh'd by Mordecai. But the Reaſons, why three of theſe Months were obſerv'd, plainly ſhews, that this Method could not be ſettl'd, until a conſiderable Time after their Return from the Captivity.

8. But, Sixthly, tho' this was the later Practice among the Jews; yet it is evident, that the Antients, when they had ſettl'd the Beginning of the Year, did afterward reckon thirty Days to each Month. This is abundantly prov'd by (q) a late Author; but whether his Inferences from thence are juſt, I ſhall not now determine, but leave it to others. At firſt it is very probable, that ſome Countries reckon'd a Day for a Year, and there ſeems to be no other Way to account for that, which is reported of the Chaldeans, viz. that they boaſted of their Obſervations of the Stars in (r) Cicero's Time for four hundred and ſeventy thouſand Years, which even according to this Way of Reckoning brings it back almoſt to the Days of Joſhua, tho' it is certain that they made Obſervations of the Sun and Moon long before. After this their Years conſiſted not of a diurnal, but of a lunar Revolution, for which at firſt they reckon'd thirty Days, not reckoning the exact Time, and being willing to make it diviſible into many other equal Parts, as 2, 3, 5, 6, 10 and 15; and thus it is obſerv'd of the Chaldeans, (s) that in Things pertaining to their Art they made Uſe of Lunar Years of thirty Days. This ſeems to have been the antient Method of Computation among the Egyptians, whoſe (t) Year at firſt conſiſted only of one Month. So Varro in Lactantius (u) giving an Account of the great Age of ſome Men in antient Times, who are ſuppos'd to have liv'd a thouſand Years, aſſigns this as a Reaſon, that among the Egyptians, Months are accounted for Years; that not only the Paſſage of the Sun thro' the twelve Signs may make a Year; but alſo the Paſſage of the Moon, who goes thro' the Zodiack (or rather from Change to Change) in the Space of thirty Days. It is agreed by moſt Authors, that when the Egyptians had found out the Form of the Year by the Courſe of the Sun, which (x) was attributed to the Heliopolitan Prieſts; yet the Year in common Uſe conſiſted only of three hundred and ſixty Days, which in any great Period of Years muſt needs make a monſtrous Confuſion, becauſe the Months muſt of Neceſſity change their Places, from whence aroſe that Egyptian Fable in Herodotus, that (y) in the Time of their eldeſt Kings (before the Year was ſettl'd) the Sun had twice chang'd its Riſing and Setting, which was only caus'd by the Variation of their Months from the Courſe of the Sun, and not by any Variation of the Sun from its own Courſe, and which according to their Way of Reckoning muſt have happen'd in the Space of an hundred and forty eight of their Years, which would be near equal to an hundred and forty ſix of our Julian or Gregorian Years.

9. It is certain, that in the Beginning of the Reign of Nabonaſſar, or ſeven hundred and ſix and forty Years before the Vulgar Year of the Birth of CHRIST, that famous Æra was ſettl'd, which goes under his Name; ſo that afterward that Year did conſtantly conſiſt of three hundred and ſixty five Days, and this Computation ſeems to have continu'd until Julius Cæſar brought in that Year, which is ſtill in Uſe among us, and was always us'd in the Roman Empire until Pope Gregory the Thirteenth, in the Year of our LORD 1582. introduc'd another Method now in Uſe in moſt or all the foreign Countries of Europe.

Year conſiſting of three hundred and ſixty Days in the whole; to which they added five, which the Egyptians call'd Epagomenæ, or as it is in the Greek ἐπαγόμεναι ſuperadded, and the Ethiopians call them Pagomen, which is but a Corruption of the ſame Word; and the Perſians, who us'd the ſame Way of Reckoning, call'd them (a) Muſteraka, or Days brought in by Stealth, which plainly alludes to the former Method of Computation (as far as was poſſible in Solar Years and Lunar Months) by an equal Number of thirty Days. And as the Chaldeans from the Time of Nabonaſſar came into the ſame Way of Reckoning the Year by twelve equal Months and five odd Days, which they call'd (b) a Year; ſo they kept up their former Method of Computation, which they call'd (c) A Time. This Diſtinction was plainly obſerv'd by Daniel, who ſometimes makes mention of (d) Years, and ſometimes of (e) a time, and times, and the dividing of a time. And what he calls (f) a time, and times, and half a time, is (g) mention'd by St. John, and (h) explain'd by forty and two months, or (i) a thouſand two hundred and threeſcore days, which ſuppoſeth the Month to be equally divided into thirty Days, as (k) will very evidently appear in the Table hereunto annexed.

And the moſt learned Biſhop of Worceſter makes Uſe of this Method to prove, (l) how Daniel's ſeventy weeks did ſhew forth the Time, when CHRIST was to be crucify'd, and did alſo point at the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and that both theſe, with many other Particulars, were accompliſh'd according to this Method of Computation.

11. Thus it happen'd, that ſeveral of theſe antient Kingdoms, finding that theſe Lunar Years firſt mention'd did not always conſiſt of an equal Number of Months, nor the Months of an equal Number of Days, did ſoon think of a Solar Year, which they made to conſiſt of twelve Months, and each Month of thirty Days. And as the Number both of the Months and Days were equal; ſo it might occaſion this Computation to continue the longer, until (the Year beginning at different Seaſons, and fix'd to none) they found a Neceſſity of adding the other five Days, to rectify it exactly (as they thought) to the Solar Revolution.

12. And that this Method of Computation was us'd in the more early Times, will appear from what (m) Syncellus tells us, that in the Time of Aſſis, or Hercules Egyptius, (who was cotemporary with Iſaac and Jacob, who was alſo the laſt of the Phœnician or Canaanitiſh Paſtor Kings in lower Egypt, and held a vigorous War againſt upper Egypt for nine and forty Years, and at laſt carry'd of his Men with their Arms and Goods into other Plantations, and particularly into Canaan) the Year was reform'd, by adding to it thoſe five Days above the three hundred and ſixty, and that he was therefore reckon'd to have been a very learned Man. But I ſuppoſe, that he took this Method from ſome Computation in Uſe among the Egyptians, and only introduc'd it into the Country where he reign'd.

13. But that this Method of Computing the Years was us'd long before among the Egyptians, appears from the Account which Plutarch gives us under this Fable. (n) Mercury being once at Dice with the Moon, he got from her a ſeventy ſecond Part of the Year, which he afterward added to the three hundred and ſixty Days. Theſe were antiently the Days of the Year, which they call'd Epagomenæ, and therein the Feſtivals of their Gods were celebrated. The firſt of theſe Days was dedicated to Oſiris, the ſecond to Orus, the third to Typho, the fourth to Iſis, and the fifth to Nephtha, who was the Wife of Typho and Siſter of Iſis. This Mercury or Hermes was the ſame with the Egyptian Thoth or Athothes, and was one of the Kings of Egypt in Abraham's Time, if not before it. And if he ſettl'd the Year, then the Antiquity thereof is paſt Diſpute, he being the Son of Miſraim, and the Grandſon of Ham. And therefore the Story ſeems to be thus: When Ham the Son of Noah ſettl'd in Egypt, the Year then in Uſe among them conſiſted of three hundred and ſixty Days. But in the Space of about an hundred and fifty Years the Sun had twice ſhifted its Courſe, or the Beginning of the Year had paſs'd twice through all the Signs of the Ecliptick, and came to the Place where it was at firſt, which Mercury the King of Egypt perceiving, he added the five Days, which are call'd Epagomenæ, that ſo the Year might be fix'd for the future. However, the Names of theſe Gods may ſhew us, about what Time theſe five Days were introduc'd. Oſiris is allow'd to be the ſame with Miſraim. Orus was his Son, Typho marry'd his Siſter in-Law, Iſis was his Wife, and Nephtha her Siſter, ſo that they were all cotemporary. And as the Months of July and Auguſt in our Calendar were dedicated to theſe two Roman Emperors in the Time when the laſt was living, or but newly dead; ſo the Dedication of theſe ſupernumerary Days in the Egyptian Calendar is an evident Argument, whereby we may gueſs at the Time of this Dedication, and conſequently when theſe Days were inſerted. And from hence the Method was taken, which was afterward eſtabliſh'd in the Aſſyrian Monarchy in the Time of Nabonaſſar.

14. As therefore Moſes was (o) learned in all the wiſdom of the Egyptians, and well knew, that the Months of thirty equal Days were ſettl'd in Egypt by Athothes or Mercury, and in Canaan by Hercules; ſo it was but natural for him to retain the ſame Number. And that he did ſo is paſt Diſpute from the Account, which he himſelf gives us of the Flood, that (p) the waters prevail'd upon the earth an hundred and fifty days. Theſe Rains, he tells us, began (q) on the ſeventeenth day of the ſecond month with great Violence, and (r) the Effects of them in ſome Meaſure ceas'd, on the ſeventeenth day of the ſeventh month, when the ark reſted. They laſted therefore exactly five of theſe Months; ſo that there were thirty Days in each Month, and an hundred and fifty Days in the whole. And therefore our moſt learned Prelate did (s) rightly obſerve, that the Years of our firſt Parents, and of the antient Egyptians and Hebrews did conſiſt of equal Months, each Month conſiſting of thirty Days; and that it could not be prov'd, that the Hebrews before the Babyloniſh Captivity did make any Uſe of unequal Lunar Months.

15. The Method therefore obſerv'd by the antient Patriarchs was this: They began their Year with a new Moon, the full Moon whereof did immediately follow the Sun's paſſing over the Point of the Autumnal Equinox. This occaſion'd ſo many Ceremonies and ſo much Rejoycing on (t) the Day of the new Moon, and eſpecially on (u) that particular Month. For this Purpoſe they took the beſt Obſervations, which they were capable of, and when they had ſettl'd their firſt Month, they afterward reckon'd thirty Days to each other until the End of the Year. It is eaſy to ſee the Difficulty, Uncertainty, and Expence, which muſt attend the Taking of Evidence for the Moon's Appearance on the first Day of every Month, and how easily such as were Judges thereof, might be impos'd upon. Hence a Necessity for an exact Number of Days in each Month did soon appear, to prevent that Confusion, which would otherwise arise from their Beginning their Months in a different Manner, as it must happen, when the Month began on a cloudy Evening, or when for other Reasons a Mistake might arise in their Observations. And as there is a Space of 29 Days, 12 Hours, and 44 Minutes, between the middle Changes of the Moon; so the Months must consist either of nine and twenty or of thirty Days. That they could not long fix upon nine and twenty Days is evident, First, Because it is such an odd Number, as cannot be divided into any equal Parts. Secondly, Because thirty Days was nearer to the true Time by four and forty Minutes than nine and twenty Days. And, Lastly, If they had reckon'd by nine and twenty Days, all the other Months would begin, before the Moon was visible, which was contrary to the Ground of all their Computations. But if they reckon'd by thirty Days, then the Moon would be always visible, before the Month began. And as twelve such Months make three hundred and sixty Days, but twelve Lunar Months make only three hundred and fifty four Days and nine Hours; so the last Month must be shorter than the rest, and sometimes consist of twenty four Days, but sometimes also of twenty five.

Moon's

16. But as twelve Lunar Months were about eleven Days less than the Solar Year, and as the Patriarchs were confin'd to the Course of the Moon in reckoning of the Months, and to the Course of the Sun in reckoning of the Year; so they added, as Occasion did require, a thirteenth Month once in three Years, or rather about seven Times in nineteen Years, which Month the later Ages call'd an Intercalary or an Embolimean Month. That they did thus is evident from the Necessity of keeping the Year fix'd to the Beginning of Autumn. As Moses wrote so short an Account of the History of the World in his Time; so it is no Wonder, that such a Particular is omitted by him. And as he never tells us the Names of one of the Months, nor the Number of Months in the antient Year; so it cannot be expected, that he should inform us any farther. And we may take his Silence in not giving us an Account of the Months of the Year, as he did of the Days of the Week, as an Argument, that the Days of the Week were always equal; but the Months of the Year were sometimes unequal. Neither is it to be wonder'd at, that there is no Account thereof before Solomon's Time; because, as it was a Month which came but seldom; so there was not one Feast to be observ'd in it. And as it was in the latter End of the Winter according to the Jewish Account; so it was not a Time for Action, and therefore the less Remarkable. But the Care which was taken to fix the Year according to the Lunar Months, and to begin in the Spring, shews, that it must be thus observ'd and computed from the Time of Moses. However, there seems to be a constant Observance of an Embolimean Year in Solomon's Time. And if so, then, as he made no Alteration in the Year; so this is an Argument, that it was the constant Method us'd in antient Times. It is said, (x) that Solomon had twelve officers over all Israel, which provided victuals for the king and his houshold: each man his month in the year made provision. And (y) their twelve Names being reckon'd up, there is added (z) וּנְצִיב אֶחָד אֲשֶׁר בָּאָרֶץ. Our English Translators, not being capable of receiving any Light from the antient Versions, render the whole thus: Geber, the son of Uri, was in the country of Gilead, in the country of Sihon king of the Amorites, and of Og king of Bashan; and he was the only officer, which was in the land. Now it must seem very strange, that after the Reckoning up of the twelve Officers for the twelve Months, and appointing to each of them their several Parts in the Land of Canaan, from whence they should fetch Provisions for Solomon's Table, and naming this Geber, the Son of Uri, as the Officer for the twelfth Month, and after all the rest, and appointing to him that Part of the Country, which lay most remote from Jerusalem, and beyond Jordan, that it should be recorded of him in particular, that he was the only officer, which was in the land. But the Rabbins interpret this Expression thus, And one officer, which was in the land for the Embolimean Year, or for the thirteenth Month, which happen'd about once in three Years, and who was only nam'd upon that Occasion. This is a very literal Translation of the Hebrew Text, and then the Sense agrees with all the rest.

17. As the antient Patriarchs only made an annual Observation to rectify the Beginning of their Year, and then all the Months follow'd in their Course; so when the Alteration of the Beginning of the Year was made from Autumn to Spring, at the Departure of the Israelites out of Egypt, we may suppose, that for some Time after they only made an annual Observation to rectify their Year, which Observation was also made at the Beginning of the Year, or in the Spring. The Command for the Observation of the Passover, and of the Change in the Beginning of their Years was not given, until the Year was above half spent according to the old Account, and the first Month, according to the new Account, had been actually begun for some Time, and therefore could not take Place for that Year: And as the Israelites were continually removing from Place to Place in the Wilderness for forty Years; so they had not then such Opportunities to make those Astronomical Obser- vations, to fix the first Appearance of the Moon, as might afterward be made, when they were settl'd in Peace and Quietness in the Land of Canaan.

18. However, in Process of Time they made two Observations to fix their Months, one at the Beginning of the seventh Month, and the other at the Beginning of the first. Tho' the Jews began their Computation of the sacred Year from the Spring, and kept to it in the Scriptural Accounts; yet they reckon'd their civil Year as formerly from the Autumn; and their Beginning the Year of Jubilee from that Time laid them almost under a Necessity so to do. Besides, there were so many remarkable Feasts in this seventh Month, as the new Moon itself (which was kept with greater Solemnity in this Month than in the rest) the Day of Expiation and the Feast of Tabernacles, both which seem to be fix'd to particular Days after the new Moon appear'd, or as the (a) Hebrew expresseth it, after the Renovation or φάσις, that it could not well be deferr'd for three Days later, as it must be, if they had made their Observations only in the Spring. Such an Alteration as this would make the Months more equal. For as before it the last Month did consist only of twenty four Days; so after it was made, the sixth and last Month would consist of seven and twenty Days, and therefore would differ but three Days from the other Months, which is no more than February among us differs from March or May. And as February among us hath sometimes nine and twenty; so one of these Months might sometimes have eight and twenty Days, and so differ the less from the rest. Neither can we suppose, that David, whose Heart was so set upon the publick Worship of GOD, who compos'd so many Psalms for that Purpose, who was so intent upon, and provided so much for the Building of the Temple, and who settl'd the Courses of the Priests, and the Method to be observ'd by the Singers, Porters, and other Officers belonging thereto, could or would have omitted so necessary a Regulation as this. Or that Solomon, who built the Temple, and afterward compleated all that was projected, who had (b) such a wise and an understanding heart given him of GOD, so that there was none like him before him, neither after him should any arise like unto him; and particularly (c) whose wisedom excelled the wisdom of all the children of the east country, and all the wisedom of Egypt, where all the liberal Arts and Sciences were advanc'd to the greatest Perfection, and who had such a prodigious Skill in Natural Philosophy, could have so little Knowledge of Astronomy, as not to be sensible of, and regulate so great a Defect in their Annual Computations, when the stated Times of divine Worship did so much require it. And as all the Astronomical Observations mention'd in this Treatise, from the Israelites entering into the Land of Canaan to the Destruction of Jerusalem, relate only to the first and seventh Month; so it is not worth our Inquiry, Whether any, or what Care was taken to regulate the other Months in the same Manner?

19. Lastly, I take it for granted, that GOD spake unto the Patriarchs, and the Patriarchs offer'd Sacrifices unto GOD, on the Day of their Sabbath, which was the same Day of the Week with our LORD's Day, as (d) hath been already mention'd. This he did in those early Times to keep this Day in a greater Esteem, and he hath even in the Time of the Mosaical Law, shewn it some particular Tokens of Respect. The first (e) holy convocation to be observ'd on a Week-Day was begun, when the Israelites came out of Egypt; and there is not the least intimation of any such Thing before. On this Day of the Week they therefore offer'd their Sacrifices, and perform'd their other Parts of divine Worship. It was on this Day, that they spake unto GOD, and it was on this Day, that GOD spake unto them. Particularly, it was on this Day of the Week, when GOD spake (f) to Abraham, and (g) to Noah, and (h) on this Day that Noah offer'd Sacrifices unto GOD, as will more fully appear in their proper Places.

20. I have already given some Account, how the Year of the Creation of the World, as before fix'd, corresponds with Astronomical Observations; and, I hope, that it will appear in the ensuing Discourse, that I have fix'd from the same Principles (together with what is mention'd in this and the next Chapter) the Year of Noah's Flood, the Year of the Promise given to Abraham, the Year of the Israelites departure out of Egypt, the Year of the Dedication of Solomon's Temple, and the Year of our LORD's Nativity. I have this Satisfaction, that I agree with our latest and best Chronologers, from the Death of Ahaz to the Nativity of our SAVIOUR (which was about seven hundred and twenty five Years, which was also but one and twenty Years after the Settling of the Æra of Nabonassar, from whence Ptolomy's Canon, so much celebrated by Heathen and Christian Writers, began, and the learned Dr. Prideaux begins his Historical Connexion of the Writings of the Old and New Testament from thence; which was also but two and twenty Years after the Building of Rome, and about fifty Years before the setting up of the Olympick Games, being the two Epochas from whence the Latin and Greek Chronologies began, and before which they had but a very confus'd Account of Time) and that I differ not from them at most above five Years, in any Time since the Creation of the World. And if it shall farther appear, that the Year of Jubilee is a Type of the Birth of CHRIST, and the Sabbatical Year is a Type of his Death, which began at their appointed Times, and ended with their reſpective Antitypes; then I hope, that there will be no Occaſion of any farther Demonſtration to prove, that the Scripture Chronology is abſolutely authentick, and others, when they differ from it, muſt be rectify'd by it. That the Hebrew Text is the true Original, and that the Septuagint and Samaritan Verſions are erroneous. That the ſame GOD, who made this planetary Syſtem, and ſet forward the Motion of the Earth and Moon, is a GOD of infinite Wiſdom and Power; a GOD, who governs all Things by his Providence; a GOD, who was the Author of the Scriptures, which we now have; and a GOD, who infallibly knew before the Foundation of the World all the Particulars, which have ſince happen'd in it: And, laſtly, that the religious Obſervation of the LORD's Day, or Sunday, is of divine Authority, it having been obſerv'd by all Nations from the Creation, the Iſraelites alone excepted, to whom another Day was given for a Reaſon peculiar to themſelves, and as a Type, to ceaſe when the Antitype was exhibited. And this I ſhall endeavour to do by GOD's Aſſiſtance in the following Diſcourſe.

CHAP. III.

Of the Aſtronomical Method of computing the Time of the Moon's firſt Appearance after the Change.

BEFORE I proceed any farther in this Matter, it will be neceſſary to fix a Method of Calculating the φάσις, or firſt Appearance of the Moon after her Change, and ſo to find out by Aſtronomical Principles, whether ſhe will be viſible on any given Evening after Sun ſet, or not. Upon this depends the fixing the firſt Day of every Patriarchal and Jewiſh Year, together with all their holy Feaſts and Faſts, and the Months, which are ſubſequent thereon.

2. Maimonides (a) tells us, that if the Moon is leſs than nine Degrees diſtant from the Sun, ſhe cannot be ſeen at any Time; or if between the Change and the Full ſhe is above fifteen Degrees diſtant at her Setting, ſhe muſt be viſible. But if in ſuch a Caſe the Diſtance is more than nine Degrees, and leſs than fifteen, it is uncertain, whether ſhe can be viſible or not. To omit the Caſe of cloudy Weather, this Uncertainty (as far as it depends upon Aſtronomical Principles) ariſeth from four Cauſes. Firſt, The Earth may be nearer to the Aphelium or Perihelium, and conſequently the Light upon the Horizon, which comes from the Sun, may be either leſs or greater. But this is inconſiderable. Secondly, The Moon may be nearer to her Apogæum or Perigæum, which will make her apparent Disk to be leſs or greater. This is alſo ſo ſmall, as not to be minded, eſpecially ſince we are not to conſider the whole Disk; but only, as it were, one ſingle Thread of Light on the North-Side of the Moon. Thirdly, The Moon might ſet nearer to or farther off from the Azimuth of the Sun, which will be owing to the different Angle, which the Ecliptick makes with the Horizon, and alſo to the great Difference in her North and South Latitude, and accordingly the Light of the Sun is greater or leſs at the Moon when ſetting in Proportion to the Square of the Sine of the Angle made by the Horizon, and a Line drawn from the Moon to the Sun. And, laſtly, The Sun at the Time of the Moon's ſetting might be nearer to, or farther off from the Horizon, accordingly as the Angle which it makes with the Ecliptick is leſs or greater, which would occaſion a leſs or a greater Degree of Light to the Point perpendicularly over it (and conſequently to the other Parts of the Horizon) in Proportion to the Square of the Sine of its Diſtance.

3. But theſe Particulars being too critical for common Uſe, I ſhall propoſe a ſhorter Method, which is thus. As twelve is the middle Diſtance between nine and fifteen the two Numbers mention'd by Maimonides; ſo it muſt be granted in moſt Caſes, that if there are above twelve Degrees Diſtance on the Equinoctial Line, or of the oblique Deſcenſion (that is eight and forty Minutes of Time, which in the future Calculations I call the Time of Viſibility) between the Setting of the Sun and Moon, then the Moon will be viſible; but if not, then the Moon will be inviſible. So that if the Moon is in aſcending Signs as at the Vernal Equinox, or hath North Latitude, then ſhe will ſet the later, and conſequently will be viſible the ſooner after the Change. But if the Moon is in deſcending Signs, as at the Autumnal Equinox, or hath South Latitude, ſhe will ſet the ſooner, and conſequently a longer

Time after the Change must be requir'd to make her visible.

4. And therefore the Time of the Sun's Setting on any given Day being known by Calculation, when the Moon is not above fifteen Degrees distant from the Sun, find out first the Longitude and Latitude of the Moon 48 Minutes after the Sun Setting, calculate the Declination, right Ascention, ascensional Difference, and oblique Descention of the Sun; and in the same Manner calculate the Declination, right Ascension, ascensional Difference, and oblique Descension of the Moon for the Longitude and Latitude of the Place given. Then from the oblique Descention of the Moon substract the oblique Descention of the Sun, and if the Remainder is more than twelve Degrees, and the Moon is between the Change and the Full, it is evident, that the Moon will be above the Horizon at that Time, and consequently visible at her Setting; so that the Month must then begin, and then the Day following is the first Day of the Month. But if the Remainder is less than 12 Degrees, it is as evident, that the Moon will be below the Horizon at that Time, and consequently invisible at her Setting, so that the Month must begin at least a Day later, than what was mention'd before.

5. But tho' the Moon might be visible; yet it might sometimes happen, that she was not seen, for want of a clear Evening, or of proper Observations: And therefore the Beginning of the Month might be deferr'd a Day longer; which is fit to be observ'd in disputable Cases.

CHAP. IV.

Of the Years and Duration of the Flood.

AS the Flood (a) began upon the seventeenth day of the second month, and (b) it appears, that the Year at that Time began at the Autumnal Equinox, and that Moses began his Computation of that Year from the new Moon, whose Full immediately follow'd the same; so the next Thing requir'd is to find the Day corresponding thereto, in which this Year began according to our Method of Stating the same by Julian Years. If we suppose, that the Year at that Time began from the Vernal Equinox; we must suppose one Miracle more than either the Scripture or Reason give us Ground to think of, which is that the Waters should increase, and be at their Height all the Heat of Summer, and abate and decrease all the Cold of Winter. Whereas the Supposal, that the Year of the Flood began from Tisri, or our September, or from the Autumnal Equinox doth bring the Rains to fall in the Beginning of Winter, namely, from the Middle of our November to the latter End of December, being the Time of the Winter Solstice; and makes the Flood to lie at High Water above the Mountains from thence to the Middle of our April, and from thence to be drying up all the Heat of Summer.

2. To fix the Years and Duration of the Flood it is evident, (c) that it began on the seventeenth day of the second month, when Noah was entering upon the six hundredth Year of his Age, and it ended on (d) the twenty seventh Day of the second month, when Noah was entering upon the six hundredth and first Year of his Age; so that it continu'd a Year and eleven Days, according to the ancient Computation; or an exact Year, according to the Julian Account.

3. As the Ark was probably built at a Place call'd Cyparisson, lying about North North East from Babylon, between the Rivers Lycus and Caprus (of which I shall say more in a Chapter on this Subject) so the Beginnings of the Days or Months mention'd immediately before the Flood must be computed from that Place and no other, it being the Place where Noah was at that Time. Now this Place call'd Cyparisson according to the Map (e) in Bochartus lies in the Longitude of 78 Degrees, or $59^{d.}\ 24'$ Eastward of London, which converted into Time, makes $3^{h.}\ 57'.\ 36''.$ and in the Latitude of $36^{d.}\ 30'.$

4. The remarkable Days are either in the first Year of the Flood in the six hundredth Year of Noah's Life, or in the second Year of the Flood, which was in the six hundredth and first Year of his Life; And if each of these happen to be on the Day of the Antemosaical Sabbath, or on the Day which we call Sunday; then (f) it will appear, that these Years are well fix'd, as the Years of the Flood.

5. As to the first Year of the Flood it is evident, that (g) on the tenth day of the second month, GOD commanded Noah to come with all his houshold into the ark, and to bring the Fowls and Beasts with him. The following (h) six days of the Week Noah was constantly employ'd in this Business. The next Day being (i) the seventeenth day of the first month he rested from his labours according to GOD's Appointment, and (k) upon the same Day, which was the Sabbath, the Flood came, and so it will appear to be (l) by Calculation.

6. It appears (m) from these Tables, that the first Year of the Flood happen'd in the 2361st Year of the Julian Period, which Number (n) being divided by 28, the Remainder is 9; so that (o) it is a Biſſextile Year, and the Dominical Letter for the latter Part thereof is C.

7. It appears alſo (p) by Calculation, that in the ſame Year the Sun came to the Autumnal Equinox on the thirteenth Day of October; and that the new Moon was then firſt viſible on the Evening before, and conſequently that the Year began on that Day, ſo that the tenth and ſeventeenth Days of the ſecond ancient Month happen'd to be on the twenty firſt and twenty eighth Days of November, whoſe Letter (y) is C, which ſhews, that theſe Days happen'd on the Days of the Antemoſaical Sabbath, as aforeſaid.

8. To prove this I have calculated the Appearance of the Moon at her Setting on the eleventh Day of October for the ſame Year, which (z) leaves it uncertain, whether the Moon was then viſible or not, or (a) the negative much more probable (the Difference between the oblique Deſcenſion of the Sun and Moon being $12^{d.}$ $16'$) in the Place where Noah is ſuppos'd to have been. And as the Clouds did gather, before they emptied themſelves on the Earth in ſuch a miraculous Manner; ſo a thick Air, which is moſt probable in ſuch a Caſe, might prevent their Obſervation, and cauſe them to defer the Beginning of the Year to the following Evening.

9. When the Ark was built about the Place call'd Cypariſſon, its Difference in Longitude from London being $59^{d.}$ $24'$ and being alſo in the Latitude of $36^{d.}$ $30'$; ſo when it floated from thence, its Courſe was moſt probably North Eaſt, for the South Weſt Winds, which uſually bring the greateſt Quantities of Rain, and the Inundation of the Perſick Ocean from the South, and the Mediterranean Sea from the Weſt muſt of Neceſſity drive the Current of the Stream that Way, and conſequently the Ark with it. But as the Ark was built in a Form and Bulk abſolutely unfit for Sailing; ſo it is not probable, that it was carry'd very far; and therefore ſuppoſing that it went in the Arch of a great Circle for the Space of $9^{d.}$ $32'$ and made an Angle of 45 Degrees with the Meridian; at its firſt ſetting out it would go ſo far North as to be in the Latitude of $42^{d.}$ $44'$ and its Longitude $9^{d.}$ $50'$ toward the Eaſt, and if the North Wind ſhould bring it back again, when the Weather was clear to its former Latitude, it would fall upon the Hills of Ararat near Media, about the Longitude of $68^{d.}$ $34'$ from London, and the Latitude of $36^{d.}$ $40'$ and ſo it would come back to the Place where it landed, even to the Mountains of (b) Taurus or Caucaſus, which is call'd in Hebrew (c) one of the mountains of Ararat, or a Part of thoſe Ledges of Mountains, which did not only begin in Armenia, call'd in Hebrew (d) Ararat, (from whence the vulgar Error aroſe, that it landed in Armenia) but alſo extended themſelves for above four thouſand Miles toward the Eaſt South Eaſt, as far as the Indies, and therefore any one of theſe Mountains might be call'd one of the mountains of Ararat. So that the ſame Providence, which preſerv'd Noah and his Family, did afterward ſet them on Shore in the ſame Climate, and not far from their own Country. It is certain, that the old World after the Flood was (f) firſt peopl'd in the eaſtern Parts from the Plains of Shinar and Babylon, and that the Antediluvian Race of Mankind, went eaſtward from Paradiſe into the ſame Country, becauſe (g) the flaming ſword was plac'd on the ſame Side of Paradiſe to prevent their Return.

10. As to the ſecond Year of the Flood, or (h) the ſix hundredth and firſt Year of Noah's Life the remarkable Days are the twenty ſeventh Day of the ſecond Month, and the fourth Day of the third Month, On (i) the twenty ſeventh day of the ſecond month GOD ſpake to Noah to come out of the ark, with all the living Creatures which were there. As he was ſix Days in bringing them in; ſo he may well be ſuppos'd to ſpend the ſame Time in Bringing them out. And on the Day following, or on (k) the fourth Day of the third Month he offer'd his ſolemn Sacrifice. And theſe two Days will appear to be on the Days of the Antemoſaical Sabbath.

11. It appears more evidently from theſe (l) Tables, that this ſecond Year of the Flood happen'd to be in the 2362d Year of the Julian Period, which number (m) being divided by 28, the Remainder is 10, ſo that (n) the Dominical Letter is B.

12. It appears alſo (o) by Calculation, that the Sun in the ſame Year came to the Autumnal Equinox on the thirteenth Day of October, as in the Year before, and that (p) the new Moon, whoſe Full did immediately happen after the Autumnal Equinox, began undeniably at ſuch a Time, that ſhe might be ſeen on the firſt Day of October in the Evening, and conſequently that the Year began at that Time, and that the firſt Day of the new Year was the Day following; ſo that the twenty ſeventh Day of the ſecond Month and the fourth Day of the third Month happen'd to be on the 27th Day of November, and on the fourth Day of December, whoſe Dominical (q) Letter is E, which ſhews, that theſe Days happen'd on the Days of the Antemoſaical Sabbath as aforeſaid. And as this was the Seaſon, in which the Waters did continue to be dry'd up; ſo there can be no Doubt of clear Evenings, and ſuch as were fit for Obſervations.

13. But for the better Regulating of theſe two Years, I ſhall ſubjoyn (r) a Calendar of the ancient Months, as they were call'd by the Jews, and alſo the correſponding Days of the Julian Years, with the Dominical Letter and the Days of the Flood, as they are mention'd in the Scripture, to which I refer the Reader for his farther Satisfaction.

4	B	4	7	7	Noah offers Sacrifice, Gen. viii. 20.

14. From the Day that the Ark reſted, to the Day when the Mountains were ſeen, were ſeventy five Days, when the Waters were abated fifteen Cubits. And from thence to the Time of Noah's going out of the Ark were an hundred and ſeven and forty Days, in which according to Proportion (eſpecially the Winter coming on) the Waters could not abate above thirty Cubits perpendicularly. So that the Heights of the Mountains in thoſe Countries muſt be very ſmall unleſs they were ſeen from a conſiderable Diſtance, and then the Waters being circular might hinder the Sight of the lower Part of them, which is left to ſuch, who are better skill'd in the Geography of thoſe Countries to conſider. But when Noah (a) looked on the ground, and ſaw it dry, he did not behold the whole Part of the Globe, which might afterward be viſible to him; but only the adjacent Earth. For if all had been dry, there would not have been a Neceſſity of his ſtaying in the Ark about two Months longer before he landed. In which Space of Time if we ſuppoſe, that the lower Parts of the Earth were under Water; yet this will not make theſe lower Parts to be above five and forty Cubits lower than the Mountain where the Ark reſted, which is no more than the Height of a common Tower.

15. That the Ark was of a ſufficient Capacity to contain all the living Creatures, and Food for them all, will be fully prov'd in (b) a particular Chapter in this Book on this Subject. To meaſure the Weight of the Ark, and of all the living Creatures in it, when it reſted on one of the mountains of Ararat, will afford us another Curioſity, which may be gueſs'd at in this Manner.

16. When our Country-man the ingenious and learned Mr. Greaves travel'd into Rome, Greece, Paleſtina and Egypt, that he might be capable of diſcovering the ancient Weights, Mony, and Meaſures both of Length, Solids and Liquids, he meaſur'd the Pyramids in Egypt, and accordingly comparing the Account, which (c) Herodotus gives of them, he (d) found the Length of a Cubit to be 21.888 Inches, (which is accordingly agreed to by other (e) eminent Writers) and therefore tho' formerly a Cubit was reckon'd but 18 Inches, and conſequently the Cube thereof to be but 5832 cubical Inches; yet now the Cube of a Cubit, as it is now plainly known, is 10267 Inches; and therefore the Capacity and Weight of Noah's Ark appears to be almoſt double of what it was once thought to be. Now when the Ark began to ſwim, the Waters ſeem (f) to be fifteen Cubits high, and (g) on the Day that the Waters began to abate of that Meaſure, the Ark reſted on one of the Mountains of Ararat. But the Waters were (h) fifteen cubits, when they began to abate; ſo that the Ark drew fifteen Cubits of Water.

17. The Ark being as heavy as the Quantity of Water, which it drew, its Weight muſt be thus computed. Multiply the Length thereof (i) three hundred cubits, or 6566.400 Inches, by the Breadth thereof fifty cubits, or 1094.400 Inches, and the Total is 7849108.160 cubical Inches in the Square thereof, and multiply this Sum by the Water which the Ark drew, being fifteen Cubits, or 328.320 Inches, and the Total gives the Content of the whole, which was under Water, or 2359395562 cubical Inches. And as (k) 27.792 Inches of Water contain a Pint or a Pound; ſo by dividing the aforeſaid Sum by 27.792, the Remainder is 84894774 Pounds in the whole. And if we may ſuppoſe, that all the Things contain'd in the Ark were equal in Weight to the Ark itſelf, then the Ark alone muſt weigh 42447287 Pounds, which divided by 2048 the Pints in a Tun leaves 20721 Tuns, and 679 Pounds for the Weight of the Ark. And as Noah was (l) an hundred and twenty years in Preparing the Ark, in which there were 37569 working Days, the Sabbaths excepted; ſo by dividing 42447387, by 37569, it appears, that one Day with another Noah and his Family might add to the Weight of the Ark about 1129 Pounds in Timber and other Materials; which if it was made of ſquare Beams (as the Septuagint tells us) and in a ſquare Figure (as the Scriptures plainly intimate) might have been practicable; but if it had been made of Boards, or in the Form of a Ship, ſo that the Timber muſt be bent to fit it for ſuch a Uſe, it muſt have been a more difficult Task.

18. A late Author, who is always fond of Inventing and Publiſhing ſomething new and ſurprizing, hath lately given us ſuch an Expoſition of the Curſe upon (m) Cain and Lamech, as thereby to endeavour to prove, that the preſent Africans and Indians are their Poſterity, and conſequently that they were not deſtroy'd at the general Deluge. Had this Author confin'd himſelf to the Mathematical Studies, which was his profeſs'd Employment, as long as he liv'd, or at leaſt until he had found out the Longitude at Sea, either by firing of Canons, by fixing of Hulks of Ships as a Landmark in the Ocean, or by the Dipping Needle, or by any other Method, which ſo prolifick a Fancy could invent, he had done himſelf a greater Kindneſs and the World leſs Miſchief. But his Brain is like Hydra; ſo that as ſoon as one poiſonous Hereſy is confuted, ſeveral others do riſe up in its Place; and whenever he propoſes to write a new Book, the World muſt expect a new Monſter. He ranſacks all ſorts of Learning, as if it was only in ſearch after new Errors; when they are found they are vented; when vented, maintain'd and perſiſted in; and the Author never yields to the moſt ſolid Arguments. The firſt publick Attempt was againſt the Honour of our DEAR REDEEMER, in bringing in the Arian Hereſy. For this Purpoſe all the former Councils, Creeds, and primitive Fathers muſt be cenſur'd and condemn'd. Thoſe which have conſtantly ſtood the Teſt of the ſevereſt Criticks muſt be treated as ſpurious; and thoſe, which are generally condemn'd as ſpurious, muſt be receiv'd as genuine. If it ſerves this Man's Turn, the Apocryphal Books muſt be added to the Canon of Scripture, and the Apoſtolical Conſtitutions and Canons, nay, the Book call'd The Doctrine of the Apoſtles (whoſe Original is loſt, but it happens to be tranſlated into Arabick, tho' whether by a Chriſtian or a Turk ſeems not material in the Controverſy) muſt be receiv'd, as of greater Authority than any of St. Paul's Epiſtles. And to make ſure Work of all the Scriptures, our preſent Bibles muſt be look'd upon as corrupted to ſerve the Turns of the Jews, and to inſpire Men with Prejudices againſt Chriſtianity, and theſe muſt be corrected and amended by the Septuagint and the Samaritan Verſions, by Joſephus, and perhaps in Time by the Alcoran alſo. When he ſets up to expound the Scriptures, the firſt Poſtulatum is, that they are corrupted, that the true ſenſe is marr'd and ſpoil'd, and that he alone is able to correct it, and therefore he muſt be allow'd to make ſuch Alterations as he ſees fit, by adding in ſome Places, by leaving out in others, and by altering in many more, that ſo he may afterward by the Help of his Comment make it intelligible to the common Readers. Thus he mangles and confounds the whole, and then ſets up for a different Method from all the World to reſtore the true Text of the Old Teſtament. And the great Misfortune of all is, that the Pretence of great Regularity and Humility is us'd as a Plea for his paſſing Sentence on all the divine Writings as falſe and ſpurious, and ſetting up himſelf as the only Man who can correct and amend them. From ſuch daily Provocations of divine Juſtice, and the Effects of them GOOD LORD deliver us. It is not an open Enemy who can do the Scriptures this Diſhonour; for then it might more eaſily be born with, neither is it a publick Adverſary, that magnifies himſelf in this Manner; for ſuch Things muſt be expected. But it is a Man that profeſſeth the utmoſt Veneration for Scriptures, who thus tears them to Pieces, who with a Judas's Kiſs betrays our Sacred Oracles to be derided, and who expoſes all Religion to the Contempts and Scoffs of thoſe who have none. Accordingly the Notion lately ſtarted concerning the Flood is this, that the whole World was not drown'd, as the Scriptures ſeem to relate, but only the Poſterity of Seth, and that the Poſterity of Lamech eſcap'd. To prove this he brings Scripture to contradict Scripture, and interprets the (n) Curſe upon Lamech and Cain according to his uſual Method to foretel the Preſervation of their Poſterity in the common Deſtruction. This he doth firſt by taking for granted, that (o) the Hebrew Text is corrupted, and that inſtead of (p) Therefore we muſt read (q) It ſhall not be ſo. And, ſecondly, by taking for granted, that (r) the Hebrew Text is defective, and that the Word Generations is left out to be ſupply'd by him, tho' the (s) Adjective with which it muſt agree, is of a different Gender. Theſe Things allow'd, becauſe he ſaith, It muſt be ſo, he interprets the Text thus, Cain ſhall have vengeance taken on him for ſeven generations, which ended, as he ſaith, when Cain was kill'd by Tubal Cain, and Lamech ſhall have vengeance taken on him for ſeventy and ſeven generations, that is, as he interprets it, until the Coming of CHRIST, when Lamech was as certainly kill'd by ſome Body or other; as that he liv'd ſo long. This brings down all the Gravity and Solemnity by which the Flood is deſcrib'd in Scripture into little more than Grimace, or ſuch a Flood as happen'd in Theſſaly in the Time of Ogyges. This Notion makes GOD command Noah to build an Ark for the ſaving of his houſhold, and he was employ'd an hundred and twenty years in ſuch a Work; whereas he might have directed him to travail in leſs than a Month's Time, to a Place where he might have been ſafe with his whole Family. This Notion renders all the Care of GOD to have been but for little Purpoſe, in preſerving two of each Sort alive to repleniſh the Earth; ſince there were thouſands of each Sort alive in other Parts, by whom the Earth might be repleniſh'd. And this Notion makes GOD, when he would reward the Piety of Noah, to confine him and his Family to live a full Year with Lions, Bears, and Tigers, and other diſagreeable Animals, and provide Food for them, without any Neceſſity for such a Slavery, and when his greatest Enemies were preserv'd without it.

19. The true Sense of the Texts, which he thus perverts, is this, (t) The LORD said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not. Am I my brother's keeper? And he said, What hast thou done? The voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground. And now thou art cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand. When thou tillest the ground, it shall not yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be upon the earth. And Cain said unto the LORD, My punishment is greater than I can bear: Or as some translate it, My sin is greater than can be forgiven. Behold, thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the ground; and from thy face shall I be hid, and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth; and it shall come to pass, that every one that findeth me, shall slay me: Or as others render it, וְהָיָה And I wish it may so happen, that any one, who findeth me, shall slay me. And the LORD said unto unto him, לָכֵן כָּל־הֹרֵג קַיִן Therefore because thou hast been guilty of this Murder, any Man may be the murderer of Cain. Blood requires Blood. Howbeit, he shall not die, but vengeance shall be taken upon him sevenfold, by a perpetual Banishment from the Church and People of GOD in the beforemention'd Manner. And the LORD set a mark upon Cain, lest any finding him should slay him. That the Word sevenfold only signifies in a greater measure, is evident from several other Expressions of the same Nature, where a stated Number is set for an uncertain; such as (u) twofold, (x) thirtyfold, sixtyfold, (y) an hundredfold, (z) seven times and seventy times seven. This Curse descending only upon Cain and his Posterity, Lamech, who introduc'd Polygamy into the World, and perhaps on that Occasion might have committed Murder, however he destroy'd his own Soul, whilst he was in the Prime of his Youth, and seeing how his unclean Example was follow'd, not only by the Posterity of Cain, but also by those of Seth, insomuch that the whole Earth was corrupted and fill'd with Violence, being prick'd in his Conscience for it, and dreading the Judgments of GOD, which should come upon the whole World for such Crimes, as were occasion'd by him, makes (a) this Speech to his two wives Adah and Zillah, Hear my voice, ye wives of Lamech; hearken unto my speech; for I have slain * a man to my wounding My Example hath infected all Mankind, or farther the whole World, and made them liable to the divine Vengeance, which is my great Sorrow. And I have slain a young man to my hurt לְיַלְדִּי, and particularly my own posterity, which is so great a Trouble to me. If then so great a Punishment fell upon Cain for one single Murder, that he and his Posterity were fugitives and vagabonds, What heavy Punishment must light upon Lamech, and his Posterity for so many Crimes, whilst they would take no Warning? Or what can they expect, but to be all destroy'd by some remarkable Judgments? The Hebrew Text will justify this Exposition without the least Variation. And if this is the Sense of the Words, which might have been spoken within five Years before the Flood came, it will be hard to prove from them alone, that any of Lamech's Family escap'd.

20. Let us now see what Account the Scriptures give hereof. GOD (b) said, I will destroy man whom I have created, from the face of the earth, both man and beast, and the creeping things, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me, that I have made them. And (c) GOD look'd upon the earth, and behold it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth. And GOD said unto Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them, and behold I will destroy them with the earth. And (d) all flesh died, that moved upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beast, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. All in whose nostrils was the breath of life, of all that was in the dry land died. And every living substance was destroyed, which was upon the face of the ground, both man and cattle, and the creeping things, and the fowls of the heaven, and they were destroyed from the earth: and Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark. So (e) unrighteous Cain perished in the fury, wherewith he murdered his brother. For whose cause the earth being drowned with the flood, the divine wisdom again preserved it, and directed the course of the righteous man in a piece of wood of small value. And (f) GOD spared not the old world, but saved Noah the eighth person, a preacher of righteousness, bringing in the flood upon the world of the ungodly. And (g) there were only few, that is eight souls, which were saved by water. To all these Texts this Author roundly replies, (h) That this is the Scripture Heaven, and the Scripture Earth. And therefore he adds, I do venture to observe, that the Limits of that whole World, and that whole Earth, and its whole Heaven not only in Scripture; but in all other the oldest Antiquity was not the same, which we now call ſo ; but excluded the South of Africa, and all America, and the South-Eaſt of Aſia, and all China alſo ; and that conſequently none of theſe Parts were deſtroy'd by the Flood. As for the Scripture Heaven, and the Scripture Earth, which he mentions, the learned in the Oriental Languages obſerve, that the Word שָׁמַיִם or Heaven, is deriv'd from the Arabick Verb سمو, which ſignifies to be above us, and the Word אֶרֶץ or Earth is deriv'd from the Verb ارض which ſignifies to be beneath us, and therefore he muſt firſt find out a Heaven, which is not over our Heads, or an Earth, which is not under our Feet, before he can find out that which is excluded from the Scripture Notion. However, I ſhall readily grant, that there is a Scripture Notion of an habitable Earth as diſtinct from the whole Globe. But it is ſuch a Notion, as will utterly deſtroy what this Author aſſerts. The habitable Earth in the (i) Hebrew and (k) Syriack Languages is call'd חֶבֶל and is uſually tranſlated in the Septuagint by οἰκουμένη ; the whole Globe is call'd אֶרֶץ, and is uſually tranſlated by the Word γῆ. Thus Buxtorf (l) in his Octavo Lexicon ſaith, חֶבֶל eſt orbis habitabilis, אֶרֶץ generale eſt. But whether the whole Earth was drown'd or not ; yet if all the habitable Part was drown'd, it is ſufficient to prove, that Lamech and Cain and all their Poſterity were deſtroy'd at that Time, unleſs our Author can prove, that they dwelt in a Country which was not habitable. Beſides, as this latter Word חֶבֶל was never us'd in any of Moſes's Writings ; ſo I take it for granted, that this Diſtinction was never known in Moſes's Time ; and if ſo, it ſignifies little, what Notions happen'd to be in latter Ages. In every Account of the Flood the general Word אֶרֶץ is conſtantly us'd, particularly in all the Texts already mention'd ; and to theſe I ſhall add ſome more. (m) In the beginning GOD created the heaven and the earth. And (n) bring forth with thee every living thing, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and multiply upon the earth. And (o) GOD bleſſed Noah and his ſons, and ſaid unto them, Be fruitful and multiply, and repleniſh the earth. And the fear of you, and the dread of you ſhall be upon every beaſt of the earth. And (p) the ſons of Noah, that went out of the ark, were Shem, and Ham, and Japhet ; and of them was the whole earth overſpread. And the Scripture ſeems to me to uſe this general Word in all theſe Places on purpoſe to cut off this particular Objection. Indeed, had Moſes ſaid (q) only, that כָּל חֶבֶל the whole inhabited World had been overſpread by Noah, this Author's Objection might have been more plauſible, and even then it might have been fairly anſwer'd. But ſince the ſame Word is us'd here with a Note of Univerſality, which is us'd through the whole Account of the Creation ; I muſt challenge him to produce a Part of this Earth, which was not created by GOD, before, according to the Scripture Notion, he can find out that Part of the Earth, which was not deſtroy'd by the Flood, and repleniſh'd by Noah. To ſupport this Argument our Author tells us (s) that he is, and hath been long of this Opinion. This is a weighty Argument, and if true, who ſhall contradict him, or can confute him ? But if it had been conceiv'd above nine Months in his Brain, it is hardly poſſible, but it muſt have been deliver'd to the World before. To prove that this was his Opinion, he refers us to (t) his new Theory of the Earth. But in thoſe Pages, which he mentions, he ſaith nothing to this Purpoſe. His Notion or Theory of the Flood is this, that it was occaſion'd by a large Comet paſſing thro' the Earth's Orb (u) immediately before it began, that (x) the Waters and Matter at its Atmoſphere and Tail at the Deluge retarded our Earth's diurnal Motion, and (y) alter'd the whole Orbit of the Earth from a circular to an elliptick Figure. Thus at one Time (z) the Force of a ſingle Comet is in his Opinion ſo great as to occaſion the Earth's Excentricity, or to move this whole Maſs above a Million of Miles, or an hundred and fifty Diameters from its proper Place, which Alteration the Earth never recover'd to this Day ; and at another Time he thinks it ſo inconſiderable, as not to affect the South of Africa, nor any Part of America, nor the South-Eaſt of Aſia, nor China. Thus we have his whole Theory at once confuted by himſelf ; and from ſuch mountainous Projections, there doth not remain, in Proportion, the Quantity of a Mouſe. And as by this Notion he confutes all his Theory at once ; ſo in this Theory he utterly confutes all this Notion, which he hath been ſo long in Hatching. There he tells us, (a) That the Extent of the Deluge appears commenſurate to that of the Creation. And (b) Mankind increas'd vaſtly more ſoon after the Deluge, than in the latter Ages of the World. So that it is evident, that the Antediluvian Fruitfulneſs muſt have prevail'd among the primitive Poſtdiluvians for ſome Centuries, or elſe no Account can be given of the preſent Numbers of Men upon the Face of the Earth, whereby the Veracity of Moſes in his Account, and the great Importance thereof are mightily

mightily confirm'd. And (c) this Deluge of Waters was univerſal in its Extent and Effect, reaching to all the Parts of the Earth, and deſtroying all the Land Animals on the intire Surface thereof, thoſe only excepted, which were with Noah in the Ark. And the Texts of Scripture which ſpeak of the Flood, will put this Matter beyond Exception. And (d) having repeated the ſame Propoſition, and ſolidly prov'd it, he makes this Concluſion; So that at laſt, the Deluge muſt have been univerſal, becauſe every one of the Cauſes thereof appear to have been truly ſo. For (as (e) he ſaith) It is evident that the holy Books ought not to be tormented, or eluded, as to their obvious ſenſe on every Occaſion. But that this SACRED RULE ought for ever religiouſly to be obſerv'd, that we never forſake the plain, eaſy, obvious, and natural Senſe, unleſs where the Nature of the Thing itſelf, parallel Places, or evident Reaſon, afford a ſolid and ſufficient Ground for ſo doing. Thus far William againſt Whiſton, and Whiſton againſt William.

21. The Conſequences, that he draws from his Notion, are ſuch, which need not be regarded, until it can be better prov'd; but there are other Conſequences that neceſſarily follow, which muſt provoke us to reject it with Abhorrence, and muſt be aſtoniſhing to every Reader.

22. For Firſt, The Conſequence of this Notion, that ſo many Families and whole Kingdoms eſcap'd the Flood, very much ſhakes the Authority of the Chriſtian Religion. It gives ſuch a Latitude to Interpretations of Scripture, as will utterly deſtroy the whole, and leaves every Man at Liberty to interpret one Text, or two at the moſt, in ſuch a Manner, as ſhall contradict all the reſt. Beſides, St. Peter (f) compares the Ark to the Church of CHRIST, wherein few, that is, eight ſouls, were ſaved by water. The like Figure whereunto even baptiſm doth alſo now ſave us. But the Conſequence of the other Notion is this, that they who were near the Pale of the Church, or any Way related to it were all deſtroy'd; that they who were admitted into it by Baptiſm, may, indeed, be ſav'd, but with great Difficulty and Trouble. And they who are at the greateſt Diſtance from it, do fare beſt of all.

23. And Secondly, The other Conſequence is as injurious to GOD's Juſtice, which Neceſſarily ariſeth from this Notion. The Flood was always reckon'd an extraordinary Example of divine Vengeance. St. Peter ſaith, (g) that GOD brought in the Flood upon the world of the ungodly, and urgeth this as an Argument, that the LORD knoweth how to reſerve the unjuſt unto the day of judgment to be puniſh'd. And (h) he brought it upon thoſe which ſometimes were diſobedient, when the long ſuffering of GOD waited in the days of Noah. In (i) another Place we are told, that the earth was drowned with the flood for the ſake of Cain. And (k) the Hiſtory of Moſes is as full to this Purpoſe as any, GOD ſaw that the wickedneſs of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart were only evil continually. And it repented the LORD, that he had made man upon the earth, and it grieved him at his heart. The earth alſo was corrupt before GOD, and the earth was fill'd with violence. And GOD looked upon the earth, and behold it was corrupt, for all fleſh had corrupted his way upon the earth. And GOD ſaid unto Noah, The end of all fleſh is come before me: for the earth is filled with violence thro' them; and behold I will deſtroy them with the earth. The Corruption began and increas'd in the Poſterity of Cain. Joſephus (l) ſaith, that Cain was ſo far from being made better by ſuch a Chaſtiſement, that he grew worſe and worſe, indulging himſelf in his Pleaſures, even to the Detriment of other Men, increaſing his Riches by Force and Rapine, and gathering together Companions of Robbery and Iniquity, he was made their Ringleader in all Sorts of Miſchief. And that even when Adam was alive, the Offspring of Cain grew moſt wicked, and every Age was worſe than the former, not only imitating but alſo exceeding the Vices of their Predeceſſors, neither abſtaining from War nor Theft; and they who abſtain'd from Murder, did lead their Lives covetouſly and proudly toward others. But Seth being educated by his Father, when he came to be of Age to diſcern what was right, gave himſelf wholly up to the Study of Virtue: And as he was a good Man; ſo he left his Poſterity like him, who being all of a good Temper inhabited the Country without Strife, and Sedition, and for their Piety were call'd The Sons of GOD, whilſt the other were call'd The Sons of Men. In ſhort, the Hiſtory of Sanchoniatho, as well as of Moſes, tells us the Crimes, which the Poſterity of Cain were guilty of, ſuch as barbarous Murder in Cain himſelf, which was afterward imitated and doubl'd by his Deſcendant Lamech; alſo Polytheiſm and Idolatry, together with Polygamy, Inceſt, Adultery, and Uncleanneſs. And as it continu'd thus for many Generations; ſo in Length of Time the Poſterity of Seth marrying with thoſe of Cain became univerſally corrupt, and this total Depravation of Manners occaſion'd the Flood. And now, when GOD moſt ſolemnly enters into Judgment for theſe Things, according to this Author, he deſtroys all the Poſterity of Seth except eight Perſons, and ſaves the Poſterity of Cain, but more particularly that of Lamech. He puniſheth the ſmaller Faults, and winks at thoſe which were of a Gigantick Size, as if he was afraid to meddle with them. This Flood is the Effect of the Sin of Cain; but Cain's Family eſcapes, and other Branches are deſtroy'd; and when GOD ſpar'd thoſe People, he remov'd them from Vengeance to the remoteſt Parts of Africa, India and America, where they lay conceal'd 'till now, and would, no doubt, have been conceal'd (as the Poſterity of Cain) to the End of the World, if this unlucky Author had not diſcover'd them. In ſhort, The earth was fill'd with violence thro' the Poſterity of Cain, which was the original Cauſe of all. GOD ſaid to Noah, (m) The end of all fleſh is come before me; for the earth is fill'd with Violence thro' them: and behold I will deſtroy them with the earth. And this one Text will more plainly prove, that all theſe Authors of Violence were deſtroy'd, than all the Arguments, which have been brought, can prove the contrary.

24. As for thoſe who have of late ridicul'd and expos'd the ſcriptural Account of the Flood, as contrary to the Notions of Philoſophy, they only take the ſame Methods, which the Heathens formerly us'd to explode the Reſurrection of the Dead. But of this I hope to give a ſatisfactory Account in (n) another Place.

CHAP. V.

The true Time of the Flood farther ſtated.

AS I have plac'd the firſt Year of the Flood in the 2352d Year before the Birth of CHRIST, which I take to be according to the true Intent and Meaning of the Hebrew Text, and have alſo plac'd it in the 1656th Year of the World, according as we find it (a) not only in the Original, but alſo in our common Bibles: And as the Septuagint and the Samaritan Verſions differ ſeveral hundred Years from this Account, both in the Years before the Flood, and in the Years between the Flood and the Promiſe given to Abraham; ſo, I ſuppoſe, that it will not be unacceptable to the Reader to treat of the Difference between theſe three ſeveral Accounts. And for this Reaſon it will be neceſſary to ſtate the Facts themſelves, and the moſt probable Reaſons for them, with ſome proper Inferences, from whence we may judge, whether the Hebrew or the Septuagint, or the Samaritan Copy is moſt to be depended upon.

2. The beſt Way to judge of the Facts themſelves is to make two Tables, as in the following Manner, one from the Creation of the World to the Flood, and another for the Age from the Birth of Shem to the Birth of the eldeſt Son of Terah; and to divide theſe Tables into three Columns, the firſt for the Hebrew, the Second for the Septuagint, and the third for the Samaritan Verſion, and alſo to place the Texts of Scripture in a ſeparate Column, and the Parents Names in another; and to place in the other Columns the Age of the Parents at the Birth of their recorded Son, the Length of their Lives afterward, and their Age at their Deaths. From whence it will appear,

(a) This appears from the Sums in Gen. v. 3, 6, 9, 12, 15, 18, 21, 25, 28. and Gen. vii. 6. added together.

Year from the Birth of Shem to the Birth of Terah's eldeſt Son.		390			1270			1040

3. First, That the Septuagint have added an hundred Years to the Age of Adam and Seth at the Birth of their Son mention'd, and alſo to the Age of all the other Parents, whoſe Sons are mention'd in the Hebrew Text to be born, before their Parents were an hundred Years old; ſo that in this Method they have added ſix hundred Years to the Time before the Flood.

4. Secondly, That they have made two other Miſtakes between the Birth of Methuſelah and the Birth of Noah, and made it fourteen Years leſs than the Time, which the Hebrew Text allows for it.

5. Thirdly, That where the Septuagint have added an hundred Years to the Lives of theſe Patriarchs before the Birth of their Son mention'd in the Scriptures, they have ſubſtracted an hundred Years from the remaining Part of their Lives, inſomuch that their Age at their Deaths are the ſame both in the Septuagint and in the Hebrew, except Lamech, who died twenty four Years younger according to the Account of the Septuagint, than according to the Account of the Hebrew Text.

6. Fourthly, That the Samaritan Copy and Tranſlation did never lengthen the Chronology of the Years before the Flood, beyond the Account of the Septuagint; but inſtead thereof have contracted every Generation, ſo as to make many of them equal to the Account of the Hebrew Text. And wherever the Hebrew Text mentions a hundred Years before the Birth of any in their Families, except Seth and Enoſh, there the Samaritan Pentateuch hath always omitted the hundred: So that as the Septuagint hath enlarg'd this Chronology, the Samaritans on the other Hand have contracted it; and beſide the hundreds, they have alſo taken off twenty Years between the Birth of Lamech and Methuſelah, and nine and twenty Years between the Birth of Lamech and Noah. And thus as the Septuagint made the Time from the Creation of the World to the Flood 586 Years longer than it really was; ſo the Samaritans made it 349 Years ſhorter.

7. Fifthly, He who compares the Samaritan Copy with the Hebrew, may plainly ſee, that the one was originally copy'd from the other. But he who ſees the vaſt Number of Alterations from the preſent Copy (as they are reckon'd up by Morinus at the End of the Polyglot Bible) may plainly obſerve, that the Copier was very haſty and careleſs, and did not take ſo much Caution, as a Work of that Conſequence did really deſerve. And as it may be ſeen in every Chapter of the Pentateuch; ſo it is much more viſible in the Chronological Part, to which I confine myſelf.

8. Sixthly, In the ſecond Table of the Chronology from the Birth of Shem to the Birth of the eldeſt Son of Terah, it is evident, that the Septuagint hath added an hundred Years to the Diſtance of every Generation, except between Shem and Arphaxad, and fifty more between the Birth of Nahor and Terah; and that the Septuagint hath alſo added an hundred and thirty Years for the Age of Cainan between Arphaxad and Selah. And as they had no Warrant from the Hebrew; ſo in this they are not follow'd by any other Tranſlation.

9. All theſe Things put together make the Chronological Account of Time in the Septuagint Verſion to be eight hundred and eighty Years more than in the Hebrew between the Birth of Shem, and the Birth of the eldeſt Son of Terah, or which amounts to the ſame, between the Time of the Flood and of the Promiſe given to Abraham. And alſo in the Samaritan Copy and Verſion the ſame Account is ſix hundred and fifty Years more than what is in the Hebrew.

10. It is alſo evident, that in the Years after the Flood, where they have added an hundred Years to the Lives of the Patriarchs, they have alſo taken away an hundred Years from the remaining Part of their Lives; ſo that the Duration of Shem, Arphaxad, Peleg, and Reu, are the ſame in all theſe Copies and Tranſlations. In the Age of Selah and Serug the Septuagint differs from the Hebrew, and the Samaritan agrees with it. In the Age of Eber, the Septuagint and the Samaritan agree, and both differ from the Hebrew. The Septuagint make Nahor to be an hundred and ſeventy nine Years old at the Birth of Terah; the Samaritan leaves out the hundred, and only makes him ſeventy nine; but in the Hebrew he is only twenty nine Years old at that Time. And ſo at his Death, the Hebrew makes him two hundred and twenty two Years old; the Septuagint make him three hundred and four Years old, and the Samaritan but an hundred and forty eight at his Death, which is one and thirty Years younger than the Septuagint place him at the Birth of his Son Terah. And it is alſo obſervable, that the Samaritan Verſion ſums up the Ages of all the Patriarchs in theſe Genealogies at their Deaths in the ſame Manner as they are ſum'd up in the fifth Chapter of Geneſis before the Flood, tho' neither the Hebrew nor the Septuagint obſerve any ſuch Method.

11. From ſo great a Variety of Alterations it is eaſy to infer, that it is impoſſible to reconcile theſe Chronological Accounts to each other. Had there been but one or two Differences, ſomething of this Nature might have been attempted; but as they contradict one another in all theſe Inſtances, ſo two Accounts of the three muſt be falſe, and only one can be rely'd upon.

12. But Secondly, Suppoſing the Hebrew Text to be the true Account (which will afterward be prov'd) it is much eaſier to gueſs at the Reaſons of theſe Alterations.

13. The Jews (who were the worſt Chronologers in the World) when their famous Aſtronomical Year was ſettl'd by Rabbi Hillel in the Year of CHRIST 358. from the Obſervations of Hipparchus (whom they call Abrachus) as they contracted the Years, and fix'd the Time of the Creation of the World to the Year of the Julian Period 953. which was 248 Years later than it is plac'd in theſe Tables; ſo in former Ages they endeavour'd more extravagantly to enlarge it. The Egyptians, Chaldeans, Phenicians, and Greecians, out of a vain Affectation of Antiquity, endeavour'd to give many fabulous Accounts of their own Nations, and reported, that their Country was inhabited ſo long before, that if true, it muſt have been many thouſand Years before the Creation of the World, as it is mention'd in the Hebrew Text. And therefore they exploded the Moſaical Chronology as ridiculous, and reckon'd the Jews to be a late and an upſtart Generation. The Jews, who were as vain and as affected as other Nations, that they might come behind them as little as poſſible, enlarg'd their Account beyond the Hebrew Standard. Accordingly when Ptolomy Philadelphus order'd the Hebrew Bible to be tranſlated into Greek for the Uſe of the Library at Alexandria, the Tranſlators ſo far comply'd with the vain Humour of thoſe Times, that they added the 1466 Years already mention'd to the Scripture Chronology, partly by putting in an hundred Years between the Births of ſeveral Patriarchs and the Births of their Sons, and partly by other Methods. And then ſuppoſing that the Tranſcriber for the Sake of his Memory, or for any other Reaſon, might have drawn a Table of thoſe, who deſcended from Adam, and of thoſe, who deſcended from Noah in two ſeveral Columns (as in the following (b) Manner) it will not be hard to ſay, TABLE the Eleventh.

(b) 1 Adam.	1 Noah.
2 Seth.	2 Shem.
3 Enoſh.	3 Arphaxad.
4 Cainan.	4 Cainan.

how Cainan might be inſerted into the other Side over againſt Cainan the Son of Enoſh, the one being plac'd at the very ſame Diſtance from Noah, which the other ſtands in from Adam. And it being plac'd thus by the Miſtake of one Interpreter, another added the Years, and ſo it continu'd in the Copy.

14. However (c) this may vindicate St. Luke, who mentioning the Anceſtors of our bleſſed SAVIOUR, inſerts Cainan between Arphaxad and Salah. The Account, which he gives, is agreeable to that which is given by the Septuagint in the Book of Geneſis. Before his Time this Verſion was common both among the Jews and Gentiles. It was written in a Language almoſt univerſally known, and particularly ſtudy'd by the learned World; whereas the Hebrew was a dead Language, known only to the Jews, and to but few of them in Compariſon of the reſt. The Evangeliſts therefore writing in Greek, and for the Sake of the Gentiles, who generally underſtood that Language, might make Uſe of that Verſion, which was common among them, as well as among the Jewiſh Helleniſts. The putting down of Cainan, as he found it in a receiv'd Tranſlation, doth not ſpeak the Evangeliſt's Senſe, but the Senſe of thoſe Interpreters, whom he truly cites, and lays before his Reader, without his own Obſervation or Remarks upon them. Not to do this might have brought him into ſome Suſpicion with thoſe, who had the Greek, but not the Hebrew Bible. But to do it as he hath done, ought not to be imputed to him as a Crime, when he there ſpeaks the Senſe of others only, and proceeds on Principles generally own'd and receiv'd. Beſides, he doth not ſay, that one of theſe begat the other, as St. Matthew doth, or that one was the Son of the other, tho' we are forc'd in our Tranſlation to add this Word. Or admitting that the Son of each muſt be imply'd; yet he doth not ſay the real Son; but uſhers in the whole Genealogy with ὡς ἐνομίζετο, as it was ſuppoſed, or as it was reckon'd. And ſo it was, for it was found in their own Writings.

15. But to return from this Digreſſion. As the Septuagint added an hundred Years to the Lives of the Patriarchs before the Birth of their Son mention'd; ſo they generally took off an hundred afterward. And the Reaſon is plain. That the Length of their Lives in general might appear to be the ſame, as they are in the Hebrew Text. And there is no Doubt, but that as the Samaritan Copy had lengthned the Chronology after the Flood almoſt in the ſame Manner with the Septuagint; ſo they contracted ſeveral hundred Years before the Flood, becauſe they would bring the Account ſo much in general nearer to the Truth of the Hebrew Standard, altho' inſtead of mending the Matter, they made it worſe.

16. There is but one Way to account for the other Alterations between the Birth of Methuſelah and the Flood, which is this. That as theſe Tranſlators did not pay ſuch a ſtrict Regard to Truth, as they ought, in a Concern of ſo great a Conſequence as this, but voluntarily ran into Errors in Compliance with the vain Humour of the Times, and a Deſign of Gratifying their own People thereby; ſo it was juſt with GOD to permit them to fall into farther Errors, and ſuch notorious Deluſions, as might utterly deſtroy the divine Authority of their Work, and more effectually eſtabliſh the Authority of the Hebrew Text. Accordingly they agree with the Hebrew in telling us, that all Fleſh was deſtroy'd by the Flood, except Noah and his Family, which were in the Ark; and yet this their Chronology makes Methuſelah to live fourteen Years after the (c) Luke iii. 36. Biſhop Kidder's Demonſtration of the Meſſias, Part 2. Chap. 10.

Flood,

Flood, whilſt they give no Account how he was preſerv'd. The Chronology from the Septuagint ſtands thus,

Gen. v. 27. Methuſelah died, when he was aged	969 Years.
Gen. v. 25. Methuſelah was the Father of Lamech, when he was aged	167 Years.
Gen. v. 28. Lamech was the Father of Noah, when he was aged	188 Years.
Gen. vii. 6, 21. The Flood deſtroy'd all Mankind, when Noah was aged	600 Years.
Total is	955 Years.
So that there remains of Methuſelah's Life	014 Years.

17. From hence (ſaith (d) St. Auguſtine) came that famous Queſtion, Where to lodge Methuſelah all the Time of the Flood? To this he anſwers, that (e) ſome are of Opinion, that he was not upon the Earth, ſince all Fleſh was deſtroy'd, whoſe Nature could not ſuffer them to live under the Water. And therefore they concluded, that he liv'd with his Father Enoch who was tranſlated ſome time before. Theſe Men are unwilling to derogate from the Authority of thoſe Books, which the Church hath receiv'd with more renown'd Eſteem; and think, that the Books of the Jews do miſtake and err, rather than theſe. For (ſay they) it is not credible, that the Seventy two Interpreters, which tranſlated at one Time, and in one Senſe, could err, or would lie and err, where it did not concern them. But that the Jews for Envy, which they bear to us, ſeeing that the Law and the Prophets are come to us by their Interpretation, have chang'd ſome Things in their Books, that the Authority of ours might be leſſen'd. This is the Opinion of ſome. But then he gives us his own in theſe Words. (f) When any Thing is found different in theſe Books, foraſmuch as both cannot be true, as to the Credit of Things paſt; let that Tongue rather be believ'd, out of which a Tranſlation is made into another by an Interpreter. (g) And this Variety of Numbers, which is found between the Hebrew Books and others, if it hath any Thing ſo different, that both cannot be true, the Truth of Things muſt be fetch'd out of that Tongue, from which that which we uſe is tranſlated.

18. To this I cannot but add the Opinion of a late Author, who hath taken a great Deal of Pains to compare the Hebrew, Septuagint, and Samaritan Copies together, to demonſtrate the Corruption of the Hebrew Text, and thereby to invalidate the Authority of the Sacred Scriptures, which by the Bleſſing of GOD we now enjoy, eſpecially becauſe he hath given us an Antidote againſt all his own Poiſon, in theſe Words. (h) The Years added in the Samaritan Pentateuch and Septuagint, to the Accounts of Time from the Hebrew Verity ſince the Deluge, are added without Reaſon, and are contrary to the Truth, and to the ſacred Writings together. For whereas by the Hebrew Verity the Deluge is fix'd; in Caſe theſe eight or nine hundred Years, which the Samaritan and Septuagint have added, are to be allow'd for, all is thereby put into Confuſion, contrary to the Faith and Agreement of all the Copies in the World. So that upon the whole, the intire Force of Reaſoning conſpires to confirm and give Atteſtation to the Hebrew Verity, and conſequently to deſtroy the Authority of the Samaritan and Septuagint, ſo far as they contradict the ſame in Matters herein concern'd.

19. And in another Place, (i) Since by very reaſonable Computations of the Numbers of the Inhabitants of the Earth at the Deluge according to the Hebrew Chronology, they appear to have been ſufficient abundantly to repleniſh the intire Globe, and full as many in Reaſon, as the ſame could ſuſtain, the Septuagint's Addition of near ſix hundred Years in this Period of the World to the Hebrew Accounts is ſo far from clearing Difficulties thereto belonging, that it greatly increaſes the ſame, and enforces the Allowance of more Inhabitants at the Deluge, than we could at all tell, where they could live or be maintain'd. And ſince according to the Hebrew Chronology from the Deluge 'till the Time of Abraham's going into Canaan was the intire Space of 427 Years, and the Lives of Men during that Interval were in a Mean 300 Years long, 'tis eaſy to prove, that there is no Need to recede from that Account, or introduce the additional Years of the Septuagint in that Period, to produce the greateſt Numbers of Men, which in that, or in the immediately ſucceeding Ages any authentick Hiſtories of thoſe antient Times do require us to ſuppoſe.

20. And again, (k) The Hebrew Text of the Old Teſtament, being the Original itſelf, is as reaſonably to be allow'd our moſt authentick Guide in the Chronology of the Old Teſtament, as the Greek Text of the New Teſtament, being the Original it-

ſelf,

ſelf is generally allow'd to be our moſt authentick Guide in the Harmony of the four Evangeliſts. Neither is it more reaſonable to prefer the Septuagint's Tranſlation of the one, than the Vulgar Latin Tranſlation of the other to the Original Hebrew and Greek Copies of the Sacred Scriptures. Thus far once more William againſt Whiſton, or the antient Chriſtian againſt the modern Pagan.

21. And as it hath pleaſed GOD to ſuffer the Authors of the Septuagint Verſion, when they vary'd from the Truth, to fall into ſuch Errors, as might deſtroy their own Authority; ſo hath he ſuffer'd the ſame in the Authors of the Samaritan Verſion. The Hebrew Genealogies are regular and plain. Their Lives were double before the Flood to what they were after it, and then they gradually decreas'd to what they are in this preſent Age; and the Times in which they had Children did bear an agreeable Proportion to the Length of their Lives. When they liv'd nine hundred Years, they had Children at ſixty five and ſeventy Years of Age, and there are none mention'd ſooner. And when their Lives were ſhortned to four hundred Years, they are recorded to have had Children at twenty nine, thirty, thirty two, and thirty five Years of Age. But in the Samaritan Account, among all the Patriarchs after the Flood, when the longeſt Liver did not exceed four hundred and thirty Years, there are but two recorded, who had Children, before they they were an hundred and thirty Years of Age; and in the Years before the Flood, when they frequently liv'd to be above nine hundred Years old, there are but two (and they are the two firſt mention'd) who are recorded to have had any Children after they were ninety Years of Age, and others at fifty three, ſixty two, and ſixty five, which is ſuch an Incoherence, as muſt deſtroy the Credit of this Verſion with any conſiderate Perſon.

22. From what hath been ſaid we may plainly infer, that the Hebrew Text alone contains the true authentick Account, and therefore that the Verſion of the Septuagint, and both the Samaritan Copy and Verſion are falſe. But we may be farther confirm'd in this Opinion by conſidering, that all the other Tranſlations follow the Hebrew. The Targum of Onkelos keeps cloſe to it Word for Word in moſt Parts of the Pentateuch. The Paraphraſe of Jonathan Ben Uzziel and the Jeruſalem Targum confirm the Chronology, and in all other Places they favour the Hebrew more than any other Verſion. The Maſorites find no Cauſe to correct any of their Chronology. Their Ceri and Cethib in all other Parts only correct the plain Erratas of the Scribes, where the Senſe is marr'd. And their Care in Numbering the Books, Words, and Letters prove, that they had the ſame Bible, which we have now. The Latin of St. Jerom and the Perſick Tranſlation confirm our Chronology. The Syriack, Arabick, and Vulgar Latin Verſions, tho' in moſt Parts of the Old Teſtament they copy after the Septuagint, and generally with ſuch a Diſregard to the Hebrew Text, as if they had never ſeen it; yet in the Pentateuch they ſeem to ſtick to that alone. And there is not one Tranſlation, which in the Chronological Part agrees either with the Septuagint or the Samaritan; ſo that each of them muſt ſtand or fall by its own ſingle Credit. Indeed Joſephus in his Antiquities ſometimes favours the Chronology of the Septuagint; but when we conſider that he wrote in Greek, when the Septuagint Verſion was common among all both Jews and Gentiles, and that if he had not comply'd with them in ſome Caſes, he muſt have ſpoil'd the Credit of his own Writings, we can hardly think, that it would have been conſiſtent with common Prudence for him to have done otherwiſe. But tho' (l) in the Beginning of his Hiſtory he complies with the Humour of the Times; yet in other Places he hath given us ſufficient Inſtances of his real Thoughts. In (m) reckoning the Years when the Foundation of the Temple was laid, he places it near the Time mention'd in the Hebrew, allowing only an hundred and twelve Years for his Miſtake in the Time of the Judges, where the Septuagint and the Samaritan Copies are out of the Caſe. And in the ſame Chapter he alſo places the Diſtance between the Creation and the Flood (which is the Caſe in Queſtion) but ſix Years different from the original Account. When (n) he reckons up the Genealogies from Shem to Abraham, he reckons them as in the Hebrew, and when he ſums them up in the whole, he makes but one Variation by ſuppoſing Abraham to be born when Terah was ſeventy Years of Age, which Miſtake was occaſion'd by a falſe Interpretation of (o) one particular Text of Scripture, which at the firſt View ſeems to favour this Opinion.

23. But for the better Inquiry into the Authority of the Septuagint and the Samaritan Verſions, the two following Obſervations may be of Uſe.

24. Firſt, That one of theſe Tranſlations took its Errors from the other. If it had not been thus, it would have been impoſſible for the Septuagint and the Samaritan Verſions ſo to have agreed together in thoſe Numbers, in which they ſo often differ from the Hebrew Text, as may be eaſily obſerv'd by any one, who views the Tables, where they are plac'd together. And therefore in theſe Verſions either the Septuagint copy'd from the Samaritan, or the Samaritan from the Septuagint.

25. But 2dly, The Septuagint did not copy from the Samaritan. It is evident that the Copy from which the Sept. was tranſlated, was not written in the Samaritan, but in the Hebrew Character, from the many Miſtakes (p) which we find in the Greek, occaſion'd only by the likeneſs of the Conſonants in the Babyloniſh Hebrew Character, which are vaſtly different in the other.

(l) Preface and Jewiſh Antiquities, Book 1. Chap. 3, and 4. (m) Book 8. Chap. 2. (n) Book 1. Chap. 7. (o) Gen. xi. 26. (p) As ר for ד, as ם for ס, or ך for ר, and ו for י, or the Contrary.

26. Hence it is evident, that the Samaritan Copy which we now have, is of a later Date than the Septuagint, as copying from thence in ſeveral Places. This takes off much from its Authority, as a Standard to correct others by. For in this Caſe it is no Way material to enquire, Whether the Samaritans had a Copy of the Law ever ſince the Revolt under Jeroboam? For tho' we grant, that they had; yet if this is not to be found, and if that which we now have, appears to be altered and corrupted (q) to ſerve a Turn for the Eſtabliſhing the Authority of their Temple at Garizim, in Oppoſition to the Temple at Jeruſalem, as alſo by (r) Miſtaking of Letters, and (s) Tranſpoſing of whole Places, and varying of others; tho' it may be of Uſe like other Tranſlations to confirm the Hebrew Text, where they agree; yet it can be of no Uſe to correct and amend it, where they differ. The Authority of the Hebrew Text is ſo fully vindicated in the Prolegomena to the Polyglot Bible, and in a ſet Diſcourſe for that Purpoſe; that it is admirable, how any one ſince that Time can attempt to ſhake it. And the Defects of the Samaritan Verſion is ſo fully detected in another ſet Diſcourſe, and ſo many Variations in every Chapter ſhewn by Morinus in the Appendix to thoſe noble Volumes, that he who compares it with the other Works of the ſame Author, can never pretend to ſet it up for a Standard to try the Original by. As to the Samaritan Verſion, which is likewiſe added to the Hebrew Samaritan Text, I know of no Way to gueſs at its Antiquity, except (t) by comparing it with the Chaldee and Syriack, which if we do, then the Affinity of the Language with the Chaldee, will ſhew it to be long ſince that Countrey was ſubdued by the King of Aſſyria. The (u) Corruption of many Chaldee Words, which are intire in Onkelos, and the (x) inſerting Words of their own will ſhew it to be of a later Date than that Verſion. And the late Words taken from other Languages will plainly ſhew it to be later than either the Chaldee or Syriack Verſions. I have

He that will compare theſe four Languages together, may obſerve, that the Chaldee and Syriack agree more with the Hebrew than the Samaritan. The Chaldee hath but one Word, viz. Num. 10. which is not derived from the Hebrew, either in the Text, or from ſome other Word in the Hebrew Language, and the Syriack hath not one. But the Samaritan hath two, viz. Num. 2, and 10. The Syriack hath no leſs than fourteen Words, which are the ſame with the Chaldee; but the Samaritan hath but ſeven, viz. Num. 4, 6, 9, 14, 15, 19, 20. and it never agrees exactly with the Hebrew in any of the reſt. And therefore as the Samaritan Language differs more from the Chaldee, than the Syriack doth, and more from the Hebrew than either; ſo we muſt allow a greater Time to make the Alterations, and conſequently is of much later Date than the Syriack. Neither can we gueſs from the Language itſelf, that it is more antient than the Targum of Jonathan. For the Truth of this I appeal to the firſt Word of the Bible, In the Beginning. This in Onkelos is בקדמין from the Hebrew Word קדם before or formerly, Onkelos *never leaves out the middle Letter; ſo that from him we plainly find the Derivation. given (y) a few Inſtances in the Margin; and leave any one to Judge, what Antiquity that Verſion muſt be of, where (z) Tidal is expreſly mention'd as the King or the Sultan of the Hamites. We may therefore as well ſet up to correct Greek Authors by their Latin Verſions, or Latin Authors by their Engliſh Verſions, or the Alcoran of Mahomet by the Latin and French Tranſlations, as to correct the Sacred Text by any of theſe. Their Antiquity may be of good Uſe, whilſt they lead us to thoſe lively Oracles, which were committed to the Care of the Jews, and from them were handed down to us. But if a Suggeſtion, that the Jews had corrupted them, ſhall be ſufficient to attempt daily Alterations, inſtead of fixing the Standard, we ſhall confound it; inſtead of one Bible, we ſhall have as many as there are Criticks. We ſhall ſearch after Truth until we have loſt it, and play with this ſacred Light, until we have put it out. And whilſt we arraign GOD's Providence in ſuffering ſuch Corruptions to be made, and the World be impoſed on with a Scripture, as coming from him, a great Part whereof was none of his, we too juſtly provoke him to enter into Judgment for ſuch unpreſidented Impieties, if not to remove his Candleſtick out of its Place, and give it to a Nation, which will make a better Uſe of it.

But theſe and ſuch like additional Alterations, which were made in the* Samaritan Language, were made into ſuch Words, as were uſual in the Hebrew, and in a different Senſe, which ſhews, that all the Remains of the Hebrew Language were loſt, before the Alterations were made. And therefore the Language muſt be of a later Date. And tho' the ſmall, or no Affinity of the Samaritan with the Arabick, where it differs from the reſt, is a good Argument to conclude it not to be ſo late, as when the Arabick Language was in Uſe; yet by the Nature of the Samaritan Language itſelf, it ſeems very clear, that that Tranſlation could not be made before the fourth Century, or perhaps not long before the Time of St. Hierome, by whom (I ſuppoſe) it was firſt quoted. And the broken Hebrew, which runs through all the Parts of the Hebrew Samaritan Text, together with ſeveral exotick Words, the continual Varying from the Hebrew Text, and keeping ſo exactly to the Samaritan Verſion, ſeem to be ſufficient Reaſons to conclude, that the Samaritan Verſion was made in a very late Century, only to eſtabliſh the Samaritan Worſhip, and then the Hebrew Samaritan Text was impoſed upon the World to eſtabliſh this Verſion. So that it cannot be of any greater Authority than the Jewiſh Talmud to correct the Hebrew Text by. And as the Primitive Fathers, who ſaw it, did always reject its divine Authority, and always kept to the Hebrew, which we now have; ſo we have the utmoſt Reaſon, to follow their Examples. I ſhall therefore only add the Teſtimony of the Editors of the Polyglot Bible. De Samaritanis Verſionibus, Sect. 17. For tho' the Word* שליט in the Chaldee Language, Dan. ii. 10. ſignifies a Potentate; yet it was always uſed to ſignify ſuch as were of a lower Degree, and under a King, as Dan. iii. 2. they are called שלטונין. The Rulers of the Provinces among the Chaldeans. And it was uſed to ſignify a ſupream Governour only in much later Ages. Unde Imperator Turcicus dicitur Sultan, Buxtorfii Lexicon Talmudicum.

27. The Sum of all is this, that the Heb. Text, which we have in our common Bibles is the only antient and authentick Standard, and is the same, which was written by Moses. That the Septuagint Version was written in the Time of Ptolomy Philadelphus King of Egypt, when the Translators were too negligent, and did comply too far with the vain Humour of those Times. That these Translators copy'd not from the Samaritan, but from the present Hebrew Character, since there are frequent Mistakes occasion'd by the likeness of Letters in the present Hebrew, which bear no Resemblance in the other Character. That the Samaritan Version was not made, until the Romans had been Lords of those Countries for some Time, and had introduc'd several Latin Words into that Language, and that it was a corrupt Translation of the Septuagint, by such who designed to justify their Separation from the Jews, and wrested some Texts for that Purpose. That by their Separation from the Jews, their long Captivity, their Mixing with other People, and their various Sorts of Idolatry occasion'd thereby, and by their Neglect of the Worship of the true GOD they had lost the Book of the Law; as the Jews had lost theirs, before it was found in the Time of Josiah. That the Hebrew being now a dead Language, and the Schism and Hatred between the Jews and the Samaritans increasing, some Person unknown translated the Samaritan Version into Hebrew the better to justify that Version, and lay aside the true antient Text, and the better to colour this Design, he frequently made Use of the Words and Sentences, as they are in the old Hebrew Bible; tho' he seems to be a careless Transcriber from a very corrupt Hebrew Copy. That the Septuagint Chronology since the Flood being in great Esteem, the Samaritan Translator did not think fit to vary from it. But there being still some Remains of a Tradition among them, that Abraham might be born about two thousand Years after the Creation, they were also willing to come as near to it as possible, for Fear of giving Offence to their own Country-Men. And that this was was the Reason, why they not only shortned the Lives of the Antediluvian Patriarchs; but also omitted the second Cainan mention'd after the Flood by the Septuagint. If this is the true Account (as I very believe it is, and that the contrary cannot be prov'd) the Reader may judge, of what slender Authority the Samaritan Copy and Version must be, when it is set up as a Standard, whereby to correct our present Books of Moses.

CHAP. VI.

Farther Proofs concerning the Time of the Flood.

AS the Time of the Flood according to the Hebrew Account is (as I suppose) fully confirm'd by what hath been already mentioned in the former Chapter, and consequently, that the Authority of the Septuagint and Samaritan Versions, where they differ from the Hebrew, is fully confuted; so, I suppose, that it may not be disagreeable to the Reader, to establish the Truth of the Hebrew Chronology, as far as it relates to the Time of the Flood from the Testimonies even of (a) Heathen antient Authors, of which there are so many collected by our own (b) eminent Divines, that they put this Matter out of Dispute.

2. Among the Latins Varro was always accounted the greatest Person for sound Learning of any, that were ever bred at Rome, and he (as (c) a learned Prelate assures us) testifies, that there were about sixteen hundred Years between the first Flood and the Olympiads. And as the first Olympiad happen'd to be in the Year of the Julian Period 2938; so if the Year of the Flood in these Tables, which is 2361. is substracted from it, the Remainder is 1577. which is the true Distance between the Flood and the first Olympiad, and is within half a Century of what is mention'd by Varro, and consequently as near to it as possible; but this Number is exceeded by the Septuagint above 850 Years.

3. The next Country in our Travels from Italy toward the East is Greece. And here (d) Aristotle, who was the first Greecian, that ever taught the Eternity of the World contrary to the History of Moses, is the Man, who furniſheth us with an Argument to ſupport the Moſaical Chronology. He (e) took Care to ſend over into Greece the Aſtronomical Obſervations of the Chaldeans, by which it appear'd, that Babylon was taken by Alexander the Great about 1903 Years after its Foundation. Now this Calculation exactly agrees with that of Moſes, who (f) gives us the Deſcription of the Tower of Babel, or Babylon, and explains the Original of the Name of that City by the Confuſion of Tongues, which then happen'd. Now Babylon was taken by Alexander in the 4390th Year of the Julian Period, from whence if we ſubſtract 1903, the Remainder is 2487. And according to theſe Tables the Diſperſion from Babylon happen'd in the Year of the Julian Period 2493; ſo that the City was (g) finiſh'd ſix Years before, and they ſpent theſe ſix Years in Building the Tower to that prodigious Height, of which it afterward appear'd to be. And this may be another Argument to prove, that I have plac'd the Diſperſion from Babylon at the right Time, and that it ought not to be thirty Years before at the Birth of Peleg, as others have ſuppos'd. However we may thus prove (by the true and genuine Aſtronomical Obſervations of the Chaldeans, which the Children of Iſrael were altogether unacquainted with, when the Septuagint Verſion was written) that Moſes in the Hebrew Text follow'd a Calculation, which was then generally known in his Time. And it muſt be very admirable, that the Heavens in their Motions ſhould enter into a Confederacy with Moſes to juſtify a Chronology invented by him, unleſs the GOD, who made the Heavens, directed him what he ſhould write.

4. And as we are come from Greece into Chaldea; ſo it will be neceſſary to inquire, Whether we can there find any Footſteps of the Flood, or of the Ages before it? As to the Flood it is prov'd by (h) ſeveral Authors, that the Chaldeans had ſome Notion of it, and that among them the Memory of Noah was preſerv'd under the Fable of Oannes, which had Part of a Fiſh and Part of a Man, as is evident from the Fragments of Apollodorus, Abydenus, and Alexander Polyhiſtor, preſerv'd in Euſebius's Greek Chronica. Beſides, Xiſuthrus is the ſame with Noah; ſince if we change one Name for the other, the whole Hiſtory of the Flood and of Noah's being ſav'd in the Ark may be found in the remaining Fragments of Beroſus and Abydenus. As particularly (i) that GOD reveal'd to Xiſuthrus, that a great Deluge ſhould deſtroy Men from the Earth, and begin on the fifteenth Day of the Month Dæſius, and therefore Xiſuthrus was commanded to ſave himſelf and his Family, by entering into an Ark or Ship, and to take with him into the Ark all Sorts of Birds and Beaſts, with neceſſary Food for himſelf and them. Which being done the Flood came, according as it had been foretold. And after the Rain had ceas'd, Xiſuthrus ſent out a Bird to ſee, if the Waters were abated, which return'd to him having found nothing to reſt upon. And after ſome Time he ſent out another, which return'd the ſecond Time but with dirty Feet, whereby he knew, that the Waters were abated. And after this he ſent out the Bird the third Time, which return'd not to him any more. That after this Xiſuthrus open'd the Ark, and ſaw that the Ground was dry; ſo he, and his Wife, and Daughter, and the Pilot of the Ark came out, and then Xiſuthrus raiſed an Altar and offer'd Sacrifices to the Gods; which being done, he and they diſappeared, and were never ſeen again. His Children alſo came out and ſacrific'd, and found, that the Ark reſted on one of the Gordyean Mountains, and Part of it continu'd in being, when this was written, And that after this Xiſuthrus's Children journy'd toward Babylon, which City they built with ſeveral others, and alſo founded ſeveral Temples.

5. And as this Tradition of the Flood is clear and plain; ſo it is alſo as evident, that they had a Notion of the Ages before it. And here we are at firſt View preſented with (k) an unmeaſurable Account of Time among them in their firſt Dynaſties, where the Time of their firſt Kings are reckon'd not by Years; but by Σάροι, Νέροι, and Σῶσοι. Now according to them every Σάρος contain'd 3600 Years, Νῆρος 600, and Σῶρος 60. Here is a very large Sum for the Chaldean Dynaſties, when they reckon'd 120 Σάροι from the Beginning of the Reign of Alorus or Adam, to the End of the Reign of Xiſuthrus or Noah, which, according to their Computation, reckoning for every Σάρος 3600 Years makes up 432000 Years. But then they confute themſelves, when to this vaſt Number of Years they allow but ten Kings or Dynaſties; and ſo many Patriarchs there are between Adam and Noah incluſive of both. Now by Years according to this Account it is plain, that they could not mean ſo large a Space, as we compute now. For who can imagine, that each of theſe ten Kings, namely, Alorus, and thoſe ten from him to Xiſuthrus could reign one with another 43200 Years? which muſt be ſo according to this Computation; ſince 120 Σάροι (reckoning for every Σάρος 3600 Years) make up 432000 Years, the tenth Part whereof is 43200. There have been only two Ways thought on of Dealing with theſe Computations. The firſt is the wholly Rejecting them as fabulous, and founded on no Evidence or Records of Hiſtory; and only granting, that they (being ſo near the Place of the Settlement of Noah and his Poſterity after the Flood) might retain the Memory not only of the Flood, (of which it is evident, that they had ſeveral Remainders preſerv'd in their Traditions) but likewiſe of the Ages of Men preceding the Flood, wherein they were right, reckoning from Alorus the firſt to Xiſuthrus, that is from Adam to Noah ten Generations; but being wholly ignorant of the Names of theſe ten Perſons, and the Times in which they lived, through the Unfaithfulneſs of Tradition, they took the Liberty not only of coining Names, but alſo of ſetting thoſe Ages to them, which they themſelves pleaſed. And to this Purpoſe (l) Scaliger obſerves, that ſome of their firſt Kings are reckon'd before the Flood; which, ſaith he, is deny'd by Georgius Syncellus without any Reaſon. Thus far then we may admit of the Chaldean Dynaſties, as to ſome Part of their Tradition; but rejecting their Names and Computations as fabulous. The other Way of Explaining their Dynaſties is by the ſeveral Methods of Computation among them. For the learned Monks Panodorus and Anianus underſtood theſe vaſt Sums not of Years but of Days, and ſo they make a Σάρος to contain 120 Months of thirty Days each, in all 3600 Days (which, as Scaliger obſerves, make ten Chaldean Years) and a Νῆρος 20 equal Months, and a Σῶσος 2, according to which 120 Σάροι make but 1200 Years. But this Number will not agree with any remarkable Epocha. And therefore the learned Salmaſius gives us (m) another Computation, according to whom every Σάρος contain'd no leſs than 6000 Years, as the Toman among the Perſians contain'd ten thouſand. That they might put Years for Days is no Wonder, ſince the Word in the Chaldean Language, which is put for a Year, ſignifies properly only a Revolution, and if meant of the Sun (as no Doubt it is) may ſignify either a diurnal or an annual Revolution. According to this Reckoning 120 Σάροι make 1973 Julian Years, and 348 Days, or near 1974 Julian Years. But neither did this Account any Way agree with the Diſtance of Time from the Creation to the Flood, either according to the Hebrew or the Septuagint or the Samaritan Pentateuch. And therefore ſince other Perſons, when they reckon'd the Reign of theſe ten Kings from the Creation to the Flood, could never give a ſatisfactory Account of their Computations, I hope, that I may be excuſed in fixing this Epocha from the Time of the Creation of the World to the Time when Noah ended his Reign, that is, when he died, which was (n) 350 Years after the Flood, and in the 2006th Year after the Creation, or thirty two Years after theſe 120 Σάροι ended. And thus, if according to Salmaſius each Σάρος conſiſted of 6000 Days, or ſomething more than 16 Julian Years, then 120 Σάροι will conſiſt of 720000 Days, which make near 1974 Julian Years, and differs but about two Σάροι from the Time mention'd, and this made them reckon (o) 120, as the neareſt round Number, which did correſpond to it. And thus the Diſtance of the Time from the Creation of the World to the Death of Noah is nearly fix'd from the Remains of Chaldean Antiquity.

6. From Chaldea let us now go down into Perſia. And here we find them reckoning the twelve Signs of the Heavens in a different Manner from the weſtern Parts of the World. For whereas we reckon Aries the firſt Sign, and Taurus the ſecond, they (p) reckon'd Taurus the firſt Sign, and Gemini the ſecond. The Reaſon why the Europeans reckon'd Aries to be the firſt Sign, was becauſe in the Time of Hipparchus the famous Aſtronomer, who firſt brought Aſtronomy into any regular Method or Perfection, the firſt Star of Aries had the ſame Longitude with the Point of the Equator, where the Ecliptick Line cuts it, and from whence the Paſſage of the Sun over it begins the Vernal Quarter. And we may conclude, that the Perſians began with Taurus for a like Reaſon. Now in the Beginning of the Bull there is a famous Star of the firſt Magnitude, which we call The Bull's Eye; and the Arabians call it (q) Aldebaran or The Leader, as if it introduc'd or lead up the other Conſtellations, ſo that from thence they began to compute or reckon the twelve Signs. This Star was in ſo great Eſteem among them, that ſeveral of (r) the Arabians worſhipped it. And as the Perſians were very famous Aſtronomers, as appears from (s) ſeveral Books on this Subject tranſlated out of the Perſick Language into Latin; ſo it is probable, that they might obſerve the Preceſſion of the Equinox, and take an Account of its Variation. And as it is probable, that they would fix their Computation from the moſt antient Time, which they could reckon, and it is certain that they had a Notion of the Flood and of the Age of Noah, who was preſerv'd in the Ark, and that this might be reckon'd by them as the Beginning of the new World, and that all the Aſtronomical Accounts of the Antediluvian

World

World might be obliterated by Length of Time; ſo it is as certain, that at the Birth of Noah, this Star had the ſame Longitude with the Point of the Vernal Equinox, or as we now call it, was in the firſt Degree of Aries; which is the Reaſon, why they call'd it The Leader, or Director of the Reſt, and had it in ſo much Veneration.

7. To this let us add the Notion, which the Antients had of the Pleiades, as cold watry Stars. The (t) Talmudiſts ſay, that unleſs there was the Heat of Orion, the World could not ſubſiſt becauſe of the Cold of the Pleiades; and unleſs there was the Cold of the Pleiades, the World could not ſubſiſt becauſe of the Heat of Orion. The Greeks call them Ὑάδες Hyades from their Verb ὕω to rain. And the Latins call them (u) rainy, ſad, and watry Stars. Theſe Stars were much taken Notice of in the Time of (x) Job, and (y) in later Ages in the Eaſt. And it is alſo obſervable, that in the Year of the Flood, theſe ſeven Stars were in the ſame Longitude with the Vernal Equinoctial Point, or in the firſt Degree of Aries, as the Bull's Eye was at the Birth of Noah; and their knowing that it was thus by Aſtronomical Computations from the Time of the Flood, might give Occaſion for their Reckoning them as a watery Conſtellation. And as the Perſians (z) were the Offspring of Elam the Son of Shem, and Grandſon of Noah, and ſeem to have been ſoon ſettled not far from the Place where the Ark, landed in peaceable and quiet Habitations, and a great Part of their Country lay open to the Sea, not only upon the South, but alſo upon the Eaſt and Weſt; ſo it is the more probable, that they might retain the Learning, which their Anceſtors had ever ſince the Flood, and it is moſt certain, that they had greater Opportunities to improve their Aſtronomical Obſervations, than any People, who liv'd in an uneven Country.

8. From Perſia let us return into Egypt. And here we have ſeveral Accounts of 36525 Years, of 27500 Years, of 23000 Years, of 11340 Years, and of 10000 Years. All which, as they do far exceed the Chronology mention'd in the Hebrew Text; ſo the Additions in the Septuaginat and the Samaritan Copies ſignify nothing to mend it; but the largeſt of them come ſeveral thouſand Years ſhort of the Egyptian Computations.

9. But that the vaſt Computation of the Egyptian Antiquity, and their exorbitant Dynaſties may be reduc'd to ſome Proportion, and in ſome Meaſure may be reconcil'd to Truth, it will be requiſite to obſerve the great Variety of Months and Years among the Egyptians in thoſe Times. The (a) Months in all Ages were either Lunar or Solar. The Lunar were either from the Moon's returning again to the ſame Point of the Zodiack, call'd περίοδος σελήνης, which was in leſs than eight and twenty Days, and was of no Uſe in civil Computations; or elſe from one Conjunction of the Moon with the Sun to another, which was call'd σύνοδος σελήνης, which was alſo of no Uſe until ſuch Time as Aſtronomy was brought into ſome Method; or elſe from the firſt Appearance of the Moon, which was generally on the ſecond or third Day after its Conjunction, which was obſerv'd not by the Jews only, but perhaps by all Nations in the moſt antient Times. The Solar Months were either natural, ſuch as were deſcrib'd by the Sun's Paſſage from one Sign of the Zodiack to another, of which they could have no Uſe until they had found out the Sun's unequal Motion, and knew how to calculate it; or elſe the Solar Months were civil, whereby the Months were equally divided into thirty Days each, as in the Greecian and Egyptian Year. The Egyptian Prieſts, who had the Cuſtody of ſuch Records and Hiſtories, which they moſt boaſted of, and being deſirous to be thought the moſt learned and antient People in the World, altered the Lunar Month to a Solar of thirty Days, and then they boaſted, that they had found out the Courſe of the Sun, and made their hiſtorical Year to conſiſt only of a Solar Month; and not only by this Diſtinction, but alſo frequently by direct Forgeries, unknown to Strangers, impoſed upon thoſe, who enquir'd of them concerning their Hiſtory. That among them the Time of thirty Days was accounted a Year, is is plain from (b) the Teſtimony of Plutarch, who ſaith, that the Egyptians had at firſt a Year conſiſting of one Month, and after that of four. And that this Method was us'd in the ſacred hiſtorical Accounts, is evident from the ſame Author, who (c) ſpeaking of the Egyptians great Pretence to Antiquity, adds this Reaſon for it, They reckon an infinite Number of Years in their Accounts, becauſe they reckon their Months inſtead of Years.

10. Firſt, (d) Altho' the Egyptians in their latter Times have maintain'd, that the World was eternal; yet they have ſufficiently acknowledg'd, that it had a Beginning, ſince they make no mention of any Thing before their thirty Dynaſties, which in all did at the moſt amount to no more than 36525 Years, which according to their Lunar Years of thirty Days, makes 2976 Julian Years and 266 Days, and if reckon'd from the Birth of Noah, Anno Mundi 1057. ends in the 26th Year of CHRIST; but if reckon'd from the Creation of the World (which was moſt certainly their Computation) ends in the Reign of David King of Israel. And as the Egyptians reckon'd thirty Kings succeeding each other in that Time; so (e) the Scripture reckons thirty three Generations from Adam to David inclusive of both.

11. The second Account is that of Diodorus Siculus, who tells us, (f) that the Gods and Heroes reign'd in Egypt for the Space of near 18000 Years, and that the last of them was Orus the Son of Isis, and from the Reign of Men in Egypt he reckons 9500 Years, or there about, to the Time of his Entrance into Egypt, which was the third Year of the 180th Olympiad, or the 694th Year from the Building of Rome, and consequently in the Year of the Julian Period 4659. Now supposing these to be Lunar Years of thirty Days, their 18000 Years make 1478 Julian Years, and 150 Days, and their 9500 Years make 780 Julian Years, and 145 Days; so that the whole makes 2258 Julian Years, and 295 Days, or near 2259 Julian Years, which being substracted from the abovemention'd Period 4569, the Remainder is the Year of the Julian Period 2400, or 38 Years after the Flood, when Salah the Son of Arphaxad and Grandson of Shem, according (g) to these Tables, was one Year old. And as we may suppose, that Ham the Father of the Egyptians might have Grandchildren at the same Time; so their Authority was no longer confin'd as Parents to a single Family, but extended to their Grandchildren, and from hence the Date of their Reigns begin. And thus Mizraim (h) the Son of Ham might be born about the same Time with Arphaxad the Son of Shem; and Thoth or Athothes, who was the Son of Menes, Misraim, or Osiris, might be born about the same Time with Salah.

12. Thirdly, Diodorus Siculus tells us also, that the Egyptians reckon little less than 23000 Years between the Time of Orus the Son of Osiris or Mizraim, and the Conquest of Egypt by Alexander the Great. Now Alexander the Great conquer'd Egypt in the 417th Year of Nabonassar, or in the Year of the Julian Period 4383. But supposing also these to be Lunar Years of thirty Days, their 23000 Years make 1889 Julian Years after the Flood. And if Orus was born about the same Time with Salah, or about 37 Years after the Flood; then he was about 97 Years of Age at this Time, which (as Men usually in that Age of the World liv'd near four hundred Years) was a fit Time for some remarkable Action of Orus, from whence this Epocha commenc'd.

13. Fourthly, Herodotus (i) tells us, that he was inform'd by the Egyptians, that from their first King, or Priest of Vulcan, 'till the Time of Sethos (in whose Time Senacherib attempted the Conquest of Egypt) there had pass'd 341 Generations, and as many Kings and High Priests, and 11340 Years, reckoning three Generations to make up a Century. Now if we understand this prodigious Computation according to our common Form of Years, we may suspect the Egyptians of an Intention to deceive Herodotus and the credulous Greeks, and for this Purpose to have us'd an Equivocation, which in some Sense may be reconcileable to Truth. For according to this Account of a Solar Month or Year of thirty Days, 100 Years make 3000 Days, and a Generation one Thousand, and so many Days the Kings, or Priests of Vulcan may be allow'd to reign. According to this Reckoning 340 Generations of 1000 Days each, make up 340000 Days, to which if we add the 200 Days, which Sethos is suppos'd to have now reign'd upon Senacherib's Invasion, we have 340200 Days, which make up those Years of 30 Days each 11340 in the whole, and is the Number assign'd by Herodotus. Now Senacherib invaded Egypt in the Year of the Julian Period 4002; and these 12340 Years make 931 Julian Years, and 152 Days, which being substracted from 4002 leaves the Year of the Julian Period 3071, or the Year of the World 2366, which happen'd about 147 Years before the Departure of the Israelites out of Egypt; and in a Time when the Egyptians were freed from the Wars occasion'd by the Pastor Kings, and so were more at leasure to settle their religious and domestick Affairs.

14. Lastly, Diodorus Siculus tells us also, that the Egyptians reckon no less than 10000 Years between their Hercules and Hercules Bœotius the Son of Alcmena. Now Hercules Bœotius liv'd but one Generation before the Trojan War, for which we may allow 30 Years; and therefore it must be about the Year of the Julian Period 3500. But supposing also these to be Solar Years or Months of 30 Days, these 10000 Years make 821 Julian Years, and 130 Days, which being substracted from the before mention'd Period 3500, the Remainder is the Year of the Julian Period 2679, or the Year after the Flood 317, Anno Mundi 1974, about which Time we may reckon, that this Assis, or Hercules Egyptius, was born. So that he was cotemporary with Terah the Father of Abraham, and if we allow him to live about so many Years as Terah liv'd, which was (k) 205 Years; his Age will be thus fix'd. Born Anno Mundi 1974. (l) Was made Governour or Ruler of lower Egypt, Anno 2131. Ætatis suæ 157. Maintain'd a vigorous War in Egypt for nine and forty Years, from whence he drew off his Men, Anno Mundi 2180. Ætatis suæ 206. and died soon after.

15. Another Form of Years in Use among the Egyptians was that, which consisted of four equal Months, or 120 Days. Thus Plutarch saith, ſaith, (m) The Egyptians had a Year at firſt conſiſting of one Month, and after that of four. Diodorus Siculus alſo (n) gives an Account of this Kind of Year among the Egyptians. And Solinus (o) ſeems to mention this as the only Year in Requeſt among them. And St. Auguſtine ſaith, (p) that the Egyptians are affirm'd to have had formerly ſuch ſhort Years, that they were ended in four Months; ſo that their fuller and truer Year, which is now common both to them and us, contains three of their antient Years. This renders the Egyptian Account more uncertain than before, and only leaves us to gueſs with the greateſt Probability of Reaſon, what Form of Year was meant by them in their ſeveral Computations.

(e) Compare Gen. v. 1. to the End. Gen. xi. 10. to the End. Matt. i. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. (f) Stillingfleet's Origines Sacræ, Book 1. Chap. 5. Sect. 1, and 2. Diodorus Siculus, Lib. 1. (g) Table 14. (h) Table 11. (i) Euterpe. (k) Gen. xi. 32. (l) Table 17.

16. As for Example. Firſt, Diodorus Siculus (q) ſpeaks very much in Favour of the old Egyptian Kings and Laws, and produceth this from the Egyptian Prieſts, as the beſt Evidence of the excellent Temper of their Government, that they had Kings of their own Nation for the Space of 4700 Years until the Time of Cambyſes's Inroad into Egypt, which was in the third Year of the 63d Olympiad, and in the Year of the Julian Period 4188. Now theſe 4700 Years, taking them for 120 Days each, make 1544 Julian Years and 53 Days, which being ſubſtracted from the Julian Period 4188. the Remainder is 2644. or the Year of the World 1948. which falls in with the Reign of Thoth or Athothes, the Son of Mizraim and Grandſon of Ham, who was always look'd upon by the Egyptians with the greateſt Eſteem, as the Settler of their Government and Conſtitution, inſomuch that the firſt Month of the Year was call'd by his Name.

17. Secondly, Voſſius (r) tells us, that we are to reckon by theſe Years, what the Egyptians report of the long Lives of their antient Kings, when they attribute to each of them the Space of 300 Years. For theſe 300 Years, making 98 Julian Years and 215 Days, might well agree to the ordinary Age of Mens Lives in thoſe Times, eſpecially before Moſes, when they generally lived longer than we do now.

18. And Thirdly, Diodorus Siculus alſo mentions from the Death of Proteus to his own Time 3400 Years, which was in the third Year of the 180th Olympiad, or the Year of the Julian Period 4569. Now theſe 3400 Years taking them for 120 Days each, make 1117 Julian Years, and 16 Days, which ſubſtracted from the Year of the Julian Period 4659, the Remainder is 3542, for the Year of the Julian Period, which happens to be in the Year of the World 2839, when Elon judg'd Iſrael, about which Time Proteus may be ſuppos'd to live.

19. The laſt Form of Years in Uſe among the Egyptians is their Solar Year, which as it comes near the Truth in Reſpect of Time; ſo it will bring us nearer the Truth in Reſpect of Hiſtory, and be of greater Uſe than either of the other to confirm the ſacred Chronology of the Hebrew Text. Now (s) it is agreed by moſt, that when the Egyptians had found out the Form of the Year by the Courſe of the Sun, (which is attributed by (t) Diodorus to the Heliopolitan Prieſts) yet the Year in common Uſe was only of 360 Days, which in any great Period of Time muſt of Neceſſity cauſe a monſtrous Confuſion, becauſe of the Change of the Months to the different Seaſons; which Defect the Egyptian Prieſts at laſt obſerving, and that the Seaſons had been twice thus alter'd, ſaw a Neceſſity of adding five Days to the End of the Year, which were therefore call'd ἐπαγόμεναι, or ſuperadded, and implies, that they were not antiently in Uſe among them, being afterward inſerted to make up the full Courſe of the Year. Of this the Egyptians give an Account (as (u) Plutarch tells us) under this Fable. Mercury (that is Thoth or Athothes, the Grandſon of Ham) being once at Dice with the Moon, he got from her a ſeventy ſecond Part of the Year. This he afterward added to the three hundred and ſixty Days, which were antiently the Days of the Year, and they call'd them ἐπαγόμεναι, and therein they celebrated the Feſtivals of their Gods. This Year differs from the Julian Year but ſix Hours; ſo that it only adds another Year in 1460 Years, which is ſo ſmall a Difference in ſo great a Run of Time, that it can make no great Alteration in the following Tables; and therefore we muſt at preſent have Recourſe to this Sort of Year, as to that which will beſt ſerve to ſettle all Diſputes.

20. As (x) Moſes gives us an Account before the Flood of the Poſterity of Seth unto Noah; and from thence to Abraham; ſo (y) Sanchoniatho (z) hath given us an Account of the Poſterity of Cain until the Flood, and for three Generations after, which ends with Θωύθ, or Thoth King of Egypt. And as the Deſign of Moſes was to confirm the true Religion; ſo Sanchoniatho, being a Pagan, writes profeſſedly in Defence of Idolatry. Accordingly he gives an Account, how Idolatry began and increaſed in the Family of Cain, and the Wickedneſs of thoſe Generations, which is ſo far from Contradicting the Scriptures, that it very much confirms them. As Moſes gives an Account of the Creation; ſo Sanchoniatho affirms, That the Principle of the Univerſe was a dark and windy Air, or a Wind made of dark Air, and a turbulent Evening Chaos, and that theſe Things were boundleſs, and for a long Time had no Shape nor Figure, and that from

hence were all Things produced. As Moſes gives an Account of Adam and Eve; ſo Sanchoniatho tells us, That the two firſt Mortals were Protogonus Πρωτόγονος, and Æon, Αἰών. And Æon found out the Way of taking Food from Trees. This agrees with the Account, which we have in the Scriptures concerning the Fall of our firſt Parents; and is (as he calls it) The firſt Generation of Mortals. And thoſe, who were begotten of them, were called Γένος. and Γενεά, or Cainus and Caina, and dwelt in Phœnicia. As Moſes reckons up ten Generations from Adam to Noah, who was the Grandfather of Mizraim in the Scriptures; ſo Sanchoniatho reckons up ten Generations from Πρωτόγονος. Protogonus to Οὐρανὸς, or Uranus, the Grandfather of Μισὼρ, or Mizraim, and Great Grandfather of Thoth and the Κάβειροι Cabiri, by whom theſe Records were firſt kept, and from whom they were handed to others; ſo that this Account inſtead of confuting the Scriptures, as it was intended, doth very much confirm them. It may be (a) objected, that we have not in Sanchoniatho one Word concerning the Deluge. And indeed this is no Wonder. The Deluge was a Judgment upon the idolatrous World, and ſwept it away. The Worſhippers of the true GOD gloried in this, and reproach'd the Heathens with it; ſo that they were deſirous to conceal ſuch a Matter of Shame to themſelves.

21. But as the Hiſtory of Sanchoniatho confirms the Scriptues; ſo we have no ſufficient Ground to disbelieve it. Thoth the Grandſon of Ham, and thoſe who liv'd with him, might very well be ſuppoſed to be told by Noah, or at leaſt by Ham the Tranſactions, which happen'd before the Flood. When theſe Things were freſh in their Memory, Thoth took Care to have them recorded at Berytus, and depoſited theſe Records to be kept by the Cabiri, who were appointed by him to ſet down theſe Antiquities, before he went into Egypt to be King there. Now Sanchoniatho had a peculiar Advantage in this, that not only his own Time was many Centuries before all Hiſtorians, that we have now extant; but he alſo ſearch'd theſe Records at his own Town at Berytus, which muſt be 800 Years, or more elder than his Time, and he had alſo view'd and compar'd his Hiſtory with the Original Records kept at Dioſpolis or No Ammon in the Upper Egypt. And as it is uncertain, whether the Records at Beritus were continu'd down any longer than the Time of Thoth; ſo we find, that the Hiſtory of Sanchoniatho ends with him.

22. To this Account of Sanchoniatho let us add (b) the (c) Chronological Table of Eratoſthenes, who begins it with Menes or Mizraim, which was one Generation before the Time, when Sanchoniatho ended, and gives us an exact Account of eight and thirty Kings, and how long each of them reign'd, and will more fully confirm the ſacred Chronology of the Hebrew Text. Any authentick Record of the Egyptian Kings, which will outweigh, or at leaſt counterballance the Authority of their Prieſts, will do very good Service to any impartial Judge, if it ſhall be found to agree with Moſes and Sanchoniatho, and alſo with the Greek and Weſtern Hiſtorians. All theſe valuable Conſiderations may be met with in the Series of the Egyptian Kings of 1055 Years, who reign'd in Thebes or Dioſpolis, or Thebais, or The Upper Egypt, which was careſully gather'd and ſet in Order by Eratoſthenes Cyrenæus at the Command of Ptolomæus Euergetes, illuſtrated with a Greek Interpretation of their Egyptian Names, which were commonly ſignificant in the Nature of Titles. This Eratoſthenes liv'd about 265 Years before the Vulgar Account of CHRIST's Birth, his Credit was great and unblemiſh'd, his Education was not entangl'd with the Intereſts of the Egyptian Religion. He was juſtly reckon'd a Maſter of all Sorts of Learning, and was the Keeper of the famous Alexandrian Library, and could eaſily inform himſelf and ſatisfy others by what Authority of Books he compos'd the Catalogue of Kings, which he left us, and theſe Books were always open for the Peruſal of others, who could eaſily have detected any Falſhood. He ſearch'd into thoſe Records, with a Deſire to find out the Truth, and compar'd his Notes with the Original Records kept at Dioſpolis; and this was done by the Command of the King of Egypt, who was diſſatisfy'd with the Account of the Egyptian Antiquities given in to his Predeceſſor Philadelphus, and therefore he employ'd Eratoſthenes to correct and amend it, which he did in ſuch a Manner, that it hath ſince met with the Approbation of all the learned World.

23. To this Table of Eratoſthenes, I have added (d) a Table from Joſephus and Manetho, of the Phœnician Kings or Paſtors, and Canaanites, who reign'd in Lower Egypt, until the Deſtruction of Pharaoh and his Army in the Red ſea, or the Space of 593 Years. And as they have ſet down the Years and Months of each King's Reign, and it appears that Pharaoh was drown'd in the Red ſea on the 24th Day of April, in the Year of the World 2513. (of which in its proper Place) ſo I have computed the Years backward from thence, according to the Egyptian reckoning of 365 Days, that is 30 Months of 12 Days, and five additional Days at the End. So that if their Account be true, I cannot err above a Fortnight or a Month at moſt, which is a Matter of no Conſequence in a Caſe of this Nature. The Method of calculating the Days in the Column of the aforeſaid Table is this.

Prob. I. A certain Julian Year being given before the Æra of Nabonaſſar, and a Number of Years in the Egyptian Year being given, to find the Beginning of the Egyptian Year in the imaginary Julian Year correſponding thereto.

Anſwer. Firſt, Find the Day of the Beginning of the Egyptian Year or Æra of Nabonaſſar in the imaginary Julian Year requir'd, by finding the Number of the Biſſextile Days, and adding them to the Number (e) 56, and the Total ſhews (f) the Number of Days from the Beginning of January, in which the Egyptian Year did begin in that Julian Year given; only a Day muſt be added in a Biſſextile Year for the Months of January and February, if Occaſion requires.

As for Example. To find the Day of the Beginning of the Year according to the Æra of Nabonaſſar, in the Year of the Julian Period 3218. when the Egyptians were drown'd in the Red-ſea.

Anſwer. The Æra of Nabonaſſar began in the Year of the Julian Period 3967. when the Year began on the twenty ſixth Day of February, or when 56 Days had been compleated ſince the Beginning of the Julian Year; from whence ſubſtracting 3218, the Remainder is 749 Years, in which there are 187 Biſſextile Days, which added to 56, the Total is 243 which in Table 3. and in a common Year anſwers to Auguſt 31. and ſhews, that the Egyptian Year, or their firſt Month Thoth did then begin on that Day.

Prob.

Prob. II. A Number of Years and Months being given according to the Egyptian Year, or Æra of Nabonaſſar, to be reckon'd backward from a certain Day in a Julian Year given, to find the Day in the ſaid Julian Year, when the ſaid Month began.

First, The Beginning of the Year being known by the former Problem, add the Number of Biſſextile Days to the Day of the Julian Year given, which will reduce the ſame to be equally diſtant from the Beginning of the Year, according to the Æra of Nabonaſſar.

Secondly, From the Day thus found out ſubſtract thirty Days for every Month, and the Remainder is the Day requir'd; only if the Egyptian Year happens to begin between the Day found out by the firſt Operation, and by this ſecond, five Days more muſt be ſubſtracted for the ἐπαγόμεναι.

As for Example, Pharaoh Amenophis was drown'd, on the tenth Day of April in the Year of the World 2513. after he had reign'd $19^{y.}\ 06^{m.}$ I would know when he began to reign.

Anſwer, To April 10. or Number 100. I add the Biſſextile Days for twenty Years, or five Days and the Total is 105, from whence I ſubſtract ſix Months, or 180 Days, by adding firſt 365 to 105, and then the Remainder is 290, which anſwers to the ſeventeenth Day of October. But the Egyptian Year beginning a little before, viz. on the fifth Day of September there is no Occaſion for the ἐπαγόμεναι.

If there is a Neceſſity to add 365 Days before ſubſtraction can be made; as in this Example, a Year muſt alſo be added to the Number of Years given, which ſubſtracted from the Year firſt given, leaves alſo the Year requir'd, in which this Day happen'd.

24. As for the Confirming of the ſacred Scriptures by this Table of Eratoſthenes we muſt obſerve, that the firſt King of Egypt, who is Menes, is the ſame with Mizraim the Son of Ham. Sanchoniatho calls him Miſor, the Hebrew Termination being left out, as is uſual in altering of proper Names into other Languages, and that they both mean the ſame Perſon is evident, becauſe Eratoſthenes makes him the Predeceſſor of Athothes, and Sanchoniatho of Thoth. The (g) Letter A is arbitrarily prefix'd or omitted, and ES is only the Greek Termination. That (h) the Country of Egypt fell to the Lot of the Poſterity of Ham, is evident, becauſe it hath conſtantly carried the Name of Ham among the Gentiles. It was call'd ſo in Plutarch's Time. The Egyptian Thebes was call'd (i) Hammon No, which is the Name of the Egyptian Jupiter, as the Heathen Authors Herodotus and Plutarch do both teſtify, and in Greek Dioſpolis, or The City of Jupiter; and hence they call their firſt Kings (of which Menes was the firſt of all) the Offspring of the Gods. Now it is viſible, that all this was for no other Reaſon, but becauſe Egypt had fallen to the Share of Ham, Noah's third Son, who ſettl'd there, and call'd it (k) the Land of Ham, and whoſe Poſterity did afterward people Africa, and gave it their ſeveral Names, as Moſes particularly obſerves.

25. Beſides, It is as evident, that Egypt hath more eſpecially born the Name of Mizraim, (which it retains ſtill in reſpect to one of its Parts) becauſe of Mizraim the Son of Ham, who was the firſt King there. It is call'd, The Land of Mizraim throughout the whole Hebrew Bible, and in all the Oriental Tranſlations, and is call'd ſo by the Turks at this Time. And no one can imagine, that all theſe Characters, given by Moſes, would have been allow'd of in all the Eaſtern Parts of the World, except he had good Grounds to deſcribe their Original as he hath done it.

26. Secondly, As Egypt could not be peopled before the Diſperſion of Babylon; ſo it is certain, that no Hiſtory places the Reign of Menes before that Time. And as the Scriptures give no Account of the Age of any of the Poſterity of Ham, when they were born and when they died; ſo we can only obſerve, that their Generations were cotemporary with Arphaxad, Salah, and Ebor, who all liv'd above four hundred Years. If therefore we ſuppoſe Mizraim, the Son of Ham, to be born about the ſame Year with Arphaxad, the Son of Shem, or two Years after the Flood, and to live about four hundred Years, according to this Reckoning he muſt live about 270 Years after the Diſperſion from Babylon, as Arphaxad did; and conſequently, that no Account, which puts his Death ſooner (which I ſuppoſe they all do) can be allow'd therein to contradict the Scriptures. And it is no Wonder to obſerve, that Hiſtorians in fixing thoſe Times do differ a little among themſelves in ſuch dark and early Ages; but the Wonder is rather, that the Difference is ſo ſmall.

27. Firſt, (l) Dichæarchus (who was the Scholar of Ariſtotle, as Athenæus and Suidas affirm, and who muſt therefore be elder in Time, than either Eratoſthenes or Manetho himſelf, and was a Hiſtorian ſo conſiderable, that his Book concerning the Government of the Spartans was read every Year publickly before the Lacedæmonian Youth, in the Prætorium of their Ephori, as Suidas informs us, and who hath (m) ſince been honour'd with this Character, That he is to be eſteem'd among the chief Fixers of the Greek Chronology) tells us in a Paſſage preſerv'd to us by (n) the Scho- liaſt upon Apollonius's Argonauticks, where he affirms, That from the Reign of Nilus to the firſt Olympiad are 436 Years. This firſt Olympiad was in the Year of the Julian Period 3938, from whence ſubſtract 436 Years, and the Remainder will be the Year of the Julian Period 3502. And as Nilus is the laſt but one in this Table of Eratoſthenes, who died Anno Mundi 3546. and Menes or Mizraim began to reign Anno Mundi 2554. ſo there are 992 Years for the Interval between, which ſubſtracted from the Year of the Julian Period 3502, the Remainder is 2510, which was the Year of the Julian Period, when Menes began to reign; from which Time ſubſtract the Year of the Julian Period for the Diſperſion from Babylon 2493, and the Remainder is 17 Years for the Space of Time, in which he travailed with his Father Ham from Babylon to Canaan, and afterward went into Egypt, and ſettled the Government there, to which add 62 Years for the Reign of Menes, and then according to this Reckoning he died 79 Years after the Diſperſion from Babylon.

28. Secondly, There are (o) ſome Chronologers of conſiderable Note, who ſuppoſe, that the Number, which Dichæarchus puts for the Diſtance between Nilus and the firſt Olympiad is intended by him for the Diſtance from the Olympiads to the Deſtruction of Troy, and that he affirm'd Nilus's End to be cotemporary with that Epocha. If this be admitted; then, ſince it is certain, that Eratoſthenes thought, that there were but 407 Years from the Deſtruction of Troy to the Olympiades, and that others agree with him, who (p) place the firſt of theſe in the Year of the Julian Period 3531, then if 992 Years are ſubſtracted (as before) from 3531, the Remainder is 2539, when Menes began to reign. From whence alſo ſubſtract the Year of the Julian Period for the Diſperſion from Babylon 2493, and the Remainder is 36 Years, in which Space of Time he travail'd into Canaan, and then into Egypt, and ſettl'd the Government, to which add 62 Years for the Reign of Menes, and then according to this Reckoning he died 98 Years after the Diſperſion from Babylon.

29. Thirdly, (q) Herodotus tells us, that Myris had ſcarcely been dead 900 Years, when he was in Egypt. The Time of his Travailing thither is not certainly determin'd. His Birth is fix'd by (r) Aulus Gellius; ſo that it is agreed, that he was born in the Year of the Julian Period 4230. Now if we ſuppoſe, that Herodotus was about 30 Years of Age, when he travail'd into Egypt, his Travails muſt be in the Year of the Julian Period 4260. From hence ſubſtract 900 Years from the Death of Myris, and the Remainder is 3360. From thence ſubſtract 760, the Time between the Death of Myris and the Beginning of Menes's Reign as in theſe Tables, and the Remainder is 2600, which brings us to the 107th Year after the Diſperſion from Babylon, to which add 62 Years for the Reign of Menes, and then according to this Reckoning he died 169 Years after the Diſperſion from Babylon.

30. Fourthly, (s) Pliny ſpeaking of Menes calls him Mino, and cites Anticlides, as proving by antient Monuments that he liv'd fifteen Years before the eldeſt Phoroneus, who was Brother to Ægialeus the firſt Sicyonian King, who began to reign in the 2625th Year of the Julian Period. If therefore from thence we ſubſtract 15, the Remainder is 2610, which brings us to the 56th Year of Menes's Reign in theſe Tables, and the 117th Year after the Diſperſion from Babylon.

31. Fifthly, (t) Euſebius tells us, that Ægialeus began the Kingdom of the Sicyonians 1313 Years before the firſt Olympiad in the Iſland of Peloponneſus. If then from the Year of the Julian Period 3938, being the Year of the firſt Olympiad 1313 is ſubſtracted, the Remainder is 2625, which brings us to the ninth Year of Thoth the ſecond King of Egypt, and is 132 Years after the Diſperſion from Babylon; and plainly ſhews, that the remoter Countries from Babylon, and thoſe, which pretended to the greateſt Antiquity, were peopl'd ſince Egypt, which lay nearer to it, and which was ſoon inhabited by Ham and his Poſterity, and ſo ſerves to vindicate the Account, which Moſes gives us of the Diſperſion from Babylon.

32. Sixthly,

32. Sixthly, Varro (u) the moſt learned Roman tells us, that the Kingdom of the Argives was begun in Peloponneſus by Inachus above 1100 Years before the Building of Rome by Romulus. And accordingly from the Beginning of Inachus's Reign he reckon'd 1102 Years, tho' others reckon 1108 Years diſtance between the Time of Inachus and the Feaſts call'd Palilia, begun at the Building of that City. And as this Kingdom of the Argives (x) was founded 1080 Years before the firſt Olympiad, which was 28 Years before the Building of Rome, Anno Per. Jul. 3966. as others affirm; ſo this brings it to the ſame Date; for by ſubſtracting 1080 from the Year of the firſt Olympiad, Anno Per. Jul. 3958, or 1108 from the Building of Rome, Anno Per. Jul. 3966, the Remainder is 2858 for the Year, when Inachus founded this Kingdom, which in theſe Tables appears to be the Year before the Reign of Mares in Upper Egypt, which is 304 Years after the Beginning of the Egyptian Monarchy, and 365 Years after the Diſperſion from Babylon, and ſo ſerves with the other Obſervation to confirm the Moſaical Account of the ſaid Diſperſion.

33. Seventhly, (y) It is evident, that the Invention of the Arts moſt neceſſary to human Life hath been attributed either to Menes the firſt King of Egypt or to his Succeſſors. It was this Menes, or one of his Succeſſors, who are ſaid to have invented Laws, Letters, Muſick, Wreſtling, Phyſick, Hieroglyphicks, and Architecture, and to have improv'd Aſtronomy, and found out the Length of the Year. And Myris, or Meres (z) the 28th King from Menes, who is call'd the Philoſopher, made the great Water-Cuts between the Nile, and that ſtupendous Lake, which bears his Name, and is ſaid to have invented the Elements of Geometry, which Pythagoras learn'd in Egypt, and carry'd back with him into Greece. All this plainly ſhews, that the Egyptians were Miſtaken, if they had aſcrib'd to the World ſo great an Antiquity, as ſome do think they did, by the vaſt Extent of Time, which was allotted to the Dynaſties of their Gods and Heroes. The Overflowing of the Nile muſt have put them upon Thoughts of Geometry, that they might the better afterwards divide their Grounds, and ſettle their Habitations every Year, when the Waters were abated. But beſides this, How could the World have continu'd ſo many thouſand Years without thoſe other Arts, which are ſo neceſſary for the Conveniency of human Life? Or how could Men be ſo ſtupid during ſuch a prodigious Succeſſion of Ages, as not to have found out thoſe Arts, the Invention whereof the Egyptians do generally aſcribe to their firſt King, or to a few of his Succeſſors during ſo ſhort an Interval of Time?

34. Eighthly, (a) The ſame Decay of Religion, which Moſes ſpeaks of, is very evident in the Hiſtory of Egypt. The (b) Antients unanimouſly agree, that the Egyptians at firſt had neither Statues nor Images in their Temples, and Moſes records nothing of that Nature concerning the antient Times after the Flood. But they tell us alſo, that the Egyptians afterward made ſome Statues, and conſecrated in their Temples the Figures of great Numbers of Animals. It is very probable, that this came from the Opinion, which they afterward entertain'd of the Tranſmigration of Souls into other Creatures, and which they thought to be a neceſſary Conſequence of the Immortality of the Soul.

35. Laſtly, (c) It is alſo obſervable, that as Moſes repreſents Nimrod one of Ham's Poſterity, as the Founder of an Empire in Aſſyria, where he founded the Manners of the Inhabitants according to the Platform of the Egyptian Principles; ſo (d) the Antients have obſerv'd, that the famous Aſſyrian Belus, who is ſuppos'd to be Ham himſelf, came out of Egypt. And it is natural to conceive, that there he planted Idolatry, which began even before Abraham's Time, if the Account of the (e) Arabick Hiſtorian can be depended on. Beſides, the Jews affirm, that the Tower of Babel was afterward a Temple, in which an Idol was conſecrated for the Worſhip of Belus. And this Conjecture hath a greater Probability, if we conſider the Idolatry of the Babylonians toward this Bel, or Belus, whom (f) they worſhipp'd as a God, according to the Pagan, and eſpecially the Egyptian Cuſtom of Adoring the Founders of Kingdoms after their Deceaſe. Hence by Miſtake of Names and Perſons, aroſe the Story, that this Belus was the ſecond King of Aſſyria, and that he was the firſt Man, who was ever made a God, and that his Son Ninus ſet up the Image, and caus'd his People to worſhip it; however all this ſerves to confirm the Moſaical Hiſtory and Chronology, as it is handed down to us in the Hebrew Text.

36. But for the more exact fixing the Chronology, as it is in the Table, we muſt make Uſe alſo of another Catalogue, which is that of Manetho, as mention'd by Joſephus, who gives us an Account of the Names of the Phænician Paſtors and Kings in Lower Egypt, who reckons not only the Years, but alſo the Months, which they reign'd. And it is alſo plain, that he reckon'd by Solar Years, becauſe he ſometimes mentions ten Months as a Part of a Year, whereas in the other Computations a whole Year conſiſted at moſt but of four Months. And here, if the Time of Tethmoſis or Amoſis (as ſome call him) can be fix'd to his Cotemporary in the other Table, the other Kings in both Tables will fall in of Courſe, and appear to be as they are ſettled from the Works of our learned Primate of Armagh and Biſhop Cumberland. This latter tells us, (g) that Ptolomæus Mendeſius a learned Egyptian Prieſt (whom Voſſius affirms in his Book de Hiſtoricis Græcis to have liv'd in Auguſtus Cæſar's Time, and who is ſoon after cited by Apion in Tiberius's Time) doth affirm, that this Amoſis took and ruin'd Avaris or Abaris the laſt Hold of the Paſtors, and liv'd in Inachus's Time, when the Kingdom of the Argives was founded, which Teſtimony is alſo cited by Clemens Alexandrinus, Tatianus and Juſtin Martyr; ſo that it was valu'd as credible both by the heathen Apion, and the Chriſtian Fathers. This Time mention'd is according to theſe Tables cotemporary with Manes King of Upper Egypt. And as the Deſign of this Author was to write a Book of the Egyptian Antiquities, which he call'd Χρόνοι or Chronicles; ſo he took good Care to expreſs exactly the Time of this Amothis or Tethmoſis, by affixing it to the Argive Æra begun in Inachus, and well known in Greece, in the Language of which Country he wrote for the Greeks Uſe.

37. As this Computation brings us near the Time; ſo it is alſo fix'd more exactly from the Time of the Departure of the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt. This muſt be in the latter End of a King's Reign, becauſe he was drown'd in the Red-ſea. This was (h) Pharaoh Amenophis the third, who is diſtinguiſh'd from others of that Name, as the Father of Danaus and Rameſſes or Sethoſis, the firſt King of the 19th Dynaſty. This is prov'd by the two Heathen Witneſſes Manetho and Cheræmon, who both affirm the Jews going out of Egypt from under Amenophis, as appears by the Words of both theſe Writers ſet down by Joſephus againſt Apion, and their concordant Teſtimonies are the more Valuable concerning the Name of this Egyptian King, with this Diſtinction taken from his Son, becauſe this was a thing, which they might certainly know from ancient Egyptian Records, and becauſe it could no ways ſerve the Intereſt of their Religion, or their Hatred to the Jews to give us a falſe Name; and becauſe the Time, when this Man liv'd is exactly agreeable to the Scripture Chronology, and connects the Departure from Egypt with the Time of Danaus's coming into Greece, which is well fix'd alſo in the Greek Chronology, and they (i) alſo deſcribe this Amenophis, as a Man eaſily and ſtrongly deluded even to his own Deſtruction by their Superſtitious Prieſts. Now it appears by this Table, that from the Beginning of the Reign of Tethmoſis to the Death of Amenophis was 333 Years, and therefore as the latter was in the Year of the Julian Period 3213; ſo the former was in the Year of the ſame Period 3180, and it is ſo fix'd accordingly by that learned Prelate.

38. And now to fix the Date of the Table of Eratoſthenes by this of Manetho, (i) a Note or Obſervation annex'd to the ninth King thereof, whoſe Name is Mares, and interpreted Heliodorus in Greek, will very much help us, which is there inſerted in theſe Words, That there was then among the Egyptians (that is, of the Lower Egypt diſtinguiſh'd from Thebais) the ſixteenth Dynaſty, in which the Thebans reign'd 160 Years according to the ſame Copies, but 190 Years according to others. That is, That in the Time of Mares, or at fartheſt in the End of his Reign the Theban Dynaſty in the Lower Egypt began; by which he certainly means the firſt Dynaſty, in which the Thebans govern'd the lower Egypt upon the Expulſion of the Paſtors by Tethmoſis, who were in the laſt Dynaſty. For the clearing of this we muſt obſerve, (k) that the Egyptians have reckon'd up but fifteen Dynaſties to Jupiter the laſt of the Heroes, that is to ſay, but fifteen Perſons to Jupiter, who is Ham the third Son of Noah, as in the fourteenth Table.

TABLE the Fourteenth.

Dynaſty	16.	Tethmoſis.

This comes very near to Moſes's Calculation, who reckons Noah as the tenth Man from Adam. For it is very likely, that thoſe ignorant People after a long Proceſs of Time did joyn Cain and Abel with Seth, and alſo joyn'd Shem and Japhet with Jupiter or Ham, who began the fifteenth Dynaſty, and ſo made no Account of the Reſt in Lower Egypt, until Tethmoſis one of their own Country did ſettle there as a King, and ſo began the ſixteenth Dynaſty.

(k) Allix's Reflections on the Books of Scripture, Page 98.

This will be farther evident, by obſerving that in (l) Scaliger's Greek Euſebius the Thebans are affirm'd to reign in the ſixteenth Dynaſty began by Amoſis or Tethmoſis. And as Mares reign'd 26 Years; ſo if we fix the Beginning of Tethmoſis's Reign to any Year of Mares, there will be no Contradiction to the ſacred Text; but if we fix it to the End of his Reign, or to the firſt Year of his Succeſſor Anoiphis, as our learned Prelate hath done, then all things will ſtand, as they are plac'd in the Table. And thus Menes or Miſraim began to reign over Egypt in the 2554th Year of the Julian Period, or the 61ſt Year after the Diſperſion from Babylon. To which add 62 Years for the Reign of Menes, and then he died in the 123d Year after the ſaid Diſperſion.

39. There is one thing more which cannot be omitted, and that is, that Manetho hath reckon'd up ſeveral other Kings and Dynaſties deliver'd to us by Africanus, which runs backward not only beyond the Flood, but alſo beyond the Creation. But as (m) Salatis is reckon'd the firſt of theſe Kings by Joſephus and others, who began his Reign in the ninth Year of Thoth the ſecond King of Upper Egypt; ſo we may without much difficulty reject all the reſt as fabulous.

40. For Firſt, There is no Cauſe to believe, that the Lower Egypt was peopl'd ſooner than the other, but rather the contrary, becauſe the Upper Egypt was not ſo ſubject to Inconveniences by the overflowing of the Nile, it lying much higher, and yet lying ſo, as to receive great Benefit and leſs Trouble or Damage by its Inundations.

41. Secondly, The Tables of Eratoſthenes and Sanchoniatho, tho' Heathens, contradict the Romantick Accounts of Manetho, by ſtating the Time of Miſraim and of the Creation in ſuch a Manner, as is agreeable to the Moſaical Hiſtory.

42. Thirdly, The Credit of Eratoſthenes in this Caſe muſt go beyond Manetho. Eratoſthenes took his Accounts from the ſacred Articles of Dioſpolis or Thebes it ſelf, and from the Library of Alexandria, of which he was the Keeper. This the World knew, and therefore any one in that or the ſucceſſive Ages could ſearch the ſame Records, to ſee if he had dealt honeſtly by them; and ſo any Fraud might have been detected. But Manetho was an Egyptian Prieſt, and therefore partially inclin'd to advance the Honour and Antiquity of his Country and Religion, beyond the Greeks, Phœnicians and Jews, and had a ſtrong Temptation to favour it by eaſily Believing himſelf, and Recommending to others ſuch Traditions of the Prieſts, which were of this Nature; which Prieſts before him (as we find by Herodotus) did claim a moſt extravagant Antiquity; but ſhew'd him no Authentick Records thereof, only a great number of old Statues, which could give no ſufficient Proof of what they were alledg'd for. Beſides Joſephus (n) hath aſſur'd us, that Manetho ſometimes follow'd good Records (and ſo he might from the Time of Salatis's Reign) and ſometimes Fables. Add to this, that Manetho doth not pretend to have ſearch'd the publick Records, but (o) only flies from a Covert to the ſecret Places of the Egyptian Temples, where he pretends, that the ſecond Thoth or Mercury or Agathodæmon laid up Books tranſlated after the Flood into the Greek Language, from certain Monuments of Stone characteriz'd in the holy Dialect in Hierographical Letters by the firſt Thoth or Mercury. They who can believe this to be true may eaſily believe any thing elſe, which he affirms, tho' ever ſo falſe. They were tranſlated into the Greek Language by Thoth, when neither he nor any in Egypt in Thoth's Days knew a Word of the Greek Language; for he liv'd before the Trojan War, and in a Time, when there appears not to have been the leaſt Correſpondence between Egypt and Greece. Neither could Thoth write the Hiſtory, which Manetho pretends to have had from him, unleſs we can ſuppoſe, that he could propheſy of things to come for 900 Years after his Death, and write a Hiſtory of the Men that were not yet born, calling them all by their Names, and foretelling both the Year and Month, when many of them ſhould die.

43. Fourthly, The Kings in Upper Egypt ſeem to have been call'd Pharaoh from the Beginning, which Name in the Egyptian Language is ſaid to ſignifie a King; becauſe as they had none to oppoſe them, ſo they reign'd as ſuch in their own Country. But (p) this Title was not giv'n to the Kings of the Lower Egypt until the Time of Apophis or Apiphanus, who was the third from Salatis, and liv'd until about three Years before the Promiſe was given to Abraham. And the Reaſon ſeems to be, becauſe at firſt they were but in a weak and low Condition, when they ſet up for themſelves; but when they grew ſtronger they took the ſame Title with their neighbouring Kingdom, which before they could not pretend to.

44. Laſtly, (q) According to this Computation we may account for the Longevity of ſome of the Kings in Upper Egypt, by comparing them with their Cotemporaries in Scripture, and ſo confirming the Hiſtory of both. In the firſt Century after the Flood Moſes hath recorded three Generations or ſucceeding Deſcendents to be born in Shem's Line. The firſt is Arphaxad the Son of Shem, born in the Year of the World 1659, to which we may ſuppoſe, that Menes or Miſraim the Son of Ham was cotemporary.

The Second is Selah the Son of Arphaxad born Anno Mundi 1694, to which we may ſuppoſe, that Athothes the ſecond King of Egypt, and Son of Mizraim was cotemporary.

The third is Heber the Son of Selah born Anno Mundi 1724, to which we may ſuppoſe, that Athothes the third King of Egypt and Son of the other Athothes might be cotemporary.

As to the firſt, Arphaxad the Son of Shem liv'd 438 Years. If Mizraim the Son of Ham was born at the ſame Time with him, then ſince according to theſe Tables he liv'd to the Year 1911, his Age at his Death will be 252 Years, which is a fair Time for a Man, whom the Egyptians lament, as cut off in the Flower of his Age. For (r) they ſung a Song like the Greeks, which they call'd Linus, or in the Egyptian Language Maneros, which was compos'd for this Purpoſe. And according to theſe Tables the Beginning of his Reign will not be 'till he was 191 Years of Age, which agrees well with thoſe Times, wherein Men's Lives were ſo long. And there is no Reaſon to ſuppoſe him to begin to reign, when he was elder.

As to the ſecond, Selah the Grandſon of Shem liv'd 433 Years, If Athothes the Grandſon of Ham was born at the ſame Time with him; then he came to the Throne, when he was about 217 Years old, and died when he was 276 Years of Age, which is a good Approach to the Longevity of thoſe Times, tho' not ſo long as Salah's Life, which many Accidents might hinder. Salatis the firſt King of the Phœnician Paſtors did attack him very briskly; and Manetho in Joſephus againſt Apion declares him to be ſuch a formidable Warrior, as might probably ſhorten Thoth's Days. Plutarch calls him Orus the Son of Oſiris (which is another Name for Miſraim) and ſaith, that in the Egyptian Myſteries he was repreſented as torn to Pieces; which is ſo horrid a Thing, that he confeſſes, he left it out in his Narrative, as a Calamity which the Roman Ears could not endure to be ſaid concerning a God. It is moſt probable, that he was taken in a bloody Battle, and that his Enemies in Revenge, and for a Terror to others, did inflict ſuch a Death upon him. Thus the Egyptians did own, that their Athothes or Orus was cut off by a violent Death, and conſequently that he did not live ſo long, as according to the Courſe of Nature he might have liv'd in thoſe Times.

As to the third, Heber the great Grandſon of Shem liv'd 439 Years. If Athothes the ſecond and great Grandſon of Ham was born at the ſame Time, then he came to the Throne, when he was 246 Years old, and died when he was 278 Years of Age. And tho' he came not up to the Age of Eber; yet he outliv'd Peleg the Son of Eber, and all thoſe, who are recorded in the Scriptures to have been born ſince that Time; and therefore he could not be put later.

We find but one more, whoſe Reign was very long, who was Apappus Maximus, and he reign'd an hundred Years. And as he liv'd in the Time of Moſes and Aaron, who died at 120, and 123 Years of Age, and was born within a Century after the Death of Jacob, who liv'd 147 Years, ſo it is not improbable, but that he might come to the Throne at ſuch an Age as to reign ſo long. And thus the Scripture Chronology of the Cotemporary Patriarchs, and that of theſe Egyptian Kings do by a wonderful Harmony ſupport each other.

45. Thus have I labour'd to waſh the Blackamoor white, or reconcile the Egyptian Hiſtory to Truth, eſpecially to the Hebrew Text, as far as I can. It is now high Time to take our Leave of them, and travel into a farther Country. And I ſhall go but into one more, which is China. Here (s) we have ſeveral Accounts of an amazing Antiquity in this Country. Some make the Duration of the World to be no leſs than 3267000 Years to the Time of Confucius, who liv'd about five hundred Years before our SAVIOUR's Incarnation. And others make the World to have laſted near forty thouſand Years. But all this will need no Confutation, when we only conſider that the Chineſe themſelves, according to (t) Martinius's Account, do ſuſpect all the Hiſtories, and Chronological Accounts of their Empire before the firſt King Fohi, looking upon them as falſe and ridiculous, and affirm, that the People of that Country before him liv'd without any Settlement, Laws or Arts. That he caus'd Men to be diſtinguiſh'd from Women by the Difference of their Garments. And that Marriages were fix'd and regulated by him, whereas before his Time Men and Women liv'd like brute Beaſts in a promiſcuous Manner.

46. There is another Account given us by (u) Navaret, and which he would fain have to be the moſt authentick, which makes the Reign of Fohi ſeveral Centuries later than the former, and he tells us, That their beſt Records aſſure us, that the Time of their firſt King's Reign began (according to the European Computation) about an hundred and thirty one Years after the Flood, which was the Year of the grand Diſperſion from Babylon. But ſince he doth not tell us, whether he doth reckon

according to the Hebrew or Greek Computation, neither doth he tell us, from what Records he took the Chineſe Account, we cannot look on his ſingle Teſtimony to be of ſufficient Weight in this Caſe; but only wiſh, that he had given fuller Proof of what he affirms, which Aſſertion would at once have determin'd the whole Controverſy.

47. There is another Hiſtory and Chronology mentioned both by Martinius and Couplet, which makes Fohi to be their firſt King, who according to this Account reign'd an hundred and fifteen Years, and began his reign in the 2952d Year before the Nativity of our SAVIOUR, and ſince which Time the Chineſe ſay, that they have been very exact in the Hiſtory of their Kings and of their Nation.

48. To make this Hiſtory more exact, they give us an Account of the Kings which reigned in all that Time, the Year when they began to reign, and alſo how long they reign'd, and what remarkable Paſſages happen'd in the ſeveral Years of the reſpective Kings. They tell us that their Years were ſolar, and frequently began in the Spring; and that for their greater Exactneſs in this Matter, Hoamti their third King or the next but one after Fohi ordered a Cycle of ſixty Years to begin from the Beginning of his Reign; ſo that for the Time to come, every remarkable Paſſage might be recorded both as to the Year it ſelf, and the particular Year of each Cycle in which it happen'd, that if any miſtake might happen in one Computation, it might be corrected and amended by the other. That their Accounts may be the leſs ſuſpected, the Office of an Hiſtorian is (x) among them a publick Office. The Hiſtory of a King is written after his Death by order of his Succeſſor, who ſometimes has been his Enemy; and not any Hiſtory is publiſh'd, 'till the Race of the Kings, whereof it treats, is extinct, or at leaſt driv'n from the Throne. It is not lawful for any Hiſtorian to call in queſtion the Hiſtory already written, nor for any particular Perſon to write Hiſtory; but every one is at liberty to make Abridgments of the Hiſtories already publiſh'd for his own private Uſe. There is therefore but one ſingle general Hiſtory and no particular Memoirs; and there is not the leaſt Appearance, that they have corrupted the moſt important of the Events; and the Roman Hiſtory cannot perhaps have been more faithful in what they have writ to the Honour of their Country, and the Shame of their Enemies. And as in their Hiſtory the Beginning of the Reign of Fohi is plac'd ſome Hundreds of Years before the Flood; ſo others have thought it to be an undeniable Argument to lay aſide the Hebrew Chronology of the old Teſtament, and eſtabliſh the Septuagint.

49. It may be farther obſerv'd, That the Chineſe retain ſome Notion of the Flood, and place it about three thouſand and five hundred Years before the Birth of CHRIST, which is about five hundred and fifty Years before the Beginning of the Reign of Fohi their firſt King, and above eleven hundred Years more than the Account in the Hebrew Text, and differs not three hundred Years from the Account of the Septuagint.

50. And now, if the Chineſe Hiſtorians had confin'd themſelves to the Account of things done in their own Country, it is probable that their Errors had never been detected; but the Providence of GOD would not ſuffer it ſo to be; but ordered that the Stars in their Courſes ſhould detect the Falſity: For as the Chineſe were from the Beginning addicted to the Study of Aſtronomy; ſo they have mention'd two very remarkable Poſitions in the Reign of their fifth and ſeventh Monarchs, which tho' not ſufficient to fix them right, yet make them about five hundred Years later, than what is fix'd in their Chronology, ſo that theſe Errors being detected, we need not be at ſo great a Loſs in the Rectifying of other Miſtakes.

51. Firſt, The Chineſe Hiſtorians relate a (y) remarkable Conjunction of five Planets joyn'd together in the ſame Day, on which there alſo happen'd a Conjunction of the Sun and Moon and in the Sign Xe, in the Reign of their fifth Monarch Chuenhio, who began his Reign according to their Annals in the 2513th Year before the Birth of CHRIST. Now this Aſtronomical Character hath (z) been accurately examin'd by the famous Caſſini, and been found to have happen'd in the 2012th Year before the Birth of CHRIST, which was about 500 Years later than the preſent Series of their Years do ſuppoſe, a particular Account whereof is as followeth.

52. As the Years and Conſtellations of the Chineſe are different from the Reſt of the World; ſo it is neceſſary firſt to give a particular Account of them.

53. For the right underſtanding hereof we muſt firſt obſerve, that the Years of the Chineſe are luniſolar, ſome of which are common of twelve Lunar Months, and others are Embolimæan of thirteen. The firſt Day of the Month is ordinarily the firſt Day after the Conjunction of the Moon with the Sun; ſo that the Eclipſes of the Moon do ordinarily happen on the laſt Day of the Month, as may be ſeen in the Chineſe Chronology. If the Beginnings of the Months do move from this Epocha of the Conjunctions, it is eaſy to reſtore them after an Obſervation of an Eclipſe of the Sun. The Order of the Common and Embolimæan Years is regulated by the Cycle of ſixty Years, in which 22 are Embolimæan, and the reſt are common. The Year begins when the Moon's Conjunction with the Sun is neareſt to the fifteenth Degree of Aquarius, or the Point of the Zodiack, which is at equal

Diſtances

Diſtances between the Winter Solſtice, and the Vernal Equinox, tho' this Beginning hath varied according to the Will of ſeveral Emperors, and they have been oblig'd to correct the Year from the Errors, which were crept into it. There may alſo be more Errors in the Epocha of the Years, than in the Epocha of the Months, becauſe the Points of the Zodiack, which determine the firſt Month of the Year, are not immediately viſible, as the Eclipſes of the Sun are, which determine the Months. And as after a Period of ſixty luniſolar Years, the Conjunctions of the Moon with the Sun return not to the ſame Point of the Zodiack, but they anticipate about three Degrees, which the Sun runs through only in three Days, and which in ten Periods of ſixty Years amount to thirty Days; therefore to prevent the Beginning of the Year from removing above a Sign from the fifteenth Degree of Aquarius, it hath been a Cuſtom among the Chineſe at the End of every Period of ſix hundred Years to add a Month extraordinary more than the two and twenty Months, which are added to every Period of ſixty Years.

54. And Secondly, The Manner of their reckoning their Conſtellations is alſo as remarkable. The Europeans divide the Heathens into twelve Signs or equal Parts by ſo many Semicircles from the Poles of the Ecliptick paſſing through the Ecliptick Line at right Angles beginning at the Vernal Equinox, and theſe we call the twelve Signs of the Zodiack. But the Chineſe divide the Heavens into eight and twenty unequal Parts by ſo many Semicircles from the Poles of the Equinoctial, paſſing through the Equinoctial Line at right Angles, and each of them paſſing through the Center of ſome remarkable fix'd Star, which make theſe Conſtellations larger or ſmaller, according as the Diſtance of the Right Aſcenſion of theſe fix'd Stars is more or leſs from each other; and they begin their firſt Conſtellation or Kio from the remarkable Star of the firſt Magnitude call'd The Virgin Spike, which is now in twenty Degrees of Libra, ſo that the Longitude and Latitude, by which the Chineſe deſcribe the Heavens, is the ſame with the Longitude and Latitude, by which we deſcribe the Earth. Now when the Jeſuits in the laſt Century went into China to introduce a Religion contrary to theirs, they concluded, that for this Purpoſe they muſt have ſomething extraordinary to recommend them, and accordingly propoſed the Improvement of the liberal Arts and Sciences, eſpecially Aſtronomy, according to the European Method, which proving more exact than any thing which they knew, cauſed that People to joyn with theſe Europeans for the Correction of their Calendar, and for this Reaſon the Emperor did heap continual Honours on the Fathers Licci, Shall, Verbieſt and Grimaldi, who in the Time of his Abſence in Italy was elected by the Emperor of China to be the Profeſſor of Aſtronomy. Accordingly they corrected the Table of the Conſtellations in Uſe among the Chineſe, and fix'd it to the Year of our LORD 1628, according to the Obſervations of Tycho Brahe, with whom they agreed not only in Degree, but almoſt in the ſame Minute. For there is no Probability, that unleſs they were taken from thence, they ſhould be ſo conformable to them. Our Aſtronomers in this Age find Difficulty to agree in the ſame Minute in the Place of the fixed Stars, and it is known, that between the Catalogues of Tycho and that of the Landgrave of Heſſe made at the ſame Time by excellent Aſtronomers there is a Difference of ſeveral Minutes. However the Conſtellations thus ſettled among the Chineſe by the Jeſuits at that Time are as followeth.

55. Accordingly the famous Monſieur Caſſini having reduc'd thoſe Stars, which Terminate the Conſtellation Xe among the Chineſe, viz. The firſt of the Wing of Pegaſus and the laſt of the Wing of Pegaſus to the Equinoctial in the twenty fourth and twenty fifth Centuries before the Birth of JESUS CHRIST, he could not find that between the Circles of the Declinations, which paſs'd through thoſe Stars, five Planets could be joyn'd together either in theſe Ages or in the two others either before or after, whilſt the Sun was in the Sign Aquarius, as the Chineſe Hiſtory imports.

56. On the other Hand he found by Calculation, that Saturn, Jupiter, Venus, Mercury and the Moon met in that Chineſe Conſtellation determin'd by this Method, the Sun being in the twentieth Degree of Aquarius in the 2012th Year before the Epocha of JESUS CHRIST, on the twenty ſixth Day of February according to the Julian, or on the Ninth according to the Gregorian Account, and that the Day following at ſix of the Clock in the Morning at China happen'd the Conjunction of the Moon with the Sun, which muſt be that which was taken as the Epocha of theſe Chineſe Years.

For then in the Morning Crepuſculum at China according to the Catalogue of Tycho, and the Motion, which he gives to the fix'd Stars, the firſt of the Wing of Pegaſus, which began the Conſtellation Xe, was at 26 Degrees and 50 Minutes of Capricorn, and the Circle of the Declination cut the Ecliptick at 24 Degrees of the ſame Sign; and the laſt of the Wing of Pegaſus was at 12 Degrees and an half of Aquarius, and its Circle of Declination cut the Ecliptick, and carry'd it back to the eleventh Degree of the ſame Sign.

The Beginning of the Conſtellation Xe was	♑	24
Saturn	♑	24
Jupiter	♑	26
Mercury	♑	27
Venus	♒	4
The Moon	♒	8
The End of the Conſtellation Xe	♒	11

And in four and twenty Hours or thereabout happen'd the Conjunction of the Moon with the Sun.

Thus the Chineſe Chronology places the Conjunction of the Planets in the Time of their fifth Monarch Chuenhio, which was between the 2513 and 2435 Years before the Birth of JESUS CHRIST; ſo there is found a Difference of five five Ages between the Time mention'd in this Chronology and the true Time, and this Chineſe Epocha will be five Centuries later than their own Hiſtorians do ſuppoſe it. But of this more in the ſeventy firſt Paragraph.

57. Secondly, The Chineſe Hiſtorians (a) tell us, that in the twentieth Year of Yao the ſeventh Emperor of the Chineſe, and which among them is reported to have been in 2341ſt Year before the Birth of CHRIST, the Winter Solſtice was obſerv'd to be about the firſt Degree of the Conſtellation Hiu, which at preſent begins about the eighteenth Degree of Aquarius, ſo that ſince this Time the Solſtice is remov'd above 48 Degrees from its firſt Place.

But to be more particular from the Calculations of Caſſini. It appears (b) by the Table that this Conſtellation Hiu began with the Star, which is in the left Shoulder of Aquarius, which in the Year 1628 was at 18 Degrees and 13 Minutes of Aquarius; but in the twentieth Year of Yao it was in 29 Degrees of Sagittarius and ſome odd Minutes, when the Winter Solſtice (which was always with us at the Beginning of Capricorn) was at the firſt Star of the Conſtellation Hiu. The Diſtance between theſe two Places of the Zodiack is 49 Degrees, 13 Minutes, which the fix'd Stars, according to Tycho's Table do make in 3475 Years, by their conſtant Motion of about 51 Seconds every Year, (tho' others will not allow ſo much) from whence having deducted 1628 Years at moſt, which were elapſed from the Epocha of the Birth of CHRIST to the Time when their Conſtellations were ſettled by the Jeſuits and others in China, the twentieth of Yao would be the 1847th Year before the Birth of CHRIST, whereas their Annals place it in the 2347th Year, and ſo they make it more ancient by about five hundred Years. Thus there are about five Centuries diſtant between this Epocha as taken from the Chineſe Hiſtory, and the ſame as taken from the Motion of the fix'd Stars in the ſame Interval of Time, and is about the ſame Space, which was diſcovered in the other Obſervation. But of this alſo in the Paragraph beforementioned.

58. Hence it appears, that a too ready Belief muſt not be giv'n to the Chineſe Annals, tho' they ſeem to be ſo ſpecious and exact. Their Hiſtory and Chronology is neither contradicted nor confirm'd by their Neighbours; ſo that it ſtands and falls by its own Strength, and no Argument can be drawn from their Silence. And therefore all that we have to do is to believe it to be true in the Groſs, eſpecially for ſome Centuries before the Birth of our SAVIOUR; but to reject it, whenever it contradicts our own Hiſtories, eſpecially the ſacred Text, which is much better confirm'd, than any thing, which we can receive from thoſe remote Countries.

59. To this I ſhall add another Obſervation from (c) Martinius's Hiſtory of China, who ſaith that in the Time of Yao the ſame Emperor the Sun did not ſet for ten Days, and the Inhabitants were afraid that the World ſhould have been ſet on Fire. And that on this Occaſion there were very great Burnings, and probably of the ſame Nature, which happen'd at the River Eridanus when Phaethon was King. I take this to be an Account of the Sun's ſtanding ſtill in the Time of Joſhua, eſpecially becauſe we are told in the ſacred Text, (d) that was no day like that, either before it or after it, that the LORD hearkned to the voice of a Man, for the LORD fought for Iſrael. And tho' it is mention'd, that the Sun did not ſet for ten Days; yet it is no Wonder to find Hiſtorians enlarging beyond the Truth in thoſe early Ages. They could not have fram'd ſuch a Story without ſome Ground for it, and they could have no Ground for it but this. Now the Sun's ſtanding ſtill in the Time of Joſhua happen'd in the Year before CHRIST 1454, which ſubſtracted from the aforeſaid Year, the Remainder is the Difference between the Scripture and the Chineſe Chronology at that Time, and is at leaſt 300 Years more than what was diſcover'd in the other Obſervations. But of this alſo in another Part of this Chapter.

60. Another Reaſon to prove the Chineſe Chronology to be falſe, is becauſe the Duration of the Reigns and Lives of the firſt Monarchs of China do by no Means agree to the Standard of human Life in thoſe Ages, to which the preſent Series of their Years do affix them; which will appear from the Table of the Reigns and Lives of the firſt Kings of China at that Time, when compar'd with the Standard of Human Life as mention'd in Scripture. For Shem, Arphaxad and Eber alone liv'd as long as three of the Lives of the immediate Succeſſors of Fohi, who according to the preſent Series of the Chineſe Hiſtory muſt have lived before theſe Patriarchs, and conſequently muſt have liv'd longer like the Antediluvian Patriarchs.

62. As therefore the Chineſe Annals and their Genealogies do not agree together; ſo their Diſagreement doth weaken the Authority of the whole, in ſuch Places where it contradicts our Sacred Writings. But yet all this doth not ſolve the Difficulty. Tho' theſe three Families are allow'd to be ſo near to their common Parent Hoamti as can be imagin'd; yet this will make no Alteration in the Account of their ſeven firſt Emperors, in whoſe Time the abovemention'd Aſtronomical Obſervations were made. Theſe Obſervations will ſerve effectually to confute the Chineſe Annals; but then they will be of no Uſe to confirm the ſacred Text. For let us ſuppoſe, that the five Planets were in Conjunction in the firſt Year of the Reign of their fifth Monarch Chuenhio; yet

63. For the clearing up of all theſe Difficulties, and for the Fixing of the Chineſe Hiſtory ſo as to agree with the Hebrew Text of the Old Teſtament, I ſhall endeavour to prove theſe Particulars. Firſt, That China was inhabited ſoon after the Flood. Secondly, That in the Pagan World Noah went under the Name of Saturn, and Jupiter under the Name of Ham. Thirdly, That when Ham drove Noah from his Habitation he retir'd to China. Fourthly, That Fohi, who was the firſt King of China is the ſame with Noah. Fifthly, That the Chineſe might have from him their Notions, which are agreeable to the Scriptures. Sixthly, That the whole Chineſe Chronology ought to be regulated from the Time in which the Sun ſtood ſtill in the Time of Joſhua, and in the Reign of their ſeventh Emperor Yao. And Laſtly, That according to this Regulation the Ages of their Kings are agreeable to the Lives of the Cotemporary Patriarchs after the Flood.

64. The firſt thing propos'd is, that China was inhabited ſoon after the Flood. For the Proof of this we muſt take the Scripture Hiſtory for our Guide, with ſuch proper Inferences, as may be made from it. Accordingly when the Waters of the Flood abated, (k) the ark reſted upon that Part of the mountains of Ararat, which was ſince known by the Name of Taurus and Caucaſus or Part of the Gordiæan Mountains, between the Eaſt Indies and Scythia, and which lay Eaſtward from Babylon; ſince (l) the new Inhabitants came thither from that Quarter. Noah being old, and conſequently the leſs fit to travel long Journeys, reſolv'd to fix himſelf near the Place, where he landed, and leave the reſt of the World to be peopl'd by his Children, according as they ſhould increaſe.

To ſupply himſelf and his Family with all Conveniences, he (m) betakes himſelf to Huſbandry, and plants a vineyard, and indulging his Appetite too much in his Proſperity, he drank ſo liberally of the Wine, that he made himſelf drunk, and lay ſhameleſly expos'd in his Tent. Ham and his Son Canaan ſee it, and accordingly they do their utmoſt to make him ridiculous. For this End, Ham tells this Story to his two Brethren without the Tent; Shem was principally concern'd at this Misfortune, and ſoon prevails with his Brother Japhet to cover their Father in the moſt decent Manner, which they did by taking a Garment upon their Shoulders and going backward, until they came to him. So when Noah awakes out of his Sleep, and knew what his Sons and his Grandſon Canaan had done, he in a prophetick Manner foretells, what ſhould happen unto them in future Ages. Accordingly he curſed Canaan and Ham, and foretold that the Poſterity of Canaan ſhould be conquer'd by the Poſterity of Shem or the Iſraelites, and they who remain'd, ſhould be in a ſervile Condition, Hewers of wood, and drawers of water. And alſo that (n) the reſt of the Poſterity of Ham, who liv'd in Africa, and being generally Blacks, ſhould be Slaves to other People, as many of them are at this Day to the Europeans in Europe, and a much greater Number in America. Then he bleſſed Shem, that the bleſſed LORD ſhould be the GOD of Shem. The true Religion ſhould continue in his Family, as it did among the Iſraelites, when Idolatry had prevail'd among other Nations. And laſt of all he bleſſeth Japhet, that GOD ſhould make his Poſterity, which inhabit all Europe, and alſo ſome large Kingdoms in Aſia very populous, and that the true Religion ſhould be propagated among them, and that (o) in due Time, (which I ſuppoſe will be at the Converſion of the Jews to Chriſtianity) the Land of Canaan ſhall be conquer'd by the Europeans aſſiſting the Jews, and that Branch of Ham's Family ſhall afterward be kept in ſubjection. After this when the Poſterity of Noah was very numerous at the Birth of Peleg, and when his Bleſſing of ſome and Curſing of others had probably made ſuch Feuds and Animoſities among them, that they could not dwell peaceably together, Noah in the hundred and firſt Year after the Flood, divides the Earth among his three Sons; and firſt he orders his Son Shem to live near him in Aſia, knowing that the true Worſhip of GOD would be continu'd in his Family: And he alſo allots Europe to Japhet, and Africa to Ham, and accordingly he ſends them weſtward to take Poſſeſſion of the Countries aſſign'd to them. In purſuance whereof Ham and Japhet with their Poſterity come to Shinaar, build the City of Babylon, and ſet about the building of a Tower, when their Languages were confounded, and ſo they were oblig'd in the 131ſt Year after the Flood to travel farther to their reſpective Habitations. In the mean Time the Children of Shem encreaſing were oblig'd alſo to ſeek for new Colonies. Thus Elam peopl'd Perſia. And (p) as Ham and Japhet went weſtward; ſo others of the Poſterity of Shem went eaſtward. Now the Chineſe Hiſtories affirm, that their Inhabitants firſt ſettled in the Province of Xenſi, which contains five great and 192 ſmall Cities, and is the moſt northweſt Province of China, and the neareſt to Mount Caucaſus, upon which the Ark reſted, and from which the Family of Shem might travel eaſtward to go to China. And (q) the Scituation of that antient and large Town of Taiquen, the capital City of the Province, which is in the Weſt of China, doth demonſtrate, that the Inhabitants came thither from the weſtern Parts of the World, and conſequently that they were of Shem's Poſterity, according to the account of Moſes in the tenth Chapter of Geneſis. And as Nimrod the Grandſon of Ham had laid an early Foundation for the Monarchy of Babylon, which was very near to the Poſterity of Shem, from whence they might make frequent Incurſions to annoy their Neighbours, which their Revenge might naturally prompt them to; ſo we may ſuppoſe that the Sons of Shem being thus pent up on the weſt Side, might willingly remove to a conſiderable Diſtance from thoſe ill Neighbours to ſuch Places, where they might live in Peace and ſafety. And as the main Ocean hinder'd their going ſouthward, and the Deſerts of Aſia and thoſe Mountainous Countries hinder'd them from going northward; ſo they were oblig'd to go the farther eaſtward, and this Scituation of the World obliges them to go the ſooner into China; and therefore we may well ſuppoſe it to be inhabited about the Time of the Diſperſion from thence. And it is admirable to find, that Navaret happens to place it in this very Year, according (as he tells us) to the Account of their moſt authentick Hiſtorians.

Or if we will not allow China to be inhabited ſo early as this; yet we may conclude it to be peopled by the Poſterity of Shem by Travailing through a plain Country, as ſoon as the Poſterity of Japhet could inhabit Germany by croſſing the Helleſpont. And there are Reaſons to think, that the Inhabitants were ſettled there by Tuiſco their firſt King, about ſixty Years after the Diſperſion from Babylon, which occaſion'd ſome to believe him to have been one of the Sons of Noah born after the Flood.

65. From hence it is very probable, that whatever Remains can be met with of the Antediluvian Language and Writing, muſt only be met with among the Chineſe. Their Anceſtors came not to Babylon, when the Tower was built; and therefore their Speech could be no way affected by the Confuſion, which happen'd there. They ſeem to have been always a diſtinct and unmixt People, and in a great Meaſure bounded by the Sea, and on other Parts by many Rivers running from the Lake of Kia, by high Mountains, and after that by a very large Wall; ſo that their Language ſeems to be leſs liable to be corrupted. All our Languages conſiſt of Words and Syllables, which are made by a few Letters; but this is wholly different from the Way of Expreſſing intire Sounds and of Varying the Senſe by Tones and Accents as among the Chineſe. So that the Original of their Language is of ſuch a Nature, as is no way conſiſtent with any that are known among us, but it muſt be deriv'd from another Quarter.

66. And as to their way of Writing, Clemens Alexandrinus (r) tell us, That there are three Ways whereby the Antients did expreſs their Thoughts by the Help of Pen, Ink and Paper. The firſt is by Hieroglyphicks. But this was only in uſe among the Egyptians. And as we find it there; ſo there we muſt leave it. The ſecond is by Letters. This by many is attributed to Moſes; and it is certain, that the Books, which he hath left us, are by far the moſt antient of any in the World. But others more juſtly attribute it to Thoth or the Egyptian Mercury, or their ſecond King, who died near ſix hundred Years before Moſes was born. In this Method the Records were probably written at Berytus, before he came from thence to be King of Egypt. And thus without Diſpute the Wiſdom of the Egyptians was tranſmitted to Poſterity, in which Moſes being learn'd was the better qualify'd to write his Hiſtory from the Creation of the World. The Third Method is by Symbols, where each Character ſtands for a Word, or rather for a Thing; and conſequently there are as many Characters, as there are Words or Things to be expreſs'd. Theſe Characters when rightly underſtood may equally be read in any other Language, as in the Language of the Writer. And thus the Inhabitants of Japan and the neighbouring Iſlands maintain a Correſpondence with the Chineſe by Writing, tho' they do not underſtand each others Language; and the Pen expreſſes what the Tongue cannot diſcover. As this is not ſo perfect a Method; ſo without Diſpute it is the moſt ancient. This is therefore ſuppos'd to be the Character, in which (s) Enoch the ſeventh from Adam recorded his Prophecy, and in which all the Antediluvian Monuments, whatever they were, were writt'n, which were afterward us'd by Noah and his Sons, and is the peculiar Character, which the Chineſe and the neighbouring Nations uſe at this Time.

67. But to return from this Digreſſion, The ſecond thing propos'd is to ſhew, that in the Pagan World Noah went under the Name of Saturn, and Ham under the Name of Jupiter. It is certain that (t) a very learned Prelate endeavours to prove, that Chronus or Saturn is Ham, and conſequently that Jupiter is Mizraim. It may be ſo in the Tables of Sanchoniatho, on which he comments. And the the Heathens might by Miſtake adapt ſome Stories to two particular Perſons, and ſometimes call the Father and the Son by the ſame Name. And it is ſtill more probable, that the Egyptians, who were deſirous to be thought the moſt ancient People in the World, might call Ham by the Name of Chronus Χρόνος or Time, thereby to imply, that there was no Time exiſtent before him, who was the Founder of their Nation, and by this Means obliterate the Diſgrace, which lay upon him for the Expulſion of his aged Father, and which other Nations did ſo much object againſt him. And thus in Egypt Ham went under the Name of Chronus or Saturn. But it is as certain, that the Generality of the World, and particularly the Greeks, who were the Offſpring of Japhet, and who might have good and authentick Accounts from him of all theſe Matters, and lay under no Obligation to conceal the Miſcarriages of Ham, had other Notions, and that they call'd Noah by the Name of Chronus, and Ham by the Name of Jupiter. This is (u) abundantly prov'd by learned Men, and their Arguments are theſe. 1. Saturn is ſtil'd παγγενέτωρ, The common Parent of Mankind; ſo was Noah. 2. Saturn was a juſt King, Noah was not only righteous himſelf; but he alſo is call'd (x) a preacher of righteouſneſs. 3. The Golden Age was under Saturn, when all things were common and undivided; and ſo it was under Noah before the Diſperſion of Nations. 4. All Men enjoy'd the higheſt Peace both under Saturn and under Noah. 5. In Saturn's Time all Mankind us'd but one Speech, which the Heathens extend under Saturn both to Men and Beaſts; and under Noah there was a Time, when all the Earth was of one Language. 6. Saturn's Wife was call'd Rhæa or Earth, becauſe Noah was call'd (y) איש אדמה A man of the Earth, or The Husband of the Earth, that is, according to the Hebrew Idiom, a Huſband man, which the Mythologiſts took in the plain and literal Senſe, and ſo call'd him Ὁ ἀνὴρ τῆς γῆς. 7. The Plantation of Vines is attributed to Saturn by the Heathens; and to Noah in the Scriptures. 8. Saturn is ſtil'd the Preſident of Drunkenneſs from Noah's being drunk. 9. Hence came alſo the Saturnalia or Revels conſecrated to the Memory of Saturn. 10. Saturn is mention'd by the Poets to be the Author of that Law, that none ſhould ſee the Nakedneſs of the Gods without Puniſhment, which was but the Tradition of the Curſe on Ham for Beholding his Father's Nakedneſs. 11. Saturn and Rhæa, and thoſe with them are ſaid to be born of Thetis or the Ocean, which plainly alludes to Noah and his Company eſcaping from the Flood. 12. Hence a Ship is ſaid to be the Symbol of Saturn, and Saturn is ſaid even by Sanchoniatho to ſail about the World. 13. Saturn is alſo ſaid to foretel Deucalion's Flood, and to make uſe of a Dove, with ſeveral other Particulars anſwerable to thoſe of Noah. 14. Saturn is alſo ſaid to have devour'd all his Children except three, namely Jupiter Hammon, who is the ſame with Ham; Neptune, who is the ſame with Japhet; and Pluto, who is the ſame with Shem; and this ſeems to be nothing elſe but the Deſtruction of the old World except the three Sons of Noah. Laſtly, Saturn by the Poets is call'd Χρόνος or Time. Time is a Space meaſur'd by the Motion of the Heavens, and hence Saturn was call'd the Son of Ὀυρανὸς or Heaven; and ſo was Noah reckon'd, becauſe the Computation of Time in the new World began from him.

68. That Ham went under the Name of Jupiter in the Heathen World is much more eaſy to prove. He is call'd (*) in Greek Ζεὺς; and tho' it is a Greek Word, yet the Original is Hebrew, anſwering to Ham the Son of Noah. For Ζεὺς is deriv'd from Ζέσις Heat, and that from Ζέω to be hot; which anſwers exactly to the Hebrew Word חם hot, from the Radix חמם to be hot. Beſides (z) Herodotus tells us, that the Egyptians worſhip'd Jupiter Hammon. Others (a) ſay, that Jupiter Hammon ſucceeded Saturn. And (b) that the Africans worſhip'd Ham under the Name of Hammon, and worſhip'd Noah under the Name of Saturn, whence Africa was call'd Hammonia, or the Country of Hammon. And this was ſo well known, that (c) the Latin Poet Lucan mentions Jupiter Ammon as worſhipp'd alſo by the Ethiopians, Arabians and Indians. Many other Teſtimonies might be alledg'd, but theſe are ſufficient to prove, That the Name Hammon was given to Jupiter, and could have its Original from no other but Ham, to which Ζεὺς alludes.

69. Thirdly, When Ham drove out Noah from his Habitation, he retired to China. That Jupiter drove out Saturn from his Dominions, is a Story ſo well known in the Claſſick Authors, and the Hiſtory of the Heathen Gods, that it is needleſs to inſiſt upon it. And that it was true in Fact alſo concerning Ham and Noah ſeems probable from concurring Circumſtances. When Egypt was ſettled as the Lot and Land of Ham, we find no Account of his Government there; but that his Son Mizraim was the firſt King of that Country. On the other Hand we find Nimrod the Son of Cuſh and Grandſon of Ham very buſie in eſtabliſhing the Aſſyrian Monarchy at Babylon, and daily hunting after new Conqueſts. It is very probable, that Ham was with him at that Time, becauſe we cannot find him in Egypt. When this Monarchy was ſettled, Ham, remembring the Curſe, which Noah had pronounc'd againſt him, and finding that his Poſterity were doom'd to the hot and barren Climate of Africa, whilſt the Poſterity of his two Brethren were allotted to live in a more fruitful and temperate Zone, might naturally reſolve to revenge it, and eaſily take Forces from Babylon, ſet upon his Father by ſurprize, and drive him from his Country. And this I take to be the Reaſon that (d) his Image was ſet up in the Tower of Babylon with a Sword in his Hand as a Warrior, and call'd by the Name of Bel, or בעל the Lord. The Chaldeans (whoſe Teſtimony in this Caſe is moſt to be regarded of all profane Authors) ſay, that (e) Xiſuthrus (for ſo Noah was call'd among them) coming out of the Ark with his Wife and Daughter and the Pilot of the Ship, or Shem and his Wife offer'd Sacrifice to GOD, and then that he and they diſappear'd, and were never ſeen again. And as the Scriptures ſpeak not a Word of Noah, the great Father of Mankind, after the curſing of Ham, excepting only the Years that he liv'd; ſo it ſeems to be a plain Intimation, that he had no farther Share in the Actions related in the ſacred Scriptures; but that he was accordingly plac'd in a Region out of the Compaſs of that Hiſtory. The Latins tell us, that when Jupiter drove out his Father Saturn, he forc'd him to flee into a Country call'd Latium from the Latin Word Lateo to lie hid, becauſe no one knew where he was; he was driven into a Country unknown to them, and beyond the Bounds of their Empire, Hiſtory or Knowledge, as China always was. And as he was driven out of his Country by the Forces which came from the Weſt; ſo he muſt flee the contrary Way, and this brings him toward China, from the Gordican Mountains, eſpecially if we can find any Footſteps of him in thoſe Countries.

70. Fourthly. The Chineſe Hiſtory gives an Account of their firſt King Fohi, that he reign'd an hundred and fifteen Years among them, and deſcribes him in ſuch a Manner, that we may conclude him to be Noah, and conſequently we may by the Date of Noah's Death fix the true Antiquity of this their Empire. This depends upon the following Obſervations, Firſt, The (f) Chineſe Hiſtorians ſay, that Fohi had no Father, which agrees very well with Noah, becauſe the Memory of his Father might be loſt in the Deluge. However, he had no Father in the New World, tho' he had in the Old; and this might give Occaſion to that Fable, that he had no Father at all. Secondly, Hence (g) he is call'd the Son of Ὀυρανὸς or Heaven, becauſe they ſay that he had a Mother and no Father, and that his Mother conceiv'd him by the Banks of a Lake near the Town of Lanthieu, where as ſhe was walking ſhe ſaw the Footſteps of a Man upon the Sand, and was upon a ſudden ſurrounded with a Rainbow. Thus even in Sanchoniatho, Chronus is the Son of Ouranus. However, all this ſeems to be but an imperfect Tradition of the firſt Appearance of the (*) Rainbow to Noah after the Flood. Thirdly, The (h) Character and Appellation of Fohi among the Chineſe agrees exactly with that the Scriptures affirm of Noah. Father Le Compte ſaith, that Fohi the firſt Emperor of China carefully bred up ſeven Sorts of Creatures, which he us'd to ſacrifice to the ſupreme Spirit of Heaven and Earth. And that for this Reaſon ſome call him Paophi, that is Oblation. Thus (i) Noah took into the Ark of every clean beaſt by ſevens, of fowls alſo of the air by ſevens the male and the female, to keep ſeed alive upon the face of all the earth. And after the Flood (k) Noah builded an altar unto the LORD, and took of every clean beaſt, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt offerings upon the altar. It hath alſo been credibly reported to me by one, who was for ſome Time in thoſe Parts, That the Chineſe ſpeak very much of the long Life of their firſt King. Thus Noah was above ſix hundred Years older than any one beſides him in thoſe Countries, for his Sons were ſettled in other Parts of the World. And as there are none born ſince the Flood, who are recorded in Scripture to have liv'd four hundred and fifty Years; ſo it is probable, that he might exceed the Age of any one in the Country by above five hundred Years, ſince he died when he was nine hundred and fifty Years old. And Laſtly, (l) the Chineſe Hiſtories affirm, that Fohi ſettled in the Province of Xenſi, which is the neareſt Part of the Country to Mount Caucaſus, upon which the Ark reſted, and conſequently the moſt likely Place for Noah to ſettle in.

71. Fifthly, From hence it is evident, that the Chineſe might have from Noah ſuch Notions which they retain'd, as were agreeable to the Scriptures. Martinius (m) obſerves, That the common Opinion of the Chineſe is, that the World had a Beginning, and that there was never any among them, who held the Eternity of the World, except ſuch who liv'd ſince the Incarnation of CHRIST, and the Introduction of Idolatry into thoſe Kingdoms. Secondly, He tells us, that they commonly acknowledge a GOD, whom they call Xangti, which is not the Name but the Epithet of GOD, and ſignifies the ſupream Governor both of Heaven and Earth. Thirdly, He ſaith, That they acknowledge a firſt Man brought forth out of the Chaos in one Night in the Spring, which Opinion ſome among them have made intricate by the Addition of their own Fables. Fourthly, He ſhews, that Sacrifices have been in Uſe among them. Fifthly, That they believe a Certainty of Rewards for Virtue, and Puniſhments for Vice after this Life. Sixthly, That they believe the Exiſtence of good and bad Angels. Seventhly, That they do aſſign to ſome of them the Protection of Cities and Provinces, and pay them a great Veneration at the Inſtalment of their Magiſtrates. Eighthly, That they acknowledge them to be incorporeal Beings, and that it is but of late that they have erected and conſecrated Statues to them. And Laſtly, That they have a very great Knowledge of the Flood, which in their Account happen'd to be about three thouſand and five hundred Years before the Birth of CHRIST. Such things as theſe their Anceſtors might learn from Noah their firſt King. And as they kept an Account of his Actions in Writing; ſo they might alſo of his Inſtructions. All this makes (n) the Obſervation of Father Le Compte to ſeem very juſt. China, happier in its Foundation than any other Nation under the Sun, drew in the chief of the holy Maxims of their ancient Religion from the Fountain Head. The Children of Noah, who were ſcatter'd all over the eaſtern Parts of Aſia (or rather Noah himſelf) who in all Probability founded this Empire, being themſelves in the Time of the Deluge Witneſſes of the Omnipotence of their Creator, tranſmitted the Knowledge of him, and inſtill'd the Fear of him into all their Deſcendents. And (as he adds) The Footſteps, which we find in their Hiſtories, will not let us doubt of the Truth of this.

72. From what hath been ſaid we may fix eth Hiſtory and Chronology of the Chineſe Empire in this Manner. Noah or Fohi their firſt King died in the Year before CHRIST 2001, as appears from the Account in the Scripture. As he reign'd 115 Years, ſo he began to reign, and the Empire was founded in the Year before CHRIST 2116.

Secondly, The ſtanding ſtill of the Sun in the Time of Joſhua happen'd to be in the 663d Year of the Chineſe Empire, as appears from this Computation.

To the Departure out of Egypt	430
To the Entrance into Canaan	040

Now this according to the Chineſe Chronology happen'd in the Reign of their ſeventh Emperor Yao, who reign'd 90 Years, and it really happen'd in the 76th Year of his Reign, as appears alſo from this Computation.

Theſe two Epochas being therefore thus fix'd it appears from them, that the Conjunction of the five Planets, which their Annals report to have been in the Time of their fifth Monarch Chuenhio or in the Year before CHRIST 2012, did not happen in his Time; but in the hundred and fourth Year of the Reign of Fohi or Noah, and eleven Years before his Death.

From hence it alſo appears, that the Obſervation of the Winter Solſtice about the eighteenth Degree of Aquarius, which their Annals report to have been made in the Reign of their ſeventh Monarch Yao, and happen'd to be about the Year before CHRIST 1847 was not made in his Reign, but about the 14th Year of the Reign of the third Monarch Hoamti, as appears alſo from this Computation.

73. For a farther Confirmation of this Account it may be obſerv'd, that the Ages of the Kings of China according to this Computation are agreeable to the Lives of the Cotemporary Patriarchs after the Flood. This Obſervation was of Uſe to ſettle the Time of the Egyptian Kings, and may in this Caſe be of as great Uſe to ſettle the Scripture Chronology and that of the Chineſe by comparing them together. And indeed the Wiſdom and Providence of GOD cannot be ſufficiently admir'd in ordaining the Lives of Men to be ſo long in antient Times, and afterwards gradually to decreaſe, and alſo in ſetting down a particular Account of them; that we might have a Standard in the ſacred Scriptures, whereby we may try all ſuch, as ſhall pretend to as great or a greater Antiquity. And as this is a remarkable and a principal Character, which we have, whereby to diſtinguiſh what pretended Antiquities are really genuine, and what are falſe; ſo if the Chineſe Annals are underſtood and adjuſted, as is beforemention'd, the Length of the Reigns and Lives of the firſt Monarchs will very exactly agree with the Duration of the Lives of Men in the ſame Ages, as they are recorded in the holy Scriptures, until ſuch Time as the Lives and Reigns are generally of the ſame Length as they are at this Day; and ſo they are ever after in the Chineſe Hiſtories, when compar'd together, as will appear in Part by the following Table.

74. Thus for example, The Chineſe are credibly reported to boaſt very much of the long Life of Fohi their firſt King. And it is certain, that Noah liv'd 950 Years, and there is no one recorded in Scripture born after his Deceaſe, or among all the Kings of China, who liv'd two hundred Years. Secondly, After the Flood Shem, Arphaxad, Salah and Eber liv'd above four hundred Years, and if the immediate Succeſſors of Fohi had been cotemporary with them, they would no doubt have liv'd to the ſame Age. Thirdly, according as they are plac'd in the Table, Xinnum the immediate Succeſſor of Fohi liv'd in Abraham's Time. Abraham died at 175 Years of Age, and Xinnum reign'd 140 Years. Hoamti his Succeſſor was cotemporary with Iſaac. Iſaac liv'd 180 Years, and Hoamti reign'd 100 Years; ſo that it is probable, that he might live more than 111 Years, as they are mention'd in the Table, eſpecially ſince he was of ſuch an Authority as to be able to drive out the other Family and reign in their Stead. Xaohao the immediate Succeſſor of Hoamti was cotemporary with Jacob. Jacob liv'd 147 Years, and Xaohao reign'd 84 Years; ſo that it is probable that he liv'd more than the 100 Years, as they are mention'd in the Table. Chuenhio the immediate Succeſſor of Xaohao was cotemporary with Joſeph. Joſeph liv'd 110 Years, and Chuenhio reign'd 78; ſo that it is probable that he might have liv'd more than the 91 Years aſſign'd to him in the Table, and conſequently came up nearer to the Age of Joſeph. Tico the immediate Succeſſor of Chuenhio was cotemporary with Kohath; Kohath liv'd 133 Years, and Tico liv'd 105. Yao, who after a few Years ſucceeded Tico, was cotemporary with Moſes. Moſes liv'd 120 Years, and Yao liv'd 118 Years. Xun the Succeſſor of Yao was cotemporary with Joſhua; and each of theſe liv'd 110 Years. Yu the Succeſſor of Xun liv'd 100 Years, and after his Deceaſe the Lives of the Emperors of China, as they appear in the Catalogue, were much the ſame with their Cotemporaries, and as they are alſo at this very Time.

75. Thus have we found the Time when the Empire of China firſt began, and alſo the Time when ſeveral of their Succeſſors liv'd. There ſtill remains another Difficulty which is the Diſagreement of the Time, according to the Chineſe and the Hebrew Chronology. According to the Chineſe Chronology, Fohi died in the Year before CHRIST 2837, and Noah, which is the ſame with Fohi, died in the Year 2001; ſo that here are 836 Years Difference between theſe two Accounts. Now it had been impoſſible to reconcile theſe together unleſs Father Couplet had given us not only the Annals of the Kingdom, but alſo the Genealogies of their Kings. By comparing theſe Genealogies it is eaſy to obſerve, That the Years of ſome of the Families of their ancient Kings were not ſucceſſive to each other, but collateral or cotemporary with them or ſuch who ſerv'd as Deputies to ſome of their ancient Emperors. The Annexing theſe Tables together on ſome unknown Occaſion made others tranſcribe them in ſuch a Manner, that they, who govern'd together at the ſame Time in ſeveral Provinces are mention'd in ſome Tables as ſucceeding each other in the whole Empire. This made ſome Pieces of the Egyptian Chronology ſo vaſt and extravagant. According to ſuch a Way of Reckoning the one and thirty Kings in Canaan with their Succeſſors, or the Princes over the Hundred and ſeven and twenty Provinces in Perſia might have extended their Series of Years to a Prodigious Number. This is allow'd by (p) Martinius himſelf in the Chineſe Hiſtory of Fohi to have been the Occaſion of the exceſſive and unreaſonable Largeneſs of their moſt ancient Accounts. So that it is very likely that this ſo common and eaſy an Error hath been the Cauſe of the too great Length of their Computation ſince Fohi, as well as before him. But to come to Particulars. It hath been obſerv'd, that the Number of Generations, who are nam'd from the ſame common Stock to the third Family, is but two more than thoſe, who are nam'd to the ſecond, altho' (q) in the preſent Series of their Chronology there are no leſs than 644 Years diſtance between them. It is alſo remarkable that after the firſt Time of the Chineſe Emperors, the Dominion came into the Hands of three famous Families, the Head of every one of which was deſcended from Hoamti the third Emperor. The Head of the firſt Family Yu began not to reign according to their Annals 'till three hundred and ninety Years after the Death of Hoamti, and the Monarchy is ſuppoſed to continue in this Family for ſeventeen Reigns and 441 Years. And yet in the Genealogy he is but the fifth by the Name of Hoamti; ſo that here we may ſuppoſe eleven Kings plac'd ſucceſſively, who ought to have been collateral. The Head of the ſecond Family Chimtam is ſuppos'd in the Annals to begin to reign at the End of theſe 441 Years, that is, 831 Years after Hoamti. This Monarchy is ſuppos'd to continue in this Family for 28 Reigns and 644 Years, and yet in the Genealogy he is but the ſeventeenth Perſon by Deſcent from Hoamti; ſo that here alſo we may ſuppoſe eleven Kings to be plac'd ſucceſſively, which ſhould have been collateral. But then the Head of the third Family Vuvum began not to reign by theſe Annals 'till a Succeſſion of the before-mention'd 28 Kings and 644 Years were ended, that is 1475 Years after Hoamti; and yet he is ſtill in the Genealogy but the Nineteenth Perſon by name from him; ſo that there are but two Genealogies allow'd for 644 Years, and all the reſt are plac'd ſucceſſively, who ſhould have been collateral. It hath been therefore thought reaſonable by ſome to ſuppoſe, that Yu the Founder of the firſt Family, and Chimtam the Founder of the ſecond, and Vuvam the Founder of the third were nearer to their common Progenitor than they are there plac'd, and at ſuch Diſtances as ſhall naturally correſpond to ſix, ſeventeen and nineteen Generations reſpectively. And if to ſeventeen Generations they allow'd ſix hundred and forty four Years, then inſtead of 1475 Years for nineteen Generations, we ought to allow about 719 Years, which being ſubſtracted from 1475 Years leaves about 756 Years for the Difference in which the Chineſe Hiſtory exceeds the Truth, in the Account theſe three Families, and which being ſubſtracted from 836 the real Difference leaves an Error but of 80 Years in ſuch a Rude Calculation, and if it is added to the Reſt, (which will be but little more than four Years in each Genealogy) will then make the Scripture and the Chineſe Chronology exactly to agree in all the ſucceſſive Years, as in (r) the following Table.

76. There are ſome who (s) pretend, that thoſe are only nam'd in the Genealogies, who were ſomewhat remarkable, tho' there were in Reality more Generations. But this looks like a meer Evaſion of the Chineſe Hiſtorians. For it doth not appear, that one half of thoſe, which are nam'd, were any Way remarkable; nor is it likely, that if they had known the Names of any more, they would have conceal'd them from us. Genealogical Tables do not regard the Merits of Perſons, but only their bare Names. And ſince we have but five Deſcents before the firſt Family, but ſixteen before the ſecond and but eighteen before the third in theſe Genealogical Tables, we may well ſuppoſe, that there were ſo many, and that there were no more. And it is as reaſonable to conclude, that there are ſome Names left out in the Catalogue of the Britiſh Kings ſince William the Conqueror, as that there are any Names omitted in the Chineſe Genealogies, ſince the Reign of Hoamti, from whence they begin.

77. In the midſt of theſe Difficulties it might reaſonably have been expected, that the particular Account of the Eclipſes of the Sun, which is given us in their Annals, might have been of eſpecial Uſe to have fix'd their Chronology; but by taking a more exact View of them, we may obſerve, that Errors have crept into thoſe Accounts which muſt have been occaſion'd by the Negligence or Careleſneſs of Tranſcribers. And ſince it hath thus happen'd in ſuch Particulars, where they can have no Deſign in View; we have the greater Reaſon to ſuſpect them in all other Parts, eſpecially ſince they might be apt to enlarge their Computations like the Reſt of the World, that ſo their Nation might ſeem more ancient than it really was. I ſhall only inſtance in the two firſt Eclipſes of the Sun, which were recorded to have happened during the Reign of the third Family, even that of Vuvam. The firſt was in the Reign of Teuvam the twelfth King of that Family, in the ſecond Year of the thirty third Cycle. The firſt Year of this Cycle was the Year before CHRIST 777, and conſequently the ſecond Year was the Year before CHRIST 776, or if according to the Method before propos'd (t) a Biſſextile Year is inſerted in the Year before CHRIST 00, it will happen in the Year 775. Now it is recorded by Martinius that Chuenhio the fifth Emperor (u) ſettled the firſt Day and Month of the Year, to begin after the Change of the Moon, which happen'd neareſt the fifteenth Degree of Aquarius, which was in the middle Space between the Sun's being on the Winter Tropick, and the vernal Equinox. And gave this Reaſon, becauſe about that Time of the Year, the Water began to be free from Ice, the Silk-worms began to appear, the Earth was now adorn'd with Flowers, and the Spring came on. And accordingly, this Method was ever ſince obſerv'd by the Chineſe, tho' they often differ'd concerning the Time of the Day or Night, in which the Year was to begin. Now it appears by Calculation that in the abovemention'd Year, in the Province of Xenſi (which I take to be about the Latitude of 35 Degrees, and about the Longitude of 130 Degrees eaſtward from the Meridian of London) the Sun came to the fifteenth Degree of Aquarius about the fifteenth Day of February, and that the New Moon, from whoſe Appearance or φάσις the Year began, was on the tenth Day of February, and conſequently the End of the tenth Month, when this Eclipſe was to happen, was on the third Day of December, when the Poſition of the Heavens was as follows:

Sun and Moon in ♐ 8d. 4m.
The Dragon's Head in ♌ 20d. 3m.
The Argument of Latitude 3s. 14m.
And the Moon's North Latitude 5d. 8m.

So that there could be no Eclipſe at all about that Time.

78. The ſecond Eclipſe, which is mention'd, is a total Eclipſe of the Sun, in the Reign of Huonvam the fourteenth King of the ſame Family, and in the ninth Year of the thirty fourth Cycle. The firſt Year of this Cycle was the Year before CHRIST 717, and conſequently the ninth Year was the Year before CHRIST 709, or if (x) a Biſſextile Year is inſerted for the Year of CHRIST 00, it will happen in the Year 708, when the Sun alſo came to the fifteenth Degree of Aquarius about the fifteenth Day of February, as before, and the new Moon, from whoſe Appearance or φάσις the Year began, was on the twenty firſt Day of February, and conſequently the End of the ſeventh Month, when this Eclipſe is reported to have happen'd, was on the fourteenth Day of September, when the Poſition of the Heavens was as follows:

Sun and Moon in ♍ 15d. 04m.
The Dragon's Tail in ♋ 14. 22.
The Argument of Latitude 8s. 0d.
The South Latitude of the Moon 4d. 19m.

So that there could be no Eclipſe at all about that Time.

79. But if it was poſſible to rectify this Total Eclipſe, ſo as to find out the Truth thereof; yet after all the Diſtance between theſe two is ſuch, that it is impoſſible to reconcile them. The Difference between theſe two Eclipſes, or between Dec. 3. Anno ante CHRISTUM 775, and September 14, Anno ante CHRISTUM

(t) Chap. 1. ſect. 3. (u) Hiſtoria Sinica. page 33, &c. (x) Chap. 1. ſect. 3.

STUM 708, is ſixty ſix Years, and 285 Days, in which Time the Motion of the Dragon's Head is as followeth :

	s.	d.	m.	ſe.
Years 60	00	26	50	15.
Years 6	03	26	01	29.
Days 285	00	15	05	32.
Motion of ☊	05	07	57	16.
Diſtance of ☊ from ☌	00	22	02	44.

Difference of Latitude for the ſame Diſtance $1^{d.}\ 52^{m.}\ 16^{ſe.}$ which is ſo great, that it is impoſſible, that there can be two Eclipſes at ſuch a Diſtance; and even the Addition of an Embolimæan Month, in which the Motion of either Node is only $1^{d.}\ 38^{m.}\ 30^{ſe.}$ is not ſufficient to alter the Moon's Latitude ſo much as to cauſe a Poſſibility of an Eclipſe at both theſe Diſtances; but two ſuch Eclipſes might have happen'd, if we allow the Diſtance of another Year for a Miſtake in the Tranſcriber; ſo that the total Eclipſe being found out, the other might be rectify'd accordingly.

80. The Way therefore to regulate the Chineſe Chronology muſt be thus:

Firſt, Make a (y) Chronology according to the Scripture Account from the Reign of Fohi or Noah to the End of the firſt Family or that of Yu, which is about 932 Years. Then (z) make a Chronology backward from the Birth of our SAVIOUR, to the Beginning of the Reign of the third Family or that of Vuvam, which is about 1121 Years; and by theſe it will appear, that Vuvam the Founder of the third Family began to Reign but 17 Years after the firſt Family, or that of Yu was extinct; and conſequently that the ſecond and the third Families were generally cotemporaries, and therefore muſt reign together in different Provinces of China. So that Chimtam, who was of the third or youngeſt Branch of Hoamti having put an End to the Government of the elder Family, and having reign'd thirteen Years, Vuvam in the fourteenth Year of Taikia the Succeſſor of Chimtam raiſes a Rebellion againſt him, as being of the elder Family; and tho' he was not able to expel him from the Kingdom; yet he took a conſiderable Part thereof for himſelf, and ſo the Families reign'd together until the ſecond Family was extinct, and then the third Family and their Succeſſors reign'd as ſole Monarchs.

81. From hence we may gueſs at the Method by which theſe Errors at firſt crept into the Chineſe Chronology, and how to rectify them. At firſt the Records of the three Families were kept diſtinct, and the Genealogies from Hoamti were regularly plac'd, and each Branch enter'd according to their Names. And after this ſome Tranſcriber plac'd them all ſucceſſively, tho' ſeveral ſhould have been collateral. Another regulates the Cycles according to the Order, in which they were then plac'd; and another endeavours to lengthen the Genealogies by putting in three Blanks or Cyphers for ſo many Genealogies before the Family of Yu, and fifteen before the Family of Vuvam, that ſo the Generations might appear to bear ſome Proportion with their Annals, and thus one Error naturally begat another.

82. The way therefore to regulate them muſt be to ſettle the Tables, as it is abovemention'd, and to leave out all the Blanks and Cyphers in the Genealogies. The reſpective Names might well be unknown, becauſe there were no ſuch Men ever living in the World, and the leaving them out will fix the Genealogies and the Annals at once. Thus from Chuenhio to Yu, the Head of the firſt Family, there will remain three Generations, and he was the ſecond that reign'd after him at the Diſtance of 148 Years, which may well be allow'd for ſo many Generations in thoſe early Times. Secondly, From Sie who was cotemporary with Yao to Chimtam the Head of the ſecond Family there are thirteen Generations. In the Space of Time between the Beginning of each of their Reigns there are 521 Years; ſo that the Diſtance of each Generation one with another was forty Years. Thirdly, From Heucie, who was cotemporary with Yao, to Vuvam the Head of the third Family there are fifteen Generations. In the ſame Space of Time between the Beginning of each of their Reigns, when thus rectify'd, there are 538 Years; ſo that the Diſtance of each Generation one with another was ſix and thirty Years. And he that will compare theſe Diſtances, with thoſe immediately after the Flood, as they are recorded in (a) the holy Scriptures, will find a very great Affinity between them; where if we reckon from Arphaxad the Son of Shem to Abraham's eldeſt Brother, there are eight Generations and 290 Years, or 36 Years to each Generation one with another: Or if we reckon from Arphaxad to Abraham himſelf, there are likewiſe eight Generations or 350 Years, which is 44 Years alſo for the Mean Proportion of each Generation.

TABLE the Eighteenth.

A Specimen of the Chineſe Annals as they are begun in the Reign of Hoamti their third Emperor, and continued down for 10 Cycles or ſix hundred Years, taken out of Couplet's Confucius or Hiſtory of China.

NB. That in the ſame Manner theſe Annals are continued down by him for 4380 Years, or until the Year of CHRIST 1683.

Cycle the firſt. Year before CHRIST 2697.	HOAMTI call'd alſo Hiven yven reign'd an hundred Years.	HOAMTI, that is the yellow Emperor, was born of his Mother Fupao, and the Founder of the Monarchy, began to reign, being choſen by the petty Kings. He had his Palace call'd Chocheu in the Province of Pekin. He dedicated the Temple of Peace to Xangti, that is, to the ſupream Emperor or GOD, altho' after that it was a Cuſtom to ſacrifice in the open Air. He conquer'd the Rebel Chiyeu of the Stock of Xinnum in the third Battle. The Majeſty of the Empire began under him. A Diadem and yellow Cloaths were now permitted to be worn only by the Emperors. By the Aſſiſtance of Tanao he perfected the Cycle of ſixty Years. He invented a Table of Aſtronomy and Arithmetick, and alſo Muſick and Muſical Inſtruments, alſo Weapons, the Bow, Nets, Chariots, Boats, the Carpenter's and the Potter's Art, and Meaſures and Weights. He caſt twelve Bells of Braſs, repreſenting the twelve Months of the Year. He appointed Ciucum and Zamtie to keep an exact Series of Time, who alſo invented ſeveral Characters. He inſtitutes ſix Colci or chief Miniſters of State. He conquers twelve rebellious Princes. His Queen Luiſu teaches to nouriſh Silk-Worms, to weave Silk, and to dye various colours.
Cycle the ſecond. Year before CHRIST 2637.	2. XAOHAO call'd alſo Kintien reign'd eighty four Years.	HOAMTI wrote ſeveral Books concerning the Art of Phyſick hitherto in Uſe by obſerving the Pulſe, and his Aſſiſtants herein were Kipe, Soven, and Luicum. The Bird of the Sun is ſeen in the Top of the Palace, and an Unicorn in the Woods, both which were accounted as Omens of great Felicity. He had five and twenty Sons, and from them a long Generation of Grandchildren: And alſo 85 Emperors of three diſtinct Imperial Families for 2457 Years took their Riſe from HOAMTI like Boughs from a Tree. In the fortieth Year of the ſecond Cycle HOAMTI dies being 111 Years old, and was bury'd in the Province of Xantum. In the 41ſt Year of this Cycle XAOHAO Son of the deceas'd by Luyſu his Queen ſucceeds him. His Birth, Palace, and Grave was in Kiofeu a City in the Province of Xantum.
Cycle the third. Year before CHRIST 2577.		When XAOHAO was Emperor, the Bird of the Sun was ſeen again, which he appointed to be the Banner of the Empire. Under him there was a long Peace. He appointed Cities, and encompaſſes them with Walls. He was the Author of a new Muſick. He cauſed the Oxen to draw the Chariots. He

		He diſtinguiſhes the nine Degrees of the civil Magiſtrates by ſeveral Kinds of Birds, and the ſix Orders of Military Captains by the Repreſentation of Beaſts, which Cuſtom continues to this Time. He had four Sons, who were Magiſtrates under the following Emperor. Kienli or nine Potentates diſturb the Method of their Sacrifices, and make the People mad with Ghoſts and Apparitions. Here was the Beginning of more Superſtitions, which brought the Empire into Danger.
Cycle the fourth. Year before CHRIST 2517.	3. CHUENHIO call'd alſo Cao yam reign'd ſeventy eight Years.	XAOHAO dies in the fourth Year of this Cycle being an hundred Years old, and CHUENHIO the Grandſon of HOAMTI by his Mother Kiukive ſucceeds him in the fifth Year of this Cycle. His Palace was in the Town of Hoa in the Province of Pekim. He was a pious and a Religious Prince, he conquers nine petty Kings, he reduces the Rites of Sacrifices to their old Cuſtoms, and takes away the late Abuſes of them. He appoints, that the Emperor alone ſhould ſacrifice to the ſupream Emperor of Heaven in a very ſolemn Manner. He was the Author and Inventor of a Calendar, which is ſolemnly diſtributed every Year through the Empire from the Palace alone until this Day. He appointed the Year to begin from the Beginning of the new Moon, which was neareſt to the Spring, and which in China anſwer'd to the fifteenth Degree of Aquarius; which Order of Time was frequently chang'd, and ſometimes anticipated by a Month or more; but at laſt it was regulated under the fifth Family, that of Han, Hiaovu being the fifth Emperor, and ſettled in the ſame Manner, as it is now obſerv'd. A Conjunction of five Planets was then obſerv'd by him upon the ſame Day, in which there was alſo a Conjunction of the Sun and Moon.
Cycle the fifth. Year before CHRIST 2457.	4. TICO call'd alſo Caoſin, reign'd ſeventy Years.	CHUENHIO dies in the twenty ſecond Year of this Cycle, being ninety one Years of Age, and was buried in the Town of Hoa in the Province of Pekim. His Epitaph is extant at this Time. Tico his Grandſon by his Father Chaokie ſucceeded him in the twenty third Year of this Cycle. His Palace was in the City of Yenſu in the Province of Honan. He was a Prince obedient to the Heavens, a great worſhipper of Spirits, grave and liberal, with a kingly Aſpect. He us'd the ſame Habit and Worſhip with their wiſe Men. Under him there was a long Peace. He makes his Brethren and their Children Governors in the Province of Suchuen. He had four Queens by a new Example. The firſt having made a Vow to GOD, had a Son call'd Cie, who was a great Improver of Husbandry. The Second call'd Kim had a Son call'd Yao in the Fourteenth Month after her Conception. The third having offer'd a Sacrifice to GOD had a Son call'd Sie. And the fourth had a Son call'd Chi.

Cycle the sixth. Year before CHRIST 2397.	CHI reigns eight Years.	TICO appoints publick Teachers for the Instruction of the People. He appoints vocal Musick to stir up the People to mutual Love and the Study of Virtue. TICO dies in the thirty second Year of this Cycle in the hundred and fifth Year of his Age, and was bury'd in Pekim. In the thirty third Year of this Cycle Chi his Son by the fourth Queen succeeds him, but because he was of another Stock, and not according to the Law, he is depriv'd of the Empire by the Princes in the fortieth Year of this Cycle, and therefore was not reckon'd among the Number of the Emperors. In the forty first Year of this Cycle YAO the Son of TICO is made Emperor. He reign'd alone seventy two Years, and reign'd also twenty eight Years with his Copartner XUN. His Palace was in the City of Taiyven in the Province of Xansi. He was both an Emperor and a Law-maker, as also XUN his Successor was, and they both were Rules and Examples to all their Posterity; he was kind to the Poor, and respectful to the Aged, and it is believ'd, that it is owing to him, that a certain Number of Poor is at this Time maintain'd in every City by the Royal Magnificence.
	5. YAO call'd also Tam and Tao reign'd an hundred Years.
Cycle the seventh. Year before CHRIST 2337.		When YAO abounded in Wealth he contented himself with plain Food, Cloaths, House and Houshold Goods. He ascribes the Faults of his Subjects and the publick Calamities to himself alone. By the Assistance of Astronomers Ho and Hi he appoints twelve Lunar Months, six of thirty Days, and as many of nine and twenty, and the intercalary Months, which happen seven Times in nineteen Years. He appoints six Courts of Justice, which continue to this Time, and also five Degrees of Titular Noblemen. He reign'd so affectionately for fifty Years, that it seem'd to be as if he had not reign'd at all. In the fortieth Year of this Cycle there was a great Winter Flood. Quen was appointed to take Care for the Letting out of the Waters; but he was put to Death for his Negligence herein. His Son Yu is put in his Place, who spent thirteen Years successively in draining the Waters into the Sea and other Places, and it was suppos'd by some, that he would gain the Empire by this signal Service. In the fiftieth Year of this Cycle XUN is brought out of the Country to a very great Digniry by YAO, who had heard a great Report of his Dutifulness; and he gives him two of his Daughters in Marriage. In the fifty third Year of this Cycle XUN is preferr'd to be a Copartner in the Empire for eight and twenty Years. He as often as he view'd the Empire, did first offer a Sacrifice to Xamti or the supream GOD. He conquers four Rebels of the Race of Hoamti. He appointed five Kinds of Punishments, and in the Execution of them recommended Mercy. See Xukim.
Cycle the eighth. Year before CHRIST 2277.	6. XUN call'd also Yu reign'd alone fifty Years.	XUN makes a Sphere of the seven Planets of precious Stones. He divides the Empire into twelve Countries. In the twentieth Year of this Cycle YAO dies, in the hundred and eighteenth Year of his Age, leaving behind him nine Sons. He was buried in Kiofeu in the the Province of Xantum. The People lamented him for three Years like a Father or a Mother. In the twenty firſt Year of this Cycle XUN is made Emperor, being deſign'd for it by his Predeceſſor. His Palace was in Puchau in the Province of Xenſi. He appointed three Examinations, for the Inquiring into the good and bad Deeds of every Ruler. In the thirty ſixth Year of this Cycle new Stars were ſeen, one of them being like a half Moon, and ſeveral Clouds were ſeen ſpotted with ſeveral unuſual Colours. He appointed a new Muſick, and was himſelf skilful both in inſtrumental and vocal. In theſe Times it was cuſtomary to put the dead Bodies into a Faggot of Wood, or apply ſuch teſtaceous Powders as were of an eating Nature. The following Emperor commanded theſe to be made of Wood only, which Cuſtom continues to this Time. In the fifty fourth Year of this Cycle YU is choſen to be a Copartner in the Empire for ſeventeen Years. He gave leave for any Man that had been injured by him to declare his Grievance on a publick Table. There were eight of his privy Counſel of the Race of CHUENHIO, and as many of the Race of TICO. The famous Admonitions of Nobles Caotuo, Peye and Cie are now extant in the Book of Xukim.

Cycle the ninth. Year before CHRIST 2217.	1. YU reigns alone ten Years.	In the tenth Year of this Cycle XUN dies being an hundred and ten Years old, and was bury'd in the Province of Xenſi. In the eleventh Year of this Cycle YU or TAYU that is YU the great ſucceeds him, being of the fifth Generation by deſcent from CHUENHIO, and choſen by XUN before his own Children. He firſt founded the Imperial Family of Hia, which continu'd for 458 Years under 17 Emperors. His Palace was in the Town of Nganye in the Province of Xenſi. He was a pious and mild Prince. He divides the Empire into nine Provinces, and marks to what Government each of the twenty eight Conſtellations may anſwer. See in the Book of Xukim, what he hath written concerning the Diviſion of Grounds and Huſbandry. He caſts nine great Veſſels, to be as it were the Monuments of nine Provinces. He inſtitutes Muſick in praiſe of the two Legiſlators YAO and XUN. He forbids Wine, and chaſtiſes Uti, who was the Inventor of it. He plac'd a Drum and a Bell at the Gates of the Palace, at the Sound of which he went out to hear the Complaints of his Subjects; which Cuſtom is alſo in Uſe at this Time.
	2. TIKI reigns nine Years.	In the twentieth Year of this Cycle YU dies being an hundred Years old. In the twenty firſt Year of this Cycle TIKI ſucceeds him being choſen by the Princes for the Merits of his Father, having rejected YE, whom YU the Predeceſſor had ſolemnly propos'd for a Succeſſor. From him there was an hereditary Succeſſion of Sons and Grandchildren. He appointed nine Orders of Muſick and Dancing.

	3. TAICAM reigns nine and twenty Years.	In the nine and twentieth Year of this Cycle TIKI dies, and in the thirtieth Year of the ſame his Son TAICAM ſucceeds him. In the thirty firſt Year of this Cycle he prefers his five Brethren to five Principalities: but he himſelf being given to Luxury and Hunting neglects the Concerns of the Empire.
	4. CHUMCAM reigns eight Years.	In the forty ſeventh Year of this Cycle, when he had hunted an hundred Days beyond the River Lo, his Retreat to the Court was intercepted by Y one of the Princes, and his younger Brother CHUMCAM is declar'd Emperor, who notwithſtanding refus'd to act, as long as his elder Brother liv'd. In the fifty eighth Year of this Cycle TAICAM dies, and CHUMCAM a prudent and a modeſt Prince takes the Government upon him.
Cycle the tenth. Year before CHRIST 2157.	5. TISIAM reigns ſeven and twenty Years. Hanzo an Intruder reign'd forty Years.	In the ſecond Year of this Cycle, or as others ſay, in the ſixth Year, there was an Eclipſe of the Sun, which becauſe the Preſidents of Aſtronomy Hi and Ho being given to Wine did not diſcover, they were puniſh'd with Death. In the thirteenth Year of this Cycle CHUMCAM dies, and in the fourteenth Year TISIAM his Son ſucceeds him. He degenerates from the Inſtitutions of his Father, and hath his Palace in XAMKIEU. He raſhly commits the Government of the Empire to Y a Prince, by whom he is ſoon after ſent out of the World. In the eighth third Year of this Cycle TISIAM is kill'd by Hanzo, who uſurps and keeps Poſſeſſion of the Empire for forty Years. The Queen being great with Child flies to her Father, who was Prince of the Kingdom of Gem. She is delivered of XAOCAM, who after an Intermiſſion of forty Years takes the Government upon him.
Cycle the ſixteenth. Year before CHRIST 1797.	Second Family. 1. CHIMTAM reigns thirteen Years.	In this Manner are theſe Annals carried on by Father Couplet until the Year of CHRIST 1683. Here follows an Abſtract of a few Particulars, which when compar'd with the Genealogies may ſerve to explain what hath been already mention'd. In the thirty ſecond Year of this Cycle CHIMTAM is the ſeventeenth in order of the Race of HOAMTI. He comes to the Empire in the eighty ſeventh Year of his Age, and is the Founder of the Family of Xam, who held the Government 644 Years under eight and twenty Emperors. His Palace was in the City of Queite, in the Province of Honan.
Cycle the twenty ſeventh. Year before CHRIST 1137.	Third Family. 1. VUVAM reigns ſeven Years.	In the third Year of this Cycle there was an Earthquake for five Days, in which Year Veuvam dies in the fifth Year of his Principality and the ninety ſeventh Year of his Age, having left twelve Sons and among them VUVAM, who with ſeven hundred thouſand Men deſtroys the Tyrant CHEU.

A Continuation of TABLE the Eighteenth.

		In the ſixteenth Year of this Cycle CHEU deſtroys himſelf voluntarily by Fire, and with him the ſecond Family of Xam is extinct. In the ſame Year VUVAM founds the third Family of Cheu, which held the Government for 873 Years, under 35 Emperors.
Cycle the thirty third. Year before CHRIST 777.		In the ſecond Year of this Cycle and the tenth Month there was an Eclipſe of the Sun. NB. That from this Time they began in their Annals to inſert the Eclipſes of the Sun and Moon, which if they had done ſooner the Years of the other Emperors might have been more exactly determin'd.
Cycle the forty firſt. Year before CHRIST 297.	Fourth Family. 1. CHUAMSI-AMVAM reign'd three Years.	In the forty third Year of this Cycle CHEUKIUN Coavam, the great Grandchild of the thirty firſt Emperor by the Brother's ſide, being Maſter but of a ſmall Territory, abdicates himſelf, when his Affairs were deſperate, and afterward leads a private Life without any Honour. With him the Family of Cheu is extinct. In the forty ninth Year of this Cycle CHUAM SIAMVAM the Son of Hiaovenvam, (who only reign'd three Days) founds the Family call'd Sin, which held the Government for three and forty Years under four Emperors. In the fiftieth Year of this Cycle there was an Eclipſe of the Sun.

CHAP. VII.

The Hiſtory of Sanchoniatho before the Flood compar'd with the Holy Scriptures.

IN the twelfth Table of the preceding Chapter, I have plac'd the Genealogies of Seth and Cain together, as they are mention'd in the ſacred Scriptures, and in Sanchoniatho as he is tranſlated (a) out of Euſebius with proper Obſervations thereon by (b) the learned Biſhop Cumberland. I ſhall now give a ſhort Account of the Hiſtory of the Poſterity of Cain, as it is conveigh'd down to us by theſe Authors, and compare the ſame with the ſmall Remains thereof, which we find in the holy Writings; that ſo we may alſo endeavour to fix the Times, as near as poſſible, even of ſuch ſhort and obſcure Stories. And here it muſt be obſerv'd, that this Sanchoniatho was a profeſs'd Heathen, and accounted a moſt ancient and famous Hiſtorian, very much admir'd and made uſe of by the Philoſopher Porphyrius, who was the ſhrewdeſt Adverſary that ever Chriſtianity met with. For he being of too great Learning to be ſatisfy'd with the vain Pretences of the Greecians, made it his Buſineſs to ſearch after the moſt ancient Records to find out ſomewhat in them to confront the Antiquity of the Scriptures; but upon his moſt exact Inquiry he could find none of greater Antiquity than the Phœnician Hiſtory, nor any Author, who could hand it down to us like this Sanchoniatho. This Author had a peculiar Advantage in this, that not only his own Time was many Centuries before all Hiſtorians, that we have extant; but alſo that he ſearch'd at his own Town Berytus the Records, which were there depoſited and kept by the Cabiri, appointed by Thoth to ſet down theſe Antiquities, before he went into Egypt to be King there. The Author therefore and Compiler of theſe Records, being confeſs'd by this Hiſtorian to be Thoth the Grandſon of Ham, who liv'd near an hundred Years before the Flood, it is very probable, that he had this Account from his Grandfather, and poſſibly might have ſome Part thereof from Noah, ſince it is probable that he might be born about the ſame Time with Salah the Grandſon of Shem, which was within forty Years after the Flood. And as he was not (e) only a Philoſopher of the greateſt Size, which thoſe early Times afforded without the Pale of the true Church; ſo it is to be believ'd, that he took Care, that his Account ſhould be ſuch as beſt favour'd that Religion which he order'd to be exercis'd in that Kingdom. And accordingly it is very remarkable, that as Moſes gives us an Acconnt, how the Worſhip of GOD was kept up from the Creation of the World to his Time, that by this Method he might eſtabliſh the true Religion among the Jews; ſo Thoth gives us an Account, how Idolatry began and increas'd from the Creation of the World to his Time, that is, firſt to the Flood in the Poſterity of Cain, and afterwards in Canaan among the Poſterity of Ham, that ſo he might the better eſtabliſh it among the Egyptians. But here we may (f) ſee the wonderful Providence of GOD, that out of this eater came forth meat, and out of the Lion Honey, and the moſt conſiderable Teſtimones produc'd by Porphyrius to confute the Scriptures may ſerve to eſtabliſh them; and conſequently, that the Methods us'd to confirm his Pagan Religion may ſerve more effectually to confute it. Moſes gives us an Account of the Creation of the World and of Man, and how GOD reveal'd his Will to our firſt Parents, employ'd them in daily Work, inſtituted the Sabbath, promis'd CHRIST to them, and taught them the Uſe of Sacrifices. And that after the Murder of Abel, Cain was ſeparated from the Church of GOD, and his wicked Race mixing with the Poſterity of Shem introduc'd all Manner of Impiety, which brought on the Flood, as a juſt Judgment for the ſame, ſo that here the true Worſhip of GOD continu'd from the Beginning, and its Antiquity is the plain Argument of its Truth. The Antient Records of Berytus confute nothing of this, as indeed they could not, the Hiſtory being too well known at that Time to be contradicted; but only gives us an Account of the Riſe and Progreſs of Idolatry. And as it is natural for (g) evil men and ſeducers to wax worſe and worſe, deceiving and being deceived; ſo the late Original and continual Additions to it, as only mention'd by this Author might have convinc'd an unprejudic'd Reader, that the Religion was falſe, which he thus endeavour'd to eſtabliſh.

2. Anno Mundi 1. Sanchoniatho the Heathen ſuppoſes or rather affirms (h) that the Principle of the Univerſe was a dark and a windy Air, or a Wind made of dark Air, and a turbulent Evening Chaos, and that theſe things were boundleſs, and had no Form nor Figure. Thus in the Scriptures, (') In the beginning GOD created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without form and void, and darkneſs was upon the face of the deep. And the evening and the morning were the firſt day.

3. Sanchoniatho. (k) But when this Wind fell in Love with its own Principles, and a Mixture was made, that Mixture was called Deſire or Cupid, Πόθος. This Mixture compleated was the Beginning of the Making of all things, Κτίσεως. Of this Mixture with that Wind was begotten Môt, which ſome call Mud, others the Putrefaction of watery Mixture, and of this came all this Building, and the Generation of the Univerſe. Concerning this Môt the learned Biſhop Cumberland rightly judges, that it comes from the Arabick Word, which may be found in Dr. Caſtle's Lexicon under the Root מות, where the thirty third and thirty fourth Words in the Arabick are ماث and موث. The Verb ſignifies to ſtoop or macerate in Water, and the Noun denotes ſuch a Diſſolution, as is made thereby. In Scripture (l) The Spirit of GOD moved upon the face of the waters.

4. Sanchoniatho. (m) Thus ſhone out Môt, the Sun and the Moon, the greater and the ſmaller Stars. In Scripture. (n) And GOD ſaid, Let there be light, and there was light. And GOD ſaw the light that it was good, and GOD divided the light from the darkneſs. And GOD called the light day, and the darkneſs he called night. And the evening and the morning were the firſt Day. And GOD ſaid, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven, to divide the day from the night, and let them be for ſigns and for ſeaſons, and for days and for years. And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth: and it was ſo. And GOD made two great lights, the greater light to rule the day, and the leſſer light to rule the night; he made the ſtars alſo. And GOD ſet them in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth. And to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkneſs. And GOD ſaw that it was good.

5. Sanchoniatho. (o) But there were certain Animals which had no ſenſe, out of which were begotten intelligent Animals, and were called Zopheſemin, צופי שמים, that is, the Spies or Overſeers of Heaven, and were form'd alike in the ſhape of an Egg. And the Air ſhining thoroughly with Light, by its fiery Influence on the Sea and Earth, Winds were begotten and Clouds, and great Defluxions of the heavenly Waters. And when all thoſe things firſt were parted, and were ſeparated from their proper Places by the Heat of the Sun, they all then met in the Air, and daſh'd againſt one another, and ſo were broken to pieces, whence Thunders and Lightnings were made, and at the Stroke of theſe Thunders the before-mention'd intelligent Animals were awaken'd and frighten'd with the Sound, and Male and Female ſtir'd in the Earth and in the Sea. This is their Generation of Animals. In Scripture (p) The voice of the LORD is upon the waters; the GOD of glory thundereth. (q) And GOD ſaid, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven. And GOD created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly after their kind, and every fowl after his kind: and GOD ſaw that it was good. And GOD bleſſed them, ſaying, Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the ſeas, and let fowl multiply in the earth. And GOD ſaid, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle and creeping thing, and beaſt of the earth after his kind: and it was ſo. And GOD made the beaſt of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth on the earth after his kind. And GOD ſaw that it was good.

6. Euſebius. (r) After theſe things our Author (Sanchoniatho) goes on, ſaying, Theſe things are written in the Coſmogony of Taautus (that is of Thoth) and in his Memoirs, and out of the Conjectures, and ſurer natural ſigns, which his Mind ſaw, and found out, and wherewith he hath enlighten'd us. Afterwards declaring the Names of the Winds, as North and South, and the Reſt, he makes this Epilogue. But theſe firſt Men conſecrated the Plants ſhooting out of the Earth, and judg'd them to be Gods, and worſhipp'd them, upon whom they themſelves liv'd, and all their Poſterity, and all that were before them: To theſe they made their meat and their drink Offerings. And then he concludes. Theſe were the Devices of Worſhip agreeing with the Weakneſs and Want of Boldneſs in their Minds. Here it is obſervable, (s) that this Author reports the firſt Introducers of falſe Worſhip to begin their Religion with a devotional Reſpect to Plants, their Food which grew out of the Ground, as to their moſt immediate Benefactors in the ſupport of their Lives. It is alſo obſervable, That by The firſt Men cannot ſtrictly be meant the firſt Pair, becauſe the Author immediately adds, that thoſe who were before them, liv'd on Plants. Now none can be before the firſt Pair ſtrictly taken; ſo that he muſt mean more largely ſeveral Men, who liv'd in theſe eldeſt Times, and probably whilſt this very firſt Pair were living, tho' they themſelves were guilty of no ſuch Facts.

7. But Sanchoniatho not once mentioning the Providence of GOD as concern'd in the Creation of the World, or as appearing to manifeſt it ſelf in the firſt Ages, he therefore repreſents the Worſhip paid at firſt to Pagan Deities, as ſuch Devices, which only agreed with the Weakneſs and Want of Boldneſs in Men's Minds, that is, until ſuch Time as Paganiſm was improv'd to a greater Perfection. But we who know, that GOD created the World and all the things therein, and that he reveal'd himſelf and his Will to Adam and Eve, and was alſo known both to Cain and Abel, can give another Account of the Riſe and Progreſs of Idolatry, viz. not from any Want of knowledge, but from the Abuſe of that Knowledge, which they had. They could have no Notions, how the World was made, and how intelligent Animals were produc'd, but either by immediate Revelation from that GOD who made them, or as it was handed down to them from ſuch, to whom it was immediately reveal'd; ſo that at firſt they had the ſame Means of Knowledge in common with others. But (t) becauſe when they knew GOD they glorify'd him not as GOD, neither were thankful, but became vain in their imaginations, and changed the glory of the incorruptible GOD into an image made like unto corruptible man, and to birds and four footed beaſts, and creeping things, becauſe they changed the truth of GOD into a lie, and worſhipped and ſerved the creature more than the creator, who is GOD bleſſed for ever; and becauſe they did not like to retain GOD in their knowledge, therefore their fooliſh hearts were darkned, and therefore GOD gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do theſe things, which were not convenient. Hence we may ſuſpect, that at the Beginning they did not pay any ſuch devotional Reſpect to Plants, and that Sanchoniatho only inſerted this Clauſe out of his own Head, thereby to juſtify that ſordid and fooliſh Superſtition of the Egyptians. It ſeems to be agreed upon by all, that Paganiſm began at firſt with the Worſhip of the Sun, as the moſt glorious Being which they daily beheld, of whoſe light and heat they did conſtantly partake, and by whoſe Influence it is evident, that all things were made to grow for their Uſe; and therefore when they were reſolv'd to worſhip viſible Objects, there were none ſo likely to attract their Devotions. After this they worſhipped the Moon and the Stars, as being ſhining Lights in the Firmament of Heaven; and whom next to the Sun tho' they falſly worſhip'd, yet it was with a greater Shew of Reaſon, than the Worſhippers of Images can pretend to. An Image is known to be but Wood and Stone; but theſe being at a greater Diſtance from us, they could not tell what they were, and therefore might think them to be intelligent Beings, and that conſequently they might be (u) the Gods which govern the World. And therefore their Devotion to Plants ſeems to be only (x) a conſecrating them to the Sun, Moon and Stars, and other Parts of the Univerſe (to be protected by them from all Injuries of the Weather or Inſects) and that the Sun, Moon, and Stars were the only Gods, that were then moſt known, and moſt publickly worſhipped. The learned Dr. Hyde in his Religio veterum Perſarum hath fully prov'd, that the antient Perſians were not Idolaters. And as they were the Offspring of Elam the Son of Shem; ſo it is moſt probable, that when they fell off from the true Religion of their common Parent, they fell into that falſe Way of Worſhip, which was in Uſe in the moſt early Times.

8. Sanchoniatho. (y) Of the Wind Colpias, and his Wife Baau (in Hebrew (z) בהו Bohu void) were begotten two mortals Protogonus Πρωτόγονος and Æon Αἰὼν (in Hebrew חוה Eve, the Gutturals being taken away and the Termination added to make it declin'd as a Greek Word) And Æon found out the Way of taking Food from Trees. This is the firſt Generation of Mortals. In Scriptnre thus. (a) And the LORD GOD formed man out of the duſt of the ground, and breathed into his noſtrils the breath of life, and man became a living ſoul. And (b) when the woman ſaw, that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleaſant to the eyes, and a tree to be deſired to make one wiſe, ſhe took of the fruit thereof and did eat, and gave alſo to her husband with her, and he did eat.

9. Sanchoniatho. Genealogy 2. (c) Thoſe, which were begotten of theſe were call'd Genus and Genea. (Γένος and Γενεὰ Cain and his Wife, or Cainus and Caina. And thus in the civil Law Caius and Caia ſtand for a Man and his Wife) and they dwelt in Phœnicia. But when great Droughts came, they ſtretch'd their Hands up to Heaven toward the Sun; for him (he ſaith) they thought to be the only Lord of Heaven, calling him Beel Samin בעל שמים, which in the Phœnician Language is The Lord of Heaven. Here ſeems to be the Beginning of Idolatry, of which a Worſhip paid to the Sun (as afterward in uſe among the Perſians) was certainly the eldeſt Sort. And this Poſture of religious Worſhip joyn'd with ſuch Thoughts can import no leſs than a Deprecation of thoſe violent Heats from the Sun, which was the natural Cauſe of ſuch Droughts, and ſo occaſion'd ſuch Devotions. In the Scripture GOD curs'd Cain for the Murder of his Brother Abel, saying, (d) When thou tilleſt the ground it ſhall not henceforth yield unto thee her ſtrength. A fugitive and a vagabond ſhalt thou be upon the earth. And Cain ſaid unto the LORD, My puniſhment is greater than I can bear, Behold, thou haſt driven me out this day from the face of the earth, and from thy face ſhall I be hid. Accordingly, the Scorching of the Earth with violent Heats, and a Barrenneſs conſequent thereupon ſeem to be but the natural Effect of this Curſe. And therefore Cain, judging himſelf to be forſak'n of GOD, applies himſelf to the Sun, which was the immediate Cauſe of theſe Misfortunes, and dedicates the Plants of the Earth to it, as a Way to keep them ſecure from ſuch Calamities for the Time to come. This ſeems to be about the 235th Year of the Creation, for in the Year following (e) unto Seth there was born a Son, and he call'd his Name Enoſh (which ſignifies ſorrowful) for then began men לקרוא בשם יהוה to call others even Creatures by the name of the LORD. It was a Cauſe of Mourning, that Profaneneſs came on ſo faſt, and that they (f) aſcribed even to inſenſible Creatures the incommunicable name.

10. Sanchoniatho, Genealogy 3. (g) Afterward from Genus the Son of Protogonus and Æon other mortal iſſues were begott'n, whoſe Names were Light, Fire and Flame. (Φῶς, Πῦρ and Φλόξ) Theſe found out the Way of Generating Fire by the Rubbing of Pieces of Wood againſt each other, and taught Men the Uſe thereof. As Cain is ſuppos'd to be born ſoon after the Creation, and it was very uſual to have Children in that Age of the World at about an hundred and thirty Years of Age; ſo, I ſuppoſe, that he might have Children much about the ſame Time with Seth the Son of Adam, Anno Mundi 131. But Enoch the Son of Cain could not be born ſo ſoon; becauſe at his Birth the Family of Cain was ſo numerous, that (h) he built a city and called it after the name of this his ſon Enoch; ſo that we may ſuppoſe the Birth of Enoch the Grandſon of Adam by Cain to be cotemporary with Enoſh the Grandſon of Adam by Seth, Anno Mundi 236: And that the other Sons, viz. Light, Fire and Flame might be born about the ſame Time. In this third and fourth Generation this Author gives us no Account of the Progreſs of Idolatry. It is plain that now it began; but he placeth it under the ſecond Generation to make it more venerable upon the Account of its Antiquity, and it began with the Worſhipping of the celeſtial Bodies, as mention'd before, but it went no farther. And as for this Reaſon the Son of Seth was call'd Enoſh, or Sorrowful; ſo the Names of the Sons of Cain are as remarkable, eſpecially ſince it was uſual in that Age to give Names to Men from ſomething remarkable either done or invented by them, or at that Time. Thus in Scripture the Names of Cain's Son or City, which he built, was call'd Enoch, or a Dedication, as if about that Time the Plants of the Earth were dedicated to the Sun to ſave them from Misfortunes, and the Names of Light, Fire and Flame did as plainly ſhew the Deities, which they then began to worſhip. And thus the Names of (i) Ur, (k) Uri, (l) Beor, and (m) Lehabim ſignify Fire and Flames, and are mention'd in Scripture as Names in after Times.

11. Sanchoniatho, Genealogy 4. (n) Theſe begat Sons of vaſt Bulk and Height, whoſe Names were given to the Mountains, on which they firſt ſeiz'd; ſo from them were nam'd Mount Caſſius, Libanus, and Antilibanus, and Brathys. Theſe Sons are call'd Κάσιος and Λίβανος. Caſſius and Libanus. Here two Generations are ſuppos'd to be omitted in the Scriptures in the Race of Cain, and the (o) Scripture Expreſſion, being of a different Style from the Reſt of the Genealogies, ſeems to favour this Notion. Cain begat Enoch, And Irad begat Mehujael and Mehujael begat Methuſael, and Methuſael begat Lamech. So that theſe were the immediate Sons. But it is ſaid, that (p) unto Enoch was born Irad, which might be equally true of a third or fourth diſtant Generation. The firſt of theſe, which are omitted, might be cotemporary with Cainan, being the fourth Genealogy from Adam in the Race of Seth, and ſo he might be born about the Year of the World 326. As the Mountains were call'd by their Names; ſo (q) Seir, which was a Name of Eſau at his Birth, was given (r) to the Mountain, which he poſſeſs'd. Of this Genealogy the Scriptures give us this Account, (s) There were giants in the earth in thoſe days, and alſo after that, when the ſons of GOD came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children unto them; the ſame became mighty men, which were of old, men of renown. The Wickedneſs of theſe Men in ſo early an Age of the World might occaſion a Reſolution taken by GOD to deſtroy the whole Race of Mankind; if it had not been deferr'd by the exemplary Piety which was now kept up in the Race of Seth. And as Cainan was born in that Time and in that Family, which ſignifies Mourning and Lamentation; ſo it ſeems to point out unto us, that they then mourn'd for the Iniquity of that Age, as practis'd in the other Family, and that by their Prayers and Tears this Judgment was deferr'd. And tho'

12. Sanchoniatho, Genealogy 5. (x) On these were begotten Memrumus and Hypsuranius; but they were so nam'd by their Mothers the Women of those Times, who without Shame lay with any Man, whom they could light upon. Then Hypsuranius inhabited Tyre (not the Town, which was long since built in the Island; but more probably some Place, which was built near it on the Continent) and he invented the Making of Hutts with Reeds and Rushes, and with the Paper Reeds. And he fell into Enmity with his Brother Usous, who first invented covering for his Body, made of the Skins of wild Beasts, which he could catch. And when violent Tempests of Winds and Rains came, the Boughs in Tyre being rubb'd against each other took Fire, and burnt the Wood there. And Usous having taken a Tree and broken off its Boughs, was the first who was so bold, as to venture to put it into the Sea. And he consecrated two Στήλας rude Stones, translated Pillars to Fire and Wind, (probably to those violent Storms, which had burnt the Wood) and he bow'd down to, or worshipped them, and pour'd out to them the Blood of such Wild Beasts, as had been caught in hunting. But when these (Hypsuranius and Usous) were dead, those that remain'd, consecrated to them Ράβδους, Stumps of Wood, and Στήλας, Monuments of Stone, and kept anniversary Feasts to them.

As the former Generation was suppos'd to be cotemporary to Cainan in Seth's Line, who was born Anno Mundi 326; so these may be suppos'd to be cotemporary with Mahalaleel, who was born Anno Mundi 396, and whose Name signifying A Praiser of the LORD, shews, that Religion was still kept up in the Family of Seth, notwithstanding the Degeneracy in the Family of Cain. According to this Supposition the Persons now born might, like the Ages of their Cotemporaries, live until about the Year of the World 1350, which was within a Century before Noah began to build the Ark. And after the Death of these Men their Canonizing of Saints began. Tho' the Names of these and their Cotemporaries are not mention'd in the Scriptures; yet in this Generation there are several Things remarkable. First, Their Immorality in the ordinary Prostitution of their Bodies, as a Thing common among the Women of this Line. The Consequence whereof is in (y) the Scripture said to be the Debauching of The Sons of GOD, that is, the Posterity of Seth, which was the better Line, and this brought in all Impiety and Immorality among them; so that there sprung up a wicked and strong Issue, which fill'd all the Earth with Corruption and Violence. And it came to pass, when Men began to multiply upon the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them; that the sons of GOD (the Children of Seth) saw the daughters of men (the Children of Cain) that they were fair, and they took them wives, of all which they chose. There were giants in the earth in those days, and also after that, when the Sons of GOD came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children unto them, the same became mighty men, which were of old men of renown. And GOD saw, that the wickedness of Men was great upon the face of the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart were only evil continually. Secondly, Hypsuranius fell into Enmity with his Brother Usous. Thus (z) the earth was also corrupt before GOD, and the earth was filled with violence. Thirdly, Memrumus invented the making of Hutts of Reeds and Rushes and of the Paper Reeds. This shews, that the Art of Architecture was very mean in those Days, and consequently that it could not be many Ages before, when Cain built (a) the first City, and called it after the Name of his Son Enoch. Fourthly, What is recorded of Usous, not only to have invented Cloaths taken from the Skins of wild Beasts, and to have been the first Man, that ventur'd upon the Sea in a Tree, that was blown down, and that Hypsuranius first invented the Making of Hutts of Reeds and Rushes, together with other Inventions in succeeding Generations, do all shew, that the World was then but newly inhabited according to the Mosaical History. Fifthly, The Progress of Idolatry is here also describ'd. The Worshipping of the Sun was begun before, and dedicating of Herbs and Plants to it, thereby putting them under its Protection; but now they proceed further. Usous consecrated two Pillars to the Wind and to the Fire, referring to that Wind and Fire, by which the Wood there mention'd was burnt, and which was afterward attended with violent Rains. I cannot but add here the Words in the Apocrypha, which the Reader may compare, with what went before concerning the Rise and Progress of Idolatry, (b) Surely vain are all men by nature, who are ignorant of GOD, and could not out of good things that are seen, know him that is, neither by considering the works did they acknowledge the workmaker. But deemed either fire or wind, or the swift air, or the circle of the stars, or the violent water, or the lights of heaven to be the gods, which govern the world. However, Usous (c) ador'd these Monuments, and pour'd out unto them the Blood of wild Beasts, which he had took in Hunting. This seems to be the first Offering of Blood to inferior Deities. And because it is affirm'd to be the Blood of hunted wild Beasts, who were kill'd upon the Spot, and so could not be preserv'd alive to be slain at these Monuments, and of whose Blood there could hardly be gott'n any Quantity to be pour'd out of Bowls or Basons; therefore we may infer, that he offer'd some Part of their Flesh with their Blood, yet partly contain'd in their Arteries and Veins, and so dropping out of their Limbs. And since there is no Reason to doubt, but as he offer'd a Part; so he also eat a Part of what he had thus taken in Hunting; so this is the first Example of eating Flesh before the Flood; after which GOD granted Leave to Noah to use such Food. But we must observe, that it was granted with a Restriction, (d) Flesh with the blood thereof, which is the life thereof, shall ye not eat. Which antient Law seems to intimate, that the wild Antediluvian Sons of Cain had fall'n into the Barbarity of ὠμοφαγίαι the eating of raw and bloody Flesh, forbidden therefore to Noah and his Posterity both in the Case of Sacrifices and of ordinary Diet to prevent all Correspondence with their savage Practices. And as Moses gives us (e) an Example of an earlier Sacrifice made to the true GOD by Abel of the Firstlings of his Flock; and there is no Doubt but that Adam had sacrific'd long before, thereby representing (f) the lamb of GOD, who was slain from the Foundation of the world, and that he was at first cloath'd with the Skins of Beasts thus slain; so these Pagans offer'd the same Methods of Devotion to these false Gods, which they had formerly heard to have been paid to the true one.

13. Sanchoniatho, Genealogy 6. (g) After many Years from the Generation of Hypsuranius (which is the fifth) came Agreus and Halieus the Inventors of the Arts of Hunting and Fishery, from whom Huntsmen and Fishermen are nam'd. Here we may observe, that the Connexion (h) of this Generation with that which goes before it is more ambiguously express'd than any other in the whole Pedigree by these Words χρόνοις ὕστερον πολλοῖς after much Time. But as all the Antediluvians, Noah excepted, mention'd in the Scripture had their Children mention'd before they were two hundred Years old; and yet Noah was five hundred Years old before the Birth either of Shem, Ham or Japhet; so if we allow such a Space as about five hundred Years for the long Time mention'd by Sanchoniatho, then as the former Generation might be born about the Year 396; so this Generation might be born about the Year 900, 896 or rather 875, and so they might be cotemporary with Lamech the Father of Noah. In the Scripture we have no more of this Generation than the Name (i) Irad. As Hunting was begun in the former Generation; so it was improv'd and grown more common in this, and their Method at that Time was only with Nets. The Greek names us'd in this and other Generations are only a Translation of Eastern Names of the like Signification, and it is possible, that they were of the same Signification with Sidon in after Times' given to one of Canaan's Sons, who built the City of Sidon near to Tyre. For the Word ציד in Hebrew signifies both Hunting and Fishing, and the Word (k) Bethsaida a Town near Jordan, is no other in Sense than The Place of Fishing.

14. Sanchoniatho, Genealogy 7. (l) Of these were begotten two Brothers, the Inventors of Iron and the forging thereof. One of these call'd Chrysor (whom he affirms to be Hephæstus or Vulcan) exercis'd himself in Words and Charms and Divinations, and he found out the Hook, Bait and fishing Line, and Boats slightly made; and he also was the first of all Men that sail'd. Wherefore he also was worshipp'd after his Death for a God, and they call'd him Diamychius; and some say, that his Brothers invented the Way of making Walls of Brick. If we allow the same Distance between this sixth and seventh Generation in the Line of Cain, as is between the sixth and seventh Generation in the Line of Seth, which is between Jared and Enoch, or 162 Years, then we may conclude these to have been born about the Year 1037, or about twenty Years before the Birth of Noah. But of this more will be said afterward. In Scripture we have no more of this Generation than the Name Mehujael.

15. Sanchoniatho, Genealogy 8. (m) Afterward from this Generation came two Brothers, one of which was call'd Technites, that is, The Artist; the other, Geinus or Autochthon, The Home born Man of the Earth. These found out the Way to mingle Stubble or small Things with the bricky Earth, and to dry them with the Sun, and so made Tiling. If here we also allow the same Distance between the seventh and eighth Generation in the Line of Cain, as between the seventh and eighth Generation in the Line of Seth, which is between Enoch and Methuselah, or 65 Years, then we may conclude these to have been born about the Year 1102, or about five and forty Years after the Birth of Noah. In Scripture we have no more of this Generation than the Name of Methusael.

16. Sanchoniatho, Genealogy 9. (n) By these were begott'n others, one of which was call'd Agrus a Field, and the other Agrouerus or Agrotes an Husbandman, who had a Statue, which was very much worshipp'd, and a Temple carry'd about by one or more Yoak of Oxen in Phœnicia. And among the People of Byblus he is eminently call'd Hypsistus, *or the greatest of the Gods. how to make Courts about Men's Houſes, and Fences, and Caves or Cellars. Husbandmen and ſuch as uſe Dogs in hunting derive from theſe. And they are alſo call'd Aletæ or Titans, and a little after, (o) Hypſiſtus dying in Fight with wild Beaſts was conſecrated, and his Children offer'd Sacrifices and Libations to him. If we allow here alſo the ſame Diſtance between this eighth and ninth Generation in the Line of Cain as between the eighth and ninth Generation in the Line of Seth, which is between Methuſelah and Lamech, or 187 Years, then we may conclude theſe to have been born about the Year 1289, or 232 Years after the Birth of Noah. In Scripture we have this Account of Lamech the Son of Methuſael, that (p) he firſt brought Polygamy into the World, of which he repented, when he ſaw the curſed Effects, which follow'd his Example.

17. Sanchoniatho, Genealogy 10. (q) From theſe were begotten Amynus and Magus, who ſhew'd Men to conſtitute Villages and Flocks. And (r) about this Time was firſt invented the Building of a compleat Ship, or Πλοῖον. If we allow the ſame Diſtance between this ninth and tenth Generation in the Line of Seth, which is between Lamech and Noah, or 182 Years, then we may conclude theſe to have been born about the Year 1471 or 414 Years after the Birth of Noah. Theſe might therefore be cotemporary with the Children of Lamech of the Race of Cain, of which the Scripture gives us this Account, (s) And Lamech took unto him two wives, the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other was Zillah. And Adah bare Jubal, he was the father of ſuch as dwell in tents, and of ſuch as have cattle. He is not ſaid to be the Father of all, becauſe Amynus and Magus had ſuch Flocks as were brought home to the Villages; but he was the firſt, who had Tents for the Conveniency of Herdſmen and Shepherds, who before liv'd in Hutts made of Reeds and Ruſhes, and of the Paper Reeds. And his brother's name was Jubal; he was the father of all ſuch as handled the harp and organ. Now as Nature ſets the Pattern for Art to imitate; ſo the Original of vocal Muſick muſt be ſuppos'd to be as ancient as the other; and according to the Opinion of the Eaſtern Nations it came from the ſame Family. This is the Reaſon (as a learned Arabian hath long ſince obſerv'd, that (t) a Song in the Syriack Language is call'd (u) Cinta, and a Girl, who is a Singer, is in the Arabick call'd (x) Cainat. And it is farther obſervable, that each of the three Letters in the Hebrew Word קין or Cain are preſerv'd intire in both theſe Languages, that ſo we might more certainly know, from whence theſe Words were deriv'd, and from whence vocal Muſick was deriv'd alſo. And Zillah, ſhe alſo bare Tubal-cain, not the Inventor of any Art, but the Improver of it, and the Bringer of it to Perfection; and thus he might be the Inſtructor, or as it is in the Hebrew, the Whetter on of every artificer in braſs and iron. And the ſiſter of Tubal-cain was Naamah. I ſhall only add the Words of (y) a very learned Prelate, who ſpeaking of Ham ſaith on this Occaſion. Give me leave alſo to ſuggeſt that Plutarch tells us, that ſome call'd his Wife Nemaus; which I cannot read, but the Word Naamah comes to my Mind, and I cannot choſe but ask, Was not this the famous Woman, of whoſe Birth alone in all Cain's Line Moſes takes notice of, and ſaith, that ſhe was the Siſter of Tubal-cain, and the laſt Perſon mention'd in that Line? If ſhe was the Wife of Ham, we may give a very probable Reaſon for his falling into Idolatry, notwithſtanding his Father was ſo free from it. This Wife taken out of the Idolatrous Line of Cain before the Flood might ſeduce him afterward, as the idolatrous Wives of Solomon withdrew that wiſe Man from following the Steps of his Father David. There are Reaſons to believe, that this Generation, in which Naamah was, liv'd in the Time of the Flood, when Ham was married. And it is not probable, that Moſes would have noted this Woman rather than any other of Cain's Line, if ſhe had not been a Perſon of great Fame in the World. According to the above Computation Ham might be born, when Lamech the Father of Naamah was about three hundred Years old, and therefore Naamah might be born at an agreeable Age to be the Wife of Ham. Neither can the early Deaths in the ſeventh and ninth Genealogy be any Objection; becauſe Hypſiſtus died a violent Death in the ninth Generation. And as for Chryſor in the ſeventh, he might be cut off by GOD in the Midſt of his Age, for particular Reaſons. And tho' ſome may live to a great Age; yet nothing is more common, than for their cotemporaries to die young.

18. As (z) Jabal is recorded by Moſes, to be the father of ſuch as dwelt in tents, and of ſuch as had cattle: ſo it is probable, that the Rechabites took up the Cuſtom from them, of which the Prophet Jeremiah (a) gives us the only Account, viz. That Jonadab the ſon of Rechab their father commanded them, ſaying, Ye ſhall drink no wine, neither ye nor your ſons for ever. Neither ſhall ye build houſe nor ſow ſeed, nor plant vineyards, nor have any; but all your days ye ſhall dwell in tents, that ye may live many days in the land, where ye be ſtrangers. Accordingly they obey'd the voice of Jonadab the ſon of Rechab their father in all that he charged them, to drink no wine all their days, they, their wives, their ſons, nor their daughters. Nor to build houſes for them to dwell in. Neither had they vineyard, nor field nor ſeed. But they dwelt in tents, and obeyed and did according unto all that Jonadab their father commanded them. But when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up into the land of Canaan, they agreed to come up together to Jeruſalem for fear of the army of the Chaldeans, and for fear of the army of the Syrians, and ſo they intended to dwell at Jeruſalem, till the Danger was over. Now theſe Rechabites (b) were not any religious Sect, as ſome pretend, but were begun by a meer civil Ordinance founded upon a national Cuſtom. For (c) the Rechabites were of the Race of the Family of Hobab the Kenite Moſes's Father in Law. And theſe Kenites were Midianites, and the Midianites were Dwellers in Tents from the Beginning. This may be prov'd, Firſt, becauſe the Arabians were ſuch both then, and ſtill are at this Time. Secondly, The Iſhmaelites and Midianites dwelt together, inſomuch that their Names are confounded in Scripture, or interchangeably us'd the one for the other. Thus (d) thoſe Merchants to whom Joſeph was ſold, are promiſcuouſly call'd ſometimes Iſhmaelites, and ſometimes Midianites, as if they were both one People; as indeed they both deſcended from Abraham, the one by his Handmaid Hagar, and the other by his ſecond Wife Keturah. So (e) the Midianites, whom Gideon vanquiſh'd are call'd Iſhmaelites. They had golden earrings (ſaith the Text) for they were Iſhmaelites. Now it is evident from Scripture, that the Iſhmaelites or Hagarenes us'd to dwell in Tents. Thus (f) it is ſaid, that the Reubenites in the Days of Saul made War with the Hagarites, who fell by their hand; and dwelt in their tents throughout all the eaſt land of Gilead. Beſides, thoſe famous Scenite Arabians, mention'd (g) ſo often in Scripture, and call'd The Tents of Kedar were of the Iſhmaelites. Such therefore as the Iſhmaelites were, ſuch may we alſo ſuppoſe the Midianites to have been, who dwelt with them. And to put it quite out of Doubt, we have ſo much told us in Scripture, in (h) the Prayer of Habakkuk, I ſaw (ſaith he) the tents of Cuſhan (or Arabia) in affliction, and the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble.

19. This Cuſtom of their Nation and Country was ſtill obſerv'd by that Midian Tribe of the Kenites (of whom was the Father in Law of Moſes) after they came to live in Canaan with the Iſraelites. And thus (i) Heber the Kenite, which was of the children of Hobab the father in law of Moſes, had ſevered himſelf from the Kenites, and pitched his tent unto the plain if Zaanaim, which is by Kedeſh. And they ſeem'd to have retain'd this Manner of Living, partly to be a Badge or Cognizance of the Nation from whence they were deſcended; and partly to live the more ſecurely in the Land, where they were Strangers, either from the Envy of the Jews at Home, or Danger of Enemies abroad, to whom by this Means they ſhould be the leſs ſubject, as having neither Houſes to be burnt, nor Lands to be taken from them; but only Cattle wherewith they liv'd, and Tents which they remov'd hither and thither, as Opportunity ſerv'd for Paſture to feed them. In this Manner Abraham and the Patriarchs liv'd, whilſt they ſojourn'd as Strangers in the Land of Canaan, and in Imitation of whom it is probable, that this Cuſtom was deriv'd to the Midianites, who were alſo the Children of Abraham.

20. However in Length of Time it ſeems probable that thoſe Kenites, allur'd by the more pleaſant Living of the Iſraelites, began to change this Cuſtom of their Anceſtors, which occaſion'd Jonadab the Son of Rechab a famous Kenite to renew it again, and bind his Poſterity to obſerve it: and to that End he forbade them altogether to drink any Wine, leſt the Deſire thereof might occaſion them to plant Vineyards, and to build Houſes as the Jews did, and ſo to forſake the Cuſtom of of their Nation; as perhaps the too great Uſe of Wine had before caus'd many of them ſo to do. For it is certain that Jonadab only renew'd that, which his Anceſtors had obſerv'd long before he was born. So that in ſhort, it was no Order of Religion, which they bound themſelves to, but only the keeping up of a civil Cuſtom, and therefore when the Romaniſts urge the Example of the Rechabites to warrant their affected Poverty and Abſtinence us'd by ſome Orders of Men among them; they may add if they pleaſe, the Example of the wild Arabians and Tartars, who at this Day live in the ſame Manner, and which will be as much to their Purpoſe as the other.

21. From hence we may alſo obſerve the Riſe and Progreſs of Idolatry in the antediluvian Age. Cain paid the firſt falſe Adoration to the Sun, and conſecrated the Plants to him, thereby to put them under his Protection, and this was about the Birth of Enoſh. Uſous born about the Year 396, and of the fifth Generation conſecrated two Monuments of Stone to the Fire and Wind, and he bow'd down to them, and worſhipp'd them, and pour'd out to them the Blood of ſuch wild Beaſts as he had taken in Hunting. After his Death, which might probably be in the twelfth Century, he had Worſhip paid to him, him, and was one of the first Men, which we read of, who was consecrated and honour'd with Pillars in Commemoration of him, and joyn'd with Adoration and Bowing down to them as such. But after the Death of Tubal-cain or Vulcan, which might probably be in the fifteenth Century, he was worshipp'd as a GOD, which is more than is affirm'd of any before him; so that now Idolatry came in like a Flood, and this forc'd God to pass the Sentence of their final Destruction. And much about this Time Hypsistus, dying in a Fight with wild Beasts, was consecrated, and his Children offer'd Sacrifices and Libations to him. So that now every Family seems to set up for Gods of their own, which might soon increase the Number.

22. To this we may also add, that every Trade doth now consecrate Gods for their own Worship (as it was also with the Pagans in later Ages) of which there are two remarkable Instances, viz. the Smiths and Husbandmen; and they seem to deify the first Inventors of their respective Arts. Thus Chryſor in the seventh Generation, being the Inventor of Iron and the Forger thereof, was ador'd for a God by those of the same Art in the ninth, and without Doubt by the Direction and Promotion of Tubal-cain. His Name Chryſor comes from the Hebrew Verb חרץ to whet on, to sharpen, and to act fiercely in what a Man is about. Hence comes the Participle חורץ, which we render an Artificer, Χρῦσος. beaten or cut Gold is acknowledg'd to be deriv'd from hence, and here we may observe, that they were willing not only to acknowledge him as a God, but also to call themselves by his Name. Thus Tubal-cain was לוטש כל חורץ a Whetter on of every Chryſor or Artificer, not only to improve their Trade; but more probably to adore the first Inventor thereof for their greater Credit and Reputation; and perhaps with this View, that as those in the fifth Generation, who deify'd the Fire and Wind, were afterward deify'd by others; so it might fare with him. And it is evident, that so it happen'd; for (k) Vulcanus, the God, who was afterwards worshipp'd under this Denomination, as the God of the Smiths, is the same with Tubal canus only by a common and easy change of B into V being Letters of the same Organ, and casting away the first Syllable, as from γάλακτος lactis, and from ἄρουρα rura.

23. Neither were the Husbandmen backward in imitating such a vile Example, as it is evident from Agrus and Agrouerus in the ninth Generation, who had a much worshipp'd Statue or Idol, the first of this Sort that we read of, and a Temple, which was also an Original carried about by one or more Oxen in Phœnicia; and among the People of Byblus he is eminently call'd The greateſt of the Gods. Something like to this, was (l) among the Philiſtins the Successors to the old Phœnicians in their Religion and Abode, when they sent back the Ark of GOD upon a new Cart, and order'd it to be ζυγοφορούμενον, or drawn by two milch Kine. This Ark was the Epitome of the Tabernacle or the moveable Temple of GOD, and is sent back in this Manner by the Order of the Canaaniti∫h Priests. Like to this also was (m) that of Moloch, and of his Star Chiun or Remphan, of which (n) St. Stephen saith, that the Iſraelites carried them in the Wilderness to bow down unto them or to worship them. This Idolatrous Practice they us'd there, as common both to Egypt and Canaan, and including both the Worship of an immortal GOD, of a Planet, and of a mortal consecrated Man, which was the Summe of all Idolatry. The Names of the Men, who are thus deify'd, are Ἄγρος and Ἀγρέυς, which signify Gods of Husbandry, as Pan, and Pales, and Sylvanus among the Greeks and Romans, and Oxen are very agreeably employ'd to draw their Tabernacle, because they were the eldest Servants in Husbandry. Thus Plutarch mentions not only Pan, but also Arouēris, as a most antient Deity among the Egyptians, whose Country was near, and their Religion and Parentage from Ham was the same with that of the old Phœnicians. And as these Men liv'd in the ninth Generation; so there is no Reason to doubt, but that their Consecration as Deities, and their Images and Temples were made in the tenth Generation, immediately before the Resolution of GOD to destroy them all with a Flood. The Men, whom Sanchoniatho names in this Generation, are Amynus and Magus, and their Names are likely to signify such an idolatrous Practice; Amynus seeming to signify a Defender from Enchantments, and Magus a Sorcerer. And tho' the Words were capable of a more favourable Construction; yet in those lowest Dregs of Cain's Race we may believe the worst that the Words can bear. So that in this last Generation idolatrous Falling off from GOD, and violent Practices toward Men were grown to such a Height, that GOD resolv'd to destroy them all, and accordingly forewarn'd Noah to save himself and his Family by building of an Ark. And so the Race of Cain, who propagated such Impieties, were all swept away by the Flood. And therefore it is evident, that tho' Sanchoniatho was so far from intending to write such an Account as might agree with Moſes, that he openly owns other and opposite Teachers, and his whole Intention was to propagate Idolatry; yet there is nothing contain'd in his Works, but what may be of Use, if rightly apply'd, to vindicate the Creation, the History of the World, and the Worship of the true GOD which Moſes mentions.

CHAP. VIII.

Of the Place of Paradiſe.

HAVING thus giv'n an Account of the Hiſtory of Sanchoniatho, and compar'd it with that of Moſes, I ſhould now proceed to give a farther Account of the antediluvian Age, as far as we have any Footſteps thereof eſpecially among the Eaſtern Hiſtorians. But before I treat on this Subject, it is neceſſary to fix the Place of the World, where our firſt Parents Adam and Eve were ſettled, when they were firſt created, which was in Eden, and often call'd the Garden of Paradiſe. And this I ſuppoſe to have been on the eaſt Side of the Tigris and oppoſite to the Place, where the Tower of Babel, or the City of Babylon was afterwards built. For the Proof whereof Moſes muſt be our principal Guide, who ſaith, that (a) the LORD GOD planted a Garden eaſtward in Eden, and there he put the man, whom he had formed. Here he tells us, that this Garden was in Eden, of which the Prophet Amos ſeems to take notice, (b) when he divided Syria into three Provinces, the firſt of which he calls Damaſcus the ſecond is the Plain of Aven, and the third is the Houſe of Eden call'd Cæloſyria, or the hollow Syria, becauſe the Mountains of Libanus and Antilibanus take all the Length of it on both Sides, and make it look like a deep Valley. But this is not the Eden, which Moſes mentions, becauſe it did not lie eaſtward from Judæa, or from the Deſart of the Amorites, where Moſes was, when he wrote thoſe Books, but northward; and it lay ſo near to theſe Parts; that it could not be ſo unknown to the Iſraelites, as to oblige Moſes to be particular in Deſcribing the Place where it was. We muſt therefore bend our Courſe eaſtward to find it out. The next Country to Judæa was Arabia petræa or the Stony; but here Moſes himſelf was, when he wrote this Story. The next, which lay eaſtward to that, was Arabia deſerta, or the deſert, both which Countries in Reſpect of the Unfruitfulneſs of them, could not be this Garden of Eden; neither have the Arabians any ſuch Rivers, as are here expreſs'd, which run out of their Country; and therefore Eden muſt of Neceſſity lie eaſtward from thoſe Places, and if we travel much farther that Way, we ſoon come to Chaldea, and to a Part of the River Euphrates, which Moſes mentions, on the Banks whereof the City of Babylon is known to ſtand. But becauſe Eden is is only nam'd in Geneſis by it ſelf, and only deſcrib'd by its Fruitfulneſs and by the Rivers, which are near it, therefore it will be convenient to ſeek for it firſt in other Places of Scripture, where it is better deſcrib'd by the Addition of its neighbouring Nations. In the Speech of Rabſhekah, where he perſonates Senacherib, it is (c) thus deſcrib'd, Have the gods of the nations deliver'd them, which my fathers have deſtroyed, as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the Children of Eden, which were in Telaſſar. And Ezekiel (d) thus prophecies againſt the Tyrians, They of Haran and Canneh and Eden the merchants of Sheba, and Aſhur and Chilmad were thy merchants. In the firſt of theſe Texts Rabſhekah ſpeaks of ſeveral Parts of the Babyloniſh Empire, which fell from the Obedience of Senacherib in his Life Time, and were utterly ſeparated from the Aſſyrian Monarchy after his Death, as Gozan, and Haran and Rezeph, and the Children of Eden, which were in Telaſſar. Theſe at that Time made a feeble Reſiſtance againſt the Aſſyrians, tho' they were almoſt conquer'd by them. But it appears plainly, that after the Death of Senacherib, and after his vaſt Army, (which was commanded by Rabſhakeh and lay before Jeruſalem) was miraculouſly deſtroy'd by the Angel of GOD, thoſe Nations, which before were much diſcourag'd, took Heart again, and freed themſelves from that Subjection, to which they before were liable; and Merodach Baladan, who was then King of Babylon ſent to Hezekiah, both to congratulate the Recovery of his Health, and his Victory obtain'd over the Aſſyrians. After which Overthrow Senacherib himſelf was ſlain by his own Sons in the Temple of Niſroch his God, and Eſarhaddon his Son reign'd in his Stead as King of Aſſyria; whilſt Merodach Baladan reign'd in Babylon over thoſe Countries which had revolted from the other Empire. When he ſent his Ambaſſadors to Jeruſalem, King Hezekiah ſhew'd them all his Treaſures, which afterward invited the Kings of Babylon to undertake the Conqueſt of the Land of Canaan, and reduce that Government under the Babylonian Empire. But when the Wars between Babylon and Aſſyria began to break out, the Aſſyrians took an Iſland in the Euphrates almoſt on the weſt Side of Babylon, which they endeavour'd to fortify, and call'd it Telaſſar, which in the Hebrew Language ſignifies A Garriſon or a Fortification of the Aſſyrians deſigning thereby to ſtreighten the Babylonians. But the Children of Eden, who dwelt near it, forc'd them to ſurrender the Fort, and afterward kept the Poſſeſſion of it, and made it much ſtronger ſo as to be a Bulwark againſt the Aſſyrians and a Security from their Incurſions on that Side, and it is probable, that they call'd the adjacent Country, where the Children of Eden dwelt, by the ſame Name. This is the ſame Place, which Ammianus Marcellinus in (e) the Hiſtory of Julian calls Thilutha inſtead of Telaſſar (which might very eaſily be done ſince אתור Athor or Athur was the Chaldean Name of Aſſyria) who deſcribing the exceeding Strength of it, ſaith, that it is ſeated in an Iſland of the Euphrates, upon a ſteep and unaſſaultable Rock, inſomuch as Julian the Emperor durſt not attempt it, and therefore it was a convenient Place for a Garriſon againſt the Aſſyrians, being alſo a Paſſage out of Meſopotamia into Babylonia, and in which the Edenites of the Country adjoyning were lodg'd to defend the ſame. This Place Ptolomy (f) calls Teridata, having Rezeph (which he calls Reſſpha) and Canneh (which he calls Thelbecanneh on the right Hand, not far from whence is alſo found the City of Manucanneh) upon the Tigris, and all theſe are ſeated together in the ſame Manner as the Prophets Iſaiah and Ezekiel and the Author of the Books of the Kings have plac'd them.

2. There is alſo another Expoſition, which (g) the learned give of (h) theſe Words of Moſes, And the LORD GOD planted a garden בעדן בקדם in Eden on the eaſt ſide thereof. So that if we can but find out the Country of Eden, let it be either large or ſmall, but eſpecially the eaſt Side thereof, then we ſhall certainly know the Scituation of the Garden of Paradiſe.

3. Our firſt Guide in this Inquiry muſt be that River, which is the moſt known of any that were parted from thence, and this is the River Euphrates; a River which is frequently mention'd in Scripture, and in moſt Hiſtorians, not only Oriental, but alſo both Greek and Latin, and by all Geographers, who treat of Aſia, and a River which conſtantly kept its ancient Name in all theſe Languages without any Alteration. The Name of this River (i) originally ſignifies fruitful, or making fruitful, or increaſing, and therefore will more naturally lead us to that Garden, whoſe Name ſignifies Delight and Pleaſure, and where (k) the LORD GOD cauſed to grow out of the ground every tree, that is pleaſant to the eyes, and good for food. In going from Canaan toward the River Euphrates the firſt remarkable Place is the great City of Damaſcus, which is ſcituated in ſuch a wonderful and fruitful Soyl, and ſo ſweet and temperate an Air, that (l) they who deſcribe it ſay, that it may be deſervedly call'd, as it is by many Writers, the terreſtrial Paradiſe. But this is to place it at too great a Diſtance from the other Rivers, which Moſes mentions. When we are come to Euphrates, there is a neceſſity of paſſing over the River, in order to come to the other Rivers, which are to be joyned with it, and then we come directly into Meſopotamia, a Country water'd with the Euphrates on the South Side, and with the Tigris on the North, and which hath its Name in the Greek from lying between them both. This is reckon'd as fruitful as any Country in Aſia, and the farther we go on toward the Eaſt, the more fruitful it is. In paſſing along the Tigris we come to the great City of Nineveh built by Nimrod on the Eaſt Side of that River, where it bends Southwardly, on the Weſt Side whereof (as Benjamin the Jew ſaith in his Itinerary) is plac'd the City of Mauſul the Metropolis of that Country, which from thence takes the Name of موصل (m) in the Arabick Language, and is alſo call'd Aſhur, or Aſſur the great, which gave the Name in Hebrew to all the Country of Aſſyria; and certainly that muſt be a very fruitful Soyl, which is able to maintain two ſuch large Cities, between whom there was only a Bridge over the River Tigris, which open'd a Communication to each other. It is obſervable, that Nineveh is no other than נין נוה the Habitation of Ninus the Son of Nimrod, and it is more evident, becauſe he was there worſhipped as a God by the Name of Bel, who built the City, and called it by the Name of his Son Ninus, as Cain had before built a like City, and call'd it after the Name of his Son Enoch. And as he fix'd it for the Habitation of his Son, ſo we may ſuppoſe, that he fix'd it in the moſt fruitful and pleaſant Country, that he could meet with. But as here are only two of theſe great Rivers, and they are not yet met; ſo we muſt go farther yet to meet with the other two.

4. In going on farther we come to the Place, where the Tigris and Euphrates joyn, and make one very large Stream, on the Weſt Side whereof lies the Country of Babylonia and Chaldea, and on the Eaſt Side the Country of Suſiana, and this we may ſuppoſe to be the River, which went out of Eden to water the Garden, becauſe as there were two Streams, which came into it; ſo it parted into two more, which emptied themſelves into the Perſian Gulph, incloſing the Iſland of Teredon, now called Balſara.

5. This was firſt diſcover'd by Calvin, who ſaith, (n) that it was a certain Country, and not extended throughout the whole World. And then he adds, That (o) it is not of any great great Conſequence, whether Adam was plac'd before the Confluence of theſe Rivers toward Babylon and Seleucia, or in the upper Part; it is ſufficient, that he dwelt in a Country well water'd. And it is not hard to tell how this River is divided into four Heads. For there are two Rivers, which come together into one, and then they ſeparate again into two more. And at laſt he concludes, That the ſaying of Moſes is plain (and not allegorical, as ſome would have it) that the Garden of which Adam was the Poſſeſſor, was water'd by a River, which paſs'd that Way, and was afterward divided into four Channels. Thus far Calvin, to whom Bochartus and others agree, and which I mention more at large, becauſe he was the firſt Perſon, who made this Diſcovery.

6. To this may be added, that as the Country of Eden and Garden of Paradiſe was certainly a very fruitful Country; ſo all ancient Authors, who treat of Babylonia, give it the ſame Character. Herodotus, who was an Eye-witneſs of it, ſaith, that (p) where Euphrates runs out into Tigris, not far from the Place where Ninus is ſeated, that Region was of all, that he had ſeen, the moſt excellent. And he adds afterward, It is ſo fruitful in bringing forth Corn, that it yieldeth two hundred fold, the leaves of Wheat and Barley being almoſt four Fingers broad. As for the Height of Millet and Seſame they are even in length like unto Trees, which (ſaith he) although I know to be true; yet I forbear to ſpeak hereof, well knowing that thoſe things, which are reported of its Fruitfulneſs, will ſeem very incredible to thoſe, who never were in the Country of Babylon. They have commonly in all their Country Palm-Trees growing of their own accord, the moſt of them bearing Fruit, out of which they make both Meats and Wine and Honey, ordering them as the Fig-Trees. To theſe three (q) Strabo adds a fourth Excellency of this Palm-Tree, that it alſo yields Bread, and particularly confirms the Teſtimony of Herodotus in theſe Words, The Fields in the Neighbourhood of Babylonia, yield three hundred Grains for one, and the Palm-Tree alone is ſufficient for the Support of Life, ſince Bread, Wine, Honey, Vinegar, and woven Garments of many Sorts are made out of it; and there is a Copy of Perſick Verſes, in which it is reported to yield three hundred and ſixty ſeveral Commodities. Others tell us, that from this Tree there is drawn a Kind of fine Flax, of which the People make their Garments, and of which in the Eaſt-Indies they make Ropes for their Ships. And particularly Athanaſius in the Life of Antonius the Monk, confeſſeth, that he received a Garment made of this from Antonius himſelf, which he brought with him out of this Country. So that thoſe Trees, which are ſo much admir'd in the Eaſt-Indies, do grow in the Plains of Babylon of their own accord, and are as common as any Trees in the Field. And he farther adds, That there are Palm-trees, which grow naturally over the whole Country. Pliny ſaith, (r) that the Babylonians cut their Corn twice, and feed it the third Time, or otherwiſe it would only produce Leaves, and thus a barren Soyl brings forth Profit fifty Fold in the Harveſt, and repays the diligent Husbandman an hundred and fifty. Neither is there any great Difficulty in watering it to a conſiderable Diſtance. For it may be eaſily water'd by the Tigris and Euphrates, which makes it very plentiful, and leaves no Mud behind it like the Nile in Egypt. And Quintus Curtius (s) deſcribing this Country, when Alexander came toward it, adds, that as Men travail on the left Hand of Arabia, which is ſo famous for Plenty of ſweet Odours, there lies a champion Country between the Tigris and Euphrates, which is ſo fruitful and fat a Soyl, that they are ſaid to drive the Cattle from the Paſture, leſt they ſhould breed Diſtempers by too much Plenty. And Niger alſo ſaith, That the Babylonians cut their Corn twice every Year. And therefore as Lot came with Abraham out of Chaldea or Meſopotamia, ſo it is probable that this Country was in his Mind, when it was ſaid of him, that (t) Lot lifted up his Eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well water'd every where, before the LORD deſtroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, even as the garden of the LORD, or as the land of Egypt as thou comeſt unto Zoar.

7. But the Situation of Eden as near to the City of Canneh (which was alſo call'd Chalneh) is ſtill more plain from the Account, which (u) Moſes himſelf gives us of it, who ſaith, that Nimrod began to be a mighty one in the earth. And he was a mighty hunter after Dominion and Government before the LORD, inſomuch that it is ſaid as a common Proverb in the eaſtern Countries to deſcribe an ambitious and a tyrannical Man, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD. And the beginning of his kingdom was Babel or Babylon and Erech, and Accad and Calneh in the land of Shinar. And out of that land he went forth weſtward into Aſſyria, as the Margin of our Engliſh Bibles doth rightly expreſs it, and built Nineveh, and the city Rehoboth and Calah, and Reſen between Nineveh an Calah: the ſame is a great City. Here Moſes ſhews the firſt Compoſition of the Babyloniſh Empire, and what Cities and People were ſubject to Nimrod, as Erech, Accad and Calneh in the Land of Shinar. So that this Valley of Shinar is that Tract of Land, which was afterward call'd Babylonia and Chaldea, and it is ſtill more plain from (x) the Words of Moſes, And it came to paſs as they journeyed from the eaſt, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar, and they dwelt there, and there they built the Tower of Babel.

8. It is now Time to ſee what farther Light we can have in this Matter from the Prophet Ezekiel, who ſaith that (y) Tyrus was a merchant of the People for many iſles; and accordingly (z) the merchants of Sheba and Raamah were her merchants, they occupied in her fairs with the chief of all ſpices, and with all precious ſtones and gold. Haran and Canneh and Eden, the merchants of Shebah, Aſſur and Chilmad were her merchants. Theſe were her merchants in all ſorts of things, in blue cloaths and broidered work, and in cheſts of rich apparel bound with cords, and made of Cedar among her merchandiſe. Among theſe which were concern'd with Tyre (a) Perſia is reckon'd as one of the firſt. And it hath ever been the Cuſtom, (b) that the Perſians conveigh'd their Merchandiſe to Babylon and to thoſe Cities, which were upon the Euphrates and Tigris, and from thence tranſported them into Syria, and ſo to a proper Port of the Mediterranean Sea; as in ancient Times the City of Tyre, ſo ſince to Tripoly and now to Aleppo, from whence they imbarked them at the Port of Alexandretta in the Bay of Iſſicus, now call'd Laiazzo. Now the Prophet Ezekiel, in the Deſcription of the Magnificence of Tyre, and of the exceeding great Trade, which it had with all the People of the Eaſt, with whom they had Commerce, doth alſo mention what Commodities every Country yielded. And having counted the ſeveral Countries and People, he adds the particular Trades, in which each of them was employ'd. That Arabia fælix being a very rich Soil for Cattle, and all the Princes of Kedar, where Flocks were very plenty, (c) traded with her in lambs and rams and goats. That (d) the merchants of Sheba and Raamah were her merchants with chief of all ſpices, and of all precious ſtones and gold. Now theſe are indeed the Riches, which Perſia and Arabia fælix did afford; and becauſe Sheba and Raamah are thoſe Parts of Arabia, which bordered upon the Sea, call'd The Perſian Gulph, therefore did thoſe Nations vend ſuch Spices, ſweet Gums and Pearls, which were the Product of their own Country, and having alſo a Trade with their Neighbours in India, they had from them all Sorts of Spices and Plenty of Gold. The better to convey all theſe Commodities to that great Market of Tyre, and to receive from them in Exchange the Product of thoſe Countries, and eſpecially ſuch Goods as were brought thither by Sea from Europe, the Shebans or Arabians enter'd by Boats by the Mouth of Tigris, and from the City of Terredon (built or enlarg'd by Nebuchadnezzar, and now call'd Balſara) ſent up all thoſe rich Mercandiſes from thence to Babylon. From thence they went along the great River Euphrates, as far as it bended weſtward, and afterward by a Branch thereof within three Days Journey of Aleppo, which was formerly call'd Hierapolis, and then they paſs'd over Land to Tyre, as they did afterward to Tripoly, and ſo from thence to Alexandretta. Now the Merchants of Canneh, who were alſo call'd Schenitæ both by (e) Pliny and (f) Strabo, and whom the Prophet Ezekiel joyns with Eden, inhabited farther up the River, and receiv'd this Trade from Arabia and India, beſides thoſe proper Commodities, which they themſelves had, and which they receiv'd out of thoſe Parts of Perſia, which lay neareſt to them. Pliny placeth the Scenitæ upon the River Euphrates, where it begins to be fordable, which is towards the Borders of Syria, and after it ceaſeth to be the Bounds of Arabia deſerta on the north Side, and where the River Euphrates turns back from the Deſert of Palmirena. For thoſe People of Canneh inhabited both the Borders of Euphrates ſtretching themſelves from their own City of Canneh in Shinar weſtward along the Banks of that River as far as the City of Thapſacus, where Ptolomy alſo placeth the Foords of Euphrates; and this alſo agreeth well with the Deſcription of them by Strabo, who ſaith, That the Merchants, which travail from Syria to Seleucia and Babylon, take their Way by the Schenites. St. Hierome by Canneh underſtands Seleucia, which is ſeated upon the Tigris and not far from Euphrates, and which took that Name from Seleucus, who made thereof a moſt magnificent City. This Seleucia (as Appian and others tell us) was anciently call'd Chalanne, the Name by Time and Mixture of Languages being chang'd from Chalneh or Canneh to Chalanne, of which Name there are two other Cities ſtanding in a Triangle with Seleucia and almoſt the next to it, viz. Thelbecanneh and Mann-canneh, the one a little to the Weſt of Seleucia, and the other oppoſite to it, where theſe Rivers of Tigris and Euphrates are ready to joyn. Which therefore of theſe the ancient Canneh was (they being all three within the Bounds of the Valley of Shinar) is uncertain; but it is an evident Sign not only of the Importance of the Place, but alſo of the certain Seat thereof, that ſo many Cities did retain the Name for ſo many Ages after, with ſome Additions for Diſtinction ſake, as is known alſo to be the Cuſtom of other Countries.

9. As therefore Shinar and Babylonia were the ſame Country, and Canneh in the Beginning of Nimrod's Greatneſs, before he had ſubdu'd any diſtant Countries, was one Part of his Dominion, and alſo nam'd by Moſes to be in Shinar; ſo it is evident that Canneh was adjoyning to Babylonia, which alſo the Prophet Ezekiel joyns with Eden, as Merchants who traded with the Tyrians in the ſame Manner of Merchandiſe, and conſequently as near Neighbours.

10. The next City joyn'd with Eden is Haran, the Place where Abraham ſojourn'd. It is call'd Haran in Hebrew and Charran in Greek, eſpecially by the Septuagint and by St. Stephen, who told the Jews (g) that the GOD of glory appeared to our father Abraham when he was in Meſopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran. Hence it was call'd Carræ in Latin, and as it lay nearer to Judæa and other Places of Note, and it is frequently mention'd in the Scriptures, as lying in the Road from Meſopotamia to Judæa; ſo the Scituation of it cannot be doubted of. The Roman Authors (h) make it famous for the Death of Craſſus and the Overthrow of his Army there. It only directs us to the Country of Eden, as it lay not far out of the Road from thence to Aleppo and Tyre, and therefore the Merchants of all theſe Parts could have a better Communication with each other, which is the Reaſon that Aſſur or Aſſyria is alſo nam'd, as being the Country, through which they muſt travel.

11. There are three other Countries alſo nam'd, viz. Sheba, Raamah and Chilmad. Concerning theſe we may obſerve, that Moſes tells us, (i) that the Sons of Ham were Cuſh and Miſraim and Phut and Canaan. And the Sons of Cuſh were Seba and Havilah and Sabtah, and Raamah and Sabtecha. And the Sons of Raamah were Sheba and Dedan. And Cuſh begat Nimrod. Now there were four Nations, which had the Name of Seba or Sheba, which they took from the Name of their firſt Founder, according as Moſes mentions them. The firſt of them was Seba the (k) Son of Cuſh and Grandſon of Ham, whoſe Name is written in Hebrew with a Samech, and all the Reſt with a Shin. The ſecond was Sheba the (l) the Son of Raamah or Rhegma. The third was the (m) Son of Jocktan the Son of Shem; and the fourth was (n) a Grandſon of Abraham by his Son Jockſhan. The firſt and the ſecond were ſeated by the Perſian Sea, and the third near the Red-Sea, from whence came the Queen of Sheba to viſit Solomon; and the fourth were ſeated in the very Entrance of Arabia fælix, as Strabo tells us, who ſaith, that they and the Nabatæi were the very next People to Syria, and were wont to make Excurſions upon their Neighbours, as they did upon Job, whilſt the reſt were a People giv'n to Trade. The Sheba which the Prophet Ezekiel mentions, was the ſecond of theſe, or the Son of Raamah, becauſe he joyns them both together; as they lay contiguous to one another, and carried on a Trade to Babylon, and ſo to Tyre. At the Diſperſion from Babylon (o) Raamah or Rhegma took that Part of the Country which adjoyn'd to Shinar on the North Side, and to the Perſian Gulf on the South Side, which was afterwards call'd Raamah and Sheba from the Father and the Son, who poſſeſs'd it. So that Sheba was that Tract of the Country, which parted Arabia deſerta from Arabia fælix, and which joyn'd to the Sea, where the Tigris and Euphrates fall out, and render themſelves to the Ocean. This Part and the neighbouring Country Strabo (p) calls Catabria, where the beſt Myrrhe and Frankincenſe is gather'd, and this People have an Interchange of Trade with Elana lying on the Eaſt ſide of the Perſian Gulf. By this it appears, who were the Sabeans ſpoken of by the Prophet Ezekiel, and ſaid to have been the Merchants of Tyre for Gold and Spices and precious Stones, of which they had not only Plenty of their own, but were alſo furniſh'd from that Part of India call'd Elana for Exchange of their Aromaticks and other proper Commodities. For (ſaith Strabo) Eratoſthenes affirms, that in the Beginning of the Perſian Gulph there is an Iſland, in which there are many precious Pearls bred, and in others very clear and ſhining Stones.

12. Theſe People of Sheba the Prophet Ezekiel names with thoſe of Eden, becauſe they inhabited upon the Outlet of the ſame River, upon which the Children of Eden were plac'd; and ſo thoſe of Sheba toward the Sea Coaſt and upon it, paſs'd up the Country by Tigris and Euphrates, being joyn'd in one main Stream, and ſo through the Country of Eden, which was bounded on one Side by Tigris, thereby the better to conveigh their Merchandiſe toward Tyre. And as the Cities of Haran and Canneh lie on the Weſt and North Weſt Sides of Eden; ſo is Raamah and Sheba on the South, and Chilmad on the North Eaſt. For Chilmad is a Country in the upper Media, as appears by the Chaldee Paraphraſe, which Country by the Geographers is call'd Choromitena, by the Change of L into R, which Alteration the Likeneſs of Letters doth often produce in ſuch Words, as are out of the Hebrew into the Chaldee Language.

13. Thus have we found out the Country of Eden by the neighbouring Countries, which lie round it. To this may be added, that the Name of Eden is alſo found in Places near thoſe Parts. In the two Epiſtles ſent to the Pope by the Neſtorian Chriſtians, which inhabited Meſopotamia in the Year 1552, they ſpeak of the Iſland of Eden in the River Tigris, or at leaſt Tigris in both of theſe Epiſtles is call'd The River of Eden. Maſius, who tranſlated theſe Epiſtles into Latin, ſaith in his Preface, that it is commonly call'd Gozoria, and it is ten Miles in Circuit, and was ſometimes wall'd round about. And that above the River not far beyond this Iſland, there is the City of Hazan Cepha or The ſtrong Rock, and that below it, it hath the City of Moſel, which is not above twelve Miles diſtant from it. The Arabians deſcribe it thus, That it is the Name of a City and a Country, which joyns Meſopotamia and Babylonia ſcituate on the Eaſtern Bank of Tigris, to which Nineveh is oppoſite in the Eaſt, and hence the whole Country of Meſopotamia in the Arabick Language is call'd موصل or Mauſel.

13. Beſides, other Authors make mention of the City of Adana upon the Euphrates; and the Name of Eden was in the Time of Amos, tho' he ſpeaks not of Eden in the Eaſt, but of the Eden in Cœloſyria; And tho' it is certain that none of theſe Places was the very Place of Paradiſe; yet it plainly ſhews the Opinion of the Men in the Eaſt and in ancient Times, that Eden and Paradiſe were in thoſe Parts, and therefore they give this Name to ſuch Cities, on purpoſe to bring the Travailers thither to ſpend their Money, and to report when they came Home, that they had ſeen the Place where the Garden of Eden anciently ſtood.

14. As therefore we are come ſo near to the Garden of Paradiſe by the Help of other Guides; ſo by the Deſcription, which Moſes gives us (q) we may find the Place with a greater Certainty. He ſaith, that the LORD GOD planted a garden eaſtward either from the Land of Canaan, or from the Place, where Moſes tarried, when he wrote this Book, as Babylonia is known to be, and there he put the man, whom he had formed. And out of the ground made the LORD GOD to grow every tree, that it is pleaſant to the ſight and good for food. It was in a moſt pleaſant Country, where there naturally grew the greateſt Variety of the choiceſt Plants, Flowers and Fruits to gratify at once the Sight, Taſt and Smell. And ſuch a Country Babylonia was. And there were Rivers, by which it was well water'd, and of which there was a great Plenty in thoſe Parts. And a river went out of Eden to water the garden, and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads. (r) Theſe Words afford us ſuch a Key to open to us the Place, where this Garden was planted, that one can ſcarce doubt whereabout it was. For the Garden lay in the Country of Eden, and we are directed to find that out by this remarkable Circumſtance, that a river went out of it. Which doth not ſignify, that the Spring of the River was in Eden, but that the River ran through that Country into the Garden to water it. The Garden therefore was a Part of the Province of Eden, and was water'd by that River, which came from it. The only Difficulty is to find what River this was. Now there is a River on the eaſt ſide of Babylon running from North to South, which is ſometimes call'd Phaſitigris, or by a compounded Word Phiſon and Tigris, on the North Part, where the two great Rivers Tigris or Hiddekel and Euphrates joyn, and ſo make this one great River; and afterward on the South Part, it is divided into two other Rivers, namely Piſon, and the other call'd Gihon, which both empty themſelves into the Perſian Gulf, and theſe will appear to be the Rivers, which Moſes mentions, and which ran along to water the Garden. Now it may be obſerv'd, that Moſes doth not ſay, that this River runs through the Garden, neither is it probable, that our firſt Parents at that Time could go from one Side of it to the other, but only that the River ran to water the Garden, which might effectually be done if it ran on one Side of it, and Channels might be commodiouſly cut from thence into other Parts for that Purpoſe. So that the only remaining Difficulty is, Whether the Garden lay on the Eaſt or he Weſt of this River. And that it lay to the Eaſtern Part of it is evident from Moſes's own Words (s). When our firſt Parents were driven out of Paradiſe GOD placed at the eaſt of the garden of Eden cherubims, to keep them from returning back again. But had the Garden been on the weſt Side of the River, the Cherubims muſt have been plac'd on the weſt Side of the Garden for this Purpoſe, or if he had gone over the River, there would have been no need to place any Cherubims there at all, ſince the River alone would have prevented his Return. And that which renders this the more certain is, that this River for its Breadth, Depth, and rapid Stream, occaſion'd by the joyning of ſo many Rivers which ran into it, excelling the Rhine or the Danube, muſt needs have hinder'd our firſt Parents from going out of the Garden eaſtward, if they had had their Habitation in the weſtern Part of it, ſince they had neither Bridge nor Boat to croſs over the River, as having not the leaſt occaſion for either. (t) It is ſaid that after Cain went forth from the Preſence of the LORD he dwelt in the land of Nod on the eaſt of Eden. But if Adam had liv'd weſtward of it, and had been driv'n weſtward out of it, which then muſt have been the only Way that he could have gone, Cain could not have gone to the eaſt of Eden, without paſſing through Eden it ſelf; and we cannot but ſuppoſe, that in ſuch a Caſe he would have ſettled in that Country without croſſing ſo dangerous a River to ſeek for unknown, and both leſs pleaſant and leſs fruitful Habitations.

15. And

15. And now it is very eaſy to comment on theſe Words of Moſes, when he deſcribes the Scituation of Paradiſe. A river went out of Eden to water this garden, and ſo ran along the weſt Side of it, and Part of the Work, which Adam and Eve was employ'd in, was to cut Ditches and Channels from this River for this Purpoſe. And from thence, that is, above and below this Garden it was parted, and became into four heads, two above the Garden on the North Side, and two below it on the South Side. Here Moſes doth not mean Springs, for they are not ſaid to be parted from Rivers, but from Mountains and other Places, where they begin, and to run into Rivers, Lakes or the Main Ocean; but he only ſpeaks of the Beginning of their Diviſion from this firſt grand Stream, and which we commonly call the Mouth of a River, or according to the Eaſtern Phraſe the Head of the River. If the Beginning of the Water be out of a Fountain, then is the Fountain tak'n for the Head; if it is out of a Lake, then the Lake is tak'n for the Head; and if any Branch is ſeparated and divided from a main River, then where that Branch doth firſt bound itſelf with new Banks, that Part of the River where the Branch forſakes the Main Stream, is call'd the Head of that River. So that tho' we have no Accounts of the Eaſtern Bounds of Paradiſe, yet it was bounded on the Weſt by a long River, it extended it ſelf ſouthward to the Place, where this River parts it ſelf into two others, and on the North to the Place where two Rivers unite and ſo make this one. And of theſe four Rivers,

16. The Name of the firſt is Piſon. This is that Branch which runs weſterly, and being nearer than the ſecond to the Place where Moſes wrote on the other Side of Jordan is firſt mention'd by him. It is call'd (u) Phiſon by the Son of Sirach. It is a long Time ſince both this River and Gihon, which is the next, have loſt theſe Names; for the Greek and Roman Writers call them ſtill after their Parting by the Name of Euphrates and Tigris, which were the Names that they had before they met. However Xenophon calls it Phyſeus, in which the Name of Phyſon is plainly retain'd, and which continu'd 'till the Time of Alexander the Great. For Quintus Curtius commonly calls the Tigris it ſelf by the Name of Phaſis, and ſaith, that it was ſo call'd by the Inhabitants thereabout. This in all Probability was at firſt the Name of this other River Piſon, tho' in length of Time the Name was extended beyond what is meant at firſt. However we need not be at a Loſs in finding out this River, ſince Moſes tells us, that this is the ſame River, that compaſſeth the whole land of Havilah, and therefore if we know where this Country was, we certainly know the River Piſon, which encompaſſeth it on one Side. Now there is a Country of this Name, which ſtretcheth it ſelf from Babylonia and ſo on Southward into that Part of Arabia fælix which borders upon this Stream. Theſe (as Bochartus (x) obſerves) Pliny call'd Chavelæi. Eratoſthenes in Strabo ſaith, (y) that the Nabatæi, Chaulotæi and the Agræi lay near to Arabia fælix from the City of the Heroes as far as Babylon, and in Dionyſius they are plac'd in the ſame order. But that which makes it more plain is, that the Iſhmaelites (who inhabited Arabia deſerta) are (z) deſcrib'd by Moſes that they dwelt from Havilah as thou goeſt toward Aſſyria, unto Shur, that is before Egypt, ויפול ſcilicet גורלו. And his lot fell, or when (a) Abraham ſent him to take a Poſſeſſion in the Eaſt Country, the Lot which fell to him happen'd to be near or in the preſence of all his brethren, the Sons of Abraham by Keturah. And Saul in after Times found them in the ſame Scituation, when (b) he ſmote the Amalekites from Havilah, until thou comeſt to Shur, which is over againſt Egypt. So that they were bounded by Euphrates on the North and by the River on the Eaſt. This is alſo a Country, where there is Gold. For nothing is more famous than the Gold of Arabia, where Diodorus Siculus (c) ſaith, that it is digg'd up in great Lumps, as big as a Cheſnut. And the gold of that land is good. It is very excellent. For the abovemention'd Author ſaith, that it is of ſuch a flaming Colour, that it adds much to the Luſtre of the precious Stones, that are ſet in it. There is Bdellium. This moſt probably is a Pearl; and as Part of Havilah contains ſome Part of Arabia, which lies toward the Perſian Gulph; ſo it is obſervable that at Catipha there was a great fiſhing for Pearl. The Manna alſo wherewith the Iſraelites were fed in the Wilderneſs is deſcrib'd (d) to be round like the Coriander Seed, and of the Colour of Bdellium, and in another Deſcription of it Moſes (e) tells us, that it was white; ſo that it was of the Shape and Colour of Pearls. There is alſo the Onyx Stone. Some reckon the Hebrew Word to ſignify the Sardonyx. But let it be which it will (f) we are told, that that Part of the Country was famous for both.

17. The name of the ſecond river is Gihon. There are no Footſteps of this Name, which have been yet diſcover'd by learned Men; but we are directed to find it out by the Country, which it is ſaid to compaſs. For this is the ſame River that compaſſeth the whole land of Ethiopia, or rather, as it is in the Hebrew, the whole land of Cuſh according as it was ſituated in the Time of Moſes. Many People miſtaking Cuſh for Ethiopia have look'd upon this River to be the River Nilus in Egypt, and miſtaking Havilah for that Part of the Eaſt-Indies have look'd upon Piſon to be the Ganges; but this is to make the Garden of Eden to contain the greateſt Part of Aſia and Part of Africa, and ſo it could not be deſcrib'd by any Rivers at all as parting from it, or it might have been deſcrib'd by hundreds more. But this is ſo wild an Imagination, as to deſerve no Confutation. There was another Country call'd Cuſh, which without Doubt was (g) plac'd in Arabia near the Red-ſea, in the South Part of Judæa, and in the Road from thence to Egypt, in which there are ſeveral Rivers, as Beſor, which runs into the Mediterranean Sea, Rhinocorura, which runs into the Sorbonian Lake, and Cotys, by which Cambyſes came from Babylon into Egypt, and was alſo ſo near the Midianites, as to be joyn'd with them by (h) the Prophet, who ſaid, I ſaw the tents of Cuſhan, or Cuſh in affliction, and the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble. Of this the Prophet Iſaiah ſpeaks thus. (i) Wo to the land of Egypt ſhadowing with wings, where there are many Ships which ſpread their Sails like Wings, and which is beyond the rivers of Cuſh, as Egypt really was, tho' not beyond the Rivers of Ethiopia, but rather on this Side of them. It was (k) this Kingdom, which Tirhakah was King of, when he came out against Senacherib King of Aſſyria after he had departed from Lachiſh, and was warring againſt Libnah. It was (l) this Kingdom of Cuſh, which Zera was King of, when he came up againſt Aſa King of Judah with a very great Army, and with three hundred Chariots, which had been impoſſible for either of them to have done, if they had been Kings of Ethiopia, unleſs they had conquer'd and overran Egypt, which lay in their Way. Beſides we are alſo told, (m) that when Aſa had vanquiſh'd this Zera and all his Army, he purſu'd them unto Gerar and ſmote and ſpoiled all their cities, which were round about Gerar, which City all allow to be plac'd in Arabia Petræa and near the South Part of Judæa. And when the Prophet Ezekiel threatned an utter Deſtruction to Egypt, he ſaid (n) I will make the land of Egypt utterly waſt and deſolate, from the tower of Syene, which ſtood upon the Nile in the Weſt Part of Egypt, not even to the borders of Ethiopia, which were adjacent to it, but even to the Borders of Cuſh, as it is in the Hebrew, which lay on the Red-ſea toward the Eaſtern or oppoſite Part of the ſame Country. But tho' this Country was thus call'd in later Ages, yet it is moſt probable, that it was not ſo call'd in the Time of Moſes, becauſe in all his Hiſtory of the Travels of the Patriarchs into Egypt, or of the Children of Iſrael's going out from thence the Name of this Country is not once mention'd. We muſt therefore ſeek for it nearer to Babylon, and eſpecially nearer to the River Piſon. And we muſt alſo ſeek for the ancient Country of Cuſh among the reſt of his Brethren, and eſpecially near to his Son Havilah, whoſe Families lay on the Weſt Side of the River Piſon. Accordingly, Sir Walter Raleigh finds a Place call'd Chaduca or Chuſca on the Weſt Side of the River Gihon, which I take to be the Reaſon that made him miſtake one of theſe Rivers for the other, and it is very probable, that this was the ancient Seat of Cuſh among his Children. But when Joktan and his eleven Sons ſeated themſelves in Arabia deſerta, or when Abraham had ſent Iſhmael and his Children by Keturah, to (o) take Poſſeſſion of thoſe Countries, and had by this Means ſtreighten'd the antient Inhabitants, or rather when Nimrod the Son of Cuſh began the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and went out from Babel, and built (p) Erec or Arecca on the Eaſt Side of the River Phiſon among the Poſterity of Shem, and Accad alſo in the Country of Sittacene to ſecure his Intereſt on that Side, and Chalne on the Northern Parts of Babylonia, and went forward into Aſſyria to diſtreſs another Branch of Shem's Family, and there built Nineveh and other Cities to ſecure his Conqueſts, that then Cuſh his Father, willing to ſecure what his Son had gotten, went with ſome of his Family to the other Side of Gihon, and ſeated themſelves in the Champion Country round about Erec or Arecca, and thus it happen'd that the Name of Cuſh was ſoon loſt in Babylonia or Chaldea, but retain'd in Elam or Perſia. Tho' therefore there are no Footſteps of the Name of the River Gihon remaining in that Country, as yet found out by learned Men; yet we are directed by the Country (which it is ſaid to compaſs or exclude from the reſt of Ham's Poſterity, and the Weſtern Parts of Aſia) to take it to be the Eaſtern Stream, which aroſe from the Parting of the Euphrates and Tigris, as Piſon was the Weſtern. This therefore is the River, which runneth along by the whole land of Ethiopia or Cuſh, who in this Manner happen'd to be ſeated more eaſtward than the Reſt of his Sons Havilah, Sheba and (q) the reſt, upon the Borders of this River. For as when People began to ſpread themſelves they firſt kept as near to great Rivers as they could, for the better Communication one with another; ſo there was a greater Neceſſity for Cuſh to do the ſame, that in Caſe he ſhould be attack'd by the Poſterity of Elam, in order to regain the Country which was unjuſtly taken from them by his Son Nimrod, the reſt of his Children might be at hand to afford him ſufficient Succour and Aſſiſtance in due Time. It is therefore probable that he gave that Name to the Country of Suſiana, which the Greeks call Κισσία Ciſſia, and it is now call'd by the Perſians Chuzeſtan or the Province of Cuſh. So that here we muſt ſeek for this River Gihon, and here we can find none, which can claim the leaſt Pretence to it, except that which is already mention'd.

the

18. And the name of the third river is Hiddekel. This River is call'd by Daniel (q) the great River Hiddekel, and it can be no other than the Tigris it ſelf, which (as Pliny ſaith) was called Diglito in thoſe Parts, where its Courſe was ſlow, and where it began to be rapid, it took the Name of Tigris. And the Arabians call this River دجلة from the Hebrew Word Hiddekel, as they do in the Verſion of (r) this Text of Moſes, and (s) in other Places. And Rauwolf in his Travels (t) ſaith, That when he was at Carach in the Confines of Media (which was ſomething more than an hundred Years ago) Tigris was then call'd Hiddekel in their Language. However, it is farther deſcrib'd, by its going before Aſſyria. The Hebrew Word קדמת which we tranſlate toward the eaſt may only ſignify over againſt as deriv'd from קדם before; and the Septuagint, who knew beſt the Situation of the Country and the Nature of the Language, only renders it by κατέναντι τῆς Ασσυρίας over againſt, or before Aſſyria. And it is certain, that Tigris did run before Aſſyria, for Nineveh the chief City of that Country did ſtand upon the Eaſt Side of that River. And if we conſider the Place where Moſes wrote, there was no going from thence into Aſſyria without croſſing firſt the Tigris, which ran along before it. So that the Situation of Hiddekel exactly agreeing with Tigris, it ſeems paſt all Doubt, that theſe are two different Names for the ſame River.

19. And the fourth river is Euphrates. There is no Doubt, but that the River, which is call'd in the Hebrew Pherath is the ſame which hath for many Ages been call'd Euphrates. This lay the neareſt to Judæa, and the Courſe of it was ſo well known in thoſe Days, that Moſes did not think it neceſſary to deſcribe it. This and the Tigris ſprung out of one Mountain, viz. Niphates in Armenia, Tigris ſpringing out of the Southern Part, and Euphrates out of the Northern Part, where they turn about and hold different Courſes, Tigris running by the North Part of Meſopotamia and Euphrates by the South Part, from the Courſe of which Rivers the Country took its Name, as lying in the Middle between them; and ſo Euphrates run along not only by Babylon, but alſo in another Stream to the Northward of it, until it was joyn'd with the River Tigris oppoſite to the North Part of the Garden of Paradiſe.

20. From hence it is evident, that there were Mountains and Rivers before the Flood, and conſequently that the Earth was not perfectly round before the Creation, nor the Flood occaſion'd by the breaking in of the Plain Superficies, and letting out an Inundation of Waters, as ſome have imagin'd. The ſame Rivers, which point out to us the Bounds of Paradiſe at the Creation, remain'd in the very ſame Places after the Flood. There is no Doubt, but it was a great Comfort to Noah, and that (u) it is mention'd by Moſes as ſuch, that after a long Fatigue, when the Ark ſwam upon the Waters, at laſt, the tops of the Mountains were ſeen; but if he had not known that they were Mountains (and he could have known it, if he had not ſeen ſuch before) it could have been no Satisfaction, but rather a Surprize. The Flood is (x) thus deſcrib'd, that the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights, and the waters increaſed accordingly, firſt to cover the earth, then the ark ſwam upon the face of the waters, then all the high hills which were under the whole heaven were covered, and after that the Waters were fifteen cubits higher than the higheſt Mountains; and this would be a ſtrange Deſcription, if there had been no ſuch Thing before. Beſides Solomon ſpeaking of the eternal Son of GOD, and his having an Exiſtence before the Creation of the World, deſcribes it thus, (y) I was ſet up from everlaſting, from the beginning, or ever the earth was. When there were no depths I was brought forth, when there were no fountains abounding with water. Before the mountains were ſettled, before the hills was I brought forth. When he had not as yet made the Earth, nor the fields, nor the higheſt part of the duſt of the world. When he prepared the heaven I was there: when he ſet a compaſs upon the face of the depth. When he eſtabliſhed the clouds above: when he ſtrengthned the fountains of the deep. When he gave to the ſea his decree, that the waters ſhould not paſs his commandment; When he appointed the foundations of the earth; Then I was by him, as one brought up with him; and I was daily his delight, rejoycing always before him. And all this plainly ſhews, that the Heavens, the Earth, the Seas, the Mountains, and the Hills were all created at the ſame Time. And therefore as on the third Day of the Creation (z) the waters of the Earth were gathered together into one place, and the dry land did appear, and accordingly GOD called the dry land earth, and the gathering together of the waters he called ſeas; ſo the other main Parts of the Earth were plac'd at the ſame Time in the ſame Order, in which we now behold them.

21. Laſtly, What hath been ſaid in this Chapter, will alſo help to explain that (a) remarkable Paſſage of Moſes concerning the Habitation of Cain and his Poſterity. And Cain went out not voluntarily, but by the Force of the Divine Curſe from the preſence of the LORD, from the Family of Seth and from thoſe People in whom the true Worſhip of GOD continu'd, and to whom he frequently appear'd in a gracious Manner; and he dwelt in the land of Nod. He dwelt as a Stranger in the Country, which had the Name of Nod from his wandring up and down like a Vagabond, reſtleſs and moveable from one Part to another for a conſiderable Time. This Country lay on the eaſt of Eden. He ſtill went on Eaſtward from that Country where Adam was ſettled, when he was thruſt out of Paradiſe. Adam did not go far from thence, having a longing deſire to return thither again, inſomuch that the Cherubims were plac'd by divine Providence to keep him out. Cain went farther into that Tract of Ground where the Nomades afterward dwelt, or rather into that Part, which was call'd Suſiana, and at this Day Suſan. And Cain knew his wife, and ſhe conceiv'd and bare Enoch, and he builded a city, and call'd it after the name of his ſon Enoch. Who this Wife was when Cain married her is not particularly mention'd. It is probable, that he was marry'd to her before the murder of Abel, becauſe afterward every one would abhor the Thoughts of being ſo nearly related to ſuch a Murderer, to one who was accurſed of GOD, and condemn'd accordingly to be a Fugitive and a Vagabond. It is alſo moſt probable that ſhe was his Siſter by our firſt Parents Adam and Eve, and not one of their Grandchildren, becauſe they were the (b) Parents of all living, and beſides thoſe whoſe Names are mention'd in Scripture, they had (c) ſeveral ſons and daughters, and it is uſual and moſt agreeable to marry with Perſons of near an equal Age; neither can we ſuppoſe that any would be long in a ſingle State, when there were ſo few Perſons in the World, and they had ſo lately a particular Command from GOD to increaſe and multiply that ſo they might repleniſh the Earth and ſubdue it. However, ſhe conceived and bare Enoch. As this Name ſignifies a Dedication, ſo we may conclude that he was born at the Time, when Cain fell off to Idolatry, and dedicated the Plants and Fruits of the Earth to the Sun, which was at the ſame Time that Enoſh the Son of Seth was born, whoſe Name ſignifies ſorrowful, becauſe then Men began to call other things by the name of the LORD, and to aſcribe unto Stocks and Stones or other inſenſible Creatures, the incommunicable Name: And as this was in the two hundred and thirty ſixth Year of the World; ſo by this Time the Poſterity of Cain became very Populous, inſomuch, that he builded a city and called it by the name of his Son Enoch. It may reaſonably be preſum'd, that the City of Shuſan or Suſan was afterwards built upon the Ruins of this City, where there was the Royal Palace of the Kings of Perſia, and from whence the whole Province was call'd Suſiana, becauſe it lay Eaſtward from the Garden of Eden upon the River Eleus call'd (d) Eulai by Daniel, and where Cain was ſtopt in his Flight from the Preſence of the LORD, that he could go no farther. And indeed when People firſt began to ſpread themſelves, they built their Cities as near to great Rivers as they could for the better Communication one with another and for affording mutual Succour, and eſpecially where they could not want Water, and where for this Reaſon the Earth was much more fruitful than in the dry and barren Wilderneſs. Thus Babylon was built on the Euphrates, Nineveh and Calneh upon the Tigris, and Erech upon Piſon, and it may be obſerv'd even in our Modern Maps of barren Countries, that all the Cities and Towns are plac'd near to remarkable Rivers.

CHAP. IX.

Of the Place where Noah built the Ark.

THE Place where Noah and his Family built the Ark, was (a) moſt probably in the Land of Shinar, near the River Tigris on the North-eaſt Side of Babylon. For as it is evident from the Deſcription of Paradiſe in the former Chapter, that our firſt Parents inhabited in theſe Parts, ſo it may be ſuppoſed that theſe Parts of the World were firſt peopled, and fill'd with Inhabitants, before they went farther. As (b) the Ark reſted upon the Mountains of Ararat about four or five hundred Miles to the eaſt north eaſt of Babylon,

(a) Bocharti Phaleg. lib. 1. cap. 4. (b) As Cypariſſon, where the Ark was built, was about the Longitude from London of 59$^{d.}$ 24$'$ and the Mountain of Ararat was in the Longitude of 68$^{d.}$ 34$'$; ſo the Difference of Longitude is 9$^{d.}$ 10$'$. And as Cypariſſon lay in the Latitude of 36$^{d.}$ 30$'$, and the Courſe of the Ark is ſuppos'd to be North Eaſt, until it came to the Longitude of Ararat; ſo ſuppoſing it went in the Arch of a great Circle, and its Departure from the Meridian was 45^{d}, its Courſe and utmoſt Latitude may be meaſur'd by Spherical Trigonometry thus. In a Triangle, whoſe three Sides are the Courſe of the Ark, the Diſtance of Cypariſſon and of the utmoſt North Latitude of the Ark from the Pole, or the Complement of the Latitude of each, there is given, Firſt, the Complement of the Latitude of Cypariſſon 53$^{d.}$ 40$'$. Secondly, the Diſtance of the Courſe from the Meridian or 45$^{d.}$ Thirdly, the Angle at the Pole, or the Difference of Longitude 9$^{d.}$ 10. and therefore by the 4th Caſe of oblique angl'd ſpherical Triangles, the neareſt Diſtance of the Ark from the Pole is 47$^{d.}$ 16$'$ or in the Latitude of 42$^{c.}$ 44$'$ in the Longitude of Ararat, which happens to be over the Caſpian Sea, and the Length of the Courſe, as the Ark went North Eaſt was 9$^{d.}$ 32$'$. And as it appears by the late Obſervations of Monſieur Caſſini, that the Circumference of the Earth is 24930 Engliſh Miles; ſo the Ark in the 40 firſt Days went 626 Miles, which is at the Rate of 15 $\frac{15}{40}$ Miles in a Day. And as it came with a South Courſe to the Mountain of Ararat, ſo by ſubſtracting the Latitude of Ararat or 36$^{d.}$ 30$'$, from the utmoſt North Latitude 42. 44, the Diſtance from thence is 6$^{d.}$ 14$'$ or 430 Engliſh Miles which the Ark went in the other 110 Days, which was at the Rate of 3$\frac{10}{11}$ Miles in a Day.

lon, and was made in the Form of a great Cheſt, three hundred Cubits long, fifty Cubits broad and thirty Cubits high, and drew fifteen Cubits of Water, without either Keel to cut the Waves, or Rudder to guide it, or Sails to take the Advantage of the Wind, ſo it lay floating like a great Log upon the Water, and could not go far, but only mov'd as the Winds and eſpecially the Stream did drive it, which we may reaſonably allow one Day with another to be about fifteen Miles and a half in a Day until it went to the Latitude of 42d. 44'. But as (b) the waters prevailed upon the earth an hundred and fifty days, and as before the End of thoſe Days, GOD (c) was pleas'd to ſend a North wind to paſs over the earth and aſſwage the waters; ſo this North wind muſt bring the Ark back again ſouthwardly in a ſlower Motion of leſs than four Miles in a Day, until it ſtruck upon the Top of one of thoſe Mountains and ſo landed. Now the Flood is thus deſcrib'd, (d) that the Fountains of the great deep were broken up, that is, the Waters made a great Incurſion upon the Land from the Perſian Ocean, which lay South of Babylon and nearer to it, and therefore came from thence in great Quantities, as it did from the Mediterranean Sea, which alſo lay Weſt from Babylon at near an equal Diſtance, and made another Inundation. And as theſe Inundations might have been equal, ſo the Stream muſt have gone North eaſt after they had met together. Beſides this, Moſes tells us, (e) that at the ſame Time the windows of heaven were opened, And the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights. There is no Reaſon to doubt, but that alſo during this Space of Time there might be a very briſk if not a ſtormy South, or South weſterly, or Weſt Wind, which might be inſtrumental to drive the Ark the farther into the contrary Quarter. It is eaſy to obſerve, that when the Wind is South, or between that and the Weſt it uſually brings Rain, and that all violent Storms come from the South weſt. The tempeſtuous Wind call'd (f) Euroclydon, is what the Seamen which ſail in the Mediterranean Sea, call a Levant Wind, which blows either from the South or Weſt, and its Name ſeems to be tak'n, becauſe Τὸν ἔυρον κλύζει it waſhes the eaſt, and conſequently begins from the oppoſite Quarter. This occaſion'd a moſt violent Tempeſt when St. Paul ſail'd to Italy, that neither ſun nor ſtars appear'd for many days. And it is more plain that it was ſuch a Wind, becauſe it was contrary to their Deſign and (g) Purpoſe, when they deſign'd to ſail from Crete to Italy. It was a common Obſervation in thoſe Countries, that when (h) they ſaw a cloud riſe out of the weſt (which was afterward brought to them by a Weſt wind) they preſently and rightly concluded, that Rain would follow. So that the Courſe of the Ark tho' ſlow, muſt be toward the North Eaſt, becauſe (as we uſually ſay) both the Wind and Tide would drive it that Way, and therefore it muſt come from the contrary Quarter, and not far from the Place where Babylon is ſituated.

2. To this the moſt ancient Writers, Beroſus, Abydenus and Polyhiſtor do agree, who ſay, that Xiſuthrus by which they meant Noah, ſail'd from Aſſyria into Ararat, as appear'd from the publick Writings depoſited at Heliopolis in Sippara. This Sippara was a Town between Naardes and Seleucia upon the Euphrates in the Neighbourhood of Babylon, and took its Name from the Chaldee Word ספריא or the Books and Writings, which were there preſerved. It is not improbable, that when Ham and Japhet came with their Offspring to Babylon, they might endeavour to record the Hiſtory of the former Times, and eſpecially of what had been tranſacted in the ſame Country, and from thence theſe ancient Hiſtorians might have their firſt Notions. We find, that there were exact Records kept at Berytus by Mizraim the Son of Ham, and after that by Thoth the Son of Miſraim. The Perſian Monarchy took a particular Care to have every thing remarkable recorded ſoon (i) after the Facts were done, and (k) kept in Achmetha or a Cheſt in the Palace for their greater Security, and why ſhould we doubt but that the Aſſyrian Monarchy might alſo take the ſame Method? When Caleb (l) took Debir, it is ſaid, that the name of Debir before was Kirjath Sepher, the City of Books or Records, and the Chaldee Paraphraſe calls it in both Places Kirjath Arche, (m) or The City of Records or Archives. And if we may allow the (n) Arabick Language to be of any Weight in this Caſe it muſt ſignify ſuch Records as began the Hiſtory from ſome remarkable Æra, as from the Creation of the World, from Noah's Flood, or the building of Babylon, and was continu'd down to ſucceſſive Ages.

3. To this may be added (o) that Noah was commanded by GOD (p) to make him an ark of Gopher wood. The (q) Word in the Hebrew Language ſeems to imply that the Wood was of a bituminous or pitchy Nature, and conſequently more capable of reſiſting Wet or Moiſture; and St. Chryſoſtome particularly calls it (r) ξύλα τετράγωνα ἄσηπτα, ſquare Wood not liable to rot. The learned (s) Fuller rightly concludes it to be the Cypreſs from the Affinity of the Word. For Cypreſs in Greek is Κυπάρισσος, from whence if the Termination is taken away Cuphar or Gopher conſiſts of ſuch Letters, as are often chang'd into each other. Neither is there any other Wood leſs ſubject to Rottenneſs and Worms than this is, as all Writers do allow. Pliny (t) ſaith, that the Cypreſs Wood is not ſenſible of Rottenneſs or Age. That it will never ſplit nor cleave aſunder, except by Force, and that no Worm will touch it, becauſe it hath a peculiar bitter Taſte. And therefore Plato adviſ'd, that all Records, which were to be preſerv'd for the Benefit of future Generations ſhould be written upon Tables of Cypreſs. Martial (u) ſaith, that it will laſt for an hundred Ages and never decay. Thucydides (x) ſaith, that the Cheſts were made of Cypreſs, in which the Athenians carry'd away the Bones of thoſe, who died in War for their Country, and the Scholiaſt gives this Reaſon for it, becauſe it would never decay. And the Pythagoreans abſtain'd from making Coffins of Cypreſs, becauſe they certainly concluded, that the Scepter of Jupiter was made of this Tree. And no Reaſon can be aſſign'd for ſuch a Fiction among the Poets, but becauſe it was the fitteſt Reſemblance of that eternal Power and Authority, which they attributed to him. Theophraſtus (†) ſpeaking of thoſe Trees, which are leaſt ſubject to decay, adds this as a Concluſion, that the Cypreſs Tree ſeems to be moſt durable of all, and that the folding Doors of the Temple of Epheſus being made thereof, had laſted without Damage for four Generations. In this Pliny (z) is more particular, and ſaith, that theſe Doors were made of Cypreſs, and they had laſted 'till his Time, which, he ſaith, was near four hundred Years, and ſtill look'd as if they were new. And Vitruvius (a) ſpeaks both of the Cypreſs and the Pine Tree, That they kept for a long Time without the leaſt Defect, becauſe the Sap, which is in every Part of the Wood, hath a peculiar bitter Taſt, and is ſo very offenſive, that no Worm or other conſuming Animal will touch it. He alſo tells us, that ſuch Works, as are made of ſuch Wood, will laſt for ever. And therefore (b) he adviſes, that the Beams of all Chambers ſhould eſpecially be made of Cypreſs Wood, becauſe ſuch as were made of Fir, were ſoon conſum'd by the Worm and Rottenneſs.

4. And as it was ſuch a laſting Wood, ſo it was alſo very fit for the Building of Ships. Peter Martyr of Angloria (c), as he is cited by (d) the learned Fuller, ſaith, that the Inhabitants of Crete had their Cypreſs Trees ſo common, that they made the Beams of all their Houſes, their Rafters, their Rooms and Floors and alſo their Ships of this Wood. Plutarch (e) ſaith, that the Ship-carpenter in the firſt Place uſeth the Pine from Iſthmus, and the Cypreſs from Crete. And Vegetius (f) adds, that the Gallies are built chiefly of the Cypreſs, and the Pine Tree, or of the Larch and Fir. And in the Epiſtle of Theodoricus (g) to Abundantius the Prefect, in which he gives him a Commiſſion to build a thouſand Barks for fetching Proviſions or Bread-Corn, he commands him to enquire throughout all Italy of proper Artiſts for Wood fit for ſuch a Work, and wherever he ſhould find the Cypreſs or Pine Trees near the Shore, that he ſhould buy them at a reaſonable Price. Neither was it thus only in Crete and Italy, but Diodorus (h) proves, that in Phœnicia there was Timber ſufficient to build Ships, becauſe Libanus near Tripoly, and Byblus and Sidon were full of Cedar Trees, and Larch Trees, and Cypreſs Trees, which were very admirable for Shew and Greatneſs. And Plato (i) among the Trees which were fit for Ship-carpenters to uſe, places the Cypreſs next to the Pine and the Larch Tree. And even in later Years, we are told, (k) that the Saracens did haſten from Alexandria to Phœnicia to cut down the Cypreſs Wood, and fit it for the Uſe of the Ships.

5 And as the Cypreſs Tree was ſo very fit for this Uſe; ſo it grew in great Plenty in Aſſyria and Babylonia. And therefore (l) Arrianus and (m) Strabo ſpeak particularly of it, and that the numerous Fleet, which Alexander the Great built in thoſe Parts, was made of the Cypreſs, which he cut down, and which grew in Babylonia. For there was, as they ſay, a great Plenty of theſe Trees in Aſſyria, and that they had no other Wood in that Country, which was fit for ſuch a Purpoſe.

6. And as it is common in the Hebrew to give Names to Places from the Things, which grew plentifully in them (thus אלון Elon was ſo call'd from the Oakes, בכא Baca from the Mulbery Trees, שטים Shittim from the Thorns, רמון Rimmon from the Pomgranate Trees, and תמר Thamar and דקלה Diklah from the Palm Trees) ſo it is not improbable, that the Place, where theſe Trees grew, might by call'd Gopher from the great Number of Cypreſs Trees, which grew there. Now Strabo (n) tells us, that there is a Place in Aſſyria call'd Cyparisſon, which he deſcribes in theſe Words. About Arbela is the City Demetrias. After this there is the Fountain of Naphtha, and a burning Lake or Mountain, and the Temple of Anæa, and Sadracæ the Palace of Darius the Son of Hyſtaſpis and Cyparisſon, and the Bridge or Gate of Caprus, and theſe Places do belong to Seleucia and Babylonia. At theſe Bridges were Gates, which were call'd The Gates of the Rivers, and near them ſtrong Fortifications to ſecure the Paſſages. Thus Herodotus ſaith, (o) That the River Halys takes in Phrygia, and near to it there were Gates, through which there was a Neceſſity for thoſe to paſs, who would go over the River, near which River there was alſo a Fort. Such Gates there were near to Nineveh, and the Prophet Nahum ſeems (p) to deſcribe them, when he prophecies of the fearful and victorious Armies which ſhould come againſt it in theſe Words, The gates of the rivers ſhall be opened, and the palace or Fort ſhall be diſſolved. Such a Bridge there was over the River Caprus, and probably many more over the Tigris and Euphrates near to Babylon, to open a free Commerce in Time of Peace, with ſufficient Forts to ſecure the Country in Time of War; and in this Place the Cypreſs Trees might be cut down for the Building of the Ark, and others might be brought thither from the Banks of Caprus and Tigris for the ſame Purpoſe.

7. From hence we may obſerve the Courſe, which the Ark took in the Time of the Deluge. The Inundations of the Mediterranean and the Perſick Ocean together with the South Weſt Winds drove it North Weſt, whilſt the Flood continu'd; and when the Flood abated, the North Wind brought it back again, until it landed on the Mount of Caucaſus. And here we may admire the Providence of GOD in cauſing the Waters to be ſoon at their Height and ſo ſlow in abating. They were at the Higheſt in the Space of forty Days, but Noah was a full Solar Year in the Ark before the Earth was habitable. Now GOD could have made the Waters to abate as faſt as they increas'd, but he would not. It was an hundred and fifty Days in all, or an hundred and ten Days after the Waters were at the higheſt before the Ark landed, when it drew but fifteen Cubits of Water; and ſeventy three Days after that, before the Waters were ſo abated as to make the Tops of the Mountains ſeen, which might be equally high with that, on which the Ark reſted. But it ſo happen'd, that the Ark went farther in the forty Days of the Flood, than in the hundred and ten Days afterward, becauſe a ſwift Stream carried them Northward, and perhaps there was only the Benefit of the Wind to bring them back, leſt if the Paſſages of the great Deep had been open'd to let in the Water, as they were open'd to let it out, either the Ark might have been broken to pieces at its Landing, and the living Creatures which were in it, might have been terribly affrighted if not bruis'd or kill'd by ſuch a violent Concuſſion; but by ſuch a ſlow Returning to the Place of Landing they were all preſerv'd ſafe and ſound.

8. Laſtly, We may alſo obſerve a probable Reaſon, why the Poſterity of Noah at their Diſperſion fix'd at Babylon and did not go farther to the particular Places aſſign'd them. When the Ark landed on the Mountains of Ararat, the adjacent Countries and eſpecially the Mountains of Caucaſus and Taurus were ſuch that the Poets (q) always deſcribe them as barren, hard and unfruitful, and therefore Ham and Japhet coming near to theſe Parts, which they knew before, might be more apt to perſwade, and more eaſily prevail on their Poſterity to fix in a Country, which they knew to be pleaſant, healthy and fruitful, rather than run the Hazard of going farther into a Land, which might be much worſe, or like to that, which they firſt arriv'd at after the Flood.

CHAP. X.

The Hiſtory of the World from the Creation to the Flood, as it is (a) principally taken out of the Eaſtern Hiſtorians.

Anno Mundi I. THE (b) eternal, infinite, all-knowing, and Almighty GOD being always moſt perfectly happy in and of himſelf, but willing to communicate himſelf to others, did form all other things out of nothing, at ſuch Times as he thought moſt convenient; and thus in the preceding infinite Time (c) he created a vaſt number of other Worlds in the immenſe Space of the Univerſe. But when the Time came in which he thought moſt proper, that our ſolar Syſtem ſhould have a Beginning, he fram'd out of no viſible preexiſtent Matter, all theſe Planetary Regions, whoſe Motions we now obſerve, by uniting the diſlocated Particles into one Body within their proper Orbs, and giving them conſtant and regular Laws of Motion, which they were always to obſerve; and thus (as (*) the Apoſtle ſaith) the worlds were framed by the word of GOD; ſo that things which are ſeen, were not made of things which do appear. Accordingly at this Time he form'd the (d) Heaven, or that Part of this World, which we behold above us, and (e) the Earth, or that Part of this World, which we behold below us. This Part of the World, which we ſee below us, was a (f) confus'd indigeſted Heap, without any Order or Shape, having no Beaſts, nor Trees, nor Herbs, nor any thing elſe, wherewith we now behold it adorn'd, and nothing could have been ſeen for want of Light, except by him (g) with whom the darkneſs and the light are both alike. Upon this there was a vehement Commotion, which ſeparated the heavy Parts of this Maſs or the Earth from the lighter Parts, and accordingly the heavy Particles ſunk down, and the lighter

(a) Here it is fit, that the Reader ſhould be inform'd, that to what I have mention'd in this Chapter, which is contain'd in the Scripture, eſpecially in the five Books of Moſes, I have alſo added what may be found in other antient oriental Authors, but that I lay no Streſs hereon for the confirming of the Sacred Text. In this Caſe every Man is left to his own Liberty, to judge as he thinks moſt proper; only it is fit, that he ſhould obſerve, that every thing contain'd in the Sacred Scriptures may be true, tho' every thing which is added to them, eſpecially in the Hiſtorical Part, by ſuch Authors as theſe, is falſe. As they make no mention of the Authorities, from whence they had ſuch Accounts; ſo on the one Hand it is poſſible, that they might have forg'd them out of their own Heads, or on the other Hand it is poſſible, that they might have had them from ancient Authors of undoubted Credit, which are now loſt, or from Libraries and Records which have been long ſince deſtroy'd. The Story of Jannes and Jambres two of the Magicians of Egypt their withſtanding Moſes, as it is mention'd in the Babyloniſh Targum upon Exod. 7. 11. is as ill atteſted as any of the Reſt, and yet the Fact was undoubtedly true, ſince no leſs an Author than St. Paul ſpeaks of it, 2 Tim. 3. 8. Among theſe Eaſtern Authors I ſhall chiefly confine my ſelf to what I find in Joſephus, Eutychius, Abulpharagius, and the Jewiſh Targums. As for Joſephus, he was a learned Jew and acquainted with all the Antiquities of that Nation; he was alſo well ſkill'd in the Egyptian Learning, as appears even from the Authors, which he quotes, and he ſo well underſtood the Greek, the learned Language of that Age and their Hiſtorians, that he wrote all his Works in that Language. As for Abulpharagius he was a Phyſician of Malatia in Leſſer Armenia, of the Chriſtian Religion, and Sect of the Jacobites. He is an Author of good Eſteem in the Eaſt, as well among Mahometans as Chriſtians, and wrote in Arabick about the End of the thirteenth Century. As for Eutychius, he alſo wrote in the ſame Language, and was a Chriſtian Author of the Sect of the Melchites. He was born at Cairo in Egypt, Anno Domini 876, and became very eminent in the Knowledge of Phyſick, which he practis'd with great Reputation, being reckon'd by the Mahometans themſelves, to have been one of the eminenteſt Phyſicians of his Time. But toward the latter Part of his Life, giving himſelf more to the Study of Divinity he was Anno Domini 933 choſen Patriarch of Alexandria for his Sect (for there was another Patriarch of that Place at the ſame Time) and there he firſt took the Name of Eutychius, before which Time he was call'd Said Ebn Batrik, and died about ſeven Years after. The Hiſtory and Annals of both theſe Authors were publiſh'd at Oxford by the learned Dr. Pocock. As for the Targums, they were all written originally in Chaldee, and are publiſh'd in our Polyglot Bibles. The firſt is Onkelos, whoſe Style is clean and neat, and which comes neareſt to that of Daniel and Ezra. He wrote on the five Books of Moſes and is generally only a bare Tranſlator thereof, rather than a Paraphraſt; ſo that very little can be collected out of him. The other two upon the Pentateuch are of a much later Date; but they ſeem to be ſkill'd in the Learning, which either the Land of Canaan or the Aſſyrian Monarchy could furniſh them with. And as none of them could have any Deſign in falſifying any Story; ſo we may the better depend upon their Sincerity, in what they relate. And it is probable that whatever material Hiſtory was to be found in Judea, Egypt, Greece, Aſſyria and Arabia, and conſequently in all the Eaſt concerning thoſe antient Times, may be met with in one or more of theſe Authors. It is plain that all of them are guilty of Romancing, tho' ſome more than others, and therefore they cannot be ſo well depended on in ſuch Relations, which have a Shew of Truth. However it is hop'd, that the Particulars mention'd in this Chapter, ſuch as they are, will not be altogether unacceptable.

(b) Gen. 1. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. (c) This is according to all our modern Obſervations in Philoſophy, for which ſee Dereham's Aſtrotheology. (*) Heb. 11. 2. (d) and (e) This is the Meaning of theſe two Words the Heaven and the Earth, as is evident from their Derivations out of the Arabick Language. (f) Patrick upon Geneſis. (g) Pſal. 139. 12.

Parts aſcended, ſo that the Earth was cover'd with the Waters. Then the Spirit of GOD exerted itſelf, that by its Incubation like a Bird upon Eggs, for to this the Word מרחפת in the Hebrew alludes, it might not only ſeparate thoſe Parts, which before were confus'd, but alſo give a particular Virtue and Power to them to produce ſuch Things from them, as GOD had before intended. The firſt Thing that appear'd was a dimmer Light from the Place of the Sun; for the Earth or this whole Maſs having now receiv'd its diurnal and annual Motion, and having turn'd about for near the Space of twelve Hours, this Light appear'd in the Eaſt, and at the End of twelve Hours more did ſeem to ſet in the Weſt. Thus it pleas'd God to make a Diſtinction between Day and Night, ſo that from hence we compute the Time from the Creation of the World. And this was the Work of the firſt Day.

2. The next (h) Thing which GOD commanded to come forth of this Chaos, was the Air, particularly that Region next to us, wherein the Fowls do fly, and where the Clouds and Vapours do appear, and accordingly he fix'd a particular Diſtinction or Superficies between them, which plainly ſeparates the Earth and Waters from the Air, Clouds and Vapours. This is the Meaning of Moſes, (i) And GOD made the firmament or Expanſion, and divided the waters, which were under the firmament, from the Waters which were above the firmament: and it was ſo. And this was the Work of the ſecond Day.

3. On (k) the third Day GOD collected into one Body by themſelves all the Waters, which continu'd mix'd with the Earth, and cover'd the Surface of it, ſo that the dry Land, or the Earth and the Seas did appear diſtinct and ſeparate from each other, in the ſame Manner as they have been ever ſince. Upon this the Earth, without the Influence of the Sun, brought forth Graſs, which comes up every Year without ſowing, and Herbs bearing Seed, as all Sorts of Corn, and whatever elſe is ſown, with a Power to produce ſuch Seed yearly, that ſo their Kinds may be continu'd, and alſo Trees, which bear Fruit, and theſe Trees have alſo ſome Seeds growing upon them, which either fall off of themſelves, or are incloſ'd as Kernels in Fruit, that ſo their Kinds might be continu'd, eſpecially ſuch as are not planted nor taken Care of by Art. And this was the Work of the third Day.

4. On (l) the fourth Day GOD condens'd into one ſolid Body this dimmer Light, which appear'd on the firſt Day, ſo that in the Morning the Sun ſhone out in a Glorious Manner, as it hath done ever ſince. After this he plac'd a Solid Subſtance in an Orb nearer to the Earth to move round it, upon which the Sun ſhining might in the Night Time alſo reflect its Light upon the Earth for the Comfort of the Inhabitants when the Sun was abſent, and then the Moon was a great Light, or juſt at its Full, and riſing at Sun ſet, gave Light upon the Earth during the whole Night. Theſe two GOD was pleas'd to appoint for the Meaſuring and computing of Time, that a ſpeedy and ſwift Motion round in four and twenty Hours, ſhould make a Day, that the Time from one Change of the Moon to the other, or ſome Space of near the ſame Time ſhould make a Month, and the apparent Revolution of the Sun to the ſame Point of the Ecliptick Line ſhould make not only a Year, but alſo a grateful Variety of Seaſons in the ſeveral Parts of the Earth, which by this annual Motion are all viſited with the Sun's Beams. Accordingly the Sun was the greater Light, which ſo rul'd the Day, that during its being above the Earth in the Day Time the Light of the Moon and Stars were not regarded. And the Moon was the leſſer Light, which ſo govern'd the Night, that whenever ſhe appear'd in the Abſence of the Sun the Light of the Stars were not minded. The (m) Jews thus paraphraſe on the Text. And GOD ſaid, Let there be lights in the firmament of heaven, to ſeparate between the day and the night, and let them be for the Signs and Times of Feaſts, for the ſanctifying of the New Moons and the Beginnings of the Years, and the Intercalations of Months, and Years, the Revolutions of the Sun, the New Moons and Cycles. At this Time he alſo made the other five Planets of this Solar Syſtem and their Satellites or Attendants. And this was the Work of the fourth Day.

5. On (n) the fifth Day GOD proceeded to form the lower Sort of Animals or living Creatures, viz. the Fiſh and Fowl, which are in many Reſpects inferior to Beaſts. Theſe were form'd out of the Waters, and of theſe he created ſome vaſtly big, as Whales, and ſome extreamly ſmall, as ſuch which cannot be ſeen but through a Microſcope. That the one might ſhew his Power over all, and the other his Providence in taking Care of the minuteſt Particle. After this GOD created out of the Earth the Cattle both great and ſmall for Man's Uſe, and the Beaſts, which were afterwards wild, as alſo ſuch Creatures which crept upon the Earth, as Serpents, Snails, &c. And this was the Work of the fifth Day and Part of the Sixth.

6. On (o) the latter Part of the ſixth Day, when the World was now like a noble Palace and ready furniſh'd with all Conveniences, then GOD proceeded to make a more noble Creature, who ſhould be Lord of all. He doth not ſay of him as he did of the Reſt, Let the Waters, or Let the earth bring him forth; but he doth, as it were, adviſe and conſult about his Production. He ſaid, Let us make man.

(h) Gen. 1. 6. (i) Gen. 1. 7, 8. (k) Gen. 1. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13. (l) Gen. 1. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19. (m) Targum Jonathanis Ben Uzziel in Gen. 1. 14. (n) Gen. 1. 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25. (o) Gen. 1. 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.

Not to ſignify any Deliberation within himſelf or any Difficulty in the Work, but to repreſent to us the Dignity of Man, and that he was made a far more noble Creature than any other upon Earth, made with admirable Wiſdom and great Prudence, and that a greater Power and Skill was employ'd in producing a Creature of ſuch Beauty and Majeſty. He was to conſiſt of two Parts, a Body like other terreſtrial Creatures, and a Soul which was peculiar to himſelf. This Soul is ſaid to be after the Image of GOD, not only his moral Image, as it was at firſt perfectly pure and holy, but alſo his natural Image. It was a ſpiritual Subſtance, endu'd with Underſtanding, Reaſon, Freedom of Choice, Immortal, capable of apprehending Things inviſible to the Body, and communicating its Apprehenſions to other Creatures, eſpecially thoſe of its own Kind by the Benefit of Speech; and we may alſo add, that as GOD is infinite in his Nature, ſo is the Soul infinite in its Deſires and can be ſatisfy'd with nothing leſs. Then GOD made man of the duſt of the ground, that when we are apt to be lifted up becauſe we are made after GOD's image the Thoughts of the Dirt, out of which we were taken, may humble us and keep us low. Then GOD breath'd into his Noſtrils the breath of life, which being ſaid of no other Creature, leades us to conſider, not only that the Soul of Man is a diſtinct Thing, and of a diſtinct Original from the Body, but that a more excellent Spirit was put into him by GOD, than into other Animals, and from whence he is peculiarly call'd (p) The father of Spirits. Here Moſes tells us, that GOD breath'd into Man the Breath of חיים Lives in the plural Number, both temporal and eternal, both were inſpir'd into him at the ſame Time, and thus Man became a living Soul. Life was the immediate Reſult of the Union of the Soul with the Body.

7. Thus was created by GOD the Woman's Soul alſo, tho' it is not expreſly mention'd. For if her Soul had been made out of Adam as her Body was, he would have ſaid not only ſhe is bone of my bone, but alſo Soul of my Soul, which would very much have improv'd the Bond of Marriage, and heighten'd a conjugal Affection.

8. When the firſt Man was thus made he was call'd Adam, which (q) Joſephus ſaith in Hebrew ſignifies Red, becauſe the Earth, that he was made of in the virginal Perfection of it is of that Colour. It is certain that the Clay is of this Colour, and where it is ſaid, (r) that the LORD GOD, formed man of the duſt of the earth, the Hebrew Word יצר formed is a Root from whence the Noun יוצר or a Potter is derived, as if it was to ſhew, that he formed Man of the Earth as a Potter forms his Potts of Clay, and therefore (s) As the Clay is in the potter's hands; ſo are we in his hand. And the Word (t) Ground is in the Hebrew אדמה Adamah, which properly ſignifies the red Earth or Clay, and ſeems to put us in Mind of that particular Earth, out of which Man was at firſt form'd.

9. When (u) Adam was thus created, GOD commanded all living Creatures both Male and Female to appear before him, who call'd them all by their Names, and the Jews tell us, that the Names, which he gave them at that Time, they bear to this Day.

10. Adam (x) was all this while alone, and uneaſy in that Condition, for want of a ſuitable Companion, there being none as yet provided for him, when all the reſt of the Creatures enjoy'd themſelves in Pairs. To prevent the Inconvenience of ſuch a Solitude (y) GOD caus'd a deep ſleep to fall upon Adam, and he ſlept; and he took one of his ribs, and cloſed up the fleſh inſtead thereof. And the rib which the LORD GOD had taken from the man made he a woman. In this Sleep it is probable that Adam continu'd till the next Day, and Eve being thus form'd, ſlept alſo during the following Night. So that the Works of the ſix Days Creation being finiſh'd, GOD taking a Review of what he had done, was pleas'd with every Part of his Work, as ſuitable to all thoſe wiſe and good Ends for which he intended it.

11. On (z) the Beginning of the ſeventh Day from the Creation, (which was now the firſt Day of Adam's Life, and conſequently the firſt Day of the Week, and the Day from whence Adam began to compute the Days, Weeks, Months and Years of his Life.) GOD brings the Woman, which he had made, to Adam, (a) who immediately knew what ſhe was, and in what Manner ſhe was created. Upon this Adam ſaid (b) At this time only was this Woman form'd from me. But Women hereafter ſhall not be form'd from Man. She is bone of my bone, and fleſh of my fleſh; ſhe ſhall be called (c) woman, becauſe ſhe was taken out of man. Upon this GOD inſtituted the holy Eſtate of Matrimony, and joyn'd together Adam and Eve as Man and Wife.

12. The (d) Heavens and the Earth being now finiſh'd, and all the Creatures contain'd in both being of a vaſt Variety and plac'd in a wonderful Order, and Adam and Eve being joyn'd together for the mutual Society, Help and Comfort of each other; and GOD having ſo compleatly finiſh'd his Work, that there remain'd no more to be done, he now determins and appoints this ſeventh Day from the Creation, being the firſt Day of the Week, to be obſerv'd from the Beginning of the World to the End (the Caſe of the Iſraelites only excepted) in Commemoration of the miraculous Creation of the World in general, and of Man in particular, or of greater Bleſſings to be beſtow'd upon Mankind on this Day; that we might not only reſt from our Labours, but alſo ſet it apart and dedicate it to a holy Uſe, to be ſpent in religious Duties, as a Day of bleſſing and praiſing God for all his Works of Wonder, and a Means of procuring his Bleſſings on all thoſe, who piouſly worſhip him on this Day. And thus did our firſt Parents dedicate the firſt Part of their Time to him, from whom they had receiv'd the whole, leaving us an Example worthy of our Imitation.

13. In (e) the mean Time GOD had taken Care, that in a Part of the Country call'd Eden, which lies on the Eaſt Side of Babylon, beyond the common Meeting of the Rivers Tigris and Euphrates in the North, and Phiſon and Gihon in the South, in the Country call'd (f) Suſiana, ſhould grow a pleaſant Garden, call'd The Garden of Paradiſe, wherein were all Sorts of Trees, Herbs and Flowers, which were any Way delightful to the Eye, the Taſte, or the Smell.

14. On (f) the eighth Day of the Creation or the ſecond Day of the Week it is probable, that GOD took our firſt Parents from the Place where they were form'd, and plac'd them in this delightful Garden to preſerve it by their Care and Labour in the Condition in which they found it. And that they might have an ample Reward for all their early and innocent Labours, GOD gave them full Liberty to make uſe of all the Delights, which were there; and to eat the Fruits of any Tree, which was in the Garden. But to prove their Obedience in the midſt of ſuch Plenty, he laid one Reſtraint upon them, ſaying, (g) But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil thou ſhalt not eat of it; for in the day that thou eateſt thereof thou ſhalt ſurely die, and the more effectually to prevent the Eating of it, he gave them an Injunction (h) that they ſhould not touch it. Here Life and Death were ſet before them. If they had continu'd obedient for ſome Time, they might after that have eaten of the Tree of Life, which was in the midſt of the Garden, and liv'd for ever. But if they did eat of the forbidden Fruit, they muſt (i) unavoidably and immediately periſh, unleſs ſome Miracle of Mercy ſhould interpoſe, which they then knew nothing of. Thus (k) GOD created man to be immortal, and made him to be an image of his own eternity. And at the Beginning (l) the Generations of the world were healthful, and (m) perfect: and there was no poiſon of deſtruction in them, nor the kingdom of death upon the earth. At this Time our firſt Parents ſtood as the common Repreſentatives of all their Offspring, and the Covenant was made with them not only for themſelves but alſo for all their Poſterity, that if they had continu'd obedient, they and all mankind to the End of the World, ſhould by them and their Obedience, obtain a State of Righteouſneſs, Happineſs, and eternal Life, but if they were diſobedient, then this their Fall ſhould involve all Mankind in a State of Sin and Miſery, and make them liable not only to temporal, but alſo to eternal Death.

15. But the Devil (n) envying the Happineſs of Mankind, and reſolving, if poſſible, to bring him out of this State and to work his Ruin, enter'd into a Serpent, which in thoſe eaſtern Countries is a very large and beautiful Creature, adorn'd with lovely and delicate Spots, and with a wonderful Variety of the moſt admirable and ſhining Colours. Among them there are a Sort of Serpents which have Wings, and ſhine very brightly like Fire. Theſe by Iſaiah are call'd (o) fiery, flying Serpents, and by Moſes (p) Seraphims, and they were call'd fiery, becauſe they appear'd like Fire when they fled in the Air. Hence it is that the Word Seraphim ſignifies alſo the higheſt Sort of (q) Angels call'd The Angels of the Preſence, which probably appear'd in ſome ſuch Form with flaming Wings. Thus the Devil made uſe of ſuch Kind of Serpent (but of a more ſurpaſſing Brightneſs than any which are now extant) that he might reſemble one of the moſt illuſtrious Angels, who appear'd ſometimes in the like Shape. This mov'd Eve the more readily to hearken to the Voice of the Serpent, taking it to be one of the heavenly Seraphims, which ſhe had ſometimes ſeen in ſuch a ſplendid Form, attending (as uſual) upon the divine Glory or Majeſty. And ſhe thinking it to be an Angel that wiſh'd them well, was the ſooner deceiv'd. For ſhe was not ſo ſimple as to think, that Beaſts could ſpeak, much leſs, that they knew more of GOD's Mind than himſelf. Nor doth it ſeem at all credible, that ſhe could have been deceiv'd, but by ſome Creature, which appear'd ſo glorioufly, that ſhe took it for an heavenly Miniſter, who came, as ſhe thought, to explain to them the Meaning of the divine Prohibition and the Liberty otherwiſe granted. Thus he comes to Eve, who had ſpent the eighth and ninth Days of the Creation, or the ſecond and third Days of the Week in working with Adam in the Garden, as GOD had appointed, and was now at ſome Diſtance from him.

16. The Devil coming thus to Eve, repreſented himſelf as one of the heavenly Court, who either came or was ſent to congratulate the Happineſs, which GOD had beſtow'd upon them in Paradiſe; which was ſo great, that he could not eaſily believe that he had deny'd them any of the Fruit of the Garden. He deſir'd therefore to be ſatisfy'd from her own Mouth of the Truth of what he pretended to have heard; or to know how they underſtood the Command of GOD. The Woman or Eve perceiving ſuch a delicate creature coming toward her, was ſurpriz'd at ſuch a Sight, and hearing the Devil ſpeak out of him, was the more amaz'd, and (r) being thus deceiv'd, ſo as not to ſuſpect any ill Deſign, was the more willing to enter into a free Diſcourſe with him. Accordingly ſhe ſeems to have underſtood him as if he thought that GOD had forbade them to eat any Fruit in the Garden, and therefore gives him the full and true Account of the Prohibition in theſe Words. We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden. But of the fruit of the tree, which is in the midſt of the garden GOD hath ſaid, ye ſhall not eat of it, neither ſhall ye touch it, leſt ye die. The Devil intimates to her that ſhe was under a Miſtake, and that Death would not be the certain Conſequence of the Eating this Fruit; and that the GOD who made them, was too good to inflict ſo heavy a Puniſhment for ſo ſmall a Fault. On the other Hand they ſhould be great Gainers by Eating of it. That they ſhould immediately diſcover abundance of things, which they at preſent were ignorant of, and they ſhould alſo be like unto (s) the Angels of GOD, who are call'd Principalities and Powers knowing good and evil (t) in a greater Perfection. And therefore GOD himſelf did only keep them in Awe by his Threatning, but would not be ſo ſevere as to execute it, when he ſaw them much improv'd, and not impair'd by Eating it. All this while Eve look'd ſo long upon the forbidden Fruit, 'till ſhe not only had an Appetite to it as excellent food, but was alſo taken with its beautiful Colour; and was ſtrongly poſſeſs'd by the Perſwaſion of the old Serpent, that her Mind would be no leſs pleas'd than her Palate by an Increaſe of Knowledge and Wiſdom. Upon this ſhe yielded, and took of the fruit thereof and did eat, and gave alſo to Adam, who return'd to her as ſhe was eating the Fruit. Upon this ſhe us'd the ſame Argument to him, which the Devil had us'd to her, who not ſeeing as yet the ill Conſequences, which did attend her Diſobedience, and reſolving to live and die with one, whom he moſt paſſionately lov'd, as being the chief or only Comfort, which he had among all the Creatures, and whoſe Condition without her would be worſe than theirs, he took of the Fruit from her Hands, and did eat with her.

17. Before our firſt Parents fell from their State of Innocency the Jews (u) tell us, that they were cloath'd with bright Rays ſhining like Onyx Stones, which made them like unto the Angels, inſomuch that they were dreaded by all the Beaſts of the Earth. But (x) now this glorious Apparel fell off from them, that they were more like to the Beaſts, than to what they were before, and the Beaſts ceas'd to have that dread of them, which they had at firſt, and ſome of them caſt off their Subjection and became Enemies to Man, becauſe Man was now become an Enemy to GOD. But now they ſoon had a different Apprehenſion of their State from what at firſt was promis'd. They found themſelves ſtripp'd of all their Intellectual and Moral Ornaments, and bluſh'd to ſee their external Glory ſo much debas'd, inſomuch that they took the Leaves of Fig-Trees (which in the Eaſtern Countries are very broad, and as Strabo tells us, (y) as big as a Shield) and joyning them together in the beſt Manner that they could, they made for themſelves מאזרית ſuch Coverings, which they girt about them. This happen'd (z) upon the fourth Day of the Week, or upon the Tenth Day of the firſt Month in the ancient Year, which was always to be obſerv'd among the Jews as a Day of ſolemn Faſting and Humiliation, by the Command of GOD himſelf.

18. Tho' the eating of a ſingle Fruit might be reckon'd in itſelf to be but a ſmall Matter; yet this very thing did aggravate the Offence and made it more heinous, becauſe our firſt Parents refus'd at that Time to obſerve ſo eaſy an Injunction. And if we look upon it in all its Circumſtances, it contain'd a Complication of the moſt enormous Impieties. There was Stubbornneſs and Diſobedience againſt the expreſs Command of GOD, ſo that it was knowingly and wilfully. There was Pride againſt GOD, and an Admiration of themſelves, becauſe not content with ſo happy a Station they deſird to be equal with him. There was

Unbelief

Unbelief and Contempt both of his Juſtice and Mercy, and giving Credit to the Devil, who told them the Contrary to what GOD had reveal'd. There was Unthankfulneſs for all the Benefits receiv'd at the Creation, when they were made after the Image of GOD and capable of eternal Life, with all other Privileges which could be deſir'd, this one excepted. There was Unnaturalneſs and want of Love to their Poſterity, becauſe they knew, that as they had receiv'd thoſe good Things both for themſelves and their Poſterity; ſo if the Sentence ſhould be deferr'd, they ſhould forfeit all thoſe Benefits for themſelves, and thoſe, who ſhould deſcend from them. And there was a total Apoſtacy from GOD to the Devil, whom they ſet up in the Place of GOD, and believ'd and obey'd rather than GOD; and therefore the utmoſt Penalty which could be inflicted, was no more than what was juſtly due for this ſingle Offence.

19. Thus fell our firſt Parents, and thus they involv'd themſelves and their Poſterity in a State of Sin, and made them liable to all Manner of Miſeries, and even to Death itſelf both temporal and eternal. And as (z) from this common Root ſin entered into the world and death by ſin; even ſo death paſſed upon all men, becauſe all had ſinn'd, and were defil'd by this Original Pollution.

20. And (a) as before they enjoy'd a free Communication and Converſe with GOD, whilſt innocent, and had a clear View of the Divine Majeſty; ſo their Guilt made them afraid to appear, and they trembled at his Juſtice. So that when they heard the Sound of the Majeſtick Preſence, or the Glory of the LORD approaching nearer and nearer to the Place where they were, they ran into the thickeſt and cloſeſt Places, which they could find in the Garden, to hide themſelves from his Preſence. This is ſaid to be in the cool of the day, or as the Hebrew Word expreſſeth it רוח היום in the Wind of the Day, that is, toward the Evening, when the Fierceneſs of the Sun Beams were ſpent, and when it was uſual for a gentle Breeze of the Weſt Wind to blow in that Country. And this uſually being a ſoft and gentle Gale, the Sound, which they heard was the more ſurprizing. However, GOD call'd him in ſuch a Manner that he could not but own, that he was aſham'd and afraid to appear. And taxing him with his Guilt, he confeſs'd it, but laid the Blame upon Eve, and Eve laid the Blame upon the Devil or Serpent, which had deceiv'd her. Upon this GOD firſt pronounc'd a Sentence againſt that Serpent, into which the Devil enter'd, That he ſhould not be ſo noble a Creature after the Fact as he was before, but ſhould be chang'd from (b) a flying Seraph into a foul creeping Serpent, not moving high in the Air but creeping upon the Ground, and licking up the Duſt together with its Food, whatever that ſhould be. Joſephus (c) taking all this Story to ſignify literally no more than a terreſtrial Serpent, ſaith, That for the Puniſhment of the Serpent's Malice, GOD took from him the Benefit of Speech, put Venom under his Tongue, condemn'd him to the Loſs of his Feet, and to crawl upon his Belly, declar'd him to be the Enemy of Mankind, and commanded Eve alſo to tread upon his Head, both as the Fountain of all our Woes, and as the Part, where he moſt eaſily receives a mortal Wound. Upon this he alſo curſes the Devil, who was the Contriver of all our Ruin, and tells him of a SAVIOUR, who ſhould be born of a Woman, ſhould conquer the Devil, deſtroy all his Works, and deliver Mankind from all the Effects of his Malice; which Promiſe Adam and Eve laying hold on by Faith, were, before the Sentence was pronounc'd, deliver'd from that which otherwiſe muſt have been the immediate Effect of their Sin, ſo that he now only condemns the Woman to Sorrow in bearing of Children, and Subjection to her Husband for the Future, and the Man to Toyl and Labour in his ſeveral Callings, and all to a temporal Death at the Time appointed.

21. When the Devil and thoſe apoſtate Spirits had thus been guilty of ſuch groſs Sins, and had ſeduc'd our firſt Parents alſo to fall from that firſt State of Innocency in which they were created, they then (d) loſt their firſt Habitations, they could not indure to behold the glorious Preſence of GOD. The Senſe of their Guilt made them aſtoniſh'd at what they had done. GOD could not but look upon them with an angry Countenance, and Heav'n it ſelf could no longer be Heav'n to them. Upon which GOD paſs'd an irrevocable Sentence of Condemnation upon them, or as the Apoſtles ſtyle it, he ſpared them not, but caſt them down into hell, and reſerved them in everlaſting chains under darkneſs unto the judgment of the great day. And as for the reſt of the Angels who did not joyn with them in this great Rebellion, GOD ſo confirm'd them in their original State of Righteouſneſs and Happineſs, that it was now no longer poſſible for them to fall from the one or to forfeit the other.

22. And as for our firſt Parents Adam and Eve, after they had been cloath'd in Paradiſe with the Skins of Beaſts which had been ſlain for Sacrifices, as an Atonement for their late Offences, GOD drove them forth from the Garden of Eden or Paradiſe to inhabit that Mountainous and barren Country, where they were at firſt created, that ſo they might labour and till that Ground from whence they were taken, and ſo the Curſe might more literally light upon Adam, to which he was condemn'd for this Tranſgreſſion, than if they had liv'd in a plentiful Soyl, viz.

Thorns alſo and thiſtles ſhall it bring forth unto thee; and thou ſhalt eat the herb of the field. In the ſweat of thy face ſhalt thou eat bread, till thou return to the ground, for out of it waſt thou taken: for duſt thou art and unto duſt ſhalt thou return.*

23. It was the conſtant Tradition in the Eaſt, that Adam was immortal at his firſt Creation, but by his Tranſgreſſion he caus'd the Sentence of Death to paſs upon all Mankind. They ſay, (g) that Adam by his Rebellion was the Cauſe of Death; and that (h) the Firſt Man rebell'd againſt his Maker, and brought Mortality in the World. Accordingly they make the Name of the Prince of Devils, and the Deceiver of our firſt Parents to be Samael, whom after the Fall they call the Angel of Death for this Reaſon. So that tho' Joſephus has taken the Story only to relate to a material and terreſtrial Serpent; yet others look on the Serpent as the paſſive Cauſe only. And that the Devil was the Agent. One of them ſaith, (i) that we ought to know, that the Rabbins in their Midraſh expound it thus; that the Serpent was only the Beaſt, which was rode upon, and was about the Bigneſs of a Camel, and that his Rider was Samael, who deceiv'd Eve, and is often call'd by the Name of Satan.

24. Here then we may find out the Place where our firſt Parents were created. It was not in Paradiſe, becauſe (k) the LORD GOD took the man from another Place, and put him into the garden of Eden, to dreſs it, and to keep it. It could not be at a great Diſtance from it, becauſe they were ſo ſoon brought thither. There could be no Rivers to part theſe Places from each other, becauſe they had no Boats nor Bridges to enable them to paſs over them, and there was no need of a freſh Miracle on this Occaſion. It could not be in the Mountain of Moriah, as the (l) Jews affirm, becauſe there were too many Rivers to paſs, and it lay too far diſtant toward the Weſt; neither could it be toward the Weſt at all, becauſe the great Rivers of Phiſon and Tigris lay on that Side. It could not be on one of the Mountains of India, as (m) the Arabians think, becauſe they lay too far diſtant toward the Eaſt. It could not be Southward, becauſe that was a very plentiful and fruitful Country. It could not be on the Eaſt, becauſe that was a Country inhabited by (n) Cain, after he had ſeparated himſelf and his Family from his Father's Country. It could not be exactly Northward, becauſe the Tigris came down from thence, and Pliny ſaith (o) that it made a great Bend Northward in his Time about Apamia. And therefore it muſt lie on ſome Mountain toward the North Eaſt Side of Paradiſe, and being but a little Diſtance from thence, GOD to deter them from attempting to come near this Place again, for fear of being conſum'd, plac'd Cherubims all along the Eaſt Side of the Garden, where there was no Incloſure by Rivers. Theſe were ſome of the heavenly Miniſters, that waited upon the Divine Majeſty, and ſeem (p) to be of a more admirable Sort than the reſt. And he there plac'd alſo a flaming Sword or one of the Seraphims or flying Angels, which appear'd like a flaming Fire, (as (q) God's Miniſters did, whoſe Body moving in the Air reſembled the Vibrations of a Sword, who was appointed with the Cherubims to guard the Entrance of the Garden, and whoſe Motion was ſo very ſwift and glittering, that devouring Flames ſeem'd to come ſtreaming out on every Side. The Deſign of all this was (as the Scripture ſaith) to keep the way of the tree of life, or to ſecure the Paſſage into the Garden of Eden, where this Tree was, that none ſhould dare to attempt a Reentrance, thinking that thereby they might have an Opportunity by eating thereof to live for ever.

25. It is the conſtant Opinion of the Eaſtern Writers, that Adam was reſtor'd again into Favour with GOD, and agreeably thereto Mahomet (r) places him in the firſt Heaven with Noah, Joſeph, Moſes, John the Baptiſt, and CHRIST himſelf. Accordingly the Tradition runs very current, that when our firſt Parents had forfeited their original happy State, and found themſelves condemn'd to ſuch a World of Labour and miſery, and that Death in due Time would unavoidably follow, they plung'd themſelves into the deepeſt Sorrow for a long Space, bewailing their Sins with the utmoſt Signs of true Contrition, and the loweſt Poſtures of an humble Penitent. Joſephus (s) ſaith in ſhort, that he begg'd Pardon. Another ſaith, (t) that he did great Pennance. And (u) a third adds, that he continu'd a whole Week in very diſmal and deplorable Circumſtances. The (x) Targums put theſe Words into his Mouth. O LORD, I beg Mercies from before thy Face, let us not be accounted like the Beaſts to eat the Graſs of the Earth. We will ariſe now and labour with our Hands, and we will eat the Fruit of what we thus labour for, that in this Reſpect there may be a Diſtinction between us and Beaſts. And accordingly GOD (y) granting him this Petition, that he might eat Bread, gave him thereby ſome Hope of future Favours, if he continu'd humbly and heartily to ask for them. Another (z) makes him pray after this Manner, O thou LORD of the whole Univerſe, I pray thee, let my Sin paſs from me, and receive my Repentance, that all Ages may learn what it is to repent, and that thou wilt accept the Repentance of thoſe, who truly turn to thee. Which Prayer they tell us that GOD accepted of, put forth his Hand, took him up, and accepted of his Repentance, according to the ſaying of the Pſalmiſt, (a) I acknowledged my ſin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid. I ſaid, I will confeſs my tranſgreſſions unto the LORD, and thou forgaveſt the iniquity of my ſin. Others (b) ſay, that leſt Adam ſhould be wholly deſtitute of all Comfort, the moſt merciful GOD immediately diſpatch'd an Angel to comfort him, and to aſſure him of his future Favour, and (c) ſome are ſo particular as to affirm, that the Name of the Angel, which was ſent on this Errand, was Raziel. And thus as Adam fell by the ſubtle Inſinuation of evil Angels; ſo he was comforted and aſſur'd of Favour by the Miniſtry of good ones. The Syrian Writers ſay (d) that the Cherubims and Seraphims and the reſt of thoſe noble Orders were grievouſly troubled at the Fall of Adam, and that (e) the Trees themſelves did bow down their Heads, becauſe a Prince of the Creatures, and the Head and Chief of all Nations and Families had thus made Shipwrack of himſelf in the very Haven of Happineſs.

26. However, there is greater Reaſon to believe, that Adam after a due Repentance and Humiliation, did not only betake himſelf to Husbandry, as GOD had appointed; but did alſo ſoon ſet up the Worſhip of his Creator in his Family, that ſo he and they might obtain an eternal Happineſs, inſtead of the temporal Paradiſe, which they had loſt by his Diſobedience. A certain (f) Author endeavours to prove from the Teſtimony of the Jewiſh Writers, that Adam was well skill'd in all human Learning, that he was a Divine, a Philoſopher, a Phyſician, an Aſtrologer, a Chymiſt, and a Mathematician, and that he was taught theſe Things by an Angel; and (g) that he had receiv'd of GOD the Knowledge of the Emboliman Year, that (h) he had ſix Precepts given him, which he taught his Son Seth, who was born after his own Image and Likeneſs, and the reſt of his Children, and ſo they were handed down to Noah, to whom (i) the ſeventh Precept, (viz. of abſtaining from Blood) was given immediately after the Deluge, and thus the Law was handed down to Abraham and the ſucceſſive Generations, until the Time of Moſes. And for this Purpoſe GOD was pleas'd to lengthen the Time of the Antediluvian Patriarchs, and of others, who liv'd immediately after the Flood, inſomuch that Adam liv'd two hundred and forty three Years in the Time of Methuſelah, and Methuſelah liv'd three hundred and ſixty nine Years in the Time of Noah, and Noah died but two Years before the Birth of Abraham. Thus Adam inſtructed his Family in all thoſe Duties, which GOD had giv'n him in Charge, and in the Knowledge and Expectation of the MESSIAH, who was to conquer the Devil, and deliver all Mankind out of the State of Sin and Miſery, into which they were thus unhappily plung'd.

27. Now there are three Things neceſſary to keep up the publick Worſhip of GOD, viz. A Perſon to officiate, and the Time and Place for ſuch an Exerciſe. The Perſon officiating was Adam himſelf, who being the Father of all Mankind acted at ſuch a Time both as Prieſt and King, and was ſucceeded in theſe Offices by the Father and eldeſt Perſon in each reſpective Family. The Time was before ſettled by GOD himſelf, being the ſeventh from the Beginning of the Creation, or the firſt Day of the Week, which was appointed as (k) a Day to be kept holy, and that no manner of Work ſhould be done in it. Becauſe in ſix days the LORD made heaven and earth, the ſea, and all that in them is, and reſted on this as on the ſeventh day. Wherefore the LORD bleſſed the ſeventh day, and hallowed it. As for the Place, it was in all Probability, on the Eaſt Side of the Garden of Paradiſe, and not at ſo great a Diſtance, but that the Cherubims, which were plac'd there, were viſible to him, and from thence it is probable, that the GOD of Glory or the Divine SHECHINAH appear'd to him, who is often repreſented, as (l) ſitting, or (m) being converſant among the Cherubims, and as a Repreſentation whereof the (n) Cherubims were plac'd with their Wings as covering the Mercy Seat.

28. This ſeems to be the firſt Original of Worſhipping the Divine Majeſty toward ſome Particular Part of the World, and was an excellent Method to prevent in the Family of Seth, that Idolatry of worſhipping the Sun, especially at its Rising, so soon began in the Race of Cain, and which so much prevail'd in the early Ages of the World. Thus when the Israelites were in the Wilderness, tho' they travail'd different Ways, yet the Holy of Holies, toward which the People worshipp'd, was always plac'd at the west Side of the Tabernacle, and when the Temple was built, it had the same Situation. And as this was look'd upon as the Place, in which GOD was (o) pleased to dwell, because he had a delight therein; so they who worshipp'd GOD at a Distance from thence, did usually direct their Faces that Way. Thus David declar'd his Resolution, (p) that he would not only come into the house of GOD in the multitude of his mercy, but at a great Distance he would in his fear worship toward his holy temple. Solomon desires GOD (q) fix Times to hear the supplication of those, who shou'd pray toward the house, which he had built. When (r) Daniel was in Babylon, which lay eastward from Jerusalem, his windows were open toward that City and the Temple, whilst it was his constant Custom to pray and make supplication before his GOD three times a day. And the Prophet (s) speaking of a Reformation in the Israelites from Idolatry, describes it thus, They shall go and seek the LORD their GOD. They shall ask the way to Zion with their faces thitherward, saying, Come and let us joyn our selves unto the LORD in a perpetual covenant, which shall not be forgotten. In the Time of the Law the holy Place was toward the West and the People worshipp'd that Way, to put them in Mind of the Progress of Religion in that Quarter, and the Situation of the Church in the Time of the Gospel: But our Chancels are toward the East, and we turn that Way, when we repeat the Creed, to put us in mind of that Place, from whence the Gospel came. They look'd forward towards us, and we look backward toward them. They look'd to the Fulfilling of the Prophesies in our Days, and we look to the Prophecies which were given to them of us. We all look toward Jerusalem, to shew that we are the same Church, and since the earthly Jerusalem hath been long since destroyed, we should now raise our Minds to heavenly things, and think on that (t) City, which is above, and which is the mother of us all.

 eſpecially

29. But to return from this Digression, Our first Parents living in this religious Manner had (u) several Sons and Daughters. For having a Command from GOD (x) to be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it, they could not be long without Issue, (y) lest the beasts of the earth should increase upon them.

30. An (z) Arabick Historian tells us, that Cain was born thirty Years after Adam was expell'd out of Paradise; but it is not probable, that the Distance was so long. The Name קין signifies an Acquisition or Obtaining, and therefore he in all Probability was the eldest Son, and the Words of Eve in our English Translation, (a) I have gotten a man from the LORD, can imply no less. The (b) same Historian saith, that Eve brought forth Twins, a Son and a Daughter, and she call'd the Son Cain, and the Daughter Azrûn. Another (c) calls her Clinia, and adds, that after thirty Years more (which is more than can well be allow'd) she brought forth two other Twins, Abel and Lebuda, whom the first Author calls Owain, which (saith he) in Greek is Lapkura. And (d) when they were of riper Years, Adam said to Eve, Let Cain marry Owain, who was born at the same Time with Abel. And let Abel marry Azrûn, who was born at the same Time with Cain. But Cain said to his Mother, I will marry my Sister, and let Abel marry his Sister. For Azrûn was more beautiful than Owain. Which when Adam heard he was much displeas'd at it, and said, That it was against the Command of GOD, that either of these should marry with the Sister of the same Birth. How true this Story is let others judge. It is plain that the (e) Eastern Nations were sensible that Marriages ought not to be in the nearest Degree of Consanguinity; and tho' Cain and Abel could marry none but two of their own Sisters, and consequently Necessity might plead for the Lawfulness of it; yet they took Care to have it thought, that even Cain and Abel did not marry those, who, as Twins, were nearest of Kin to them, but such as were at a remoter Distance, and that Cain's Desire to have it otherwise, was the first Sign of his Stubbornness and Impiety. Thus (f) these two Brethren were of two different Tempers. Abel was a righteous Man and a keeper of Sheep, that so he might breed up fit Sacrifices to be offer'd to GOD, and have proper Cloaths to be made of the Skins, or perhaps of the Wool of those Creatures. Cain was a Tiller of the Ground, that so he might provide Bread for the Sustenance of human Life. Abel was a virtuous Man, and set GOD before his Face in whatsoever he said or did. But Cain was a wicked and Graceless Person. Now when both these Brethren were grown up to be Men, and had exercis'd these Callings for some Time, Adam said unto them, (g) Take of the Fruits of the Earth and of the Lambs among the Sheep, and go up unto the Top of this

Mount (which was the Place appointed for religious Worſhip) and offer your Gifts to GOD, and then each of you ſhall take your Wives. Upon this Cain brought of the Fruit of the Ground, and Abel took of the firſt and principal of his Flock, as their reſpective Oblations unto GOD. They brought them to the Place appointed for publick Worſhip, and to Adam, that he ſhould offer them up accordingly. But (h) whilſt they went up to the Top of the Mount, Satan put into the Mind of Cain, that he ſhould kill his Brother Abel for the Sake of his Siſter Azrun. And the LORD was pleas'd graciouſly to accept of Abel, and his Offering was alſo the more acceptable, becauſe he himſelf was accepted. There (i) came a Fire from Heaven, or rather a Stream of Light, or a Flame from the glorious Preſence of GOD, to whom it was offer'd, which burnt up his Sacrifice. But he did not ſo much as ſhine upon the Sheaves which Cain brought, much leſs make them aſcend up to Heaven in a Smoak, tho' he was the elder Brother, and brought his Offering firſt, which was of a more combuſtible Matter. Upon this Cain was very angry at Abel, and look'd upon GOD himſelf as partial, if not unjuſt, not conſidering that he could not have a Title to GOD's Favour by his Birthright, but by his Piety. And when he ſhould have made ſevere Reflections upon himſelf, and have conſider'd what it was which provok'd GOD to ſlight his Sacrifice, that ſo he might amend his Life, he was then meditating Revenge. (l) He hung down his Head with Shame and Diſcontent, and reſolv'd to kill his Brother, when he ſhould find a fit Opportunity for ſuch a wicked Purpoſe.

31. But after he had (m) diſſembled and conceal'd his Deſign for ſome Time, inſomuch that Abel thought no Harm was intended, (n) Cain ſaid unto Abel his Brother, Let us go into the Field. And when they were alone in the Field, Cain ſaid unto Abel his Brother, I know that the World was created by the Mercy of GOD: but it is not govern'd according to the Fruit of our good Works, and there is Reſpect of Perſons in Judgment. Why was thy Oblation favourably accepted, when mine was rejected? And Abel anſwer'd and ſaid unto Cain, The World was created in Mercy, and is govern'd according to the Fruits of our good Works, and there is no Reſpect of Perſons in Judgment, and my Oblation was more favourably receiv'd, becauſe the Fruit of my Works were better, and more precious than thine. And Cain anſwered and ſaid unto Abel, There is no Judgment nor Judge, nor any other World; neither ſhall good Men receive any Reward, nor wicked Men be puniſh'd. And Abel anſwer'd and ſaid unto Cain, There is a Judgment, and a Judge, and another World, in which good Men ſhall receive a Reward, and wicked Men ſhall be puniſh'd. Upon this Debate there aroſe a Quarrel in the Field, and Cain roſe (o) up againſt Abel his Brother, and gave him a violent Stroke upon the Forehead with a Stone, and kill'd him, (p) and bury'd his Body in hopes of concealing the Murder. GOD that knew what had paſs'd, came upon this to Cain, enquir'd after his Brother, and what was become of him, becauſe he had not been ſeen for ſeveral Days laſt paſt, whereas they two us'd to be frequently together. This Queſtion at firſt put Cain to a little Stand, 'till upon Recollection he gave this Anſwer, that he had not ſeen his Brother for a great While, and could not imagine what ſhould be the Reaſon of his Abſence. Upon this Pretence the Matter was ſtill laid cloſer to him, to which he had the Inſolence to reply, That he was none of his Brother's Keeper, and none of his Council. Upon this Expoſtulation and Affront GOD was pleas'd to charge him downright with his Brother's Murder, telling him how wonderful a Thing it was, that he ſhould not be able to give any Account of his Brother, when he himſelf had kill'd him. The Fact was now no longer to be deny'd, and therefore GOD proceeds to paſs upon him for it a Sentence of perpetual Baniſhment from that Country, which was thus ſtain'd by the Blood of his Brother. And tho' he might propoſe to go into a more fruitful (q) Land than that where he was at that Time; yet it ſhould prove otherwiſe. GOD oftentimes (r) turns a fruitful land into barrenneſs, for the wickedneſs of thoſe that dwell therein. And therefore wherever he ſhould flee, the Earth, which he tilled, ſhould be barren, and not bring forth anſwerable to his Labour. And in that ſtrange Country he ſhould have no Reſt, but wander unquietly up and down for a conſiderable Time, and not know where to ſettle. And Cain anſwer'd GOD, and ſaid, This is too heavy a Puniſhment, for I ſink down under the Apprehenſion of it, Or as others will have it, My Sin is greater, than that it can be forgiven. Behold, thou haſt baniſhed me from my native Country, and more than that, I am baniſh'd from thy gracious Preſence, excluded from thy Favour and Protection, and ſhall not have the Liberty to come before thy glorious Majeſty, and therefore (s) I wiſh, that any Perſon, who lights upon me may kill me. But GOD ſaid unto Cain, That (t) becauſe he had committed ſuch a barbarous Murder, any Perſon might in Juſtice be the Murderer of Cain, and Blood did require Blood, and the World being now of near an hundred and thirty Years ſtanding, and Adam had a numerous Offspring, any one of which might kill him; yet it ſhould not be ſo at this Time, his Life ſhould be prolong'd in a miſerable State, as an Example of divine Vengeance, and to deter others from committing the like Murder. Accordingly GOD was pleas'd to declare, that whoever did kill Cain, ſhould ſuffer very ſeverely for ſuch a Fact; and thus GOD was pleas'd (u) to take Cain under his immediate Care and Protection, and ſtrike (x) Terror upon others, as he did afwards in the Caſe of Jacob and the Shechemites, that they who met with him, ſhould not kill him. Thus Cain went away from the Reſt of his Relations by the Force of that Divine Curſe. He went from that divine Glory, which was viſible in the Weſt or in the Place appointed for divine Worſhip, and as Cain went eaſtward; ſo he never afterward enjoy'd the Sight of it again, but was baniſh'd from it. And tho' no one could hurt him; yet he being conſcious of his own Guilt, wander'd about (x) fearful and trembling, and apprehenſive of every thing, which he ſaw or heard. Some (y) farther add, that GOD ſtigmatiz'd him with a Letter of his Name in his Forehead, or ſet ſuch a Brand upon him, as ſignified him to be accurs'd. Others ſay, that he look'd moſt frightfully, ſo that every Body avoided him, or that his Head ſhak'd continually, or that he had a Trembling in his whole Body, or that his Face was blaſted by Lightning from the Preſence of the LORD, and that he had ſome ſuch notorious Mark of GOD's Diſpleaſure. Some add, that (z) the very Ground ſhoke under him, which made People ſhun him, and run away from him, ſaying, This is the cruel Man, who kill'd his Brother. However, Cain (a) took to him his Siſter Azrûn for a Wife, and liv'd in this Manner in (b) the Country of Suſiana, which is on the Eaſt Side of the Garden of Eden, either hoping to have an early Opportunity to bring his Offspring into Paradiſe, or at leaſt, that this being a plain level Country he might in ſome meaſure avoid the Curſe, and receive the Fruits of his Tillage, and all his other Labours, in a greater Meaſure, than could be expected in a leſs fruitful Soil.

32. The Year after this Murder of Abel, Adam had a Son by (c) Eve, whom ſhe call'd Seth, which in Hebrew ſignifies Appointed. As the Murder of Abel was freſh in her Memory; ſo ſhe look'd upon this Son as a Perſon appointed and ſent by GOD to make up the other Deficiency; and therefore ſhe ſaid, GOD hath appointed me another ſeed inſtead of Abel, whom Cain ſlew. The Arabick Hiſtorian (d) deſcribes him to be of a beautiful Aſpect, a ſtrong Man, and of a perfect Stature, and the Father of the Giants, which were before the Flood. But the Scripture ſaith of him, (e) Adam begat this ſon in his own image, and after his own likeneſs, which he had ſince the Fall, and not (f) in the likeneſs and after the image of GOD, in which he was at firſt created. He was a ſinful and corrupt Offspring of ſinful and corrupt Parents. And as it was with him; ſo it is with all Mankind, who are deſcended from him. Anno Mundi 131.

32. But notwithſtanding all this Defect, which Seth and all Mankind have by Nature, it is (g) univerſally agreed upon, that he was a good Man, that he was (h) carefully brought up under the Tuition of his Parents, and that as ſoon as he was able to diſtinguiſh between Good and Evil, he deliver'd himſelf up only to the Study of Virtue. That he prov'd to be a wonderful Man, and his Children were the lively Images of ſo excellent a Father, and were all of them well bred and well diſpos'd, and liv'd happily and peaceably with Reſpect to the Publick, and in a perfect Agreement with one another, and that (i) he inſerted into his Offspring the Deſire of that happy Life, which their Parents had in Paradiſe. Thus (k) they were devoted to the Worſhip of GOD, to Piety and Temperance. At this Time they had (l) no Labour, no Plowing nor Harveſt, and the Fruits of the Trees were their Food. There was no Place among them for Injuſtice, Contention, Envy or Lying, and they daily worſhipp'd GOD in the devouteſt Manner; ſo that this in Reality ſeems to be the golden Age, which the Poets deſcrib'd. Seth (m) is alſo ſaid to be the Inventor of Letters and Writing, which ſo much exceeded all other Inventions, that for this he was reckon'd one of the higheſt Benefactors to Mankind. Joſephus farther adds, that (n) he and his Family were the firſt that made their Obſervations upon the Motions of the Heavens, and the Courſes and Influences of the Stars; and having been foretold by

Adam

Adam of an univerſal Deluge and Conflagration to come, they erected two Pillars, one of Brick and the other of Stone, which they were ſure would be Proof either the one or the other of them againſt both Fire and Water. Upon theſe Pillars they engrav'd the Memorials of their Diſcoveries and Inventions, there to remain for the Benefit of Ages to come, leſt the Traditions of the Sciences, which they invented, ſhould be loſt for want of fit Records. And (as the ſame Author ſaith) this their foreſight and Providence was not in vain; for the Stone Pillar was to be ſeen in Syria in his Time. But the learned Biſhop Stillingfleet (m) hath fully confuted this Notion, and prov'd, that it was only one of the Egyptian Pillars, and that Joſephus mentions Seth inſtead of Thoyth; the Inventions of the Patriarchs, inſtead of the fabulous Hiſtory of Egypt; and Syria, a Country too large for any one to know where to find theſe Pillars, inſtead of Seriadica.

34. But Cain (n) after a tedious Wandering up and down about the Country, began at laſt to ſettle in the Land of Nod, which lay Eaſtward not only from Paradiſe, but alſo from the Family of Seth, tho' bordering upon them; and here he had ſeveral Children. But he was ſo far from mending his Life after his Afflictions, that he rather grew worſe and worſe, abandoning himſelf to his Luſts, and to all manner of Outrage, without any Regard to common Juſtice. He enrich'd himſelf by Rapine and Violence, and made Choice of the moſt profligate of Monſters for his Companions, inſtructing them in the very Myſtery of their own Profeſſion. He corrupted the Simplicity and plain Dealing of former Times with a novel Invention of Weights and Meaſures, and exchang'd the Innocency of that primitive Generoſity and Candour, for the new Tricks of Policy and Craft, and he was the firſt that invaded the common Liberties of Mankind by Bounds and Incloſures. And as this was his Manner of Life; ſo nothing but the utmoſt Severity of the Curſe, (with which (o) Adam was firſt, and he was (p) afterward threatned) could be expected. And therefore when he was ſettled in this ſtrange Country, and betook himſelf to all the Parts of Husbandry, (q) the Earth did not produce what might have been expected in ſo champion and rich a Soil, or in Proportion to the Pains, which were beſtow'd upon it.

35. But the Glory of the LORD not appearing unto Cain, as it did when he was with Adam, and he being under an expreſs Curſe from the Mouth of GOD himſelf, and not expecting that it would be revok'd, he looks upon GOD as his Enemy, and concluding it to be to no purpoſe to call upon him, he reſolves to ſet up ſome other Being in Oppoſition to him. The firſt Being, which in his Opinion ſtood in Competition with its Creator, was the Sun, by whoſe Heat we are daily warm'd, and by whoſe Light we are capable of tranſacting the common Concerns of human Life, whoſe Preſence rejoyces us, and whoſe Abſence we lament, whoſe kind Influence cauſeth all Things to grow for our Uſe, and whoſe ſcorching Rays doth blaſt our Expectations, and which is in reality the moſt glorious Creature in the World, and was the beſt Reſemblance that he could find of the Glory of the LORD, which was wont to appear in a flaming Light. And in after Times the Magi among the Perſians, who liv'd in the ſame Country, worſhip'd Fire, as the beſt Emblem of the Sun, when it was abſent, and built Temples, where Fires, which were before kindled only by the Sun Beams, might be continually preſerv'd. So that, as Sachoniatho mentions (r), when great Droughts came, he ſtretch'd forth his Hands to Heaven toward the Sun, being now willing to own him as the only LORD of the Univerſe. This was the Beginning of all that Superſtition, which, after the Flood, ſpread itſelf in the eaſtern Nations, and eſpecially (s) among the Perſians; for Idolatry or the Worſhipping of Images was a later Invention. In this Poſture he prays to the Sun to abate thoſe violent Heats, which were the natural and immediate Cauſe of theſe Misfortunes, and having about that Time three Sons, he gives them the Names of (t) Light, Fire, and Flame, thereby plainly to ſhew thoſe Deities, which they then began to worſhip: And as it is natural for wicked Men, and ſuch as are juſtly forſaken of GOD for their Sins, (u) to wax worſe and worſe, deceiving and being deceived; ſo Cain proceeds farther, and dedicates the Plants of the Earth to the Sun, as the beſt Method which he could think of, to ſecure them from ſuch Calamities for the Time to come. And the better to keep up the Remembrance thereof, he call'd the Name of a Son, who was born to him at that Time, Enoch, which Name in Hebrew ſignifies a Dedication. And now having rambled up and down like a fugitive and a vagabond in the land of Nod, now call'd Suſiana, on the Eaſt Side of the Garden of Eden, and having a numerous Poſterity, they people all theſe Parts, and whilſt they employ themſelves in Manuring and improving the Land, he ſtill keeps himſelf on the eaſtern Side of the inhabited World, to be as far off as poſſible from (x) the Preſence of the LORD, whom he had renounc'd, and as near as poſſible to the riſing Sun, whom he had reſolv'd to adore, and gracious Preſence, excluded from thy Favour and Protection, and ſhall not have the Liberty to come before thy glorious Majeſty, and therefore (s) I wiſh, that any Perſon, who lights upon me may kill me. But GOD ſaid unto Cain, That (t) becauſe he had committed ſuch a barbarous Murder, any Perſon might in Juſtice be the Murderer of Cain, and Blood did require Blood, and the World being now of near an hundred and thirty Years ſtanding, and Adam had a numerous Offſpring, any one of which might kill him; yet it ſhould not be ſo at this Time, his Life ſhould be prolong'd in a miſerable State, as an Example of divine Vengeance, and to deter others from committing the like Murder. Accordingly GOD was pleas'd to declare, that whoever did kill Cain, ſhould ſuffer very ſeverely for ſuch a Fact; and thus GOD was pleas'd (u) to take Cain under his immediate Care and Protection, and ſtrike (x) Terror upon others, as he did afwards in the Caſe of Jacob and the Shechemites, that they who met with him, ſhould not kill him. Thus Cain went away from the Reſt of his Relations by the Force of that Divine Curſe. He went from that divine Glory, which was viſible in the Weſt or in the Place appointed for divine Worſhip, and as Cain went eaſtward; ſo he never afterward enjoy'd the Sight of it again, but was baniſh'd from it. And tho' no one could hurt him; yet he being conſcious of his own Guilt, wander'd about (x) fearful and trembling, and apprehenſive of every thing, which he ſaw or heard. Some (y) farther add, that GOD ſtigmatiz'd him with a Letter of his Name in his Forehead, or ſet ſuch a Brand upon him, as ſignified him to be accurs'd. Others ſay, that he look'd moſt frightfully, ſo that every Body avoided him, or that his Head ſhak'd continually, or that he had a Trembling in his whole Body, or that his Face was blaſted by Lightning from the Preſence of the LORD, and that he had ſome ſuch notorious Mark of GOD's Diſpleaſure. Some add, that (z) the very Ground ſhoke under him, which made People ſhun him, and run away from him, ſaying, This is the cruel Man, who kill'd his Brother. However, Cain (a) took to him his Siſter Azrûn for a Wife, and liv'd in this Manner in (b) the Country of Suſiana, which is on the Eaſt Side of the Garden of Eden, either hoping to have an early Opportunity to bring his Offſpring into Paradiſe, or at leaſt, that this being a plain level Country he might in ſome meaſure avoid the Curſe, and receive the Fruits of his Tillage, and all his other Labours, in a greater Meaſure, than could be expected in a leſs fruitful Soil.

32. The Year after this Murder of Abel, Adam had a Son by (c) Eve, whom ſhe call'd Seth, which in Hebrew ſignifies Appointed. As the Murder of Abel was freſh in her Memory; ſo ſhe look'd upon this Son as a Perſon appointed and ſent by GOD to make up the other Deficiency; and therefore ſhe ſaid, GOD hath appointed me another ſeed inſtead of Abel, whom Cain ſlew. The Arabick Hiſtorian (d) deſcribes him to be of a beautiful Aſpect, a ſtrong Man, and of a perfect Stature, and the Father of the Giants, which were before the Flood. But the Scripture ſaith of him, (e) Adam begat this ſon in his own image, and after his own likeneſs, which he had ſince the Fall, and not (f) in the likeneſs and after the image of GOD, in which he was at firſt created. He was a ſinful and corrupt Offſpring of ſinful and corrupt Parents. And as it was with him; ſo it is with all Mankind, who are deſcended from him. Anno Mundi 131.

32. But notwithſtanding all this Defect, which Seth and all Mankind have by Nature, it is (g) univerſally agreed upon, that he was a good Man, that he was (h) carefully brought up under the Tuition of his Parents, and that as ſoon as he was able to diſtinguiſh between Good and Evil, he deliver'd himſelf up only to the Study of Virtue. That he prov'd to be a wonderful Man, and his Children were the lively Images of ſo excellent a Father, and were all of them well bred and well diſpos'd, and liv'd happily and peaceably with Reſpect to the Publick, and in a perfect Agreement with one another, and that (i) he inſerted into his Offſpring the Deſire of that happy Life, which their Parents had in Paradiſe. Thus (k) they were devoted to the Worſhip of GOD, to Piety and Temperance. At this Time they had (l) no Labour, no Plowing nor Harveſt, and the Fruits of the Trees were their Food. There was no Place among them for Injuſtice, Contention, Envy or Lying, and they daily worſhipp'd GOD in the devouteſt Manner; ſo that this in Reality ſeems to be the golden Age, which the Poets deſcrib'd. Seth (m) is alſo ſaid to be the Inventor of Letters and Writing, which ſo much exceeded all other Inventions, that for this he was reckon'd one of the higheſt Benefactors to Mankind. Joſephus farther adds, that (n) he and his Family were the firſt that made their Obſervations upon the Motions of the Heavens, and the Courſes and Influences of the Stars; and having been foretold by Adam of an univerſal Deluge and Conflagration to come, they erected two Pillars, one of Brick and the other of Stone, which they were ſure would be Proof either the one or the other of them againſt both Fire and Water. Upon theſe Pillars they engrav'd the Memorials of their Diſcoveries and Inventions, there to remain for the Benefit of Ages to come, leſt the Traditions of the Sciences, which they invented, ſhould be loſt for want of fit Records. And (as the ſame Author ſaith) this their foreſight and Providence was not in vain; for the Stone Pillar was to be ſeen in Syria in his Time. But the learned Biſhop Stillingfleet (m) hath fully confuted this Notion, and prov'd, that it was only one of the Egyptian Pillars, and that Joſephus mentions Seth inſtead of Thoyth; the Inventions of the Patriarchs, inſtead of the fabulous Hiſtory of Egypt; and Syria, a Country too large for any one to know where to find theſe Pillars, inſtead of Seriadica.

34. But Cain (n) after a tedious Wandering up and down about the Country, began at laſt to ſettle in the Land of Nod, which lay Eaſtward not only from Paradiſe, but alſo from the Family of Seth, tho' bordering upon them; and here he had ſeveral Children. But he was ſo far from mending his Life after his Afflictions, that he rather grew worſe and worſe, abandoning himſelf to his Luſts, and to all manner of Outrage, without any Regard to common Juſtice. He enrich'd himſelf by Rapine and Violence, and made Choice of the moſt profligate of Monſters for his Companions, inſtructing them in the very Myſtery of their own Profeſſion. He corrupted the Simplicity and plain Dealing of former Times with a novel Invention of Weights and Meaſures, and exchang'd the Innocency of that primitive Generoſity and Candour, for the new Tricks of Policy and Craft, and he was the firſt that invaded the common Liberties of Mankind by Bounds and Incloſures. And as this was his Manner of Life; ſo nothing but the utmoſt Severity of the Curſe, (with which (o) Adam was firſt, and he was (p) afterward threatned) could be expected. And therefore when he was ſettled in this ſtrange Country, and betook himſelf to all the Parts of Husbandry, (q) the Earth did not produce what might have been expected in ſo champion and rich a Soil, or in Proportion to the Pains, which were beſtow'd upon it.

35. But the Glory of the LORD not appearing unto Cain, as it did when he was with Adam, and he being under an expreſs Curſe from the Mouth of GOD himſelf, and not expecting that it would be revok'd, he looks upon GOD as his Enemy, and concluding it to be to no purpoſe to call upon him, he reſolves to ſet up ſome other Being in Oppoſition to him. The firſt Being, which in his Opinion ſtood in Competition with its Creator, was the Sun, by whoſe Heat we are daily warm'd, and by whoſe Light we are capable of tranſacting the common Concerns of human Life, whoſe Preſence rejoyces us, and whoſe Abſence we lament, whoſe kind Influence cauſeth all Things to grow for our Uſe, and whoſe ſcorching Rays doth blaſt our Expectations, and which is in reality the moſt glorious Creature in the World, and was the beſt Reſemblance that he could find of the Glory of the LORD, which was wont to appear in a flaming Light. And in after Times the Magi among the Perſians, who liv'd in the ſame Country, worſhip'd Fire, as the beſt Emblem of the Sun, when it was abſent, and built Temples, where Fires, which were before kindled only by the Sun Beams, might be continually preſerv'd. So that, as Sachoniatho mentions (r), when great Droughts came, he ſtretch'd forth his Hands to Heaven toward the Sun, being now willing to own him as the only LORD of the Univerſe. This was the Beginning of all that Superſtition, which, after the Flood, ſpread itſelf in the eaſtern Nations, and eſpecially (s) among the Perſians; for Idolatry or the Worſhipping of Images was a later Invention. In this Poſture he prays to the Sun to abate thoſe violent Heats, which were the natural and immediate Cauſe of theſe Misfortunes, and having about that Time three Sons, he gives them the Names of (t) Light, Fire, and Flame, thereby plainly to ſhew thoſe Deities, which they then began to worſhip: And as it is natural for wicked Men, and ſuch as are juſtly forſaken of GOD for their Sins, (u) to wax worſe and worſe, deceiving and being deceived; ſo Cain proceeds farther, and dedicates the Plants of the Earth to the Sun, as the beſt Method which he could think of, to ſecure them from ſuch Calamities for the Time to come. And the better to keep up the Remembrance thereof, he call'd the Name of a Son, who was born to him at that Time, Enoch, which Name in Hebrew ſignifies a Dedication. And now having rambled up and down like a fugitive and a vagabond in the land of Nod, now call'd Suſiana, on the Eaſt Side of the Garden of Eden, and having a numerous Poſterity, they people all theſe Parts, and whilſt they employ themſelves in Manuring and improving the Land, he ſtill keeps himſelf on the eaſtern Side of the inhabited World, to be as far off as poſſible from (x) the Preſence of the LORD, whom he had renounc'd, and as near as poſſible to the riſing Sun, whom he had reſolv'd to adore, and coming to the River (y) Eulæus formerly call'd Ulai, he was ſtopp'd in his Journey Eaſtward, as being unable to paſs that River. Here therefore he fixes, and accordingly builds a City, having the Conveniency of a River on the one Side, that he might by ſupply'd with Water, and the Conveniency of a champion level Country on the other Side, that he might be ſupply'd with Proviſions. This City he probably dedicates alſo to the Sun, and therefore calls its Name Enoch or a Dedication, which was the very Name that he had given to his Son before. And it is preſum'd, that ſince the Flood, the City of Shuſhan was built upon the Ruins of it, which was afterward the Metropolis of the Empire of Perſia.

36. The Family of Seth being educated in a true Senſe of Religion, could not but be griev'd for ſuch a Degeneracy in other Parts, altho' they kept themſelves clear from ſuch a Contagion; and therefore Seth having a Son at that Time, and it being uſual for Parents to call their Children by ſuch Names, as might ſignify ſome remarkable Occurrences, which then happen'd, he call'd his Name Enoſh, which (z) ſignifies ſorrowful or infirm, becauſe of thoſe Times. It being too evident, that (a) in theſe Days Men began to err, and made themſelves Gods of their own Invention, and call'd thoſe falſe Gods by the Name of the true one.

Anno Mundi 236.

37. Concerning Enoſh there is little mention'd by the Arabians, only in general they repreſent him to have been (a) well skill'd in natural Philoſophy and Aſtronomy, a Man of ſingular Goodneſs, and one who neglected no Duty, whereby he might draw nigh to GOD; he alſo (b) during his Life Time govern'd his Family and preſerv'd them in good Order, he ſet them a lively Example of Juſtice and the Fear of the LORD, which they practis'd accordingly.

38. At this Time the Family of Cain ſeems to grow worſe and worſe, at which Enoſh being troubled, and * having a Son in the ninetieth Year of his Age, he call'd his Name Cainan, which ſignifies Lamentation and Mourning, and ſhew'd, that he was very much affected with the general Corruption of Manners and dreaded the Conſequence. He is (c) alſo reckon'd to have been a good Man like his Father, and to have kept his Family in good Order. His cotemporary in the Race of Cain is not mention'd in Scripture, where it is not recorded, that Enoſh begat Irad, but in another Style, that (d) unto Enoſh was born Irad, which might be equally true of a third or fourth diſtant Generation. But the Hiſtory of (e) Sanchoniatho tells us, that the Parents of this Generation begat Men of vaſt Bulk and Height, whoſe Names are given to the Mountains which they firſt ſeiz'd; ſo that from them were call'd Mount Caſſius, Libanus, and Antilibanus and Brathys. In the Days of theſe Men Inſtruments of War were invented, and the Poſterity of Cain ſeems to have invaded their Neighbours, which put them upon a Neceſſity of defending themſelves.

Anno Mundi 326.

39. But tho' Cainan had his Name to ſignify the great Wickedneſs which was in the Family of Cain; yet he was not willing that it ſhould be thought, that the whole World was as bad as that Family, and therefore being willing to leave a publick Teſtimony, that Religion was kept up by him, and having † a Son when he was ſeventy Years of Age, he call'd his Name Mahalaleel, which Name in Hebrew ſignifies A Praiſer of the LORD. It hath been the Opinion (f) of ſome, that Cainan gave this Name to his Son, becauſe he was born after his Father had liv'd ten Weeks of Years, or when he was ſeventy Years old in the Beginning of the Sabbatical Year, which ended the eighth Jubilee after the Creation. Thus as there were Sacrifices and a Diſtinction of clean Beaſts and unclean at that Time; ſo there might have been a Diſtribution of Years by Sevens, or Sabbatical Years, or Weeks of Years (as there were in after Times) from the Beginning of the World. But this can by no Means be inferr'd from the Age of Cainan at that Time, becauſe the Jubilees or Epochas were not reckon'd from the Birth of any private perſon, but from ſome more remarkable Accident. If Mahalaleel had been born three Years after, in the Year of the World 399, this Conjecture had been more probable, becauſe all Computations in thoſe Ages ſeem to have began from the Creation, and the Years both of the Jubilee and the Sabbatical Years would have ended together; but as it happen'd three Years ſooner, ſo the firſt of theſe do not fall right, and the other very wrong, and there can be no Certainty in ſuch a Conjecture. This (g) Perſon is reckon'd to have been a King, and that he govern'd his People, walking with them in the Ways of Piety and Juſtice, and that his Father was a King, whoſe Sepulchre, as (h) the Jews fancy, was ſhewn to Alexander the Great in India, and when he dyed, he commanded all his Sons to come together to him, whom he bleſſed, and at the ſame Time declared his Son Jared to be his Succeſſor. In the Time of Mahalaleel Idolatry had made a very great Progreſs (i) in the Race of Cain. For Uſous, who was equidiſtant from Adam in the Genealogy, is reported to have conſecrated the Stones, not ſo well poliſh'd as in after Times, or Pillars to the Fire and the Wind, which not long before had burnt the neighbouring Wood, and he bow'd down to them, and worſhip'd them, and pour'd out to them the Blood of ſuch wild Beaſts, as had been caught in Hunting.

40. When Mahalaleel was (k) ſixty five Years old he had a Son, whom accordingly he call'd Jared, which ſignifies a Deſcending, becauſe (l) the World grew worſe and worſe, and true Piety in his Time began very much to decline. But Jared being a good Man, and having a Name, which ſignify'd a general Corruption of Manners, had a (m) Son, when he was an hundred and ſixty two Years old, and not being willing to give Occaſion to think, that all Mankind grew worſe and worſe, or that the Family of Seth were as bad as the Family of Cain, was willing to call his Son by a Name of a different Signification, and therefore he nam'd him Enoch, which Word ſignifies A Dedication. As Enoch the Son of Cain was ſo call'd, becauſe at that Time the Plants and Fruits of the Earth were dedicated to the Sun, to preſerve them from the Heat, and thus Superſtition and Creature-Worſhip began; ſo Enoch the Son of Jared ſeems to be ſo call'd, becauſe he was dedicated or devoted to the Service of GOD and the Exerciſe of Religion from his Childhood, as the Nazarites were in after Ages. Here we may (n) obſerve, that there is but little Difference between the Names of ſome of the Poſterity both of Seth and Cain, that we ſhould not fancy, there is an unaccountable fatal Omen in proper Names. The Wickedneſs of Judas Iſcariot did not make the other Judas call'd by that Name, think the worſe of it, or endeavour to change it for another, as had been done on other Occaſions. Irad in one Family, and Jared in the other, have a great Reſemblance; And Jared fear'd not to call his Son by the very Name of Cain's eldeſt Son. And Methuſelah alſo gave his Son Lamech a Name which was us'd among the Poſterity of Cain. However it is certain, that Enoch being thus dedicated betimes to the true Worſhip of GOD did lead the reſt of his Life according to this Beginning. The Scripture ſaith of him, that (o) he walked with GOD, he (p) liv'd by faith, and had this teſtimony, that he pleas'd GOD. He was not only ſincerely obedient to GOD, as we ſuppoſe his Forefathers to have been, but he was of an extraordinary Sanctity beyond the Rate of other holy Men, and he alſo perſever'd in ſuch a Courſe of ſingular Piety to the end of his Days, notwithſtanding the Wickedneſs of the Age in which he liv'd. And (q) the very ſame Character being given of Noah may incline us to believe, that as Noah was (r) a preacher of righteouſneſs; ſo Enoch being a Prophet was not only exemplary in his Life, but alſo ſeverely reprov'd the Wickedneſs of that Age by his Word. As Writing is ſuppos'd to have been invented by Seth the Son of Adam; ſo Enoch is reported to have written ſeveral Books. The (s) Chaldee Paraphraſe ſaith, that his Name was call'd Metatron, and ſeems to interpret it by the following Words a great Scribe: tho' (t) the learned Buxtorf is more inclin'd to interpret it by The Ambaſſador of GOD. Mahomet in his Alcoran (u) twice calls him Edris, and from him other Arabians call him by the ſame Name. The Word comes from a Verb, which properly ſignifies to fan or winnow Wheat, and Metaphorically to diſpute or diſcourſe critically on any Subject, and therefore ſignifies a learned and a judicious Perſon, an exact Diſputer, and an accurate Searcher into difficult Truths, and the Reaſon of it (x) is given becauſe of his manifold Knowledge. For the moſt high GOD ſent thirty Volumes from Heaven to him, and he was the firſt who wrote with a Pen, and ſearch'd into the Nature of the Stars. And another (y) ſaith, There are thoſe, who affirm Enoch to be Edris the Prophet, to whom the Volume of the Law was ſent down from Heaven, which goes by his Name. Origen (z) tells us, that ſome Part of Enoch's Works, which contain'd the Courſe of the Stars, their Names and Motions, were afterward found in Arabia fælix, in the Dominion of the Queen of Sheba. And Tertullian affirms, that he had ſeen and read ſome whole Pages of them, and that there was a Book intitul'd The Revelation of Enoch, in which the Words were written, which were quoted by St. Jude. Celſus the Heathen quoted the ſame Book, and relates a Part of it, which (a) is mention'd by Origen, and (b) another Quotation is mention'd by Iræneus, and (c) later Authors of conſiderable Note do teſtify their Belief, that ſuch Books were really extant. Tertullian (d) ſaith, that Enoch was before all other Writers, who foretold, that the Devils and the Spirits of the Apoſtate Angels, did turn into Idolatry all the Elements, and every thing elſe which is contain'd in the World, viz. the Heavens, the Seaand the Earth, and that they ſhould be conſecrated for Gods to the Diſhonour of their Maker. And (e) he farther adds, That Enoch commanded his Son Methuſelah to deliver to Poſterity the Knowledge of thoſe things, which we had learn'd by hereditary Tradition. Another Author (f) affirms, that he had ſeen the whole Book, and that therein he aſſerts, that the Angels were Apoſtates, who firſt taught Men Aſtrology, Divination and other Arts. The Jews believ'd that there was ſuch a Book, it being cited by one of (g) their moſt ancient Writers. Georgius Syncellus had a Greek Book, which went under that Name, from whence Scaliger hath given us a large Account of it, in his learned Notes upon Euſebius, in which he ſpeaks of thoſe Arts which Men were taught by the Miniſtry of Angels. That (h) which ſhock'd the Authority of that Book, which was afterward extant, was becauſe of its great Antiquity and of the Fables of Giants ſuppoſed to be begotten of Angels and others, and it was the more ſuſpected, becauſe, as (i) Tertullian (who affirms, that this Book might have been preſerv'd by Noah) ſaith, that no ſuch Book was found among the Canonical Scriptures, which were kept by the Diligence and Care of the Hebrew Prieſts. However, the Opinion of a (k) learned Commentator is moſt probable, who ſaith, that he believes the Book at firſt was very ſmall, but that in Length of Time every one added to it, what they thought fit, to make their own private Notions paſs the more current, as the Rabbins and others frequently did by Authors of Antiquity and Authority. But that there was ſuch a Book written by Enoch is plain from the Authority of St. Jude, who (l) ſpeaks of it as of a Book extant and undiſputed in his Time, and that he ſpoke of the Judgments of GOD, which ſhould fall upon the ungodly Men in ſuch Expreſſions as might relate either to the Flood, or to the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, or the End of the World. And Enoch alſo the ſeventh from Adam propheſied of theſe, ſaying, Behold the LORD cometh with ten thouſand of his ſaints, to execute his judgment upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them, of all their ungodly deeds, which they have ungodly committed, and of all their hard ſpeeches which ungodly ſinners have ſpoken againſt them.

41. But that Enoch was a Prophet, and that it was reveal'd to him in particular not only that the World ſhould be deſtroyed by a Flood, but alſo the Time when, is evident, becauſe when (m) he was ſixty five Years old he had a Son, whom he call'd Methuſelah. For the firſt Part of the Name Methu evidently carries in it the Name of Death, ſignifying only He dies, and Selah ſignifies (n) The ſending forth of Water. And therefore the Name Methuſelah did plainly ſignify, that when he is dead, there ſhall happen an Emiſſion or Inundation of Waters to the Deſtruction of the whole Earth, which is the Derivation us'd by (o) ſeveral Learned Men, and which happen'd accordingly. Since the Birth of Methuſelah there is nothing remarkable concerning the Life of Enoch, but that (p) he carried on very grievous Wars againſt the Family of Cain. There is a long Story of him, which I ſhall ſet down in the Words of (q) the Author, and which muſt ſtand or fall by his ſingle Credit, and it is thus. This Enoch was an obſerver of the pure Commands of GOD, and punctually perform'd them, he did that which was good, and avoided that which was evil, and continu'd in the Worſhip of GOD to the End of his Life. The Ancient Greeks (as he adds) are of the Opinion, that this Enoch was Hermes, who is call'd Triſmeziſtus or the Author of a threefold Doctrine, becauſe he deſcrib'd GOD by his three eſſential Attributes, his Exiſtence, Wiſdom and Life. But the Arabians call him Edris. And it is reported, that there were three Men, who were call'd by the Name of Hermes, of whom this is the firſt, who dwelt in Sais a Town of upper Egypt, and was the firſt of all Men, who treated of the heavenly Subſtances, and admoniſh'd the old World concerning the Flood, and fearing leaſt Learning ſhould periſh, and the Arts ſhould be forgotten, he built the Pyramids in which he engrav'd all the Arts, and the Inſtruments of each Art, and engrav'd on them the Orders of the Sciences, being deſirous to preſerve them intire to future Generations. The Second was the Babylonian Hermes, who dwelt in Calvada a City of the Chaldeans and flouriſh'd after the Flood, and was the firſt after Nimrod the Son of Cuſh, who built the City of Babylon. The third is Hermes (r) the Ægyptian who is call'd Triſmegiſtus, that is, poſſeſſing the third Part of Wiſdom, becauſe he was the third of the Wiſemen, and a little of his Books have been tranſlated, particularly his Speeches to his Diſciple Tatius, being compos'd of Queſtions and Anſwers without any Connexion or Order, becauſe the original Copy is worn out by the Injury of Time. But there is a Copy ſtill extant in the Syriack Language. And it is now reported, that the firſt Hermes built an hundred and eighty Cities, of which Roha was the leaſt, and that he preſcrib'd to Men the Worſhip of GOD, Faſting, Prayers, and Alms, and that they ſhould offer the beſt of all their firſt Fruits, of their Incenſe and Wine, and ſhould abſtain from Drunkenneſs and unlawful Food. But the Zabii think, that Seth the Son of Adam was the Ægyptian Agathodæmon and inſtructor of this Hermes, and that Aſclepiades was one of thoſe Kings, who were inſtructed by Hermes, and that he was made by him a Governour of the fourth Part of the then habitable World, and which the Greeks poſſeſs'd after the Flood.

But when he was (b) an hundred and eighty ſeven Years of Age, he had a Son, whom he call'd Lamech, whoſe Name ſignifies, (c) a Man poor, humbled or ſmitten with Grief for the preſent Corruption and Fear of future Puniſhment. The Arabians frequently tranſpoſe (d) the Letters of his Name, and therefore call him Melek or a King. He was of the ſame Name with (e) one of Cain's Poſterity, and therefore the acts of one are frequently aſcrib'd to the other. But as this Lamech was of another Race; ſo he was the Grandchild and the Father of the beſt of Men in thoſe Days, namely, Enoch and Noah, and his Father was the oldeſt Man mention'd in Scripture eſpecially before the Flood, which was a Bleſſing ſuppos'd to be given him for his extraordinary Piety.

44. Tho' I rather incline to the Hiſtory of Sanchoniatho, who makes but ten Generations before the Flood, and (f) conſequently that there were two omitted between Enoch the Son of Cain and Irad, and that there was the the Space of many Years between the fifth and ſixth Genealogy; yet I cannot omit the Story of ſome of the Arabians, who make Lamech of the Race of Cain, like Enoch, the ſeventh from Adam, and conſequently to be born about the Year 623, and tell us, that (g) when Adam was 30 Years old he was the Father of Cain, and (h) when Cain was 730 Years old, being old and weary, he frequently hid himſelf among Thickets and Thiſtles, and was dimſighted, and being always terrify'd at the Thoughts of his former Murder, he wander'd about and could not ſtay long in one Place. And Lamech alſo was dimſighted and was led about by a Boy, but being a Shepherd was us'd to caſt Darts at a Mark, at which he was very expert. And being inform'd by this Youth, when he went a hunting, that he had ſeen ſomething at a Diſtance, which appear'd to him to be like a wild Beaſt, and adviſ'd by him to ſhoot at it with his Bow, he ſhot at it with ſuch Force, that the Arrow went through the Heart of Cain and kill'd him. And when he came to know the Truth, and that he had thus kill'd his great Grandfather Cain, he in a Rage for what he had done took up a Stone and fell upon the Youth, which had occaſion'd the Miſtake, with ſuch Violence, that he beat him to Death. This Lamech was the firſt who (k) brought Polygamy into the World, and took unto him two wives, the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah. And as the Uſe of Weapons was found out by one his Sons and grown common, and his Wives apprehended that ſome Body or other might make Uſe of them to ſlay him, he being in a vapouring Humour vindicates himſelf, and bids them be comforted and fear no Harm. He ſaid unto his two Wives, Hear my voice ye wives of Lamech, and hearken unto my ſpeech, for have I ſlain a man wilfully? or ſo much as a boy without a juſt Provocation that you ſhould be afraid of my Life? If GOD hath guarded Cain ſo ſtrongly, who was a deliberate and a wilful murderer, as to threaten long and great Puniſhments to thoſe, who ſlay him, he would puniſh them far more, and purſue them with a longer Vengeance, who ſhall ſlay me, being a guiltleſs Perſon. If this Hiſtory could be well atteſted, which St. Hierom ſaith, that ſeveral Chriſtians in his Time believ'd to be true, it would clear up all the Difficulties in the Text; but ſince it is hard to find out the Occaſion of that Speech of Lamech, every one is at Liberty to chooſe which he thinks beſt of the various Interpretations.

45. But as GOD at the Fall of our firſt Parents had (m) paſſed the Sentence of Death upon all men, becauſe all had ſinn'd, and had particularly told to Adam (n) that he muſt expect to return to the ground from whence he was taken; and that as he was duſt at firſt, he ſhould alſo return to the duſt again; ſo now the Time comes that Adam muſt die. And (o) being himſelf ſenſible of it, he ſends for Seth, Enoſh, Canaan, and Mahalaleel, and charges them ſolemnly, that this was his Will, which he deſir'd might be obſerv'd by all his Children, that when he was dead, they would embalm his Body with Myrrhe, Frankincenſe and Caſſia, and place it in the Grave, which was call'd Alcanuz, which was in the Mountains near to Paradiſe. And that whoever of their Sons remain'd alive when they went away from the Borders of Paradiſe, they ſhould alſo carry away his Body with them, and place it in the Midſt of the Earth (or in Canaan, which lay in the Middle between Europe, Aſia, and Africa, the former Diviſion of the known World) For (ſaith he) from thence ſhall come my Salvation, and the Salvation of all my Poſterity. Another Writer (p) adds to the Story thus, When the Death of Adam was near, he commanded his Son Seth to be preſent, and his Brethren and their Children and their Wives, to whom he gave a Charge, that they ſhould dwell in the holy Mountain, which was oppoſite to Paradiſe, and that they ſhould not go down from thence, or mix themſelves with the Seed of Cain the Murderer, and he appointed Seth to be his Succeſſor to govern his Sons and Grandchildren after his own deceaſe; who embalm'd his Body as he was commanded, bury'd it in the Top of the Mount, and mourn'd for him forty Days. Some of the Jews (p) tell us, that GOD himſelf buried Adam, and ſeem to intimate, that no Man knew, where his Sepulchre was, leſt his Poſterity ſhould abuſe his Body, and make an Idol of it. But others, to make their own Country very famous, ſay that Adam was bury'd in the Cave of Machpelah, or the Doubl'd Cave, as the Word may be render'd, becauſe the Pairs of Men and their Wives, namely Adam and Eve, Abraham and Sarah, Iſaak and Rebecca, and Jacob and Leah were buried there, and that from theſe four Patriarchs (r) Hebron was anciently call'd Kirjath Arba, or the City of the four.

46. Immediately upon the Death of Adam, Seth (being weary'd with the Wickedneſs of the Family of Cain his Neighbours, and fearing that now they would prove worſe and worſe, and commit more publick and open Hoſtilities) retires from (s) the Plain, where they had liv'd before, and from the Family of curſed Cain. And Seth took his eldeſt Son Enoſh, and Cainan the Son of Enoſh, and Mahalaleel the Son of Cainan and their Wives, and brought them up into that high Mountain on the Top of which Adam was bury'd. But Cain and all his Poſterity liv'd beneath in the Valley, where Abel was kill'd, and ſo they took Poſſeſſion of thoſe Countries which were forſaken by Seth. Upon this Seth was made the Ruler and Governour of thoſe People, who went with him. And theſe Inhabiters of the Mountains became very famous for their Holineſs and Juſtice and Purity. They were continually employ'd in the Praiſes of GOD, and (if my Authors can be believ'd) they were ſo nigh to the heavenly Paradiſe, when they were remov'd to a greater Diſtance from the earthly, that they heard the Voices of Angels celebrating the Praiſes of GOD, and joyn'd with them in thoſe ſacred Hymns, and heavenly Benedictions, and they with their Wives and Children were call'd by one common Name, The Sons of GOD. And whilſt Cain and his Poſterity did live upon the Fruits of the Earth, which they ſow'd, theſe were detain'd by no ſervile Labours, they were not employ'd by Plowing nor Harveſt, they liv'd contented with the Fruits of the Trees alone, which grew in theſe holy Mountains. They were abſolutely free from all Envy and Deſire of Contention. Their only Oath was by the Blood of Abel. They daily frequented the Top of the holy Mountain, where they prais'd GOD, and بجسد ادم يتباركون they bleſs'd one another by the Body of Adam.

47. But as GOD had ſhewn an Example of (t) Mortality by the Death of Adam ſo he afterward ſhew'd an Example of Immortality by the Tranſlation of (u) Enoch. This Moſes expreſſeth thus, And Enoch walked with GOD, and was not, for GOD took him. Concerning this Tranſlation there were various Opinions. One ſaith, (x) that GOD choſe Enoch, and tranſlated him unto himſelf. Another adds, (y) that when Enoch was exalted into Heaven, he meaſur'd the circular heavenly Orb, and view'd all the Conſtellations, and the twelve Signs, in which the Planets did move, and came down to the Earth again. And the ſame Author ſpeaks as his own Opinion, (z) that Enoch abode in the Earth, after the Birth of Methuſelah worſhipping GOD in Purity. And he ask'd of GOD that he would tranſlate him into the Paradiſe, in which Adam had been, and his Petition was granted; for GOD took him thither alive after he had liv'd 365 Years. The Author of the Book of * Eccleſiaſticus, as it is in the Vulgar Tranſlation ſaith, he went into Paradiſe, and upon this Suppoſition the Æthiopick Interpreter hath added theſe Words to the Text, GOD tranſlated him into Paradiſe. And accordingly we find in the Kalendar of that Church, a Feſtival upon July XXV, call'd, The Aſcenſion of Enoch into Heaven. As to the Manner of his Tranſlation: Some ſay that he was taken out of the World by Death, and according to (a) the common Fate; others, that he was carry'd off both with Body and Soul, and ſtill lives, as he did before; and others, that he was tranſlated by the Change of a corruptible Nature into an incorruptible. This was certainly the Opinion of (b) St. Paul, the beſt of all the Commentators on Moſes, who ſaith, that By faith Enoch was tranſlated, that he ſhould not ſee death, and was not found, becauſe GOD had tranſlated him, for before his tranſlation he had this teſtimony, that he pleaſed GOD. The learned (c) Bochartus hath prov'd, that the Greeks by Atlas meant Enoch. His Story was not therefore unknown to the Greeks inſomuch that they had a Proverb (d) Τὰ Κάνναχα or Τὰ Καννάχυ, The things of Enoch or Chanoch, which is the ſame in the Hebrew, to ſignify ſomething of the greateſt Antiquity, or a very great Lamentation. It is ſaid of him (e) that he foreſaw the Flood, and therefore took that Occaſion to admoniſh the Men of that Age to Mourning and Repentance. Another Author ſaith, (f) that

Enoch

Enoch liv'd above three hundred Years, and when the Inhabitants of that Place inquir'd of the Oracle how long he ſhould live, they had this Anſwer return'd, that when he died they ſhould all periſh. And therefore on his being taken from them, they made ſo great a Lamentation, that to weep for Enoch became a Proverb. It is certain that Enoch foreſaw the Flood, and therefore call'd his Son Methuſelah, which ſignifies, When he is dead, an Inundation ſhall be ſent, and therefore they did interpret that of the Father, which was meant of the Son, and conſequently did lament his ſo miraculous a Tranſlation as a certain Sign of an univerſal Ruin and Deſtruction.

48. When Enoch was tranſlated, the World immediately grew much worſe than it was before. Perhaps when they ſaw not thoſe Judgments come upon them, which at firſt they fear'd, they harden'd their Hearts and grew more ſecure in Sin. Joſephus (g) ſaith, that for ſeven Generations (meaning 'till the Death of Enoch) Men liv'd in the Exerciſe of Virtue, and in the Love and Fear of one GOD the LORD of all things; but from thence forward they degenerated from the Ways of their Fathers, leading their Lives without any Reverence or Regard either to religious Duties or human Juſtice, and taking twice as much Pains to outſtrip others in Wickedneſs, as they had formerly done to make themſelves eminent for Goodneſs. This abominable Impiety drew down the Wrath of Heaven upon them, and (as he erroneouſly ſaith) the (h) Angels of GOD mixing with the Women begat an inſolent Race, not much unlike (i) that of the Giants in the Greek Fables, overbearing Right with Power. Some of the Arabians ſay, that immediately after the Death of Adam, when the Family of Seth had withdrawn themſelves from the Plain, and had dwelt in the holy Mountain, which they call'd Hermon, their Lives and Converſations were unblameable in all Godlineſs and Honeſty. But that (k) in the fortieth Year after the Death of Enoch, the Sons of GOD, or ſeveral of the Poſterity of Seth, went down from this Mountain, when they deſpair'd of their Return into Paradiſe, and deſir'd Wives, and when they, who were nearly related to them, deſpis'd them, and refus'd to give them Wives, the Family of Cain invited them to marry with them, offering their Daughters of their own accord, and accordingly Giants were produc'd of this Mixture, who were remarkable for Wars and hoſtile Engagements. Elmacbinus (l) expreſſes it thus. In the Days of Jared, a Defection happen'd to a great Number of the Sons of Cain, who publickly had corrupted themſelves; inſomuch that the Noiſe of their Revellings was heard in the holy Mountains among the Poſterity of Seth. Upon this an hundred Men of them being gather'd together were willing to go down from the Mountain to the Sons of Cain, at which Jared was very much concern'd, and endeavour'd to diſſwade them from it. But they deſpiſing his kind Admonitions, went down, and joyn'd themſelves to the Daughters of Cain. But Eutychius gives us the Story more at large (m) thus. As to the Poſterity of Cain the Murderer, the Men did violently burn in Luſt towards the Women, and in the ſame Manner, the Women without any Shame committed Fornication with the Men, ſo that they were guilty of all Manner of filthy Crimes with one another, and meeting together publickly for this Purpoſe, two or three Men were concern'd with the ſame Woman, and the ancient Women were, if poſſible, more luſtful, bruti ſh and wanton than the Younger. Thus the Fathers liv'd promiſcuouſly with their Daughters, and the young Men with their Mothers, inſomuch, that neither the Children could diſtinguiſh their own Parents, nor the Parents could know their own Children. Beſides, they us'd all manner of muſical Inſtruments, ſo that the Sound of their Noiſe and Mirth aſcended to the Top of the holy Mountain, which when the Poſterity of Seth had heard, an hundred of them agreed together, that they would go down to the Poſterity of curſed Cain, whilſt Jared endeavour'd to make them ſwear by the Blood of Abel, that they would not go down from the holy Mountain. But they little regarding his Words, follow'd their own Inclinations, and when they were in the Plains, they beheld the Daughters of curſed Cain, that they were fair to look on, and naked without Shame, and they burn'd with Luſt toward them. Alſo the Daughters of Cain beholding theſe Men, that they were of a beautiful Aſpect, and of a very large and Gigantick Stature, and being more bruti ſh than the Beaſts, defil'd their Bodies with them, and thus the Sons of Seth periſh'd by committing Fornication with the Daughters of Cain. And afterward theſe Daughters of curſed Cain brought forth Giants to the Sons of Seth. And in Proceſs of Time when the Sons of Seth, who had joyn'd themſelves to the Daughters of curſed Cain, were willing to go back again to the holy Mountain, the Stones of the Mountain were turned into Fire, ſo that it was abſolutely impoſſible for them to return to their Anceſtors. And after that Time ſeveral of the ſame Family began one after another to go down from the Mountain to the Daughters of curſed Cain. This ſeems to be but a Comment upon (n) the Words of Moſes. And it came to paſs, when men began to multiply upon the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, That the ſons of GOD ſaw the daughters of men (the Sons of Seth, who were call'd the Sons of GOD becauſe of their Holineſs, ſaw the Daughters of Cain) that they were fair; and they took them wives of all, which they choſe. There were giants in the earth in thoſe days; and alſo after that, when the ſons of GOD came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children unto them; the ſame became mighty men, which were of old, men of renown.

49. About this Time in the Race of Cain, Agreus and Halieus, (o) the Inventors of Hunting and Fiſhing, had other Children, and two of them were Brethren, who firſt invented the Caſting and Forging of Iron. One of theſe was call'd Chryſor, (which Name ſignifies, A Worker in the Fire, and Sanchoniatho affirms him to the ſame with Hephæſtus or Vulcan) who exercis'd himſelf in Words, and Charms, and Divinations, and he found out the Hook, Bait and Fiſhing Line, and Boats ſlightly made, and he was alſo the firſt of all men that ſail'd. And for theſe his Benefactions to Mankind he was alſo worſhipp'd after his Death for a GOD, and they call'd him Diamychius; and ſome ſay, that his Brethren invented the Way of making Walls of Brick. In Scripture we have no more of this Generation than the Name of one of them, who was call'd (p) Mehujael.

50. And now the Time comes, when Seth the Son of Adam muſt alſo die, who (q) a little before his Death ſends for Enoſh, Cainan, Mahalaleel, Jared, Enoch, and their Children, and their whole Families, whom he bleſſed, and commanded them by his laſt Words, that they ſhould worſhip the GOD of their Father Adam, and caus'd them to ſwear by the Blood of Abel, that none of them ſhould go down from that holy Mountain, or ſuffer any of their Children to go down, or eſpecially to be joyn'd in Marriage with the Children of Cain that accurſed Murderer. He alſo made his Son Enoſh his Succeſſor over his Children, and after that he died on the third Day of the Month Ab, which anſwers to our July or Auguſt, in the nine hundred and twelfth Year of his Life. And his Sons embalm'd his Body, bury'd him in the private Cave, where Adam was buried, in the holy Mountain, and mourned for him forty Days.

Anno Mundi 1043.

51. When Lamech was (r) an hundred and eighty two Years old he had a Son. And as it was revealed to Enoch, at the Birth of Methuſelah, that at his Death the whole Race of Mankind ſhould be deſtroy'd for their Wickedneſs; ſo it was reveal'd to Lamech at the Birth of his Son, that he and his Family ſhould be preſerv'd from the common Deſtruction for his Piety, and ſo he ſhould be the Father of the new World. Accordingly he calls his Name Noah (which in Hebrew ſignifies a Comforter) and gives this Reaſon for it. That this very Man ſhould be a Comfort to them. Some think Lamech expected, that Noah ſhould be the bleſſed Seed promiſed to Adam, which ſhould bruiſe the Serpent's Head, or that it ſhould ſpring immediately from him. But it is the Opinion of moſt, that Lamech expected ſome inferior Conſolation from Noah. He ſhould comfort them concerning the work and toil of their hands, becauſe of the ground, which the LORD hath curſed. And the Hebrew Interpreters generally expound it thus. He ſhall make our labour in tilling the earth leſs toilſome and more eaſy to us. There was a general Curſe upon the Earth for the Sin of Adam, and a particular Curſe upon ſome Part of it for the Sin of Cain; and now GOD foretells that he would take them both off in a great Meaſure, and bleſs the Earth to the Poſterity of this Man, who perfected the Art of Husbandry, and found out fitter Inſtruments for plowing the Earth than had been known before. When Men were chiefly employ'd in digging and throwing up the Earth with their own Hands, their Labour was more difficult, which was afterward much abated, becauſe the Work did then lay more upon Beaſts than Men. And indeed Noah is call'd (s) a man of the earth, which we tranſlate An Husbandman; becauſe he improv'd Agriculture, as other famous Men had improv'd Paſtorage, and found out other Arts. Beſides we (u) read alſo, that Noah planted a vineyard, and the Text ſeems to intimate, that he was the firſt Inventor of making Wine, and in this Reſpect he might well be ſaid to comfort them concerning the work and toil of their hands; becauſe Wine chears the Heart, and revives the Spirits of Men, that are ſpent with Labour.

52. But as Enoch the Grandfather of Lamech had foretold, that GOD would curſe the Ground, by ſending a Flood upon it; ſo in this Senſe alſo Noah might very properly be call'd a Comforter, becauſe he ſhould be the Reſtorer and Father of the whole World, after it had been diſpeopled by that dreadful Inundation. He ſhould comfort them (x) in Reſpect to both Curſes. He ſhould give Men Reſt from that Curſe, which GOD had already inflicted, and which he intended farther to inflict upon the Earth.

In Scripture we have no more of this Generation than the Name (z) Methuſael.

54. Enoſh the Grandſon of Adam finding that his Death was now approaching, (a) calls to him his Children, Grandchildren, and Great grandchildren, that ſo he might give them his Bleſſing, and when they were gather'd to him he commanded them, that they ſhould live holily, and particularly cautions them, that they ſhould not joyn themſelves with the Offspring of Cain the Murderer. And after he had appointed Cainan to be his Succeſſor, he died and was buried in the ſame Cave with Adam and Seth.

Anno Mundi 1141.

55. In the ſame Manner (a) when the Death of Cainan was near, he orders his Son Mahalaleel to be brought to him, whom he adjur'd by the Blood of Abel, that he would not ſuffer any of his Children to go down to the Poſterity of Cain, and when he (b) had appointed his eldeſt Son Mahalaleel to be his Succeſſor, he died in the fourth Day of the Month Cheziran, and was embalm'd and bury'd in the ſame Cave with his Anceſtors, and they mourn'd for him forty Days according to Cuſtom.

Anno Mundi 1236.

56. From the next Generation in the Race of Cain ſprung up two other Perſons, (c) one of which was call'd Agrus, a Field, and the other Agrouerus or Agrotes an Husbandman, who had a Statue, which was very much worſhipp'd, and a Temple carried about by one or more Yoak of Oxen in Phœnicia. And among the People of Byblus he is eminently call'd Hypſiſtus or the greateſt of the Gods. Theſe found out how to make Courts about Men's Houſes, and Fences, and Caves and Cellars. Husbandmen, and ſuch as us'd Dogs in Hunting, deriv'd their Skill from theſe; and ſeem'd to own them as their tutelar Deities. And they are alſo call'd Aletæ or Titans. And Hypſiſtus dying in a Fight with wild Beaſts was conſecrated and made a God, and his Children offer'd Sacrifices and Libations to him. Here Idolatry makes a very great Progreſs in the World, eſpecially in the Family of Cain. And ſuch as had found out any uſeful Inventions, or had done any ſignal Service to the Publick in their Life Time, were afterward honour'd as Gods, whilſt the Worſhip due to the true GOD was generally neglected by them.

Anno Mundi 1289.

57. Mahalaleel the Son of Cainan finding that his Death was approaching, (d) commands his Sons to be brought before him, and appoints Jared to be their Governour after he had given them his Bleſſing, and (e) adjures his Son Jared by the Blood of Abel, that he would not ſuffer any of his Poſterity to go down from the Mountain to the Poſterity of Cain that curſed Murtherer. And it is alſo reported of Jared, that (f) when the Time of his Death was near, he call'd to him Enoch, Methuſelah, Lamech, and Noah and their Children, and ſaid to them, Ye know very well what your Children have deſign'd, and how that laying aſide the Commandments of their dying Parents, they have gone down from the Mountain, and being joyn'd with the Daughters of Cain they have defil'd themſelves. Therefore take heed to keep yourſelves undefiled, and go not down from this holy Mountain. And after he had bleſſed them, he appointed his eldeſt Son Enoch to be his Succeſſor; (g) concluding with theſe Words. I know very well, that the great and good GOD will not leave you always in this Mountain. Whoever therefore of you ſhall go down from hence to the Place appointed for him, let him take with him the Body of Adam, together with proper Oblations, and bury him in the Place, where GOD ſhall command him to be buried. And after this he died on the twelfth Day of the Month Adar, which anſwers to our February or March.

Anno Mundi 1423.

58. From the next Generation in the Race of Cain (h) ſprung up two other Perſons who were call'd Amynus and Magus, who taught Men to conſtitute Villages and Flocks; and about this Time was firſt invented the building of a compleat Ship. Theſe might therefore be cotemporary with the Children of Lamech of the Race of Cain, who introduc'd Polygamy into the World, and was the firſt that adventur'd to tranſgreſs the (i) original Inſtitution, which was for one Man to cleave to one Wife, and which ſeems to be obſerv'd by the Family of Cain until this Time. But when Men profeſſedly break the ſolemn Commands of the firſt Table, it is not likely that they ſhould obſerve the ſolemn Obligations of the ſecond, and they who were ſo eagerly bent upon a ſtrange Worſhip, did alſo as eagerly purſue other ſtrange Impurities. There have been ſome of Opinion, that his earneſt Deſire of ſeeing that bleſſed Seed, which was promiſed to Eve, might induce him to take more Wives than one, hoping that by the multiplying his Poſterity, one or other of them might prove ſo happy as to produce that Seed. And this he might poſſibly think to be the more likely, becauſe he might conclude, that the Right, which was originally in Cain the firſt born, might be reviv'd in him. And that he being the ſeventh from Cain had ſome Reaſon to imagine, that the Curſe laid upon him of being puniſh'd ſevenfold or for ſeven Generations was now expir'd, and his Poſterity was reſtor'd to the Right of fulfilling the Promiſe. But this is not likely. None but a good Man could hope for ſuch a Bleſſing, and a good Man could not hope to obtain ſo great a Bleſſing by ſuch evil Means. Beſides, it is moſt likely, that Idolatrous Worſhip, being begun long ago by Cain himſelf, might before this Time obliterate all the Promiſes, and moſt of the Precepts, which were given to Adam; and that Lamech being a wicked Man, and only to gratify his Luſts and Paſſions committed this Sin, and ſo improv'd upon thoſe Impieties, which were too common in the World before. It is certain, (k) that Lamech took unto him two wives, the name of the one was Adah, which ſignifies adorn'd, elegant or neat, and the name of the other was Zillah, which ſignifies a Shadow or a Ghoſt, and conſequently not a real Wife, being illegally joyn'd to him. His firſt Wife Adah had a Son, which he call'd Jabal, and was the firſt Inventor of making Tents, or at leaſt an excellent Maſter in that Art, ſo that all others took their Patterns from him. He taught them how to fold their Flocks, and all other Sorts of Paſturage; which tho' it was begun by Abel, yet it was not brought to Perfection by him: or if it was, yet Jabal was the firſt in the Family of Cain, who was eminent in theſe Inventions. He taught Men to pitch their Tents, which were moveable Houſes, that might eaſily be carried from Place to Place, when there was Occaſion to remove for new Paſture. He taught them how to breed up and feed their Cattle. And tho' Men fed Cattle before in good Paſtures; yet Jabal was the firſt, who by the Invention of Tents, made the more deſert Countries ſerviceable to them; where when they had eaten up all the Graſs in one Place, they might in a little Time take up their Tents, and fix them in another. And he alſo taught them, how to defend themſelves and their Cattle in theſe Tents from the Heat and Cold, and all other Dangers, to which they were expos'd in thoſe deſert Places.

59. Another Son of Lamech by his Wife Adah was call'd (l) Jubal. He was either the firſt who invented Muſical Inſtruments, and taught Men to play upon them, or at leaſt improv'd Muſick to a much greater Height, and made it much more delightful than it was before, and he was alſo well skill'd in both Sorts, either the ſtring'd Muſick, ſuch as the Harp, or in the wind Muſick, ſuch as the Organ was in thoſe early Times.

60. And Zillah the other Wife of Lamech had a Son, who was an Inſtructor (m) or a Whetter on of every artificer of braſs and iron, to improve their Workmanſhip, and bring it to a greater Perfection. He is ſaid to have found out the Art of melting Metals, and making all Sorts of Weapons, Arms, and other Inſtruments of Iron and Braſs. The Name Tubal-cain in the * Arabick and Perſick Languages ſignifies the Iron or Braſs Plate of Cain, and ſo may mean One of the Race of Cain, who found out the Method of caſting thoſe Metals into Plates. And he had a Siſter by the ſame Father and Mother, whoſe Name was Naamah, and is ſuppos'd to have been the ſame with Minerva or Venus among the Heathens, and Aſtarte or Aſhtaroth the Goddeſs of the Zidonians, and alſo to have been the Wife of Ham, who made a conſiderable Figure in the World after the Flood. Her Name ſignifies beautiful, or fair, or one of a ſweet Aſpect, and the Arabian Writers repreſent her as ſuch, and ſay, that ſhe invented Colours and the Art of Painting.

61. But as neither a long Series of Proſperity, nor a long Continuance in Sin without Impunity, can always keep off the Terrors of an evil Conſcience; ſo it ſeems, that (n) Lamech at laſt came to a Senſe of his Sin, eſpecially when he ſaw the fatal Conſequences of it, in an Age that was ſo prone to all Manner of Impiety and ſo apt to follow any Example of that Nature. And being afterward in company with both his Wives he ſpeaks to them in this Manner. Hear my voice, ye wives of Lamech, and hearken to my ſpeech, For whilſt I was in the Heat of Youth, I was guilty of that great Sin of Polygamy, of which you both are Witneſſes, by which I have been the Occaſion of my own Deſtruction; and my Example hath alſo been of fatal Conſequence, it hath infected the Men of this Generation, and particularly my own Family, which adds to my Trouble. If therefore ſo heavy a Judgment fell upon Cain for the Murder of Abel, who was a good Man, ſo that he could only kill the Body, and his Example was imitated by no other, what Puniſhment muſt be inflicted on Lamech, woh hath given ſo fatal an Example to others, and thereby hath occaſion'd the Deſtruction both of the Bodies and Souls of thouſands in Hell Fire.

62. Hitherto here was ſome Remorſe of Conſcience; but afterward the Arms and Weapons improv'd by Tubalcain, did contribute very much to heighten and enrage the Paſſions, and the Improvements of Muſick by Jubal made them lay aſide all ſerious Thought and Reflection. For (o) now the World beginning to be very populous and more ſtreightned in their Habitations did endeavour to ſpoil and ruin one another, and invade each others Properties, without any Regard to Right or Wrong. Among the Sons of Cain there were barbarous Murders, Polytheism and Idolatry, Polygamy, Incest and all Uncleanness. The (p) Great Men, Nobles, Rulers and Judges also, who were of the Family of Seth, and therefore were sometimes call'd The Angels of GOD or his great Ministers in the World, were allur'd with the Beauty of the Daughters of the meaner Sort, and took by Force and Violence as many of them as they pleas'd, being so powerful as to be able to do any thing with Impunity. For they, who should have given a good Example, and punish'd Vice, were the grand Promoters of it. And (q) when they who were thus abus'd did endeavour to redress their Grievances in a judiciary Manner, the judges sided with one another, that they might all escape. Bribes were taken, Justice was perverted, the Poor were oppressed by Force, and they who sate in Judgment, were the most partial of any.

63. Neither were the Sons of Seth less guilty than the Sons of Cain, for they conversing with one another, and being exceedingly taken with the Beauty of their Daughters, made Matches with them, and perhaps took more than one a piece, without Regard to any thing except the Gratifying of their own carnal Lusts and Appetites, like brute Beasts which have no Understanding. And now they, who had hitherto for the most Part kept themselves unmingled with the Posterity of Cain, according to a solemn Charge which their pious Forefathers had given them, without regarding the Oaths which they had made to the contrary by the Blood of Abel, were joyn'd to them in Marriage, and made one People with them. The Beauty of Naamah and others, and the Musick of her Brother Jubal were Snares to them. For the Family of Cain spent their Time in Feasting, Musick, Dancing and Sports, which allur'd the Children of Seth to come down and marry with them. And thus all Manner of Impiety, Idolatry, Impurity, Rapine and Violence fill'd the whole Earth with the utmost Impunity. And the best of Men having defil'd themselves with such a curs'd Affinity, were also thereby corrupted with their wicked Manners. And Moses giving this Account (q) immediately after tells us the Names of Noah's three Sons, and seems to intimate thereby, that they were in some Measure guilty of the same Practises, and were only sav'd from the Deluge for their Father's Sake. And if it was so with them, how great a Corruption must be expected in other Families?

64. At this Time there were also (r) Men of vast Stature and Strength, which tempted them to oppress others by Violence, who carry'd all before them by main Force, and fill'd the World with their Rapines, and Murders, and all Manner of Wickedness; they were Men of great Undertakings and adventurous Actions, which got them a great Name in ancient Time. Eusebius thinks that they had Society with the Devil in infernal Arts, which they introduc'd. Josephus calls them insolent Contemners of the Laws of GOD and Men. And the Arabian Writers say, that these Giants were produc'd by those Men, who went down and mix'd with the Posterity of Cain in the Days of Jared. And besides those which were before, this other and more universal Mixture of the Sons of Shem with the Family of Ham produc'd another Race of Men of the same Stature and Temper with the Former.

65. This Universal Corruption of Manners provokes GOD to enter into Judgment. He well knew, that (s) all Sorts of Wickedness had overspread the whole Earth in an high Degree; and that there was no Hope of their Amendment, their very Minds being so set upon Wickedness, that they thought of nothing else but to satisfy their Lusts. The Designs and Contrivances of the Men of that Age both Day and Night were only Rapine, Filthiness and all Manner of Evil. This made GOD angry (t) and concern'd, if we may speak of him after the Manner of Men. He saw (u) no Fruits of his Longsuffering and Patience appear in their Amendment; and therefore he resolves to punish them for their Wickedness. Accordingly he declares to the World, (x) that his Spirit should not always chide and reprove them, and thereby endeavour to bring them to Repentance. He would not always speak by his Prophets such as Enoch had been and Noah was, or work inwardly in their Hearts as in the Case of Lamech. But he would leave them to their own Lusts, and in due Time proceed to destroy them. However, he would not destroy them immediately, but there should be the Space of an hundred and twenty Years, during which Time the Ark was preparing, which might have been another Method to induce the disobedient World to Repentance, if they had not been harden'd to the uttermost against all Means of Conviction. And (y) tho' they were the Creatures of GOD; yet being now transform'd into the Likeness of the Devil, he was resolv'd to have no Pity upon them, but to bring such a miraculous Punishment, as would in its own Nature sweep all away, and leave nothing of the old World remaining, but only what should be as miraculously preserv'd as a Seed for the new one.

66. It is now high Time to come to the History of Noah the Preserver of his Family in this universal Destruction, of whom Moses speaks the largest of any except Adam before the Flood, and who is generally mention'd by the Prophets and Apostles with Respect and Esteem. Moses saith of him, that (z) he was the single Person, whom GOD resolv'd to ſpare, becauſe he continu'd untainted in the Midſt of an univerſal Contagion. He was not guilty (a) of any of thoſe other Sins, which every where abounded; but he led a pious, chaſt, and virtuous Life, he continu'd conſtant in the Way of Righteouſneſs; and the Reaſon was, becauſe he always ſet GOD before his Eyes, he concluded, that there was a GOD, who would in due Time puniſh that wicked Race, and deliver and reward thoſe, who ſerv'd him uprightly, and this made Noah live as in the immediate Preſence of GOD, and as one who muſt give an Account of all his Actions to him. The Prophet Ezekiel (b) compares him to Daniel and Job, and ſaith, that if GOD did reſolve to puniſh any Country with an univerſal Devaſtation either by Famine, Wild Beaſts, War or Peſtilence, ſuch a Man would deliver his own Soul by his Righteouſneſs. And St. Peter ſaith, (c) that when GOD brought the Flood upon the World of the ungodly he ſaved Noah and his Family, and ſeems to give this as a Reaſon, becauſe he was a preacher of righteouſneſs. He not only took Care of his own Life, but was as diligent to inſtil the Precepts of Piety, Juſtice and Temperance into others, and did his utmoſt to reform that wicked World. As he was of the Poſterity of Seth; ſo he was born among them: And when they mix'd with the Poſterity of Ham; ſo it is probable that he went down with them, not with a Deſign to joyn with them in any Impiety, but to diſſwade them from it, and if poſſible, to keep them pure from ſuch a Contagion. Accordingly GOD by his Providence caus'd him to ſettle in a Country call'd Cypariſſon on the North North Eaſt Side of the City of Babylon, not far from the City of Arbela, where Alexander the Great beat Darius and ſo put an End to the Perſian Empire. This was a Country, where Cypreſs Trees grew in great Plenty, and from whence it took its Name, and alſo where great Quantities of Timber or other Materials might be eaſily brought by the Rivers Gorgus and Caprus, from the Tigris or Euphrates or either of the other Rivers which lead to Babylon or Paradiſe. Here GOD (d) reveal'd unto him, that he was reſolv'd to deſtroy all Mankind with the Beaſts and Fruits of the Earth in a little Time, and accordingly commanded him to make a ſtrange Fabrick of Wood to dwell in upon the Water not fit for ſailing like our Ships or Boats, but without either Rudder or Sails to guide it, and which therefore had a flat Bottom like a Cheſt, with a Cover or a Roof to carry off the Rain, and ſo large, that it might contain two of each ſort of living Creatures, and ſeven of each ſort, which were clean and accounted fit for Sacrifices, and large enough to contain Food enough for them all for above a full Year. And accordingly he made an Ark of ſuch Dimenſions as GOD reveal'd to him, and laid up Proviſion for all the Creatures, as he was directed.

67. As the Ark was begun to be built, when Noah was four hundred and eighty Years old; ſo it is very probable, that he had ſeveral Children born to him before that Time, who might be employ'd in this Work; but if ſo, they were all deſtroy'd in the Flood, or died before it: And as they might have Wives and Children before that Time, ſo they might dwell in ſeparate Families, and like the (e) Sons in Law of Lot, might deſpiſe the Warning, which had been ſo often given them, and periſh accordingly in the common Deſtruction. The Perſons which were preſerv'd by Noah in the Ark were his Wife, and his three youngeſt Sons, and their Wives, being (f) but eight in all, and the eldeſt of theſe was born twenty Years after the Ark was began to be built: and thus (g) by faith Noah being warn'd of GOD concerning things not ſeen as yet, but being moved with fear, he began to prepare an Ark for the ſaving of his houſhold, which were not born as yet; by which (as the Apoſtle ſaith) he condemned the world, and became an heir of that righteouſneſs, which is by faith.

68. The eldeſt of theſe Sons was Japhet, who (h) is therefore call'd the elder, and he was born (i) when Noah was five hundred Years old. The Second was Shem, who was born (k) two Years after, tho' (l) always mention'd the firſt of the three, becauſe the Promis'd Meſſias was to come of his Seed. The youngeſt was (m) Ham who is expreſly mention'd as ſuch by Moſes. The Time of his Birth is uncertain; but it could not be long after the Birth of Shem, becauſe he was marry'd before the Flood, and in all Probability his Son Canaan was born ſoon after the Flood, about the ſame Time with Arphaxad the Son of Shem: And therefore as there were two Years between the Birth of Japhet and Shem; ſo we may reaſonably allow about two Years between the Birth of Shem and Ham.

Others call Noah Ouranus or Heaven, and his Wife Ge, or the Earth, as the Words are in Greek, or Adamah as it is in the Hebrew, and thus they interpret that of Moſes, (*) Noah began to be an Husbandman, or the Husband of the Earth or of Adamah. Another Writer is ſo (†) poſitive as to ſay, that the Name of Noah's Wife was Haical the Daughter of Namuſa the Son of Enoch; and that his three Sons took them Wives of the Daughters of Methuſhelah, and that the Name Shem's Wife was Salit, the Name of Ham's Wife was Nahlat, and the Name of Japhet's Wife was Ariſiſah. It is probable, that the Wives of Noah, Shem and Japhet were of the Poſterity of Seth, and that none of theſe marry'd into the Race of Cain, becauſe they were eſteem'd to be Men of Piety and Virtue, and therefore moſt likely to obſerve the command, which ſeems to be handed down from their Anceſtors, that they ſhould not marry into ſtrange Families. As for Ham his Character was different from the Reſt, and therefore a Curſe was intail'd on his Poſterity for his Immoralities. So that ſince (n) Plutarch tells us, that ſome call'd the Wife of Ham Nemaus, it is eaſy to conjecture that ſhe was Naamah the Daughter of Lamech, Siſter of Tubal-cain of the Race of Cain, the laſt Perſon mention'd in that Line, and the only Woman before the Flood of whoſe Birth Moſes takes any Notice of. It is probable, that Moſes would not have mention'd this Woman by Name, if ſhe had not been a Perſon of great Fame in the World. And if Ham was marry'd to her, we may give a very probable Reaſon, why both he and his Race fell ſo ſoon into Idolatry, notwithſtanding his Father was ſo free from it; and eſpecially how they came to worſhip the Sun, Moon and Stars, make Images of their Anceſtors, and perform divine Worſhip to them; namely, becauſe Ham himſelf might have been guilty of it, whilſt he was converſant in the Family of Cain, and there he alſo learn'd the Vices of Oppreſſion, Invading the Countries of their Neighbours by Force of Arms without any Regard to Right or Wrong, which was not ſo viſible in the Families of Shem and Japhet after the Flood; but was very eminent in Ham and his Wife, who was afterward call'd Aſtarte; in Miſraim and his Wife Oſiris; in his Son Cuſh, and eſpecially in his Grandſon Nimrod the Founder of the Aſſyrian Monarchy.

70. As Mahomet himſelf hath forg'd many (o) idle Stories concerning Noah, thereby to give ſome Colour to his own Impoſture; ſo it would be endleſs to reckon up what (p) the Commentators upon the Alcoran, and others have invented upon this Subject. They tell us, that as ſoon as he was born, his Father Lamech reſolv'd to kill him, and for the Preventing ſuch an untimely Death, he was hid in a Cave, and ſo lay conceal'd from all Men, 'til the Death of his Father, and after that he was brought forth, and liv'd the Life of a Shepherd. And that GOD had appointed him to be a famous Prophet, to warn the Idolaters of thoſe Times of the Judgments of GOD which ſhould come upon them, that ſo he might bring them off from Idolatry, and reſtore the true Religion among them. Joſephus gives us the Story of (q) Noah, thus, He took thoſe impious Extravagancies ſo to Heart, that after ſeveral Trials both by his Counſel and Authority to bring them to a Reformation of their Lives, and an Amendment of their Manners, and finding no Good to be done at laſt upon a Generation ſo incorrigibly obſtinate, and abandon'd to their Luſts, but that on the contrary he himſelf and his Family were in manifeſt Danger of ſome mortal Violence for his good Will, he departed out of the Land himſelf and all his People. This good Man was highly in Favour with GOD for his Integrity; but the Corruption and Iniquity of the Age cry'd out ſo loud to Heaven for Vengeance, that GOD reſolv'd within himſelf utterly to deſtroy the preſent Generation of Mankind, and to ſupply another and a better Race of Men in their ſtead. Elmachinus (s) ſaith, that there was ſuch a general Corruption of Manners, that no one remain'd in the Mount except Noah and his three Sons, his Wife and his Son's Wives, ſo that they were but eight in all. And all the Sons of Adam going down into the lower Regions of the Earth were joyn'd with the Daughters of Cain, and being overwhelm'd in Wickedneſs they worſhip'd other Gods. And thus the Earth became corrupt and was fill'd with Wantonneſs. Upon this GOD reveal'd himſelf unto Noah (t) telling him, that he would ſend a Flood upon the Earth, and deſtroy all the Things which ſhould be found alive, and commanded him, that he ſhould go down from the holy Mountain, with his Sons, his Wife, and his Sons Wives, and build a Ship of Square Wood, whoſe Length ſhould be three hundred Cubits, the Breadth fifty, and the Heighth thirty, and ſhould pitch it within and without with Pitch, and diſtinguiſh it into three Stories, of which the loweſt ſhould be for the Beaſts both wild and tame, the ſecond for the Birds, and the higheſt for him and his Sons, and that there ſhould be a Door in the Side of this Ship on the eaſtern Part, and that there ſhould be in it Places to receive Water, and a Place for the Food. Upon which Noah entering into the Cave call'd Alcanuz, and having kiſs'd the Bodies of Seth, Enoſh, Cainan, Mahalaleel, Jared, (u) Methuſelah and Lamech, he took up the Body of Adam (as (x) it lay in its Coffin) and carried it with them, with the proper Oblations, Shem carrying the Gold, Ham the Myrrh, and Japhet the Frankincenſe. And when they went from thence to go down from the holy Mountain, they lifted up their Eyes toward Paradiſe and wept, ſaying, O holy Paradiſe, farewel; and having kiſs'd the Stones, and embrac'd the Trees, they went down from the holy Mountain, and Noah built the Ark. Upon this GOD commanded him, that he ſhould make a Bell of the Wood of the Indian Plane Tree, three Cubits long, and a Cubit and a half broad; and that he ſhould alſo make an Hammer of the ſame Wood; and that he ſhould ſtrike the Bell three Times every Day with the Hammer, Firſt, in the Morning to call the Workmen to their Labour, after that at Midday to call them to Dinner, and laſt of all in the Evening, when they were to leave their Work. And GOD ſaid to Noah, When they who hear thee ſtriking the Bell, ſhall ſay unto thee, What is this which thou doſt? then ſay unto them, The LORD will ſend a Flood. And Noah did as he was commanded.

71 In the fifth Year before the Flood Lamech the Father of Noah dies, and therefore the (y) Arabian Tale, which is ſpoken of him, tho' by an ancient Author, carry's its own Confutation, That Lamech before his Death ſent for his Son Noah, and ſaid unto him, The great and glorious GOD will not ſuffer thee to continue always in this Mountain. Therefore when thou ſhalt go down from the Mountain, thou ſhalt take with thee the Body of Adam, and with it three Oblations, Gold, Myrrhe and Frankincenſe, and thou ſhalt command thy Son, that immediately after thy Death, he ſhall take the Body of Adam, and place it in the Middle of Earth, and ſhall appoint one of his Sons to perform religious Offices, who ſhall be a religious Man, and unmarried, he ſhall not pour out Blood, nor offer either Bird or Beaſt for Sacrifice, but only Bread and Wine. Becauſe from this Place ſhall come the Salvation promiſed to Adam, and he ſhall be call'd The Prieſt of the LORD, meaning Melchizedek. And when Lamech had commanded his Son Noah to obſerve theſe Things, he died on the LORD's Day in the nineteenth Day of the Month Adar, and Noah embalm'd him, and bury'd him in the Cave of Alcanuz, and mourn'd for him forty Days.

Anno Mundi 1652.

72. And as Enoch had before propheſy'd of Methuſelah, that when he died, the Flood ſhould come; ſo he died in that very Year. And therefore the Story (z) confutes it ſelf, that he was bury'd whilſt Noah was in the Mountain, and that Noah and Shem embalm'd him, and bury'd him in the Cave call'd Alcanuz, and mourn'd for him alſo forty Days. A Jew (a) relates the Story thus, When Noah had enter'd the Ark, he ſtay'd there for ſome Time, and the Flood came not, which when he perceiv'd he ſaid unto GOD, O thou LORD of the World, wherefore haſt thou brought me into the Ark? either that thou ſhouldeſt kill me, or that thou ſhouldeſt preſerve me alive? And GOD anſwer'd him, That I might preſerve thee alive. And Noah ſaid again, If it is ſo, why do we ſit here in the Ark, and the Flood doth not come? It had been better for us to have tarry'd on the earth. And GOD anſwer'd again and ſaid unto him, There is ſtill one old Man upon the Earth, who is perfectly juſt, and for his ſake the Flood cannot come upon the Earth, as long as he lives. And Noah ſaid again, O LORD of the World, Who is that juſt Man? And GOD anſwer'd him, It is Methuſelah thy elder. And Noah ſaid, Since this is ſo, bring him in to us, that ſo the Flood may come upon the World, as thou haſt ſaid. And GOD anſwer'd, He ſhall not live above a Week, and when he is dead and bury'd, the Flood ſhall immediately follow. Within which Space of Time Methuſelah died, and the Flood came accordingly.

73. By this Time the Reader is too much tir'd and amus'd with the Eaſtern Stories. I ſhall conclude all with the Words of (b) one of the moſt judicious Hiſtorians among them. I affirm, that whatever Account is handed to us of things done before the Flood, which is not founded upon the Words of the Prophets, is but a meer Conjecture and Opinion; ſince there is no one in thoſe Times, that we know of, who hath committed any of theſe things to Writing.

CHAP. XI.

Of the Form and Dimenſions of the Ark.

IT is now Time to give a more full Account of the Dimenſions and Form of the Ark, it being a Fabrick ſo remarkable not only in thoſe Days, but ever ſince. It was of a vaſt Bigneſs, and there was an abſolute Neceſſity for it. The whole (a) Remainder of the old World, and the Seed of the new was to be preſerv'd in it, and it was to be a Refuge for Noah and his Family. Theſe indeed were few in Number; but beſide theſe there were two at leaſt to be taken in of all Sorts of Animals, who otherwiſe muſt have periſhed in the Waters; and the Number of theſe which are known, are ſo large, that they could not be contain'd but in a moſt large Fabrick. They were oblig'd to tarry there for a full Year, and they muſt have ſufficient Food for ſo long a Time and more; ſince the Earth being cover'd with Mud could not immediately bring forth its proper Fruits, as ſoon as the Waters were return'd into their proper Channels. And as they could not live without convenient Food; ſo it muſt be kept in diſtinct Granaries, and the Beaſts muſt be plac'd in their diſtinct Cells. Peace muſt be kept between ſo many different Creatures, of whom ſome were wild, and ſome were tame, ſome were ſtrong, and ſome were weak. And as they were not of the ſame Temper, ſo neither were they of the ſame Bigneſs; ſo that the ſame Racks and Mangers could not ſerve them all alike. Beſides, the Food of different Kinds being mix'd together would have ſoon decay'd, and therefore they muſt be laid up in diſtinct Repoſitories. Thoſe Things which requir'd more Care to preſerve, and thoſe Things which could be preſerv'd with leſs Care muſt be kept diſtinct, and alſo the proper Food for Beaſts and Birds of all Sorts. Theſe Cells ought not to be equal, but according to the Bigneſs of the Animals which lodg'd in them, having ſufficient Room to come at them as Occaſion did require, and thus the Places for Hay and Straw ought to be larger than the Places for Corn. And as the Ark was fifty Cubits high; ſo it could not be all contain'd in one Floor, but there muſt be ſeveral Stories one above the the other; and the Ark, tho' of ſo great a Bigneſs, muſt be ſo firmly built, that there could be no Danger of its breaking to Pieces. Beſides there muſt be alſo a free and pure Air in every Room for all the Creatures to breathe in, or elſe they muſt have died for Want of it, and Conveniencies to feed, water and cleanſe every Beaſt, or elſe they would have been poiſon'd with their own Naſtineſs. And it is probable, that ſome Years muſt be ſpent in Cutting down Timber, Squaring it, and Bringing it to the Place, and alſo in Digging Bitumen or Providing Pitch to pitch it with; ſo that it could not have been contriv'd but by GOD himſelf, nor undertak'n but by one, who was fully aſſur'd, that GOD would aſſiſt him in ſo great a Work, and bring it to Perfection.

2. The Command of GOD to Noah was to make this Ark of (b) Gopher or Cypreſs Wood, which grew very plentifully in the Plains of Babylon, and eſpecially in Cypariſſon, where the Ark was built, and was a laſting durable Wood, fit for ſuch a Purpoſe; and that it might be more durable, it was made of ſquare Beams, and pitch'd within and without with Pitch. Not with ſuch Pitch, as was the Product of the Pine Trees, of which there could not be a ſufficient Quantity in the World; but with the Bitumen or fat Clay or Slime, which was of the ſame Nature with Pitch, being very glutinous and tenacious to keep things cloſe together; and of which there was ſo vaſt a Quantity in thoſe Plains, that the Tower and even the Walls of Babylon were built with it inſtead of Mortar. And therefore the Septuagint (*) uſe the Word ἄσφαλτος in this Place, which is the very ſame, that they uſe in the Deſcription of (c) the building of the Tower of Babylon. Others ſay, (d) that this Bitumen is a moſt ſolid Glue, and when any Wood is beſmear'd with it, it is not eat'n with Worms, nor clov'n with the Sun or Wind, nor decay'd with Water. Diodorus Siculus (e) tells us, that Babylonia contains many things worthy to be ſeen and admir'd; but among thoſe things the Quantity of Bitumen, which ariſeth out of the Earth, is very remarkable; which is ſo great, that it doth not only ſuffice for ſo many Buildings, but is gather'd in great Quantities by the People, and when it is dry'd, it is burn'd like Wood. And tho' it is gather'd by an innumerable Multitude of Men, as from a large Store, yet the Quantity is never exhauſted. Others ſay, (f) that it had a very grateful and pleaſant Smell, and therefore properly us'd as a Remedy againſt all Scenes, that might ariſe from the Excrements of the Animals, which were confin'd there. Pliny ſaith (g) that it is of a Shining Nature. That it hath the ſame Qualities with Brimſtone, it ſtrengthens, it diſcuſſes, it contracts and heals. When it is burnt it drives away Serpents with its Odour. The Bitumen of Babylonia is a Remedy againſt Webs or Pearls in the Eyes, and alſo againſt the Leproſy, Ringworm and Itching of the Body. When it is taken in Wine, it is good againſt an old Cough and Shortneſs of Breath, and when mix'd with other Medicines, it is alſo uſeful in many Diſtempers, which he reckons up. And therefore GOD commanded Noah to plaiſter the Inſide of the Ark with it to make it leſs dark, and to give a wholeſome Scent among ſo many Beaſts; and alſo to plaiſter the Outſide, to keep the Wood from decaying, and prevent the Water from running in at the Chinks.

3. As for the Faſhion of the Ark, the (h) Length thereof was three hundred cubits, and the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits, ſo that it was ſix Times as long as it was broad, and ten Times as long as it was high; and almoſt twice as broad as it was high: And as it had neither Sail for the Winds to drive it, nor Rudder to guide it, nor Conveniency to cut the Water; ſo it was admirably contriv'd to lie upon the Water without Tumbling about, or Going to a great Diſtance. And as a Cubit is (i) known to be 21 Inches, and 888 Decimal Parts; ſo the Length of it was 517 Feet, or about 31 Perch; the Breadth of it was 94 Feet, or about ſix Perch, and the Height of it was 55 Feet, or above three Perch of our Engliſh Meaſure.

4. As the Ark was made of Square Timber, ſo that the Pieces might probably be of about a Cubit ſquare, and they might be faſten'd to Pieces, which went croſs them both in the Bottom and at the Sides, like the Ribs of a Ship, and the upper Part might be contriv'd like the Rafters of a Houſe in Fig. 2. But it ſeems probable to me, that to make the Ark more firm to ſupport ſo great a Weight, all the Pieces of Timber in the Bottom and the Sides might be contiguous to each other, and if ſo, then there muſt be the Thickneſs of two Cubits to each. And as we cannot ſuppoſe that the bare Pitching it within and without could be ſufficient to hold together ſuch a Bulk; and as the Inventing and Forging of Iron was begun by Chryſor about the Year of the World 1037, and brought to a great Perfection by Tubal Cain about the fifteenth Century; ſo there is no Doubt, but that there were Iron Bolts or Pins made to faſt'n all theſe Pieces of Timber together, in the ſame Method as is uſual in our large Men of War. And as the Breadth of the Ark was about 94 Feet; ſo it is poſſible, that to make it more firm, there might be ſeveral Pieces of Timber ſo long as to reach from one Side to the other. Pliny ſaith, that there was ſeen at Rome a Beam of Larch Wood, an hundred and twenty Roman Feet long, and two Feet thick in every Part, which Tiberius Cæſar plac'd upon the Naumachiarian Bridge. And another is mention'd to be cut in Cyprus to make a large Galley for Demetrius of an hundred and thirty Feet long, and almoſt ſix Feet in the Diameter. And tho' ſuch Beams may be accounted Miraculous, and there was no Neceſſity to have many for this Purpoſe; yet GOD by his Providence might provide as many as was ſufficient in thoſe Parts; ſince Buteo, who wrote at large of the Meaſures of the Ark, ſaith, that there is no need to go far for Credit in this Caſe, ſince there are Fir-trees commonly ſeen in the Mountains of Daphine above eighty Feet high.

5. The Bottom of this Ark was ſmooth or plain, not round or oval, that ſo when the Water came under it, it might the more eaſily lift it up (and for this Reaſon it is ſuppos'd to have had Props under it to keep it from the Ground, as in Fig. 2. (a). and alſo that it might be leſs ſubject to be toſs'd or tumbl'd about by the Violence of the Wind or Waves, and might fix firmly upon the Land when the Flood was over, without Falling on the one Side, as Ships do, when the Water is gone from them. And all this was neceſſary in this Caſe to preſerve all the living Creatures ſafe and ſound, not only upon the Water, but alſo when they came to Land.

6. In this Ark (k) Noah is commanded to make a Window. As this Word is us'd but once in this Senſe throughout the whole Hebrew Bible, and even the (l) Window, which Noah look'd out at to view the Earth is call'd in Hebrew by another Name; ſo it hath occaſion'd great Difficulty among Expoſitors to explain it. As the Verb from whence it is deriv'd in the Chaldee Language frequently ſignifies to ſhine, or give light; ſo Jonathan their Paraphraſt expounds the Command thus. Go thou to Phiſon, and take from thence a precious Stone, and place it in the Ark to give Light unto you. But this is an Expoſition too far fetch'd, and inſtead of giving any Light in this Caſe, makes the Text more dark and obſcure than it was before. There is no Doubt, but this Window, whatever it was, was deſign'd to let in the Air, that all the living Creatures which were therein, might breath freely, and live wholſome, and alſo that there might be Light enough for them to ſee their Food and their Drink, and for Noah and his Family to perform all the Work requir'd of them, in all the diſtinct Rooms and Places of the Ark. But this could not be done by one ſingle Window. And therefore ſome have been of the Opinion, that if it could be conceiv'd, that one great Window could be ſo contriv'd as to be ſufficent to let in the Light into their ſeveral Apartments; yet it is not ſo meant as to exclude many little ones here and there for a greater Conveniency. But there is no Neceſſity for ſo many, if (m) we may be at Liberty to contrive ſuch a Form of the Ark, as agrees with all thoſe Particulars, which are mention'd in Scripture, and will at the ſame Time be moſt Convenient both for the Men and all the Sorts of other Animals, which were contain'd in it. And therefore the Account hereof might probably be this. All the oppoſite Sides of the Ark were equal and parallel to each other. Part of this Ark was under Water, and this Part was firmly encompaſs'd about with Timber, and ſecur'd with Bitumen both within and without, that no Water could come into it, to hurt the Proviſions or other Neceſſaries, which were kept there. But the upper Story, in which the Animals were contain'd, enjoy'd a free Air like the Seamen, when they walk above Deck, and were not ſhut up in wooden Walls, but only encompaſs'd with Latices and Rails, to prevent the Birds from flying out, or ſeveral Creatures from Leaping into the Water, or other living Creatures from Coming into the Ark at the Beginning of the Flood, more than could be contain'd therein. And here the Animals might have the whole Light of the Sun, and breathe in ſuch an open Air, which could not be corrupted by any ill Scent, and where the Wind did daily blow through it, to keep it ſweet and wholeſome, as in Fig. 1.

7. But to this it may be objected, How the Ark could in ſuch a Caſe be defended from Showers, Snow and Froſt, and all other Inconveniences both of Wind and Weather? And to this it may be anſwer'd, that Noah cover'd the Ark with thick Cloaths, or Skins of Goats, Sheep, Bullocks or other Animals ſo ſew'd together, and plac'd in ſuch a Manner, that they might be eaſily drawn cloſe in Caſe of Storms and cold Weather, or open'd again, whenever thoſe Animals wanted either Light or a freſher Air to breath in. Upon this Suppoſition all the Difficulties are anſwer'd, which are rais'd from a cloſe Confinement in the Ark. It may be farther objected. That there can be no Foundation for ſuch a Fancy as this: And on the contrary it may be farther ask'd, What Foundation can there be to fancy, that they were all ſhut up as in a Dungeon? If it is farther urg'd, That the Scripture takes no Notice of ſuch a Covering of Skins over the Ark. To this it may alſo be anſwer'd, That as it takes no Notice of it; ſo on the other Hand it doth not deny it; neither was it neceſſary, that it ſhould be ſo particular in ſuch little Circumſtances as theſe, becauſe it would ſwell this Part of the Story beyond any Proportion with the reſt. It is plain, that (n) many of the Antediluvian Patriarchs dwelt in Tents; and if it was cuſtomary for the Tents of the Shepherds at that Time to be cover'd with Skins, as the Tents of Soldiers were afterward (and the contrary can never be prov'd) Noah might well uſe ſuch a Covering to ſecure himſelf from Damage, as he ſaw was commonly practis'd in other Caſes. Sanchoniatho tells us (o) that in the fifth Generation from Adam, Uſous invented Covering for his Body made of the Skins of the wild Beaſts, which he could catch, and why might not (p) Agrus and Agrouerus, when they made Courts about Men's Houſes and other Fences, as well as Jabal, make them in the ſame Manner? The Latin Phraſe of Living all Winter under Skins, ſignifies only Dwelling in Tents, like (*) the antient Scythians; and Virgil (q) obſerves, that Goats were ſhorn for the Uſe of the Camps, and to be a covering to the diſtreſſed Seamen. And to make this Matter more plain, Noah is ſaid (r) to remove the covering of the ark, and he looked and behold the face of the earth was dry. Where it is obſervable, hat the Hebrew Word מכסה was never us'd to ſignify the Roof of an Houſe or any other Covering made of Wood, but always (s) us'd to ſignify the Covering of the Tabernacle, which (t) was made of Skins; ſo that this will juſtify ſuch an Expoſition of the Text, againſt all the Arguments, which can be brought to the contrary. If it is ſaid, that the Ark could not be cover'd without an infinite Number of Skins, with which it was a difficult Matter to be furniſh'd in thoſe Times, when the Eating of Fleſh was not very common. To this alſo it may be anſwer'd, That whatever Skins were neceſſary, Noah might be an hundred Years in Providing 'em or ſeveral Sorts of Cloath might be more eaſily had. It is true, that Men did not eat Fleſh. However, Sacrificing of Beaſts was very common in thoſe Times, and very many might be offer'd by Noah, he being a juſt and a religious Man; and he having Power over the living Creatures, might kill the more for this Uſe, or purchaſe the Skins from his Neighbours at a reaſonable Conſideration. Or the Ark might be almoſt wholly cover'd with Boards, and leave only a few Places on the Top to be open'd to look out at as Occaſion did require, and then there would need but a few Skins or Cloaths for this Purpoſe.

7. The next Particular ſpok'n of by Moſes concerning the Ark is the command of GOD to Noah, (u) that in a cubit he ſhould finiſh it above. As this Expreſſion immediately follows, what we thus tranſlate, A window ſhalt thou make in the ark; ſo there are ſome who interpret it thus, This Window ſhall be broad at the bottom, and grow narrower in ſuch a Manner, that the Breadth on the Top ſhall be only a Cubit. But whatever Interpretations may be put upon any Tranſlation ſignifies nothing, ſince it is certain that the Hebrew will not bear it, where the Word צהר or Window is of ſuch a Form, that we may ſuppoſe it to be of the Maſculine Gender, and the Word תבה is of the Feminine, with which the Particle It agrees, as the Word which it is neareſt to, and it cannot agree with the other. So that the Senſe of theſe Words muſt be thus. Tho' the Ark is fifty Cubits broad; yet there muſt be a Roof rais'd upon it, that the Water may run off from it; and this Roof muſt be ſo contriv'd, that the Middle, where the two Sides meet, muſt be but a Cubit broad, as in Fig. 3. And the door of the ark was to be ſet in the ſide thereof, as in Fig. 2, with a Bridge before it, on which all the Creatures were to go into the Ark, and the Door muſt be of ſuch a Bigneſs, that the largeſt of all Animals, particularly an Elephant might go in at it. And Noah was alſo commanded to make it with lower, ſecond and third Stories, ſo that here were three Floors directly over each other, beſide the Roof, and what other Conveniencies were neceſſary for ſuch a Deſign. And here all Sorts of Animals were to be preſerv'd, with Food ſufficient to laſt for a whole Year. For (x) Noah did according to all that GOD commanded him, and (y) the Command was very particular. Take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou ſhalt gather it to thee; and it ſhall be for food for thee and for them. Of every clean beaſt thou ſhalt take unto thee by ſevens, the male and his female, and of beaſts that are not clean by two, the male and his female. Of fowls alſo of the air by ſevens, the male and the female to keep ſeed alive upon the face of all the earth.

8. So far the Scriptures give us an Account of the Ark, and as to all other Particulars every Man is left at Liberty not only to frame ſuch Notions as may be conſiſtent with ſuch a Deſign, but alſo to improve upon the Notions of others for ſuch a Purpoſe. And as the Deſign of ſuch a Fabrick was to preſerve alive ſuch a vaſt number of Animals, to bring them conveniently into the Ark when the Flood began, and bring them out when the Flood was over, and alſo to contrive Places proper for each of them to lie down in, and ſuch Conveniencies, that their Food, their Litter, and their Water might be giv'n them, and they might be cleans'd every Day by eight Perſons only; ſo the Contriving it exactly will require the Skill of a very able Architect, eſpecially from thoſe ſmall Hints, which are afforded us in the ſacred Scriptures.

9. For this Purpoſe we may firſt obſerve, that when the Ark landed upon (z) the Mountain of Ararat it drew fifteen Cubits of Water. The (a) waters prevail'd fifteen cubits upward, when all the mountains were covered; and ſo it laſted (b) an hundred and fifty days. And that very day when the (c) Waters began to aſſwage, the (d) Ark landed; ſo that its Draught of Water then was fifteen Cubits, and conſequently it drew more at firſt, becauſe it had then in it all the Food and Litter which was ſpent in all that Time, or the Space of five Months.

10. Secondly, Tho' the Scripture mentions three Stories in the Whole; yet we are under no Neceſſity of ſuppoſing each Story to be of an equal Height; but (if as in Fig. 3.) the Height from a to b is equal to thirty Cubits, the particular Stories may be of ſuch a Length, as ſhall be moſt convenient. As therefore the Ark at its firſt Swimming might draw a large Quantity of Water; ſo the large lower Story might ſerve like the Hold of a Ship to ſtore therein all the Corn, or any other heavy Goods, as ſhould be proper for all the Animals, which were there, or might ſerve for Ballaſt, to keep the Ark upright and ſteady. And this I take to have had a firm and ſolid Deck, and ſo firmly ſecur'd by the Bitumen or Pitch, that when any Wave went over it, there could not any Water go into this Story. This Deck might be ſupported by Pieces of Timber of a Cubit Square, and ten Cubits Diſtance from each other, ſo that there might be four Rows of Supporters and twenty nine in a Row, or 116 in all. Over this Deck I ſuppoſe a void Space of about three Cubits high, ſupported in the ſame Manner, ſo that the Water might frequently waſh it clean, whilſt the Ark did ſwim, to cleanſe away all the Dung and Filth, that ſhould fall upon it from the two other Stories without any farther Trouble, and when the Ark was landed, any one might conveniently go down upon it and cleanſe it, as Occaſion ſhould require. Over this I ſuppoſe ſquare Beams to have been plac'd from Pillar to Pillar, to ſupport the Floor of the next Roof, and that this Roof was made by other ſquare Beams of a Cubit thick, with proper Holes or Drains, through which any thing that fell naturally, or was thrown into them might be conveigh'd to the Deck, to be carry'd off from thence by the Water, or otherwiſe as Occaſion ſhould require. And in this Manner Hercules is ſaid to cleanſe the Stalls of Augæus King of Elis, in conveighing into it the River Alpheus, which in one Day waſh'd the Filth clean away, and which otherwiſe had been an impoſſible Task. And after the Water was gone from the Ark, the Space between the Deck and the Floor of the next Story being four Cubits high, would be high enough for any Man to perform there ſuch Works as ſhould be neceſſary. From the Door at b to the Deck at c Fig. 2. I ſuppoſe a Bridge with Ledges nail'd thereon to drive up and down all ſuch Animals, as were preſerv'd in the Ark, and as it was above an hundred and forty Cubits in Length, and but twenty in height; ſo the Aſcent would make but an Angle of $8^{d.}$ 8^{m}, and therefore any Beaſt might paſs or repaſs with Eaſe; and that in the ſame Manner a Paſſage might be made from the Deck to the next Story, and there might be other Perpendicular Paſſages, that a Man might go down into the Hold of the Ark by the Help of Stairs made for that Purpoſe; to fetch from thence whatever ſhould be wanting, and all theſe muſt be well ſecur'd with Bitumen, or Pitch, as far as the next Story, that no Water might come in that Way; and of theſe we may ſuppoſe that there were about thirty plac'd at convenient Diſtances, and that each of theſe might be about three Cubits ſquare, without including the Steps which probably might be a Cubit and a half more. And in each of theſe there might be plac'd two Buckets faſten'd to a Wheel with a Cord in ſuch a Manner, that one of them might deſcend, when the other aſcended, as in a Mine, and a Man below might fill ſuch Grain, or other Materials as ſhould be wanting for Food or other Uſes, whilſt another Perſon drew it up from thence, and landed it in another Story, as occaſion did require. The Floor of the ſecond Story being in this Method about five and twenty Cubits high, might contain Room enough for all the Animals of all Sorts, both Men, Beaſt and Fowl, and if it was three Cubits and a half high, it might be high enough for any living Creatures, the Elephant and ſome few others excepted, for whom in ſome particular Places, the Roof might be rais'd as Occaſion did require. This might be ſupported by Pillars as the other, and if it was divided into Rooms or Cells to ſeparate the different Animals, there might be an hundred and fifty Rooms, or thirty in Length and five in Breadth, of about ten Cubits ſquare each, for the Reception of the different Kinds according to their Natures: And here might alſo be placed two Buckets and Pullies with a Cord and a Wheel to draw Water from the Flood, and pour it into ſuch Channels, as might conveigh it into ſuch Troughs, which would be ſufficient for all the Animals when thirſty to drink out of. In this Story was the Window plac'd, as we tranſlate it, tho' (e) the Word will equally ſignify the Splendor, The Light or Noon-Day. Here therefore we may ſuppoſe the ſecond Story, in which all the Animals are plac'd, to have been quite open all round, except ſome Parts, which were grated to hinder the Birds from flying in and out. Or otherwiſe it was impoſſible, how they could have ſufficient Light and Air, and a free Paſſage to it to prevent Stagnations of the Blood, and many other Inconveniencies; which in this Caſe would have been remov'd. And as to the Cleanlineſs, the Stalls for the Beaſts may have been ſo open and ſhelving at the Bottom of them, that whatever Filth they may be ſuppos'd to have, might have been eaſily thrown down through Holes which might have at other Times been ſtopp'd by Doors or Hatches made for that Purpoſe.

10. We are now come nine and twenty Cubits high, ſo that there is but one Cubit left, which belongs to the third Story and muſt accordingly be rais'd by the Roof, ſo as to be made convenient for its reſpective Uſe. How high the Middle Part was from the Floor cannot otherwiſe be determin'd, but by conſidering what a Quantity of Hay and Straw was neceſſary to be plac'd there to ſerve for Provender and Litter for all the Beaſts, which were in the Ark during their Confinement, and which might be tumbl'd down from thence with little Difficulty, as Occaſion did require, through Holes made for that Purpoſe, and which being lighter than the other things might be eaſily plac'd in this upper Story. And in this Story ſome of the upper and open Parts were (f) cover'd with Skins and other Cloaths ſew'd together, (as the Tabernacle afterward was) which Noah could eaſily let down, or roll up according as Rain or Storms, or Want of Air made it neceſſary. And thus Noah is ſaid (g) to have remov'd the Covering of the Ark after the Flood; where the Hebrew Word מכסה properly ſignifies a Vail or Covering, like that of Skins, which cover'd the Tabernacle.

11. And now it is probable, that ſuch an empty Fabrick as this might draw a large Quantity of Water. To give a near Eſtimate whereof, we muſt firſt take it for granted, that a Piece of Timber is lighter than the like Quantity of Water, becauſe it will ſwim upon it. But it is probable, that ſuch a Piece being beſmear'd with Bitumen or Pitch both within and without, and faſten'd to other Pieces with Iron Pins and Bolts to join the whole Fabrick together, might then be as heavy as an equal Quantity of Water, and conſequently ſuch a Quantity may be thus computed.

OBJECTIONS anſwer'd.

THERE have been two Objections rais'd againſt this Part of the Hiſtory of Moſes, which hath been already mention'd. The firſt is, That there could not be ſo great a Quantity of Water in this Planetary Syſtem, as to cauſe ſuch a Flood; and the other is, That the Ark could not be ſo large as to contain all the living Creatures, which are in the World, and Food for them all for ſo long a Time as is mention'd.

2. For the Anſwering this firſt Objection I ſhall endeavour to prove, that there was ſuch an univerſal Flood, as that which Moſes mentions in the Time of Noah, and then give an Account, from whence ſo great a Quantity of Waters might be had.

NOAH'S ARK.

The Birds in the Ark.

The End of the Ark.

The Section of the Ark.

Deſtruction by Water, in which the whole World periſh'd, and ſaith, There were only eight Perſons ſav'd. Cyril in his firſt Book againſt Julian ſhews that Alexander Polyhiſtor, and Abidene, under the feign'd Names of Saturn and Xiſuthrus, have writ for the moſt Part the ſame Story of the Flood, and of the Ark, and the Place of its Reſting, which Moſes hath mention'd. And in very many other ancient Authors, we have particular Narratives of it. And 'tis evident, that many Poetical Fictions and fabulous Stories, which we find among the ancient Heathen Writers, had their Derivations from thence. So that to doubt about the Fact of what Moſes hath writt'n in this Particular is extreamly unreaſonable. For it is to deny what is eminently witneſs'd to us by ſeveral Hiſtorians of ſeveral Countries, and to withſtand the Stream of an univerſal Tradition. It is certain, that (b) Ovid writes of theſe Times, as if he believ'd the Moſaical Account hereof. He ſaith, that there were Giants in thoſe Days, who wag'd War againſt Heaven, and that their Offspring were Contemners of the Gods, guilty of Murder and Oppreſſion, and bloody in their very Natures. Upon which Jupiter having beheld all their Wickedneſs, calls a Council of the Gods, and tells them, that he would try ſome farther Methods for the Amendment of that wicked Age, but if they were to no Purpoſe, and the whole Earth continu'd as bad, and as univerſally corrupt as it was before, that he would deſtroy them all, and raiſe up a better Offspring in a miraculous Manner; and accordingly he ſends a Flood of Waters on all the Earth, that the Rain pour'd down from Heaven, and there were prodigious Inundations from the Sea, which deſtroy'd the Corn, the Trees, the Houſes and all Mankind, and prevail'd over all the Hills, only Deucalion and his Wife Pyrrha, who were good and juſt People, and great Reverencers of the Gods, were preſerv'd by Sailing in a Boat to the Top of the Mountain of Parnaſſus. And when Jupiter ſaw them remaining, he took Pity on them, he reſtrain'd the Rain, and caus'd the Waters of the great Deep to return to their former Channels. And ſo from them two the World was repeopl'd. A late eminent (c) Author ſpeaking of this Story makes this juſt Remark. It is not material, whether Deucalion among the Greeks is the ſame with Noah among the Hebrews, or whether in Reality there happen'd another Flood in Theſſaly, when Deucalion was their King. It is certain, that this univerſal Flood remain'd in the Memory of all Men, and let Deucalion be who you pleaſe, or live when or where you pleaſe, ſuch things are ſpoken of him, as can only agree to an univerſal Flood. And he, who reads the whole Story in Ovid, muſt acknowledge, that in his Poem the true Hiſtory of Noah's Flood is mix'd and interwov'n with the Fables of Deucalion. Varro the moſt learned of the Romans (as (d) Cenſorinus relates it) divided the Times into three Parts, which he call'd the three Differences. The firſt he reckon'd from the Beginning of the World to the firſt Flood, which becauſe of the Ignorance of the things then done, he call'd The fabulous Time. The ſecond Epocha was from the firſt Flood to the firſt Olympiad, and becauſe there were many fictitious Stories related of that Time, he call'd it The uncertain Age. The third was from the firſt Olympiad to his Days, which he call'd The hiſtorical Age, becauſe there had been conveigh'd down to them a true Account of the Things done in that Epocha. Seneca (e) plainly ſhews, that he had a clear Notion not only of the firſt Flood, for which he quotes Ovid as before; but he was apprehenſive of a future Flood to deſtroy the Earth, and of another Deſtruction by Fire, and ſpeaking at large about it, he ſaith, It may be ask'd, When that fatal Day of the Flood ſhall come; when great Part of the Earth ſhall be overwhelm'd with Water, whether it ſhall be done by the Force of the Ocean? or the Seas ſhall riſe up upon us? or there ſhall be frequent Showers without Intermiſſion? or a continual Winter having brok'n through the Clouds ſhall caſt down an immenſe Force of Water? Whether the Earth ſhall pour out large Rivers, and open new Fountains? or, Whether there ſhall not be only one Cauſe to ſo great a Calamity? or every Thing ſhall agree together to bring it on? or all things ſhall ruſh as with an united Force for the Deſtruction of Mankind? And then he gives his Opinion, So it will be. There is nothing difficult to Nature, when it haſt'ns to bring all things to an End. It comes ſlowly on to produce new Beings, but it brings all things to Deſtruction with a ſpeedy Force. After this he farther adds, In ſome Places an harmleſs Tide flows along for ſome hundred Miles, and keeps its Order. It flows to its due Height, and then ebbs again. But at that Time it ſhall be free from all Laws and Bounds. If you ask, How ſhall it be? I anſwer, By the ſame Method, by which the World ſhall hereafter be burnt. Both ſhall happen when GOD ſhall think fit to ordain better things, and put an end to the old World. Fire and Water rule over earthly things. From theſe and by theſe all things were made, and by theſe all things ſhall be deſtroy'd. And therefore when it ſhall pleaſe GOD to make all things new, at one time he is pleaſed to deſtroy us by Water, and at another Time by Fire. And after he had deſcrib'd the Flood very elegantly and at large, he adds, Rivers ſhall ſpring out of the Mountains, and ſhake

them with Violence; and they ſhall flow from thence with a ſilent Gale. Every Soil, and even the moſt high Mountains ſhall abound with Waters. And as in human Bodies the ſound Parts turn into Diſtempers, and peccant Humours increaſe the Sore; ſo every thing that is near to ſuch Springs ſhall be diſſolv'd and flow into them, firſt by Drops, and then by greater Quantities. The Rivers ſhall ſpring out of Rocks in many Places, and ſhall turn into an Ocean. And there ſhall be no Borders to the Adriatick or the Sicilian Sea. And to make this probable, he farther adds, Conſider now, what vaſt Lakes there are hid in the Earth. There are vaſt Seas under Ground, and Rivers which paſs, we know not where. And theſe from all Quarters ſhall be the Cauſe of the Flood. And he farther adds, that this Flood ſhall alſo ceaſe, The Waters ſhall not always have the ſame Liberty, but when the Beaſts, and Men transform'd into Beaſts ſhall be deſtroy'd, the Earth ſhall drink in the Water again. GOD ſhall cauſe the Sea to ſtand ſtill, or only to rage within its own Banks; and the Ocean caſt from the Earth ſhall retire into its ſecret Receſſes. The ancient Order ſhall be recall'd. Every Animal ſhall be made new, and a new Race of Men free from Wickedneſs, and born for better Fortune, ſhall dwell on the Earth. Thus far Seneca, whoſe Apprehenſions of things to come, was only occaſion'd by the current Tradition of things paſt; for if he had learn'd it from the Writings of Moſes, he muſt have known, that what was paſt, would not happ'n again.

3. Joſephus (f) ſaith, We read of this Deluge and the Ark in all the Writers of Barbarian Hiſtories, as in Beroſus the Chaldean for one, who ſpeaking of this Flood, writes to this Effect. They ſay, that there are ſome Remainders of this Veſſel to be ſeen upon the Mountains of the Cordyæans in Armenia to this very Day, and that ſeveral People ſcrape the Pitch off from the Planks as a Rarity, and carry it about them for a Charm. Hieronymus the Egyptian in his Phænïcian Antiquities, Marſeas and a great many others ſay ſomewhat of this Matter too. But Nicolaus of Damaſcus ſpeaks to this Purpoſe, In the Province of Minyas in Armenia there is a high Mountain call'd Baris, to which Place there fled a great many People, as the Story goes in the Time of a Deluge for Sanctuary. There is a Tradition alſo, of a certain Man in a Veſſel that ſtruck upon the Top of this Mountain, and that ſeveral Pieces of Timber were to be ſeen there a long Time after. This perhaps might be the Man, that Moſes makes mention of. Thus far Joſephus. Whether the Ark landed in thoſe Parts of Armenia is another Queſtion. It is certain from hence, that they had a Notion of a Flood long before Joſephus's Time from Tradition. As for the Pieces of the Ark, they are reported to ſhew them at this Time, and no Doubt will ſhew them as long as they can find a rotten Piece of Timber in the Country, or People ſo credulous as to ſpend their Mony to go thither and ſee it. However the ſame Joſephus ſaith in (g) another Place, that this Beroſus following the moſt ancient Writings declares the ſame with Moſes concerning the great Flood, and the Deſtruction of Men thereby, and of the Ark in which Noah the Reſtorer of Mankind was preſerv'd, when it carry'd him to the Top of the Mountains of Ararat. Strabo (h) ſaith, It was the Opinion of Plato, that after the Flood there were three Ways of Living, The firſt was plain and ſimple, in the Tops of the Mountains, when Men were afraid of the Waters, which then cover'd the Fields. The ſecond was at the Bottom of the Mountains, when they took more Courage, and the Fields began to be dry: And the Third was in the Plains. And that this was the Flood, which was known (as Strabo ſaith) to Plato and all other ancient Writers, is evident; becauſe there could be no other Particular Flood in which the Waters could riſe ſo high, that there was a Neceſſity for Men to fly for refuge to the Tops of the higheſt Mountains. The Story of Noah among the Chaldeans by the Name of Oannes and Xiſuthrus hath been (i) already mention'd. The learned Voſſius tells us, that there is a Tradition among the Chineſe, that one Puoncuus eſcap'd with his Family out of the univerſal Deluge. And he ſuppoſeth Pu or Pi to be only a Præfix to the Name (or an Article, as it is in the Coptick Language, and ſo the Name Pu-o-nchuus is the ſame with נוח or ἀυτὸς ὁ Νῶχ. Martinius alſo tells us, that the ancient Writers of the Chineſe Hiſtory ſpeak much of the Flood. And (m) it now appears, that the Americans had a Tradition of it (as credible Authors Acoſta, Herrera and others inform us) who affirm, that the whole Race of Mankind was deſtroy'd by the Deluge, except ſome few that eſcap'd. They are the Words of Auguſtin Corata concerning the Peruvian Tradition. And Lupus Gomara ſaith the ſame from thoſe of Mexico. And (n) Johannes de Laet, tells us out of Leſcharbotus, how conſtant the Tradition of the Flood is among the Indians not only in Peru, but alſo in New France and other Parts. Moſes tells us (o) that Noah ſent out a dove to ſee if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground. And the dove came in to him in the evening, and lo, in her mouth was an olive-leaf pluckt off: So Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth. To this Plutarch expreſly refers, when doubting, whether the Sea or the Land Animals are hoteſt in their Nature, he mentions the Dove ſent out of the Ark in the Time of Deucalion, and adds, That the Mythologiſts affirm, that her Coming into the Ark ſignify'd ſtormy Weather, and her Going out of the Ark ſignify'd clear Weather. And as the Olive Branch was a ſign of Peace between GOD and Noah; ſo from hence ſo univerſal a Cuſtom aroſe, that an Olive Branch was a Sign of Peace between Man and Man. Virgil ſaith of Æneas (p) He brought the Bough of a peace making Olive Tree in his Hand. Polybius ſaith, (q) that when Hannibal paſs'd the Alps the People brought him ſuch Boughs as a Sign of Peace and Subjection. Livy ſaith, that the ten Ambaſſadors from Lorin, when the Conſuls were in the Senate Houſe ſtretch'd out their Hands with the Olive Branches, according to the Cuſtom of the Greeks, and fell before the Throne on the Ground with a lamentable Cry, deſiring Peace. And Columbus (s) tells us the ſame of the Americans upon the firſt Diſcovery of that Country, when they had no other Way to expreſs their Inclinations In ſhort, there are ſo many things related by the Heathen Authors concerning the Univerſality of the Flood, the Saving a few Men in the Ark, and alſo of other Animals, the Sending out the Birds to ſee if the Waters were abated, the Opening the Ark to ſee if the Ground was dry, the Offering Sacrifices to God, the Diſappearing of Noah, and the Building of Babylon by his Poſterity, as muſt leave it paſt Diſpute. And the moſt ancient Accounts hereof are collected from ſo many (t) other Authors, that no Man of Letters can be ſuppos'd to be ignorant of it. And therefore ſuch as Diſpute againſt the Poſſibility of ſuch a Flood from Philoſophical Principles, ſeem only to argue againſt that, which they themſelves muſt know to be true.

4. The Truth of the Flood being thus confirm'd, there may be many Ways to anſwer this Queſtion, How there could be ſuch a Quantity of Water, as might be ſufficient to cover the whole Globe in ſuch a Manner? And the firſt Anſwer alone may ſilence all Diſputes about it, which is, That it was miraculous. That GOD, who created the whole World out of nothing, could as eaſily create a ſufficient Quantity of Water for this Purpoſe, and diſſolve it again into nothing, or bring it from diſtant Places, and bring it back again to the ſame Places, where it was at firſt. Thus our Bleſſed SAVIOUR anſwers all ſuch Inquiries, (u) With men it is impoſſible, but not with GOD : for with GOD all things are poſſible.

5. To ſolve this Difficulty, there are ſome who have affirm'd, that the Flood was not univerſal; others, that all the Waters of the Sea overflow'd its Banks, and conſequently that the Seat of Gravity might not be in the Center of the Earth, but equally diffus'd through the Circumference, that the Water might be in no Place above fifteen Cubits deep, and in no Place leſs. But laying aſide theſe Speculations, which ſerve rather to amuſe the Reader, than to ſolve the Difficulty; I ſhall allow that the Flood was univerſal, and that when the Waters were at the higheſt, they lay in a plain Sphere, covering the Tops of the higheſt Mountains, and for proving the Poſſibility of the Flood from theſe Principles, it will be neceſſary to take a Survey of the higheſt Mountains, and then to prove, that either of theſe two Methods mention'd by Moſes were ſufficient to cover them, in the ſame Manner as Moſes mentions, and conſequently that both together could do it more effectually, when GOD thought fit by his Providence to order, that it ſhould be ſo.

6. As for the Mountains the moſt of them are very low; very few are ſuppos'd to be a Mile high, and the higheſt not to be above four, taking the (x) Altitude of them from the Plain, which they ſtand upon. The Height of Olympus is ſo extoll'd by the Poets and ancient Greeks, that it is ſaid to exceed the Clouds; yet (y) Plutarch tells us, that Xenagoras meaſur'd it, and found it not to exceed a Mile and a half, and about ſeventy Paces in its perpendicular. Much about the ſame Height (z) Pliny ſaith, that Dichæarchus found the Mountain Pelion to be. The Mount Athos is ſuppos'd to be of an extraordinary Height, becauſe it caſts its Shadow to the Iſland of Lemnos, which according to Pliny was eighty ſeven Miles; yet Gaſſendus allows it to be but two Miles in Height, and (a) Iſaac Voſſius will not have it to be above ten or eleven Furlongs at moſt. And it is certain, that (b) if we allow but 60 Miles to a Degree, the Shadow might have been ſeen ſo far upon level Ground at Sun riſing or Sun ſet, if the Mountain had been but nine Furlongs, or a little more than a Mile high, and much more from any Hill in the Iſland. Caucaſus by Ricciolus is ſaid to be one and fifty Miles in Height, Gaſſendus, allowing it to be higher than Athos or Olympus, conceives it not to be above three or four Miles at moſt; but Voſſius will not allow it to be above three Miles perpendicular, for which he gives this very good Reaſon, That there is no Mountain in Greece, which may not be aſcended in a Day, and makes the higheſt Mountains there not to exceed ten Furlongs, which (ſaith Voſſius) it is ſcarce poſſible for any one to reach in that Time, unleſs he be a Mountaineer born; but any other will ſcarce be able to aſcend above ſix Furlongs perpendicular. For in the Aſcent of any Mountain every Pace doth ſcarce reach to a Hand Breadth perpendicular. But if we do allow eight Furlongs to a Day's Aſcent; yet thereby it will appear, that the higheſt Mountains in the World are not above three Miles in Height, becauſe they may be aſcended in leſs than the Compaſs of three Days. And this may be the eaſier believ'd, ſince it is reported, that in the Months of July and Auguſt Men frequently go to the Top of the Pike of Tenariff in that Space of Time, which Mountain is (c) ſuppos'd to be the higheſt in the whole World. Beſides, the Spaniards tell us, that the Alps in Italy (which are ſo much talk'd of) are but Cottages in compariſon of the lofty Mountains of Peru; and yet theſe lofty Mountains may be aſcended in four Days Time. And therefore as no Mountain can be ſuppos'd to exceed four Miles in Height; ſo the Addition of fifteen Cubits more, will bring the Waters to the utmoſt Height, which Moſes allotted for them.

7. Now Moſes himſelf aſſigns two Cauſes for this Deluge, and each of theſe may be ſufficient, for ought we know to the contrary. The firſt is (d) that the windows of heaven were opened. Sir Walter Raleigh expounds it thus, that (e) the Clouds only are meant thereby, and Moſes uſeth the Word only to expreſs the Violence of the Rains, and the Pouring down of the Waters. For whoever hath ſeen thoſe Fallings of Water, which ſometimes happen in the Indies, which are call'd, The Spouts (where Clouds do not break into Drops, but fall with a reſiſtleſs Violence in one Body) may properly uſe that Manner of Speech, which Moſes did. That the Windows or Flood-Gates of Heaven were open'd, or that the Waters fell contrary to Cuſtom and that Order, which we call natural. GOD then looſen'd the retentive Power in the Air, and the Waters fell in abundance. Indeed they who think that there is no Water, but in the Clouds, may look on this as impoſſible. But we well know, that thick Air is eaſily turn'd into Water, and that round the Earth there is a thicker Air, which we call the Atmoſphere, which the farther it is diſtant from the Earth the thinner it is, and ſo it grows thinner in proportion until it loſeth all its watry Quality. How far this may extend, cannot be determin'd. It may reach as far as the Orb of the Moon for ought we know to the contrary. Now when this retentive Quality of Waters was withdrawn, Moſes tells us (f) that the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights, and therefore ſome of it might come ſo far as to be forty Days in Falling. And if we allow the Rain to fall a little more than ten Miles in an Hour, or 250 Miles in a Day, then all the watry Particles, which were ten thouſand Miles high might deſcend upon the Earth, and this alone might be more than ſufficient to cover the higheſt Mountains.

8. To this Moſes aſſigns another Cauſe, (g) The fountains of the great deep were broken up. Thoſe Waters which were contain'd in vaſt Quantities in the Bowels of the Earth, being preſs'd upward by ſome Cauſe unknown to us, guſh'd out violently at ſeveral Parts of the Earth, where they either found or made a Vent. There are vaſt Quantities of ſubterraneous Waters more than we know of. The Obſervation of Solomon (g) could never be contradicted, All the rivers run into the ſea, yet the ſea is not full; and unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again. Tho' the Water is naturally lower than the Earth; yet every Cloud that we ſee in the Air will tell us, that it may be rais'd above it; and thus there is ſome accidental Cauſe in the Earth, which perhaps we can give no Account of, that raiſes the Water to the Top of the Surface, and lets it out in an infinite number of Springs for the Good of all the Animals, which are upon the Earth. That all the Earth is full of Water is evident, becauſe Men dig in all Parts of it for Springs, and the deeper they dig, they are not only ſure to find Water, but alſo greater Quantities of it. It is evident in (h) Ochye Hole in Somerſetſhire, and (i) the Peake in Darbyſhire, that there are large ſubterraneous Paſſages of Rivers; and it is probable, that ſuch as theſe in other Countries gave Riſe to that Notion among the Heathens, that the Souls departed paſſed over the Stygian Lake, before they could enter into the Elyſian Fields. There are ſome large Rivers which are loſt by running under Ground, particularly ſome which run in the Lakes of Chaldea, and the ſwift Stream of the River Jordan, which overflows all its Banks in the Time of Harveſt and is loſt in the Dead Sea, and ſeveral others. Beſides there are vaſt Numbers of Rivers, which run into the Mediterranean Sea of Europe, Aſia, and Africa, and particularly from the Helleſpont and the Euxine Sea, and tho' it might be thought that ſuch a Maſs of Water is ſufficient to overflow the Earth; yet it generally runs in thither alſo from the main Ocean at the Straits of Gibraltar, and all this is emptied from thence in an unknown Manner. The Euxine Sea hath many Rivers conſtantly running into it, and ſo ſmall a Paſſage out, as is not ſufficient to empty the tenth Part of ſo much Water. The (k) Caſpian Sea is reckon'd in Length to be above an hundred and twenty German Leagues, and in Breadth from Eaſt to Weſt about ninety of the ſame Leagues. There is no viſible Way for the Water to run out, and yet it receives into its Boſom near an hundred large Rivers, and particularly the great River Wolga, which of it ſelf is like a Sea for Largeneſs, and (l) is ſuppoſed to empty ſo much Water into it in a Year's Time, as might ſuffice to cover the whole Earth, and yet it is never increas'd nor diminiſh'd, nor is it obſerv'd to ebb or flow. This conſtant Plenitude hath giv'n Riſe to many Speculations, eſpecially that it muſt neceſſarily have a Subterranean Communication, either with the Black Sea, altho' that be an hundred and twenty Leagues diſtant, or with the Perſian Gulph, tho' that is near two hundred Leagues from it. For this laſt Opinion Father Avril, a modern Traveller, brings this Proof, That near the Coaſt of Kylan there is in the Caſpian Sea a mighty Whirlpool, which ſucks in every Thing that comes near it, and conſequently a Cavity in the Earth there; and in the Perſian Gulph there are found to ſwim on the Waters a great Quantity of the Leaves of Willow Trees; but no Willow Tree grows near that Sea, and very many are ſeen on the Caſpian, and therefore they are carry'd by a ſubterranean Paſſage from the one to the other. So that if the Fountains of the great deep or thoſe ſubterraneous Paſſages were continu'd to be let looſe, without any Reflux into them, as (m) Moſes ſuppoſes during the Time of the Rain, which was forty Days and forty Nights, and the Waters aſcended but a Quarter of a Mile in an Hour; yet in forty Days it would drain all the Waters for two hundred and forty Miles deep, which would no doubt be ſufficient to cover the Earth above four Mile high. As for thoſe, who contend, that ſuch Quantities of Water may be drawn out of the Caſpian and Mediterranean Seas by the Influence of the Sun, as may prevent this Increaſe, I ſhall not diſpute it, but only deſire them to conſider, that if ſuch Quantities are extracted from the Caſpian Sea, which is between 39 and 46 Degrees of Latitude, and from the Mediterranean Sea, which is between thirty and forty three Degrees of Latitude, Whether there might not be extracted by the ſame Method ſo great a Quantity of Water in the torrid Zone out of the main Ocean between Africa and America, as muſt long before this have turn'd the Sea into dry Land? Or if the Seas are kept within their Bounds by the Attraction of Waters occaſion'd by the Sun, then the bare Suſpenſion of ſuch an Attraction for forty Days, might alone cauſe ſuch a Flood as Moſes mentions, and the (n) Return of ſuch an Attraction with the Stopping the Fountains of the great Deep might alone dry up the Waters, as Moſes deſcribes it, and cauſe all Things to return again at the Time limited, into their former Channels. I ſhall conclude this with (o) the remarkable Words of Seneca. Where hath not Nature diſpos'd of Moiſture ſufficient to attack us on all Sides, when it pleaſes? There are huge Lakes, which we do not ſee, much of the Sea that lies hidden, and many Rivers that ſlide in ſecret. So that there may be Cauſes of a Deluge on all Sides, when ſome Waters flow in under the Earth, and others flow round about it, which being long pent up overwhelm it, and Rivers joyn with Rivers, and Pools with Pools. ----- And as our Bodies ſometimes diſſolve into Sweat; ſo the Earth ſhall melt, and without the Help of other Cauſes ſhall find in it ſelf what will drown it, ------- Since there may be on a ſudden, every where, openly, and ſecretly from above, and from beneath an Eruption of Waters. Theſe Words of an Heathen are ſo plain, as if he had been directed to write a Commentary on the Words of Moſes, and may be ſufficient to end all Diſputes of this Nature.

9. The other Objection is, That there was not Room in the Ark to contain the Number of Living Creatures, which Moſes mentions, and Food of all Sorts for them all for ſo long a Time as he alſo mentions.

10. In anſwer to this it muſt be granted, That there were three Sorts of living Creatures, Men, Beaſts and Fowls. Of Beaſts and Fowls, ſome feed on Fleſh, ſome on Hay, and ſome on Seeds or Roots. Of Birds and Beaſts which (p) were not clean, there were two of each ſort the male and the female, and of ſuch as were clean there were ſeven of each ſort, two of each Sort for Breed, two for their Food after the Flood, two for Sacrifices on ſolemn Days, and a Male of each Sort to be offer'd up by Noah (r) immediately after the Flood.

And

And the Food muſt be ſo much, as would laſt a Year. Now there was ſufficient Room for the Placing all theſe Creatures in the Ark, and the Ark could eaſily ſwim under ſuch a Burden.

11. For the Proof of this, I place the Roots and Grain in the lower Story, the living Creatures of all Sorts in the ſecond Story, and their Hay and Litter in the third Story.

12. The ſecond Story being three hundred Cubits long, and fifty Cubits broad, contains in the Whole fifteen thouſand Cubits, which (l) is ſuppoſed to be divided into an hundred and fifty equal Rooms; and if the Ark is ſuppos'd to be two Cubits thick in the Sides, and the Partitions to be a Quarter of a Cubit thick, then the Total to be ſubſtracted will be 2013 Cubits, ſo that the clear Space will be 12987 Cubits, which divided by 150, or the Number of Rooms, will leave the clear Space in every Room $86\frac{79}{150}$ Cubits, or 86 Cubits, and 53 Decimal Parts, which would make a Square Room of 9. 304 Cubits. And as the Length of each Cubit is now known to be 21. 888 Inches; ſo each Room would contain a Square of 16. 97 Engliſh Feet, or 287. 88 Feet in the Whole. The Computation is thus:

13. From the whole Number of Cubits	15000
Subſtract one long Side 300 Cubits in length, and 200 Cubits breadth	600
Another of the ſame	600
One Side being the Breadth of the Ark, fifty Cubits in all, or 46 Cubits, when the Breadth of the Sides is ſubſtracted, and two Cubits broad	92
Another of the ſame	92
Four Partitions, in Length 296 Cubits, and in Breadth a Quarter of a Cubit	296
29 Partitions from Side to Side, being in Length 46 Cubits each, or 1334 in the whole Length, and a Quarter of a Cubit thick, makes	333
Total is	2013
Remains	12987

14. Of theſe 150 Rooms I allow four for Noah and his three Sons and their Wives, and two Rooms with Earth for thoſe Animals that live under Ground, one for thoſe which live on Herbs and Roots, and the other for thoſe which live on Fleſh, and divide the other 144 Rooms into three Parts, that is 24 for Birds, twenty five for Beaſts, and the other ninety five for ſuch Animals as are deſign'd to be Food for the Reſt. In ſuch a Caſe there will be Space ſufficient for them, and alſo for Noah and his Family upon all Occaſions to come in and cleanſe them.

15. As for Birds the accurate and judicious (a) Biſhop Wilkins hath divided them into nine Sorts, and reckons them up to be 195 in the Whole, thus:

1. Carnivorous Birds	66
2. Phytivorous Birds of ſhort Wings	17
3. Phytivorous Birds of long Wings	18
4. Phytivorous Birds of ſhort thick Bills	16
5. Inſectivorous Birds the greater	15
6. Inſectivorous Birds the leſs	12
7. Aquatick Birds near wet Places	17
8. Aquatick Fiſſipedes	16
9. Aquatick Palmipedes	18
Total is	195

Beſide theſe we may ſuppoſe ten ſeveral other Species of large and eſpecially foreign Birds, for which five Rooms may be allow'd. Of the Birds reckon'd by the aforeſaid Author there are 66, which he calls carnivorous, and therefore they may all be reputed as unclean; ſo that two of each Sort may be ſufficient to be kept in the Ark. And many of theſe being large, I ſhall only ſuppoſe twelve in a Room; tho' we may reaſonably allow more. The Remainder being 129 I will enlarge to 150, and ſuppoſe them to be all clean, and that ſeven more were preſerv'd of each Sort, ſo that there were 1050 in all, and if to each Room of near 188 ſquare Feet there are allowed but 132 Birds, moſt of which are ſmall, they will be eaſily contain'd within the Compaſs aforeſaid thus:

Rooms for large Birds	5
Rooms for 132 carnivorous Birds twelve in a Room	11
Rooms for 1050 other Birds, 132 in a Room	8
Total is	24

16. To prove that ſixty of the Rooms will be ſufficient to contain all the Beaſts, we muſt divide them into their ſeveral Kinds as the ſame Author hath done, and allow for every Ox ſeven Feet ſquare or 49 Feet in the whole, and alſo allow for every Sheep five Feet ſquare or 25 Feet in the whole, and the ſame for Wolves and allow every Ox to be ſeven hundred Pound Weight, and every Sheep or Wolf to be an hundred. This is the utmoſt Room and Weight, which can well be demanded, and in ſuch a Caſe there will be Room enough to cleanſe, feed and litter them, as Occaſion ſhall require; and both the Space which theſe Beaſts will take up may be gueſs'd at by the following Computation.

17. According to theſe Computations the Beaſts which feed on Hay will make up 5462 Feet. The Beaſts, which feed on Fruits, Roots and Inſects will make up 525 Feet, and the carnivorous Animals will take up 675 Feet, which is in the whole 6692, which being divided by 288, the Number of Feet in each Room ſhews that they would all be contain'd in about 23 Rooms, tho' 25 are allotted for ſuch a Purpoſe.

18. As for the Beaſts, which are allotted for the carnivorous Animals for a whole Year, it is plain that they are computed at 27 Wolves, and therefore let us ſuppoſe them at 30, and allow one Sheep to ſix Wolves every Day, in ſuch a Caſe the Number to be kill'd will be five in a Day, or 1825 in the whole, which would be ſufficient for them and the carnivorous Birds alſo, and being multiply'd by 25, or the Feet allotted to each of them, makes 27375 the Number of Feet in the whole, and divided as before by 288 ſhews, that they will all be contain'd in 95 Rooms, which was the Number allotted for ſuch a Purpoſe.

19. The next thing to be conſider'd is, That there was Room in the Ark to contain Food ſufficient for all theſe Animals. For this Purpoſe I place the Hay in the upper Story under the Roof, and a Quantity of Litter, which would take up as much Room as the ſame Quantity of Hay. Let us then to each Ox allow the Weight of forty Pound of Hay in each Day, and ſuppoſe, that as much was ſpent as 93 Oxen could eat; in ſuch a Caſe they would eat 3720 Pound in a Day, and in 365 Days or a Year they would eat 1357800 Pound, or 679 Tun, and conſequently there muſt be Room enough in the third Story to contain 1358 Tun of Hay and Litter. To this muſt be added (m) the Hay for 1825 Sheep for a Year, leſſening their Number 5 in a Day, which will be equivalent to 333975 in the whole, which divided by ſeven, leaves an equal Quantity of Hay to what 47701 Oxen would eat in a Day, which at the Rate of 40 Pound a Day is 1908040

(m) As 365 is an odd Number; ſo there is an eaſier Way to find out the Number here mention'd, than by ſo tedious an Addition, thus. Take the next greateſt Number to 365 or 366, and divide it into half, the Quotient is 183, by which multiply 365, and the Total is 66795, the progreſſive Number of 1 to 365 incluſively by the Addition of the whole Numbers together, which multiply'd by 5, the Total is 333975, or the Number before mention'd.

Pound,

Pound, or 754 Tuns more, and allowing an equal Quantity of Litter, makes the Space of 1508 Tuns, which added to the former Sum of 1358 makes 2866 Tuns in the whole, which could well be contain'd in the upper Story. Now it hath been obſerv'd by Buteo on this Occaſion, that a Cubit ſquare of well-preſs'd Hay, as in a Mow, will contain 40 Pound Weight, when the Cubit was computed at 18 Inches. But the real Cubit being 21.888 Inches, the Proportion of the other to this is as 1 to 1.798, and therefore ſuch a Cubit will contain 71 Pound. So that the whole will take up a Space of 80450 Cubits, which may eaſily be contain'd in a Roof of a little more than eight Cubits high, tho' ten may well be allowed, and then the upper Part thereof will be eleven Cubits high from the Floor of the upper Story.

20. As for the Beaſts, which feed on Fruit, Roots and Inſects, they are reckon'd to be equal to one and twenty Sheep, or three Oxen, and conſequently allowing to them an hundred and fifty Pound Weight every Day, the Weight would be 54750 in all. Let us therefore ſuppoſe the Weight of the Birds to be as follows:

66 Couple of Carnivorous Birds at 5 l. weight each	660
1050 of other Birds at 5 l. weight each	5250
Total is	7910

The Weight of the Birds, which feed on Herbs and Roots may be ſuppos'd at about 7000 Pound, and that they ſhould eat their own Weight in ten Days or 700 Pound every Day; and allowing ſix Pound every Day to each Perſon in Noah's Family or 48 Pound in the Whole, allowing alſo a tenth Part of their Provender in Corn to the Beaſts, which feed on Hay, or 144 Tun, or 789 Pound every Day, the Total will be 1687 Pound every Day; or allowing 2000 Pound Weight every Day, the Total, which will be ſpent in a Year, will be about 365 Tun, which may much more conveniently be plac'd in the lower Story than the Hay and Straw would be plac'd in the upper.

21. Here then we may obſerve the conſtant Employment of Noah and his Family, which was to throw down about eight Tun of Hay and Litter every Day in the Racks and Stalls; to cleanſe the Stalls by throwing down the Filth upon the Deck of the lower Story through Holes contriv'd for that Purpoſe, which might be an equal Labour with the other; to bring up about a Tun of Grain out of the lower Story every Day by the Help of a Pully, and give it to the reſpective Animals; to give five Sheep every Day to the carnivorous Animals; and to draw up about eight Tun of Water by a Pully; and to empty it into Channels by which theſe Animals might be water'd, which as it was a ſufficient Task for them all, ſo if the Ark was contriv'd in ſuch a convenient Manner, it was no more than what they could well perform.

22. It may be ask'd, What Neceſſity there was of ſo large a Space in the lower Story, ſince the Quantity of Proviſions allotted for it might be contain'd in a much leſs? But to this it may be anſwer'd, That there was a Neceſſity of a large Quantity of Air below the Water to raiſe the Ark ſo much the higher, as might Ballance the Weight in the ſecond and third Stories, or otherwiſe that Weight would have ſunk the Ark ſo low under Water, that it muſt have drown'd all the Animals which were there preſerv'd.

23. But here it may be alſo ask'd, Whether the Ark could ſwim with ſo great a Burden as all the Animals mention'd, and the Food for them all? And to this it may be anſwer'd, that all which is mention'd could not draw two Cubits of Water; ſo that if the empty Ark could ſwim in twelve Cubits, it could ſwim, when thus loaded, in fourteen Cubits Depth. For a Proof of this (m) if the Length of the Ark three hundred Cubits or 6566.400 Inches, is multiply'd by the Breadth fifty Cubits, or 1094.400 Inches, the Total is 7186268.160 cubical Inches, which multiply'd by 21.888 the Inches in a Cubit, makes 157293037.486 Square Inches in a Cubit Depth of the Ark; which being alſo divided by 27.792 the Inches of Water contain'd in a Pint or Pound, leaves 5659651 for the Number of Pounds, which will depreſs the Ark a Cubit in the Water. The additional Weight in the Ark may be computed as followeth:

Weight of Beaſts feeding on Hay	64600
Weight of Beaſts feeding on Roots	2100
Weight of Carnivorous Beaſts	2700
Weight of 8 Men and Women	1440
Weight of Earth and Stone for Subterraneous Animals	20000
	90840
Food for carnivorous Animals	182500
Hay and Litter in the upper Story	5732000
Food for other Beaſts, Birds and Men	730000
Total for a whole Year	6644500
Total of both	6735340

And as ſuch a Quantity of Proviſion might ſerve for a Year; ſo 2730616 Pounds might be ſpent in 150 Days, which being ſubſtracted from the other, may leave the additional Weight of 4004724, or about $\frac{5}{7}$ Part of a Cubit.

24. Thus the Bulk of the Ark when it reſted on the Mountain of Ararat, might draw $12\frac{5}{7}$ Cubits of Water, and conſequently if (n) the Feet, upon which it is ſuppoſed to ſtand (not only that the Water might more eaſily bear the Ark up, but alſo to prevent the lower Part from Rotting, and to make Room for Noah or others to plaiſter it with Bitumen for its better Security) might be $2\frac{5}{7}$ Cubits long, they might be 15 Cubits deep in the Water, and conſequently land on the Mountain of Ararat in the ſame Manner as Moſes mentions. And therefore there is no Occaſion to object againſt the Faſhion of the Ark, ſince ſuch a Draught may be giv'n in this Manner, as will ſufficiently vindicate all that is writt'n thereof in the holy Scriptures.

25. In this Enumeration (to uſe the Words of (o) a reverend Prelate, to whoſe ingenious Obſervations we chiefly owe this Diſcovery) there is no mention made of the Mule, becauſe it is a Mungrel Production, and not to be reckon'd as a diſtinct Species. And tho' it be moſt probable, that the ſeveral Variety of Beeves, namely thoſe which are ſtil'd Urus, Biſons, Bonaſus and Buffalo, and thoſe other Varieties reckon'd up under Sheep and Goats, be not diſtinct Species from Sheep and Goat, there being much leſs Difference betwixt theſe, than there is betwixt ſeveral Dogs: And it being known by Experience, what various Changes are frequently occaſion'd in the ſame Species by ſeveral Countries, Diets and other Accidents; yet to prevent all Cavilling, they are allow'd to be diſtinct Species, and each of them to be clean Beaſts, and conſequently ſuch as were to be receiv'd in by ſevens. As for the Morſe, Seal, Turtle or Sea-Tortoiſe, Crocodile and Senembi, theſe are uſually deſcrib'd to be ſuch Kind of Animals, as can abide in the Water; and therefore they are not taken into the Ark; tho' if that were neceſſary, there would be Room enough for them. The Serpentine-kind, Snake, Viper, Slow-worm, Lizard, Frog and Toad, might have ſufficient Space for their Reception, and for their Nouriſhment in the Dreins or Sinks of the Ark, which were under the Floor for the Standings of the Beaſts. As for thoſe leſſer Beaſts, as Rat, Mouſe, Mole, and alſo as for the ſeveral Species of Inſects, there can be no Reaſon to Queſtion, but that theſe may find ſufficient Room in ſeveral Parts of the Ark, without having any particular Stalls appointed for them.

26. And tho' it may ſeem moſt probable, That before the Flood both Men, Beaſts and Birds did feed only upon Vegetables, as may appear from (p) the Words of GOD, where he ſaid, Behold, I have given you every herb bearing ſeed, which is upon the the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding ſeed, to you it ſhall be for meat. And to every beaſt of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, I have given every green herb for meat: And that after the Flood, when the Productions of the Earth were become of leſs Efficacy and Vigour, and leſs fit for Nouriſhment, their Liberty was enlarg'd by theſe Words of GOD to Noah, Every moving thing that liveth ſhall be meat for you, even as the green herb I have given you all things: Yet becauſe this Proof is not ſo very cogent to convince a captious Adverſary, but he may be ſtill apt to queſtion, Whether the rapacious Kinds of Beaſts and Birds, who in the natural Frame of their Parts, are peculiarly fitted for the catching and devouring of their Prey, did ever feed on Herbs and Fruits; therefore to prevent ſuch Cavils, the Animals, which are now carnivorous, are ſuppos'd to be ſo from the Beginning, and accordingly a ſufficient Space is allow'd not only for them, but alſo for their Food.

27. So that upon the whole Matter it appears the more difficult Task of the two to aſſign a ſufficient Number and Bulk of neceſſary Things, to anſwer the Capacity of the Ark, rather than to find out ſufficient Room for thoſe ſeveral Species of Animals already known. Perhaps it might be made ſo large, that it might be the longer in Building, and give the old World a larger Time for their Repentance, or leave them wholly without Excuſe, when they were deſtroy'd. But beſide this, it may be preſum'd, that there are ſeveral other Kinds of Beaſts and Birds, eſpecially in the undiſcover'd Parts of the World, beſide thoſe which have been here reckon'd up, and therefore it is but reaſonable to ſuppoſe the Ark to be of a bigger Capacity, than what may be ſufficient for the Things already known; and it was alſo neceſſary to preſerve the Grain, and other Things laid up for Food, ſweet and good for ſo long a Time, that it ſhould not lye in too great Quantities upon each other, eſpecially in ſo moiſt an Air, as muſt then be ſuppos'd to be. And therefore it may be aſſerted, that if ſuch Perſons, who are moſt expert in Philoſophy or Mathematicks, were now to aſſign the Proportions of a Veſſel, that might be ſuitable to the Ends, which are here propos'd, they could not (all things conſider'd) find out any Dimenſions more accommodated for thoſe Purpoſes, than thoſe which are mention'd by Moſes in the Book of Geneſis.

18. Thus have I prov'd, That the Ark was of a ſufficient Capacity to contain all the living Creatures, and Food for them all. To meaſure the Weight of the empty Ark, and and the Quantity of Water, which it drew, when it began to ſwim, will afford us another Curioſity, which may gueſs'd at in this Manner.

29. When our Country-man the ingenious and learned Mr. Greaves travell'd into Rome, Greece, Paleſtina and Egypt, that he might be capable of diſcovering the ancient Weights, Mony and Meaſures both of Lengths, Solids, and Liquids us'd in thoſe Parts, he meaſur'd the Pyramids in Egypt, and accordingly comparing the Account, which Herodotus, Strabo and others give of their Bigneſs, he found (a) the Length of a Cubit to be 21. 888 Inches (which is accordingly agreed to by (b) other eminent Writers) and therefore tho' a Cubit was formerly reckon'd to be but 18 Inches, and conſequently the Cube thereof to be but 5832 cubical Inches; yet the Cube of a Cubit, as it is now plainly known from this Experiment, is 10267 Inches, and therefore the Capacity and Weight of Noah's Ark appears to be almoſt double of what it was once thought to be. Now according to the former Account of the Dimenſions of the Ark it was ſuppos'd when empty to draw 12 Cubits of Water, and being as heavy as the Quantity of Water, which it drew, its Weight muſt be thus computed. As (c) 27. 792 Inches of Water contain a Pint or a Pound; ſo by dividing 10267 Inches, which are contain'd in the Cube of a Cubit, it appears, that ſuch a Cube will contain 369. 415 Pounds. And therefore ſince it appears, that the Weight of the Ark might be equal to 180000 Cubits of Water; ſo if this Sum is multiply'd by 369. 415, the Total will be about 66494700 Pounds in the whole. And as Noah was (d) an hundred and twenty Years in Preparing the Ark, in which there were 37569 Days of Labour, the Sabbaths excepted; ſo by dividing the Sum of 66494700 by 37569, it appears that Noah and his Family might add to the Weight of the Ark about 1770 Pound Weight in Timber and other Materials every Day; which, if it was made of ſquare Beams (as St. Chryſoſtome and others mention) and in a ſquare Figure (as the Scriptures plainly intimate) might have been practicable, it being not above the Weight of a Piece of Timber of a Cubit Square, and five Cubits in Length. But if it had been made of Boards, or in the Form of a Ship, ſo that the Timber muſt have been bent to fit it for ſuch an Uſe, it muſt have been a more difficult Task.

(q) Greaves of the Roman Foot, page 40. The Engliſh Foot is 1034. 13, and the Derah or Cubit at Cairo in Egypt is 1886. 25. And therefore as 1034. 13 is to 1886. 25; ſo is 12 Inches or an Engliſh Foot, to 21. 888 Inches, or an Egyptian Cubit. (r) Arburthnet on Weights and Meaſures, Tab. 4, and Biſhop Cumberland of Scripture Weights and Meaſures, page 34, 40 and 43. (s) Cumberland, page 63. An Apothecary's Pound, being a Pint of Wine Meaſure, is by the Statute of this Kingdom $27\frac{7}{8}$ Cubical Inches. And among us it is agreed, that our Wine Gallon moſt frequently us'd contains 231 ſolid or cubical Inches of our ſtandard Meaſure. And again, page 69, Rain Water being lighter than our Fountain Water, and of a more conſtant Equality in its Weight than Spring Waters are (which differ a little in Weight from each other) takes up a little more Room than ſo many Ounces of our Water will do: So that tho' we reckon 1720 cubick Inches to 1000 Ounces of our Fountain Water; yet we may well allow 1747 ſuch Inches to 1000 Ounces of lighter Rain Water. And as Part of the Waters of the Flood was occaſion'd by Springs, and Part by Rain; ſo I ſhall take the Middle between both, and ſuppoſe, that about 1737 Inches might contain about 1000 Ounces; and therefore 16 Ounces or a Pound contains 27. 792 Inches. (t) 1 Pet. 3. 20. and Gen. 6. 3.

CHAP. XIII.

OBSERVATIONS upon the Whole.

HAVING now by the Bleſſing of GOD, giv'n an Account of the the moſt remarkable Occurrences between the Creation of the World and the Flood, as they are contain'd in the ſix firſt Chapters of Geneſis; I ſhall in this Chapter and in the laſt Chapter of every Book, endeavour to obſerve this Method.

Firſt, I ſhall mention ſuch Obſervations, which may illuſtrate or confirm any Cuſtom, which is us'd in the Church of England.

Secondly, I ſhall mention ſuch Texts of Scripture, which ſpeak of the Trinity.

Thirdly, I ſhall mention ſuch Texts, which are alledg'd as Propheſies of ſome things to come, particularly of CHRIST JESUS, and ſuch Perſons or Things, as are ſuppos'd to be Types of him, and ſhew how they have been fulfill'd.

Fourthly, I ſhall make ſuch Obſervations, as may be of Uſe to vindicate the Authority of the Sacred Scriptures.

Fifthly, I ſhall give the Reaſons of the ſeveral Diſlocations, which are to be found either in the hiſtorical or prophetical Part of Scripture.

And laſtly, I ſhall propoſe a Chronological Method for the reading of the ſacred Scriptures of the old Teſtament from the Beginning to the End.

Firſt, As to ſuch Obſervations, which may illuſtrate or confirm any Cuſtom, which is us'd in the Church of England. And here at the firſt Opening of the Hebrew Bible, we find not only a Diſtinction of Books and Chapters, but alſo the five Books of Moſes are diſtinguiſh'd into ſeveral large Sections, and three Hebrew Letters which we call Pe, plac'd at the Beginning of each, in this Manner, פ פ פ being the firſt Letter of (a) the Hebrew Word

(a) Buxtorfius de Abbreviaturis Hebraicis in literâ פ pag. 138.

פרשה Paraſhah, which ſignifies, A Diſtinction or Section, and to make it more remarkable, each of theſe Diviſions are call'd by ſome remarkable Word in the Beginning of each Section. Thus the firſt (b) Section is call'd בראשית, or, In the beginning: The (c) Second is call'd נח or Noah; and the (d) Third is call'd לך לך, or, Get thee out, &c. The five Books of Moſes were thus divided into ſo many Sections, that by reading one of them every Week, the whole was read over publickly to the Jews once every Year. And thus it is ſaid (e) that Moſes had of old time in every city thoſe, who preached, or read him publickly to the People, becauſe this was their conſtant Practice in their ſynagogues every ſabbath day. Agreeable to this is the Uſage of our Church, in which the old Teſtament is appointed to be read over once every Year, the New three Times, and the Pſalms once every Month. But when Antiochus Epiphanes, who was the cruelleſt Enemy, that the People and Religion of the Jews ever had, had not only (f) profan'd the Temple, and made the daily Sacrifice and Oblation to ceaſe, but alſo (g) burnt with Fire all the Books of the Law, which they could find, and put to Death thoſe, with whom any ſuch Things were found; then there could be no publick Reading of the Law, and therefore ſome Perſons appointed ſuch Sections out of the Prophets, which they thought to be parallel to them to be read on every Sabbath Day in their Stead; and when this Perſecution ceas'd, ſo that the Reading of the Law was reſtor'd, the Reading of both continu'd every Sabbath Day, not only until the whole Jewiſh Polity was diſſolv'd, but even during their Diſperſion into other Countries; and from hence came the Cuſtom of Reading ſuch Portions of Scripture which we call Epiſtles and Goſpels on every LORD's Day. Now theſe Leſſons of the Law and the Prophets began their (h) Round one Sabbath before the Courſes of the Prieſts, upon the Feaſt of Tabernacles, when all the Prieſts were preſent and ſerv'd, and thus by the next Feaſt of Tabernacles, or the next Year, all the Law was read over, whether the Year was a common or an Embolimæan Year. For if it was a common Year, the Sections in the latter End of Deuteronomy were made fewer and longer, but if it was an Embolimæan Year, then they were broke into more, according to the Sabbaths of that Year, that at the Feaſt of Tabernacles, Deuteronomy might be finiſh'd, and Geneſis might be begun again. I ſhall here annex the Sections out of the Law and the Prophets, according as they are appointed by the Jewiſh Rubrick, and if the Reader ſhall think fit to obſerve the Harmony, between the two Portions, which were read at one and the ſame Time, he will find, that the Choice of the Sections out of the Prophets was of more than ordinary and common Diſcretion.

2. At the Beginning of every Day's Work of the Creation in the firſt Chapter of Geneſis there is alſo in the Hebrew Bible prefix'd the Hebrew Letter ה, which plainly divides this Chapter into ſix Sections, and the Reaſon is, becauſe in their Feaſt at the Beginning of the Year, they read theſe ſix Sections on the ſix Days of the reſpective Week, and on the Sabbath Day following they concluded the ſame by reading the three firſt Verſes of the ſecond Chapter. And as the Jews, celebrating their Sabbath to commemorate the Creation of the World, had particular Portions of Scripture to be read every Day in the Week, before that Sabbath in which GOD reſted from his Works; ſo we celebrating the Chriſtian Sabbath in Commemoration of our Redemption by CHRIST JESUS do not only celebrate in a more particular Manner, that great Day in which he roſe from the Dead, and ſo compleated that bleſſed Work; but we have Epiſtles and Goſpels for every Day of the preceding Week, in which we commemorate thoſe Sorrows and Sufferings, that happen'd to him in the Week before. The Jews in their Liturgy had (i) a Pſalm for the Sabbath Day, and we have (k) a Pſalm to be us'd every Morning in which we have Divine Service. They had particular Pſalms for (l) each Day of the Feaſt of Tabernacles, and for other Occaſions. Their (m) Hallel was us'd at the Paſſover, and ſeveral other (n) Pſalms were ſung in their ſolemn Proceſſions, when they went to the Temple at the Gate of Nicanor; and thus we have Pſalms for particular Days ſelected for that Purpoſe. The Jewiſh Liturgy had a grateful Variety conſiſting ſometimes of Confeſſion, ſometimes of Petition, and ſometimes of Praiſe, ſometimes of Portions out of the Pſalms, ſometimes out of the Law, and ſometimes out of the Prophets, ſometimes of ſhort Ejaculations with Reſponſes, and ſometimes of longer and ſeveral Prayers, at the End of which the whole Congregation did ſay Amen: Thus the Service conſiſted of a grateful Variety to make it more eaſy and delightful; and ſo it is with us. They frequently pray'd, that the Meſſiah might come; and we daily return Thanks, becauſe he is come. They had ſeveral Types and Sacrifices to foreſhew his Coming, which were inſtituted by Moſes; we lay theſe aſide, becauſe they were aboliſh'd by CHRIST, and uſe the ſame, and no other than what he hath inſtituted. They offer'd up Bullocks, Lambs, and Goats; and we offer up to GOD (o) the Calves of our Lips, even the (p) Sacrifices of Praiſe and Thankſgiving. They had three ſolemn Feaſts; and ſo have we. The Prieſts went daily to offer at the Altar of Incenſe, but the high Prieſt alone went only (q) once a Year into the Holy of Holies; but ſince (r) by the Death of CHRIST the Vail of the Temple, which made the Diſtinction, was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; therefore we not only perform Divine Service every Day in the Reading Desk, but alſo every Sunday, and as often as there are Epiſtles and Goſpels read, the Miniſter goes to the Chancel or Communion Table for that Purpoſe. Thus under the Law (s) The HOLY GHOST ſignified this, that the way into the holieſt of all was not as yet made manifeſt, while as the firſt tabernacle was yet ſtanding, which was a figure for the time then preſent. But now under the Goſpel, we ſhew, that (t) we have boldneſs to enter into the holieſt by the blood of JESUS, by a new and living way, which he hath conſecrated for us, through the vail, that is to ſay his fleſh; And that we have ſuch a high prieſt over the houſe of GOD, that we may draw near with a true heart and in full aſſurance of faith. Thus the old Law directed the Jews to look unto CHRIST, and our Service may direct Chriſtians to look unto the fulfilling thereof by him. Tho' we retain nothing typical; yet we retain ſeveral things us'd among them, which contribute to Decency and Order, and eſpecially to Devotion, and whereby we may teſtify, that the Church of CHRIST conſiſting both of Jews and Gentiles is but one, and may prevail upon the Jews to come over to us, when the Time ſhall happen, which GOD hath appointed for their Converſion. The Prophet Jeremiah gives us (u) this Direction. Thus ſaith the LORD, Stand ye in the ways, and ſee, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye ſhall find reſt for your ſouls. This juſtifies us, in making no greater Separation, than what was abſolutely neceſſary, either from the Jews or from the Church of Rome, and may both invite and juſtify them, whenever they come over to us, at the Time of their Converſion. And as our SAVIOUR himſelf and his Apoſtles frequented the Temple, at the Time when the Jewiſh Liturgy was perform'd; ſo their very Example will juſtify us, who frequent the Liturgy of the Church of England, a Service the moſt pure and Apoſtolical of any in the World.

3. And as the Letters added by the Jews to the Beginning of the Hebrew Bible may ſuggeſt to us ſuch Thoughts, as will vindicate our Service; ſo the firſt Verſe in the Hebrew Text may furniſh us with Matter to vindicate our Doctrine of the Trinity. (x) In the beginning GOD created the heaven and the earth. Here the Word GOD is us'd in the plural Number, and Chriſtians generally make uſe of it as an Argument to prove ſome Plurality in the Deity, or what we call a Plurality of Perſons, and the Verb is in the ſingular Number to ſhew an Unity of Eſſence, and if there is any Force in this Argument, there are (y) ſeveral hundred Inſtances to be found of this Nature in the old Teſtament, even as often as the Word GOD comes before a Verb in our Engliſh Tranſlation. Thus (z) the LORD GOD formed man, and The LORD GOD planted a Garden; where the Word LORD is in the ſingular Number, and the Word GOD is in the Plural for the ſame Reaſon, and ſome Hundred of Inſtances may be alſo mention'd of this Nature, even as often as theſe two Words are found together in our Engliſh Bible. However, laying aſide theſe Critical Obſervations, the divine Trinity may be thus

prov'd from hence. The Work of Creation is attributed to GOD, and to GOD only. It is hard to conceive, how the Creator of any thing ſhould be a Creature; and the Apoſtle tells us, (a) that as certain, as every houſe is built by ſome man; ſo certain it is, that he who built all things muſt be GOD. Now the Work of Creation is attributed in Scripture to CHRIST JESUS, the WORD or SON of GOD, and alſo to the HOLY GHOST. Thus (b) The SPIRIT of GOD is ſaid to move upon the face of the waters. Or, The HOLY GHOST caus'd the ſame Effect in this rude and indigeſted Chaos, as a Hen doth, when ſhe ſits upon her Eggs; for ſo the Word literally ſignifies. This Spirit of GOD did not only ſeparate thoſe Parts, which were thus mix'd together, but alſo gave a vivifick Virtue to them, to produce what was contain'd in them. Thus Moſes deſcribeth the Eagle, that (c) ſhe firſt makes her Neſt, then ſhe hatcheth her young ones (where this Word is us'd) then ſhe covers them with her Wings, and after that ſhe teacheth them to fly. The Pſalmiſt ſaith, (d) that by the WORD of the LORD, or the ſecond Perſon in the Trinity were the heavens made, and all the hoſt of them by the breath or SPIRIT of his mouth, or the third Perſon, which proceedeth from him. And Job tells us, (†) that By his SPIRIT he hath garniſhed the heavens. The Pſalmiſt ſaith (e) Of old thou haſt laid the foundations of the earth, and the heavens are the works of thy hands. They ſhall periſh, but thou ſhalt endure; yea, all of them ſhall wax old as a garment, and as a veſture ſhalt thou change them, and they ſhalt be changed; But thou art the ſame, and thy years ſhall have no end. This the Apoſtle (f) applies to CHRIST JESUS, the SON of GOD, and calls him LORD at the ſame Time, and teſtifies of him (g) that he was the brightneſs of his FATHER*'s glory, and the expreſs image of his perſon, and* that he upheld all things by the word of his power, and was the Perſon, by whom GOD the FATHER made the worlds. And (h) in another Place. He is the image of the inviſible GOD, the (i) firſt Bringer forth or Producer, or Creator of every Creature. For by him were all things created that are in heaven, and that are in the earth, viſible and inviſible, whether they be thrones or dominions or principalities or powers; all things were created by him and for him. And he is before all things, and by him all things conſiſt. And St. John alſo (k) teſtifies of him, that In the beginning was the WORD, and the WORD was with GOD, and the WORD was GOD. The ſame was in the beginning with GOD. All things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made, that was made. An ancient Jewiſh Commentator on theſe Words, The Spirit of GOD moved upon the face of the waters, ſaith expreſly (l) This is the Spirit of the MESSIAS. Thus In the beginning GOD the FATHER made all things by his eternal ΛΟΓΟΣ or WORD, (the ſame with the Νοῦς of the ancient Philoſophers) whoſe almighty SPIRIT agitated the vaſt confus'd Maſs of Matter, and put it into Form. A (m) Jewiſh Expoſition on the Pſalms allows, that theſe three Words El, Elohim, and Jehovah are three ſeveral Names of GOD. For there this Queſtion is ask'd, Why doth he mention the Name of the bleſſed GOD three Times? And the Anſwer is return'd thus, It is to teach thee, that the bleſſed GOD created this World by theſe three Names, which anſwer to the three Middoth (or Properties) by which the World was created; and they are theſe, Wiſdom, Knowledge and Underſtanding. Wiſdom, as it is ſaid, (n) The LORD by Wiſdom hath founded the earth. Underſtanding, as it is ſaid, By underſtanding he hath eſtabliſh'd the heavens. Knowledge, as it is ſaid, By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew. And thus it is ſaid, (o) I the LORD thy GOD (Jehovah, El, Elohim, are the Words there us'd) am a jealous GOD. Three anſwering to the three, by which the world was made. And thus the Children of Gad and the Children of Reuben ſay (p) El, Elohim, Jehovah; El, Elohim, Jehovah he knoweth. And why are theſe three mention'd twice? Becauſe by theſe three the world was made, and becauſe by theſe three the Law was given. So that tho' the modern Jews out of their Averſion to Chriſtianity do explode the Doctrine of the Trinity with the utmoſt Violence; yet their Anceſtors, who were the beſt Judges of this Doctrine, (q) were of a different Opinion. And (r) tho' the Jews do on this Occaſion induſtriouſly avoid the Word Perſon; yet they call them (s) three Properties, or (t) Eſſences, or (u) Inward or Eſſential Modes or Forms, by which they can mean no other than we do.

4. When

4. When GOD determin'd to create our first Parents, he said, (x) Let us make man in our image, and after our likeness. Here we find the same Word which was us'd in the Beginning of the Bible, where it is said, that GOD created the heaven and the earth. The Grammatical Sense, which (a) ought not to be receded from without Reason, implies many, as appears from like (b) Expressions in the same Book; and in this Sense is the Text understood by the Jewish Doctors, who were best acquainted with the Nature of their own Tongue, and knew that it would not admit of any other Sense, except that which was literal. An (c) eminent Jew mentions one of their Doctors, who in (d) another Book says, That when Moses by GOD's Direction was about to write these Words, Let us make man, he cried out, O LORD of the World, why wilt thou give Men occasion to err about thy most simple Unity? To which he receiv'd this Answer, Write as I bid thee, and if any Man love to err let him err. Which shews, that their Doctors have been long puzzl'd with these Words, because they unavoidably suggested to their Thoughts more than one Person in the Deity, and that they could not return a satisfactory Answer to them. Philo the Jew acknowledges more than once, (e) That the Words, Let us make do plainly shew a Plurality as of Co-workers or Co-assistants, and the Jewish (f) Commentators, and other (g) of their learned and ancient Doctors do testify the same. So that if we can find the Persons in whose Image Man was made, we may also find the Persons concern'd in the Creation of him. First, Man was created in the Image of GOD the Father, Thus the Psalmist saith to him (h) As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness. Secondly, Man was created in the Image of GOD the SON. And thus St John saith of him, (i) We know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him, for we shall see him, as he is. And Thirdly, Man was created in the Image of GOD the HOLY GHOST. And thus St. Paul saith, (k) We all with open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the LORD (that is of (l) the LORD the SPIRIT) are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the SPIRIT of the LORD. And therefore as we bear the Image of the FATHER, the SON and the HOLY GHOST; so these are the Persons spok'n of when GOD said, Let us make man in our own image, and after our likeness. Accordingly the (m) ancient Christians look'd upon this as a plain Intimation of a Plurality of Persons in the Godhead. Epiphanius saith, (n) This is the Language of GOD to his WORD and only begotten, as all the faithful do believe. Besides, it is certain that GOD the SON was concern'd in the Creation of Man, because St. John saith, (*) All things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made that was made. And Elihu testifies the same of the HOLY GHOST in these Words, (†) The SPIRIT of GOD hath made me, and the breath of the almighty hath given me life. And thus (o) Adam was form'd by the Hand of the FATHER, and of the SON and of the HOLY GHOST. It may be farther observ'd, that tho' GOD said, Let us make man in our own image, and after our own likeness; yet it immediately follows, so GOD created man after his own image. He was created after the Image of the three Persons as of many; and yet he was created after the Image but of one GOD; because they are all but one Substance.

5. And as both Jews and Christians acknowledge a Plurality in the divine Essence from these Words, Let us make man; so they acknowledge the same from the other Words, Behold the man is become as one of us. These Words, One of us (as (p) Philo saith) are not said of one, but of many. And Justin Martyr saith, (q) One of us, signifies Plurality, at least two, and is not figurative, as the Sophists would expound it, who can neither speak nor conceive truth. As the former Text gave to each Person an Equality of Power; so this Text gives them such an Equality of Knowledge, that we may easily perceive who they are that are meant thereby. First, It is said of GOD the FATHER, that (r) the LORD is a GOD of knowledge, where the Word is in the plural Number, and implies Knowledge of all Sorts and in the utmost Perfection. Secondly, The SON of GOD speaking of these Truths, which were necessary to be reveal'd, declares himself capable to reveal them all by this Expression, (s) All things, that the FATHER hath, are mine. And speaking of the HOLY GHOST he adds, (t) Howbeit when the Spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth, for he shall not speak of himself, but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak, and he will shew you things to come. He shall glorify me, for he shall receive of mine, and shew it unto you. The FATHER communicates his whole Knowledge and Essence to the SON, and the FATHER and the SON communicate the ſame to the HOLY GHOST in the ſame Manner. And therefore (u) GOD is ſaid to reveal the hidd'n Myſteries to us by his SPIRIT, for the SPIRIT ſearcheth all things, yea, the deep things of GOD, and the SPIRIT of GOD knows the things of GOD in the ſame Manner as the ſpirit of a man, which is within him, knows the things of a man. So that when GOD ſaid, Behold the man is become like one of Us, to know good and evil; by the Word Us muſt be meant each of theſe three Perſons, and can be meant no other.

6. I ſhall therefore conclude the Obſervations on this Head with the Words of (x) an eminent Divine of our own Church. It may be worth while to reflect on the Words, which the Serpent ſpoke to deceive our firſt Parents. GOD doth know (ſaith he) that (y) in the day you eat thereof, then your eyes ſhall be open'd and ye ſhall be as gods (or rather, as GOD, the one GOD) knowing good and evil: For the Word Elohim is ſo us'd from the Beginning of Geneſis to this very Place for the one GOD, and the Deſign of the Tempter was to make them believe, that by taſting of the Fruit, which GOD had forbidden, they might come to the Knowledge and Wiſdom of GOD, even of the ſame GOD, who gave them the Precept. When therefore GOD ſaith, The man is become as one of us, the Meaning is this, He is become as GOD; for he hints at the Promiſe that the Serpent had made, which was a Likeneſs to GOD and not to Angels. But one of us is an indefinite Term, and equally applicable to each of the Perſons meant and comprehended in the Pronoun us. It will therefore follow, that each of the Perſons is alike comprehended in the Name GOD, and conſequently one with the true GOD.

7. And now it is eaſy to obſerve, that the ancient Jewiſh Paraphraſts did agree with the Chriſtians in theſe great Articles of our Faith, and with what is ſpoken of them in other Places of Scripture. As for the Actions of the Deity, which are recorded before the Flood, ſometimes they aſcribe them to the LORD, and ſometimes to the WORD of the LORD without the leaſt Diſtinction, or as if they were both the ſame. We are told in the Scripture, that (z) In the beginning GOD created the heaven and the earth. The Jeruſalem Targum expreſſeth it thus, GOD created the heaven and the earth in (or by) Wiſdom, which among the Jews, was one of the three Properties, anſwering to the three Names of GOD, by which the World was created. If (a) St. John and (b) St. Paul call our Bleſſed SAVIOUR The WORD, they only borrow this Expreſſion from the common Uſe of the Jews before their Time. And if they attribute to the WORD ſuch Actions as can only agree to a living, a rational, and an almighty Being, they may be juſtified from the Language of their own Nation. They tell us, that (c) the WORD of the LORD created Man in his own Likeneſs: in a Likeneſs from the Preſence of the LORD created he him. That (d) a Garden was planted from Eden by the WORD of the LORD for the Juſt before the Creation of the World. That Adam (f) and his Wife heard the Voice of the WORD of the LORD GOD walking in in the Garden in the Cool of the Day, and they hid themſelves from the Preſence of the LORD GOD among the Trees of the Garden, and Adam made this Excuſe, I heard the Voice of thy WORD in the Garden, and I was afraid. That (f) when Enoſh was born, it was the Age, in which Men began to err, and made themſelves Idols, and call'd their Idols by the Name of the WORD of the LORD. That (g) the LORD bleſſed Man in the Name of his WORD. That (h) Enoch was withdrawn from the Earth into Heaven by the WORD, which was before the Preſence of the LORD. That (i) The WORD of the LORD ſaid, or (k) the LORD ſpake by his WORD. (l) The LORD repented in his WORD, or (m) There was repentance from the Preſence of the LORD in his WORD. If St. John calls CHRIST JESUS, (n) the only begotten SON, which is in the boſom of the FATHER, the Jews have no Reaſon to find Fault, ſince (o) their own Targum hath this Expreſſion. And the WORD of the LORD GOD ſaid, Behold Adam, whom I have created, is the only one in the Earth, even as I am the only one in the higheſt Heavens------ Now therefore it is better that we caſt him out from the Garden of Eden ------ ſo he caſt out the Man. And as the SON of GOD is call'd (p) The angel of his preſence, and by the Jews themſelves, The WORD from the Preſence of the LORD; ſo they call the HOLY GHOST, (q) the Spirit of Compaſſion from before the LORD.

8. The only Objection againſt this is, That theſe Expreſſions are not to be underſtood of the Subſtantial Λόγος or Word, but of the Command or Speech of GOD to Man, which is in the Hebrew expreſs'd by דבר, and to which the Chaldee Word מימרא is ſuppos'd to anſwer. But this Objection is of no Weight, becauſe (r) the Objectors bring not one Text throughout the whole Bible to ſupport it. The Objection ſuppoſeth that for Truth, which is directly falſe in Fact, and he who looks on thoſe few Inſtances already mention'd, and the many hundreds which may be added, will eaſily obſerve, that they muſt have an higher Meaning. Beſides, it is certain, that in the Chaldee Language there is another Noun (viz. פתגם or פתגמא) which ſignifies a Word either written or ſpoken, and by which they always tranſlate the Hebrew Word דבר. Elias the Levite, who very well underſtood this Matter, tells us (s) that this is the Chaldee Word into which the Hebrew Word דבר is tranſlated by the Paraphraſts; and as he produceth ſeveral Inſtances to that Purpoſe, ſo he might have produc'd ſome hundreds more. But he makes no mention of the Word מימרא upon that Occaſion, which he would not (in all Probability) have fail'd to have done, if he had been able. There is (t) a remarkable Text to this Purpoſe. I (ſaith Moſes) ſtood between the LORD and you at that Time, to ſhew you the word of the LORD. Onkelos and Jonathan turn the Text thus, I ſtood between the WORD of the LORD and you at that Time, to ſhew you the Word of the LORD. In both theſe Authors there is the ſame Expreſſion. The Word of the LORD occurs twice, but in two different Senſes. In the former Part of the Verſe it is put inſtead of the LORD, and muſt ſignify The eſſential Λόγος, and it is accordingly expreſs'd by מימרא; but in the latter Part of the Verſe it ſignifies a Commandment, or the reveal'd Will of GOD, and it is expreſſed by דבר, which is the Hebrew Word us'd in the Text, and is tranſlated by the Word פתגמא, which is the Chaldee Word, that anſwers to it not only there, but even throughout the old Teſtament. And therefore the Raiſing ſuch an Objection can be only to impoſe upon the ignorant by ſuch, who muſt know, that they, who have the leaſt Skill in theſe Languages, can eaſily confute it.

8. The Texts, which in this Part of the holy Scriptures ſpeak of CHRIST JESUS as the Saviour of the World, are two, and were giv'n to thoſe, who had; and at a Time, when they had the greateſt Need of ſuch a comfortable Promiſe. The firſt was giv'n to our firſt Parents Adam and Eve immediately after the Fall, when they had eat'n the forbidd'n Fruit, and were juſtly liable to the threaten'd Curſe, (t) In the day that thou eateſt thereof, thou ſhalt ſurely die; which Sentence muſt have been executed accordingly, if the Promiſe of a SAVIOUR had not interven'd, and our Parents had not been ſav'd by Laying hold on him through Faith. When therefore GOD had brought them both to (u) a Confeſſion of their Sin, and that the old Serpent or the Devil was the Cauſe thereof, and having curs'd (x) the Serpent, whoſe Shape the Devil aſſum'd, he then proceeds (y) to paſs Sentence upon the Devil himſelf, who was the principal Cauſe of all. I (ſaith GOD) will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy ſeed, and her ſeed. The Devil (z) was a murderer from the beginning of the World; and as long as the World laſts, ſo long (a) doth this adverſary go about as a roaring lion ſeeking whom he may devour; ſometimes (b) tempting us to Sin, and then (c) accuſing us for Sin, and therefore he is juſtly abhorr'd by all Mankind as their greateſt Enemy. And then he tells the Devil, how all his Deſigns ſhall be diſappointed. There ſhall be a particular Seed born of the Woman alone and not of the Man, that is, who ſhall be born of a Virgin, he ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel. Here the Pronoun he, the Verb bruiſe, and the Affix his are all of the ſingular Number, and therefore the Obſervation, which St. Paul (d) makes in another Caſe, may be very properly apply'd in this, GOD ſpeaks not of Seeds as of many; but as of one, And thy ſeed, which is CHRIST. And accordingly (e) the Jewiſh Paraphraſts expreſs it thus, There ſhall be a Remedy to Mankind, but there ſhall be no Remedy to thee the Serpent, but there ſhall be a Remedy to them in the latter Age of the World, even in the Days of King MESSIAH, (f) who ſhall remember what thou didſt in the Beginning of the World. Maimonides a learned Jew juſtly admires, that the Seed of the Woman ſhould be only mention'd, and not of Adam, (without whom ſhe could have no Seed, and which muſt therefore be his Seed) and that it ſhould be ſaid of her Seed, not of his that it bruiſed the Serpent's Head. This (ſaith he) is one of the Paſſages in Scripture, which is moſt wonderful, and not to be underſtood according to the Letter, but contains great Wiſdom in it. In which Words he wrote more Truth than he was aware of; but he could not unfold this hidd'n Wiſdom, as we Chriſtians (bleſſed be GOD) are able to do. We know, that GOD did here promiſe, that this SEED of the Woman ſhould deprive the Devil of his Power, and aboliſh his Tyranny. And as the Head is the Seat of Wiſdom; ſo the Bruiſing the Head may alſo ſignify the Defeating of all his Deſigns and Contrivances, and Reſcuing us from all his Snares. For (h) as the Devil was the Cauſe of Sin from the beginning; ſo for this purpoſe the SON of GOD was manifeſted, that he might deſtroy the works of the devil. But this Victory over the Devil was not to be gott'n without Blood. The Devil did all that he could to deſtroy this Seed, and (i) he enter'd into Judas Iſcariot, and put it into his heart to betray him for that Purpoſe. But this was impoſſible to be done. He could only aſſault his lower Part (call'd here his Heel) viz. His Body or Fleſh, which by his Inſtruments he perſecuted, deſpightfully us'd, and at laſt crucify'd; ſo that they (k) pierced his hands and his feet. By which very Means (ſo admirable was the Wiſdom and Goodneſs of GOD) through (l) his death he deſtroyed him who had the power of death, that is, the devil; And delivered them, who through fear of death were all their life-time ſubject to bondage. Beſides, the Time when this Promiſe was made, was very remarkable, which was before GOD had rejected Cain and preferr'd Seth to him, and long before any Reſtriction was made to any Branch of Noah's Family, that all the World might look upon the MESSIAH as a common Benefit to all the Sons of ADAM. And the tender Mercy of GOD muſt alſo be here acknowledg'd, which gave our firſt Parents the Hopes of a Recovery on the Day when they fell, and gave them this gracious Promiſe of a Bleſſing, before he pronounc'd the Curſe: Which Promiſe, tho' at firſt but obſcurely deliver'd, grew clearer and clearer till CHRIST came.

9. Tho' it doth not appear from the Promiſe, that this our MESSIAH was to be GOD and Man in one Perſon; yet it is plain that Eve had a Notion that it ſhould be ſo. For (m) when ſhe brought forth her firſt born Son, ſhe expected, that he ſhould have been this very Perſon, and therefore ſhe call'd his Name Cain, which ſignifies a Perſon obtain'd, adding this as a Reaſon, I have obtain'd or gotten a man from the LORD. The Hebrew expreſſeth it thus, I have gotten a man (who is) the LORD or JEHOVAH. And therefore one of (n) the Paraphraſts expound it thus. I have gotten the man, who is before the Face of the LORD, and (o) the other thus, I have gotten that Man, who is the Angel of the LORD, and is therefore call'd by Jacob (p) The Angel of his preſence. But when Eve found her Miſtake, and that the MESSIAH was not to be her immediate Offſpring, and when (q) ſhe conceiv'd again, and bore another Son, ſhe call'd his Name Abel, which ſignifies Vanity.

10. As the firſt Promiſe was given to our firſt Parents Adam and Eve; ſo the ſecond Promiſe was given to Cain their firſt Son, upon a remarkable Occaſion. When (r) Cain and Abel brought their Offerings to the LORD, and the LORD had Reſpect unto Abel and to his Offering, then Cain was very angry, and his Countenance fell, or as ſome Tranſlations render it, He hung down his Head for ſhame. Upon which GOD expoſtulates with Cain, and tells him of a better Offering, than that which he brought. He ſaid unto him, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen? There is no Cauſe for him to be diſpleas'd, either upon his own Account, or upon the Account of his Brother. Not upon his own Account, for ſaith GOD, If thou doſt well ſhalt thou not be accepted? And if thou doſt not well, ſin lieth at the door. Here we may obſerve, that the Word Sin is uſually in the Hebrew of the feminine Gender, as ending in the Servile Letter ה; but when it is (s) in the Maſculine Gender, as it is here, it may properly ſignify A Sin Offering, and ſo allude to CHRIST, who was to be ſlain for us, and was to be as (t) a Male out of the Flock to ſuffer in our Stead. And as St. Paul ſaith, (u) he was made Sin (that is, A Sin Offering) for us, tho' he knew no ſin in himſelf, that we might be made the righteouſneſs of GOD in him. This Sin Offering lay at the Door. It was repreſented by the Sacrifices, which were even then brought to the Place of Publick Worſhip, and afterward were brought to the (x) door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and it was to be a ſufficient Sacrifice, not only for the Sins of Cain, but alſo for the Sins of the whole World. And thus one of the (y) Jewiſh Paraphraſts render the Words thus, And if thou doſt not well, yet if thou ſhalt be converted, thy ſin ſhall be forgiv'n thee. Neither was there any Cauſe to be diſpleas'd upon the Account of Abel's Perſon, for he was ſtill the younger Brother. The Right of Primogeniture ſhould lie in Cain, who ſhould be Superiour to Abel. His (z) Deſire ſhould be ſubject to Cain, and Cain ſhould have Power to controul his Deſire. Cain therefore needed not to be diſpleas'd. If he was a good Man he ſhould be accepted of GOD; if not, there was no Atonement promis'd for his Sins. And nothing of this ſhould alter his civil Right, nor give Abel any Authority over him: But he ſhould ſtill retain the Privilege of his Birthright; and needed not to fear any Harm from his Brother, who was ſtill his Inferior.

11. The Types of CHRIST in this Part of the ſacred Scriptures are of two Sorts, either Things or Perſons. The Things, which were Types of CHRIST were the Sacrifices, the Deſign of them was to put the Sinner in Mind of that great Sacrifice, which ſhould be offer'd, by which the Guilt of all their Sins ſhould be done away, and their Perſons and Works ſhould be accepted in the Sight of GOD. When our firſt Parents were created, they were (a) naked. Their firſt Cloaths were (b) of the leaves of Trees. And the next was of the Skins of Beaſts. For GOD having made (c) that moſt gracious Covenant before mention'd with them, it ſeems not unreaſonable to ſuppoſe, that he alſo ſignify'd to them, that they ſhould offer Sacrifices to him for the Confirmation of it: And by their Blood Covenants were ratify'd in after Times from this Example. For it is not likely, that the Beaſts, of whoſe Skins theſe Coats were made, died of themſelves, or that they were kill'd meerly for this Uſe, much leſs for their Food, becauſe they were (d) allow'd only to eat of Herbs, and the Fruit of the Trees, and (e) the firſt Allowance to eat Fleſh was given after the Flood. And therefore nothing can be ſo probable, as that by GOD's Order they were ſlain for Sacrifices to him, the better to repreſent unto them their Guilt, and that the promis'd Seed ſhould vanquiſh the Devil and redeem them by Shedding his Blood, and then GOD directed Coats to be made of the Skins of thoſe Beaſts to cloath them. Thus the (f) firſt thing that died was CHRIST in a Figure, who is therefore call'd (g) the lamb which which was ſlain from the foundation of the world. Thus when the Time and Place for religious Worſhip was ſettl'd and a fit Perſon appointed to officiate therein, (h) Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering to the LORD. And Abel he alſo brought of the firſtlings of his flock, and of the fat thereof. And the LORD had reſpect unto Abel and his Offering. But unto Cain and his offering he had not reſpect. Some ſay, that Abel's offering of a living Creature to be ſlain was a fitter Repreſentation of the Death of CHRIST, and therefore it was accepted. But there were more than outward Qualifications, which made it acceptable. Abel offer'd with a pious Mind; Cain without a due Senſe of GOD, and a ſincere Affection to him. He offer'd the Fruit of his Ground; but he did not devote himſelf to GOD. Cain had only Reſpect to the Offering, which he made; but Abel had Reſpect to the Offering, which ſhould be made by another, even by CHRIST, of which this was a Type. And this is the Reaſon, which the Apoſtle (i) gives of it. By faith Abel offered unto GOD a more excellent Sacrifice than Cain; δι' ἧς for the Sake of which Faith he obtain'd witneſs that he was righteous, GOD teſtifying of his gifts; and δι' αὐτῆς for the Sake of which Faith he being dead ἔτι λαλεῖται, is yet ſpoken of.

12. The Perſons who were Types of CHRIST in this Part of the ſacred Scriptures are three, viz. Adam, Enoch and Noah. The firſt was Adam. For this Reaſon the Apoſtle ſaith of him (k) that he is the figure of him, that was to come; and CHRIST JESUS is call'd (l) the ſecond Adam. Adam had no earthly Father, and therefore he is call'd the (m) the Son of GOD, being ſo by Grace only and Creation. CHRIST had no earthly Father, and therefore he is call'd the Son of GOD, being ſo by Nature and eternal Generation. Adam was (n) created after the Image of GOD, and CHRIST was (o) the brightneſs of his FATHER's Glory, and the expreſs image of his perſon. Adam was the Owner of Paradiſe, the (p) Heir of the World, and the Soveraign Lord of all Creatures, to whom they came for their Names; CHRIST is Lord of Heaven and Earth, (q) the heathen is given to him for an inheritance, and the utmoſt parts of the earth for his poſſeſſion. And (r) of him the whole family both in heaven and earth is named. Adam was the chief King, Prieſt and Prophet in his Family; and ſo is CHRIST in his Church. Beſides, the Apoſtle fitly compares Adam with CHRIST, that as by viewing of the one we learn the Cauſe of our Miſery; ſo by viewing the other and comparing of both we may learn the Cauſe of our Happineſs. Thus (s) as Adam and by his Tranſgreſſion all Men were liable to Death; ſo by CHRIST and his Obedience ſhould all be entitl'd to eternal Life; And as by one Man came death; ſo by the other ſhould come the reſurrection of the dead. Thus (t) the firſt man Adam was made a living ſoul, to be the Cauſe of our natural Life; and the laſt Adam was made a quickning ſpirit a divine Principle to ſtir us up to a Life of Grace, that ſo hereafter we may obtain a Life of Glory. Thus (as (u) the Apoſtle ſaith) The firſt man Adam was of the earth, and earthly; but the ſecond man CHRIST JESUS is the LORD from heaven. As is the earthly, ſuch are they that are earthly; and as is the heavenly, ſuch are they that are heavenly. And as we have born the image of the earthly, we ſhall alſo bear the image of the heavenly. And in (x) another Place he carries on the ſame Similitude) Death reigned from Adam, even over them who had not ſinned after the ſimilitude of Adam's tranſgreſſion. Infants, and ſuch as have no actual Sin like Adam, have died in all Ages; becauſe the Guilt of Adam's firſt Sin hath been deriv'd to them. But not as the offence; ſo alſo is the free gift. This is of another Nature. The one brings a Curſe, and the other a Bleſſing. The one brings Death, and the other Life. For if through the Offence of one many be dead: much more the grace of GOD, and the gift by grace, which is by one man JESUS CHRIST, hath abounded unto many. And not as it was by one that ſinned, ſo is the gift: for the judgment was by one to condemnation, to paſs Sentence for the Sake of one Crime; but the free gift is of many offences unto juſtification, to pardon all thoſe who belong to CHRIST, tho' their Sins were ever ſo many, or ever ſo great in themſelves, or accompany'd with the greateſt Aggravations. For if by the offence of one meer man, death reign'd by one, and for his Sake; much more they which receive abundance of grace, and of the gift of righteouſneſs, ſhall reign in life by one JESUS CHRIST, who was GOD as well as Man, and therefore what he did and ſuffer'd, and ſtill doth for us, is of an infinite Value, and as ſuch it is ſufficient of it ſelf to procure Pardon of Sin, the Favour and Love of GOD, and an Acceptance of our Perſons and our Duties. Therefore as by the offence of one, judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even ſo by the righteouſneſs of one, the free gift came upon all men to juſtification of life. For as by one man's diſobedience many were made ſinners; ſo by the obedience of one ſhall many be made righteous. In ſhort, a Covenant was made with Adam not only for himſelf but for all his Poſterity, and a Covenant was made with CHRIST, not for himſelf but for all who believe in him. If Adam had continu'd righteous, we had been ſav'd by his Righteouſneſs; but ſince he ſinn'd, we muſt be ſav'd by the Righteouſneſs of CHRIST. By the Sin of Adam we became liable to eternal Death, and by the Death of CHRIST in our Stead we are perfectly freed from it. By the Sin of Adam we are made Strangers to GOD, and by the Mediation of CHRIST we are made his adopted Sons, and thereby obtain a nearer Admittance into his Preſence. By the Sin of Adam imputed to us we are ſhut out of Heaven. CHRIST by his Righteouſneſs hath purchas'd the ſame again for us, and this imputed to us ſhall give us a full and perfect Title to it. And thus the Knowledge of our Miſery by the firſt Adam gives us a clearer View of our Salvation by the Second.

13. The next Type of CHRIST is Enoch. Enoch is (y) ſaid to have walked with GOD, (z) to have pleaſed GOD, and (a) to have been beloved of him. CHRIST JESUS is ſaid (b) to be always his delight, rejoycing always before him, and (c) to do always thoſe things that pleaſe him, and accordingly GOD the FATHER (d) teſtify'd of him by a Voice from Heaven in theſe Words, This is my beloved ſon, in whom I am well pleaſed. Enoch foretold (e) the Deſtruction of the old World for their Impiety and Obſtinacy, and CHRIST foretold (f) the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem for the ſame Reaſon. The (g) Body of Enoch was tranſlated into Heaven, that he ſhould not ſee death, and therefore was not found upon the Earth. And (h) thus CHRIST being raiſed from the dead dieth no more, death hath no more dominion over him, and therefore his (i) Body aſcended into Heaven, and (k) is to be here no more until the general Reſurrection and Day of Judgment.

14. The laſt Type of CHRIST is Noah. Noah is (l) ſaid to be a juſt man, and perfect in his generation, and to walk with GOD; and the ſame may be ſaid more truly of CHRIST. The Righteouſneſs both of Noah and Enoch was the Righteouſneſs of Faith and not of Works; but the Righteouſneſs of CHRIST was his own, a Righteouſneſs of Nature, Perſon and Heart. Noah was (m) a perfect and an upright man. He was not defil'd with Idolatry, falſe Religion, Opinions or external Crimes; but CHRIST was perfectly and abſolutely Righteous, without fault, doing nothing amiſs, and fulfilling all righteouſneſs. Noah was righteous according to the Covenant of the Goſpel, and CHRIST according to the ſtrict Letter of the Law; and thus (n) they both walking with GOD found grace and favour in his Sight. Noah was (o) a Preacher of righteouſneſs. He invited all Men to Repentance and to flee from the Wrath to come. He liv'd in a moſt corrupt Age, when there was a general Defection both of Doctrine and Manners; and all this was true of CHRIST. When the (p) old World deſpis'd the preaching of Noah, the Flood came and took them all away; and when the Jews deſpis'd the Preaching of CHRIST (q) the Romans came and took away both their place and nation. From Noah deſcended all the Inhabiters of the Earth; and through CHRIST we are made Inhabiters of the Kingdom of Heaven. And as the World was repleniſh'd by the Poſterity of Noah; ſo every Member of the Church is call'd (r) the ſeed of CHRIST. Noah (s) built an altar unto the LORD, and offer'd ſuch burnt offerings on the altar as were acceptable to the LORD, who was delighted with it, as Men are, when they ſmell a ſweet Savour. CHRIST (t) offer'd not up Birds nor Beaſts, but that which was much better, more perfectly pure and holy, he gave himſelf for us, an offering and a ſacrifice to GOD for a ſweet ſmelling ſavour. And thus were we deliver'd from that Wrath of GOD, and reſtor'd to his Favour not by the Offering up (u) of corruptible things, but by the precious blood of CHRIST as of a lamb without blemish and without spot, not upon the Altar built by Hands, but upon one more perfect, the Altar of his Deity, which did most (x) perfectly and compleatly sanctify the Gift, that was offer'd upon it; not ascending to Heaven by ordinary Fire, (y) but offering himself without spot through the eternal Spirit, which (z) is compar'd to Fire. And therefore such an Offering as this must fully satisfy his Father's Justice, appease his Wrath, and make all other Sacrifices and Duties acceptable to him. And from hence it was that GOD did make a Covenant of Grace with both, not only for themselves, but also for all those, who should belong to them, that he would never break (a) out into such Wrath against them, as he did before, confirming the same unto the Posterity of Noah by the Sign of the Rainbow; and confirming the same to those, who are his own adopted Sons in CHRIST JESUS by the Sacraments of Baptism and the LORD's Supper. Noah (b) sent out a Dove, when the Waters were asswaged, and his Fears and Dangers were past, which brought in his Mouth an olive Branch, the Sign of Joy and Comfort; CHRIST JESUS when his Sufferings and Labours were ended, sent forth his holy Spirit (which (c) before had lighted on him in the Shape of a Dove) which brings Joy, Peace and Comfort into the Hearts of them that believe in him, and assures them that GOD's Wrath is appeas'd, and he will love them freely, and receive them into Favour.

15. And as Noah was a Type of CHRIST; so the Ark, which he built, hath been usually reckon'd as a Type of his Church. The Ark was toss'd about by the Waves, until it rested on one of the highest Mountains; and the Church is liable to many and great Afflictions, until it arrives safe in the Kingdom of Heaven. They who were in the Ark were sav'd, not for their own Sakes, but for the Sake of Noah, because he was a just man, and perfect in his generation, and one who walked with GOD; and they who are saved in the visible Church, are sav'd not by any Merits in themselves, but only through the Merits and Mediation of JESUS CHRIST. In the Ark there was not only good Shem and Japhet, but also cursed Ham; and in the visible Church the Tares grow up with the standing corn, the Chaff is mix'd with the Wheat, and it is like a Net cast into the Sea, which gathers of every Kind. As there was no visible Safety but in the Ark, for the Rest were all destroy'd; so there is no Salvation to be had in an ordinary Way but in the Church. As Noah the Builder of the Ark enters into it, and receives and saves all that go in with him; for which Purpose he is contented to be tossed up and down by the most violent Waves, and had no more Freedom from Fear and Danger than others which were with him: So CHRIST the Head and Founder of his Church enters himself into it by the Waters of Baptism, and was contented for the Saving of others, to be toss'd with the Waves of Affliction, Poverty, Labour, Shame and Infamy. That his Church might be in Safety with him, he is content to be in Danger with her; and that he might help her in every State, he was like unto her in every thing, Sin only excepted. Besides, St. Peter (d) makes the Saving this Family a Type of Baptism, telling us, that as in the days of Noah, few, that is, eight souls were saved by water; So the like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward GOD) by the resurrection of JESUS CHRIST. If therefore we say, that Baptism is an Ordinance appointed by CHRIST himself as necessary to Salvation, where it may be had; and that (e) except a man be born of water as well as of the spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of GOD; If we say, that they who keep themselves and others from this Ordinance, do such a Mischief, for which they can never make Reparation: we have sufficient Grounds for such an Assertion. And as we baptize by Sprinkling, but do not condemn Dipping; so if some among us, who deny our Baptism as invalid, did but consider the first Type of it, as mention'd by the Apostle, when they who were in the Ark might be sprinkl'd with the Waves or Rain, but they who were dipp'd in the Water, were all drown'd, it might abate their Pride in their own Way, or cause them to be more charitable in their Censures.

16. The last Particular, which was propos'd, is to vindicate the Authority of the Sacred Scriptures from such Arguments as occur in the Reading of them; And this will be very evident, when we consider that excellent Variety of Knowledge, which is contain'd in them, the Harmony between so many Authors, who wrote in such different Stiles, in such different Times, on such different Subjects, and to such different Persons, and that the Subjects, which they wrote upon were of such a Nature, that if they had not been inspir'd, they must have betray'd their own Imposture, as Mahomet hath done in his pretended Miracle.

17. Thus to mention the Particulars in their Order. It was always reckon'd a Study worthy of the thoughts of the greatest Philosophers to consider how this World was made, and it is strange to consider, how confus'd they were in their Notions concerning it. They generally thought it had a Beginning, but could conceive nothing how it came to paſs, but ſuppos'd it to be by Chance, or an accidental Motion of Atoms in a void Space, as if an accidental Tumbling down of Stones and Timber could form an Houſe, or a Watch could be fram'd and rightly ſet without a firſt Hand or Mover. And the greateſt Philoſopher among them was moſt diſtant from the Truth, when he affirm'd, that it was eternal. But (f) the firſt Sentence of the Bible gives that Diſcovery, which could never be met with originally in any other Author. In the beginning GOD created the heaven and the earth. Thus (g) through faith we underſtand that the worlds were framed by the word of GOD; ſo that things, which are ſeen, were not made of things, which do appear. We underſtand it through Faith, becauſe it cannot be comprehended or found out by Reaſon; and yet as ſoon as it is reveal'd to us, we preſently apprehend it as the moſt reaſonable Account of any.

18. The vaſt Improvements, which have been made in the Study of Aſtronomy, eſpecially by the Help of Teleſcopes, in the laſt and preſent Century, do furniſh us with more noble and enlarg'd Thoughts, not only of the Heavens, but alſo of the Wiſdom, Power, Immenſity and Goodneſs of the GOD, who created them, if we conſider the Exactneſs of their Motions, and the Regularity of the Laws, by which they are guided, their prodigious Bigneſs, their vaſt Diſtances from us, and from each other, and the various Uſes for which they are deſign'd; ſo that an uninſpir'd Author, if he had wrote in thoſe Times on ſuch Subjects, muſt certainly have fall'n into thoſe Errors, which would now have been diſcover'd. Thus for Inſtance, It is evident to thoſe, who are skill'd in that Science, that the Moon, Saturn, and Jupiter are inhabited by living Creatures; and it is very probable, that the fix'd Stars, not only thoſe, which are ſeen by the Eye, and thoſe which are diſcover'd with Inſtruments, but Millions more at an undiſcernable Diſtance, may be as Suns to ſo many other Worlds. If ſo, what exalted Thoughts muſt this raiſe in us? And how muſt we be amaz'd to think, that the ſame GOD (whoſe Providence is ſeen in the ſmalleſt Animal upon Earth) preſerves and governs them all, and is in every Place alike? Now, tho' Moſes in that Age might have mention'd this Earth as the only Place of the Univerſe, which was inhabited, and might notwithſtanding have paſs'd for an inſpir'd Writer; yet he meddles not with the Controverſy. He ſaith, In the beginning GOD created the heaven and the earth, but there is not one Word to ſhew, that he meant any more than this Planetary Syſtem. By the Heaven is meant the things above us, and by the Earth the things below us, but he no more deſcribes how far the Works of Creation do extend above us in the Heavens, than he tells us how far we are diſtant from the Center of the Earth. St. Paul tells us, that (h) the SON of GOD hath been appointed heir of all things, by whom alſo he made the worlds. and that (i) through faith we underſtand that the worlds were created, and the Worlds in the Original Being of the plural Number, may give juſt Occaſion for ſuch a Tranſlation. And even Moſes when (k) he ſaith, that GOD made the Sun and the Moon, he only adds, And he made ſtars alſo; but doth not ſay, that he made all the Stars; for which this only Reaſon can be given, That he who inſpir'd him to write, would not ſuffer the leaſt Word to fall from his Pen, which might give any Occaſion of Cavil in future Ages, or raiſe the leaſt Objection againſt thoſe enlarg'd Notions of his Immenſity, which might be the Effect of ſuch Diſcoveries. When St. Paul ſpeaks of (l) CHRIST JESUS, that he is the image of the inviſible GOD, and the firſt Cauſe, Author or bringer forth of every creature: For by him all things were created, that are in heaven and that are in the earth, viſible and inviſible, whether they be thrones or dominions or principalities or powers, all things were created by him and for him. And when St. John ſaith (m) All things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made that was made, they neither of them mention, that all theſe things were made at one Time. And when Moſes gives us an Account of what was done in the ſix Days of the Creation, he ſaith no more than what may be apply'd to this planetary Syſtem, and gives us not the leaſt Hint, that then all things were created. GOD may every Week make other Worlds as large as this for ought we know to the contrary. Let us then think upon (n) our later Obſervations in Aſtronomy, that the Sun is no leſs than eighty one Millions of Miles from us in its Middle Diſtance, and yet we every Day are ſenſible of its Light and Heat. That the Diſtance of the Earth from the Sun is ſo great, that if a Bullet went toward it from the Earth at the Rate of five Miles in a Minute, or three hundred Miles in an Hour it would be thirty Years before it came thither; and yet the Rays of Light come thence in about ſeven Minutes and an half without occaſioning the leaſt Prejudice to the tender Eye by the Swiftneſs of its Motion. That the Earth, tho' ſo large as it ſeems to be, would appear at the Sun but as a very ſmall Star. That the Bulk of Saturn is 1651 Times bigger than the Earth, that of Jupiter is 3473 Times bigger, and that of the Sun is 1098600 Times bigger; and yet thoſe Bodies ſo vaſtly big, and ſo vaſtly diſtant from each other, are

ſo regular, as not to vary a Minute of their appointed Times in their appointed Motions, and that the whole Orb of the Earth round the Sun is undiſcernable in compariſon of the ſtupendous Diſtance between us and the fix'd Stars: When we conſider theſe and many more ſuch Particulars, we cannot but cry out with the Apoſtle (o) O the depth of the riches both of the wiſdom and knowledge of GOD! We cannot but confeſs with him, that (p) it is GOD, who upholdeth all things by the word of his power, and (q) that the heavens declare the glory of GOD, and the firmament ſheweth his handy work. And that (r) of him, and through him, and to him, are all things; to whom the glory of all muſt be aſcrib'd for ever and Ever. And when we compare all this with the Account which Moſes gives of the Creation of the things of the Earth, it will more and more evidently ſuggeſt to us the (s) Rapture of the divine Pſalmiſt, O LORD how manifold are thy works! In wiſdom haſt thou made them all. And if we add the great Probability, that there may be (t) Millions of habitable Globes, like this in which we live, and probably as large or larger; and particularly that the Surface of Saturn is 45 Times, and the Surface of Jupiter is 57 Times bigger than that of our Earth, we may ſoon reflect, What a ſmall thing is this Globe in which we live? And what an inconſiderable thing is Man, who is ſo ſmall a Part of it? When we think, how many Millions of Worlds there may be? and, how many Millions of reaſonable Creatures there may be in each of theſe Worlds? And perhaps many of them, who can do their Maker greater and much better Service than we, and perhaps never offended him as we have, and daily do; and yet that out of his meer Love and Goodneſs to us, he ſhould ſend his dear and only Son to come into this World to live here and die for us, for no other Reaſon but to reconcile us to himſelf and ſatisfy his Juſtice for our Offences, how muſt we loſe our ſelves in ſuch Meditations as theſe? and ſay with the Pſalmiſt (u) When I conſider the heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the ſtars, which thou haſt ordained, What is man, that thou art mindful of him? or the ſon of man, that thou viſiteſt him. Thus we ſee how the All-wiſe Being, who made all theſe things, and knew what Diſcoveries would be found out in this later Age, directed all the Penmen of the Bible to write in ſuch a Manner, that we cannot but confeſs it all to be true, and admire that it is ſo.

19. This will farther appear if we only conſider, how (x) Mahomet did plainly betray his own Ignorance and Impoſture in theſe things when he wrote about them. What a Monſtrous Abſurdity is that which he relates of himſelf, of his going from Mecca to Jeruſalem, and from thence throught he ſeven Heavens, and then Returning back to Jeruſalem, and ſo to Mecca within the Space of the tenth Part of one Night. Here he fancies ſeven Heavens one above the other at an equal Diſtance and places Adam in the firſt, Noah in the Second, Abraham in the third, Joſeph in the fourth, Moſes in the fifth, John the Baptiſt in the Sixth, our SAVIOUR in the Seventh, and GOD himſelf at a great Diſtance beyond them all. He tells us, that the firſt Heaven was all of pure Silver, and he there ſaw the Stars hanging from it in Chains of Gold. In his firſt Heaven he tells us of a Cock in Colour as white as Snow and of ſo prodigious a Bigneſs, that his Feet ſtanding upon the firſt Heaven his Head reach'd up to the Second. That there was another Angel, whoſe Feet being plac'd on the ſecond Heaven, his Head reached to the third. He tells us the ſame of another in the fourth Heaven, and another extraordinary one in the ſeventh, which had ſeventy thouſand Heads, and in every Head ſeventy thouſand Tongues, and every Tongue uttering ſeventy thouſand diſtinct Voices at the ſame Time, with which he continu'd Day and Night inceſſantly praiſing GOD. All theſe extravagant Stories plainly ſhew us, that he was not willing to diminiſh any thing from what he thought to be true; and yet in his Aſtronomical Accounts he is very defective. He places the fix'd Stars in the firſt or neareſt Heavens, whereas we now know them to be at an immenſe Diſtance. He makes the fix'd Stars to be of the Bigneſs of Mount Noho in Arabia; whereas one of the Satellites of Jupiter is ſuppos'd to be as big as this Globe of the Earth, and yet is inviſible by Reaſon of its Diſtance from us, tho' it may for ought we know, be five hundred Times nearer to us than any of the fix'd Stars. And if we ſuppoſe the Diſtance from the Earth to the firſt Heaven to be in his Account equal to each of the Reſt, which he will have to be five Hundred Years Journey according to the Rate as we uſually travel here on Earth, which, tho' we may ſuppoſe to be fifty Miles a Day; yet this would not carry him ſo far as the Sun. So ſtrangely was he miſtak'n in his Computations. Beſides, this Impoſtor tells us, that in the third Heaven, he ſaw an Angel of ſo prodigious a Size, that the Diſtance between his two Eyes was as much as ſeventy thouſand Days Journey according to our Rate of travelling here on Earth. But tho' he places him in one of his Heavens; yet the Diſtance between a Man's Eyes, being in Proportion to his Height but as one is to ſeventy two, according to this Computation, the Height of this Angel muſt have been near fourteen thouſand Year's Journey, which is four Times as much as the Height of all his ſeven Heavens put together. And therefore ſuch groſs Miſtakes in Aſtronomy and Mathematicks, which we find in ſuch an Author, may make us conclude, That it was only the Direction of an all-wiſe Being, which prevented all ſuch Miſtakes in the Account of the Creation as mention'd by Moſes, and did ſo order it, that it can ſtand the Teſt of the moſt modern and nice Inquiry.

Mathematicks,

20. There is another (t) Text in the firſt Chapter of Geneſis, which is mention'd in ſuch a Manner as none but a divinely inſpir'd Author could have thought of. And GOD ſaid, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for ſigns, and for ſeaſons, and for days, and for years. Here it is remarkable, that the Word Seaſons is put in, and the Word Months is omitted. When Moſes wrote this, the Months among the Jews, and perhaps among all the Nations of the World were only Lunar, and there was a natural Reaſon for them ſo to be. As the diurnal Motion of the Sun to the ſame Meridian meaſur'd the Length of the Day, and the annual Motion of the Sun to the ſame Point of the Ecliptick meaſur'd the Length of the Year; ſo the firſt Appearance of the Moon after the Change began the Month, which continu'd, 'til its firſt Appearance after the next Change began another. And thus the Son of Sirach ſaith of the Moon, that (x) The month is called after her name. But we reckon our Months in another Manner, and accordingly for Diſtinction Sake call them Solar Months. And none but a Being, infinite in Knowledge could have foreſeen this. If therefore Moſes had ſaid, Let them be for months, he would have ſpok'n according to the Cuſtom of thoſe Ages, and the Reſemblance between Days, Months and Years would have been more evident. But then we, who live in this Age, would have been apt to ſay, that it was not true; For the Moon doth not govern the Length of the Month now. But Moſes, by the Direction of GOD, was guided to write ſuch and only ſuch Expreſſions as were true then, and true now, and will be true to the End of the World, and could be directed by no one but him, who as he knew all things; ſo he wrote in ſuch Words as would be true in all Ages without Diſtinction. And as the Word Months was omitted; ſo the Word Seaſons was inſerted by the ſame divine Wiſdom. The Word in the Hebrew conſtantly ſignifies ſolemn and ſtated Feaſts, of which there were many among the Jews upon particular Days of their Month, and were accordingly determined by the Moon. Thus (x) From the moon is the ſign of feaſts. Theſe if we reſpect the Solar Year, were moveable Feaſts. And it is obſervable, that tho' all other ſecular Days of the ſolar Year are fix'd to certain Days; yet theſe ſolemn Feaſts are determin'd from the Nature of the Jewiſh Months, as they were at firſt. So that Moſes writes of the Moon, that ſhe was appointed to determine the ſolemn Feaſts; ſo it was with them, who us'd a lunar Year; and ſo it it is with us, who uſe a ſolar Year; and none but a GOD, who knows all things, could foreſee, that it would continue ſo, and conſequently uſe ſuch an Expreſſion, as is exactly true in all Ages.

21. Thus to inſtance in other Particulars, what ſtrange Notions had the Heathen concerning the Nature of their Gods? Confining them to Place, enlarging their Number without Meaſure and making the chief of them to be guilty of the vileſt Immoralities. But the Attributes of the divine Nature are ſo clearly laid down to us in theſe Writings, that we cannot well be ignorant, or form wrong Conceptions of them. And as they knew not what GOD was; ſo they were as ignorant how he was to be worſhipp'd, and were thereby led into the groſſeſt Abſurdities, as Idolatry, Superſtition, Cruelty to themſelves, and ſometimes Murdering of others. But here we are taught ſuch a Religion, as is agreeable to the Nature of GOD, and is eaſy, rational and delightful to us; and our bleſſed SAVIOUR hath comprehended all in few Words, (y) GOD is a ſpirit, and they that worſhip him, muſt worſhip him in ſpirit and in truth.

22. How many Diſputes have been continually rais'd concerning the Original of human Souls? How we came to be endu'd with Reaſon beyond all other Animals, and alſo how we became immortal? This we ſeek for in vain in other Writings. But here we have a full Account of all in a few Words. (z) And GOD ſaid, Let us make man in our own image, after our likeneſs. So GOD created man in his own image, in the image of GOD created he him. And the LORD GOD formed man of the duſt of the ground, and breathed into his noſtrils the breath of life, and man became a living ſoul. What dark Notions had the heathen World concerning the Being and the Nature of GOD? and yet how clearly hath he reveal'd himſelf, his Nature and Attributes in theſe ſacred Oracles? The Notions which the heathen World had of Angels, was very confus'd. And it is no Wonder, that if they could not rightly apprehend the things which they daily ſaw; but they ſhould be at a Loſs to underſtand the things which were not ſeen at all. But here we are told the Cauſe of their Being, and as much of their Nature as we are able to apprehend. It is (a) GOD, who maketh his angels ſpirits, and his miniſters a flame of fire. They are רוחות or like Winds, as the Hebrew expreſſeth it, of an inviſible Nature, and an unaccountable Power; and like Lightning, fleeing in a moſt ſwift, irreſiſtible and penetrating Manner. Here we are told their Orders. There are (b) Angels, (c) Cherubim, and (d) Seraphim, (e) Thrones, Dominions, Principalities and Powers. And here we are told their Office, (f) that they are all miniſtring ſpirits, ſent forth to miniſter unto them, which ſhall be heirs of ſalvation. The Heathens could diſcern by the Light of Nature, that they were in an ignorant and a deprav'd State; but they could give no Account how they came to be ſo at firſt, much leſs how they could recover themſelves out of it; how GOD came at firſt to be diſpleas'd with Man, and how he muſt be reconcil'd again. The Heathens knew that the Gods were angry, but had never any Notion of a fit Mediator to appeaſe them; and yet Moſes in (g) the Hiſtory of the Fall of their firſt Parents gives us an Account of theſe Particulars. There is in all Mankind an utter Averſion to the Sight of Spirits, and it would have been difficult to have aſſign'd a good Reaſon for it, if Moſes had not (h) giv'n us an Account, how the Devil ſeduc'd our firſt Parents to fall from their original State of Innocency, and that ever ſince (i) an Enmity was plac'd between this old Serpent and the Race of Mankind. And therefore this occaſions an Antipathy, becauſe whenever any ſuch Spirits are ſeen, we are not ſure but they are our Enemies, even when they appear in the Shape of Friends, and we alſo know, that (k) Satan can transform himſelf into an Angel of Light, and (l) he walks about day and night ſeeking whom he may devour. The Philoſophers ſpent a great deal of Time and Pains in Inquiring wherein Man's chief Good did conſiſt, and if they could have found it out, it would have been a ſufficient Recompenſe for all. Varro ſaith, that there were in his Days two hundred and eighty eight Sects about it; and tho' there were ſo many Opinions, yet none of them were in the right. But one Verſe (m) in theſe ſacred Writings will inform us that, which they could never know. There be many that ſay, Who will ſhew us any good? LORD, lift thou up the light of thy countenance upon us. Thou haſt put gladneſs in my heart, more than in the time, when their corn and wine and oyl increaſed. And (n) My fleſh and my heart faileth; but GOD is the ſtrength of my heart, and my portion for ever.

23. Thus alſo in Natural Philoſophy, what Job ſaith, (o) GOD ſtretcheth out the north over the empty place, and hangeth the earth upon nothing, is a truth, which could never have been known at that Time without divine Revelation, eſpecially if we conſider, how much the Notion of the Antipodes was oppos'd, when it was at firſt diſcover'd. Let us alſo conſider, How many Diſputes have riſen up concerning the Original of Fountains and Rivers? How many Notions have been confuted, and yet what Solomon did at firſt obſerve, hath ſtood the Teſt in all Ages, (p) All the rivers run into the ſea, yet the ſea is not full: and unto the place, from whence the rivers come, thither they return again.

24. And can we ſet light by ſuch ſacred Books as theſe, in whom are reveal'd all the Treaſures of Wiſdom and Knowledge, and eſpecially thoſe Truths, which are moſt neceſſary for us to know and believe? which ſhew us our real Happineſs, how we loſt it, and how we muſt obtain it? which even reveals to us ſuch things of our ſelves, which we knew not before, and yet upon Inquiry find them to be true? There is no Book but this, which gives us an Account of the Creation of the World, at leaſt in ſo perfect a Manner, of the Forming of Man, or of their ancient Habitation, or of the Time from the Creation to the Flood. And tho' there hath been a common Conſent in almoſt all Nations, that there was an univerſal Flood; yet no other Perſon ever gave a ſatisfactory Account, from whence the Waters came, or whither they went, much leſs how all the living Creatures were preſerv'd in ſuch an Inundation. No other Writer ever gave an Account of the Dimenſions of the Ark, and conſequently of its Capacity; and if they had, they would certainly have made it either much too big or much too little for that Purpoſe, for which it was deſign'd. No other Writer ever hinted to us how long ſuch a Fabrick might have been in building; and if they had, they would certainly have given more Occaſions for Cavil, and very little Satisfaction.

25. But not to inſiſt any longer on theſe Particulars, I ſhall conclude this Subject with a few Reflections upon the Dimenſions of the Ark, as Noah was directed to make it from the Mouth of GOD himſelf; ſo that the Prejudices being remov'd which ſome Hereticks of old, and ſome Atheiſtical Scoffers in theſe later Times have rais'd, all their Arguments may be as Cannon turn'd upon the Enemy, and ſecure the Dignity of ſuch Books, which they are labouring to deſtroy. It is (q) a great Difference between thoſe Opinions and Apprehenſions, which are occaſion'd by a more general and confus'd View of things, and thoſe which proceed from a more diſtinct Conſideration of them, as they are reduc'd into Order. And therefore they, who urge the Impoſſibility, that the Ark could hold ſo many Animals, and their Food, may, upon a ſerious View acknowledge their Error, and the Wiſdom of GOD ſo plainly legible in thoſe Parts of the ſacred Writings, which they thought were moſt liable to Objections.

26. He that looks upon the Stars, as they are confus'dly ſcatter'd up and down in the Firmament, will think them to be (as they are ſometimes ſtil'd) innumerable, or of ſo vaſt a Multitude,

Multitude, as not to be determin'd to any ſet Number: But when all theſe Stars are diſtinctly reduc'd into particular Conſtellations, and deſcrib'd by their ſeveral Places, Magnitude and Names, it appears, that of thoſe, which are viſible to the naked Eye, there are not fifteen Hundred in the whole Firmament, and never more than half ſo many to be ſeen at once in any Hemiſphere, taking in the minuter Kinds of them, even to ſix Degrees of Magnitude. It is ſo likewiſe in other things. He that would put the Queſtion, How many Sorts of Beaſts or Birds there are in the World? would be anſwer'd, even by ſuch as are otherwiſe knowing and learned Men, that there are ſo many hundreds of them, as could not be enumerated: Whereas upon a diſtinct Inquiry into all ſuch as are yet known, and have been deſcrib'd by credible Authors, it doth appear, that there are much fewer, than is commonly imagin'd, not an hundred Sorts of Beaſts, nor two hundred Sorts of Birds.

27. And therefore from what hath been ſaid in the former Chapter, (b) it may appear, that the Meaſure and Capacity of the Ark, which ſome atheiſtical irreligious Men make uſe of, as an Argument againſt the Scripture, ought rather to be eſteem'd as a moſt rational Confirmation of the Truth and divine Authority of it. Eſpecially if it be well conſider'd, that in thoſe firſt and ruder Ages of the World, when Men were leſs vers'd in Arts and Philoſophy, and were therefore probably more obnoxious to vulgar Prejudices, than now they are; yet the Capacity and Proportions of the Ark are ſo well adjuſted to the things, which it was to contain: Whereas if it had been a meer human Invention, it is moſt probable, that it would have been contriv'd according to thoſe wild Apprehenſions, which (as was ſaid before) do naturally ariſe from a more confus'd and general View of things, and have been as much too big, as ſuch Men have been apt to think it too little for thoſe Ends and Purpoſes, for which it was deſign'd.

28. In this Part of the Hiſtory, there is one Diſlocation, viz. (c) Tho' Man was created on the ſixth Day of the Creation, and (d) GOD reſted on the ſeventh day from all his works; yet the (e) Creation of Man is not mention'd until after the ſeventh Day was ended. But the Reaſon of this is plain. Moſes in the firſt Chapter of Geneſis gives us an Account of the Creation of the World in general, and the Work of each Day of the Six, and particularly what Animals were created on each of theſe Days, That the Fiſh and Fowl were created on the fifth Day, that all the Beaſts and creeping things were created on the Beginning of the ſixth Day, and then (f) Man was created laſt of all, as the nobleſt Part of the whole Work, after which GOD reſted on the Seventh Day. And then (g) there follows a ſhort Repetition of the Creation of the World in general, and a particular Account of the Creation of Man; becauſe Moſes, deſigning to write the Hiſtory of Man from that Time to his, did ſo order it, that the Reader might have a full View thereof altogether, without any thing to interrupt it. And this is alſo the Reaſon that the (h) Deſcription of Paradiſe is plac'd before the Creation of Eve, viz. that afterward there might be nothing to interrupt the whole Story.

So that the true Chronological Method of Reading this Part of the Holy Scriptures is thus:

Gen. 1. 1. to 31.
Gen. 2. 4. to 8.
Gen. 2. 18. to the End.

BOOK

CHAP. I.

From the Flood until the Promiſe giv'n to Abraham.

IN the 1656th Julian Year of the World the Flood began, Noah being (a) five hundred and ninety nine Years of Age complete, and entering upon the ſix hundredth Year. In the 1657th Julian Year, the Flood continues, Noah being ſix hundred Years old compleat, and entering upon his ſix hundred and firſt Year. From this laſt Year the Years after the Flood are computed, and thus (c) Arphaxad is born two Years after this Year. And from this Year to the Year of the Promiſe given to Abraham are 426 Years, which added to 1657 Years, or to the Age of the World at the Flood ſhews, that the Promiſe was given to Abraham in the Year of the World 2083, as (d) appears from the following Table.

2. That this Year is rightly plac'd will be evient, if we conſider, that as it is very probable, that (e) GOD ſpake to the Patriarchs only upon the Day of the Antemoſaical Sabbath, and (f) that this Day was the ſame Day of the Week, with that which we now obſerve; ſo it is certain, that GOD ſpake to Abraham on the fourteenth Day of the ſeventh Month, which among the Jews in after Ages, when the Beginning of the Year was chang'd, anſwer'd to the fourteenth Day of the firſt Month Niſan or Abib. This appears from what is recorded (i) in Scripture. Now the ſojourning of the children of Iſrael, who dwelt in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty Years. And it came to paſs at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the ſelf ſame day it came to paſs, that all the hoſts of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt. It is a night to be much obſerved to the LORD for bringing them out from the land of Egypt; This is that night of the LORD to be obſerved of all the Children of Iſrael in their generations. It is a Night to be much obſerv'd, becauſe (k) on the Evening before they were always oblig'd to kill and eat the Paſſover. On this (l) ſelf ſame Day of the Month the Promiſe was giv'n to Abraham; and from the Day of this Promiſe (m) St. Paul himſelf reckons up thoſe very four hundred and thirty Years, and tells us, that they were compleated by the Children of Iſrael's Going out of Egypt, and by the Law being giv'n from Mount Sinai in the ſame Year.

3. Secondly, This fourteenth Day of the Month is (n) particularly mention'd in Exodus at the going forth of the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt, as the Day to be celebrated by them in Commemoration of their Deliverance, and no other is mention'd as ſuch throughout the whole Chapter; and therefore (o) the very ſelf ſame day mention'd as the Day of the Promiſe, muſt be this very Day of the Month, in which this Promiſe was fulfill'd, and can be no other.

4. Thirdly, This keeps up a greater Affinity between the Promiſe, the Type and the Performance. On the fourteenth Day of the firſt Month, according to the Jewiſh Account, GOD ſaid unto Abraham, (p) In thy ſeed (which is CHRIST, and by Virtue of his Death) ſhall all the families of the earth be bleſſed. On the fourteenth Day of the firſt Month the Paſchal Lamb was ſlain as a Type hereof. And on the fourteenth Day of the firſt Month, being the Day of the Paſſover, CHRIST was alſo crucify'd, and ſo he fulfill'd that, which before had been propheſy'd and typify'd of him.

5. To this it may be objected, that (q) the Departure of the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt is fix'd to the fifteenth day of the firſt month, and to the morrow after the paſſover. And therefore this ſeems to be the Day of the Promiſe given to Abraham. But to this it may be anſwer'd, That the Iſraelites were in actual Poſſeſſion of the Promiſe on the fifteenth Day of the firſt Month, for then they march'd out of Egypt: But it was ſign'd, ſeal'd, and made over to them on the Day before by their Killing of the Paſchal Lamb. And therefore as we reckon our ſelves to be in the actual Poſſeſſion of an Eſtate, from the Day in which the Writings are ſeal'd, tho' the Eſtate is not actually deliver'd up to us for ſome Time after; ſo it was in the Caſe of Abraham and the Iſraelites. Abraham could not but look upon himſelf as poſſeſs'd of the Land of Canaan, when he and his Offſpring were (r) circumcis'd, which was a Token of the Covenant; and the Iſraelites might reckon themſelves as departed out of Egypt, when they had eaten the Paſchal Lamb, as a Sign and a Seal, that this Covenant ſhould be perform'd the next Day.

6. The Promiſe, which was made to Abraham, was given to him when he was above ſeventy three Years of Age, and in the ſame Julian Year, in which he afterward compleated his ſeventy fourth Year, and when (s) he was in Ur of the Chaldees. In this Year GOD ſaid unto him, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy father's houſe, unto a land which I ſhall ſhew thee. And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bleſs thee, and make thy name great, and thou ſhalt be a bleſſing. And I will bleſs them that bleſs thee, and curſe him that curſeth thee. And in thee ſhall all the families of the earth be bleſſed. Then came he out of the land of the Chaldeans, and brought with him (u) his Father Terah; and as Moſes ſaid, They came to Haran and dwelt there. This Dwelling ſuppoſes their Stay there for ſome Time, which could not be leſs than to the End of the ſame Year. There Terah Abraham's Father dies, (x) when he was now two hundred and five Years old, upon whoſe Death Abraham (y) being now full ſeventy and five Years old, departed from Haran, and came into the land of Canaan.

7. As the Scriptures give no other Date for theſe Tranſactions, except the Time when Abraham was ſeventy and five Years of Age; ſo all the Chronologers (which I know of) make them all to happ'n in the ſame Year. But this cannot be prov'd from Scripture. There is no Doubt, but the (z) Death of Terah in Haran, and the Departure of Abraham from thence happen'd in the ſeventy and fifth Year of Abraham's Life, and not after he was full ſeventy and five Years old. And to this may be apply'd that ancient ſaying of the Jews, (a) That with them a Part of the Month is as the whole, and a Part of the Year is as the whole. And in this Senſe whatever was done in any Part of Abraham's ſeventy fifth Year, may be ſaid to be done, when he was ſeventy five Years old. And if (as the Jews affirm) the (b) Patriarchs, Iſaac excepted, were all born about the Autumnal Equinox; and as it is evident, that Abraham (c) was full ſeventy and five Years old in the Julian Year of the World 2084; ſo theſe Tranſactions muſt happen in the Beginning of the ſame Year. And therefore the true Account ſeems to me to be thus. Abraham was (d) ſeventy and three Years old about the latter End of the Year 2082. And perhaps about the ſame Time, if (e) the Arabick Hiſtorian may be credited, GOD heard his Prayers in a Time of publick Calamities, when great Numbers of Birds devour'd the Seed ſown in the Ground, and their Idols could not help them. Thus the true GOD being known to him, he at the Command of GOD, and in his Zeal againſt falſe Worſhip, burnt an Idol Temple in one of the Cities of the Chaldeans, and moſt probably in Ur; and his Brother Haran coming to quench it, periſh'd in the Flames. And thus (f) Haran died before his father Terah in the land of his nativity in Ur of the Chaldees. If this was true, then there was a viſible Reaſon, why not only Abraham, but alſo his Father Terah, and Lot his Brother's Son and their Families ſhould depart the Country, namely, for fear of being deſtroy'd by the incens'd Multitude, and accordingly to encourage them therein, GOD commanded Abraham (g) to depart, and gave him the Promiſe. Thus this Promiſe was giv'n, when Abraham was (h) ſeventy three Years old and an half, and in the Year of the World 2083. Upon this he travails in the Summer with his aged Father Terah (who could travail but ſlowly) and came to Haran, and being detain'd by his Father's Sickneſs and Infirmities, he (i) dwelt there. There he ſpends the Winter, and there in or near the Spring, his Father died, being (k) two hundred and five Years old. In the (l) Spring following, when Abraham was in his ſeventy fifth Year, he removes from thence, and travails into the Land of Canaan, where he ſettles for ſome Time. This ſeems to be the genuine Account mention'd in the Scriptures; and it not only places the Departure of the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt, which (m) depends thereon, ſo as to agree with Aſtronomical Obſervations (of which in its due Place) but it may be farther confirm'd by the Celeſtial Occurrences of the Epocha from the Creation of the World to the Flood, as in the former Book.

8. There are (n) ſome Authors of conſiderable Note, who look upon Ur, the Town from whence Abraham came, to be the ſame with Urchoa, and place it ſouthward of Babylon, at ſome Diſtance. Others place it (o) to the North of Babylon, ſo that the Longitude of all three Places is almoſt the ſame. The Reaſon why Ur is plac'd Northward of Babylon I know not, unleſs it is, that Haran may lie leſs out of the Road from Ur to the Land of Canaan. But the (p) learned Bochartus places Ur of the Chaldees in that Part of Meſopotamia, which was neareſt to Aſſyria in the Way from the River Tigris to Niſibis the capital City of that Country near the Latitude of 37 Degrees, and about five Degrees of Longitude eaſtward from Jeruſalem. And his Reaſons are two. Firſt, Becauſe according to this Situation Haran lies in the direct Road from Ur to the Land of Canaan. And ſecondly, It will beſt anſwer to the Deſcription, which St. Stephen (q) gives of it, The GOD of glory appeared unto our father Abraham, when he was in Meſopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran. And he ſaid unto him, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land, which I ſhall ſhew thee. Then came he out of the land of the Chaldeans, and dwelt in Charran, and from thence, when his father was dead, he remov'd him into the land, wherein ye now dwell. And therefore tho' the Moon was firſt viſible at the Beginning of the Year abovemention'd on the ſame Evening in all Parts of Aſia; yet I ſhall take the Place of Ur in Meſopotamia as aſſign'd by Bochartus, and not in Babylonia, for (r) the following Calculation; by which it will appear, that (s) this Promiſe of a Bleſſing was giv'n to Abraham on the Day of the Antemoſaical Sabbath.

9. As therefore Jeruſalem, according to our lateſt and beſt Maps is plac'd about 37 Degrees diſtant in Longitude from London, and about the Latitude of 31 Deg. 30″; ſo if five Degrees, being the Difference of Longitude between Jeruſalem and Ur be added, the Longitude of Ur from London appears to be about forty two Degrees, which being reduc'd into Time makes $2^{h}.\ 48'.$ for the Difference in Calculation.

10. It appears from theſe (t) Tables, that the Promiſe was giv'n in the 2788th Year of the Julian Period, and this Number (u) being divided by 28 the Remainder is 16, and (x) the Dominical Letter for that Year is B. And it alſo appears by Calculation, that (y) in the ſame Year, the Sun came to the Autumnal Equinox on the tenth Day of October in the Longitude of Ur of the Chaldees, and that in the ſame Year (z) the Moon was viſible on the twelfth Day in the Evening, and conſequently that the Year began on the thirteenth Day; ſo that it appears by the underwritten Computation, that the fourteenth Day of the ſeventh Month happen'd to be on the twenty fourth Day of April, whoſe (a) Dominical Letter is B, which ſhews, that this Day happen'd to be on the Day of the Antemoſaical Sabbath, as aforeſaid.

Mercy, as to be guilty of ſo great a Sin. But Secondly, omitting this Argument, it is certain, that Canaan the Son of Ham was not born till after the Flood, and it might be ſeveral Years after before he was born, becauſe he was (b) always plac'd the laſt of Ham's four Children, tho' his Poſterity was ſo much ſpoken of in the Scripture Hiſtory. This makes it very probable, that he was the youngeſt Son. And yet at this Time he was grown to ſo full an Age, as to be a Sharer in his Father's Sin, which makes him alone ſo particularly mention'd as a Sharer in his Father's Puniſhment. And Laſtly, Noah's Curſing of Ham, his Bleſſing of Shem and Japhet, and his giving the greateſt and firſt Bleſſing to Shem, who was not the firſt Born, might well cauſe ſuch Feuds and Animoſities between them, that it was high Time to think of ſeparating them one from the other, in the ſame Manner, as it afterward happen'd to (c) Jacob and Eſau upon the like Occaſion.

12. In theſe Tables I alſo place the Confuſion of Languages and Diſperſion from Babylon in the hundred and thirty firſt Year after the Flood, whereas (d) others place it in the hundred and firſt Year at the Birth of Peleg. My Reaſon not to place it there is, becauſe there being only the three Sons of Noah, and there could not be more than (e) three Generations ſprung up from them to people the World, it cannot well be ſuppos'd, that the World could be ſo populous in that ſmall Space of Time, as to inhabit the whole Country from the Place where the Ark landed to Babylon, and from thence to be diſpers'd into remoter Kingdoms. Beſides, they might be firſt divided into the Countries adjacent to the Habitation of Noah, and (f) after that over the whole earth; but they could not be divided into all Countries from Babylon, becauſe many Countries, eſpecially toward the Eaſt, from (g) whence they came thither, were inhabited before. Therefore it is more probable, that the Diviſion at the Birth of Peleg was the firſt Diviſion made by Noah, when he allotted the Northern and Eaſtern Parts of Aſia, which was the greateſt Part to Shem, the Weſt and the Southweſt Parts to Ham, that he might go from thence into Africa, and the Northweſt Part to Japhet, that he might go from thence into Europe. This occaſion'd the Poſterity of Ham and Japhet to travail together Weſtward, and accordingly they came to Babylon, and endeavour'd to prevent the Deſign of the firſt Diviſion by fixing there. Thus the Differences about Noah's Curſing Ham, and his Bleſſing of Shem and Japhet might occaſion the firſt Diſperſion at the Birth of Peleg. And Noah's Expulſion of Japhet the elder Brother together with Ham, might cauſe them to unite more firmly together, and ſo to contrive to build a Tower, and fix ſo near to the Poſterity of Shem, that in Time they might revenge themſelves upon them: And from hence did Ham ſet upon his ancient Father Noah, and drove him into China. And as this Tower might be thirty Years in Building; ſo I ſuppoſe, that the Diſperſion from Babylon was thirty Years after, according as (h) Beroſus, one of the moſt ancient Writers hath placed it.

13. But here it may be ask'd, Whether Abraham was the eldeſt Son of Terah? If he was not, Why hath Moſes (i) nam'd him the firſt of all his Brethren? And if he was, then he was born, when Terah was ſeventy Years of Age, and not as theſe and other Tables place him an hundred and thirty.

14. To this it may be anſwer'd, Firſt, That he is reckon'd to be the firſt of Terah's Sons, as Shem was the firſt of Noah's, not becauſe he was the firſt in Time but the firſt in Dignity, both upon the Account of his Piety, and alſo becauſe the remaining Part of the Scripture Hiſtory relates principally to his Family.

15. But Secondly, He was not the eldeſt Son of Terah. For Firſt, It is generally ſuppos'd, that (k) he marry'd his Brother Haran's Daughter, and (l) ſhe was but ten Years younger than himſelf, which muſt have been impoſſible, if her Father was younger than he. Thus Lot was (m) Abraham's Brother's Son by his Father Haran, and yet (n) Abraham calls him his Brother, perhaps as marry'd to his Siſter, and ſo being his Brother-in-law. And as it is uſual in the Scripture for the ſame Perſon to have two Names; ſo it is generally thought, that Sarah the Wife of Abraham is the ſame, who (o) is call'd Iſcah. And as GOD had bleſſed Abraham, inſomuch that (p) he was reckon'd a mighty Prince in thoſe Times; ſo when GOD gave Abraham the firſt Promiſe (q) of the Bleſſing, he might then call her Name Sarai, which might then ſignify my Princeſs, as it did ſince in the Hebrew Language with very little Variation. If ſo, then there is a very good Reaſon, Why ſhe ſhould be reckon'd among the Children of Haran; otherwiſe it will be difficult to ſhew, Why ſhe ſhould be mention'd there, and not in any other Part of the Scripture; and alſo to ſhew, Why ſhe ſhould be mention'd at all, ſince the Name of no other Woman was recorded from the Time of the Flood to the Time of Terah the Father of Abraham. This Expoſition will make the Account of the Genealogy of that Family very plain and eaſy. (r) Now theſe are the generations of Terah. Terah was the Father of braham, Nahor and Haran; and Haran was the Father of his Son Lot, and of his two Daughters, Milcah and Sarah, who is call'd Iſcah. And Haran died in the land of his nativity in Ur of the Chaldees. And Abraham and Nahor took them wives; the name of Abraham's wife was Sarai or Iſcah; and the name of Nahor's wife was Milcah; and theſe were the Siſters of Lot, and the Daughters of Haran, who was the Father not only of Lot, but alſo of Milcah, the Wife of Nahor, and alſo the Father of Iſcah, or of Sarah the Wife of Abraham. Secondly, Abraham (s) is ſaid to be but ſeventy and five Years old, when he departed out of Haran, and (t) this was after his Father's Death. Now if he had been born at Terah's being ſeventy Years old, he muſt have been an hundred and thirty Years old, when his Father died, who was (u) two hundred and five Years old at his Death. We muſt therefore compute the Years backwards; and ſo by ſubſtracting ſeventy and five Years, being the Years of Abraham when Terah died, from two hundred and five Years, being the Age of Terah at his Death, it appears, that Abraham was born, not when Terah was ſeventy, but when he was an hundred and thirty Years old, and ſo it is expreſs'd in the following Table at the End of this Book.

CHAP. II.

Of the Place where the Ark landed.

HAVING in (a) a Chapter of the former Book endeavour'd to prove, that the Ark might probably be built at a Place call'd Cyparisſon between the Rivers Lycus and Caprus on the North North Eaſt Side of the City of Babylon, and that it ſail'd from thence to the North Eaſt as far as the Caſpian Sea, and then it came back by a Southern Courſe, 'till it came almoſt to the Eaſt of Babylon, at about nine Degrees Diſtance from it in Longitude, I ſhall now ſay ſomething more on this Subject, to confirm that this was the Place where the Ark landed, becauſe the Settling of this Particular will be of the utmoſt Conſequence to direct us in Deſcribing the Manner how the World was repeopl'd immediately after the Flood in their reſpective Nations.

2. As all the Heathen Writers are but of a very late Date in Compariſon of the five Books of Moſes, and as they have mix'd ſeveral Fabulous Stories with this, and deſcrib'd ſeveral other Floods, particularly thoſe of Deucaleon and Ogyges, as if they had been this univerſal Flood, and as they have been partial in writing in the firſt Ages, to make their own Nation be accounted the firſt, and to be many thouſands of Years more ancient than they really were; ſo none of theſe Authorities can be depended upon; and therefore the ſacred Scriptures muſt be our only Guide in this Inquiry, and from hence we may obſerve three Particulars.

3. Firſt, That (b) the Ark reſted on one of the Mountains of Ararat. This we are told in expreſs Words. It is (c) univerſally agreed by the learned, that the Word (d) Ararat doth in the ſacred Scriptures ſignify the Country call'd Armenia firſt by the Greeks, and afterward by other Nations. And from thence the moſt receiv'd Opinion hath been, that the Mountains of Ararat ſignify'd only the ſame as the Mountains of Armenia; and this hath occaſion'd ſo many Authors of the beſt Credit to affirm, that the Ark landed in that Country. The Chaldee Paraphraſe (e) calls them the Mountains of Kardu, by which undoubtedly is meant the Gordiæan Mountains in Armenia the greater; and there is a Hill in thoſe Parts, where the Inhabitants ſhew large Pieces of old rotten Timber, and tell thoſe, who are willing to ſpend their Time and Mony to ſee the Curioſity, that they are the Pieces of the Ark, which landed there. But in anſwer to this, there is a mighty Ridge of Mountains, that extend themſelves far beyond the Country of Armenia, which are call'd, The Mountains of Ararat. Thus there are ſeveral Mountains, that divide Italy from France, which are call'd (f) The Alps; and there are ſeveral Mountains that divide France from Spain, which are call'd The Pyrenæan Mountains. And thus it is alſo in Aſia. That long Ledge of Mountains, which Pliny calls only Taurus, until they run along, and croſs the Mountains of Imaus, are of one general Name. Ptolomy calls the long Ledge of Mountains, which are between the Caſpian and Euxine Sea by the Name of Caucaſus. And another Row of Mountains runs almoſt North and South for many hundred Miles, and are only call'd The Mountains of Imaus. And thus thoſe Mountains, which run almoſt Eaſt and Weſt beginning in Armenia, and ending near the Eaſt-Indies, are call'd The Mountains of Ararat. And the Manner of ſpeaking in the Hebrew Language, The Ark reſted on the Mountains of Ararat, leaves it undetermin'd in what Part to fix it without ſome other Teſtimonies. Thus GOD (*) overthrew the cities, in which Lot dwelt. i. e. In one of which he dwelt. And thus it is ſaid of Jephtha in a like (g) Phraſe, that he was buried in the cities of Gilead, meaning only as we tranſlate it, one of them, and not determining which. So that we need not ſcruple to extend the Mountains of Ararat from Aſia the leſs, to the Confines of Tartary, Perſia and India.

4. The Ark reſted on that Part of the Mountains of Ararat, which lay Eaſtward from Babylon. This will help us to a nearer Diſcovery of the Place, and is very plain from (h) the Words of Moſes, And it came to paſs, as they journey'd from the eaſt, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar, and they dwelt there, and they built a City, which was call'd Babel or Babylon, or Confuſion, becauſe the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth; and from thence did the LORD ſcatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth. They came from their firſt Habitation after the Flood, which was near the Place where the Ark landed, and they came alſo from the Eaſt to build the Tower of Babylon. For the Enforcing of (i) this Argument, it is very evident, that in moſt Places, whereſoever Moſes makes a Difference of Countries, he generally names toward what Quarters of the World they are ſeated: as where he ſheweth the Colonies of Joktan, he names (k) Sephar a Mountain Eaſtward from Meſha; And ſo it is. When (l) he ſpeaks of Cain's Departure from the Preſence of GOD, he adds, And he dwelt in the Land of Nod toward the Eaſt Side of Eden. And ſo it was. When (m) he deſcribes the Tents and Habitations of Abraham after he departed from Shechem, he uſeth theſe Words, And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the eaſt of Bethel, and pitched his tent, having Bethel on the weſt, and Hai on the eaſt, and there he builded an altar unto the LORD, and call'd upon the name of the LORD. And ſo it was. And (n) in the next Verſe he ſaith, And Abraham journeyed going on ſtill toward the ſouth. And this was the direct Courſe, which he took. Thus when (o) the Prophet Ezekiel ſpoke againſt Gog and Magog, he tells us in what Part of the World we may find them, by joyning them with the houſe of Togarmah of the north quarters, where they really dwelt. It is ſaid in the (p) New Teſtament of the Queen of Sheba, that ſhe came from the South to hear the Wiſdom of Solomon. And ſo ſhe did. And that (h) the Magi or Wiſemen came from the eaſt to Jeruſalem by the Guiding of a Star to find out the Place where CHRIST was to be born. And ſo they did. And ſince in all other Places of Scripture, there is an exact Account given of that Quarter of the World, where the Places mention'd do really lie, we may the better conclude, that they who came to build the Tower of Babylon, came from the Eaſt, as it is plainly mention'd, and not from any other, eſpecially diſtant Point of the Compaſs.

5. And Thirdly, As it was eaſtward from Babylon; ſo it could not be at a vaſt Diſtance from it. This is evident from the Time when they came to Babylon, which was at the Birth of Peleg, or (r) in the hundred and firſt Year after the Flood. It was always Cuſtomary to give Names to Perſons ſoon after they were born, and Peleg had this Name giv'n him, becauſe (s) in his days the earth was divided. The Reaſon of this Diviſion was, becauſe the Number of Families were then ſo great, that they muſt take up more Room upon the Earth: And as Bees drive out one another from their Hives; ſo the elder Families did drive the younger out to ſeek for Habitations at a greater Diſtance. But at this Time there were only four Families born from the Sons of Noah, by (t) whom the whole earth was overſpread, and the Number of Men at that Time may be gueſs'd at from (u) a ſubſequent Table in this Book. And therefore tho' they did ſpread themſelves abroad at a greater Diſtance (x) leſt the beaſts of the earth ſhould increaſe upon them; yet we cannot ſuppoſe them to come from a greater Diſtance, than the neareſt Mountains of Ararat, which lay Eaſtward from Babylon, and there the Ark is ſuppos'd to land.

6. From what hath been ſaid, it is eaſy to confute the Opinions of thoſe, who affirm, that the Ark landed in another Part of the World. The firſt Opinion is, (y) that the Ark landed in Phrygia near the Heads of the two Rivers Marſyas and Meander, where there was a City call'd Celænæ, in which there was a Palace of Cyrus. This Opinion is owing to ſome Verſes of the Sibilline Oracles, where it is thus deſcrib'd.

(z) A Phrygian Mount doth riſe ſo very high,
It may be ſaid to touch the lofty Sky,
Near to Celænæ*'s ſtately Walls, where all*
Who live therein, do it Ararat call.

And if this Sibyll can be credited, this Mountain of Ararat was in Phrygia, and the particular Place is more exactly told, thus:

(a) Here Marſyas ſprings to water all the Plains,
And here the Relicks of the Ark remains
Upon a Mountain high.

Now

Now it is agreed upon by all the learned, that the Springs of Marſyas riſe near the City of Celænæ, near to which Place, and from the ſame Mountain, riſeth the River Mæander ſo eminently known for its many Turnings and Windings, before it falls into the Ægæan Sea. And this Sibyll muſt be a proper Judge in this Caſe, if ſhe can be believ'd, ſince (b) ſhe tells us her ſelf, that ſhe ſuffer'd many Storms and Tempeſts in the Ark, where ſhe eſcap'd Death with her Father and Mother in Law, and her Husband's Brothers and their Wives. But it unluckily happens that ſhe ſpoils her own Credit in the very Story that ſhe relates; becauſe when ſhe ſpeaks of her ſelf as cotemporary with Noah, ſhe takes Notice of the River Marſyas. What was the Name of this River at firſt is uncertain; but after the Death of Midas it was call'd the Fountain of Midus, and it kept its Name until the Time of Marſyas, by whom it was alſo alter'd, and this muſt be long after the Death of this Sybill.

7. But Secondly, It is very probable, that the Mountain of Ararat was one of the higheſt in the Country, becauſe when (d) the Ark reſted upon it on the ſeventeenth day of the ſeventh month; yet the tops of the mountains were not ſeen until the firſt day of the tenth month. This Mountain the Sibyll deſcribes as very high and broad. And when the Scythians contended with the Egyptians concerning the Antiquity of their Kingdom, they pleaded the Height of the Mountains in their Behalf, that (e) if all the Earth was overwhelm'd with Water, then as the Waters decreas'd, the higheſt Part would be firſt diſcover'd. But the firſt Geographers among the Greeks, and particularly (f) Strabo and Ptolomy tell us, that at the Place call'd Celenæ where the River Marſyas begins, there is no ſuch Mountain, but only a Hill or a Heap, and (g) Stephanus ſeems to intimate, that it was made by Art as a Monument, and not by Nature, for he only calls it the Hill in which Marſyas was bury'd. And beſides this the Scripture tells us, that they, who eſcap'd out of the Ark, came from the Eaſt, when they went into the Land of Shinar or Babylon; but they who would travel from Phrygia thither, muſt come from the Weſt, ſo that there could hardly be a wider Difference in the whole Heavens.

8. But the learned Bochartus hath given us the Original of this Miſtake, which is this, The City of Apamea was built near Celænæ either by Antiochus Soter or by Seleuchus not far from the River Marſyas, into which they afterward tranſplanted the Inhabitants of Celænæ, and hence it happen'd, that ſeveral of the ancient Writers call'd both theſe Places by the ſame Name, and the Name of this Apamea was alſo call'd κιβωτὸς, which is the Word by which the Ark is call'd in the Septuagint, and conſequently from hence this Writer concluded, that this could mean no other than the Ark of Noah, ſo that he muſt certainly land here. But there are other Reaſons giv'n, why this Place was call'd by this Name. It was incloſ'd as in a Cheſt or Ark by the Rivers Marſyas, Obrimas and Orgas, which ran into the Mæander. And thus the Port of Alexandria was call'd κιβωτὸς or an Ark from the Harbour, which incloſ'd the Ships. And there is another Reaſon for this Name, becauſe it was a Town of the greateſt Dignity next to Epheſus, and the common Receiver of the Trade both of Italy and Greece.

9. The ſecond Opinion is, That the Ark landed in Iberia, or that Part of Armenia, which extends it ſelf from Armenia, and the Havens near the Mountains of Caucaſus, as far as the River Tanais and the Palus Mæotis, and as far as Scythia. But this Country was never call'd in Scripture by the Name of the Land or Mountains of Ararat, but the Land of Gog and Magog; and it doth not lye Eaſtward but Northward from Babylon.

10. The third Opinion is, that Ararat ſignify'd Armenia, and there are ſuch a Cloud of Teſtimonies to prove not only that Armenia was call'd Ararat, but alſo that the Ark landed in Armenia; that it inclin'd the learned Bochartus to be of that Opinion. And here alſo there is ſome Difference. A few Authors among whom St. Jerome is the Chief, tell us, that Ararat is a plain Country of incredible Fruitfulneſs, through which the River Araxes runs, which empties it ſelf into the South Weſt Side of the Caſpian Sea. And there the High Mountains of Taurus are plac'd, where Noah and his Family landed, and built a City call'd Cemainus (from the Hebrew Word שמונה, which ſignifies eight) becauſe it was at firſt built and inhabited by thoſe eight Perſons, who were ſav'd from the Flood. But this Notion alſo places the Ark on the North and not on the Eaſt Side of Babylon.

11. But the (h) greater Number of Authors both ancient and modern, who take the Mountains of Ararat to be ſituate within the Country of Armenia, do agree, that the Ark reſted in that Part of the Mountains, which in Greek and Latin Writers is call'd The Gordiæan Mountains (or with ſome Variation, the Mountains of the Cordyæi, Cordueni, Curduchi, Curdi, &c.) and which lye near the Spring of the River Tigris, or at moſt not very far from it. For the Proof hereof many Authors are quoted, Latin, Greek and Arabick, together with the Jewiſh Paraphraſts and primitive Fathers, whoſe Authority ſeems to be ſufficient to carry all before them. For the Proof of this it is affirm'd by ſome, that there is a Part of a large Ship to be ſeen upon ſome of theſe Mountains, and many People take from thence ſome of the Bitumen or Pitch, which they uſe for a Charm. But it is ſtrange any ſuch Wood ſhould endure for ſo many hundred Years on the Top of a Mountain, and be thereby expos'd to all Sorts of Weather without being rotten. And that if there was ſuch Virtue in the Bitumen, it had not all been ſcrap'd off many Years, before any of theſe Authors wrote about it. But the Story ſeems to be this. Several credulous People believe it to be true, and ſpend their Money to come and ſee it, and to carry away the Charm with them. The Country People very well know, that by this Trick they get Money, and therefore do not fail to help them to the Sight of a rotten Poſt, or a ſufficient Quantity of Bitumen to ſcrape off from it, as long as there are any ſuch in the Country, or People, who are able to carry it up by Night into the Mountain. We are alſo told, that in the ſame Neighbourhood there was a Town call'd Cemaan or Thamana ſo call'd from theſe eight Perſons which came out of the Ark. There are two Places of this Name, one at the Head of the Tigris and another near the River Araxes, and both theſe are above two hundred Miles Diſtance from each other; ſo that if for this Reaſon we can prove, that the Ark landed at one of theſe Places, we may for the ſame Reaſon prove, that it landed at both Places; and if we know not which is the right Place, we may ſuſpect that both are wrong. It is certain, that theſe Pieces of the Ark did not decide the Controverſy, even among thoſe who affirm'd, that it landed in Armenia, ſome placing theſe Mountains at the Spring of the River Tigris, and others placing them much nearer to Babylon, even upon the North Part of Aſſyria, where (i) Theodoret ſaith, there ſtands the higheſt Mountain in the whole World, and that by the Help of this Mountain, the King of Babylon, intended to aſcend into heaven, and ſo to exalt his Throne above the ſtars of GOD, and to be like the moſt high. And (k) Benjamin the Jew ſaith, that he went two Days Journey from Niſibis, to the Iſland of the Son of Omar, which is in the Middle of the Tigris at the Foot of the Mountain of Ararat, and is but four Miles diſtant from the Place where the Ark reſted. And he adds, that Omar, the Son of Alcitab carry'd off the Relicks of the Ark from that Place into the Iſland, and built a Mahometan Church with them. And this is enough to diſcredit the Stories of thoſe Pieces, which are reported to have been ſeen in after Ages. Others ſay, that ſome Part of the Gordiæan Mountains are call'd, The Corcyræan Mountains, and that the Inhabitants ſpoke a brok'n Arabick, in which Language قوركور Corcur ſignifies a very long and great Ship, and therefore the Mountains are call'd the Corcyræan Mountains, becauſe the great Ship or Ark of Noah landed there. But other Reaſons may be given for ſuch a Name. Ships might come to the Bottom of thoſe Mountains along the Tigris, and give them this Name. Karcor (l) was the Name of a Town, to which Zebah and Zalmunnah fled on the farther Side of Jordan, and there are two Iſlands call'd Corcyra, one in the Ionian and another in the Adriatick Sea, which might as well lay claim as the other. But if we muſt inſiſt on the Signification of the Word in the Arabick Language, it is plain, that the (m) Word قوركوة ſignifies a Country in which men live peaceably and quietly, and conſequently, when the Inhabitants had came from the Eaſtern Parts thither, and reſolv'd to ſettle there, they might reſolve to give it this Name, rather for this, than for any other Reaſon. Joſephus tells us, (n) that the Armenians call'd the Place where the Ark landed Apobaterion or the Place of the Deſcent. And he alſo adds, that (o) Nicolaus of Damaſcus ſpeaks to this Purpoſe. In the Province of Minyas in Armenia, there is a high Mountain call'd Baris, to which Place there fled a great many People, as the Story goes in the Time of a Deluge for Sanctuary. And there is a Tradition alſo, of a certain Man in a Veſſel that ſtruck upon the Top of this Mountain, and that ſeveral Pieces of the Timber were to be ſeen there a long Time after. And to this Joſephus adds, that this perhaps might be the Man, that Moſes ſpeaks of. And the learned (p) Bochartus and others agree, that Baris in the Armenian Language is the ſame with Apobaterion or a Deſcent in the Greek. Beſides (q) one of the Gordiæan Mountains, which is higher than the Reſt is call'd Lubar, which in the Armenian and Egyptian Tongue ſignifies A Place of Deſcent, which Name is ſaid to be taken from Noah's coming down from thence with his Family. But this is only a meer Suppoſition without any Proof, ſince any Hill from whence we muſt deſcend may be ſo call'd, and nothing is more common than ſuch Names in Scripture. Here we have (r) Maaleh or The going up of Akrabbim, The (s) Going up to Adummin, The (t) Going up to Gur, The (u) Cauſey of the Going up, The (x) Going down to Bethoron, And (y) The Going down of Heronaim. And thus (z) among the Egyptians, Lubra ſignify'd a Synagogue, becauſe it was commonly built upon ſome high Place, from whence alſo the Latin Word Delubrum may ſeem to be deriv'd. And (a) they who belong'd to the Synagogue of the Egyptians are call'd Libertini; ſo that there is no Arguing from Words of ſuch a general Signification to any particular Meaning. So that the Name of Lubar might properly be giv'n to any Mountain, and eſpecially to that, becauſe the Paſſage up and down to it is reported to be more fair, than to any of the reſt adjoyning.

12. But our Countryman Sir Walter Raleigh (b) gives us other Reaſons to confute the Opinion of the Ark's landing in Armenia. He ſaith, It is plain that (c) Noah planted a vineyard. And to this he adds, That the Fruit of the Vine did not grow naturally in that Part of Armenia, where the Ark was ſuppos'd to land. For if the Vine was a Stranger in Italy and France, and brought from other Countries thither, it is not probable, that it grew naturally in Armenia being a much colder Country. For Tyrrhenus firſt brought Vines into France. And at ſuch Time as Brennus and the Gauls invaded Italy, there were few or no Vines in France. For Plutarch in the Life of Camillus tells us, that the Gauls remain'd between the Pyrænæan Mountains and the Alps near to the Senones, where they continu'd a great while until they drank Wine, which was firſt brought them out of Italy, and moſt probably out of the Southern or fartheſt Part of it, or elſe they would have known of it ſooner. And after they had taſted of it, they haſted to inhabit that Country, which brought forth ſuch pleaſant Fruit. And therefore the Fruit of the Vine was not natural in France, but brought thither either from the South Part of Spain or Italy. And it is plain, that Noah did not travel far to ſeek out the Vine. For the Planting of it is mention'd, before there was any Conſultation how to diſpoſe of the World among his Children; and the firſt thing mention'd of him, after he had offer'd Sacrifice to GOD is, that he began to be an husbandman, and he planted a vineyard. And therefore the Vine grew naturally, where the Ark reſted, which could not be in ſo cold a Country as that of Armenia.

13. Beſides, It is not certain from them, who place the Reſting of the Ark in thoſe Parts, where this Mountain of Ararat was. For the Books of the Sibylls ſet it in Phrygia, and Beroſus in Armenia. And as for the Authority of Beroſus, it cannot be ſufficient on this Occaſion, Secondly, The Authors themſelves do not agree, in what Country the Gordyæan Mountains ſtood. For Ptolomy diſtinguiſheth the Armenian and Gordyæan Mountains, and calls thoſe of Armenia, Moſchici and Paryardes. But the Paryardes are ſituated in the Middle of Armenia, and the Moſchi are thoſe Hills, which ſeparate Colchis Iberia and Albania from Armenia. Thirdly, It cannot be prov'd, that there is any ſuch Hill in Armenia or in the whole World as Baris. For (as St. Jerome ſaith) Baris ſignifies a high Tower, and therefore all high Hills, and eſpecially the higheſt of all may be more properly ſo call'd. And laſtly, To ſay that the Ark reſted on the Hill call'd Baris, becauſe it was the higheſt Hill in Armenia, is nothing to the Purpoſe. For there were other Hills which did far exceed thoſe in Armenia; and if they did not, yet it doth not follow, that the Ark ſhould reſt upon the higheſt of all. And tho' it is probable, that it landed upon one of the higheſt Mountains in the Country, becauſe the others were not ſeen for a conſiderable Time after; yet it is much more probable, that it landed in a Country, where the Mountains were very low; for if they had been high and ſteep, it would not have been ſo eaſy a Matter, for ſuch Beaſts, as naturally live upon the Plains, and eſpecially thoſe, which were very large, as the Elephant, Horſe and Cow to come down from thence.

14. There is one Way, by which we may gueſs at the Height of the Mountain, where the Ark landed, which is this. Moſes tells us (d) that the Ark drew fifteen Cubits of Water, when it landed on one of the Mountains of Ararat, which was on the ſeventeenth Day of the ſeventh Month. On (e) the firſt Day of the tenth Month the Tops of Mountains were ſeen, which was ſeventy four Days Diſtance. And (f) on the firſt day of the firſt Month in the next Year Noah removed the covering of the ark, and he look'd, and behold the face of the earth was dry. This was at fifty four Days Diſtance. Now let us ſuppoſe, that in theſe fifty four Days the Waters abated as much as in the other ſeventy four Days, and that the Mountains which were ſeen were near to the Mountain, where the Ark landed; in ſuch a Caſe the Mountain, where the Ark landed, could not be above fifteen Cubits or thirty Feet high. Or ſuppoſing that the Tops of the Mountains were twenty Miles diſtance (which is as much as can be ſuppos'd, ſince they could be diſtinctly known to be Mountains) even (g) in ſuch a Caſe the Curve of the Water would take away about $5\frac{1}{3}$ Perch from the Sight; ſo that a Mountain of leſs than thirteen Perch high might be viſible at ſuch a Diſtance, in the ſame Manner as Moſes deſcribes it.

15. But that which alſo deſtroys the Credit of this Opinion, that the Ark landed in Armenia is, that the Scripture tells us, they came from the Eaſt to the Land of Shinar or Babylon, and all theſe Countries lye to the North-weſt.

16. There is one Opinion more, which is that of our Countryman Sir Walter Raleigh, who makes the Ark land Eaſtward from Babylon, as the Scriptures do mention; but places the Mountain of Ararat, where it reſted, near Scythia and Sogdiana and almoſt as far as the Eaſt-Indies, ſo that there are no leſs than thirty Degrees diſtance in Longitude between theſe two Places. Thus hath he cut out long Journeys for thoſe early Times. His firſt Argument againſt the common Opinion is, that if the Ark had firſt reſted in Armenia, it is very improbable, that the Children of Noah, which came into the Valley, could have ſpent ſo many Years in ſo ſhort a Paſſage; ſince the Country of Meſopotamia only lay between them, which might by eaſy Journeys have been paſs'd over in twenty Days; and to haſt'n and help this Paſſage the navigable River of Tigris offer'd it ſelf, which is every where paſſable by Boats of great Burden; ſo that while the Deſerts on the one Side reſiſted their Expedition into other Parts, the River ſeem'd on the Contrary to promote it on this Side, which roſe out of the ſame Ledge of Mountains, or at the Foot of them where the Ark of Noah was firſt ſuppos'd to find Ground. But if we allow, that they came to Shinar at the Birth of Peleg, at which Time the Earth was divided, and which was in the hundredth and firſt Year after the Flood, we may very well conclude, that it was impoſſible for them to people ſo large a Tract of Land in ſo little a Time, or that they would wander through ſo many Deſerts, and over ſo many Mountains to come to Babylon, but that they would rather have pitch'd upon any other Plain, which lay in their Way.

17. Another Argument to prove thoſe Parts of the Earth to be firſt inhabited, is the Civility and Magnificence of the People of the Eaſt. The Invention of Guns is ſaid to be owing to them, and that they have had them Time out of Mind, inſomuch that the Paſſage of (h) Philoſtratus, tho' expreſs'd in fabulous Words, is now thought to be a Reality, who ſaith, That the wiſe Men, who dwelt between Hyphaſis and Ganges did not uſually go forth themſelves to Battle, but they drove away their Enemies with Thunder and Lightning ſent from Jupiter. The Invention of Printing is alſo aſcrib'd to the Eaſtern World, and from thence John Cuthenberg, a German, brought it into Europe, by whom Conradus being inſtructed, brought it to Rome; and after that Nicolaus Gerſon, a Frenchman, improv'd both the Letters and the Invention. That even Writing it ſelf was not more ancient in Greece than the Time of Cadmus, who brought it from the Eaſt. And that the Chineſe had Letters long before other People, and are ſo civiliz'd in their Carriage and Behaviour, that they count all other People Savages in reſpect of themſelves. To this may be added the Conqueſts of Alexander the Great, who found more Cities and Sumptuoſity in that little Kingdom of Porus, which joyn'd to the Eaſt-Indies, than in all his other Travels and Exploits. For in Alexander's Time, Learning and Greatneſs had not travel'd ſo far to the Weſt as Rome; and Alexander look'd upon Italy only as a barbarous Country, and Rome but as a Village. But it was Babylon, which ſtood in his Eye; and the Fame of the Eaſt, which pierc'd his Ears. And if we look on the moſt eaſtern Parts of Aſia, we ſhall find,

(g) In this Figure let [a] be the Mountain on which the Ark landed, and [b] the Mountain ſeen at ſuch a Diſtance as to make the Angle at [c] the Center of the Earth to be twenty Minutes, the Line [ac] is the Secant of the Angle [acd] or of half of the Angle [acb]. And therefore as the Sine of 10 Minutes is to the Tangent of the ſame; ſo is the Semediameter of the Earth, or 3984 Engliſh Miles (as Dereham ſtates it in his Aſtro-theology, Page 10) to the Secant $3984\frac{1}{6}$ Miles, which leaves the Sinking of the Water in the firſt fifty four Days to be $\frac{1}{60}$ Mile or $5\frac{1}{3}$ Perch, beſide the fifteen Cubits, which the Waters prevail'd above ſuch a Height. And if in the other ſeventy four Days, when the Earth was dry, the Height of the Waters which abated, was equal to the other, and even allowing two Perch inſtead of the Height of the fifteen Cubits, the Height of the Water will be as follows:

	Perch
Height of the Mountain when Viſible	$5\frac{1}{3}$
Abatement in 54 Days ——	$7\frac{1}{3}$
Abatement in the other 74 Days ——	$7\frac{1}{3}$
Total	$14\frac{2}{3}$
Waters above the Mountains 15 Cubits or	2	Subſtract.
Remains	$12\frac{2}{3}$	for the Height of the Mountain, where the Ark landed.

(h) In vitâ Apollonii Tianæi, lib. 2. cap. 14.

that thoſe Nations have communicated their Knowledge to us, and not receiv'd it from us. And Paulus Venetus reports of Japan, That the Iſlanders are exceedingly addicted to Religion, Learning and Philoſophy, and the moſt diligent Searchers out of Truth. There is nothing more frequent among them than Prayer, which they uſe in their Churches after the Manner of Chriſtians, and they acknowledge one King, and worſhip one GOD. So that their Antiquity, Magnificence, Civility, Riches, Sumptuous Buildings, and Policy in Government, is reported to be ſuch, by thoſe who have been employ'd in thoſe Parts, that it ſeems to exceed all other Kingdoms of the World. All theſe may be probable Arguments, that the Country which lay eaſtward from Babylon, was firſt inhabited, and conſequently that the Ark landed in thoſe Parts. But they leave us at Liberty to fix the particular Place according as it ſhall appear from other Arguments.

18. To this Sir Walter Raleigh adds, the wonderful Reſiſtance, which Semiramis, the Queen of Babylon found in the Eaſt-Indies. Diadorus Siculus gives us ſuch a ſtrange Report of her Army, that we may look upon the Number to be fabulous, and that the hundredth Part of them is moſt likely to be true, which is thirty thouſand Foot, five thouſand Horſe, and one thouſand Chariots. She was alſo the Wife of Ninus, the Son of Belus, and Grandſon of Nimrod, the Founder of the Aſſyrian Monarchy and Builder of Babylon. But let her Army be what it would, ſhe was engag'd in that War with an equal Army conducted by Staurobates King of India. If then theſe Numbers of Indians had been increas'd by a Colony ſent out from Shinar, after the Diſperſion from Babylon, it muſt be impoſſible, that there could be ſo great an Increaſe of them in ſo ſhort a Time. This proves that the Eaſtern Parts were firſt inhabited after the Flood; but it doth not prove that the Ark landed near India, as Sir Walter Raleigh would have it, becauſe other Reaſons may be aſſign'd for the Populouſneſs of that Country. When Nimrod eſtabliſh'd the Aſſyrian Monarchy, he put thoſe to the Sword who ſtood in his Way, which might cauſe thoſe, who liv'd where the Ark landed, to retire farther from him toward the Eaſt. And as they were the Offspring of Shem, who inſtill'd into them the Principles of Piety and Religion, and was alſo inſtructed by Noah, who perſonally dwelt among them; ſo they liv'd together in Peace and Quietneſs, and thereby became more populous than thoſe of other Nations near Babylon, who at that Time were deſtroying one another.

19. Another Reaſon to prove that the Ark landed near India is, that the beſt Vines naturally grew on the South Side of the Mountains of Caucaſus and toward the Eaſt-Indies. Strabo affirms, that in the neighbouring Country of Margiana, and under theſe Mountains there are the moſt excellent Vines in the World, the Cluſters of Grapes containing two Cubits in Length. And Quintus Curtius tells us, that in theſe Parts near the Mountains of Meros, Alexander the Great did feaſt himſelf and his Army ten Days together, where he found the moſt delicate Wine that ever he met with. And to this may be added (i) an old and conſtant Tradition among the Inhabitants of the Region near Caucaſus, that there is a great Vineyard in this Country, which was of Noah's Planting, after he was deſcended from the adjacent Mountain. But taking it for granted, that there was ſuch a Vineyard, yet it will by no Means amount to any Proof, that the Ark reſted on the neighbouring Mountain, becauſe the Vineyard might be planted by another Perſon, and not by Noah. Neither do the Vines only grow in thoſe Parts, but in all Places which lye in the ſame Climate or are either Eaſt or Weſt from it. Thus in the ſame Latitude with Babylon, we find that (k) when Joſhua ſent Spies to ſearch out the Land of Canaan, they came to the brook of Eſhcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a ſtaff. Thus the Vines naturally grow in Crete and other Southern Parts of Greece. Thus the Vinum Falernum ſo much talk'd of by the Poets, was made of Grapes, which grew in Campania in the Kingdom of Naples, and the beſt Wines in Spain are they, which are in the Southern Parts near the ſame Latitude. So that this can no more prove, that the Ark landed at Caucaſus, than that it landed in any other Part, which lay Eaſtward or indeed Weſtward from Babylon.

20. It is therefore moſt probable, that the Ark landed on one of the Mountains of Ararat, which lay Eaſtward about nine Degrees Diſtance in Longitude, according as it is mention'd before, and that its Courſe from Cypariſſon, where it began to float was, as it is ſhewn in the former Map. For Firſt, This is according as the (l) Scripture mentions, that they came from the caſt, and they found a plain in the land of Shinar, and they dwelt there, and built the City of Babylon. Secondly, The Scripture ſeems to intimate, that this was the firſt Plain which they came to, and therefore could not be ſo remote from it, as others place them. Thirdly, It is more agreeable to the Time, when they took this Journey, viz. at the Birth of Peleg, when the World was not ſo populous as to oblige them to travel farther. Fourthly, It will otherwiſe be difficult to account for the Courſe of the Ark, it being not probable that it could go North Weſt into Armenia, becauſe it would be met by the overflowing of the Mediterranean Sea, which would drive them another Way.

Neither

Neither could it go ſo far Eaſtward as ſome repreſent it, becauſe the Perſian Ocean flowing from the South would have driv'n it more Northward. Fifthly, The Ark landing ſo near to Babylon, makes the Children of Shem, namely, Elam, Aſſur, Arphaxad, Lud, and Aram, who inherited thoſe Countries, much nearer to their original Seats. But the placing the Ark ſo far Eaſtward, makes all the Poſterity of Noah travel Weſtward, without any Neceſſity for it, and leave a known Country for no other Reaſon, but to ſearch after unknown Habitations. And laſtly, If Noah landed ſo near to Babylon, he might have a Notion of the Country, where he was, becauſe he liv'd near it before the Flood, and conſequently he might be capable of giving better Directions to his Family how to diſperſe themſelves, and repleniſh the new World as Occaſion did require.

CHAP. III.

Of the Tower of BABEL.

WHEN the Inhabitants of the new World came to the Plain in the Land of Shinar, they built a Tower, which was firſt call'd Babel, and after that the Tower of Babylon, which was juſtly reckon'd one of the ſeven Wonders of the World. Herodotus, who (a) travel'd into thoſe Parts, and probably view'd it, when it was in its Perfection in the Time of Artaxerxes Longimanus and Nehemiah, gives us the moſt exact Account of the Dimenſions of it in this Manner, That in the City of Babylon there is a Temple with brazen Gates conſecrated to Jupiter Belus, which was extant in his Time, being four ſquare, and each ſide being two Furlongs in Length. In the Midſt of this holy Place (as he calls it) there is a ſolid Tower (this is that which we uſually call the Tower of Babel) of the thickneſs and height of a Furlong, upon which there is another Tower plac'd, and upon that another, and ſo one upon another, inſomuch that there are eight in all. In the Outſide of theſe there are Steps or Stairs plac'd, by which Men go from one Tower to another. In the Middle of theſe Steps there are reſting Places, and Rooms were made for that Purpoſe, that they, who go to the Top, may have Conveniences to ſit down and refreſh themſelves. In the higheſt Part of the Tower there is another Chappel, in which there is a Bed nobly adorn'd, and a golden Table. But there is no image in this Chappel, neither doth any Perſon lie there by Night, but one Woman of the Natives, whom their God ſhall chooſe before the Reſt, as the Chaldeans the Prieſts of this God do tell us. There are others who add, that in this upper Room, there was an Idol, with a large Sword in his Hand, whom they worſhipp'd by the Name of Belus or Bel, and who is ſuppos'd to repreſent Ham or Jupiter Hammon, as he was call'd by other Nations. And upon the Top hereof there was a large Room, where they made their Aſtronomical Obſervations. Joſephus ſaith, that (b) the Project of Nimrod was the Erecting of a Tower to ſuch a Height, that it ſhould be impoſſible for the Waters ever to reach to the Top of it. Accordingly the People apply'd themſelves immediately with Might and Main, and all Hands were at Work for the carrying on of this Deſign. The Height of it was to be prodigious, but the infinite Number of Labourers advanc'd it even beyond Imagination. The Breadth and Thickneſs of it being wonderfully firm and ſtrong, appear'd ſo vaſt at Hand, that it made the Height ſeem the leſs for it. The Materials were burnt Brick cemented in the Joynts with a pitchy Matter to make it proof againſt the Waters. And he farther adds, That as to this Tower the (c) Sibyll makes the following Mention of it. At a certain Time when the whole World ſpake the ſame Language, the People of thoſe Days gather'd together, and rais'd a mighty Tower, which they carry'd up to ſo extravagant a Height, that it look'd, as if they had propos'd the Scaling of Heaven from the Top of it. The moſt natural Account of the Tower ſeems to be this, that it was four ſquare, That the Length of each Side was a Furlong, and the Height of all the Building was a Furlong, and there ſeem'd to be eight Towers ſtanding one upon another, ſo that under theſe Towers there appear'd eight large Places on each Side, where Men did walk round it, or ſixteen in all in both Sides, and as there is mention made but of one Room in the Middle from the Bottom to the Top, ſo theſe Rooms, which were over one another might be of the ſame Breadth with the Walk. As therefore a Furlong is 660 Feet long, ſo each of the Towers being the eighth Part of a Furlong muſt be eighty two Feet and a half high. And the Dividing of 660 by 17 ſhews, that each of theſe Walks, (a) Lib. 1. Page 33. (b) Jewiſh Antiquities, Book 1. Chap. 5. (c) This we have in the Sibylline Oracles now extant. See Dr. Beverege's Codex Canonum Vindicatus, cap. 14.

and

and the Room in the Middle might be about 39 Feet broad, which was a fit Breadth for the Placing in of ſuch long Beams of Cedar, as might reach from Side to Side. And as in (d) Solomon's Temple there were made narrow'd Reſts round about in the Wall of a Cubit broad, that the Beams ſhould not be faſten'd in the Walls of the Houſe, but all ſhould be ſupported by ſtrong Walls under each Reſt; ſo all thoſe Walks and Towers ſeem to have been ſupported in the ſame Manner. Thus let [abcd] be the outward Breadth of the Tower, or a Furlong, or more preciſely 663 Feet Square, let the Breadth of the Walks be thirty nine Feet, and then let the Towers be plac'd on each other; in ſuch a Caſe the Length of the Wall of the lower Tower will be 663 Feet, of the Second 585, of the Third 507, &c. as in the lower Part of the adjoyning Figures, or the Side [dc], and the Breadth of the lower Tower will be 312 Feet, of the Second 273, and of the Third 234, and ſo of the Reſt, as in the Side [bc] of the adjoyning Figure.

2. To find out the ſquare Feet contain'd in the Bottom of each Tower, ſubſtract the inner Room, or the Square of 39 Feet, being the Room [n] or 1521 from the Square of the Side, and the Remainder will be the ſquare Feet contain'd in the Wall, which multiply'd by $82\frac{1}{2}$ the Height of each Tower gives the Number of Feet in each Tower, and all theſe added together make the Number of Feet contain'd in the Brick-Work of the whole Building, which is 119876200 in the Whole.

3. It may not be improper to obſerve the Additions which are made to this Story, and the Reaſons for them. The (e) Sibyll quoted by Joſephus ſaith, that the Gods let the Winds looſe upon this Tower, which with a violent Blaſt beat it down to the Ground, the Builders being alſo judicially ſtruck with an utter Forgetfulneſs of their native Tongue, a new and unknown Language was ſubſtituted inſtead of it, wherein not one of them underſtood his Fellow. And from hence it came to paſs, that the City was call'd Babylon. (f) Eupolemus tells us, that the City of Babylon was firſt built by thoſe, who were preſerv'd from the Flood; and that they were Giants, and built that Famous Tower, which being thrown down by the divine Power, theſe Giants were ſcatter'd abroad throughout the Face of the whole Earth. And (g) Abydenus writes to the ſame Purpoſe, ſaith, There are thoſe who ſay, that the firſt Men, who ſprung from the Earth, were proud of their Strength and Stature, and boaſted themſelves to be more powerful than the Gods, and accordingly built that high Tower, where Babylon now ſtands, and when they had rais'd it very near to Heaven, ſuch Winds were ſent from GOD as overthrew the whole Work, and accordingly the Name of Babylon was given to the Ruins. And when about that Time the Men were of one Language, GOD ſent different Tongues among them. And a little after. The Place where they built the Tower is now call'd Babylon, becauſe of the Confuſion of Languages at that Time. For the Hebrews call Confuſion Babel.

4. Theſe things (ſaith (h) the learned Bochartus) are taken out of the Monuments of the Chaldeans, many of which are right and true; and whatever is ſuperadded, ſeems to depend in ſome Meaſure upon the ſacred Text. 1. They ſay, that Babylon was built by Giants, becauſe Nimrod one of the Builders is call'd (i) גבור, that is a Giant, as many render it, and particularly (k) the Greek Interpreters. 2. They write that theſe Giants were ſprung out of the Earth, becauſe it is ſaid of Nimrod (l) מן הארץ ההיא יצא He came forth from that earth. 3. That they carry'd on a War againſt the Gods, becauſe it is ſaid, that he was (m) ציד לפני יהוה a hunter before the LORD, that is as ſome, and particularly Rabbi Solomon Jarhi renders it, A warrior againſt the LORD. 4. They add, that they erected a Tower near to Heaven, as if by the Help thereof they would aſcend tither, becauſe it is ſaid of that Tower (n) that his top ſhould reach unto heaven. 5. They add, that GOD ſent great Winds and ſcatter'd both the Work and the Workmen. This is taken out of the Chaldean Hiſtory, in which it is ſaid that this Diſperſion was made בארבע רוחי שמיא into the four Quarters of the World, or over the face of the whole earth, or by the four Winds of Heaven as the Inſtruments of GOD's Wrath. 6. And becauſe the Verb פרץ or נפץ which Moſes uſeth in the Text, doth not only ſignify to ſcatter, but alſo to break in Pieces, from (o) whence Lightning is call'd נפץ A Breaking in Pieces, from hence they ſay, that the whole Work was broken to Pieces and overturn'd. And Benjamin the Jew ſaith, that Fire fell down from Heaven into the midſt of of the Tower, and tore the Bricks to Pieces.

5. It is obſervable, that tho' the Latin Writers had theſe Stories only at the third and fourth Hand, and accordingly confound the Story of the Giants before the Flood, with the Story of the Giants ſuppos'd to be at the Building of the Tower of Babel; yet they (p) particularly mention the Deſtroying of them by Lightning, together with their being ſprung out of the Earth, and their Wars with the Gods. And thus theſe different Interpretations having ſome Shadow of Reaſon to ſupport them from the Hebrew Text, may be of wonderful Uſe to us in this and many other Places to confirm the Original Scriptures.

CHAP. IV.

Of the firſt Diſperſion of the Nations.

WHEN the Builders of Babel were diſappointed by the Confuſion of their Languages, that they could not underſtand one anothers Speech, it is ſaid (a) that from thence the LORD ſcattered them abroad upon the face of all the earth, and ſo they left off to build the city. And therefore as the Sons of Ham and Japhet ſeem to be all concern'd in Building the Tower, and the Sons of Shem were originally ſeated not far from thence; ſo we muſt ſeek for the firſt Diſperſion of the Nations, in ſuch Countries which lay near to Babylon, and where we find any Remains of theſe Families at a greater Diſtance, we may conclude, that it was occaſion'd by a ſecond, third or fourth Remove, and not by the firſt.

2. The firſt Diſperſion of theſe Nations is ſo excellently deſcrib'd by (b) ſeveral learned Men in their ſelect Diſcourſes on this Subject, that I ſhall do little more than abridge what they have more largely ſaid, and refer the Reader to them for his farther Satisfaction.

3. After the Families of Noah had ſeated themſelves together for ſome Time, and were grown numerous, Noah at the Birth of Peleg order'd (c) the World to be divided among his three Sons. And the natural Situation of the Country ſeems to ſhew, that he intended to bound their Countries from each other by ſeveral great Rivers, which are in thoſe Parts. Accordingly Shem who had the principal (d) Bleſſing from his Father, as a Reward for his ſingular Piety, ſeems to have a double Portion; and his Countries extended themſelves eaſtward and northward throughout all Aſia, being bounded on the other Side with Rivers from the Perſian Gulph to the Head of the Tigris. And thus it continu'd till the Time of the Aſſyrian Monarchy. When Nimrod the Son of Cuſh (e) invaded Aſſyria or the Country of Aſſhur the Son of Shem, he then forc'd them to paſs over the Tigris, and ſeat themſelves on the Southward Parts of that River in the Country call'd by the ſame Name, or Aſſhur, and alſo forced the Poſterity of Aram, another Son of Shem, to croſs over the Tigris in the ſame Manner, and take Poſſeſſion of Meſopotamia, call'd Aram Naharaim or Aram between the Rivers, and the Reſt of the Country even to Armenia; which occaſion'd the Poſterity of Japhet to make the greater Haſte to ſettle in Europe. And about the ſame Time Cuſh the Father of Nimrod, (who was ſeated Southward of Babylon, in the Country which Sir Walter Raleigh calls Chuduca, and ſaith, it was ſometimes call'd Chuſca) paſs'd over into Perſia, and ſeiz'd upon that Country, which is call'd Chuzeſtan, or in their Language the Province of Cuſh, and ſo they forc'd the Children of Shem to go farther toward the Eaſtern Parts of Aſia. And thus there was given to the Sons of Shem the Country, where Noah liv'd after the Flood, and the Country of Cyparriſſon, where he built the Ark. And accordingly it was determin'd, that the Poſterity of Ham ſhould inherit all the Country from the Head of the Euphrates to the Perſian Gulph, and ſo have a free Paſſage into Africa through Egypt, and that the Sons of Japhet ſhould inhabit between the Tigris and the Euphrates, and ſo enlarge their Borders Eaſtward, until they had a free Paſſage into Europe over the Helleſpont. And this ſeems to be the firſt Diviſion.

4. But theſe Original Intentions being diſappointed by the Building of the Tower of Babylon, and there being little Remains to enable us to form a Conjecture of theſe things, therefore the Scripture doth not begin the Diſperſion of Nations till after the Riſe of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, that by having a View of it at that Time, we might form the better Notion, how it continu'd whilſt that Monarchy laſted. And this is the Reaſon, why the Riſe of this Monarchy is ſo particularly (f) mention'd in that (g) Chapter, which tells us, how the Families of the Sons of Noah were ſettled after their Generations, in their Nations; and how by theſe the nations were divided in the earth after the flood.

be our Guide, in which Moſes firſt mentions the (h) Sons of Japhet, then (i) the Sons of Ham, and after that (k) the Sons of Shem, and at the End of each he tells us, that by theſe Sons the Earth was inhabited, after their families, and after their tongues, in their countries, and in their nations.

5. And here we muſt firſt obſerve, that this great Diviſion of the Earth was perform'd regularly and orderly, and that they are very much miſtak'n, who dream of an irregular and confus'd Diſperſion, in which every one went whither he pleas'd, and ſeated himſelf where he lik'd beſt. Moſes tells us, that by theſe Heads of Families was the Earth divided, which Word נפרדו will bear the Force of an Argument for this Purpoſe, becauſe it ſignifies not a Scattering, or a Confuſion, but a moſt diſtinct Partition.

6. To this may be added ſeveral Circumſtances of this Diviſion for a farther Proof of the Regularity thereof. As firſt, The Cuſtom, and as it were the Property of Almighty GOD, in all theſe Actions, in which he hath a ſpecial Hand, and directs by a ſpecial Providence, according to that ſaying, (l) GOD is not the author of confuſion but of Order. And if his Providence is thus daily ſeen in other things, it may more eſpecially be ſeen in this, it being ſo principal an Action, and as it were the Ground and Foundation of the Repeopling of the Earth after the Flood.

7. Secondly, The End, for which GOD multiply'd the Languages, ſeems plainly to be, leſt their Dwelling together ſhould cauſe them to confound their Families, and mingle their Generations together, which GOD in his Wiſdom did ſeparate and keep diſtinct for very good Reaſons. And that this ſhould be one of the main Ends, appears very evidently from the proper Effect of Plurality of Tongues, which is to ſort Men into Pluralities of Societies, as the Unity of one common Language had before knit them into one Community. And if this was the Purpoſe and Deſign of almighty GOD, then it muſt needs be, that for the Proſecution of ſuch an End, every Family ſhould dwell by it ſelf, and ſo there might be an orderly Diviſion.

8. Thirdly, The Wiſdom of the Patriarchs, who were all alive at this Diviſion, and were as Kings in their reſpective Generations, plainly ſhews, that it was regular and orderly. As there is a very apparent Difference in all the Parts of the Earth for the Goodneſs of the Soil and Temperateneſs of the Air; ſo it was their proper Buſineſs to prevent the Danger of Contention among their Sons, who ſhould enjoy the moſt barren or the more fruitful Places. And this could no otherwiſe by prevented, but by Inſtituting an orderly Diviſion, either by Caſting of Lots, or by Chooſing according to the Order of their Birthright, after they had tak'n ſome Survey of a ſufficient Portion of the Earth, and allotted out the ſeveral Bounds of their Countries, firſt into three Parts according to the Number of the Sons of Noah, after that according to their Nations, and then according to their Families. For otherwiſe Magog would not have gone contentedly ſo far into the North, nor Arphaxad have been ſuffer'd by others to enjoy the pleaſant Land of Shinar.

9. Laſtly, The Scripture takes Notice of the very Method, by which this Diviſion was made. It was after their families, and in their nations. For the right Underſtanding of which we may obſerve, that tho' the Word Families and Nations may in other Places of Scripture be promiſcuouſly us'd; yet being here joyn'd and compared together, they muſt needs have a diſtinct Signification, and what that Signification is may be known from the Particle IN. For in this Expreſſion, After their families, in their nations, the Families are plainly ſubordinate to Nations as Parts are to a Whole, or Specials to a more General. The Families are Parts of a Nation, and a Nation is an Offſpring, which contains many Families. So that here was a twofold Order in this Diviſion. Firſt, They were rang'd according to their Nations, and then every Nation was rank'd according to his Families. Accordingly, every Nation had his Lot by himſelf, ndin every Nation the Families belonging to it had their Portion by themſelves. And thus the three Sons of Noah were the Fathers of the Nations, among whom the World was firſt divided into three Parts nearly equal. The Grandchildren of Noah were the Nations, which were anciently divided into (m) their reſpective Countries, and when (n) they called their lands after their own names. And the great Grandchildren were the Families ſettl'd in their reſpective Nations.

10. For the better finding out the original Plantations of the three Branches of Noah's Poſterity and of their ſeveral Nations, there are ten Rules, which were firſt laid down by the learned Mr. Mede, and are of excellent Uſe.

11. Firſt, When the Scripture doth expreſly aſſign any Portion or Tract of Earth to any Branch of Noah's Poſterity in general, or to any Nation or Family in particular, we muſt be aſſur'd, that the reſpective Branch, Nation or Family ſettl'd it ſelf there, at leaſt as to the Main or Bulk of it.

12. Secondly, We muſt ſeek theſe Original Plantations within a reaſonable Compaſs of the Earth, and not all the World over. Let us ſuppoſe that this Diviſion was made at the Diſperſion from Babylon, the Number of Mankind was ſmall, and according to (o) Computation, the Number of Men above twenty Years old could not well exceed an hundred thouſand; ſo that it is not likely, that they took the whole World into the firſt Diviſion or Plantation.

(h) Gen. 10. 1 to 6. (i) Gen. 10. 6 to 21. (k) Gen. 10, 21. to the End. (l) 1 Chron. 14. 33. (m) Gen. 10. 20. (n) Pſal. 49. 11. (o) Table 24.

13. Thirdly, Thoſe Nations, whoſe Families are nam'd by Moſes, are chiefly to be ſought in Places neighbouring to Judæa. The principal Reaſon why Moſes nam'd their Families, was, becauſe they were ſuch as the Jews would have to deal with, and that chiefly upon the Account of their Neighbourhood.

14. Fourthly, Where we find the Nation, there we muſt alſo look for the Families of that Nation; becauſe the Families were rang'd in their Nations. And therefore,

15. Fifthly, For the ſame Reaſon where we find any one of the Families, there we muſt look for the Reſt, and for the whole Nation. Theſe five Rules abovemention'd we may take (as Mr. Mede obſerves) for ſure Grounds, and uſe them as Landmarks in our preſent Diſcovery: But to them may be added five more of leſs Weight than the former, yet ſuch as being joyn'd with them will help us to a greater Certainty. So that,

16. Sixthly, If we find that the Scriptures uſually name two or more of theſe Nations together, it is a likely Argument, that they were ſeated together, and were neighbouring one to the other.

17. Seventhly, We are to obſerve the Fulfilling of Propheſies by Nations foretold under the Names of their Founders.

18. Eighthly, Becauſe it is likely, that in this Diviſion, there was a regard had by the wiſe Patriarchs for their future Colonies; therefore we are to think, that they order'd their Partition ſo, as to Nations, if not always as to Families, that when they were to vent their Numbers, and ſend forth new Colonies, they ſhould not be forc'd to incroach upon one another's Inheritance, or one to paſs through the Lot of another; but that they had either ſome narrow Branch of the Sea which was eaſily paſſable, or ſome empty Land every one upon ſome Part of his Borders.

19. Ninthly, The Teſtimony of the Ancients is to be conſider'd.

20. Laſtly, We are to regard the Remainders of ancient Names. And this is the ordinary Help, which every one follows. So that theſe are the ten Criteria, or Marks which we are to make uſe of in the preſent Diſcovery; and that which ſhall be found agreable to all or the greater Part of theſe, if it will not be allow'd for evident Truth; yet it muſt be eſteem'd as the moſt likely Conjecture, and the greateſt Certainty which we can attain to.

21. Having thus laid down the Rules by which the ancient Situation of the Sons and Grandſons of Noah may be found out, I ſhould have enlarg'd upon the Diſperſion of the Nations, and prov'd from theſe Rules, which were the Original Settlements of the Nations and Families (p) mention'd by Moſes; but finding it ſo exactly and judiciouſly done by (q) the judicious Dr. Wells in his Hiſtorical Geography of the old Teſtament and in our own Language, that I can ſee no Cauſe either to add or to alter, I ſhall here mention the Particulars, which he hath prov'd, and refer the Reader thither for full Satisfaction.

22. The firſt Nation, which Moſes menti ons of the Offspring of Japhet, is Gomer and his Sons, to whom the greateſt Part of the Northern Tract of the leſſer Aſia is aſſign'd for their firſt Plantations.

From Gomer the Founder of the Nation came three Sons or Families. The firſt of theſe is (r) Aſhkenaz, who was ſeated in the Weſtern Part of the Nation of Gomer, or in the North-weſt Part of the leſſer Aſia.

The ſecond Son is Riphath, who is ſuppos'd to have ſeated his Family in the Parts adjoyning Eaſtward to his Brother Aſhkenaz.

The third and laſt Son nam'd by Moſes is Togarmah, whoſe Family was ſeated in the Remaining, and conſequently in the moſt eaſtern Part of the Nation of Gomer.

23. Tho' theſe three Families kept themſelves diſtinct, whilſt they were in Aſia the leſs; yet it is moſt probable that when they planted Colonies in Europe they mix'd together. For as thoſe of Riphath and Togarmah could not come over hither without paſſing through the Country of their Brother Aſhkenaz, and muſt be tranſported by them into ſuch Countries, as had been before poſſeſs'd by them; ſo it was more natural and eaſy for them to unite in this Manner, and call themſelves by the General Name of their Father Gomer. Thus this Name was kept up in Places inhabited by them, when the other Names were loſt, only Germany was call'd by the Jews, the Country of Aſhkenaz, not becauſe they were of that Family alone, but becauſe they came from that Country, which bore this Name. As for the Notion of ſome that Togarmah was the Father of the Germans, it is without any Proof, except the Affinity of the Name in our Engliſh Language, which can be of no Weight in any Inquiry into ſuch ancient Antiquities. There can be no Reaſon aſſign'd why the Particle [the] ſhould be made a Part of the original Word. Neither is it probable that Togarmah coming from the utmoſt Parts of their Eaſtern Limits, ſhould travel ſo far Weſtward diſtinctly from the Reſt; and it is very evident that the Word Germany is originally deriv'd from Gomer the Father of the Nation.

24. As for the Colonies, which were ſpread abroad from the Nation of Gomer, the ſame Author gives us a large and ſatisfactory Account to this Effect, That from their original Country they ſent a Colony to the Mæotick Lake on the North of the Euxine Sea, and as they were call'd Cimmerii in Aſia; ſo they gave the Name of Boſphorus Cimmerius to the Straits, which we there meet with. After this, ſpreading farther they came along the Danube, and ſettl'd themſelves in the Country, which from them hath been call'd Germany. Theſe were firſt call'd Cimbri, a Word eaſily fram'd from Cimmerii, and the Inhabitants of the Peninſula on the North-weſt Side of Germany, now call'd Jutland, was anciently call'd Cimbrica Cherſoneſus. Theſe People are call'd Germeans, and they call themſelves Germen, which is but a ſmall Variation from Gemren or Gomren, and this laſt is eaſily contracted from Gomeren, that is, the Gomeræans. For the Termination en is a plural Termination in the German Language, and from the ſingular Number Gomer is form'd Gemren by the ſame Analogy, that from Brother is form'd Brethren.

25. From Germany they ſpread themſelves into France. Theſe were anciently call'd the European Galatæ or Gauls, and Joſephus ſaith, they were originally call'd Gomerites, and others affirm, that they were alſo call'd Cimbri. And as it is not to be queſtion'd, but that this our Iſle was firſt peopled from thoſe Countries of the European Continent, which lye next to it, and conſequently from Germany or Gaul, that is France, or rather from France, as lying neareſt of the two; ſo it is plain, that the South Britains, the ancient Inhabitants of this our Iſle, were the Offspring of Gomer. And there ſeems to be no need of any other Evidence, ſince the Welch, the ancient Inhabitants call themſelves to this Day by his Name, viz. Kumero or Cymro or Kumeri: And in like Manner they call a Welch Woman Kumeraes, and their Language Kumeraeg, which ſeveral Words carry in them ſuch plain Marks of the original Name, from whence they are deriv'd, that if there is any Regard to Etymologies in Caſes of this Nature (as undoubtedly there is) we muſt conclude, that the true old Britons or Welch are the Deſcendants of Gomer. And ſince it is obſerv'd, that the Germans were alſo the Deſcendants of Gomer, particularly the Cimbri, to whom the Saxons, eſpecially the Angles, were near Neighbours: hence it follows, that our Anceſtors alſo, who ſucceeded the old Britains, in the Eaſtern Parts of this Iſle, were alſo deſcended from Gomer the Son of Japhet.

26. Theſe Particulars being more fully prov'd by this judicious Author, are undoubtedly true concerning the greateſt Part of theſe Iſlands, but to theſe I ſhall crave Leave to add ſomething concerning Cornwal and thoſe Weſtern Parts of England, wholly ſubmitting what I offer, to the Judgment of thoſe, who are better skill'd in theſe Antiquities.

27. When Joſhua was appointed by GOD to bring the Children of Iſrael into the Land of Canaan, he had a poſitive Command (s) that When the LORD his GOD ſhall deliver them before him, he ſhould ſmite them, and utterly deſtroy them, and ſhould make no covenant with them, nor ſhew mercy unto them. And he had in this Caſe (t) the Promiſe of GOD's Aſſiſtance in theſe Words, The LORD thy GOD ſhall deliver them unto thee, and ſhall deſtroy them with a mighty deſtruction, until they b deſtroyed. Accordingly when (u) the kings, which were by the ſea heard that the LORD had dried up the waters of Jordan from before the children of Iſrael, until they were paſſed over, that their hearts melted; neither was there ſpirit in them any more, becauſe of the children of Iſrael. And this Fear was much increas'd, after they (x) had alſo heard how the Walls of Jericho fell down flat to open a free Paſſage for them into the City, and they had alſo tak'n Ai, and deſtroy'd their Kings and all their Inhabitants, and with what Difficulty and upon what Terms the Gibeonites had made a Peace, ſo that the ſame muſt not be expected at another Time. And therefore to prevent this inevitable Ruin many of the Inhabitants of Tyre, having been us'd to Sailing in the Mediterranean Sea upon the Account of Merchandiſe, went on Shipboard with their beſt Effects, and ſail'd into Africa, and built a City, which they call'd Carthage, (or if I may have Liberty to conjecture) קרת תועים the City of the Wanderers; tho' the learned Bochartus ſaith (*) that it was call'd by the Ancients The new City, or as it is in the Chaldee and Syriack Languages קרתא חדתא to which I ſubmit. This Building of Carthage not only appears from the common Conſent of all Hiſtorians, but alſo from the Remains of the Carthaginian Language, which we have in (y) Plautus, where he brings in a Youth from thence, ſpeaking in ſuch a Manner, that many learned Men have prov'd it to be the Hebrew or Language of Canaan. And the Carthaginians are frequently call'd Phænicians and Tyrians, becauſe they came from that Country. Being thus us'd to Sailing and Merchandiſe they ſoon carry'd on a larger Trade, and ſettl'd other Colonies near Gibraltar both in Aſia and Africa. The learned Bochartus tells us, (z) that the Original of theſe Expeditions were computed to be in the Times of the Heroes. For the Phænicians are ſuppos'd to ſail to Spain, and even as far as Cadis under the Command of Hercules the Tyrian, whom many People make to be cotemporary with Moſes. And he gives his Opinion, that it was in that Age, when the Jews being Maſters of the Land of Canaan, oblig'd the ancient Inhabitants to depart from thence; ſo that one Part went into Bœotia, and the other into Africa and Spain. This alſo is abundantly more evident from the (a) two Pillars, that were formerly ſeen at Tangier with a Phæni- cian Inſcription, which mention'd their being erected by thoſe, who fled from the face of Joſhua the Robber the Son of (b) Nun. So that it is plain from the Inſcription, that the Places near Cadis began about that Time to be frequented by the Phænicians.

28. In Length of Time theſe Phænicians enlarging their Trade, coaſted along the Sea Shoar of Spain, Portugal and France, and found out the Iſlands call'd Caſſiterides. To theſe Places they carry on a Trade for Tin and Lead. Theſe Iſlands Cambden (c) fully proves to be the Same with the Heſperides, call'd at this Time, The Iſlands of Scilly, ſituate to the Weſtward, and not far from the Lands End in Cornwal, of which (d) Strabo gives us this Account. The Caſſiterides are ten in Number, cloſe to one another, ſituate in the main Sea, northward from the Port of the Artabri. They have Mines both for Tin and Lead. At firſt the Phænicians traded thither from Cadis, concealing theſe Voyages from others. The Romans to find out the Place, where they drove this Trade, made a certain Maſter of a Ship watch one of them. But he ran his Ship into a ſhallow out of Envy to prevent them, and after he had brought them into the ſame Danger, eſcap'd himſelf, and receiv'd the worth of his Cargo for his Pains out of the common Treaſury. However, the Romans by many Attempts at laſt found out this Voyage. And as theſe Iſlands did ſo abound in the Tin Oar, hence they were call'd Caſſiterides from the Greek Word Κασσίτερον Caſſiteron, which ſignifies Tin.

29. The Phænicians thus peopling theſe Iſlands could not be long before they diſcover'd The Lands End on the Weſt Side of Cornwal, and ſo ſettl'd in that County, whoſe Excellency is, that it abounds in Tin and Lead, as it is well known at this Time. And that they did ſo is evident from two Reaſons. Firſt, The Affinity of this Language with the Phænician or ancient Hebrew. The ancient Corniſh and Welch were originally the ſame. But when they were driven ſo far Weſt by the Romans and other Enemies, that they could not have a Correſpondance with either, and the River Severn being very broad in thoſe Parts, parted them aſunder, their Languages alter'd by little and little, ſo as to be like different Dialects. And the Corniſh Language being worn out in Time, its Remains can be only found in the Welch, which is very like the ancient Hebrew. The Welch always put the Adjective after the Subſtantive, which exactly agrees with the Nature of the Orientals, tho' contrary to our Cuſtom in Engliſh. Their Way of Pronunciation is ſo like the Hebrew, and eſpecially the Gutturals, which are peculiar to themſelves, that it is reported, That Rabbi Solomon Jarhi the moſt learned of all the Jewiſh Commentators, being at Jeſus College in Oxford ſaid of them, That theſe ancient Britons ſpoke the holy Tongue with ſo great an Exactneſs, as if they were born in the Mount of Sinai. And I have been inform'd, that they, who have greater Skill in both theſe Languages, may make more Obſervations of this Nature. However, Dr. Edwards in his Welch Dictionary, hath given us ſo many and ſuch ſurprizing Examples out of the Original Scriptures, both Hebrew and Chaldee, and compar'd them with the other, as puts that Matter beyond Diſpute. And the different Languages ſpoken at this Time in the Eaſt and Weſt of England, is a plain Indication, that they ſprung originally from different Nations.

30. And ſecondly, Our preſent Parliamentary Conſtitution may ſerve for a Proof of this. The Kingdom of England conſiſting of two and fifty Counties, ſend five Hundred and thirteen Members to the Houſe of Commons, which is the Proportion of nine Men to each County. They ſend two Members to repreſent each County and others to repreſent the ancient Burroughs and Corporations. Now the Weſtern Parts ſend more Members than the Eaſtern, and the Eaſtern more than the Northern. But Cornwal alone ſends four and forty Members, and Devonſhire ſix and twenty. This ſhews, that they were anciently more populous than the Reſt, and conſequently firſt inhabited. And as it is not probable, that ſuch a Multitude of People would leave thoſe open Countries deſolate, to be as it were confin'd between the Seas; ſo it is not to be doubted, but that theſe Parts of this Kingdom were firſt inhabited by Seafaring Men, in this Manner as is before mention'd.

31. But to return from this Digreſſion. The (e) ſecond Son of Japhet mention'd by Moſes as a Father of the Nations, is Magog, who was the Founder of the (f) Scythians on the Eaſt and North-eaſt Sides of the Euxine Sea, whoſe Colonies ſpread themſelves to the Mæotick Lake, and along the River Tanais. And ſome give him a Part of the North of Syria call'd Comagene; but this ſeems to be too great a Remove for ſome of them from the Reſt of their Brethren.

32. The third Son of Japhet is Madai, who is ſuppos'd at firſt to have ſettl'd in Aſia the leſs, and that the Mæſi or Myſi in that Country ſprung from him; and when he came into Europe he peopl'd Macedonia, and that in Proceſs of Time he alſo inhabited Sarmatia or Poland and Part of Ruſſia.

33. The fourth Son of Japhet is Javan. He firſt ſettl'd himſelf in the Southern Part of Leſſer Aſia, call'd from him Ionia, and his four Sons or Families ſettled with him in the following Order.

The firſt is (g) Eliſha, whoſe Family was ſettled in Caria on the South-weſt Part of Aſia the Leſs, in and near Lydia, and the

Helleſpont,

Helleſpont, and peopl'd moſt of the Iſles in the Egæan Sea, and ſcatter'd themſelves in many Parts of Greece, as lying moſt commodious to enter into that Country, and take the firſt Poſſeſſion.

34. The Second is Tarſhiſh, who ſeated his Family in the Eaſtern Tract of the Southern Part of leſſer Aſia, and having ſettl'd their Poſterity, call'd the Etruſci in Italy, afterward took Poſſeſſion of Spain.

35. The Third is Kittim, who plac'd himſelf to the Weſt of Tarſhiſh, and alſo took Poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Cyprus. But in Proceſs of Time (h) wanting more Room, and therefore ſeeking out farther, and finding the lower Parts of Greece already inhabited by the Deſcendants of Eliſha and Dodanim, they ſtill proceeded farther, coaſting along the weſtern Shores of Greece, till they came to the upper or northern Parts of it, where the Getæ dwelt, which not being yet inhabited, ſome of them planted themſelves there, whilſt others of them ſpying the Coaſt of Italy, went and ſettl'd themſelves in that Country. And hence (i) it comes to paſs in all Probability, that both Macedonia in Greece and alſo Italy are meant by the Name of Kittim in Scripture.

36. The laſt is Dodanim, who inhabited the weſtern Coaſt ſouthward of the Family of Eliſhah, and ſeem firſt to have tak'n Poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Rhodes, and mix'd themſelves among the Poſterity of Eliſha in Peloponneſus, and after that extended their Country on the weſtern Shores of Greece, and went into France as far as the River Rhodanus or Rhone.

37. The fifth Son of Japhet mention'd by Moſes is Tubal, who was plac'd northward from the Land of Canaan upon the Shore of the Euxine Sea, and is expreſſly affirm'd by Joſephus to be the Father of the Aſiatick Iberians. The Spaniards have a Tradition, that they are of the Race of Tubal, becauſe Part of their Country was known by the Name of Iberia; but this ſeems to be too far diſtant, and to croſs many Colonies of other Nations, before he could ſettle there. And the only Country which lay open for him to extend himſelf in, was between the Euxine and the Caſpian Seas.

38. The ſixth Son of Japhet mention'd by Moſes is Meſhech, who ſettl'd at firſt on the eaſt Side of the Nation of Gomer in Part of Cappadocia and Armenia, near the Mountains call'd Moſchici, on the ſouth Side of his Brother Tubal. And as they are generally joyn'd together in Scripture, and had but one Way open for both to extend their Colonies; ſo in Proceſs of Time they mix'd together, and peopled the Countries of Ruſſia and Muſcovy.

39. The laſt Son of Noah mention'd by Moſes is Tiras. He is ſuppos'd to have ſeated himſelf not far from the Helleſpont, between his Brethren Aſhkenaz and Madai, and being quickly ſtraighten'd for want of Room, he went over into Thrace and peopled that Country, and ſo ſpread himſelf on the north Side of the Euxine Sea. And thus were (k) the Iſles of the gentiles (or the Nations which came to Judæa and Egypt by Sea) divided in their lands; every one after his tongue, after their families, and in their nations, who when they were ſtraighten'd for Room in leſſer Aſia, croſs'd the Egæan Sea, and ſettl'd in thoſe Parts of Europe, which were generally oppoſite to their ancient Habitations.

40. The ſecond Son of Noah was Shem, who had five Sons, and they were the Fathers of ſo many Nations. The firſt Son of Shem mention'd by Moſes was (l) Elam, who without Diſpute, poſſeſs'd the Land of Elymais and all Perſia as far as from the River Hiddekel to the South Sea, until at the Founding of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, Cuſh the Father of Nimrod invaded that Country, and took it for his Family, and built (m) Erec, Accad and Calneh, that thereby he might have more eaſy Paſſages over thoſe Rivers to ſecure his Conqueſts, which forced the Elamites to go farther, and take Poſſeſſion of Suſiana and the Neighbouring Provinces, which were originally The land of Nod.

41. The ſecond Son of Shem was Aſhur. He at firſt ſeated himſelf on the North Side of the Tigris, near the River Lycus. But when Nimrod founded the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and drove him from thence, and built ſeveral ſtrong Cities to prevent his Return, this Nation paſs'd over the Tigris, and dwelt in the eaſtern Parts of Meſopotamia, and built Telaſſar or the Fort of the Aſſyrians upon the Euphrates, to prevent any future Incurſions of the Enemy to diſturb them in their Habitations.

42. The third Son of Shem was Arphaxad. He was ſeated in the more ſouthward Part of Meſopotamia, where the Plain or Vale of Shinar lay upon the River Tigris, together with the Country of Eden; but when Nimrod ſeiz'd on theſe Parts, he remov'd his People more northward from thence into the Country call'd Arrapachitis. And thus Arphaxad being (n) born but two Years after the Flood, and conſequently the eldeſt Son of Shem, took that Country for an Inheritance, where they liv'd before the Flood, and where Noah alſo liv'd when he built the Ark, and left it to his younger Brethren to travel farther. And from him the Line runs regularly down firſt to Abraham, then to David, and then to CHRIST.

43. This Arphaxad had two great Grandchildren, who were very remarkable. The name of the one is Peleg, becauſe in his days the earth was divided, and his Brother's Name was Joktan, whom the Arabians call Cahtan, who had a numerous Offspring of thirteen Sons, and all of them were ſeated in the innermoſt Parts of Arabia Fælix.

41. The eldeſt Son of Joktan was Almodad, who was ſituate near the Head of the River Lar, which empties it ſelf into the Perſian Gulph on the South Side. The ſecond was Sheleph, who was remote from the Reſt about the Middle of Arabia, not far from the Spring of the River Betius, which empties it ſelf into the Middle of the Red Sea. The third was Hazarmaveth, who was ſeated not far from the Straights of Babelmandel, on the Southern Coaſts of the Arabian Sea. The fourth is Jerah, who were ſeated near the Red Sea, and joyn'd to the South Side of the River Betius. The fifth was Hadoram, who took Poſſeſſion of the moſt eaſtern Parts of Arabia, having the River Nar on the Weſt, and the Perſick Gulf on the north Side. The ſixth was Uzal, who took Poſſeſſion on the ſouth Part of Arabia near the Straights of Babelmandel, between the Arabian and the Red Sea. The ſeventh is Diklah who inhabited the Country, the People whereof were ſince call'd Minæi, and are ſeated at ſome Diſtance on the north Side of their Brother Uzal. The eighth is Obal, who is ſuppos'd to have paſs'd the Straights at Babelmandel, which were not above four or five Miles broad, and to have tak'n Poſſeſſion of the other Part of the Country upon the Confines of Africa. The ninth is Abimael, whoſe Poſterity liv'd in the Main Continent on the north Side of their Brethren the Sons of Diklah. The tenth is Sheba, who took Poſſeſſion of the ſouthern Parts of Arabia upon the Red Sea, not far from the Minæi or Family of Diklah, and northward from the Poſterity of Uzal. From hence the Queen of Sheba is ſuppos'd to have come to hear the Wiſdom of Solomon, who is therefore call'd (o) The queen of the ſouth. The eleventh is Ophir, whoſe Country lay near to the Sabæans and is call'd by Ptolomy and others Caſſanitis. The twelfth is Havilah, who was alſo ſeated on the Red Sea, on the north Side of Sheba, and ſouthward of Jerah. The laſt was Jobab, who was ſeated on the Arabian Sea on the ſouth Side of Hadoram, and the north of Hazarmaveth; and thus Moſes tells us (p) that their dwelling was from Meſha, as Men went unto Sephar a mountain of the eaſt. This Meſha, Muſa or Muza was a famous Port Town in the Red Sea near Sheba, which the Ægyptians and Ethiopians frequented in their Way to the Country of the Sapharites in the Eaſt; from whom they brought Myrrh, Frankincenſe, and ſuch like Commodities. And Ptolomy's Tables do plainly ſhew, That from Muſa the Saphariteæ lay directly Eaſt, and Saphar was the Metropolis of the Country at the Foot of the Mountain Climax. Which Mountain, it is probable, was call'd Saphar in old Times, becauſe there is a City of the ſame Name at the Bottom of it. And thus Moſes ſaith, that Sepher was a Mountain of the Eaſt, not eaſtward from Judea, but as Men went thither from Meſha. And he mentions theſe two Places, becauſe they were the moſt remarkable, if not the only Places in that Country known to the Iſraelites at that Time.

45. The Reader may perhaps wonder at the Placing ſo many numerous Families of the Sons of Shem in the Country originally allotted for the Sons of Ham. But the Reaſon ſeems to be this. The Sons of Ham who were ſeparated from Babylon could not go into Arabia Fælix, but they muſt paſs through Arabia Deſerta. And it cannot be ſuppos'd, that they would ſend Colonies thither, when a more pleaſant Country lay open to them in their Way to Canaan and Egypt; and therefore it is probable, that when Nimrod began the Aſſyrian Monarchy, all theſe Sons of Joktan, who might be ſeated near the Perſian Gulph, went along the Shore to avoid the Wars, until they came to the Straights of Ormus, where they paſs'd the Sea, and came into Arabia Fælix. And Obal being encourag'd by ſuch good Succeſs, might therefore be the more eaſily prevail'd upon to paſs the Straights of Babelmandel, and ſettle in Africa. And thus finding the Country not yet inhabited, they took Poſſeſſion without any Reſiſtance. And the Sons of Ham loſt a better Country, which was allotted to them by their Father Noah, whilſt they ſo greedily thirſted for another.

46. The fourth Son of Shem was Lud. There are ſome, who ſay, that he ſeated himſelf in the Country of Leſſer Aſia, in the Country call'd Lydia. But this removes him too far from the reſt of his Brethren the Children of Shem, and places him in the remoteſt Part of the Sons of Japhet. But the Name of Lud or Lydia might be given to that Country, not from the Father of the Nation, but from another Circumſtance, viz. becauſe the River Meander was ſeated there, which had a great many Turnings and Windings in it (ſome reckon them ſix hundred) and returns again almoſt to its Fountain Head; and therefore the River and the Country might be ſo call'd from the Hebrew Verb לוּד to return, be crooked, or twiſt about, or rather from the Arabick Verb لد of the ſame Signification. If I might have the Liberty of a bare Conjecture, it ſhould be this, That the Poſterity of Lud ſeated themſelves to the North of Babylon in the Country of Arrapachitis. But when Nimrod began the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and invaded Babylonia from the ſouth Parts, the Inhabitants being of the Nation of Arphaxad, fled thither, and perhaps drove them from thence, when ſeizing upon the Country, they chang'd the Names of the Places to the Names of the Conquerors; and the Children of Lud, going either eaſtward or to the ſouthern Parts of the Caſpian Sea, might call their new Poſſeſſi-ons by the Names of their Leaders, and thus the ancient Name of the Patriarch might be loſt in thoſe Countries.

47. The fifth and laſt Son of Shem mention'd by Moſes was Aram. He was at firſt ſeated near his Brother Aſhur on the north Side of the Tigris, and extended his Country as far as the Head of that River. And as he lay on the eaſt Side of his Brother Aſhur, ſo when the Aſſyrian Monarchy was founded, and Aſhur went to the ſouth of the Tigris for his greater Safety, Aram alſo croſs'd the ſame River, and lay weſt of Aſhur as he did before. The Word Aram in Hebrew is uſually render'd by Syrians in our Engliſh Bible, and is a Name not unknown to the ancient Greecians. For Homer mentions the Ἄρημοι in his ſecond Book of the Iliads; and ſo doth Heſiod; and Strabo ſaith, that many underſtand by the Arimi, the Syrians. And the Syrians at this Day call themſelves Aramæans. But Syria being ſo large a Name, that ancient Authors extend it to all thoſe Countries, which lay between Tyre and Babylon; we muſt not ſuppoſe that all theſe were of the Poſterity of Aram. For it is evident that ſome of them deſcended from Canaan, others from Aſhur, and others from Arphaxad. And therefore they are thought to have come from him, to whom the Name of Aram is either prefix'd or ſubjoyn'd, as (q) Aram-naharaim, or the Syrians between the Rivers, or as it is call'd in Greek, Meſopotamia. Add to this (r) Padan-aram, where Laban liv'd, alſo (s) Aram-zebah, the People of Palmyra, and the neighbouring Cities. Alſo (t) Aram-dammeſek, ſituated between Libanus and Antilibanus, whoſe chief City was Damaſcus. And laſtly, (u) Aram-maacah, and (x) Aram bethrehob, which were Places beyond Jordan, one of which fell to the Share of Manaſſeh, and the other to that of Aſher. And as theſe Countries lay near to Judæa on the north Side, and are frequently mention'd in Scripture; ſo they are ſo evidently known, as to need no farther Deſcription.

48. But the particular Account of the Country which Aram poſſeſs'd, will be better known from the (y) Families in this Nation, which Moſes deſcribes, and they are four. The firſt is Uz, who is generally thought to have been the Builder of the City of Damaſcus, and is thereby diſtinguiſh'd from the other two of the ſame Name. The firſt of which was (z) the Son of Nahor Abraham's Brother, whoſe Country was Auſitis in Arabia Deſerta; and the Second was (a) of the Poſterity of Edom. The ſecond is Hull, whoſe Poſterity poſſeſs'd the Country call'd Cholobatene or Cholbeth, that is, the Houſe of Chol or Hull, which is a Part of Armenia. The Third is Gether: It is probable, that the River Getri, formerly call'd alſo Centrites, which is ſaid to part the Canduchi from Armenia, might be ſo call'd from him. And after all it is not unlikely, but that Gadara the chief City of Peræa, which Ptolomy places in the Decapolis of Cæloſyria, might be ſo call'd from this Gether. And the laſt Son is Maſh, who is alſo (b) call'd Meſhek, and was ſeated between Hull to the North, and Uz to the South in Meſopotamia near the Mountain Maſius, which is call'd by Zenophon Maſca, and the neighbouring Inhabitants are call'd Maſieni. And (c) theſe are alſo the Sons of Shem, the ſecond Son of Noah, after their families, after their tongues, in their lands, and after their nations.

49. The third or youngeſt Son of Noah, which Moſes mentions, is Ham, who had four Sons, and were the Fathers of four ſeveral Nations. The Firſt is Cuſh. His Nation is frequently mention'd in Scripture, and from the Deſcription, which we there find, it is evident, that its firſt Settlement was in the Country adjoyning to his Brother Canaan, on the South, or in Arabia. There are many Texts of Scripture, which render the Word Cuſh by Ethiopia; but it muſt be underſtood of Ethiopia in Aſia or Arabia, of which (d) the Country of Midian was a Part, and not of that Ethiopia which was in Africa; and thus even Homer (e) divides the Country, and places one in the Eaſt and the other in the Weſt. And it is very probable, that in Proceſs of Time, ſome of the Family of Cuſh might paſs over the Red Sea into the adjoyning Parts of Africa, if they did not diſperſe ſome Colonies as far as Coſſir, and the River Caſa; and in this Senſe, Cuſh may be ſaid to be the Father of ſome of the Ethiopians. And when his Son Nimrod began the Aſſyrian Monarchy, it ſeems probable, that he went with his Father Cuſh from his original Habitation in Arabia to Chaldea, and firſt ſeiz'd on the Country which lay Southward of Babylon, which hath been call'd Chaduca and ſometimes Chuſca, and then he ſeiz'd on that Part of Perſia which lay on the eaſt Side of the great Rivers of Paradiſe, and hence this Country was call'd Chuzeſtan, or the Province of Cuſh.

50. But theſe were but a ſmall Part of the Poſterity of Cuſh. It is certain, that the main Bulk of them ſeated themſelves in Arabia, ſince there we find all his Children, according as Moſes deſcribes them. The firſt of theſe is Seba. Now there were four Nations, which had originally the Name of Seba or Sheba, one of them hath been mention'd already as the Son of Joktan of the Poſterity of Shem, two of them are mention'd by Moſes in the ſame Verſe as the Son and Grandſon of Cuſh, and the other will be mention'd in his proper Place as a Grandſon of Abraham by Keturah. The three firſt of theſe were Nations giv'n to Trade, and the laſt was a Nation given to Robbery. Three of theſe were written with the Hebrew Letter ש or Sh, but this who is here mention'd with the Letter ס or S, and is more plainly diſtinguiſh'd from the Reſt by the Pſalmiſt, who ſaith of CHRIST (f) the kings of Tarſhiſh and of the iſles ſhall bring preſents: the kings of Sheba and Seba ſhall offer gifts. This Seba was the Father of a People in Arabia, call'd The Jemanites, and his Poſterity, according as the (g) Arabian Geographer tells us, was plac'd on the weſt Side of the Country of Oman on the ſouth-weſt Side of the Perſian Gulph. Theſe were but little known among the Ancients, becauſe the Gerrhæi or Strangers, which came from Babylon, ſeiz'd upon that Nation for themſelves, and accordingly alter'd the Names, whereby they might be known.

51. The ſecond Son of Cuſh is (h) Havilah. There were alſo two Families, which were call'd Havilah. One of them was (i) the Son of Shem by Joktan, and the other is the Son of Ham by Cuſh. And as Havilah the Son of Joktan was ſeated in Arabia Fælix among the reſt of his Brethren; ſo Havilah the Son of Chus was ſeated near his Father, or near Chuſea upon (k) the Banks of the River Phiſon, or the weſtern Channel of the two, into which the common Channel of the Tigris and Euphrates is again divided, before the Waters thereof empty themſelves into the Perſian Gulph. Of this River Moſes ſaith, (l) that it compaſſeth the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold; and the gold of that land is good: there is bdellium and the onyx ſtone.

52. The third Son of Cuſh was Sabta, who ſeems to have been ſettled in that Part of Arabia Fælix call'd Leanitis upon the Perſian Sea, on the eaſt Side, and afterward to have ſent out Colonies into that Part of Perſia, which lay on the other Side of the ſame Gulph near to Carmania.

53. The fourth Son of Cuſh was Raamah, who was ſeated in Arabia near the Straights of the Perſian Gulf, and he had two Sons, viz. Sheba and Dedan, who were alſo ſeated near to him and to one another, Dedan liv'd toward the North near the Straights, and Sheba was plac'd more Southward and nearer to the main Ocean.

4. The fifth Son of Cuſh was Sabtecha, who was plac'd in Arabia among the Reſt of his Brethren, eſpecially ſince there is Room enough left for him in the Northern Parts of that Country. Dr. Wells is (m) of the Opinion, that his Deſcendants might be from him ſtil'd at firſt by the Greeks, Sabtaceni; which Name might be afterward ſoften'd in the Saraceni, by which Name it is well known, that the People of this Tract were anciently denominated, and he ſeems to give good Reaſons to ſupport his Conjecture.

52. There is alſo another Son of Cuſh or Nimrod. What his original Name was at firſt is uncertain, and therefore it is not poſſible to fix the Place of the ancient Habitation. The Name Nimrod comes from a Hebrew Word, which ſignifies to rebel, and ſeems to point at him as a great Rebel or Robber, eſpecially when he affected to be an univerſal Monarch, after which it is evident from the ſacred Scriptures, that (n) he ſettl'd at Babylon, and extended his Conqueſts firſt toward the Southern Parts of Perſia, and then into Aſſyria.

56. Here we may obſerve, how the Arabick Language at firſt became ſo very copious, as it is found to be. The Families of Shem by Joktan, and the Families of Ham by Cuſh ſettl'd in Arabia Fælix almoſt promiſcuouſly with each other, and thus the Languages of both were incorporated into one. It was a very rich and plentiful Country, and afforded great Stores of Merchandiſe, which could well be exported either by the Perſian Gulph, the Red Sea, the River Euphrates, or the main Ocean. And it is alſo remarkable, that (o) Raamah, Sheba and Dedan, which lay in the South Part of Arabia, carry'd on a great Trade as far as Tyre, which was the moſt northern Part of the Land of Canaan, and they ſupply'd their Country with ſome of their niceſt Commodities, as precious cloaths for chariots, the chief of all ſpices, and all precious ſtones and gold. Such a Commerce as this occaſion'd the Roads to be very much frequented, and conſequently a known Language to be communicated in all theſe Parts, into which the particular Countries inſerted their own Words, as there was Occaſion, or as Cuſtom required. Thus the whole Country having a common and ſufficient Language, it was increas'd in ſeveral Places, by the Addition of other Words, which being added together, grew to a vaſt Number, and many Words were alſo imported from all Parts of the Sea with their Merchandiſe. Thus the Chaldee and Syriack Languages grew more Copious by the Addition of ſo many Greek Words, the European Languages have been improv'd by the Latin, and the Spaniſh by the Arabick. Beſides, when Abraham had ſeveral Sons by Hagar, and eſpecially by his Wife Keturah, he (p) gave them gifts and ſent them away from Iſaak his ſon, while he yet lived, eaſtward into the eaſt country, that is, into ſome Parts of Arabia. The Language of theſe was the He- brew Language, which mixing with the other, introduc'd that great Affinity between the Hebrew and the Arabick, which is evident at this Time.

52. The next Son of Ham is Mizraim. There can be no Diſpute where his Offspring was ſeated; ſince Egypt in Hebrew is Mizraim, and the Land of Egypt is no more in Hebrew than the Land of Mizraim.

53. The firſt Son of Mizraim is Ludim. He was the Father of the Ethiopians, who lie on the moſt Southern Parts of the Nile of all that are mention'd. Next to theſe Northward, lay the Anamim, who are mention'd next by Moſes; next to theſe alſo the Lehabim or Lybians, who lay on the Shore of the Mediterranean Sea; on the Eaſt Side thereof lay the Naphtuhim, extending themſelves on the Sea Shore toward the Nile. To theſe Moſes adds the Pathruſim or Inhabitants of Pathros, which was alſo a Part of Egypt lying more Southward upon the River Nile. And the laſt, which I ſhall mention at preſent, viz. the Caſluhim, who were ſeated on the Eaſt Side of the River Nile, and extended themſelves to the Mediterranean on the North, and Southward along the Red Sea, ſo that they kept the Paſſages from Egypt into Canaan, and being there ſtraighten'd for Room, and the neighbouring Countries being inhabited by other Families, they were forc'd to ſend a late Colony as far as the Colchi, on the Eaſt Side of the Euxine Sea.

54. When the Wars rag'd between the upper and the lower Egypt, theſe Caſluhim built a City upon the Mediterranean Sea, near the eaſtern Entrance of the River Nile, which they call'd Peluſium; and they fortified it, to be not only a Paſs to ſecure their own Country, but likewiſe to open a Paſſage into the Land of Canaan, as Occaſion ſhould require; and ſome of them going from Peluſium thither, that ſo they might live in Peace and Quietneſs, they ſettl'd themſelves in the Land of Canaan on the Shore of the Mediterranean Sea, and ſo call'd themſelves Philiſtins. And becauſe this Paſs was of a very great Conſequence for the Defence of the Country, like the Chapiters or upper Lintels, on which the Weight of the whole Building did depend, and which in Hebrew are (q) call'd Caphtorim; therefore they call'd themſelves by this Name, and on another ſuch Occaſion as before mention'd, they (r) deſtroy'd the Avims, which dwelt in Hazerim, and ſettl'd in that Country, where they alſo call'd themſelves by the Name of Caphtorim.

55. The third Son of Ham is Phut. As Cuſh and Canaan were ſettled in Aſia; ſo Mizraim and Phut were ſettled in Africa, and the whole Country was divided between them two. For all Egypt, and ſeveral other Parts of Africa, as far as the Lake of Trilonides (which divides Africa into two Parts almoſt equal) fell to Mizraim. And the reſt beyond that Lake to the Atlantick Ocean was the Portion of Phut. But this Country lying beyond Egypt, and conſequently at a Diſtance from the Land of Canaan, Moſes takes no Notice of his Iſſue, and only names,

56. The laſt Son of Ham, which is Canaan, who dwelt with the greateſt Part of his Families, in the Land which the Children of Iſrael afterward took for an Inheritance. Moſes reckons eleven of his Sons as diſtinct Tribes in that Country, five of which are mark'd out for utter Deſtruction, viz. Firſt, the Hittite, who dwelt about Hebron and Beerſheba in the South of the Land of Canaan. Secondly, The Jebuſite, who were ſeated near the other, and before King David's Time, were in Poſſeſſion of Jeruſalem as their Capital City, who from them was call'd Jebus. Thirdly, The Amorite, who poſſeſs'd the Mountainous Parts of Judæa, and many of them (s) paſs'd over Jordan, and making War upon the Moabites and Ammonites, ſeiz'd upon all the Country between the Rivers of Jabbok and Arnon. Fourthly, The Girgaſhite, of which People there (t) was a Remnant about Geraſa or Gadara beyond Jordan, in our SAVIOUR's Time, who were known by the Name of the Gergaſenes. And Fifthly, The Hivite. Theſe (u) liv'd in and about Mount Hermon, who being toward the Eaſt of the Land of Canaan, were therefore call'd Kadmonites, that is, Orientals. The (x) Gibeonites, and Sichemites, were Colonies from them, who dwelt more Weſtward. The firſt of theſe liv'd near to Jeruſalem, and the other to Samaria.

57. To theſe Five Moſes adds two Nations more who were mark'd out for Deſtruction by the Iſraelites, and they are (y) the Canaanites and the Perizzites; concerning whom we may obſerve, that when Abraham firſt came into the Land of Canaan from his own Country, by GOD's immediate Direction, there were no ſuch Families mention'd at that Time; but after Abraham had return'd into Egypt, (z) the Canaanite and the Perizzite were then in the land. And as Abraham and Lot had liv'd comfortably together before; ſo now the Land being grown more populous by the Addition of theſe Neighbours, there was ſuch a Strife between the Herdſmen of Abraham and Lot, that they were forc'd to part aſunder. So that by this Account we may learn the Time, when theſe People came thither. By Canaanite in this Account, we are not to underſtand all the Poſterity of Canaan the Son of Ham, for they were diſtinguiſh'd into their ſeveral Tribes, and then this Word would include the Reſt; but it muſt mean ſomething diſtinct. The Account hereof is thus. After Mizraim had ſettl'd themſelves in upper Egypt, there were ſeveral Canaanitiſh Paſtors, who went into lower Egypt, for the Conveniency of Paſturage, which occaſion'd a long and bloody War between theſe two Kingdoms. Theſe Canaanites being a mix'd Multitude, could well call themſelves by no other Name, than ſuch a one as would include them all. And when they were much preſs'd by the War, they retreated back again, and becauſe they could not then mix with their own Tribes, they call'd themſelves either by the Name of Canaanites or Perizzites.

58. The Canaannites were a People, who being long us'd to Wars kept in great Bodies, that they might the better defend themſelves, or attack their Neighbours, as Occaſion did offer. And becauſe ſuch great Bodies could not be maintain'd by the bare Product of the adjacent Country, therefore they apply'd themſelves to Trade and Commerce, and for this Reaſon generally ſeated themſelves in Cities near the Sea as the fitteſt for ſuch a Purpoſe. And this is the Reaſon, that the Word (a) Canaan ſometimes in the Hebrew ſignifies a Merchant. It is (b) very obſervable, that there are not many conſiderable Remains of them in the large Country, that was on the Eaſt Side of Jordan among the Amorites, and People of Baſhan, whom Moſes conquer'd; which is an Argument that thay enter'd not into Canaan on the Eaſt Side of it, as Moſes did, but on the South Side of it, which lay next to Egypt. And here we find a diſtinct Body of them (c) joyning to the Amalekites under King Arad; ſo that in all Probability they enter'd in that Way, and ſo they paſs'd on ſettling Plantations as they found an Opportunity, either in the Midland, or by the Coaſts of the Sea, or by Jordan.

59. When we come a little farther from the South, we find (d) a conſiderable Country mention'd as a Part of Joſhua's Conqueſt, which was call'd Goſhen, and reach'd as far as Gibeon. And this being the very Name of the Country in (e) Egypt, from whence the Canaanites were driv'n, it is reaſonable to conclude, that it was giv'n by them to their new Plantation, when after their leaving Egypt, they came to ſettle there; as the Countries call'd New England, New Jerſey and New York, have been lately nam'd by the Planters from the Places out of which they came. Others (f) ſettl'd themſelves near the Sea, and near to Jordan for the Conveniency of Trade. The chief Body of them ſeem to be northward under (g) Jabin, who is call'd (h) King of Canaan, and he reign'd in Hazor, and Siſera was the captain of his hoſt, who dwelt in Haroſheth of the gentiles. By which we can underſtand nothing leſs than Foreigners, or People who came out of another Country, or which originally were not of that Land, this being the common Senſe of the Name Gentiles. And he had (i) nine hundred chariots of iron, arm'd with Scythes, ſuch as were invented by the Egyptians during the Time of their Wars in that Country. This is ſtill the more probable, becauſe we can find no other Foreigners, that would be under a King of Canaan, but theſe, who had not long before been bred in Egypt, and when they were preſs'd by the Wars retir'd into this Country. And tho' Joſhua had (k) brok'n their Power about an hundred and fifty Years before, at the Waters of Merom; yet it appears by the (l) Hiſtory of Judges, that they had recruited, and were grown ſtrong enough to oppreſs Iſrael twenty Years before the Time of Barak and Deborah, and none were more likely to do ſo than theſe Canaanites, who were the Offspring of thoſe that had been ſo long train'd up in the Egyptian Wars. And of theſe Sort of Canaanites may thoſe be reckon'd to be, whom (m) the half Tribe of Manaſſeh (who were ſettl'd on the Weſt Side of Jordan between Iſſachar and Ephraim) could not drive out; and thoſe (n) alſo among the Ephraimites at Gezer, which (o) ſtood out 'til the Days of Solomon, to whom it was giv'n by Pharaoh for a Preſent with his Daughter. All which makes it very plain, who were anciently meant by the general Name of Canaanites in that Country; and that * after the Sons of Canaan had ſeated themſelves according to their Families, theſe Families of the Canaanites were ſpread abroad, as it is already mention'd.

60. As the Canaanites were large Societies embody'd together for military Diſcipline and Trade either by Sea or Land; ſo the Perizzites were ſmaller Bodies of Men, who dwelt in Tents, and kept Cattle, and they had no ſettl'd Habitation, but mov'd from Place to Place, as the Conveniency of Paſturage did require. As they had two different Ways of Living in Egypt; ſo they had afterward two different Ways of living in Canaan. They who were actually in the Army kept together at their Return, and were call'd Canaanites: And they who dealt in Paſturage, ſeparated themſelves into ſmaller Companies, and were call'd Perizzites, which Word properly ſignifies ſmall Villages. And as they continually mov'd from Place to Place; ſo they left no Towns call'd by their Names, from whence we might gueſs, in what Parts of the Land of Canaan they were principally ſettl'd. And to prevent any Miſtake, where (p) the Names of Perez Uzza, and (q) Baal Perazim are mention'd, there are particular Reaſons giv'n, why the Places were ſo call'd. And as theſe Shepherds in Egypt were expos'd to the frequent Excurſions of the Enemy; ſo they alſo were train'd up to the Uſe of Arms, that they might the better defend themſelves, which made them the more formidable, and is the Reaſon, that they are always (r) mark'd out together with the Canaanites for utter Deſtruction.

61. But beſide theſe Sons of Canaan already mention'd, there are ſix Families more, which lay without the Country allotted to the Iſraelites, one on the South Side toward Egypt, and the other on the North Side toward Cœlo-ſyria. That on the South Side was the Sinite; their chief City was call'd (s) Sin in the Syriack, and Peluſium in the Greek, both which Words ſignify a dirty Place, and it was really ſo, as ſtanding in a low marſhy Ground, where the weſtern Branch of the River Nilus empties it ſelf into the Mediterranean Sea; and it is probable, that they extended themſelves to the Wilderneſs of Sin, which is (t) between Elim and Sinai, and is the eighth reſting Place of the Iſraelites in their Journey to Canaan.

62. The Firſt, which is mention'd on the north Side, is Zidon. He was the firſt born of Canaan, and was the Founder of the City call'd Zidon, which was famous for Merchandiſe, and is frequently mention'd both in the old and new Teſtament. To the North of Zidon is plac'd the Arkite, near that Part of Mount Lebanus, where the City of Arce is plac'd by Ptolomy and others. To the North of the Arkite is plac'd the Arvadite, where there is an Iſland in the Sea call'd Arvad, and by others Aradus, which they poſſeſs'd, together with a Part of the neighbouring Continent, and where there is a Place oppoſite to the Iſland, which is call'd Antaradus. Next to Arvad in the Neighbourhood, and upon the Continent did alſo the Zemarite fix, where there is a Town call'd Simyra. And it is moſt probable, that the Hemathite was ſeated more eaſterly in the Midland Country. There was a large City call'd (u) Hamath, and it had a King, who often had Wars with Iſrael; it lay adjoyning to the holy Land on the North Side, and therefore it is ſo often call'd (x) The entering in of Hamath. And as in Scripture it is frequently (y) joyn'd with Damaſcus; ſo we may conclude, that theſe two Cities were not very far aſunder. And therefore I ſhall end this Chapter with the Words of Moſes, (z) Theſe are the families of the ſons of Noah (viz. Japhet, Shem and Ham) after their generations, and by theſe were the nations divided in this Manner after the flood.

63. But here it may be ask'd, How came America to be peopl'd, eſpecially ſince there are ſuch vaſt Seas, which part it from the reſt of the World? And to this it may (a) be anſwer'd, That as England might at firſt be inhabited both from the Southern Parts and alſo from the Weſtern Parts of Europe; ſo America might alſo be peopl'd from the eaſtern Parts of China, and the northern Parts of Tartary. And this might be done by ſome Neck of Land not yet diſcover'd, which joyns ſome Part of Aſia, or perhaps of Europe to the main Continent of America. And it is certain, that when the Spaniards firſt came thither, they found the Country full of Bears, Lions, Wolves, Foxes, Tigers, and ſuch Sort of Wild Beaſts. And it is not likely, that Men would tranſport ſuch Creatures thither, tho' Men themſelves might paſs over thither by Shipping. This hath made ſome Men ſo bold as to ſay, that there were other People in America who were not drown'd by the Flood. But we need no farther Confutation of this Opinion than the Deſcription of that Country. For tho' the Continent of America was found full of ſuch Beaſts, when the Spaniards firſt came thither; yet none of the Iſlands, tho' very large, which lay remote from the Land, had any ſuch Creatures in them. And this is a Demonſtration, that thoſe Creatures were not originally from that Part of the Earth, for then the Iſlands would be furniſh'd with them as well as the Continent, as they are with all ſorts of Vegetables, and conſequently the Continent it ſelf was ſtor'd with thoſe Creatures from ſome other Part of the Earth. Or if there is no ſuch Neck of Land now extant; yet it might have been between the South-eaſt Part of China or the Philippine Iſlands, and the Southern Continent of that other Part of the World. And this might be deſtroy'd either by the Violence of the Sea, or by Earthquakes, which have made great Alterations in the World, and particularly St. Vincent, an Iſland in the Weſt Indies, was thus ſwallow'd up and loſt not many Years ſince. And he that obſerves the infinite Number of Iſlands lying between the Continent of China and Nova Guinea, the moſt contiguous to each other, hath probable Reaſons to believe, that theſe were formerly one Continent, tho' now by the Irruption of the Sea, they are crumbl'd into many Iſlands.

64. Neither is it improbable, but that America might alſo in Proceſs of Time, be inhabited from the northern Parts of Tartary, and particularly by the ten Tribes of Iſrael, who were carry'd Captives out of their own Land. To put this Matter in the cleareſt Light, we muſt conſider, that the Conqueſt both of Iſrael and Judah by the Kings of Aſſyria and Babylon is deſcrib'd in Scripture, as effected by the (b) Kings of the north; and their Return, as (c) coming out of the North, and we are told more particularly, (d) that when the king of Aſſyria took Samaria, he did not only carry them away into Aſſyria, but he alſo plac'd them in Halah and in Habor by the River of Gozan, and in the Cities of the Medes. Being deſpis'd wherever they came, becauſe they were circumcis'd and had a different Way of living from the Reſt of Mankind, many of theſe might go farther North into Tartary. This is not a bare Conjecture, ſince we are well aſſur'd, that (e) in the northern Countries of Ruſſia, Sarmatia and Lythuania, there are found greater Numbers of the Jewiſh Nation than in other Places, and ſo the nearer to the Tartarians ſtill the more. And Johannes Leunclavius, the moſt curious Searcher out of the Turkiſh Antiquities and Monuments, adds, as a farther Proof of the Deſcent of thoſe barbarous northern People from the Jews, that in his Travels through Livonia into Lythuania, in the Country near to the Metropolitan City of Riga, he found there the barbarous People of the Lettoes quite different in Language from the other Country People of the Curons and Eſtons, no leſs barbarous than themſelves, who had always in their Mouths a perpetual Lamentation, which they with doleful Moans daily repeated abroad in the Fields, Jeru. Jeru. Moſco. Lon. whereby they were thought to lament over Jeruſalem and Damaſcus, as forgetful of all other things in their ancient Country, after ſo many Years, and in a deſolate Place ſo far diſtant from thence. If we may ſuppoſe the Word Lon (f) to be deriv'd from להון Lehon, which in the Chaldee and Samaritan Languages ſignifies for theſe; then by the Addition of another Word, which is imply'd, we may render this brok'n Sentence thus, Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, and Damaſcus, for theſe we lament. And thus a Part of their ancient Language remains, even when the reſt might be loſt: For Munſter in his Deſcription of Livonia, repeating the like Words, reports, that this rude People being demanded what they meant by theſe Words ſo often and ſo lamentably utter'd by them without any Cauſe, anſwer'd, That they knew no more, but that they had been ſo taught Time out of Mind by their Anceſtors.

65. There being theſe Footſteps of the Jews remaining in Tartary, the Rabbins tell us, (g) that the ten Tribes have paſs'd over the River Sanbat, where they have Linnen and Scarlet, with which they make themſelves moſt beautiful Garments, and that they have a great Plenty of Silver and Gold and precious Stones. And they ſay, that this River Sanbat is a River, which runs all the Week with a violent Stream, and rolls down great Stones with it, ſo that no Man can paſs over it, but it reſts upon the Sabbath Day, when the Jews are alſo commanded to reſt, ſo that they cannot either go or come to one another. Such a fabulous Story as this makes it plain, that the Jews have a Notion, that the Ten Tribes are paſs'd over ſome River, but they know not where. Now there is a Paſſage in the North of Tartary into America call'd The Straights of Anien, and perhaps there may be more about Hudſon's Bay, and this being in a Part of the World ſo little known, might be the River, which the Jews did ſo much talk of. Or there might be a Neck of Land in ancient Times, which is ſince waſh'd away by the Sea. It is obſervable that the wild Americans ſwim about the Sea in ſmall Boats, which they call Canoes, and are very much like to thoſe, which are us'd in the Parts abovemention'd. And as there are ſuch a vaſt Variety of Languages in the North of America, among the Natives, that a Man can hardly travel above thirty Miles by the Help of any one alone; ſo this ſeems to ſhew, that they came thither in different Times and from different Places. However, if it was poſſible to learn ſome of theſe Languages, and compare them with the Samaritan; if it was poſſible to have a right Notion of their Religion, and to compare it with the Idolatry of the Ten Tribes; or if it was poſſible to find out ſome of their Monuments, and compare them with the ancient Samaritan Character, and eſpecially with thoſe in ancient Uſe among the Jewiſh Coins, it might afford Matter for farther Speculations.

CHAP. V.

OBJECTIONS Answer'd.

BEFORE I proceed any farther, it will be neceſſary to anſwer two Objections, which may be rais'd againſt this Part of the Chronology of the Sacred Scriptures. The firſt is, that there could not be Men enough ſo ſoon after the Flood to build ſuch a prodigious Tower, as the Tower of Babel was, according as it is deſcrib'd in a former Chapter. And the Second is, that there could not be Men enough in the Time of Abraham to people ſo many Kingdoms, as were inhabited at that Time. In anſwer to theſe, it muſt be own'd, that if the Time of the Diſperſion from Babylon had been plac'd at the Birth of Peleg, as moſt have plac'd it, the firſt Objection would have had a much greater Force; but it is very much abated, by placing the Time thirty Years later according to Beroſus; neither can there be any Inconvenience in placing it forty Years after, as upon ſecond Thoughts I have adventur'd to place it in theſe Tables. And as to the ſecond Objection, if (as formerly) the Birth of Abraham was fix'd to the Time, when Terah was ſeventy Years old, it would have occaſion'd much difficulty; but ſince according to the Opinion of all our late Chronologers, it is plac'd ſixty Years after, when Terah was an hundred and thirty Years of Age, it is much more eaſy to give a ſatisfactory Anſwer.

2. The firſt Objection is, That there could not be Men enough ſo ſoon after the Flood to build ſo prodigious a Tower, as the Tower of Babel was. This Objection may be fully anſwer'd, Firſt, By taking a moderate Computation of the Number of Men, which might have been employ'd therein. And Secondly, By proving from thence, that ſuch a Number of Men was ſufficient in the Space of forty Years, which is the Time aſſign'd, to build ſo great a Tower, as that which hath been deſcrib'd.

3. The firſt Thing propos'd is to take a moderate Computation of the Number of Men, which might have been employ'd in the building of this Tower. For the better taking an Eſtimate thereof, we muſt ſuppoſe, that the Poſterity of Shem tarry'd in their own Country near to their Father Noah, and that only the Poſterity of Ham and Japhet came to Babel. Secondly, That they came thither in the hundred and firſt Year after the Flood, and were diſpers'd from thence in the hundred and forty firſt Year, ſo that they tarry'd there forty Years. Thus this ſecond Diſperſion will happen, when Peleg was forty Years of Age, and as the Scripture tells us (a) in his days, or whilſt he liv'd. The Diſperſion in this Year will happen early enough to people the firſt Kingdoms, within the Time aſſign'd for it by the beſt Chronologers, and will alſo make the World ſo populous as to occaſion a greater Neceſſity for ſuch a Diſperſion. Thirdly, We muſt conſider, how many Men might have ſprung from Ham and Japhet, and conclude them to be double the Number of the Children of Shem. Fourthly, It may well be ſuppos'd, that after the Bleſſing, which GOD (b) gave, and even repeated to Noah and his Sons to make it more certain, when he ſaid unto them, Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth, that they were more fruitful than at another Time, until the Earth was repleniſh'd. And therefore it may reaſonably be ſuppos'd by a Moderate Computation, Firſt, That after the Flood every Man might have a Child once in every Year, or Twins once in two Years, for the more ſpeedy peopling of the World; ſo that in two Years Time there might be born a Male and a Female to each Man of a ſuitable Age, or of the Age of his Cotemporary mention'd in the Scriptures in the Line of Shem. This is but a moderate Computation, ſince it is poſſible, that they might have had Twins every Year, or have had Children much ſooner. For the Scriptures ſpeak poſitively of none, whoſe Names are mention'd in the Line from Shem to Abraham, that they were the firſt Born. And Secondly, That all theſe Patriarchs from the Time that they firſt had Children, had them in this Manner until after their Diſperſion from Babylon. At that Time, there were none of them, whoſe Age we know, that had attain'd to half the Age of their Lives; and it is uſual even in this Age of the World for either Sex to have Children until they attain to half the general Age of Mankind. And as the Space between the Flood and the Diſperſion is ſuppos'd to be but an hundred and forty Years; ſo it is certain, that ſome Time after, when the Age of Man was ſhorten'd, that Abraham was born to Terah, when he was an hundred and thirty Years old. Theſe Things being granted, it muſt be allow'd on the other Hand, that Noah had no Children after the Flood, he being then ſix hundred Years of Age, and that (c) the whole earth was overſpread by Shem, Ham and Japhet. So that according to theſe Suppoſitions I have compos'd the twenty ſecond Table, which ſhews, how many Males might be born to Shem in any ſecond Year after the Flood. And I have alſo compos'd the twenty third Table from thence, to ſhew how many Males might be born either to Shem, or to both Ham and Japhet, or to all the three Sons of Noah in any ſecond Year alſo. The Adding of all the Numbers together from the Top of the Table to any giv'n Year, will ſhew the Number of Males in any one Family, or in two, or in the whole World at that Time; and the Doubling of any Number, thus added together, ſhews the whole Number of Men and Women, which might probably be alive in any ſuch Year, either from Shem alone, or in the Families both of Ham and Japhet, or of the whole World in any ſuch giv'n Year. And now I ſuppoſe, that from the Time of the Coming to Babylon in the hundred and firſt Year after the Flood, to the Time of their Diſperſion in the hundred and forty firſt Year, which was forty Years, an hundred and fifty Men might be employ'd every Day, one Day with another in the Building, as Maſons upon the Walls, and that each of theſe might have twenty under Workmen employ'd in making of Brick and Mortar, and bringing it to them; there then remains only to be proved, that there would in ſuch a Caſe, be alſo a ſufficient Number of Men for the Building of the City, Manuring of the Ground, Dreſſing of Proviſion, and other Buſineſs of this Nature. Now by multiplying the hundred and fifty Workmen on the Walls by 21, the Number of Perſons and Attendants in each Year, the Total is 3150, which alſo multiply'd by 40, the Number of Years, produces the Summ of 126000. And it will appear, that ſo many Men employ'd in one Year, or a proportionable Number employ'd for forty Years, would build a much larger Tower than what is mention'd; and that ſo many might be thus employ'd, and that there would alſo be a ſufficient Number remaining for other Uſes.

4. For the Proof of this I have alſo compos'd the twenty fifth Table, to ſhew how many Men above twenty Years of Age might be living in each reſpective Year of the Forty. Thus for the hundred and ſecond Year after the Flood, I compute how many Men were born in and before the Year 82 from Ham and Japhet, and by adding the Numbers together, I find them to be 189191, from which the Number of Workmen or the Sum of 126000 being ſubſtracted, the Remainder is 63191 or about a third Part of the other Sum; ſo that beſide the Number of Workmen propos'd, a third Part of the Men in the World might be employ'd for the other Uſes abovemention'd, beſides all the Women, who were alive in the ſame Place (and who are ſuppos'd to be equal to the Number of Men) and all other Perſons under twenty Years of Age.

5. The next Particular propos'd is to ſhew, that an hundred and fifty Maſons well tended, are ſufficient to build ſuch a Tower, as the Tower of Babylon was, in the Space of forty Years. For the Proof of this it may reaſonably be ſuppos'd, that as the Age, which Men liv'd in thoſe Days, was much longer than it is now; ſo the Men at that Time were much larger and ſtronger than they are now, and conſequently that they could be able to do much more Work in a Day, than they can do now. But I ſhall wave this Suppoſition, and look upon ſuch who liv'd then, only as equal in Strength and Stature with the Men of this Age. Now it is generally agreed, that an able Bricklayer, well tended, can build a Rod of Brick Wall in four Days, which is a ſquare Piece of ſixteen Feet and a half broad, and thirteen Inches and an half thick, and contains in the Whole 306 cubical Feet, which being divided by 4, or the Number of Days, the Remainder is ſeventy ſix Feet and an half, or the Work which a Bricklayer can do in a Day. And tho' a Workman can fill the Middle of a Wall, which was generally the Caſe of the Tower of Babylon, twice as faſt as he can take Care of the two Outſides, as in our common Buildings; yet I ſhall crave no Allowance upon that Account, but leave it to anſwer for any Extraordinaries, which can be thought of. I alſo ſuppoſe, that they obſerv'd one Day in each Week, as a Sabbath, or a Day of Reſt; ſo that they had 313 Days for Labour in every Year, and 12527 working Days in the whole forty Years, including ſeven Days for Leap Years. If then one Brick-layer can finiſh 76 Feet of Work in one Day, it appears by Multiplication, that he can finiſh 952052 Feet of Work in forty Years, or in 12527 Days, and conſequently that an hundred and fifty Workmen could finiſh 142807800 ſquare Feet of Building in forty Years, which is more than the Sum propos'd at the End of the twenty firſt Table. And tho' this ſhews, that the Tower of Babylon might have been built, and the People diſpers'd from thence in the 141ſt Year after the Flood, as it is plac'd in theſe Tables; yet it was abſolutely impoſſible, that it could have been finiſh'd in the Year 101, and the People be diſpers'd from thence at the Birth of Peleg, as it is generally ſuppos'd; ſince at that Time there were in the laſt Year but 810 Men in all, above twenty Years of Age, to complete it; and if we may ſuppoſe that they were forty Years in building it, they could not probably have more than ſix and forty Men of all Sorts above twenty Years of Age to begin upon it.

6. The Manner of compoſing the twenty ſecond Table is thus. Firſt, Make a Column of every ſecond Year, from the Birth of Arphaxad, Anno Mundi 1659, to the Diſperſion from Babylon, Anno 1799. Then ſuppoſing one Son to be born to Shem only in every other Year; oppoſite to the reſpective Years until the Birth of Salah, Anno Mundi 1694, place the Figure 1. Then in the Year 1695 a Son is born to Shem, and another to Arphaxad his eldeſt Son, ſo that there are two born that Year. In the Year 1697, a Son is born to Shem, and two more to two of his eldeſt Sons, ſo that they increaſe until the Birth of Eber in this Proportion. Eber being born in the Year of the World 1724, when Salah was thirty Years old, and finding oppoſite to the Year 1723, that ſixteen only were born, whilſt the Number did hitherto only increaſe by Unites (the Patriarchs now having Children at thirty Years of Age) from the Year 1725 I ſhall ſubſtract thirty, and the Remainder is 1695, in which Year two Males were born, which added to 16 make 18 the Number born in that Year from the Stock of Arphaxad and Salah, as in the third Column. Then from 1727 I ſubſtract 30, and the Remainder is 1697, in which Year three Males were born, which added to 18 makes 21, the Number born in that Year to the two Families. And ſo I proceed to the Birth of Peleg, except that for the Years 1755, 1757 and 1759 I only add 16, as I did for the Year before. Eber being born Anno 1724, and the Children of Salah having Children in the following Years at the ſame Age, I take another Column, viz. Col. 4, as before for theſe Children, ſo that oppoſite to 1725, there is 18 for the Branches of the two Families, and one for thoſe of the third, which two Sums being added together, give the full Number for the reſpective Years, as in Col. 5; ſo that the full Number added together for the Year 1757 is 200, and after that theſe three Branches are carried on as united, Col. 3. In the Year 1758, Peleg is born, ſo that a fourth Branch begins, when the Poſterity of Eber had alſo Children at 34 Years of Age; ſo that from 1759 I ſubſtract 34, and the Remainder is 1725, when there was an Increaſe of 19, which added to 200 is 219. Thus alſo 23 added to 219, the Total is 242 for the Year 1761 in the ſame Manner, and then the third Column until the Birth of Reu will ſtand as in the ſame Table, and the fourth Branch or the Poſterity of Peleg as in Col. 4. added to the Sum total, gives the Number of the reſpective Years for the Family of Shem in the ſame Method to the End of the Table; which being remov'd into the twenty third Table, and being doubl'd, gives the Number of Men born to Ham and Japhet, or multiply'd by 3, as in another Column. gives the Number of Males from Noah in the reſpective Years, until their Diſperſion from Babylon.

7. The Manner of compoſing the twenty fourth Table is thus. To find the Number of Men alive above twenty Years of Age after the Flood, I ſubſtract 20 from 102 the firſt Year mention'd in the Table, and the Remainder is 82, and adding all thoſe together, who were born after the Flood in the Families of Ham and Japhet until the Year 82 incluſively, I find the Number to be 948, with which

I begin

I begin the third Column. The Numbers, which increas'd in the Family of Shem in the two following Years, viz. 83 and 84, or the Numbers increasing in both the Families of Ham and Japhet in one Year, I find to be 79, which added to 948 is 1027, for the Year after the Flood 103, and added to 1027 is 1106 for the Year 104. The Number increasing in the Family of Shem in the two following Years, viz. 85 and 86 is 91, which added to 1106 is 1197 for the Year 105, and added again to 1197 is 1288 for the Year 106, and so to the End.

9. The other Objection is, That there could not be Men enough in the Time of Abraham to people so many Kingdoms, as were inhabited at that Time. But this Objection may be much more easily answer'd; and for the clearing of this Difficulty I shall only suppose, that after the Dispersion from Babylon every Man might have a Child only once in two Years, at the Age when their Cotemporaries had Children, as they are recorded in the Scripture; so that in four Years Space of Time there might be born only a Male and a Female to each Father in a Family, and that they continu'd to have Children in this Manner, until they attain'd to half the Age of their Cotemporaries, as they are mention'd in the Scriptures. If this is granted, it may on the other Hand be allow'd, First, That Noah had no Children after the Flood, being then six hundred Years old, and that the whole World was repleniſh'd by Shem, Ham and Japhet. Secondly, That when one Patriarch left off from having Children, all his Predeceſſors left off also from having any. Thirdly, That when any Patriarch left off from having Children, all the Reſt of that Generation ſhall be omitted, which might have been born before the Birth of the next Patriarch recorded in Scripture. And thus becauſe Peleg might have no more Children after the Year of the World 1877, being then attain'd to half his Age, I ſuppoſe, that not only Shem and Arphaxad, but that alſo Salah and Eber had no Children after that Year, together with their Cotemporaries, tho' they had not attain'd to half their Age 'til afterward. And I alſo omit all ſuch Children, which might be born in that Generation, until the Birth of Reu. Thus alſo when Nahor arriv'd to half his Age, I ſuppoſe that Serug alſo had no Children afterward, tho' he was not then attain'd to half the Age of his Life. And I alſo omit all ſuch Children, which might afterward be born 'til the Birth of Terah. Fourthly, That no Computation of Birth ſhall be allowed after the Year of Abraham's Life; tho' he was above ſeventy four Years old, when he enter'd into Canaan, and it is poſſible that the World might be above twenty Times as populous at that Time, as at his Birth. Fifthly, That ſuch a Number of Men in thoſe Ages might die without the aforeſaid Number of Children, as might be allow'd to ſtrike off all the antecedent Generations, and only leave ſuch a Number alive, as may be ſuppos'd to be born within the Years, at the End of which Abraham was born. And Laſtly, that after this Computation and all theſe Allowances, all the Figures, except the firſt toward the right Hand, ſhall be reduced to Ciphers; that ſo the Remainder may be only a round Number.

10. And now, if notwithſtanding all theſe Conceſſions, it will appear, that there might be a ſufficient Number of Men born to Shem, which might people all Aſia; we may as reaſonably conclude, that a ſufficient Number might be born to Ham and Japhet, which might have alſo peopl'd all Africa and Europe. Now the Number of Men from Shem, for the Peopling of Aſia will be an hundred Millions, and of Women as many more. For the Proof whereof I have compos'd the twenty fifth Table, in the ſame Method as the twenty fourth Table was compos'd, which demonſtrates the Poſſibility hereof beyond all Contradiction.

11. However, we need not crave ſo large a Number, ſince it is more than probable, that none of the Poſterity of Japhet were diſpers'd into Europe at that Time, but only ſituated in Aſia the leſs from the Mountain of Amanus northward, and weſtward to the Euxine Sea, and that the Poſterity of Ham had only peopl'd Canaan and Egypt, or perhaps the Lubims or Lybians had ſpread themſelves into ſome Part of Ethiopia. Beſides, when they firſt peopl'd the Country, a few Men took up a great Tract of Ground. At their firſt Diviſion they were ſcatter'd into ſmaller Bodies, and ſo they planted themſelves at a conſiderable Diſtance one from another, to prevent (d) the Increaſing of the Beaſts of the Earth upon them. Theſe ſmall Parcels had one Governour, who in Edom ſeems to be call'd a (e) Duke, and in Canaan a (f) King, and thus they had no leſs than one and thirty in that little Country; who, as they increas'd, did ſpread farther and farther into the adjacent Lands, until they had repleniſh'd them all. Thus Canaan was but thinly peopl'd, when Abraham came to dwell there. And tho' thoſe, who call'd themſelves Canaanites and Perizzites, thereby to be diſtinguiſh'd from the ſettl'd Inhabitants, were return'd from the Wars of Egypt; yet there was no Scruple to admit of more among them, when Abraham came thither. And tho' the fruitful Countries might be more full of People than others, as (g) in the Caſe of Abraham and Lot, when they parted aſunder; yet other Countries were more deſolate of Inhabitants; inſomuch that long after that in Jacob's Time

(who was (h) increaſed exceedingly, and had much cattle, and maid ſervants, and camels, and aſſes) Hamor and Shechem told the Hivites (i) that the land was large enough for them all. And therefore it is the leſs to be wonder'd at, that (k) when Abraham and Lot came into Canaan, tho' they had flocks, and herds, and tents, that the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together; yet they found no ſuch Difficulty, as ſoon as they were ſeparated to ſettle in any Part thereof with the Reſt of the Inhabitants.

12. As therefore it appears by a moderate Computation, that there might be in the World three hundred Millions of Men, when Abraham was born; ſo we may more readily grant them to be as many, at the Diſtance of ſeventy four Years after. And alſo for the Supplying of all theſe with Corn, Fleſh, and other Proviſions both for Meat and Drink, and alſo with Materials to make Cloaths, we may well allow as large a Tract of Land in Aſia, as can be ſuppos'd to be habitable in that Time, conſidering what Abatements muſt be made for Rivers, Woods, Mountains, marſhy Grounds, and large Deſerts in that Country, eſpecially ſince all the Inhabitants were confin'd in the north temperate Zone.

13. But tho' the World might poſſibly have been fully peopl'd in a leſs Run of Time; yet I cannot but add the Opinion of (l) an Hiſtorian of our own Nation, who ſaith, That it is not adviſeable to take away any Part of the three hundred and fifty two Years, allotted for the Time between the Flood and the Birth of Abraham, as many have formerly done, who made his Father Terah to be but ſeventy Years old at his Birth. For (ſaith he) If we adviſedly conſider the State and Countenance of the World, ſuch as it was in Abraham's Time, or before Abraham was born, we ſhall find, that it was very ill done of any Man, by following an Opinion without the Guide of Reaſon, to pare the Times over deeply between Abraham and the Flood, becauſe in cutting them too near the Quick, the Reputation of the whole Story might perchance bleed thereby, were not the Teſtimony of the Scriptures ſo ſupream, as that no Objection can approach it; and that we did but follow this Precept of St. Auguſtin, That whereſoever any one Place of the Scriptures may be conceiv'd diſagreeing to the whole, the ſame is miſunderſtood by Ignorance or Miſinterpretation. For in Abraham's Time all the then known Parts of the World were peopl'd, and all Regions and Countries had their Kings. Egypt had many magnificent Cities, and ſo had Paleſtina, and all the bordering Countries; yea, all that Part of the World beſides, as far as India; and thoſe not built with Sticks, but with hewn Stones, and defended with Walls and Rampiers, which Magnificence needed a Parent of more Antiquity, than thoſe, which other Men have ſuppos'd. And therefore where the Scriptures are plaineſt and beſt agreeing with Reaſon and Nature, to what End ſhould we labour to beget Doubts and Scruples, or draw all things into Wonders and Marvels, giving alſo Strength thereby to common Cavillers, and to thoſe Men's apiſh Brains, who only bend their Wits to find out Impoſſibilities and Monſters in the Story of the World and of Mankind.

CHAP. VI.

The HISTORY of the WORLD.

WHEN the Ark was built in the Plains of Cypariſſon, and made fit for Swimming, and for the containing in it all the ſeveral Sorts of Animals with proper Food for them all, according to the Directions which GOD had given to Noah; then (a) GOD commanded him to enter into the Ark with his Wife, his three Sons and their Wives, being (b) eight in all, and to take of all common Animals only two of a Sort, viz the Male and the Female, but of ſuch Beaſts as were fit for Sacrifice he was allow'd to take a greater number, even Seven (c) Pair or Couples, who went in accordingly (d) two and two into the Ark. And as there is no Doubt, but the Difference of clean and unclean Beasts with respect to Sacrifices was known and observ'd before the Law of Moses and before the Flood; so we have no Cause to question, but the same were reputed clean before the Law, which were declar'd to be so in the Law of Moses. So that the Number of Creatures, which went into the Ark by Sevens, were but small, and their Provision being proportionable could take up but little room. For by the Law of Moses only Beeves, and Sheep, and Goats among the Beasts, and Turtle-Doves and Pigeons among the Fowls were allow'd for Sacrifice. The Reason of this Number being enlarg'd seems to be, that they might have a sufficient Number for Sacrifice, when they came out of the Ark, and if need was, for other provision in case of Necessity, at least for Food after the Flood, when GOD enlarg'd their former Grant, and it could not be expected, that immediately after such a Flood, and during the following Winter, when they came out of the Ark, they could meet with any Herbs or Fruit for their present Subsistance. It is probable, That the taking in of Provisions had employ'd them for some time before, and that Noah spent a whole Week in bringing the Animals into the Ark, and placing them in the several Receptacles, which he had provided for them, and then he kept the next Day, being the usual Sabbath, as Holy to the LORD. On this Day, or more probably on the Day following, the Flood began; so that (*) the Rain continu'd without the least Intermission for the Space of Forty Days and Forty Nights: During this time it is said, that (f) the LORD shut in Noah and his Family. He clos'd the Door, which was under the Water, so fast, that not the least Drop could enter thereby, tho' it was not pitch'd like the rest of the Ark. But beside the Rain, the (g) fountains of the great deep were brok'n up, there came violent Inundations of Water, not from every Sea or River, but from the large Oceans, particularly the Mediterranean on the West side and the Arabian Gulf from the South, which being joyn'd with a South West Wind, such as usually brings violent Rains, did in a little Time overflow the Land, and bear up the Ark, so that it went, until it came over the Caspian Sea; and tho' (h) the Rain was upon the Earth only for the Space of Forty Days and Forty Nights; yet it was (i) an hundred and ten Days more, an hundred and fifty Days in all, before there was a visible Abatement of the Waters, which was first perceiv'd at that Time by the Resting of the Ark upon (k) that part of the Mountains of Ararat which lay (l) Eastward from Babylon. In its first course, which was Northwest, from Cyparisson, it (m) went at the Rate of $15\frac{13}{20}$ Miles in a Day, because the Inundations from both Oceans took it up, when they were in their greatest Force. In it's last course, which was South, and occasion'd by (n) the North Wind, it went (o) only at the Rate of $3\frac{10}{11}$ Miles in a Day, because the Retreat of the Waters within the Earth in the same Channels through which it came out before, was at so great a Distance, that it could not greatly or suddenly affect the Ark.

Sunday Nov. 28. Anno Mundi 1657.

Thursday Jan. 6. Anno Mundi 1658.

2. Here we may conjecture, that there had been no Inundations of Water from the Caspian Sea, nor consequently from the Euxine, or the Heads of any other Rivers or smaller Streams. If the Waters had came out from any of these, there is no Reason to doubt, but they would have return'd again the same way, and then the Indraught of the Caspian Sea, would have prevented the Ark from going thence; and it would have been impossible for it to have landed Eastward of the City of Babylon. And accordingly it is remarkable, that Moses doth not tell us, that the Fountains of the smaller Seas or Rivers were brok'n up; but only (p) that the Fountains of the great Deep were broken up, which is so minute a Circumstance, that no one could have hit upon at that Time, but an Author inspir'd by him, who knew the Passages of all the Subterraneous Waters, and could alter or order their Courses, according as he in his Wisdom should think most convenient.

3. On Monday the eleventh day of July, when the days were at the longest, and just before the Entrance of the Sun into the Tropical Sign of Cancer, (q) the tops of the mountains were seen. It is probable, that Noah had spent the day before, being their Sabbath, with his Family in all the Acts of Religious Devotion, and particularly in Praying to GOD to shew them some visible Token of his Favour; and if so, then GOD was pleas'd to give on the Day following a visible Demonstration that he had heard their Prayers. Anno Mundi 1658.

4. At (r) the end of forty Days, which happen'd to be on Saturday the twentieth Day of August, in the same Year, Noah sent out a Raven to make a discovery, whether the Earth was dry or not. For if it was, then the Smell of the Dead Carcases would entice it to fly away to a greater Distance: But this Raven spent his Time (s) in going forth and returning. And thus after many Flights finding nothing but Water, it ſtill betook itſelf to the Ark, either entering into it or ſitting upon it, 'till at laſt the Waters being dried up, (t) the Jews tell us, that the Raven found a Carcaſs of a Man upon a Mountain, and ſo would return no more. The Deſign of this Action on a Saturday was probably, that Noah might the better know how to ſuit the Devotions of the following Day, being a Sabbath, to his preſent Condition, either by Praying to GOD to ſhew ſome farther Token of his loving Kindneſs, or by Praiſing of him for the Tokens, which he had already ſhewn them.

5. At the end of ſeven Days, or on the next Saturday, Noah (u) ſent forth a Dove, as a proper Creature to make farther Diſcoveries, being of a ſtrong Flight, loving to Feed upon the Ground, and pick up Seeds, and conſtantly returning to it's Reſt from the remoteſt Places. But the Dove was then forc'd to return without any good Token; for tho' the Tops of the Mountains were ſeen, yet they were either ſo muddy, that the Dove could not tread upon them, or elſe they were ſo far off, that he could not eaſily reach them. And this muſt oblige Noah to ſpend the following Day in Praying for farther Mercies.

6. And (x) he ſtayed yet other ſeven days, and again he ſent the dove out of the ark. This was on Saturday the third Day of September. And the Dove ſeems to be ſent out again at this Time, that ſo Noah might the better know how to perform the ſacred Offices of the following Day. Accordingly the Dove return'd in the Evening, with an Olive-Leaf, or rather (y) a Branch pluckt off from the Tree, in her Mouth, which was the more eaſily cropt off, becauſe it was now Summer Time, which brought forth new Shoots out of the Trees that were young and tender, eſpecially after ſo great an Inundation. And thus Noah knew, that the Waters had left the lower Grounds, but that the Earth remain'd very chill and cold, that the Dove could not ſtay there without a very apparent Inconveniency. And thus as Noah had great Occaſion to praiſe the name of GOD for the freſh Aſſurances of his Mercies; ſo he could not but ſpend a Part of the following Day in Praying for the Continuance of them. And as the Country of (z) Aſſyria, which lay between the Tigris and Euphrates was Famous for Olive-Trees, whoſe Fruit yielded great ſtore of Oyl; ſo we may conclude, that the fruitful Plains of Babylon, where thoſe Rivers meet, might abound with the ſame; which makes it the more probable, that the Ark did land not far from thoſe parts of the World, at leaſt not in the barren Mountains, where ſome have plac'd it.

7. After this Noah ſtay'd yet other ſeven Days, which was 'till Saturday the tenth Day of September, when (a) he ſent out the dove, which return'd not again unto him any more. There was neither Food wanting for it to eat, nor a Neſt, wherein it might repoſe itſelf. So that by this Noah underſtood, that the Earth was not only dry and fit to be inhabited; but alſo that it was not utterly ruin'd by the Flood, and would afford Food for all Creatures.

8. Noah having thus every Week receiv'd freſh Aſſurances of GOD's Favours, and the Dove returning no more, by which he might make freſh Experiments, he reſolves to be an Eye Witneſs himſelf of the State of the new World. Accordingly he (b) pitches upon the firſt Day of the new Year for this purpoſe, and having obſerv'd the new Moon the Evening before, he on the next Day, being Sunday or their Sabbath, removes the Covering of the Ark, or a few Skins which were plac'd there, and might eaſily be tak'n away, and ſo he goes up to the Top of the Roof, where he might view round him at a greater Diſtance, when he beheld the Earth quite freed from Water, but yet ſo ſoft and muddy, that it was not fit to be inhabited. This happen'd to be on the ſecond Day of October, and eleven Days before the Sun came to the Equinoctial Point of Libra. Thus Noah had a comfortable proſpect of his future Reſt in the new World, on the ſame Day of the Week, in which GOD reſted from all his Works of Creation, and in which CHRIST JESUS by his Reſurrection from the Dead hath open'd a Way for us into the new Jeruſalem, or the Kingdom of Heaven. And therefore Noah might commemorate each of theſe Mercies at the ſame Time, which might give him Occaſion to be more particular in his publick Thankſgivings to Almighty GOD.

9. But tho' Noah might afterward find that the Earth was fit to be inhabited; yet he waited for GOD's Order to go out of the Ark, as he had it for his Ent'ring into it, and therefore (c) on a remarkable Day, being the Antediluvian Sabbath, or Sunday Nov. 27. GOD, who appear'd to his Servants on this particular Day of the Week, did on this Day command Noah to go out of the Ark, with all the living Creatures that were therein. And as he ſpent ſix Days in bringing them into the Ark; ſo he ſpent ſix Days more in bringing them out; and when theſe Days of Labour were ended, then the ſet Day for Reſt and the publick Worſhip of GOD return'd in it's uſual Courſe.

10. Accordingly on Sunday Dec. 4. (x) Noah builds an Altar to the LORD, which might eaſily be done, becauſe it conſiſted only of a few unpoliſh'd Stones, and took of every clean Beaſt and every clean Fowl, and offer'd thereon burnt Offerings, thereby giving Thanks to GOD for his Deliverance from the Flood, and endeavouring to turn away his Wrath ſo juſtly conceiv'd againſt the Sin of fall'n Man. And thus he reſtor'd the ancient Rites of Divine Service, and gave an Example for his Sons and their Poſterity to follow the ſame, until the Will of GOD was more clearly reveal'd in the Moſaical Law. This (d) his Offering proceeding from a thankful Heart was as acceptable to GOD, as ſweet Odours are to us. Accordingly GOD ceas'd from his Anger, and was appeas'd. And he determin'd or reſolv'd within himſelf, that he would not again curſe the Ground after this manner with a Deluge. And as long as the Earth remain'd, there ſhould not be ſuch a Year as this laſt had been; in which there was neither Sowing, nor Reaping, nor any Diſtinction of Seaſons, and the Heavens were ſo cover'd with thick Clouds, which fell in diſmal Floods till the Rain was over, that it needed a nice Obſervation to diſtinguiſh between the Day and the Night.

11. And now upon this day the Divine Majeſty (e) appears to Noah and his Sons, to aſſure them of his Favour and Protection, and to renew the Bleſſing beſtow'd upon Adam, when Mankind was again reduc'd to ſo ſmall a number, commanding them to increaſe and multiply, confirming to them the Dominion, which was giv'n at firſt to Adam over all the Creatures, enlarging their Grant concerning Food, that they might eat of the living Creatures, whereas before the Flood they were confin'd to Fruit, Herbs and Roots, only with this Limitation, that they ſhould not eat the Fleſh with the Blood thereof, thereby cautioning them againſt the idolatrous Cuſtoms of ſome People in the old World, who eat the Fleſh, whilſt it was yet warm from the Beaſt, out of whoſe Body it was cut, thereby the better preparing them to ſubmit to that Law, in which the Blood was afterward reſerv'd for the Expiation of Sin, and thereby making them more fearful of Shedding the Blood one of another, when it was not lawful to taſte ſo much as the Blood of a Beaſt. Upon this GOD alſo forbids Murder, as directly contrary to the Command, which he had giv'n them to increaſe and multiply, and tells them, that the very Beaſt ſhould die, who kill'd a Man, to make the Owners more careful to prevent any ſuch Miſchief, and therefore much more ſhou'd every Man, who was a Murderer, be liable to Death. And tho' GOD had formerly interpos'd in the Caſe of Cain the firſt Murderer, whom he baniſh'd, but ſuffer'd no one to kill him; yet now he having conſtituted Judges, and giv'n them Authority to call every Man to an Account for Murder, or other great Offences, ſuch as Idolatry, Adultery, Theft or the like, and puniſh them either with Death, or other Penalties, which were proportion'd to the nature of their Crimes, and might be ſufficient to deter others from being guilty of the like, he tells (f) them, that he ſhall leave thoſe matters to their Determination, and ſhall not interpoſe any more in the ſame manner to ſkreen Offenders from ſuffering the Puniſhment, which they ſhall deſerve.

12. The Jews very frequently tell us of ſeven particular Commands, which they think might be given at this Time, and which they call The Seven Precepts of the Sons of Noah, ſome of which have been expreſly mention'd, and the reſt are taken from the Practice and Apology of Job. The firſt was (g) concerning Strange Worſhip, that they ſhou'd not give divine Honour to Idols, or the Gods of the Heathen. The ſecond was (h) concerning Bleſſing, or Worſhipping, that they ſhould not Blaſpheme the Name of GOD. The third was (i) concerning Shedding of Blood, forbidding all Sorts of Murder. The fourth was (k) concerning the Diſcloſing of Uncleanneſs, againſt Filthineſs and Adultery, unlawful Marriages, and inceſtuous Mixtures. The fifth was (l) concerning Theft, and Rapine, the Invading another Man's Right and Property, the Violation of Bargains and Compacts, the Falſifying a Man's Word or Promiſe, and the Deceiving of another by Fraud, Lying or any evil Arts. The ſixth was (m) concerning Judgments, or the Adminiſtration of Juſtice, that Judges and Magiſtrates ſhould be appointed in every Place for the Order and Government of civil Societies, the Determination of Cauſes, and Executing Juſtice between Man and Man. And the laſt was (n) concerning the Members of any living Creature, that is, as GOD expreſſeth it in the Precept to Noah, they might not eat the blood or fleſh with the life thereof. And tho' we cannot ſo far concur with the Jews, as to affirm, that theſe Precepts were by any ſolemn and external Promulgation deliver'd to the Antediluvian Patriarchs; yet it is plain, that the ſix firſt are a conſiderable Part of the Law of Nature, and contain the greater Strokes and Lineaments of thoſe Dictates, which are thus imprinted upon the Souls of Men. And the laſt ſeems to be directly levell'd againſt that Idolatrous Worſhip, which occaſion'd the Flood. And accordingly GOD immediately promiſes, (o) that there ſhould no more be ſuch a Flood to deſtroy the World.

13. And

13. And as he gave them his Word; ſo he alſo gave them a Token or Sign, that he would keep it, which was the Rainbow in the Clouds, occaſion'd by the Reflexion of the oppoſite Sun Beams from the falling Drops of Rain. And as it now proceeds from a natural Cauſe; ſo there are many, who affirm, that ſince there were both Sun and Clouds before the Flood, that there muſt be a Rainbow alſo. But this is what we cannot poſitively affirm. It is not every Diſpoſition of the Air, or every Cloud, that is fitly diſpos'd to produce a Rain Bow. It is not every Cloud, which brings Rain, nor every Shower which produces a Rain Bow. The Interpoſition of any Cloud between the Sun and the falling Rain oppoſite to it, will naturally hinder this Effect; and as GOD cauſeth it generally to happen now; ſo he might have caus'd it conſtantly to happen then. And therefore as other natural Cauſes with their Motions and Diſpoſitions depend upon the firſt Cauſe of all; ſo we, who acknowledge the Scriptures, have no Reaſon to think, that either the Clouds or the Air had that peculiar Diſpoſition before the Flood, which is requir'd for the Production of the Rainbow, when it had no ſuch Uſe or End as it hath had ever ſince. It was appointed by GOD to be a Witneſs of his Covenant with the new World, and a Meſſenger to ſecure Mankind from an Apprehenſion of Deſtruction by a future Deluge. But if it had appear'd before the Flood, the ſight of it afterward would have been but a poor Comfort to Noah and his Poſterity, whoſe Fear, leſt the like Inundation might happen again, was greater than that it could be tak'n away by a common or an uſual Sign. However, as natural Philoſophy teacheth us, that the Rain Bow is a Sign that there will not be much Rain, after it appears; becauſe it is never made in a thick Cloud, but in a thin; ſo the GOD of Nature choſe this to be a Sign, that he would never thicken the Clouds again to ſuch a Degree, as to bring a Deluge upon the Earth.

14. About a full Year after this, or (p) two full Years from the Time, when the Rain firſt began to fall, Shem, the ſecond Son of Noah, had a Son, whom he call'd Arphaxad, and it is probable, that he might have a Child every Year, until he had arriv'd to half the Age of his Life, as it is recorded in the Sacred Scriptures. And the ſame may be ſaid of Ham and Japhet. For tho' there are but few of their Sons mention'd in Scripture; yet we muſt not ſuppoſe that they had no more, but only that theſe were the principal Leaders of their ſeveral Families, into the diſtinct Colonies, which were afterward allotted for them.

Anno Mundi 1659.

15. The (q) Jews obſerve, That whilſt Noah and his Family were in the Ark, the Men did not cohabit with their Wives, it being a Time of great Affliction, and therefore they kept aſunder in ſeparate Apartments. Their Inference is thus; When (r) they went into the Ark, it is ſaid, Noah and his ſons entered, and then Noah's wife, and his ſons wives; ſo that here the Men are put together, and the Women together. But when they came out it is ſaid, (s) Go forth, thou and thy wife, and thy ſons, and thy ſons wives with thee; ſo that here they are coupl'd together, as before they were ſeparated. And ſo (t) Noah went forth, and his wife with him. And as there were only eight Perſons recorded, who came into the Ark; ſo there are only eight recorded, who came out again. And the Command of GOD (u) to Noah, Bring forth with thee every living thing, that is with thee, of all fleſh, both of fowl and of cattle, and of every creeping thing, that creepeth upon the earth, that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and be fruitful and multiply upon the earth, doth as plainly imply, that none of theſe living Creatures had any Young ones during the Time of their Abode in the Ark.

16. When (x) Arphaxad was five and thirty Years old, he had a Son, whom he call'd Salah; ſo that it is probable, that the eldeſt Son of Ham and alſo of Japhet might each of them have a Son at the ſame Time, and there might be (y) about ſixty Male Children in the World at his Birth.

Anno Mundi 1694.

17. When (z) Salah was thirty Years old, he had a Son, whom he call'd Eber; and as it is probable, that the other Sons of Shem, Ham and Japhet might have Children at the ſame Age with Arphaxad, ſo there might be (a) about an hundred and ſeventy Male Children in the World at that Time.

Anno Mundi 1724.

18. And now Ham the Son of Noah had (b) four Sons, which are mention'd in Scripture, the laſt or youngeſt of which was Canaan, and he being grown to his full Stature, there happen'd a very remarkable Accident in the Family of Noah, which gave the firſt Occaſion for their Diſperſion through the World, and was this. Noah being ſix hundred Years of Age when he came out of the Ark, ſeated himſelf near the Mountain of Ararat, where the Ark landed, and there he liv'd in Peace and Plenty for an hundred Years. And as a long Series of Proſperity is oftentimes a Snare to the beſt of Men; ſo it was to him. The (c) Art of Husbandry being underſtood long before, he improv'd it very much, and brought it to a greater

greater Perfection. And tho' there were Vines here and there before the Flood; yet he ſeems to have been the firſt, that made a Vineyard, and put them in Order, and perhaps the firſt that invented Preſſes to preſs out the Juice of the Grapes and make Wine. However, if he was not the Inventer of theſe, yet he was the Improver of them, as he was of Husbandry. But being unacquainted with the Strength of the Liquor, or elſe being old and unable to bear it's Strength, he was drunk, and lay uncover'd in his Tent in a moſt ſhameful Manner, being ſo faſt aſleep, that he knew nothing of it till afterward. Canaan the younger Son of Ham is ſuppos'd to be the firſt, who ſaw Noah in this indecent Poſture, and firſt made ſport at it with himſelf, and then with his Father Ham. Ham was ſo far from Reproving his Son, as he ought to have done, that he alſo made himſelf merry with it, and without any Shame in himſelf proclaim'd the Shame of his Father in the Street, and publickly before the People; but more particularly to his two Brethren Shem and Japhet. Shem propoſeth to Japhet to aſſiſt him in Covering his Father, which Japhet readily conſented to, and as an Argument of their Piety and dutiful Affection, they took a Garment, and laid it upon both their Shoulders, and went backward, and cover'd their Father, laying him in a decent Poſture, and taking care to prevent the like Indecency, probably watching with him during the remaining Time of his Sleep, and telling him what had happen'd when he awoke. Upon this Noah curſes Canaan the Son of Ham, and alſo Ham as repreſented by him, and bleſſes Shem and Japhet, telling what ſhould happen to their ſeveral Families in ſucceeding Generations, according as it is explain'd in (d) the ſucceeding Chapter. Ham being of a proud malicious and revengeful Temper, reſolves upon Miſchief, either to Noah, or more probably to Shem; and Japhet was very uneaſy at the Loſs of his Birthright, and perhaps like (e) Eſau upon a like Diſappointment, might declare, that he would kill his Brother, and ſo fruſtrate what Noah had determin'd. Thus Fewds and Animoſities grew ſo great, that they could not live together, and the World being every Day more populous, ſo that there were (f) near nine hundred and fifty Males of above twenty Years old ſprung from Ham and Japhet, beſide the Poſterity of Shem, Noah reſolves to ſeparate them (g) in a regular and orderly manner.

19. Accordingly he allots to Shem the Part of the World, where he then liv'd, and the Country of Cypariſſon where he built the Ark, even all the Countries, which lay on the North of the River Tigris, and all which lay on the Eaſt of the ſame River from the Perſian Gulf, as far as China, that his Poſterity might extend itſelf into the greateſt part of Aſia; and thus they were ſettled in their ancient Habitations, and went no farther. He alſo allots to Ham all that part of Aſia, which lay South of the River Euphrates, and extended itſelf from the Perſian Gulf to the Mediterranean Sea, leaving a Paſſage open into Africa, where they were under the torrid Zone in a barren and dry Land, and fit for ſuch to inhabit, who were accurſed of GOD. And he alſo allots to Japhet that part of Aſia, which lay between the Tigris and Euphrates, as far as the Ægean Sea, from whence they might eaſily tranſport themſelves into Europe; ſo that tho' they travel'd far from their Native Country, yet they were ſettl'd in the temperate Zone in a pleaſant and fruitful Land, which was (h) afterward reckon'd to be the principal of the then known Part of the World, and was allotted to the Poſterity of Japhet as a fit Reward for the Piety of their Father.

20. When Ham and Japhet with their Poſterity were thus parted from their Father and the Poſterity of Shem (who are ſuppos'd to have liv'd not far from the Mountain of Ararat, where the Ark landed, but to be ſeated in the Plains, which lay on the South Side thereof) they travel'd Weſtward for about four or five hundred Miles, and then croſſing the Tigris a little above the Place, where it joyns with Euphrates, they came to a pleaſant and fruitful plain Country, where they reſolv'd to dwell, and not to ſeparate according to the Direction of their Father Noah. Upon this they encourage one another to build a City, which was afterward call'd Babylon, and was the Seat of the firſt, which is commonly call'd the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and whoſe Tower was juſtly reckon'd one of the ſeven Wonders of the World. The Walls, which (i) encompaſs'd the City in after Ages, were in the Form of an exact Square, fifteen Miles on each ſide, or ſixty Miles in the whole, eighty ſeven Feet broad and three hundred and fifty Feet high. But when they found that they had no Stone in that low and fat Soil, they then proceeded to the making of Brick; and thoſe with which the Tower was built, are reported to be of an incredible Bigneſs, and that they were three Years in Making and Burning them, before they began to build. And all theſe were cemented together with Bitumen, or a glutinous Slime, ariſing out of the Earth in that Country, which binds in Building much ſtronger and firmer than Lime, and ſoon grows much harder than the Brick or Stones themſelves, which they cement together. When Adam liv'd, he being the Father of all Mankind, was alſo their Governour, and acted both as a King and Prieſt, but when he died the Fathers of each reſpective Family took theſe Offices to themſelves, and this was the ancient Patriarchal Government. Thus when Noah and his Sons kept together, there is no Doubt, but he acted in the New World, as Adam acted in the old. And when his Sons and their Poſterity went from him, we may ſuppoſe, that every one in his reſpective Family would ſet up for himſelf. But this being like a Body without a Head, or rather like a Body with many Heads, it was impoſſible, that they cou'd joyn in any great Enterprize. Accordingly they (k) ſoon conſulted together to eſtabliſh an Order and Government among themſelves, and each of them being willing to have ſome ſhare therein, it was ſettl'd in an Ariſtocracy, in which every Father of a Family had the Liberty to give both his Vote and Opinion. The Arabian Hiſtorian (l) tells us, that their Number was ſeventy two, which were afterward divided into ſo many Languages, and then into ſo many Nations, after their Families. This was the Number of the great Council in lower Egypt, who carry'd on the Paſtoral Wars againſt upper Egypt, in a Time, when ſome of them could remember what had been done at the Building this City and before they choſe a King for themſelves. This was the Number of thoſe, who tranſlated the Hebrew Bible into the Greek Language. And this was the Number, of which the Jewiſh Sanhedrim conſiſted. But the number is uncertain. Joſephus (m) attributes all this to Nimrod, as their Head and Ringleader, and the Account, which he gives at large, is this: "That "GOD in his Wiſdom order'd them to ſpread "and divide themſelves into Colonies, as the "more proper Method both for peopling the "World, and Preſerving Men in peace one "with another; and to the End that they "might alſo take their Poſſeſſions at large, and "enjoy more abundantly the Fruits of the "Earth. Now theſe People, being an ignorant "and a ſtubborn Generation, never heeded "the divine Appointment, but continu'd ſtill "in the ſame Place, till they were overtak'n "by a Judgment from Heaven, which gave "them a ſight of their Fault in their Puniſh-"ment. They came in Proceſs of Time to "be numerous and ſtrong, and GOD once "again admoniſh'd and directed them as before, "to diſperſe themſelves into ſeveral Plantati-"ons; but they went on nevertheleſs in their "Diſobedience, not only forgetting the Author "of all the Bleſſings and good things, which "they were Partakers of, but alſo aſſuming "to themſelves the Glory of their Succeſſes, "in all the Greatneſs, which they had acquir'd, "and which is worſt of all, interpreting the "Advice of Separating themſelves to be rather "a Snare than a Favour, and a meer Trick of "common Policy, firſt to diſunite and weak'n "them, and then to bring them under a Yoak "of Oppreſſion.

21. "The chief Incendiary (as he adds) that "animated the People to this inſolent Con-"tempt of GOD, was Nimrod the Grandſon "of Ham, who was the Son of Noah, a Man "fierce and valiant, but of ſo extravagant a "Vanity, that he had been often valuing him-"ſelf upon it, and ſaying, that he had no Obli-"gation at all to the Goodneſs of GOD for "his preſent State and Reputation, but to the "Power of his own Courage and Virtue. This "(ſaith he) was his Way of inſinuating him-"ſelf into a Tyranny, not doubting but that "the People might be eaſily brought to apoſta-"tize from GOD, if they could firſt be pre-"vail'd upon to chooſe him for their Governour. "And leſt the Dread of another Inundation "ſhould deter them from it, he had an Expe-"dient in his Head, which, he ſaid, would "ſecure them from any Damage of that Nature. "His Project was the erecting of a Tower to "ſuch a Height, that it ſhould be impoſſible for "the Waters ever to reach the Top of it. Be-"ſides, he alſo meditated a Revenge for the "Loſs of thoſe, who periſh'd in the Flood. "Upon this the Multitude was ſo ſatisfy'd with "this Vapouring of Nimrod, that they began "to look upon it as a Matter of high Indig-"nity to think of living in Subjection to "GOD any longer. And upon this they ſet "themſelves immediately with Might and "Main, and all Hands were at work for the "carrying on of this Deſign." But this is very improbable. We cannot ſuppoſe, that Ham and Japhet, being but juſt parted with their Poſterity from Noah, could be ignorant of GOD and his Worſhip; or that they, who were ſav'd from the Flood, or had been told it by their Parents, and how it cover'd the higheſt Mountains, could have expected to be ſecur'd from it by any Building upon the Plain. Neither can we ſuppoſe, that Nimrod could have any great Authority at that Time, becauſe his Grandfather Ham and his Father Cuſh were both living. We may therefore the better acquieſce with what we may gather from the Scripture Hiſtory, which is this, Noah having before curs'd Ham, and giv'n the Birth-right from Japhet to Shem, who was the younger Brother, and commanded them to ſeek out for ſtrange and diſtant Habitations, they were very angry, and reſolv'd not to obey, but fix ſo near, that they might take an Opportunity to be reveng'd upon their Father Noah, and diſtreſs the Poſterity of their Brother Shem; which was afterward done, not only by Ham, but alſo by Cuſh and Nimrod.

(k) Gen. 11. 3, 4. (l) Eutychii Annales, pag. 52. (m) Antiq. Book 1. Chap. 5.

Upon this, coming to the Plains of Babylon, and finding that a Part of them being ſurrounded by the Tigris and Euphrates lay very convenient to be fortify'd, ſo that they might not only defend themſelves, but alſo annoy their Neighbours, whenever they thought fit, they reſolve to ſettle there, and not only to (n) build a City, but alſo a Tower, a ſtrong Place in the higheſt Part of the City, ſuch as we commonly call a Caſtle or a Citadel; and to build it very high, that ſo they might view the Approaches of the Enemy at the utmoſt viſible Diſtance, and being built in the midſt of the City might the better command every Part of it, and being viſible at a Diſtance, it might be a Place to which they might reſort upon any Occaſion, the better to carry on and continue their Combinations againſt their Brother. Thus their Deſign in Building was to get themſelves a name, to make themſelves dreaded and fear'd by the reſt of the World, who ſhould ſee ſuch a perpetual Monument of their Fame; that other People ſhould ſpread it far and wide, whilſt they were alive, and their Names might live in this Monument, when they were Dead, when their Poſterity ſhould ſay, that ſuch and ſuch Perſons were the Founders of the firſt and principal City in the World. Beſides, it ſeems as if they apprehended, that the Poſterity of Shem might have a Deſign to diſperſe them at firſt, that ſo they might fall upon them ſeparately, and deſtroy them afterward, and therefore they reſolv'd to prevent it by Uniting themſelves in this Manner together.

22. There are others, who (o) conceive, that theſe Perſons had alſo another Deſign in Building this Tower, namely, to conſecrate it to the Sun, as the Cauſe of Drying up the Waters of the Deluge, or rather as the moſt illuſtrious and neareſt Reſemblance of the Divine Majeſty, and that it was intended as an Altar on which they might ſacrifice to it. It is certain, that the Hebrew Word Shem, or a name, is ſometimes put in Scripture for GOD himſelf, and more frequently by the Jewiſh Writers. And they who are of this Opinion, expound the Text thus, Let us make us a Name, that is, Let us make us a GOD, and raiſe him a Temple. Herodotus, who ſaw it, tells us, (p) that a Temple was built round about the Tower, which ſtood in the midſt of it. The Chaldee Paraphraſe goes farther, and makes the Builders ſpeak in this manner, Come, and let us build us a City and a Tower, whoſe Top may reach to the Height of Heaven, and let us make to ourſelves an Image of Adoration in the Top thereof, and let us put a Sword in his Hand, that he may fight our Battles againſt our Enemies, before we are ſcatter'd from the Face of the Earth. It is certain, that the upper Tower was made uſe of in the moſt early Times for falſe Worſhip, and ſuch an Image was afterward plac'd there, which they call'd, The Image of Bel or Baal the great God, which the Chaldeans and other Nations worſhipp'd. But as this was the Name, which they gave to Ham, who is frequently call'd by Pagan Writers Bel, or Belus the firſt, therefore it is not probable, that this Image was put up until after his Deceaſe, and that the firſt falſe Worſhip, which was there us'd, was the Worſhip of the Sun, Moon and Stars.

23. The (q) Arabick Hiſtorian tells us, that this Tower and City were forty Years in building, which is very probable; and indeed we can hardly think, that there were Men enough in the Families of Ham and Japhet to finiſh both much ſooner. However, the Worſhip of the Sun, Moon and Stars put them upon Taking an early Account of their Motions, eſpecially it being a Study ſo much in Eſteem before the Flood, and they having a lofty Tower built in a ſpacious Plain, and conſequently one of the greateſt Conveniencies in the World for ſuch a Purpoſe. And as they began their Years from the Autumnal Equinox, and the Change of the Moon at that Time made it neceſſary for them to take an exact Account of theſe two Planets; ſo it is probable, that their Prieſts were employ'd to make their Obſervations, and ſettle the Beginning of the Year accordingly. And as the uppermoſt Story of all the Tower was that which was moſt Sacred, and where their chief Devotions were perform'd; ſo immediately over that, or upon the Top of the Tower, there was (r) an Obſervatory, by the Benefit of which the Babylonians advanc'd their Skill in Aſtronomy beyond all other Nations, and came to ſo early a Perfection in it, as it is related. For when Alexander took Babylon, Caliſthenes the Philoſopher, who accompanied him thither, found that they had Aſtronomical Obſervations for 1903 Years backward to that Time, which carries up the Account as high as the 119th Year after the Flood, which was but eighteen Years after the Tower of Babylon was began to be built. This Account Calliſthenes ſent from Babylon into Greece to his Maſter Ariſtotle, as Simplicius (s) informs us from the Authority of Porphyry.

Work to finish the Tower, which when they had completed, and finding their Families increas'd, they resolv'd also to enlarge their City; and in this Work they were employ'd, (t) until they were dispers'd. And in the mean Time Reu the Son of Peleg is born, being the fourth Generation to Shem the Son of Noah.

25. But that GOD, who had giv'n a (u) Blessing to the Posterity of Noah, that they should increase and multiply, and had commanded them to replenish the Earth, and subdue it, that is, to improve it by Husbandry, and destroy the Wild Beasts out of it, would not suffer, that what he had appointed should be disappointed by any Craft or Subtilty of Man. They dreaded a Dispersion, and brought it upon themselves by their vain Attempts to avoid it. GOD made it appear by the Effects of his Providence, that he observ'd their Motions and knew their Intentions, and resolv'd to spoil their Project. Accordingly he alter'd their Languages, not into as many as there were Men, for this would have spoil'd all Manner of Society; but so, that every Family had its peculiar Dialect, or rather the same common Dialect was giv'n to those Families, whom GOD would have to make one Colony in the following Dispersion. To which Dispersion they were constrain'd by their not being able to have such a Familiarity, as they had before with every Body; but only with those, who understood their particular Speech. Thus as the Unity of one common Language had knit all Mankind into one Community; so GOD in his Wisdom saw, that Plurality of Languages was the best means to force them into a Plurality of Societies. Accordingly they dispers'd themselves first into the neighbouring Countries adjoyning to Babylon, and by Degrees into those, which were more remote, according as their Families increas'd. And thus they desisted from their Enterprize, which naturally ceas'd, when they could no longer carry on the Building, especially if that be true which the Chaldee Paraphrase affirms, viz. That they quarrel'd with, and kill'd one another. For this Reason the Name of the City is call'd Babel, which in Hebrew signifies Confusion; and by adding the Syllable on at the End, to adapt it to one of the Greek Declensions, it was afterwards call'd Babylon. And then they dispers'd in a regular and orderly Manner, so that each Family and each Nation dwelt by itself. This seems to be done either by the command of Ham and Japhet to their respective Families, or by choosing according to their Birthright, after the respective Portions of the Earth were set out according to the Number of their Nations and Languages.

Anno Mundi 1798.

26. At the same Time, when the Tower and City of Babylon was built, the Posterity of Shem seated themselves in those Countries, which their Father Noah had allotted for them, according to their Nations and Families, and call'd the Names of the Places, which they inhabited by their own Names, so that they might the better be discern'd to whom they belong'd. And the Country thus allotted to Shem was all that part of Asia, which lay both northward and eastward from the River Tigris, as far as from the Head thereof to the Place, where, after it hath joyn'd the River Euphrates, it empties itself into the Persian Gulph. And tho' it is very probable, that none of them were concern'd in the Building of that Tower; yet it is (†) evident, that their Languages were alter'd in the same manner with the rest, to favour a like Dispersion.

27. Accordingly (x) Elam the Son of Shem inhabited Persia, which is (y) always call'd Elam in the Hebrew Bible. Media was near to it, and therefore usually joyn'd with it in the Scripture; as (z) Medes and Elamites, and (a) Medes and Persians. They were call'd Persians, when they had made themselves famous for Fighting on Horseback, and for this Reason an Elamite was call'd فارس a Persian, or an Horseman.

28. Ashur the second Son of Shem inhabited that part of Assyria, which was divided from the rest by the River Tigris, where (b) Nimrod afterward built Nineveh, Rehoboth, Calah and Resen. Accordingly this Country is call'd in Hebrew Ashur, and by other Authors Aturia, by changing the Hebrew Sh into T, as is usual in the Chaldee, Syriack and Arabick Languages, and it is sometimes also call'd Adiabene.

29. Arphaxad the third Son of Shem was seated in the more southern Parts of Mesopotamia, where the Plain or Vale of Shinar lay upon the River Tigris, together with the Country of Eden. But he left no mention of his Name there, being forc'd to depart from thence by the Invasion of Nimrod, who took Possession of those Countries, and probably call'd the Lands and Cities by other Names.

30. The great Grandson of Arphaxad was Joktan, who had a numerous Offspring of thirteen Sons, and were probably seated near the Persian Gulph, in the Country, which is since call'd Chuzestan. But he also left no mention of his Name there, being forc'd to depart from thence by the Invasion of Cush the Son of Ham and Father of Nimrod, who took Possession of those Countries, and probably call'd the Lands and Cities by other Names.

31. Lud the fourth Son of Shem did probably seat himself and his Posterity on the north

Part

Part of Babylon in the Country of Arrapachitis. But he alſo left no Mention of his Name there, becauſe when Nimrod began the Aſſyrian Monarchy and invaded Babylonia from the ſouthern Parts, the Inhabitants, being of the Nation of Arphaxad, fled thither, and perhaps drove them from thence, when ſeizing upon the Country they chang'd the Names of the Places to the Names of the Conquerors.

32. And Aram the fifth Son of Shem, as he is mention'd by Moſes, was at firſt ſeated weſtward from his Brother Aſhur on the north Side of the River Tigris, until Nimrod began the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and forc'd him alſo to remove to the other Side of the River, which he might more eaſily do, as being ſo much nearer to the Head of it. And as his Families did afterward inhabit diſtinct Tracts of Land in the other Country; ſo there is no doubt, but they kept themſelves diſtinct in their firſt Plantations.

33. Tho' the Chineſe Hiſtory is full of many Fables, and their Chronological Accounts are moſt extravagantly falſe; yet Navaret, who liv'd many Years in that Country, frequently tell us, that they have an authentick Hiſtory of their Nation from the 1131ſt Year after the Flood. If ſo, then they ſeem to be a People before the Diſperſion from Babylon, at leaſt from near that Time. But this is impoſſible. China lies as far in Longitude to the Eaſt from Babylon, and perhaps from the Place where the Ark landed, as the remoteſt Parts of Europe and Africa lie toward the Weſt, and therefore we may almoſt as eaſily ſuppoſe the one to be inhabited at the ſame Time with the other. They alſo tell us ſome amazing Stories of their firſt King Fohi, which agrees with the ſacred Hiſtory of Noah, and affirm, that he reign'd as their King for 115 Years. But this is alſo as impoſſible. Tho' we may grant, that Noah might be driv'n out of his Country at that Time by his Son Ham; yet it is incredible, that in ſuch an advanc'd Age, he either could or would travel to ſuch a vaſt Diſtance, and through many Countries, which muſt be uninhabited. Neither indeed can we ſuppoſe, that China was inhabited, until all that vaſt Tract of Land was inhabited firſt, which lay between that Country and the Place where the Ark landed. So that the true Account ſeems to be this. The Chineſe uſing the ancient Way of Writing by Symbols, which was the Method in uſe before the Diſperſion of Nations, and probably before the Flood, they might have an Account of this Diſperſion. And as they lay the fartheſt eaſtward of any Nation from the Place, where the Ark landed; ſo they might always attribute to themſelves the Tranſactions of the moſt eaſtern Nation until ſuch Time as their own Land was really inhabited; and after that with a little Variation of ſome Circumſtances, they might apply the Whole to their own Country.

34. But the Poſterity of Japhet the Son of Ham, being confin'd between the Tigris and Euphrates, could not extend themſelves like the Reſt of their Brethren, and their Lot happening to be in a very fruitful Country, they had not the ſame Neceſſity. However, they kept their Families diſtinct, and inhabited from Babylon weſtward a conſiderable Tract of Ground, until the Invaſion of Nimrod firſt, and that of Aſhur and Aram being conſequent thereupon, drove them into a more large and open Country, where they could with better Conveniency extend their Colonies.

35. Beſides the ſeven Sons of Japhet mention'd in (*) Scripture, there are other Authors, which mention other Sons as born to him, the Time of whoſe Births we may conjecture to be after this Manner. The firſt which is mention'd is Nereus, whom ſome make to be one of his Sons, and others ſuppoſe to be Japhet himſelf. He might probably be born about forty Years after the Flood. The next is Prometheus, who by the Heathen Authors is reckon'd to be one of the Sons of Japetus, and might be born about four Years after the other. The next is Pontus, who probably might be about four Years younger than the other. And Poſeidon is alſo reckon'd as a Son of Pontus, as his Name is in Greek. He is call'd Neptunus in Latin, and is oftentimes miſtak'n for Japhet. And tho' there is no certain Time of his Birth; yet I have plac'd him in the one hundred and eighty eighth Year of his Father's Age.

36. Ham the younger Son of Noah being curs'd by his Father for expoſing him in his Drunkenneſs, his Lot fell in a more barren and unhealthy Country. On the eaſt Part and ſouth of Babylon lay the Chaldean Lakes and Marſhes, which were ſubject to many and great Inundations occaſion'd by the Union of the two Rivers Tigris and Euphrates. For this Reaſon moſt of the (b) Grammarians agree, that the Name of the River Piſon is deriv'd either from the Hebrew Verb פוש, Puſh, which ſignifies to run out, to be full, to increaſe or to multiply; or from פשה, which ſignifies to ſpread it ſelf, becauſe the Overflowings from the Land were ſo many, and the Tides were ſo violent and high at that End of the Perſian Gulf, that the Trenches were not a ſufficient Defence againſt their Irruptions into the neighbouring Grounds, which were very ſoft and low. So that (c) all that Coaſt is full of Lakes, marſhy Places and Sands. And adjoyning to this Country the Poſterity of Shem inhabited the Eaſt, the Poſterity of Japhet inhabited the North, Arabia the rocky lay on the Weſt, and Arabia the Stony lay on the South. Accordingly Ham thinking that it might be better, and ſuppoſing that it could not be worſe, takes the greateſt Part of his Poſterity with him and travels toward the North of Canaan, keeping the Euphrates near him upon his right Hand, this being the moſt plentiful Country, and the River being ſuch a Guide, as might, if Occaſion requir'd, direct him to return back by the ſame Way. And accordingly he left ſome of his Family in and near Babylon, to ſecure the Government thereof and of the Country round about, that it might be free from the Incurſions of the Poſterity of Shem or Japhet.

Anno Mundi 1799.

37. When Ham comes to the northern Parts of Canaan and finds it to be a pleaſant fruitful Country, he reſolves to ſettle there, and here he builds a City and calls it (e) Hammath or Hamath, which is deſcrib'd as (f) the Entring into the Land of Canaan, and (g) near to Damaſcus, ſo that there can be no Doubt of its Situation.

38. Soon after this Ham builds alſo two other Cities, which lay upon the Coaſt of the Mediterranean Sea to the North of Tyre and Sidon. The one was call'd Byblus, and the other Berytus. Accordingly he dwells ſometimes at Byblus, and perhaps ſometimes at Babylon, keeping the Soveraignty over all in his own Hands. He ſeems to place himſelf at Byblus, being the firſt City built in Phænicia, that from thence he might have a Correſpondence in Egypt and other Parts of Africa, where two of his Sons did afterward rule; and that on the other Side he might correſpond with Babylon, where his Grandſon Nimrod is ſuppos'd to live, himſelf being ſeated in the Middle of his Children, who were his Viceroys, or rul'd as Kings by his Conſent.

39. And now Ham coming into a Land, which is frequently deſcrib'd to be (h) a land that flowed with milk and honey, (i) a good land, a land of brooks of water, of fountains and depths, which ſprang out of valleys and hills, a land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig-trees, and pomegranates, a land of oyl olive and honey. A land in which the Inhabitants did eat bread without ſcarceneſs, and they could not lack any thing in it, a land whoſe ſtones were iron, and out of whoſe hills Men might dig braſs: And remembring that his younger Son Canaan was curs'd by his Father Noah together with himſelf, he reſolves (if poſſible) to prevent it by Placing him in this good Land. For this End he ſettles them regularly, dividing the Country among the eleven Sons of Canaan according to their Names.

40. The firſt born of Canaan was (k) Sidon. The Sidonians ſprang from him, who are (l) mention'd in Scripture, and either he was the Founder of the famous City of Sidon, or elſe ſome of his Poſterity call'd it by this Name in Memory of him. Some reckon, that it was ſo call'd from the Plenty of Fiſh on that Coaſt; and thus the Town of Galilee call'd Bethſaida, lying upon the Lake of Geneſareth, ſignifies the Place of Fiſhing with the Addition of a Syriack Termination. But as the Name of Canaan ſignified a Merchant, after the Return of the Canaanites from the Wars of Egypt, when they apply'd themſelves to Trade and Commerce; and thus the common Words were deriv'd from the proper Names; ſo we may conclude, that the Hebrew Words, which originally ſignified Hunting, were by a Metaphor apply'd alſo to Fiſhing, by an eaſy Alluſion to the Word Sidon, when they obſerv'd the Sidonians ſo eminent in that Employment. And tho' it ſtood in the Tribe of Aſher; yet (m) it was never conquer'd by them. It was far more ancient and famous than Tyre. For we read of it in the Books of Moſes, and Joſhua, and Judges; but nothing of Tyre till the Days of David. Nor doth Homer mention Tyre, tho' he ſpeaks of Sidon and the Sidonians in many Places.

41. When Sidon the firſt born of Canaan was thus ſettl'd, their Grandfather Ham proceeds to ſettle the Reſt. To the North of Sidon he places the Arkite near Mount Libanus, where they built the City call'd Arca or Arce. To the North of theſe he places the Arvadite, who poſſeſs'd the Iſland in the Sea call'd Arvad, and by others Aradus, together with a Part of the neighbouring Continent call'd Antaradius. In Proceſs of Time they became skilful in Navigation, and were a very warlike People, and accordingly very ſerviceable to the (n) Tyrians their Neighbours in Advancing that City to its future Glory.

42. Next to the Arvadite he fixes the Zemarite upon the Continent, who built the Town, which was afterward call'd Simyra. And then he ſeated the Hamathite more eaſterly in the main Continent call'd the Country of Hamath, where there is alſo a City of the ſame Name; which City was afterward call'd Epiphania by the Greeks, and ſtill retain'd the Name of Hama in the Arabian Geographer.

43. Next to the Zamathites he plac'd the Girgaſhites, who were afterward known by the Name of (o) the Gergaſenes, of whom there continu'd a Remnant beyond Jordan. And as the Soil of the Country, where they liv'd was fat, dirty and miry; ſo from hence was deriv'd the Chaldee Word גרגיש which ſignifies thick or white Clay. Next to them he places the Amorites, who were firſt call'd Emorites, and poſſeſs'd the mountainous Parts of Judæa. Theſe ſeem to have been great Warriors. They (q) beat the Children of Iſrael, when they reſolv'd to go into the Land of Canaan. Their northern Borders were extended near to the reſt of their Brethren the Girgaſhites, and their ſouthern Borders as far as the ſouth Part of Judah. They forc'd the (r) Children of Dan into the Mountains, and would not ſuffer them to come down into the Valleys, and were almoſt a Match for them, when joyn'd with the Ephraimites; and long before this (s) many of them paſs'd over Jordan, and making War upon the Moabites and Ammonites they ſeiz'd upon Baſhan and Heſhbon, and all the Country between the Rivers of Jabbok and Arnon. And hence perhaps it is, that the Verb امر in Arabick doth not ſignify to ſpeak like אמר Amar in Hebrew, but to command, and the Word امير Emir is us'd for a warlike Commander.

44. Next to theſe he placeth the Jebuſite, from whom Jeruſalem was anciently call'd Jebus, ſo that they liv'd near it. They were alſo a very warlike People; for they kept the Fortreſs of Zion, and the City of Jeruſalem until the Time of David (t) in Defiance of all the Power of the Benjamites, and (u) when David beſieged them, they mock'd at his Attempt.

45. Next to theſe he places the Hittites, or the Children of Heth, who are ſo often mention'd in Scripture, and dwelt about Hebron or Beerſheba in the moſt ſouthern Part of Canaan, which had been in the Poſſeſſion of the Iſraelites. They were alſo a warlike People, and ſtruck a Terror into their Neighbours. From whence the Hebrew Word חתה ſeems to be deriv'd, which ſignifies a ſudden Fright and Conſternation, ſuch as came upon the Syrians, when (x) they thought that the Kings of the Hittites were coming againſt them. In the ſouthern Part of all his Dominions he placeth the Sinite, who lay near to the Entrance into the Land of Egypt, and extended their Country from the City of Peluſium or Sin on the Mediterranean Shore, to the Wilderneſs of Sin, in the Way to Arabia. And to the north of theſe he places the Hivite. Theſe were ſometimes call'd (y) Avim or Avites, and are ſaid by Moſes to dwell in Hazerim, or ſmall Villages, even unto Azzah or Gaza. Gaza is ſet down, as the furtheſt conſiderable Place northward, which was within their Bounds. Their ſouthern Bounds ſeem not to be mention'd by Moſes becauſe they were the known Limits of Canaan, which was (z) the River Sihor, and which was ſometimes call'd the River of Egypt. They were a People very much addicted to Paſturage, and therefore they not only wander'd about with their Tents from Place to Place, as Occaſion did require, but frequently ſettl'd among their Brethren. For this Reaſon we find ſome of them ſcatter'd into ſeveral other Parts of the Land, as in (a) Gibeon not far from Jeruſalem, and in (b) Sichem near to Samaria; and even (c) into the moſt northern Parts of Canaan, about Mount Libanus, from Baal Hermon unto the entring into Hamath. This rambling Life of theirs made them acquainted with the reſt of the Shepherds throughout the Country, inſomuch that they were the Ring-leaders of the Expedition into lower Egypt, and the Occaſion of all the Wars which happen'd there; and therefore the (d) Caphtorim, when they were forc'd to march out from Peluſium, in Revenge for the Miſchiefs which had happen'd, deſtroy'd them all, and took Poſſeſſion of their Land.

46. It is now high Time for the Sons of Japhet to look about. For as they were inclos'd on the north Side by the Tigris, whoſe Banks were inhabited by the Poſterity of Shem, and on the ſouth Side by the Euphrates, whoſe Banks were inhabited by the Poſterity of Ham; ſo if theſe Families ſhould extend themſelves as far as the Heads of theſe Rivers, which lay very near to each other, it would be impoſſible for Japhet to extend his Colonies, and ſo he would be depriv'd of that Bleſſing of (e) being enlarg'd, as his Father Noah had foretold of him. Upon this, he with all his Poſterity, at leaſt as many as would go with him, remove from thence, and travel toward the Weſt, taking Poſſeſſion of Aſia the leſs, and all the adjacent Countries, as far as the Egean Sea, which prevented them, that at preſent they could go no farther. Here therefore they reſolve to ſettle, and accordingly they are divided into their reſpective Families, and gave ſuch Names to the reſpective Places, whereby the firſt Poſſeſſors of them might be more eaſily known. And as they left but few Inhabitants behind them; ſo this Country was afterward more eaſily ſubdu'd by Aſhur and Aram the Sons of Shem, in their Flight from Nimrod at the Time, when he founded the Aſſyrian Monarchy. Anno Mundi 1800.

47. Upon this, Gomer and his Sons take to the greateſt Part of the northern Tract of the leſſer Aſia for their firſt Plantations, and call it Gomer. Now the Verb גמר in Hebrew or Gamar ſignifies to conſume, and the Chaldee and Syriack uſe it in that Senſe, and hence comes the Word Gumra or a Coal. And thus the Greeks, coming afterwards to know the Senſe of theſe Words, ſuppos'd that this Name Gomer was impos'd on thoſe Parts, as ſignifying a Country of a Soil ſo black, as if it had been burnt to a Coal, and therefore call'd it by a Name of the ſame Signification in their own Language, or Φρυγία Phrygia (that is, the torrid or burnt Country) from φρύγειν, which ſignifies to roaſt; and beſides, there is a particular Part of the Country, which is call'd by them Φρυγία κεκαυμένη or Burnt Phrygia. Beſides, Joſephus tells us expreſly, that (y) the Galatians (who liv'd in this Tract, and to whom St. Paul wrote an Epiſtle) were call'd Gomerites; and Herodotus tells us, that (z) a People call'd Cimmerii dwelt in thoſe Parts, and Pliny ſpeaks of (a) a Town in Troas call'd Cimmeris; which are all Words deriv'd from Gomer, and only corrupted by Length of Time, and by Changing them into other Languages from the Hebrew, in which the Vowels being not writt'n could be but little regarded by other Nations.

48. This Gomer had three Sons, who were all of Courſe ſeated in the Country, which was allotted to their Father. The firſt of theſe, as (b) they are mention'd by Moſes, is Aſhkenaz, who took his Portion in the northweſt Parts of the leſſer Aſia, particularly in Bithynia (where we find the Footſteps of his Name in the Bay Aſcanius, the Lake Aſcanius, and the River Aſcanius) and alſo in Troas and the leſſer Phrygia; in which there was a City and a Province adjoyning anciently known by the Name of Aſcania, and there were Iſles lying on the Coaſt, which were call'd The Aſcanian Iſles. From thence they extended themſelves to the Sea, which being by the People upon the Coaſt call'd Aſhkenaz, was by the Greeks pronounc'd Ἄξενος. But this being an odious Name in their Language ſignifying inhoſpitable, and the Greeks being better acquainted with the Inhabitants of thoſe Coaſts, and finding them to be of a civiliz'd Temper; they chang'd the Name into Πόντος Εὔξενος, or the Euxine or Hoſpitable Sea, by which Name it is well known at this Time. Beſides, it is very probable, that in Honour of this Aſhkenaz, the Great Men of thoſe Parts took the Name of Aſcanius. Of which Name, beſide Aſcanius the Son of Æneas, there is a King mention'd in the ſecond Book of Homer's Iliads, who came to aſſiſt King Priamus in the Siege of Troy.

49. The ſecond Son of Gomer mention'd by Moſes is Riphath, who is alſo (c) call'd Diphath, who was ſeated on the eaſt Side of his Brother Aſhkenaz, in the Country call'd Paphlagonia. If the Name is ſpelt with a D, the Change of it into T being very uſual, this Name (d) is preſerv'd in Tobata a City, and Tibion a Mountain, and Tibius the Name of an Inhabitant of that Country. If the Name is ſpelt with an R, it will be more obſervable. Pomponius Mela places the (e) Riphaces in this Country. Joſephus tells us, that the Paphlagonians were originally call'd Riphateans, from Riphath. In Apollonius there is mention made of a River call'd Rhebæus, which riſing in this Tract empties it ſelf into the Euxine Sea. This River by ſome is call'd Rhebus; Stephanus tells us of a Tract of Land of the ſame Name, and that the Inhabitants are call'd Rhebæi. Pliny places here a People call'd Riphæi, and another call'd Armiphæi; and Mr. Mede is of Opinion, that another River in this Country call'd by the Greeks Parthenius, was originally call'd Riphathenius. All which do plainly ſhew the Footſteps of their Father Riphath in that Country.

50. The third Son of Gomer mention'd by Moſes, is Togarmah. The Prophet Ezekiel gives us three Signs by which we may know its Situation. Firſt, It (f) lay north of the Land of Canaan. Gomer, and all his bands; the houſe of Togarmah of the north quarters and all his bands. And it is plain to any one who looks into the Map, that this is the Situation of Togarmah. Secondly, It (g) traded with Tyre. They of the houſe of Togarmah traded in thy fairs. And this it could as eaſily do by the Help of the River Euphrates which ran from it, as Perſia (h) by the Help of the ſame River which ran to it. And Thirdly, Its (i) Commodities, which it yielded, viz. Horſes and horſemen and mules. And it is evident, that Cappadocia, by which Name a conſiderable Part of the Country of Togarmah was known to the Greeks, was (k) very well ſtor'd with the beſt Horſes and Mules, and the Inhabitants were eſteem'd good Horſemen. To this may be added the Remains of the Name, whereby ſome of the Inhabitants of this Country were known to the ancient Writers. The Septuagint conſtantly write it Thorgamah or Torgama, from whence the Name of the Trocmi or Trogmi may be well deriv'd, who (as (l) Strabo ſaith) liv'd near Pontus and Cappadocia; and Ptolomy aſſigns to them ſeveral Towns lying on the Eaſt of the River Halys, and ſo in Cappadocia it ſelf. Cicero calls them Trocmi, and Stephanus Trocmedi, and in the Council of Calcedon there is frequent mention made of Cyriacus Biſhop of the Trogmades. All which are only the Remains of the ancient Name Togarmah.

51. The ſecond Son of Japhet, mention'd by Moſes as a Father of the Nations, is Magog. In the Revelations (m) Gog and Magog are joyn'd together, which hath giv'n Occaſion for (n) a Conjecture, that they were two Words to expreſs the ſame Thing, or rather the Land and the People, by calling the People Gog, and the Land The land of Magog. To him was allotted Scythia, which lay upon the eaſt and north eaſt Parts of the Euxine Sea. Accordingly the learned Bochartus (o) conjectures, that the Mountain call'd by the Greeks Caucaſus took its Name from Gog, as inhabiting in or near it. And as he obſerves, the Word גג חסן Gog haſan ſignifies in the neighbouring Oriental Tongues Gog's Fort, and from thence the Greeks took the Name of Caucaſus. Beſides, There is a People near the River Tanais, who are ſuppos'd anciently to have been call'd Magogini, and from thence in later Years Magini. And others conjecture, that the Mæotick Lake, into which the River Tanais runs, took its Name from the Deſcendents of Magog, who ſettl'd about it. Thus from Magog is regularly made Magogitis and by Contraction Magotis, which the Greeks might eaſily change into Maiotis, and ſo the Latins might call it Mæotis.

52. The third Son of Japhet mention'd by Moſes as a Father of the Nations, is Madai. He is ſuppos'd by ſome to ſettle in Myſia, formerly call'd Mæſia, a Country in Aſia the leſs by the Helleſpont, and bordering (p) upon Troas, through which St. Paul paſs'd in his Journey thither. It is divided by Ptolomy into two Parts, viz. the greater call'd Olympica, and the leſſer call'd Helleſpontica. And accordingly Mr. Mede is of Opinion, that (q) Madai was the Father of the Illyrians and the Maſians (for ſo Pliny calls them) which he thinks comes near to Mæthia. For th and s are changeable one for the other, as we ſee in Rutheni and Prutheni, whom we call Ruſſians and Pruſſians. Bochartus thinks, that the Sarmatians were a Colony of the Aſiatick Madai, and accordingly he conjectures, that the Name of the Sarmatians was originally compos'd of שאר מדי Sear Madai, which in the Oriental Languages ſignifies the Remnant or Poſterity, or Remainder of Madai. But as Macedonia in Greece was a Colony from Medai, and it is not probable, that his Poſterity could come thither from Sarmatia; but might eaſily come from Myſia by croſſing the Egæan Sea, as the Reſt of Japhet's Families did: So Myſia muſt be allotted to him, where lying in the Midſt of his Brethren, and being ſtreighten'd for Room, he ſoon ſent a great Number of his Poſterity into Sarmatia.

53. The Fourth Son of Japhet mention'd by Moſes as a Father of the Nations, is Javan. As the Nation of Gomer ſeated it ſelf in the northern Tract of Leſſer Aſia, and Madai in the Middle; ſo Javan was ſeated on the ſouthern Parts. And as in the Greek Language there is neither J nor V Conſonant, and the Hebrew V Conſonant often ſupplies the Place of the Vowel O; ſo the Greeks could ſcarcely tranſlate the Hebrew Word יון Javan except by ἰὼν, Ion, and therefore they call'd the Country Javan in Aſia, Ionia, which was ſo famous for the Ionick Dialect us'd by Homer, Heſiod and many other of the Greek Poets.

54. The firſt Son of Javan is Eliſha, who was ſeated on the weſtern Coaſt of the ſouthern Tract of the Leſſer Aſia, in the Country allotted to his Father. In the northern Part hereof there were anciently ſeated the Æoles or Æolians, who as they carry ſome Marks of their Pedigree in their Name; ſo they are (r) expreſly affirm'd by Joſephus to have been deſcended from Eliſha. And as the Country, which was peculiarly call'd Ionia in after Ages, was joyn'd to that, which in the ſame Ages was call'd Æolia; ſo it is very probable, that Javan liv'd there near to his Son Eliſha, and not with any of the Reſt, and that the greateſt Part of Ionia was peopl'd by him.

55. The next Son of Javan is Tarſhiſh, who ſeated himſelf in the eaſtern Part of the ſouthern Tract of the Leſſer Aſia. The chief Town in Cilicia, where St. Paul was born, was call'd Tarſus, and carries in its very Name ſufficient Marks of its being founded either by Tarſhiſh himſelf, or ſome of his immediate Offſpring, who call'd it ſo in Honour of their Father. Joſephus (s) expreſly affirms, that not only this City was ſo call'd from Tarſhiſh; but alſo that Cilicia and the Country about it was originally known by the Name of Tharſhiſh. This was the Tarſhiſh, to which (t) the Prophet Jonah thought to flee from the preſence of the LORD; and it is mention'd (u) by the Prophets on the Account of its Trade with Tyre, for which Purpoſe it was moſt commodiouſly ſituated on the ſea Shore.

56. The third Son of Javan is Kittim, who was plac'd on the weſt Side of his Brother Tarſhiſh in Caria, Lycia and Part of Pamphylia. The (x) Name is of the plural Number, and conſequently the Name of a People, the ſingular Number of which would be Ceth or Citti, who is thought to have been the Father of that Nation. Ptolomy tells us of a Country here, call'd Cetis, and Homer mentions a People call'd Cetii, who were thought to take their Name from a River Cetius in the ſame Quarter. And it is alſo (y) remarkable, that the Septuagint renders Cittim by Κῆτοι Ketii or Cetii, exactly agreeable to the Name mention'd by Homer. Beſides, their being frequently nam'd in Scripture, argues that they were not far from Palæſtina. And there can be no other Place aſſign'd for them in all the Portion of Aſia the leſs, which was thus inhabited by Javan, there being but one Tract of Land remaining for

57. The fourth Son of Javan, who by Moſes is call'd Dodanim, or Rodanim, as we are told in (z) the Margin of our Engliſh Bible, it is in ſome Copies. And theſe muſt be fix'd on the ſouthern Ocean of leſſer Aſia between their Brethren Eliſha and Kittim. There we find (a) in ancient Writers a Country call'd Doris, which may not improperly be originally deriv'd from Dodanim; eſpecially if it is a plural Word, as the Termination ſeems to import. And ſo the ſingular was Dodan, which being chang'd into Doran, the Greeks might eaſily frame from thence the Word Dorus, whom they aſſert to have been the Father of the Dorians. It is certain, that the D and the R are frequently chang'd one into the other. And as there is ſuch an Inſtance actually extant of the Change of this Letter in the firſt Syllable of the Word, which we are ſpeaking of; ſo the like Change might as eaſily happen in the ſecond Syllable, and then ſome might write and pronounce Doranim inſtead of Dodanim. And as the Iſland of Cyprus, which (as Joſephus tells us) was firſt call'd Chetima, is a plain Argument that their Forefather Kittim or Chittim was ſeated oppoſite to it on the main Continent, and at firſt peopl'd this Iſland; ſo the Iſland of Rhodes muſt be peopl'd from the oppoſite Country, and took its Name from Rodanim (as he is call'd by ſome) who liv'd in thoſe Parts.

58. The fifth Son of Japhet mention'd by Moſes, is Tubal. He was plac'd upon the ſouth eaſt Shore of the Euxine Sea, which contains the People call'd Albani, Chalybes and Iberi. Thus Joſephus expreſly affirms him to have been the Father of the Aſiatick Iberians, and that they were originally call'd Theobeli from Tubal. And Ptolomy places here a City call'd Thubilaca. Mr. Mede tells us, that ſome think, that Chalybes is a Name corrupted from Thabyles, by loſing the firſt Letter, and after ſupplying the Letter ch inſtead thereof; for in Strabo's Time they were call'd Alybe, and from hence came the Name of Albania, a Country in theſe Parts. And the learned Bochartus ſuppoſes the Tibareni (a People mention'd by old Authors in this Tract) to have been ſo call'd from Tubal, by the Change of L into R, which is very frequent, and of which he gives us ſeveral Inſtances.

59. The ſixth Son of Japhet mention'd by Moſes, is Meſhech. As (b) he is frequently joyn'd with his Brother Tubal; ſo we may conclude, that they were ſituated near to one another, which muſt be on the ſouth Side of Tubal and the Eaſt of Gomer. That which according to the preſent Hebrew Vowels is Meſhech, was by the Septuagint and others render'd Moſoch; and hence it is probable, that they are the ſame who are call'd Moſchi by the Greeks, who were ſeated in thoſe Parts, and from whom the Moſchick Hills in the Neighbourhood, mention'd by the old Geographers, took their Name.

60. The laſt Son of Japhet mention'd by Moſes, is Tiras. He ſeated himſelf near his Brother Gomer not far from the Helleſpont, where was the famous City of Troy, whoſe firſt King is ſaid to have been call'd Tros, which Word both in Latin and Greek ſignifies a Trojan. And as this Word contains all the radical Letters of Tiras; ſo we may ſuppoſe, that he was originally either Tiras himſelf, or one of his Deſcendents ſo nam'd in Memory of him, and alſo that the Trojans in general were the original Deſcendents of Tiras, or ſuch as were deſcended from him in the Country, where Tiras at firſt planted himſelf. Beſides (as Dr. Wells obſerves) it is the common Tradition among the Greek Writers, that the Inhabitants upon the Eaſt of the Helleſpont and Propontis were originally or anciently Thracians; which tho' underſtood by the latter Greeks, as if theſe Parts of the Leſſer Aſia where inhabited by Colonies from Thrace in Europe; yet (as he obſerves) this ſeems as an Opinion ariſing from their Ignorance of the Plantation of the World. And the Foundation of this Tradition ſeems to depend really on the Europæan and Aſiatick Thracians being both deſcended from this ſame Tiras; who ſeated himſelf in theſe Parts of the Leſſer Aſia, and from whence his Poſterity did afterward ſend Colonies into Thrace and Europe.

61. And here we may take Occaſion to admire the Providence of GOD in the firſt Diviſion of the World. Shem and Japhet were both bleſs'd by Noah. This made their Poſterity eaſy and contented, ſo that they did not envy one the other, but liv'd peaceably together, and therefore there were no natural Barriers to prevent a Communication with one another. Ham was curs'd by Noah, and both he and his Poſterity were of a revengeful Temper. But they were not able to do much Miſchief, becauſe they were parted from the Poſterity of Shem by the uninhabited Countries of Arabia the Stony, and Arabia the Deſert; and they were parted from the Poſterity of Japhet on one Side by the Sea, and on the other Side by the Mountains of Libanus, Antilibanus and Amanus. But as the Poſterity of Ham and Japhet lay near one another, ſo ſometimes they liv'd peaceably together, and ſometimes they had Wars; which were generally of a ſhort Continuance, becauſe the Poſterity of Ham fell out among themſelves, and ſo the grand and famous Scene of Action lay between the Upper and the Lower Egypt.

62. When Japhet and his Poſtery were thus employ'd in Settling themſelves in the Leſſer

(z) 1 Chron. 1. 7. (a) Homer Iliad. 2. (b) Ezek. 27. 13, and 38. 2, 3, and 39. 1.

Aſia, and the Parts adjacent, we cannot ſuppoſe that Ham and his Offspring were idle. Accordingly his Son Canaan having taken Poſſeſſion of the Country allotted to him, and his Families extending themſelves from Jordan to the Mediterranean Sea; the Reſt paſs'd on toward the South and the Tongue of the Red Sea parting that Country into two Diviſions, one toward Arabia the happy, and the other toward Egypt: Cuſh, who ſeems to be the eldeſt Son of Ham, turns to the right Hand, leaving the Red Sea on the left, and ſettles himſelf in Aſia, leaving the other two to travel into Africa. That this was the ancient Situation of Cuſh the Son of Ham, is evident. Firſt, Jonathan the Chaldee Paraphraſt reckoning up the Sons of Ham, and ſpeaking of Cuſh, tells us, that Arabia was his Province. Secondly, Miriam and Aaron (c) are ſaid to ſpeak againſt Moſes, becauſe of the Cuſhite Woman (for ſo it is in the Hebrew) whom he had marry'd. But it is certain (d) that Moſes's Wife was a Midianitiſh Woman, and it is granted, that Midian was a City and Country in Arabia on the Shore of the Red Sea. Secondly, The Prophet (e) ſaith, I ſaw the tents of Cuſhan in affliction, and the curtains of the land of Midian trembled; where Cuſh is the ſame with Cuſhan, only this latter is a diminutive Word of the former, and Cuſhan and Midian are us'd as equivalent Terms, Midian properly ſo ſpeaking being only one Part of the Country of Cuſh. Thirdly, The Prophet Ezekiel tells us, that (f) GOD will make the land of Egypt deſolate from the tower of Syene even unto the border of Cuſh. Now it is very plain, that by the Tower of Syene and the Border of Cuſh are meant the two Extremities of Egypt. But every one knows, who hath any skill in Geography, that Syene was the Bounds of Egypt ſouthward toward Ethiopia in Africa. Therefore Cuſh, as being the oppoſite Bounds of Egypt, cannot poſſibly be the African Ethiopia, or Ethiopia properly ſo call'd; but it may properly ſignify Arabia, as bounding Egypt in its northern Part, and moſt remote from Ethiopia. Fourthly, We read (g) that when Sennacherib King of Aſſyria was beſieging Libnah, Tirhakah King of Cuſh march'd with an Army againſt him. And (h) Zerah the Cuſhite came with a great Army againſt Aſa King of Judah. But this cannot in either Place be underſtood of the King of Ethiopia commonly ſo call'd, as lying at too great a Diſtance from Judea, and having the Country of Egypt to paſs through, before they could bring their Armies into Judæa. But it may be well underſtood of the Kings of Arabia, as being the neighbouring Country. Laſtly, Here we find the Places, where the five Sons of Cuſh and his two Grandchildren were ſeated, as Moſes reckons them up, and plac'd in their Nation, according to their reſpective Families.

Anno Mundi 1802.

63. The firſt Son of Cuſh is Seba, who ſeated himſelf in the ſouth weſt Part of Arabia, where the City of Sabe is call'd by his Name.

64. The ſecond Son of Cuſh is Havilah. As it is probable, that Havilah the Son of Joktan ſeated himſelf in Arabia Fælix; ſo it is hard to find out the ancient Situation of this other Havilah, becauſe we find no other Remains of his Name. It is probable, that he ſeated himſelf with his Father near the Red Sea at the Entrance into Egypt, which Country is call'd Cuſhan. And when his Father remov'd toward Babylon to dwell in the Country call'd Chuſca, this Havilah remov'd with him together with his Family, and ſeated themſelves along the River Phiſon, or the weſtern Channel of the two, into which the common Channel of the Tigris and Euphrates is again divided, before they empty themſelves into the Perſian Gulf.

65. The third Son of Cuſh was Sabta, who ſeated himſelf upon the Perſian Gulf toward the eaſt Side, where there was a City not far diſtant from the Sea, which is call'd by Ptolomy, Saphtha.

66. The fourth Son of Cuſh was Raamah. He alſo ſeated himſelf in Arabia upon the Perſian Gulph. Tho' we render it Raamah; yet the Word in other Tranſlations, and particularly by the Septuagint, is render'd Ῥεγμα Rhegma; and this is very agreeable to the radical Letters in the Hebrew Language. Here there is a City call'd Rhegama in Ptolomy's Tables, and Stephanus mentions both the City of Rhegma and the Bay of Rhegma about the Perſian Gulph.

67. Now Moſes alſo tells us, that Raamah or Rhegma had two Sons, who muſt of Courſe be ſettl'd in that Part of the Country, which was allotted to their Father. The firſt of theſe was Sheba, and the other was Dedan. As for Sheba, he muſt be fix'd near to his Brother Dedan, which diſtinguiſheth his Habitation from the Reſt of the ſame Name, where Pomponius mentions a People call'd Sabæi; and Arrianus ſpeaks of a great Mountain not far off, call'd Sabo, from this Sheba, who is call'd by ſome Seba, and by others Saba. And Pliny mentions a River of the ſame Name. And Dionyſius Periegetes ſpeaks of a People call'd Sabæ. To diſtinguiſh him from the reſt, we find him always mention'd with his Father or his Brother. Thus the Prophet Ezekiel (i) ſaith that the merchants of Sheba and Raamah were the merchants of Tyre, who occupy'd in her fairs with chief of all ſpices, and with all precious ſtones and gold. Theſe were the Commodities of Arabia, and they might well trade therein, becauſe they lay very commodiouſly for this Purpoſe upon the Perſian Gulph. Theſe are the People which he alſo mentions in the next Verſe. Haran, and Canneh, and Eden, the merchants of Sheba, Aſhur and Chilmad were thy merchants. So that as he joyns them with others who liv'd upon the Tigris and Euphrates, which ran into the Perſian Sea; it is but reaſonable to think, that the Poſterity of this Sheba liv'd near the ſame Sea. And (k) in another Place he joyns together Sheba and Dedan, and the merchants of Tarſhiſh.

68. Now theſe two Names Sheba or Seba being ſo much alike, and the Greeks having no Letter whereby to expreſs ſh, they quickly confounded the two different Families ſignify'd by them, and call'd them both Sabeans. Hence Pliny ſaith, that the Sabean Nations inhabited thoſe Parts, ſpreading themſelves to both Seas, that is, from the Red ſea or Gulf of Arabia to the Gulf of Perſia. So that even from this Miſtake we may the better learn the Situation of both. However, the ſacred Writers do exactly diſtinguiſh them, and the Royal Pſalmiſt ſpeaks particularly of both, (l) The kings of Sheba and Seba ſhall offer gifts.

69. The laſt Son of Cuſh mention'd by Moſes (except Nimrod, whom he names for another Reaſon) is Sabtecha. It is hard to find the Place of his Habitation. Without doubt he plac'd himſelf among the Reſt of his Brethren, eſpecially ſince there is Room enough left for him in the northern Parts of Arabia. His Deſcendents might from him be regularly at firſt called Sabtaceni by the Greeks, which Name might be afterward ſoften'd into Saraceni, by which Name it is well known, that the People of this Trade were formerly denominated. And this is the more probable, becauſe Stephanus mentions a Country in thoſe Parts called Saruca. The Reaſon, why no Mention is made in the Scripture of the Sabtaceni, may be, becauſe theſe Parts of Arabia, lying near to the Holy Land, are always called by the Name of Cuſh, the Father of Sabteca, and who, in all Probability, ſettl'd himſelf in thoſe Parts with this his Son.

70. The youngeſt Son being thus ſettled by his Father Ham in the Land of Canaan, to prevent, if poſſible, the Effects of his Grandfather Noah's Curſe; and Cuſh, or the eldeſt, chooſing according to the Rights of Primogeniture to dwell in Arabia Fælix; there remains two others to be diſpoſed of. And as the firſt two were ſeated in Aſia; ſo it is certain, that Africa fell to the Lot of the other two. Accordingly Mizraim coming into Egypt, and finding it to be a fruitful and a pleaſant Country, eſpecially the upper Part, and being the elder Brother, he chooſeth this for his Portion, and leaves his other Brother to travel further, and ſeek for a new Habitation. We need not doubt where Mizraim ſettl'd himſelf, ſince the Hebrew Text generally calls Egypt, either by the Name of the Land of Mizraim, or by the ſingle Word Mizraim. The Word it ſelf is known by its Termination to be of the dual Number, and therefore may properly ſignify the two Parts into which the Country is divided, viz. the upper and the lower Egypt. It is probable, that Ham came hither with his Son Mizraim, not only that he might prevent all Diſputes, which might ariſe in their firſt Settlements; but alſo that he might afterward chooſe to dwell in that Country, which he lik'd beſt. And it is alſo probable, that he liv'd and govern'd here for ſome Time; and for this Reaſon Egypt is ſo often call'd (m) the Land of Ham. However, it could not be long before the Sons of Mizraim were ſettl'd in this Nation, according to their reſpective Families.

71. The firſt Son of Mizraim mention'd by Moſes, is Ludim. The learned Bochartus hath prov'd at large by ten ſeveral Arguments, that Ludim ſettled in Ethiopia, and therefore originally the Ethiopians were a Colony of the Egyptians. And it appears by Diodorus Siculus, that they were near of Kin, having many Things common to both Nations; as that they eſteem'd their Kings as Gods, their Care of their Sepulchres, the Forms of their Statues, the Characters of their Letters, the Habits of their Prieſts, the Names of their Gods, the Colour of their Skin and Hair, and that both Nations were circumcis'd. In Scripture (n) Lud or Ludim, are ſaid to be very skilful in drawing the bow, which exactly agrees with the Character given to the Ethiopians, by many ancient Writers. Secondly, The Prophet Iſaiah (o) joins Phut and Lud together; whence it may be probably inferr'd that they ſignified two People, or Countries adjoining to one another. And Phut may very well be thought to be the City and Country of Phila, ſituate not far from Syene on the Borders of Ethiopia. Thirdly, The ſame Prophet tells us in the ſame Place, that theſe Nations ſhould be very early converted to the Chriſtian Faith: This was begun by (p) Philip when he baptiz'd the Ethiopian Eunuch, which made Way for the Propagating of the Goſpel in thoſe Parts. And laſtly, The Prophets (q) join Lud or Ludim with Cuſh and Phut; and therefore, as by Cuſh are meant the Arabians, and by Phut the Inhabitants of the Parts of Africa beyond Cyrenaica; ſo by Lud are reaſonably ſuppos'd to be meant the Ethiopians, as lying between both.

72. The ſecond Son of Mizraim is Anamim. Theſe are ſuppoſed to be the Nomades or Shepherds, who liv'd about Ammon and Naſamonitis, where there was a Temple dedicated to Jupiter Ammon. Theſe were called Anamii from عنم Anam, which ſignifies Sheep among the ancient Egyptians, as it doth among the Arabians. For the Nomades fed Sheep, as Herodotus tells us, and liv'd upon them; and their Garments alſo were made of Sheep-skins. Beſides, the ſame Author expreſly affirms the Ammonians to be the Deſcendents, partly of the Egyptians, and partly of the Ethiopians. It is probable, that from theſe Ammonii or Anamim, the Nazammones took their Riſe and Name; and alſo the Amantes, the Garamantes, and the Hammanientes, mentioned by old Writers in the adjacent Parts.

Anamii

73. The third Son of Mizraim is Lehabim. It is probable, that Lehabim and Lubim are the ſame Word, with a little Variation; and that from thence was originally derived the Name of Libya, which tho' afterward extended to the whole Libyan or African Continent; yet at firſt it ſignified only the Country of Cyrenaica. And this Country lying over againſt Greece, hence the Name of Lub originally belonging to this Tract, was chang'd into Lybia, and ſo given by the Greeks to the whole Continent over againſt them on the other Side of the Mediterranean Sea. Theſe are called by Ptolomy, Pliny, and others, Libyægyptii: And becauſe they liv'd next to Egypt on the Weſt of Thebais, in a ſandy and duſty Soil, and burnt by exceſſive Heat; hence they probably had the Name of Lehabim. For Lehaba in Hebrew ſignifies both a Flame and Heat. And thus the Prophet ſaith, (r) The flame (Lebaba) or ſcorching Heat, hath burnt up all the trees of the field.

74. The fourth Son of Mizraim is Naphtuhim. His Family was ſeated in the Country adjoyning to Cyrenaica, or Libya properly ſo call'd, toward Egypt, or in Marmarica: Here we find in Ptolomy ſome Remainder of the Name, in a Place call'd Aptuchi fanum. And in the Heathen Fables Aptuchus is ſaid to be the Son of Cyrene, from whom the City and Country of Cyrene took its Name. The Occaſion of which Fable might be this, That Naphtuhim, call'd by the Greeks Aphtuchius, was the Brother of Lehabim, who firſt peopled Cyrenaica. Plutarch ſaith, that the Egyptians call the Country and the Mountains, which lie upon the Shore of the Mediterranean Sea in Marmarica, Nephthun, which plainly alludes to the Napthuhim, whom Moſes ſpeaks of. And it is probable, that from hence came the Name of Neptune, who originally was a Libyan God, and known to none but that People.

75. The fifth Son of Mizraim is Pathruſim, who was ſettl'd at Pathros, which was a Part of the upper Egypt or Thebais, where Ptolomy places Pathyris, an inland Town not far from Thebais. And agreeably to this the Septuagint renders the Hebrew Pathros by the Greek Pathyris. Thus the Prophet Ezekiel (s) foretelling, that GOD would bring again the Captivity of Egypt, ſaith, that he would cauſe them to return into the land of Pathros, into the land of their habitation or nativity: That is, into Thebais, which Nebuchadnezzar had principally afflicted, carrying moſt of the Inhabitants of Thebes out of their own Country.

76. The laſt Son of Mizraim is Caſluhim. He is very probably thought to have firſt ſettled in the Country, which lay neareſt to the Land of Canaan, call'd Caſiotis, where there is alſo a Mount call'd Caſius; both which Names retain ſomewhat of the Word Caſluhim. This Situation of them is confirm'd by what Moſes adds concerning them, that out of them ſprung the Philiſtins and the Caphtorim (for I ſhould rather read the Text without a Parentheſis) the firſt of which made themſelves Maſters of the adjacent Tract of the Land of Canaan, the other (t) conquer'd the Avim, or Hivites; and both originally after ſome Run of Time came from this Country.

77. Mizraim and his Poſterity being thus ſettl'd in Egypt, there remain'd but one more, which was Phut. He was ſeated to the weſt of Mizraim, and ſo he extended himſelf along the Coaſt of the Mediterranean Sea, toward the Streights of Gibraltar, and eſpecially along the River Niger, as far as the weſtern Ocean about Cape Verd. There are ſome Footſteps of this Name in the Country; for in Africa, properly ſo call'd, below Adramentum, there was a City call'd Putea, mention'd by Pliny; and in Mauritania there is a River, which Ptolomy calls Phut. St. Hierom is very clear in this Matter, telling us, that there is a River in Mauritania, which in his Time was call'd Phut, and from which the adjacent Country was call'd Regio Phytenſis, or the Country of Phut. And thus, when the two Sons of Ham came into Africa, they extended their Colonies two different Ways: The Poſterity of Mizraim went ſouthward along the Nile, and the Poſterity of Phut went weſtward along the Niger: Both of them lay open to the Mediterranean Sea, and both of them had a large Tract of Land, in which they might extend their Colonies. And as they were divided into two Parts nearly equal by the Lake Trilonides, ſo we may conclude the Poſterity of Phut to have been as numerous as thoſe of Mizraim, tho' none of them are recorded by Moſes.

Anno Mundi 1807.

78. Another Name by which the Inhabitants of Africa are call'd (u) is Lubim, whence came the Name of Libya. The learned Bochartus gives ſeveral Reaſons for this Name; tho' after all, it might ſo happen, that it was a Nation deſcended from one of the Children of Phut, whoſe Name Moſes doth not mention. And ſo the Name of a private Perſon at firſt, might afterward be given to his Nation, and then extend it ſelf throughout the Country.

79. But

79. But to diſpatch the ancient Hiſtory of Africa, except Egypt, altogether. The Poſterity of Mizraim, or the Egyptians taking Poſſeſſion of their Country, ſpread themſelves to the South along the River Nile, as being the fitteſt Part to live in, becauſe it was plentifully water'd by that fruitful River: The Poſterity of Phut obſerving which Way they extended their Colonies, and being ſeparated from them by the Lake Trilonides, extended their Colonies the ſame Way, that ſo they might prevent any Incroachments from the Egyptians upon the Territories allotted to them. Upon this, coming far ſouth of the higher Egypt, they meet with the Head of a very large Stream; and accordingly they ſettle themſelves, as this Stream ſhould direct them, well knowing that the moſt fruitful Parts of this barren Country lay near the River. There are ſome, who tell us, that the Nile is divided into two great Streams, one of which comes to the Mediterranean Sea, and the other no leſs conſiderable, tho' but lately known by the Europeans, runs directly weſt through the Regio Nigritarum, till it falls into the Atlantick Ocean about Cape Verd, in fifteen Degrees of north Latitude. But it is not probable, that this River ſprung out of the Nile. A Spring, dividing it ſelf into two Parts, will naturally waſh away the ſofteſt Ground, and conſequently forſake the other Channel; and it is certain, that our beſt Maps place the Head of it at a conſiderable Diſtance from the other. The Name giv'n to this River at that Time ſignified Black, and therefore it is call'd by the Europeans the River Niger, becauſe it ſignifies the ſame blackiſh or muddy colour'd Water, which the name Melo, anciently giv'n by the Greeks to the Nile, imports. Herodotus (x) ſaith, that a Cyrenian told him from Etearchus King of the Ammonians, that five bold Youths of the Naſamones travelling to make new Diſcoveries through the Deſerts of Africa, were at laſt brought to a City inhabited by Blacks, by which ran a great River, whoſe Courſe was from the Weſt towards the Eaſt, (that is, the Length of the River lay between theſe two Points) and there were Crocodiles in it, and Etearchus judg'd it to be the Nile. However the Inhabitants follow'd the Courſe of this River weſtward, as faſt as they increas'd, whilſt every one ſtriv'd to be the firſt Poſſeſſor or Occupier of a great Quantity of ſuch good Land; and therefore the ſucceeding Generations went farther weſtward than their Anceſtors, until the main Ocean ſtopp'd their Progreſs. And this is the moſt probable Account of ſuch early peopling this hot but well water'd Country.

80. When the Colonies were led weſtward as far as the Ocean, Atlas extended them northward along the Shore; and accordingly, like the reſt of Mankind in thoſe Ages, call'd the Country by his Name, as being really King thereof. And it is obſervable, that the Ocean adjoyning to the Shore is at this Time call'd The Atlantick Ocean. However, coming northward, to the Latitude of thirty five Degrees, he ſeats himſelf near to a very high Mountain, which at this Day is call'd Mount Atlas; and it is ſo high, that the Top of it is often ſaid by the Poets to reach to Heaven, and bear it up; and therefore he is frequently pictur'd like an old ſtooping Man with a Globe upon his Shoulders. There are (y) ſome who ſay, that he was the firſt Inventor of Aſtronomy, and therefore this Picture only ſignifies his maintaining the Science of it. But as this Science was long before in great Eſteem in Babylon, ſo he could only be the Promoter and Encourager thereof in thoſe Parts; and for this Reaſon might chooſe to inhabit near ſo high a Mountain, as the fitteſt Place, from whence others directed by him might make their celeſtial Obſervations.

81. There are ſome, who make this Atlas to be the Brother of Prometheus, and conſequently the Son of Japhet; and Sanchoniatho makes him to be the Son of Ouranus or Noah. But this is impoſſible: It is very improbable, that any Son of Japhet could be alive, when Jacob came into the Land of Canaan; and as that Land was not overſtock'd when he came thither, but there was Room enough among the Sichemites for him and his, tho' it lay near to Babylon, the Place of their firſt Diſperſion; ſo it cannot be imagin'd, that the Poſterity of Phut could extend themſelves to the moſt diſtant Part of Africa in ſo ſmall a Run of Time. The Cabiri, who make this Atlas to be the Son of Noah, ſay, that in his elder Years he was buried alive by his Brother Ham, and by the Advice of Thoth. It is certain, that the firſt Promoters of Idolatry did agree in ſuch cruel Counſels, the better to eſtabliſh and enlarge their own Dominions. This is ſuppos'd to be done to Atlas to ſecure to Ham, and afterward to his Poſterity, among which was Thoth, the Dominion of the moſt weſtern Parts of Africa, where the Atlantii were ſeated, and to prevent the Family of Atlas from having any Power there independent from them.

82. Antæus the Son of Atlas is (z) ſaid to be in great Favour with Mizraim or Oſiris, the King of upper Egypt; and living at that Time in one of the Nomi, or Shires of Thebais, call'd Antæopolites Nomus in Pliny and Ptolomy, from his Name, hew as ſent from thence to govern Ethiopia and Libya. He is reported to have been the firſt Founder of Tangier, formerly call'd Tingis, near the Straights of Gibraltar on the other Side, and to have reign'd as a King in thoſe Parts after his Father. It is ſuppos'd, that his Family claim'd to rule in the Right of their Father Atlas; but the Family of Ham would have them ſubject to them. If Antæus consented to be the Deputy of Osiris or Mizraim, as (a) the ancient Writers seem to hint, then the Right was on the Side of Ham; but as the longest Sword will not want Pretences to fight, so Hercules or Arcles, who is also call'd Assis, tho' not of Mizraim's or Osiris his Line, might take up the Title, such as it was, and invade Antæus.

83. Antæus being thus invaded by Hercules, defends himself with the utmost Vigour, and therefore is said to wrestle with him; and when he was beat'n, he frequently sent for fresh Recruits out of the Country. For which Reason it is said of him, that as often as he was weary or faint, he would but touch the Earth, and be in perfect Strength again. However, Hercules destroys him, and fixes a Colony in those Parts, which afterward retain'd the Name of The Promontory of Hercules. Hence the Sea is also call'd by the same Name; and in Commemoration of this Conquest he might set up those Trophies, which have been call'd Hercules his Pillars. And after that Antæus (b) had been bury'd for some Time, in or near Tangier; his Body was digg'd up, and it was found by his Bones, that he had been a Man of wonderful Bigness. Perhaps he might have sprung from a Race of Giants in those Days, and therefore the Name of his Father Atlas is suppos'd to be deriv'd from the Hebrew Word תלל to heap up, which in the Conjugation Hiphil, or the Chaldee Aphel, is contracted into Athal, and seems at least in Signification to be like our English Word tall, and is an Epithet which may be given to (c) either a high Hill, or a tall Man; and the Arabick Verb طال hath the same Signification.

84. Who this Atlas was, is difficult to determine; but as there are several Men of the same Name, so he could not be the fourth Son of Noah, as some have imagin'd, because (d) the whole Earth was repeopl'd from his three Sons, which were with him in the Ark. Neither could he be Atlas the Son of Japhet, and Brother to Prometheus, because he is said to (e) have been the first King of Arcadia, and to have come from the Mountain of Caucasus, which we know to be a Part of that vast Ridge of Mountains, on which the Ark landed, and was the first Habitation of Japhet, and his Family. Agreeably to this, Apollodorus owns Asia to have been the Wife of Japetus, and the Mother of his Children; among whom he names Atlas first. And without doubt, this may mystically intimate only, that the Country now call'd Asia, was the Place of their Birth, and first Education, as the Earth is call'd our common Mother. And thus the eldest Writers of their mythical History might leave this Hint in calling the Wife of Japetus by this Name, who (f) at another Time is call'd Thornax. And it is also evident from the Scripture Division of the first Nations, that we must seek for Atlas the Son of Japhet among the rest of his Brethren, and not in the remotest Distance of the Children of Ham.

85. But leaving the rest of Africa, whose ancient History is more barren than the Country, it is high Time to return back to upper Egypt, where we left the Children of Mizraim seating themselves in the southern Part of the Nile, and who had now built Thebes, or their first City in the Province of Thebais, so call'd from its Name. This City was at first call'd in (g) Hebrew, No, and when it was afterward over run with false Worship, particularly the worshipping of their Father Ham, whom they call'd Jupiter Hammon; it was in Memory of him call'd (h) No Ammon, which we translate Populus No, and from thence by the Greeks call'd Diospolis, or the City of Jupiter.

86. One great Argument of the Antiquity of this City is the Purity of its Religion, which the Inhabitants had learn'd from their Father Noah, before they separated from him, and began to build the Tower of Babel. For tho' Ham, by marrying before the Flood, was inclinable to the false Religion of those Times, which soon occasion'd a general Corruption in most of his Posterity; yet those of Thebais, in and after the Time of (i) Thoth, own'd no mortal Being to be a God, and only ador'd Cneph, which seems to be the Name of their sovereign God, whom they asserted to be without Beginning and without End, the Maker, or Framer, Preserver and Governour of the Universe. The Etymology of this Name seems to come from the Verb كنف which in the Arabick Language signifies to preserve or cover any Way, especially like Birds with their Wings, and is therefore a Name very proper to the great Preserver of Men. They say, that (k) the Phænicians call'd him the good Dæmon, in the same Sense, in which the Egyptians call'd him Cneph; which seems, as if they thought the Word Dæmon to be a Phænician Word from די Sufficiency, with the Greek Termination added to it. And if so, then the true GOD seems to call himself by this Name, in that (l) remarkable Expression to Abraham. I am אל שדי the Almighty, or allsufficient GOD, walk before me, and be thou perfect. But in later Ages, when their Hieroglyphicks were in greater Esteem, they drew him as a Dragon or a Serpent, but put upon him a Hawk's Head. And therefore Epeis, call'd by them the greateſt Hierophant and Scribe, ſaith of him, The firſt and moſt divine Being is a Serpent, having a Hawk's Head beautiful to look upon; who, if he opens his Eyes, fills the Univerſe with Light in his firſt born Region, but if he ſhuts them, he fills it with Darkneſs. And he ſeems to be the ſame, which in Strabo is call'd Cnuphis, and had a Temple in Syene the remoteſt Part of Thebais. And the Worſhip of this ſupreme GOD prevail'd ſo much throughout that whole Region, that they paid nothing toward the Charge of thoſe Animals us'd in other Places in the Service of their inferior Gods.

87. It is very probable, that many of the ancient Egyptians might worſhip the Sun, Moon or Stars, or even the Light or Fire; theſe being the Creatures ador'd in the early Ages, and in other Nations of the World, and bearing the greateſt Reſemblance of the divine Shechinah or Glory, which appear'd to the antediluvian Patriarchs, and alſo to Noah, and probably to other pious Men in that Age. This might be the Reaſon, why upon the Death of their firſt Kings, when they conſecrated them for Gods, they came ſo early into the Method of tranſlating them into particular Stars, calling the Stars by their Names, and placing their Reſidence there. There is no doubt, but the great Men in the antediluvian Age were worſhipp'd after their Death, and had their Images erected for this Purpoſe. But as the Flood deſtroy'd all theſe Images, and was a ſignal Mark of GOD's Diſpleaſure againſt this Vice; ſo it deſtroy'd all that idolatrous Worſhip, and whatever ſucceeded after it could not be begun until the Deaths of thoſe, who either ſurviv'd, or were born after the Flood; ſo that nothing of this Nature could happen in leſs than two hundred, and very little in leſs than four hundred Years. It is certain, that they never pretended to make an Image of their God Cneph, becauſe they look'd upon him, as a ſpiritual, immortal and infinite Being, and as ſuch could not be repreſented by groſs, corruptible and finite Matter. And they made no Images of the Sun, Moon and Stars, becauſe they were viſible, and therefore needed no ſuch Repreſentation. Lucian (m) tells us, that tho' the Egyptians were the firſt Makers of Idols, yet anciently they had none in their Temples. And (n) another Author affirms, that even in his Time the Philoſophers avoided all fabulous Umbrages, when they ſpoke of the ſupreme GOD, or of the Mind, the ſecond Platonick Perſon; and generally ſaith of the heathen Antiquity, that it made no Image of this ſupreme Being, tho' it had many of other inferior Deities. Intimating thereby that Images had much Fable in them, unworthily belying the ſupreme Deity, when pretending to reſpect him. The firſt Image made at Babylon for idolatrous Uſes, was that of Ham, with a Sword in his Hand, and plac'd in the upper Room of their Tower; but this could not ſerve for ſuch a Uſe until his Death, which was not long before the Birth of Abraham. When the Dioſcuri, having built ſome Ships, went to Sea, and being caſt away near Mount Caſſius, they built and conſecrated a Temple in commemoration of their Eſcape; it was particularly obſerv'd in later Ages as an Argument of its great Antiquity, that no Idols were there. Even in Greece we are told, (o) that the Phliaſians had a very holy Temple, in which there was no Image either openly to be ſeen, or kept in ſecret; and they had a ſacred Account or Reaſon of this Practice, but that was not to be reveal'd. Upon which (p) a late eminent Author makes this Remark, That this was certainly a Mark of very great Antiquity, ſince the corrupt Practice of Worſhipping by Images, grew very early in the World; and to worſhip without any Image was certainly the oldeſt and beſt Manner of Worſhip. And it is ſaid (q) of the old Phænician Melcartus or Hercules; that in his ancient Temple at Gadira or Gades, they had thus much of the Patriarcal Religion, continu'd in the Times of Silius Italicus and Philoſtratus, that there were no Images in it. And the Magi, whoſe Religion was the moſt ancient among the Perſians, did abominate (r) all Images, and worſhipp'd GOD only by Fire. The firſt Riſe of Idolatry is (s) thus deſcrib'd by an excellent Author of our own. The true Religion, which Noah taught his Poſterity, was that which Abraham practis'd, the Worſhipping of one GOD, the ſupreme Creator and Governour of all things, with Hopes in his Mercy through a Mediator. From hence the Neceſſity of a Mediator between GOD and Man became a general Notion, which obtain'd among all Mankind from the Beginning; who being conſcious of their own Meanneſs, Vileneſs and Impurity, could not conceive how it was poſſible for them of themſelves alone, to have any acceſs to the all-holy, all-glorious and ſupreme Governor of all things. They conſider'd him as too high, and too pure, and themſelves as too low and polluted for ſuch a Converſe. And therefore they concluded, that there muſt be a Mediator, by whoſe Means alone they could make any Addreſs unto him, and by whoſe Interceſſion alone any of their Petitions could be accepted. But no clear Revelation being then made, or perhaps forgott'n, of the Mediator, whom GOD had appointed, becauſe he had not been yet ſo clearly manifeſt-

ed to the World, as he was afterward, they took upon them to addreſs unto him by Mediators of their own chooſing. And their Notion of the Sun, Moon and Stars, being, that they were the Tabernacles or Habitations of intelligent Beings, which animated thoſe Orbs in the ſame Manner, as the Soul of Man animates his Body, and were the Cauſes of all their Motions, and that theſe Beings were of a middle Nature between GOD and Man; they thought, that theſe were the moſt proper to become the Mediators between GOD and themſelves. And therefore the Planets being neareſt to us of all theſe heavenly Bodies, and generally look'd upon to have the greateſt Influence on this World, they made choice of them in the firſt Place to be ſuch as ſhould mediate for them with the ſupreme GOD, and procure from him the Mercies and Favours, which they pray'd for; and accordingly directed divine Worſhip to them as ſuch. And here began all the Idolatry, that hath been practis'd in the World. They firſt worſhipp'd them by their Tabernacles, and afterward by their Images alſo. By theſe Tabernacles they meant the Orbs themſelves, which they look'd upon as the ſacred Places, in which theſe Intelligences had their Habitations. And therefore, when they paid their Devotions to any one of them, they directed their Worſhip toward the Planet, in which they ſuppos'd he dwelt. But theſe Planets by their Riſing and Setting, being as much under the Horizon as above, they were at a Loſs, how to addreſs to them in their Abſence. To remedy this they had Recourſe to the Invention of Images; in which, after their Conſecration, they were taught, that theſe Intelligences or inferior Deities were as much preſent by their Influence, as in the Planets themſelves, and that all Addreſſes to them were made as effectually before the one, as before the other. And this was the Beginning of Image-Worſhip among them. To theſe Images were given the Names of the Planets, which they repreſented, and they were the ſame, by which they are ſtill call'd. And hence it is, that we ſtill find Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Apollo or the Sun, Venus, Mercury and Diana or the Moon, to be firſt rank'd in the Polytheiſm of the Ancients. This Idolatry was learn'd by the Iſraelites when they were in Egypt, and ſoon practis'd by them after their Deliverance from thence. And therefore the (t) Prophet upbraids them for it in theſe Words. Have ye offer'd unto me ſacrifices and offerings in the wilderneſs forty years, O houſe of Iſrael? But ye have born the tabernacle or Repreſentation of the Orb of Moloch, and Chiun your images, which ye made to your ſelves; or as (u) St. Stephen ſaith, the ſtar of your god Remphan, ſuch figures, which ye made to worſhip them. Therefore will I cauſe you to go into captivity beyond Damaſcus, ſaith the LORD, whoſe name is the GOD of hoſts. The learned Bochartus (x) tells us, that Moloch was the ancient Name for the Planet Mars; and he quotes Kircher for a Proof, that he was ſtill call'd ſo in the Coptick Language, which was a Mixture of the Greek and Egyptian. And he alſo adds, that Aben Ezra ſaith, that Chiun ſignifies Saturn, both among the Perſians and the Iſhmaelites, and that (y) even in one of the Comedies of Plautus, Saturn is call'd Chiun. And he alſo adds, that Chiun is the ſame with the Egyptian Word Rephan or Remphan, which ſignifies Saturn. And therefore the Septuagint, who wrote in Egypt, and for the Uſe of the Egyptians, did more willingly uſe that Word, as beſt known among them. The Word in the Septuagint was Raiphas; and in Proceſs of Time, the Language was ſo alter'd in the Apoſtle's Days, that it was call'd Remphan. The Word Rephas was one of the peculiar Names giv'n to Ham, when he was worſhipp'd; and it frequently in Hebrew ſignifies a Giant, becauſe of all thoſe, which were before and after the Flood, he was more eſpecially deify'd and ador'd, and the mightieſt Men of his Race glory'd in their Likeneſs to him, and therefore affected to be call'd Rephaim. And the Deriving of his Coptick Name Rephas from the Hebrew Word רפא Rapha, which denotes that healthy Conſtitution, that produceth long Life, Growth to great Stature and Strength, affords a farther Light to the Reaſon of this Name given to Ham, and the Rephaims deſcending from him. And as Ham, after his Death, was conſecrated into the Planet Saturn; ſo the ſame Planet was firſt call'd Raiphas and afterward Remphan.

88. The (z) Arabick Hiſtorian tells us, that the Worſhip of the Images of dead Men was alſo begun in the Days of Peleg and his Brother Joktan, and ſaith, that the firſt Cauſe thereof was, that when any Man happen'd to die, who was moſt excellent for Prudence and Counſel or Valour; the Survivers ſet up his Statue in their Counſel-Houſe (perhaps to encourage others to imitate their Example) and then when any thing happen'd that was acceptable, concerning which they were to take Counſel, they met together to conſult before that Image, as if the Image was preſent to give them Counſel, or infus'd into them his former Courage or Conduct. And thus they ſet up the Images of all their famous Anceſtors; and being for a great while accuſtom'd to this Method, they fell into the Worſhip of them. After this (a) a Notion obtaining, that good Men departed had a Power with GOD to mediate alſo and intercede for them; they deify'd many of thoſe, whom they thought to be ſuch: And hence the Number of their Gods increas'd in the idolatrous Times of the World. This Religion firſt began among the Chaldeans, which their Knowledge in Aſtronomy help'd to lead them to. And from this it was that Abraham ſeparated himſelf, when he came out of Chaldea. From the Chaldeans it ſpread it ſelf over all the Eaſt, where the Profeſſors of it had the Name of Zabii. From them it paſs'd into Egypt, and from thence to the Grecians, who propagated it to all the weſtern Nations of the World. And therefore (b) the Author of the Wiſdom of Solomon betrays not only his Want of divine Inſpiration, but alſo his own Ignorance, when he affirm'd that it was begun partly by Parents making Images of their own Children when dead, and partly by others, who made Images of their abſent Friends when living.

87. But whatever Errors had crept into the Religion of upper Egypt, it is certain, that they always abhorr'd the Sacrifices of Men to their Gods as barbarous and inhuman; and therefore when Tethmoſis, about the Time of the Death of Abraham, had reduc'd all lower Egypt to his Obedience, he aboliſh'd that Cuſtom, and the better to pleaſe the People, he order'd Pictures, made of Wax, to be offer'd in their Stead.

88. But here it may be ask'd, How did theſe People behave themſelves toward thoſe, who differ'd from them in Matters of Religion? To this I anſwer, That where the Difference lay in things only circumſtantial, there is no Inſtance of the leaſt Trouble or Uneaſineſs on that Account. That where the Difference lay in the greateſt Fundamental, even the Object of Divine Worſhip; yet when Men liv'd peaceably, they uſually met with no Diſturbance, which many Times prov'd to be of ill Conſequence to the true Religion; and the greateſt Oppoſition was, when the Actions of the one were really deſign'd to be an Affront to the other. To inſtance in Particulars. Whilſt Melchiſedek was the Prieſt of the moſt high GOD in his own Family, whilſt he acted juſtly, and liv'd peaceably, he ſeems to be reſpected by all: And tho' he acted the Part of a Prieſt in Publick, being overjoy'd when Abraham, one of his own Perſwaſion, return'd from the Slaughter of the Kings; yet it did not create the leaſt Uneaſineſs. The Egyptians well knew, that the Hebrews worſhipp'd a GOD very diſtinct from theirs, and yet this was never made an Argument to oppreſs them, but all their Hardſhips aroſe from political Reaſons. The Children of Iſrael were cautious of giving Offence, and therefore they had a full Toleration; inſomuch, that (1) when Pharaoh allow'd them to go, and ſacrifice to their GOD in the land, Moſes ſcrupl'd it, and ſaid, It is not meet ſo to do, for we ſhall ſacrifice the abominations of the Egyptians to the LORD our GOD: Lo, ſhall we ſacrifice the abominations of the Egyptians before their eyes? and will they not ſtone us? The chief Animals, which GOD requir'd in Sacrifices, were Sheep and Oxen. Now the Egyptians abhorr'd both Sheep and Shepherds, becauſe of the long Paſtoral Wars in thoſe Countries, and therefore would think it too great an Honour done to thoſe Creatures to offer them in Sacrifice to the true GOD; and they would alſo reckon the Offering of a Bullock to be an Affront to their God Apis, and reſent it accordingly. And this made the Iſraelites ſo cautious. The Troubles, which Abraham met with in Meſopotamia, were not, becauſe he was of a different Religion, but becauſe of his zealous Oppoſing the falſe Religion of the Chaldeans, and Endeavouring to bring them over to the true; and particularly his burning the Idol Temple, which oblig'd him to obey the Commands of GOD, and depart from that Country into the Land of Canaan: But after that, when he was among the Canaanites and the Egyptians, and did not intermeddle with their Religion, he met with no Diſturbance from them. And even when the Patriarchs purg'd their own Houſholds from their Idols, they were not moleſted; becauſe others were of this Opinion, that every Man had a Right in his own Family. The Animoſities in Religion between upper and lower Egypt was, becauſe during the Time of their Wars, they both deify'd thoſe Kings, which had done the others moſt Miſchief; ſo that the Religion of the one was a Defiance of the other, both as to their Worſhip and even their State; and therefore they fail'd not to revenge it upon their Temples in their reſpective Turns. On the other Hand, the too eaſy Tolerating the Religion of the Magi among the Sons of Shem in Worſhipping the Sun, Moon, Stars and Fire, was the Cauſe, that that Part of Aſia was ſo ſoon overrun with that Worſhip; and the Tolerating the Egyptian Worſhip among the Sons of Japhet, was the Reaſon that their Idolatry ſo ſoon ſpread itſelf into all Europe, firſt in Greece and then in Rome. It was not therefore without great Reaſon, that GOD commanded the Iſraelites, when they came into the Land of Canaan (2) to deſtroy their altars, and break down their images, and cut down their groves, and burn their graven images with fire, and (3) make no covenant with them nor with their gods, becauſe it would ſurely be a ſnare unto them; as it really was (4) frequently in the Time of the Judges, and afterward in the Time of the Kings of Iſrael. For when Solomon (5) went after Aſhtoreth (or Aſtarte the Wife of Ham, who dwelt moſt at Zidon, and was therefore after her Death worſhipp'd in thoſe Parts, as) the goddeſs of the Zidonians, and after Milcom (or Moloch) the abominati- on of the Ammonites, it caus'd ſuch an Inclination in the Iſraelites to Idolatry, that all the Zeal of the good Kings, who ſucceeded, could not root it out, until they were carry'd away Captives into Babylon. And when Jeroboam had ſet up the golden Calves, there was ſuch a Degeneracy and Increaſe of Idolatry, which occaſion'd their utter Rejection. And therefore tho' Differences in Circumſtantials may and ought to be allow'd for the Preſerving of Peace; yet Errors in ſuch Fundamentals as theſe, concerning the Object of our Worſhip, may be attended with the moſt fatal Conſequences, eſpecially if daily Endeavours are uſed to gain new Proſelytes.

89. But to return from this Digreſſion: It is high Time to take our Leave of Egypt, and follow the Hiſtory of Ham. His Wife, which he had at this Time, was her, who had been with him in the Ark; even Naamah, the Daughter of Lamech, of the Race of Cain. Her Name in Hebrew ſignifies The fair one. As he travel'd with her into other Countries, he chang'd her Name to one, that in another Language had the ſame Signification, and call'd her Aſtarte, as it is in the Greek, or Aſhtaroth in the Hebrew, which (c) Word ſignifies in Hebrew, Flocks of Cattle, Sheep or Goats. And as the Patriarchs in thoſe early Times did generally lead a paſtoral Life, and ſuch eſpecially had more Leiſure to make Poems on what Subjects they pleas'd; ſo they generally compar'd the moſt beautiful Women to ſuch Animals as theſe, in whom they moſt delighted. Thus Solomon himſelf compares (d) CHRIST the beloved Spouſe of his Church to a roe or a young hart, who cometh leaping upon the mountains, and skipping upon the hills: And the Church to a (e) flock of goats, which appear from mount Gilead, or a flock of ſheep, which are newly ſhorn, which came up from the waſhing, whereof every one bears twins, and none is barren among them. Lucian (f) ſufficiently intimates, that he thought Aſtarte and Europa to be the ſame Perſon, to whom the Temple in Sidon was dedicated, and Bochartus (g) hath plainly ſhewn us, that the Word in the Phænician Tongue ſignifies λευκοπρόσωπος the white fac'd, or fair one. Hence the Word in Greek (h) Βοῶπις or Bull's face, ſo often us'd by Homer and others, became a reſpectful Epithet of Juno, and ſignify'd ſuch Features, as were very agreeable: And that Epithet may well belong to the Wife of Ham, of whom the Phænicians, the beſt Judges of this Fact (as Sanchoniatho affirms) do aſſure us, that ſhe was call'd by the Greeks Aphrodite, or Venus, or the Goddeſs of Love and Beauty. That ſhe was ſav'd in the Ark is plainly intimated, becauſe (i) the Phænicians, as we are inform'd by (k) an Eye-Witneſs, painted her in the upper Part like a Woman, and the lower Part like a Fiſh; which could allude to nothing but her being preſerv'd in the Flood; and there was alſo in her Temple-Service at Hierapolis, a conſtant Commemoration of the Flood and its Drying up, as if ſhe was one of thoſe, who ſhar'd in that great Eſcape.

90. And now Ham, having divided the Country into ſeveral Nomi or Hundreds for the Benefit of Paſturage, and ſettl'd them in the Form of an Ariſtocratical Government, returns with her out of Egypt; and having paſs'd thro' the Country of his Son Cuſh, he ſettles on the eaſt Side of Jordan for a Time, in the Country call'd by the Greeks Peræa, but in more ancient Times Baſan, near the Land of Gilead. There he builds (m) two Cities, and calls the Name of the one Ham, in Memory of his own Name; and the other Aſhtaroth in Memory of hers, which was afterward call'd Aſhtaroth Carnaim, and (n) Carnaim for a particular Reaſon. Anno Mundi 1810.

91. Ham having thus ſettl'd the Children of Mizraim in Egypt, of Phut in Ethiopia, and of Canaan between Jordan and the Red Sea, and of Cuſh on the Borders of Arabia; and having built theſe two Cities, that ſo he might take Poſſeſſion alſo of the other Side of Jordan; he leaves ſome of the Poſterity of Canaan, who were call'd the Hivites, about Mount Hor, to ſettle there; and returns with his Son Mizraim, to the North of Canaan, and there he ſettles near the Sea ſhore at Berytus. The Reaſon, why he ſettled there, muſt be, that he might have an Opportunity to enlarge his Colonies by Sea, whenever he thought it convenient; and alſo might have a good Correſpondence, not only with the Settlements of Canaan and Cuſh, but alſo with thoſe in Babylon and Egypt, as lying at an equal Diſtance from both: And he kept his Son Mizraim with him, that he might have one at Hand to execute ſuch Orders as he thought moſt proper; and he choſe Mizraim rather than either of the other, becauſe he and his Wife Iſis were of the ſame ambitious and incroaching Temper with Ham and Aſtarte, as will appear from the Sequel of the Story. Neighbour, and take Poſſeſſion of ſuch Lands, which did of Right belong to him, begins to ſtir; and having before ſettl'd his Poſterity between the Tigris and Euphrates, where, as their Families increas'd, they were ſtraighten'd for want of Room, they ſoon extend themſelves weſtward, and accordingly Part of Japhet's Family, together with himſelf, did ſoon ſettle in Natolia or Aſia the leſs; being parted from the Poſterity of Ham, by the Mountains of Libanus, Antilibanus and Amanus. After this they ſettle themſelves in Lydia; then they people part of Phrygia; and afterward they enlarge their Dominions as far as the Helleſpont. At this Time the Country was inhabited but by few People, it being but about an hundred and ſixty Years after the Flood; and about the Time when (o) Serug, the fifth from Shem of his Race, was born. Sometimes the Poſterity of Japhet live peaceably with the Poſterity of Ham, and ſometimes they have Wars with each other; tho' theſe Wars were generally but of a ſhort Continuance, becauſe the grand and famous Scene of Action lay between the upper and the lower Egypt.

93. Here we may obſerve another Providence of GOD in the firſt Peopling of the World after the Flood. The Poſterity of Shem and Japhet, being born of good religious Parents, ſeem to have ſomething of their Temper, and accordingly liv'd peaceably and quietly with each other; and were therefore plac'd in ſuch Countries, where they might have the freer Acceſs to one another, having at moſt only the River Tigris between them. But the Poſterity of Ham being wicked, bloody minded, and ready on all Occaſions to incroach upon their Neighbours, were parted from them on the one Side by the great River Euphrates, and eſpecially when it is made much greater by the Acceſſion of the Tigris to it, on another Side by large and almoſt impaſſible Mountains, and on the other by the main Ocean; and they who affected an arbitrary Power, and to ſubdue their Neighbours, were torn to pieces by Wars among themſelves, that they could execute none of their Projects. And thus GOD reſtrain'd their Fury in the ſame Manner, as he alſo ſet bounds to the Sea, by ſaying, Hitherto ſhalt thou come and no further.

94. The Land of Canaan being a very plentiful Country, the Inhabitants thereof ſoon betook themſelves to Paſturage, and accordingly they were glad to receive any People among them, who had great Quantities of Flocks and Herds; becauſe the Land being but thinly peopl'd, they had not enough to conſume its Product. This made Abraham and Lot, and their Families find ſo eaſy an Admittance to live among them. Theſe Shepherds had no Houſes, but liv'd in Tents, which they could eaſily take down, and remove from Place to Place, as Occaſion did require, for the better Convenience of Paſturage. Hence it is, that we read ſo often of the Tents of (p) the Patriarchs, but never of their Houſes, and that (q) Abraham ſojourned in the land of promiſe as in a ſtrange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Iſaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the ſame promiſe. Theſe Shepherds leading ſuch a rambling Life, did not confine themſelves to any particular Place, nor indeed to their own Tribes, allotted to each of the Sons of Canaan by their Father or their Grandfather Ham, and ſo contracted a general Acquaintance with one another; and it is probable, that they mix'd one with another, and ſo ſeparated themſelves from their Kindred: And hearing that the Children of Mizraim had only taken Poſſeſſion of upper Egypt, and that the lower Egypt was uninhabited, they enter into a Confederacy to go thither and dwell there in one Body: And becauſe they could not call themſelves by any particular Name of one of the Sons of Canaan, therefore they call themſelves in general by the Name of Canaanites. And as it was uſual in thoſe Times to call Perſons and Places by ſuch Names as ſignify'd the general Occurrences of thoſe Days; ſo the eldeſt City, which Moſes (r) mentions ſouth of Jeruſalem in the Way to Egypt, is call'd Hebron, which being built about this Time, ſignifies an Aſſociation or Uniting into Societies, and is directly oppoſite to the Way of Living ſcatter'd in Tents, as the Nomades or Paſtors were.

95. In the mean Time the Caſluhim, or one of the Families of Mizraim, ſettled themſelves in that Part of Egypt, which lay between the Red and the Mediterranean Sea, upon the neareſt Branch of the Nile call'd the Oſtium Peluſiacum. The Greek Word πηλώσιον ſignifies dirty, and indeed it lay in a very wet Ground, being ſo near the Nile and the Mediterranean Sea; and therefore it was ſometimes call'd סין Sin, a Word of the ſame Signification, and ſometimes it was call'd Raamſes. It was alſo frequently call'd Abaris (from the Hebrew Verb עבר which ſignifies to paſs over) and may therefore be taken for a Paſs, or Paſſage, or a common Road. But why it was call'd Peluſium is not ſo eaſy to underſtand; only the common Notion that Peluſius and Paleſtinus are of the ſame Signification, makes it probable, that Peluſium was not of a Greek but Eaſtern Original, as Paleſtinus certainly is, and that they are both from the ſame eaſtern Root פלש Peles, the ſame Radicals being found in them both; ſo that the Greeks learn'd the Name of thoſe eaſtern People from the Eaſt, and did not give them a Greek Name, but only added two different Terminations to the ſame eaſtern Word, with a little Change of the Vowels, as it is common among them. Now this Word in Hebrew in the Conjugation Hithpahel, ſignifies a Beſmearing in Duſt and Aſhes, or a Rolling in the Dirt; from which the Greek Words πηλὸς and πηλόσσειν may be borrow'd; and which agrees well with the dirty fenny Situation of Peluſium at the Mouth of the Nile; but in the Chaldee and Syriack Languages it ſignifies publick, open, or a Paſſage; and in the Samaritan and Ethiopick, it ſignifies a Sojourning, or Removal from Place to Place. All which Notions agree very well with Peluſium as the great Paſſage, not only into Aſia by Land, but alſo into both Europe and Aſia by the Mouth of the Nile falling into the Mediterranean Sea. And all this not only agrees well with the other Names of Caphtor and Abaris already mention'd; but may teach us to obſerve the Time when the Town was built by the Caſſluhim, which was ſoon after their Travels were ended, and they were ſettl'd in this Country. However, the Town it ſelf was always eſteem'd as the great frontier Garriſon of the Kingdom or Egypt; and therefore was the grand Scene of Action in the Egyptian Wars; and when the Inhabitants remov'd from thence into other Countries by Treaty, they uſually call'd themſelves Philiſtines, from the Name of the Place. Another Name, by which this Town was alſo call'd, was Caphtor. Thus the Prophet Jeremiah ſaith, that (s) the Philiſtins, were the remnant of the country (or the Iſle) of Caphtor. And (t) the Prophet Amos ſaith of GOD, that he brought the Philiſtins from Caphtor. The Word (u) Caphtor ſignifies ſuch an artificial, large Pomegranate or Globe, as was anciently at the Top or Head of their noble Pillars in ſtately Buildings; and accordingly the Septuagint renders the Word, Σφαιρώτης. Such were the Heads of Jachin and Boaz, the great Pillars in Solomon's Temple. Now becauſe the Heads or Chapiters of Pillars were their chief and peculiar Ornament, and moſt noted by Spectators, the ſeveral Orders of them are commonly diſtinguiſh'd by their Heads, and they give Name and Eſteem to the whole Pillars, whether of the Dorick, Ionick, Corinthian or compoſite Order, and a violent Blow on the Chapiter of a Pillar (ſuch as from a battering Ram in old Times, or a great Cannon Bullet in later Days) threatens the Fall of the whole Pillar, and all the Building ſupported by it. And becauſe this well fortify'd Paſs into Egypt was of ſuch an Importance to the whole Kingdom; hence this Paſs was call'd Caphtor, to intimate it to be the ſtrong or nobly adorn'd Pillar at the Gate into the Kingdom, or (x) the Chapiter of ſuch a Pillar figuratively put for the Whole, and conſequently the Support of the Kingdom. And that this Notion is truly ancient, and agreeable to the Conceptions of the eaſtern People, is evident from (y) the Prophet Amos, where he ſaith, Strike the Caphtor or Chapiter, that the poſts may ſhake, the Conſequence of which Blow muſt be, that the πρόπυλα, all the Supporters of the Porch and Gates of the Temple may ſo ſhake, as to fall into Ruin. All which demonſtrate that ſuch Caphtors were great Marks of State and Honour, and conſequently that the Name imported ſomething remarkable to belong to that important Paſs, City or Country that bore it, and conſequently to the Caphtorims or Guardians of this honourable Place, which, we have no Reaſon to doubt, were choſen out of the ableſt and beſt diſciplin'd Men of the Family of Caſſluhim, who, when they were forc'd from thence by Treaty or otherwiſe, and went toward the Land of Canaan, call'd themſelves Philiſtims, and the Country Paleſtina, which they inhabited, from the Name Peluſium; ſo when they went toward Arabia, they call'd themſelves Caphtorim from the Name Caphtor. And hence it is, that Moſes tells us, that (z) out of the Family of Miſraim, call'd Caſſluhim, came the Philiſtim and Caphtorim.

96. Theſe Phænician or Canaanitiſh Paſtors, having thus enter'd into a Confederacy, joyn themſelves to as many others as they could pick up for this Purpoſe, eſpecially with ſuch as dwelt in the ſouth Part of the Land of Canaan, who were partly Avites or Hivites, and partly Jebuſites; being alſo joyn'd with ſome of the Horites, and others of the neighbouring Parts of Arabia, who are ſaid (a) to dwell in Hazerim or ſmall Villages, reſolve to go into Egypt, and ſettle there. And the Caſſluhim, knowing that there was waſte Ground ſufficient for them, let them enter peaceably without the leaſt Diſturbance; and as the Country, from whence many came out of Canaan, was (b) call'd Goſhen, ſo they who came from thence call'd the Country, which they poſſeſs'd, (c) the Land of Goſhen. And others alſo ſettl'd in other Parts adjoyning to the Mediterranean Sea. At their firſt coming thither, they live peaceably for ſome Time with thoſe of upper Egypt, and call themſelves by the general Name of Canaanites. Anno Mundi 1830.

they begin to ſettle themſelves in this Country, and leave off their wandring Life; and therefore they build a City, which they call Zoan, which Word is obſerv'd by (d) Dr. Caſtle, to ſignify a Removal from one Place to another, and ſeems to intimate, that theſe Shepherds about ſeven Years after their firſt Confederacy, when Hebron was built, did (as (e) Moſes aſſures us) build the City of Zoan, which ſtood about the Entrance of Egypt, near that Oſtium of the Nile call'd Taaniticum, taking its Name from Tanis, which is the Greek Name or Pronunciation of Zoan, moſt known in the Septuagint. Diodorus Siculus calls it (f) Thonis, and ſaith, that it was the ancient Mart of Egypt. And Bochartus in the Additions to his laſt Edition, proves it to have been the Metropolis or royal Seat of the Kings of Lower Egypt in the eldeſt Times.

98. Having thus fix'd themſelves in a different Way of Living from what they had been formerly us'd to, they aſſume a greater Dignity, and call themſelves Hyc-ſi, which in the Egyptian Language ſignify'd Kingly or Royal Shepherds. They alſo divide themſelves into thirty ſix Nomi or Paſturages, and having obſerv'd that Upper Egypt was govern'd by an Ariſtocracy at that Time, they form themſelves into the ſame Manner of Government, and chooſe two out of each of the Nomi, or ſeventy two in all, who were to manage the whole Affairs of the Kingdom, and were call'd Typho by thoſe of Upper Egypt.

99. The Reaſon, why they were call'd by this Name, was, becauſe they choſe one Typho to be the General of their Army in the firſt Egyptian Wars. Who he was, is uncertain. Sanchoniatho mentions one of this Name of the Line of Japhet, who might probably be alive at this Time, and is ſuppos'd to be the Man; but the Myſtery is, how he came to be joyn'd with the Children of Ham. However, he was the Enemy and Deſtroyer of the Race of Mizraim, and is ſuppos'd to have came thither by Sea from the Country of Japhet, who inhabited the Iſles and the Shores. Accordingly he is repreſented (g) in their myſtical Theology, both vulgarly and among the wiſer Prieſts of Egypt, to import the Sea that ſwallow'd up their Nile, and therefore they abhor it, and its Fiſh and Salt, as the Foam of Typhon raging, and they had ſuch an Averſion to Seamen, that they would hardly ſpeak to them. In the Fable in Plutarch, he is repreſented as the Brother to Mizraim; but in the Hiſtory of Sanchoniatho, as his Couſin-german. This may be eaſily reconcil'd, becauſe Brother's Children in the caſtern and larger Senſe of the Word, are call'd Brethren. He might come out of Japhet's Country on the north Side of Amanus by Shipping over Sea, which the Egyptians call'd Typhon. Porphyry tells us, that (i) the Egyptians repreſent him by an Hippopotamus, or a River Horſe; and Manetho ſaith, that Mizraim was kill'd by ſuch an one. Plutarch ſaith, (k) that Typho conſpir'd againſt Mizraim with ſeventy two Aſſociates or Aſſiſtants ſworn to adhere to him. He is conſtantly repreſented as a Man of red Hair, and therefore the Egyptians call all red Men Typhos; and it was a Cuſtom among them in the ancient Times to ſacrifice ſuch, as the Enemies of Mizraim, at his Grave, which was call'd Buſiris. And the Word Typhon in all their later myſtical Stories, repreſented the whole Canaanitiſh Power; not only before they had ſet up Salatis to be their King, but alſo during his Reign, and the Reign of the five Kings, which ſucceeded him. And therefore not only he who murder'd Mizraim, is call'd Typhon, but alſo the City of Peluſium, which Salatis fortify'd, was call'd Urbs Typhonia, as Joſephus tells us, becauſe it was inhabited by ſuch gigantick Men, who fought againſt their Gods. Near to it on one Side is Hero, which Stephanus de Urbibus, interprets to ſignify the Blood of Typho, who was there wounded; and near to it on the other Side toward Canaan, is the Lake Sirbonis, where, Herodotus ſaith, it is reported, that Typhon is hid or bury'd; all which ſignifies no more, than that the whole Canaanitiſh Power was broken to pieces, when they were forc'd by Treaty to remove from Peluſium to go into the Land of Canaan, which Plutarch deſcribes by Typhon's riding upon an Aſs, after he was expell'd from thence, to found Jeruſalem. The Greek Poets repreſented him (l) as a wild Boar, which kill'd Adonis the beloved of Venus, or Mizraim the Husband of Iſis: And others repreſented him as a Bear, becauſe the Stars call'd the greater Bear, appear'd to the Inhabitants of upper Egypt, ſometimes over the Land of Canaan, and ſometimes over lower Egypt, as if they were their Superintendent.

100. Whilſt theſe Things were tranſacted in Egypt, the Poſterity of Japhet were ſtill pent up in a narrow Compaſs, being chiefly confin'd within the Bounds of Aſia the leſs, having the Mediterranean Sea on the South, the Egæan on the Weſt, and the Euxine on the North; and the Poſterity of Shem and Ham lying cloſe upon them in the Eaſt. This Neceſſity obliges them to enter into Europe; and accordingly Gomer, with his Family, particularly Aſhkenaz, being ſeated near the Straights of the Helleſpont, where they could ſee a main Continent on the other Side, did moſt probably come over firſt into thoſe Parts; and well knowing, that the Reſt of the Sons of Japhet were planted to the Southward, and would probably paſs over to the ſouthern Parts of Europe, reſolve not to be ſo ſtraighten'd any more, and therefore they go round to the North of the Euxine Sea, and (as Herodotus tells us) they ſent a Colony to the Mæotick Lake in thoſe Parts, and gave the Name of Boſphorus Cimmerius, from the Name Gomer, to the Straights, which run from thence to the Egæan Sea. Beſides, they extended themſelves along the Danube, which lay in their Way, and following its Courſe, ſoon came to the eaſtern Parts of Germany, which Word is alſo deriv'd from Gomer by an eaſy Tranſpoſition of Conſonants; and therefore the Jews call the Germans the People of Aſhkenaz.

101. Next to Gomer, on the ſouth Side of the Egæan Sea, lay Tiras, who ſent over their Colonies to the oppoſite Shore, viz. from Troy and the Parts adjacent, to Thrace, where there is a conſiderable River, which intirely preſerves the Memory of the Father of that Nation, being call'd Tiras, by both Greek and Latin Authors; and there was alſo a City ſtanding upon it of the ſame Name. The Inhabitants of theſe Parts are alſo call'd Tyritæ, until they mix'd themſelves with ſome of the Poſterity of the Getæ or the Sons of Chittim, and ſo were call'd Tyragetæ.

102. Next to Tiras, on the ſouth Side of the Egæan Sea, lay Madai, who alſo ſent their Colonies by Sea into the oppoſite Parts of Greece, which was call'd Macedonia, whoſe ancient Name (m) was Æmathia. If any Man queſtion (ſaith (n) Mr. Mede) how Æ came into the Word, I would ask how Eu came into Euphrates, which the Hebrews and thoſe of Meſopotamia call Perath; or how Æ came into Ægyptus, which the Egyptians themſelves, and their Neighbours the Arabians, call Cuphti. It is poſſible (as he adds) that from the Hebrew Word אי, ſignifying a Country, the Greeks form'd their Word αἶα, Aia, of the ſame Signification, and ſo Aimadai or Aimathia is the ſame with Αἶα Μαδαι, the Land of Madai; and by turning the Greek Vowel into the Latin Æ, than which nothing is more uſual, it was call'd Æmathia. Mr. Mede farther adds, that we read of a People in this Tract call'd Medi, or Mædi. Others tell us of the Medick Region in the Borders of Pæonia, and near to this was the Præfectura Medica, which we hear of in the Roman Hiſtories. And Iſocrates in one of his Orations, names one Medus as King of thoſe Quarters, before they came to be a Greek Nation. So that we may ſuppoſe, that the uſual Name of this Country, or Macedonia, was Madai; and the Inhabitants, who were call'd in Greek Μακέται, Macetæ, had a Name compounded from Madai and Cittim, whoſe Sons were in Time mix'd together in thoſe Parts.

103. Next to Madai on the ſouth Side, lay Javan and his four Sons, whom Moſes reckons up. They had the Mediterranean Sea to the South of them, and therefore might extend their Colonies by Shipping; and as they lay in Aſia, neareſt to Canaan of any of the Sons of Japhet, which were in Aſia the leſs; ſo they peopl'd the ſouthern Parts of Greece, which lay neareſt to the ſame Country; and the Jews trading to theſe Coaſts, and being beſt acquainted with them, call'd all Greece, in their Language, the Country of Javan.

104. The Family of Eliſha lying on the weſtern Coaſt of leſſer Aſia, poſſeſs'd themſelves of moſt or all the conſiderable Iſles, which lay in the Egæan Sea between Europe and Aſia; firſt beginning with thoſe which were in ſight of the main Land, and then proceeding to others, which were in Sight of thoſe, which (o) accordingly are call'd by the Prophet the iſles of Eliſha. And what he ſaith concerning the blue and purple brought from thence, is applicable to theſe Iſlands, ſince they abounded in this Commodity, and are taken Notice of as ſuch by ſeveral Authors. And as the Iſles of the Sea were originally known by this Name; ſo it is probable, that the Sea it ſelf was call'd the Sea of Eliſhah. And tho' it wore away in other Places, yet it ſeems to have been always preſerv'd in that Part, which to this Day is frequently call'd the Helleſpont, that is, Eliſæ pontus or the Sea of Eliſha. Their Numbers which they ſent over were ſo great, that the Grecians in general were call'd Hellenes, and their Country Hellas. His Poſterity founded the City and Province of Elis in the Peloponneſus, the City of Eleuſis in Attica, and the River Eliſſus or Iliſſus in the ſame Province; and we need not doubt, but the Eliſian Fields, ſo much celebrated among the Greeks, took their Name from him.

105. The next Son of Javan, mention'd by Moſes, is Tarſhiſh. As he lay on the weſtern Part of the Mediterranean Sea, ſo he was the remoteſt from Greece of any of his Brethren, and had better Opportunities to plant himſelf in Aſia. For theſe Reaſons he ſet out the later to people Europe. As therefore they were oblig'd to make longer Voyages, and to adventure farther into the open Sea, than others did in thoſe Days; ſo they had Ships built for this Purpoſe of a different Make, both as to Size and Shape, from the Veſſels commonly us'd by others. And hence it is probable, that all Veſſels built for longer Voyages and greater Burdens, were call'd Ships of Tarſhiſh; becauſe they were built like the Ships of Tarſhiſh, properly ſo call'd. Theſe coming to Greece, finding it peopl'd by others ſprung from Japhet, and having Ships ſo fit for Sailing, proceed farther into Italy, where they were anciently call'd Etruſci and Tuſci. And as it is uſual to add an initial E to ſeveral Derivatives, which did not belong to their Primitives; ſo the Word might originally be writt'n Thrushshi or Trussi, retaining all the radical Consonants of the Word Tarshish, and from thence be turn'd into Trusci and Etrusci, and thence into Tusci. Add to this, that these People were also call'd Tyrrheni or Tyrseni, which hath a very great Affinity with Tarseni, and might well be deriv'd from the original Word Tarsus or Tarshish.

106. The next Son of Javan, mention'd by Moses, is Cittim, who lay next to his Brother Tarshish, on the western Part of the Mediterranean Sea; and therefore being at a greater Distance from Greece than the other two, it was the later before he peopl'd any Part of the Country; so that finding the southern Parts inhabited by the Posterity of Elisha, and others by those of Dodanim, and lying open to the Sea only upon the South, and having planted their first Colony in the neighbouring Isle of Cyprus, (where they built the City of Citium) they coasted along the southern and western Shores of Greece, 'til they came to the upper or northern Part of it; which not being yet inhabited, some of them planted themselves there, whilst others espying the Coast of Italy, settl'd themselves in that Country. And this is the Reason, that the Macedonians in Greece, being partly inhabited by this People, and Italy also, are mention'd in Scripture by the Name of Cittim. That this Part of Greece is call'd by this Name is evident from the Author of the Books of the Maccabees, who saith, (p) that Alexander the Son of Philip the Macedonian came out of the land of Chettim, and (q) calls Perseus the King of Macedonia, King of the Chettims. And that Italy is call'd by the same Name is evident from the Prophet (r) Daniel, where he propheſy'd, how the Ships of Chittim, or the Roman Fleet, should come against Antiochus, and oblige him to desist from his Design against Egypt. And that these Countries, especially Italy, were call'd by this Name in the Time of Moses, is evident from (s) the Prophecy of Balaam. And ships shall come from the coast of Chittim, and shall afflict Ashur, and shall afflict Eber, which was literally true both in Respect of the Grecian and Roman Empires, but never so plainly fulfill'd by any other Kingdom. Besides, there are several Footsteps of the Name Cittim to be found in Italy among ancient Writers. As a City in Latium call'd Cetia, and another City among the Volsci call'd Echetia, and a River near Cumæ call'd Cetus. And there are (t) several Authors, who expressly affirm, that the Romans have had their Extraction from the Citii or Cetii. And it is also observable, that the Verb נכתם Nictam in Hebrew signifies (u) to be cover'd over, and the Word كتيم Chetim in Arabick, signifies a thing hidden: And therefore as the Greeks translated the Word Gomer, by Phrygia, a Word in their Language of the same Signification; so the Latins might call their Country by the Name of Latium, as being at first only a Translation of the old eastern Name Chittim.

107. The last Son of Javan mention'd by Moses, is Dodanim, or Rodanim, as he is sometimes call'd, who lying near to his Brother Elisha, might people part of Greece sooner than the other two; and being press'd by them on the other Side, was the sooner straighten'd for want of Room, and therefore peopl'd the Island of Rhodes, which lay over against them: But this being a small Island, they were soon oblig'd to go farther, and finding the south Part of Greece possess'd by the Families of Elisha, who lay over-against it, they went round the south Part, and sailing northward, they settl'd in the nearest Tract of Land adjoyning to it; leaving the farthest Part to be inhabited by the Posterity of Cittim, who came after them. There was the Grove of Dodona, and the famous Oracle of Jupiter Dodonæus. Here we find in ancient Writers a Country call'd Doris, which may not improperly be deriv'd from Dodanim; especially if the Word is of the plural Number, as the Termination seems to imply, and so the Singular was Dodan. And as before they alter'd the first D into R, and call'd the Island Rhodes from Rhodan; so in this Case they might alter the second Letter in the same Manner, and frame from thence the Name Dorus, whom they expressly affirm to have been the Father of the Dorians. It is certain from the Greek Writers themselves, that the Dores or Dorians were a considerable Body of the Greeks, insomuch that the Dorick Camp is mention'd by Virgil, to signify the whole Grecian Camp. The Dorick Dialect is us'd in their Pastorals, as the most common among the Shepherds; and even in the Chorus of the Tragedies perform'd at Athens, as chiefly spok'n by the country People. It is certain, that the whole western Part of Greece was peopl'd by the Posterity of Javan; and therefore that, which we now call the Adriatick Sea, was anciently call'd the Ionian Gulf, and the more southern Parts were call'd the Ionian Sea. And thus these People distinguish'd themselves from the other Families, by assuming to themselves the Name of the Father of their Family, as the others did. That this was the Extraction of the Dorians, and the Reason of their Name, may farther appear, from what the Greeks themselves say of Dorus, the Father of the Dorians, viz. that he was the Son of Neptune. For as among the three Sons of Noah, Shem is suppos'd to be Pluto, and Ham to be Jupiter; so Japhet might be signify'd not only by Japetus, but also by Neptune, and be esteem'd by them the God of the Sea, because his Poſterity generally went off from Aſia by Sea, and inhabited the Countries call'd by them the Iſles of the Sea. Thus what they ſay of the Dorians being deſcended from Dorus the Son of Neptune, is very applicable to the Dodanim, deſcended from Dodan the Grandſon, or, according to the uſual Way of ſpeaking among the Hebrews, the Son of Japhet. Thus alſo the Tracts aſſign'd to the Sons of Japhet in Europe, do very well agree with thoſe in Aſia. For firſt, as it is natural to ſuppoſe, that the Colonies of each remov'd into thoſe Parts, which lay neareſt to them, as yet unpoſſeſs'd, that is, directly weſtward, for all the other three Sides were inhabited: And ſecondly, as they who lay neareſt Europe, would in all Probability firſt come over: And thirdly, as they who came over laſt, finding the neareſt Countries inhabited, would take to the neareſt which then lay void; ſo theſe reaſonable Suppoſitions do fix them all in the Countries allotted to them: And this is farther confirm'd by the Likeneſs of Names, which they had to their Anceſtors, and to each other in theſe reſpective Countries. If their Father Japhet came over with his Poſterity into Greece, and peopl'd thoſe Parts, which was, like a new World, divided from the reſt by ſo great a Sea, it might well give Occaſion to the Story ſo famous among them, That Japetus the Son of Prometheus or Noah, made Images of Clay, and ſtole Fire from Heaven, whereby he put Life into them; and ſo the World (according to their Notion) increas'd much faſter in thoſe early Times, than it did in later Ages. But that Greece was inhabited within a few Centuries after the Flood, will appear from the Name Πέλαγος Pelagus, which they gave to the Sea, and the Name Pelaſgi, by which the moſt ancient Inhabitants were firſt call'd. Theſe two Words are deriv'd from the Hebrew Word פלג, which ſignifies a Diviſion; and was the Name of the great Grandſon of Arphaxad, who was born in the hundred and firſt Year after the Flood, and was ſo call'd, becauſe at that Time Noah commanded his three Sons to divide themſelves into the reſpective Countries allotted for them. Thus they call'd the Sea Pelagus, becauſe it was the great Divider of ſeveral Countries from each other, particularly Europe, where they liv'd, from both Aſia and Africa. Thus they call'd themſelves Pelaſgi (by inſerting the Letter S, which was uſually done in the moſt ancient Times) becauſe they were thus divided from the reſt of the World, and were ſome of the earlieſt Diſperſers of themſelves; and dividing Lands to one another as the firſt Poſſeſſors, and the firſt or ſecond Planters after the general Diſperſion. They were alſo diſtinguiſh'd by this Name from the Hyperborei, who were ſo call'd, becauſe they came out of the northern Parts by the Land, which lies North of the Euxine Sea, and thence into Thrace, or over the Boſphorus, and ſo by Land into Greece. And they were alſo diſtinguiſh'd by this Name from all, who pretended to be the Αὐτόχθονες, either pretending to be ſprung out of the Earth, or becauſe their Anceſtors had beyond all Memory of Men or Records, pretended to have been born in Greece; and alſo to diſtinguiſh themſelves from thoſe Societies of Men, who took their Names from their Commanders, as the Danai, and the Heraclidæ did in after Ages. And as they were thus call'd from Peleg; ſo they call'd themſelves ſo, not only becauſe he was then alive, but becauſe the Diſperſion at his Birth was ſtill freſh in their Memory.

108. Thus the Inhabitants of Aſia the leſs, or the Sons of Japhet, being preſs'd by a happy Neceſſity, ſeat themſelves in the moſt noble and plentiful Country of Europe, which being known to Ham and his Poſterity, they alſo reſolve to take Poſſeſſion of whatever Parts of the Country were left moſt expos'd on theſe Occaſions; and alſo of what other Places they could find uninhabited. This they did, not out of any Neceſſity, (for a great Part of Aſia was allotted to them, and they had all Africa before them without the Trouble of going to Sea) but out of an Ambition of Enlarging their Dominions, Incroaching upon their Neighbours, and Eſtabliſhing an univerſal and an arbitrary Power to themſelves. Accordingly Ham goes by Force of Arms into the Country of Japhet, and ſettles a Colony there, being the Poſterity of Lud by his Son Mizraim, a great Part of them being already ſettled in Aſia near to Ethiopia. From his Name the new Conqueſt was call'd Lydia. Here Ham governs for ſome Time, and then he makes his Son Mizraim King over theſe Ludims or Lydians, becauſe (x) they were all his Iſſue, and conſequently would be more ſubject to him, being the nearer Relation of the two. And as Mizraim was often call'd Menes or Mæon; ſo the Country was call'd from him Mæonia. The Poſterity of Japhet reſent their Proceeding, as contrary to all Juſtice and Equity, and a Regulation of the Countries made by their common Father Noah, and prepare to repel Force by Force. This was probably the Reaſon, that when Mizraim was afterward King of upper Egypt, Typho, their moſt famous Warrior, was ſent from thoſe Countries to joyn the Paſtors of lower Egypt, and revenge themſelves upon him for his former Injuſtice; ſo that he might neither have Leaſure nor Power to oppreſs them at another Time. Ham being afraid to loſe what he had thus got, has recourſe to Politicks inſtead of Arms; and as an Equivalent, he quietly permits ſome of Japhet's Poſterity to ſettle at Berytus, a ſea-port Town adjoyning to the Mediterranean Sea, and lying on the Borders of both Coun-

109. They had not been long here, before a new Set of Men were eſtabliſh'd, whom they call'd Cabiri, and ſometimes Dioſcuri, or Corybantes or Samothraces: They were certain. Prieſts appointed to take Care of the Affairs of Religion. That they were very ancient is moſt certain, but by whom they were firſt ſet up, or when, or with what View, is very difficult even to conjecture. It ſeems to be a pious Cheat of Ham, deſign'd thereby to give Laws to all other People in Matters of Religion, and ſo to ſubject them to his Power and Authority in Points of Conſcience; and then when Ham was willing to be obey'd, they might give out, that there was an Oracle for it, and ſo end all Diſputes. Sanchoniatho, to give them the greater Honour, ſaith, that they were the Poſterity of Sydyc, or Melchiſedek, who is ſuppos'd to be Shem; but the Difficulty is, how they all left their Father to come thither. He tells us, that there were ſeven of his Sons, and that their eighth Brother Æſculapius was he, who firſt of all ſet down in Memoirs, thoſe things which their God Thoth (the Grandſon of Ham) had commanded them. Their Name كبير in Arabick plainly ſignifies Perſons eminently great, either as to Nobility, Honour or Office; which plainly ſhews the Reſpect that they had, or which was intended that they ſhould have. We are alſo told, that Jupiter the elder, and Dionyſius the younger, or Mizraim, was among them, and alſo Ceres or Iſis, Proſerpina and Pluto; and as Thoth the Grandſon of Ham was their Preſident, ſo we may conclude, that they were under the Direction of the Grandfather, and therefore we can expect no Good from ſuch a Body. It is certain, that they did not worſhip the one true GOD, the Creator of Heaven and Earth, and the firſt Cauſe of all things, but had many Gods of their own Invention. They endeavour'd to conceal the Manner of their Religion from the common People, as very myſterious and above their Capacity; and when it was ſpread into Lemnos and Samothracia, and other Parts of Greece and the adjacent Places, who worſhipp'd the ſame Gods, it was found to be little elſe but an enthuſiaſtick Madneſs, dancing in Armour, making a Noiſe with Weapons, Pans and Drums, and terrifying one another with horrid Sounds. Herodotus (y) ſpeaking of their Worſhip, as us'd afterward among the Pelaſgi, ſaith, that when they pray'd to their Gods, they ſacrific'd every thing, that is, without any Difference, ſenſible or lifeleſs, Men or Beaſts, and either thoſe, which were reckon'd clean or unclean, without Diſtinction. And they had neither Name nor Sirname for their Gods, ſo that they worſhipp'd in the ſtricteſt Senſe, they knew not what, until the Names of their Gods were brought them out of Egypt; and afterward when they had conſulted the Oracle of Dodona, whether they might uſe them or not, they were anſwer'd, that they might uſe them.

Anno Mundi 1835.

110. About this Time one Zabion endeavours very zealouſly to make an Improvement upon, or rather a greater Corruption of the Religion in the eaſtern Countries. It is probable, that he liv'd in Babylon, the Fountain of falſe Worſhip, or in the eaſtern Parts of Chaldea; and therefore the Word in Arabick, from whence the Name is deriv'd, صبا or صبو ſignifies ſomething eaſtward, and particularly a Wind, which blows from the Sun riſing, eſpecially when near the Equinoctial, which Derivation the learned Spencer approves of: And this Word might be more commonly us'd in Phænicia, to ſignify one coming from the Eaſt, as they muſt do ſince the Flood and Diſperſion from Babylon a little before this Time. The Word alſo ſignifies one who changes his Religion, and particularly apoſtatiz'd from the Truth. And the famous Commentator on the Alcoran ſaith, That the Zabii, or Sect nam'd from this Founder, were ſo call'd, becauſe they went away from the true Worſhippers, and turn'd aſide from GOD to Idols, and from Truth to a Lie. The Religion eſtabliſh'd by him was very ancient, and (b) generally referr'd to the Time of Serug, the great Grandfather of Abraham: It ſpread it ſelf far and near, it was the Religion, in (c) which Abraham was educated, when he liv'd in Chaldæa, as the Religion of that Country, and (d) a learned Author of our own writes one of his three learned Books to prove, that the great Deſign of GOD in moſt of the Rites, which he gave to the Jews, was to prevent this Infection from entering in among them. His chief Deſign ſeems to be the Invention of Images, of the Sun, Moon and Stars, whereby to worſhip them; and the Conſecration of them, by uſing many Incantations to amuſe the vulgar People, and make them believe, that thereby they did draw down thoſe Intelligences, which were before ſuppos'd to live in the Stars, now to dwell in thoſe Images, for whom they erected them, eſpecially by their Power and Influence. And from hence (e) the whole Foolery of Teleſms, which hath made ſo great a Noiſe in the World, had its Original. Hence it is, that the Arabians write ſo much of the Progreſs of Idolatry in the Times of Peleg, Reu, Serug and Nahor, as well as in the ſucceeding Generations. And hence aroſe all the Oppoſition, which they met with from the Magi, another Sect, who afterward had their Original in the ſame eaſtern Countries, who abominated all Images, and worſhipp'd GOD only by Fire, which was preſerv'd in Temples erected for that Purpoſe.

111. The Modellers of this new Religion at Berytus, had not been long ſet up, before they came acquainted with ſome of theſe Zabii at Babylon; and therefore it is probable, that they ſent thither for one to inſtruct them in their Rites, that ſo they might lick the new born Monſter into a better Shape. Accordingly we are inform'd, (f) that Mizraim was not the firſt Inventor of this Religion, but was taught it by an Innovator in Canaan, and receiv'd all his allegorical Repreſentations from one, who is deſcrib'd by theſe Circumſtances. Firſt, He was the Son of Thabion, and therefore call'd Thabionides; as the famous Author among the Jews was the Son of Maimon, and therefore call'd Maimonides. This Thabion I ſuppoſe to be Zabion, the famous Author of this Sect, who is ſo call'd by a common Turn of the צ or z, into ט t, as uſual in the Chaldean Language; and alſo, by the Change of the Greek τ or t into θ or th, which is alſo as common becauſe the θ or th hath the ſame or ninth Place in the Greek Alphabet from Cadmus, as the ט or t hath in Hebrew. Beſides, I ſuppoſe him not to be the natural Son of Thabion, but take the Word in a larger Senſe, for one brought up in that Religion, of which the other was ſo great a Promoter, in the ſame Senſe, as (g) Oneſimus is ſaid to be the Son of St. Paul. Secondly, He was the firſt Hierophant of the Phœnicians from the Beginning, or the eldeſt Declarer or Appointer of their ſacred Rites. Thirdly, He allegoriz'd the hiſtorical Matters before-mention'd, (h) mingling them with the Occurrences, and Paſſions of Nature and of the World. That is, with ſuch Parts of Aſtronomy and natural Philoſophy, as related to the different Riſings and Settings of the Stars and Planets, and eſpecially the Sun and Moon, the burying of Grain by ſowing it, and its Reſurrection by ſpringing out and growing, until it is prepar'd for the Harveſt; with the Changes made in Heaven and Earth, by the Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter, and all the Accidents and Changes which happen to human Life: All which things Plutarch acknowledges to be repreſented in the Sacra Iſiaca, or the Egyptian Rites, and Cicero owns to be in the Eleuſinia Sacra, or the oldeſt Myſteries of the Greeks, beſide the Paſſions and other Concerns of Dæmons; which Plutarch joyns with the other, and earneſtly contends for that Notion, that their Religion might look farther than human Objects. Fourthly, He deliver'd his Notions and Inſtructions to others, who are call'd ὀργιῶντες and προφῆται, Men in a Rage, and Prophets, both lower Sorts of Officers in the Pagan Religion, who increas'd the Innovations; which they might eaſily do, becauſe theſe Things were committed to them as Myſteries or Secrets; and therefore the Word (i) Orgia is ſuppos'd to be deriv'd from the Chaldean Word אורגיא; which, according to its Derivation, muſt ſignify ſecret Myſteries. And laſtly, He brought in the worſhipping of the Stars by Images, which was an Idolatry afterward practis'd in the Land of Canaan, and gave Riſe to the adoring the Images of their deceas'd Kings in lower Egypt, tho' the upper Egypt being ſettled before, and having leſs Correſpondence with Canaan than the other, did not come ſo ſoon into this groſs Way of Worſhip, notwithſtanding all the Endeavours of Mizraim their firſt King, who brought in all the other Parts thereof among them.

112. Thus we ſee, how early this Myſtery of Iniquity began, and theſe cheating Ways of darkning their Religion by Allegories and Repreſentations, and repreſenting it as a Secret not fit to be reveal'd. The Devil knew that there was no native Beauty or Worth in it, which might attract the Beholders; and was therefore willing to conceal it from the Vulgar, that they might admire they knew not what; and well knowing, that if they underſtood it, they would reject it.

113. As Berytus was a Town conſiſting of mixt Inhabitants, partly from Ham and partly from Japhet, who held a Correſpondence with the reſt of their Brethren; ſo the Religion there begun was ſoon propagated among the Poſterity of Ham in Canaan and Egypt, and among thoſe of Japhet in Greece, particularly in (k) Macedonia, Attica and Bæotia. This might be done by Mizraim and his Wife Iſis, who was with him in all his Progreſs in Greece to ſettle Plantations there, and afterward when he was King of Egypt. And therefore (l) a celebrated Greek Author tells us, that Prometheus the Son of Japetus, and Ætnæus the Son of Prometheus were the firſt who ſettled the famous Heathen Myſteries of the Cabiri in Bæotia; and that they receiv'd the ſacred Depoſitum or Truſt of theſe Myſteries from Ceres or Iſis, as he thought he might tell us, tho' he durſt not make known, what thoſe Myſteries were.

114. Theſe Cabiri having gott'n themſelves into the Eſteem of the common People, as the Settlers of their Religion, and as well skill'd in all the Secrets thereof; thought, that nothing could be of greater Service for them in Keeping and Increaſing the Eſteem, which they had got, than applying themſelves to ſuch Arts and Studies, which might be moſt uſeful in the Affairs of human Life. First, they build Ships, and improve the Art of Navigation, that so they might enlarge their Commerce, aud plant new Colonies, as Occasion did require. After this they apply themselves to the Cure of human Diseases, as a most grateful Study to Mankind. At this Time Thut or Apollo (who is call'd Pythius) the Inventor of Physick, is among them, with his Son Æsculapius, who brought Physick to a greater Perfection. But the principal Thing worthy of our Enquiry is the Care which they took for the Advancement of Learning, under the Direction and Management of Thoth, who was their President. He was in Reality a Philosopher of the greatest Size, that those early Times afforded without the Pale of the true Church; which was so unusual a Character among the Egyptian Princes, that he stands as a single Instance for many Ages. He was call'd Hermes from the Hebrew Word ערום, which signifies the subtle or cunning, and sometimes the prudent, and sometimes Hermes trismegistus, most exceeding great and famous. He was call'd Orus after his Consecration, from the Word אור Or, or Light, with Respect to that great Light of Wisdom, which they esteem'd to have been in him, and communicated from him. He was also call'd Anubis, and Hermanubis, and his Statues were made with a Dog's Head, the Symbol of his Sagacity, intimating him to be like a quick scented Hound. The Original (m) of the Name Anubis, is without Doubt from נבח Nabah, which in the eastern Languages do signifie to bark as Dogs do, when they challenge the Scent of that which they follow. And as he was a Man eminently learned, so he was a great Restorer and Encourager of Learning in others. His Father Mizraim began to invent Letters, and for this Reason is said to have invented three; and he brought them to Perfection by adding all the rest, which, in all Probability, were the Samaritan Characters. And that they might be apply'd to a good Use, he gives an Account to the Cabiri or Priests at Berytus, of all the Transactions since the Creation of the World, as he had them from his Father Ham and his Grandfather Noah; which he order'd to be writt'n and kept in the Records of that Town, and from thence Sanchoniatho transcrib'd his History. Thus he laid a Foundation, and gave an Example for future Ages to continue; that so there might be a complete History of all Transactions handed down to successive Generations. And it is probable, that he never intended them to be publick, but only wrote them for his own Use, and the Benefit of his Kinsmen the Cabiri, which they might only communicate to such, as were judg'd worthy of those Secrets, whilst he permitted his Father's allegorical Stories, mix'd with History and Fable, to be represented in the open Solemnities of that Religion which he had establish'd. And it is very probable that other Towns imitated their Examples. Hence we have the Town of Sippora or Books, near Babylon, and a (n) City in the Land of Canaan is sometimes call'd Kirjath Sepher or the City of Books or Records; and sometimes Kirjath Sannah from the Arabick ﺳﻨﻪ the City of Learning, the Law or Traditions; and also by the Chaldee, Kirjath Arche, the City of Records; and by the Greek, πόλις γραμμάτων the City of Letters. And (o) that these Cabiri might the better attend on the Affairs of Religion and Learning, they are said to have receiv'd Tythes from the Inhabitants.

115. About this Time, Pontus, who is suppos'd to be one of the Sons of Japhet, adventuring too far into the Sea in a Ship, was drown'd; upon which the Cabiri, falling from one Error into another, consecrate his Relicks; and in commemoration thereof, they cause the Sea to be call'd Πόντος by his Name, among the Posterity of Japhet. From these came the Corybantes, who first inhabited the Mount of Ida in Phrygia, and are there said to nurse up Jupiter; and they were also call'd Dioscuri Διόσκυροι, The Sons of Jupiter. By all which Expressions we may easily conjecture, they soon fell into the grossest Part of Idolatry, and worshipp'd Ham or Jupiter; and soon after that, Pontus, and without Doubt his Father Neptune, or Japhet the Brother of Ham.

116. About the same Time, some of the Cabiri having built some Ships of War, and also other Ships of Burden, sail with them into the Mediterranean Sea; but being overagainst Mount Cassius, they are cast away, and coming to Shore, they consecrate a Temple there, in which there were no Images, that Mystery of Iniquity being not as yet grown to so great a Perfection, as to be universally receiv'd. Anno Mundi 1837.

117. The Cabiri being thus settl'd, and having so great an Authority among the People, that they might be able to keep them in Subjection; and Ham observing with what Success his Brother Japhet had peopl'd Greece, and having Ships at command, sufficient for such a Design, he resolves to try his own Fortune this Way, and to be beforehand in seizing for himself such Parts of the World, as were allotted by Noah to his Brother Japhet, and did in all Justice and Equity belong to him. Accordingly Ham, with his Wife Astarte, and his Son Mizraim, and his Wife Isis, pass over the Hellespont into Europe, where they leave one of the Sons of Mizraim to be King of Macedonia, the Country of Greece being so thinly peopled at that Time, Anno Mundi 1840.

that they made no Scruple of letting them have a quiet Poſſeſſion.

118. Ham being encourag'd with this Succeſs, goes farther into Greece, where he gives Attica to his Daughter Athena. But this Part of the Country being better peopl'd than the other, becauſe it lay nearer to the firſt Settlements of the Poſterity of Japhet in Aſia; the Inhabitants knowing that he had already taken Poſſeſſion of one Country, and not knowing what might be the Conſequence if he ſhould take Poſſeſſion of many more, reſolve to keep him out. And therefore it is ſaid, that he could make no good Title to it, becauſe it was inhabited by the Sons of Japhet; or, as they ſaid, Neptune had ſeiz'd upon it before with the Stroke of his Trident. Meeting therefore with Difficulties, and fearing a Revolt in Aſia, he ſends his Son Mizraim back to reign over his Poſterity in Lydia, and ſecure the Government there. So that the Colonies planted by him being ſmall, and enclos'd by the Sons of Japhet, are either ſoon driv'n out again, or mix'd with his Poſterity; and ſo they are all loſt except Lydia. Pauſanias calls him Porphyrion, or a King wearing Purple; and affirms, that he built for the Lydians the Temple dedicated to Venus Urania, or to his Wife Aſtarte after her Deceaſe; that ſo ſhe being worſhipp'd as a Goddeſs, it might make way the better for his being worſhipp'd as a God. Athens being thus peopled partly by the Poſterity of Japhet, and partly by the Poſterity of Ham, was therefore call'd Athenæ in the plural Number. Thus the City of Thebes being partly peopled from the City Thebais, the Metropolis of upper Egypt, and partly from the old Inhabitants, was call'd Thebæ for the ſame Reaſon: And this I take to be the Caſe of all other Names of Places of the plural Number both in Greece and Italy.

Anno Mundi 1842.

119. It is not improbable, but Ham might ſoon after this make an Attempt upon Italy; but if he did, he fail'd in his Deſign, and ſo it came to nothing. However, his Son Mizraim conquers part of Phrygia, and ſettles ſome Inhabitants there, and Ham returns to Berytus. And the Poſterity of Gomer the Son of Japhet, having extended themſelves toward the Weſt along the Banks of the River Iſter or the Danube, come to the eaſt Part of a Country, which they call Germany from the Name of their Father. This Country was chiefly inhabited by Aſhkenaz the Son of Gomer; where they erect a Monarchy, and make Tuiſco their firſt King, who reign'd an hundred and ſeventy ſix Years. Some make him to be the Son of Noah; but that is impoſſible, he having but three Sons, and they being all diſpos'd of in other Places. However, as the Word Son in the Oriental Languages includes the Grandchildren; ſo he might be a Son in this Senſe, being one of the Sons of Japhet, whoſe Names are not mention'd in the Scriptures.

120. We muſt now return into Egypt, where we left the Canaanitiſh Paſtors ſettling themſelves in the lower Country; but now they are ſetting up to be an arbitrary People, and turning the grand Scene into thoſe Parts. They make War againſt the Inhabitants of upper Egypt, and ſurprizing them when they expected no ſuch Uſage, and had deſerv'd better, they reduce them to great Extremities. This was the Beginning of a moſt famous War both by Land and Sea, viz. in upper and lower Egypt, and in the Mediterranean and Red Sea, and ſometimes in the adjacent Countries of Ethiopia, Canaan and Arabia. It was carry'd on with variety of Leagues, Treaties, and Succeſſes on either Side. It afterward proceeded to a religious War, which caus'd it to be manag'd with the greater Fury. It helps to explain ſeveral obſcure Paſſages in Geneſis and Deuteronomy; and the Explaining of them fixes the Chronology with the greater Certainty. The Kings were deify'd after their Deceaſe; and therefore from hence aroſe all the Stories of the Giants fighting with the Gods. The Greeks (p) look'd upon them to be Men, who liv'd in the Time of the Golden Age under Saturn or Noah, who were Gods after their Deceaſe, the Guardians of Mortals, obſerving good and bad Actions, going too and fro in the Earth, and the Givers of Riches. They were call'd Gigantes γηγενεῖς, or Giants, as if they were ſprung from the Earth, and conſequently the eldeſt of the World. They were call'd Titans from the Hebrew Word טיט which ſignifies Mud, and intimated that they were the neareſt People to the Time of the Flood, and ſeem'd to have their Riſe from the Mire and Dirt of it. Juvenal (q) plainly intimates, that Prometheus the Son of Japhet was one of the Titans; ſo that their Story of Titans warring with Saturn, and keeping him Priſoner until Jupiter releas'd him, is no more than thoſe of lower Egypt warring with the upper, whoſe Kings were reckon'd as the direct Sons of Ham, until they were drove out of the Country. Plutarch (r) reckons Apophis, who was one of the Kings of lower Egypt that manag'd that tedious War, as one of thoſe who fought againſt the Gods. In theſe Wars the fighting with Bows and Arrows were firſt invented; as alſo fighting on Horſeback, and in (s) Chariots of Iron, which were arm'd with Scythes on each Side. And if we could have a full Account of this War, it would perhaps be, in all its Circumſtances, the moſt remarkable which we have in the World. The Chronologer, who hath tak'n moſt Pains in the Egyptian Hiſtory, confeſſes (t) of theſe Times, that theſe ancient Hiſtories are obſolete by their Antiquity, obſcure by doubtful Credit, and deſpis'd from the barren Accounts, which we have of them; and that to undertake ſuch a Work, is (†) to follow the obſcure Foot-ſteps of the moſt ancient Times, to collect the diſorder'd Relicks of ſhipwrack'd Hiſtory, and to ſurvey the uncouth and crabbed Countries. And he ſaith in particular of Egypt, that (u) the moſt remarkable Antiquities of Egypt are ſo miſerably perplex'd by Additions, Alterations and Diminutions, that they are involv'd in thick Darkneſs by the Hiſtorians of thoſe Times, who have mangl'd and confounded one Part with another, to make it vie with the Hiſtory of Moſes, in ſuch a manner as doth no way become a ſober Writer.

121 And indeed we had been ſtill in the dark, had not the Labours of (x) the right Reverend Biſhop Cumberland afforded us a much greater Light into thoſe Tranſactions than we had before. But to proceed: The Inhabitants of upper Egypt, being reduc'd to great Extremities, ſend Meſſengers to Ham into Canaan, to deſire his Advice and Aſſiſtance in ſuch a critical Juncture. Ham ſends his Son Mizraim to govern upper Egypt, who is accordingly made their firſt King. He is call'd Menes by Herodotus, and by other Authors Oſiris, Iſiris, Hyſiris, Shiran, Thammuz, and Adonis: He was a Lover of moſt Arts beneficial to human Life, and a good Judge of the Uſefulneſs of ſuch Inventions. He builds Memphis and makes it the capital City. His Wife Iſis enlarges and fortifies the Town of Sin, or Peluſium, that ſo their Forces might march from thence, or retreat thither as Occaſion might require, and be a Curb to all of Aſia, whether Canaanites or Arabians, in their Paſſage to and from Egypt. For which Reaſon it was call'd Abaris, or (x) the Paſſage. And as it ſtood alſo on the Taanitick Mouth or Oſtium of the Nile, ſo it was of great Conſequence by Sea, as a Harbour for Ships, and was always eſteem'd and fortify'd, as the frontier Garriſon of the Kingdom of Egypt; and is (y) call'd by the Prophet Ezekiel, the Strength thereof. And it is obſervable, that either of the Kingdoms flouriſh'd or declin'd, according as they were in Poſſeſſion or driv'n out of it. And this was (z) in the year before the Birth of Nahor, who was the Grandfather of Abraham. Anno Mundi 1650.

122. The Kingdom of upper Egypt being now put into a Poſture of Defence, and the Garriſon of Peluſium cutting off all Correſpondence and Recruits, which came to their Enemies from the Land of Canaan, the Inhabitants of lower Egypt were ſoon forc'd to be quiet for a little while, and to contain themſelves within the Bounds of their own Kingdom. So that all things ſeeming to be in Peace on this Side, it is not improbable but Mizraim might purſue his former Deſign of Incroaching upon the Bounds of his Brother Japhet: And accordingly he and his Wife Iſis might ſail from Peluſium in Egypt into Greece, not only to ſecure his Government, but even to enlarge his Dominions in that Country. Anno Mundi 1851.

123. Mizraim being made King of Egypt, Ham makes Demaroon, who was probably one of his Sons not mention'd in Scripture, to be the Governour of Lydia and Phrygia; and ſoon after he ſails from Lydia into Italy, and reigns there for ſome Time. After this he leaves a Colony there, who by ſome are call'd The Aborigines, and by others the (a) חמים Hammites or Umbri. And ſoon after that he ſails into Sicily, where he reigns for a little while, and then he leaves a Colony there, and ſoon returns into the Land of Canaan. And it is probable, that the reaſon of his going to Sicily was, becauſe Italy might be in ſome Meaſure peopl'd before from Tarſhiſh the Son of Japhet. This made Ham look out for a new Colony, that in proceſs of Time, they might be aſſiſting to each other. Anno Mundi 1850. 1851. Anno Mundi 1852. 1854.

124. It is probable, that the moſt ancient way of Fighting was with Clubs and Stones; and perhaps with Swords and Spears. But the Inhabitants of Peluſium, who were now call'd Philiſtins, having Occaſion to annoy their Enemies at a greater Diſtance in their Paſſage into Lower Egypt, invented the uſe of Bows and Arrows. With theſe they might form an Ambuſcade, and either kill or wound their Enemies, before they were aware of them, which would make them more fearful of Traveling in the common Roads; and with theſe their ſtouteſt Men were arm'd, who (as (b) the learned Bochartus tells us) were call'd Cherethites in the Phœnician Language. From them (c) a Part of the adjoyning Country was call'd the Land of the Cherethites. Such as theſe were (d) of the utmoſt Service afterwards to the Philiſtins, when they conquer'd Saul and his Army upon Mount Gilboa; and therefore (e) when David taught the Children of Iſrael the uſe of the Bow, or to fight after the ſame Manner, his (f) principal Soldiers, and perhaps his Life-guard, were arm'd in this manner, and therefore call'd The Cherethites, which the Septuagint always tranſlate by τοξόται or Bowmen, and the Chaldee, Syriack and Arabick generally by Words of the ſame Signification. Mizraim in this his Expedition toward Greece, takes with him a conſiderable Number of theſe Cherethites, or Men arm'd with Bows and Arrows; with theſe he takes Poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Crete, and leaving them there to keep it, they give it the Name, by which they themſelves were call'd at that Time. And now Mizraim having weaken'd his Garriſon at Peluſium by drawing his chief Men from thence, and ſeeming thus to neglect his own Dominions, by being intent upon new Acquiſitions, the Paſtors in Lower Egypt take this Opportunity to ſend for more Forces from Canaan, who accordingly came down to them, and joyn with the reſt; ſo that they are now grown very formidable, and renew the War with greater Rage and Succeſs, which turns the thoughts of Mizraim from farther Travels to enlarge his Dominions in Europe, and puts a ſtop to all theſe Deſigns: So that the utmoſt, which he could afterward do, was to ſecure what he had thus gotten, and ſo he returns into Egypt, leſt he ſhould loſe his own Kingdom.

Anno Mundi 1855.

125. Here we may obſerve the early Deſigns of Ham and his Son Mizraim to rob the Children of Shem and Japhet of their Colonies allotted to them by their Father Noah, and to eſtabliſh to themſelves an univerſal Monarchy; which in all Probability muſt have ſucceeded, and have occaſion'd great Troubles to all the World in thoſe early Days, if GOD the Defender of every Man's right, and the Puniſher of Injuſtices had not prevented it, by ſuffering the long Wars to break out between the Upper and the Lower Egypt, in which the Poſterity of Ham, inſtead of Oppreſſing their Neighbours, deſtroy'd one another.

126. However Mizraim not being willing to loſe his Footing in Greece, ſends Triptolemus thither to take care of, and improve the Tillage in Attica by ſowing of Corn, and probably to be accountable to his Son in Macedonia. And as this was done by the Direction of Iſis the Wife of Mizraim; ſo from hence it happen'd, that ſhe was worſhipp'd in Greece by the Name of Demeter, and in Italy by the Name of Ceres the Goddeſs of Corn. And about this Time, Ham, in order to revenge himſelf of the Curſe pronounc'd againſt him, ſets himſelf up, as independent from, and undutiful to his Father.

Anno Mundi 1860.

Anno Mundi 1862.

127. But as reſtleſs Spirits cannot be long eaſy; ſo the Wars begin again to break out between the Families of Japhet and Ham, which Sanchoniatho thus deſcribes. Damaroon (who was born in the Houſe of Ham, and probably his Son, the Governour of Lydia and Phrygia) invades Pontus (the Son of Japhet, on the South Part of the Euxine Sea, with a deſign to enlarge his Dominions in Aſia) but Pontus puts him to Flight, and Demaroon vows a Sacrifice for his Eſcape. This great Danger of his, makes him more cautious for the future, and ſo puts a ſtop to all Attempts on that ſide.

Anno Mundi 1865.

128. Ham being thus diſappointed in his Projects in that part of Aſia, removes to Babylon, where he ſets himſelf up to be the Emperor of Aſſyria and firſt Founder of that Monarchy. He is therefore call'd בעל A Lord, or Baal, and the Idol ſo much worſhipp'd in thoſe Parts, was made to repreſent him. This Name was afterward chang'd into (g) Bel, and therefore he is often called Belus, by Pagan Authors, the firſt Founder of that Empire, where he reign'd about ſeven and thirty Years, and was then ſucceeded by his Son Cuſh, or Belus the ſecond.

Anno Mundi 1868.

129. Soon after this Terah the Father of Abraham is born, and Mizraim King of Egypt invents three Letters. As he was a great Promoter of Learning; ſo it ſeems moſt probable, that he intended to commit to Writing the Hiſtory of that Country, which was now very remarkable, and to preſerve it in the Records of Thebais, in the ſame manner as his Son Thoth preſerv'd the Records of Canaan at Berytus. It ſeems moſt likely, that the other Letters, which he had, were the ſame with thoſe us'd by Thoth: And that 'tho' they were ſufficient for the Canaanitiſh Language; yet they could not ſerve for the Egyptian without a farther Addition.

Anno Mundi 1879.

130. Whilſt Ham was thus ſettling his Authority in Babylon, his Wife Aſtarte takes upon her to govern in the Land of Canaan in his Abſence. This Sanchoniatho thus deſcribes. But Aſtarte call'd the greateſt, and Demaroon intitl'd Zeus, and Adodus nam'd King of the Gods, reign'd over the Country by the Conſent and Authority of Ham. And Aſtarte put on her Head, as the mark of her Sovereignty, a Bull's Head. The eaſtern ‹ Notion of this Symbol we may learn from ‹ (k) the Words of Zedekiah, who put on ‹ Horns of Iron, to expreſs to Ahab, that with ‹ ſuch he ſhould, as it were, puſh the Syrians ‹ until he had deſtroy'd them. The ſame De- ‹ ſtruction did Aſtarte threaten by her Horns to ‹ the Enemies of the Family of Chronus or ‹ Ham, which firſt Name is plainly deriv'd from ‹ the Hebrew Word קרן Keren or a Horn. ‹ This may afford room for Conjecture, that ‹ the Stamp on the Sidonian Money, which ‹ Lucian de Deâ Syriâ aſſures us, was a Wo- ‹ man ſitting on a Bull, did originally ſignify ‹ no more than the royal Power of Aſtarte, ‹ to whom their Temple was conſecrated; al- ‹ tho' the Greek Mythologiſts have made a pro- ‹ digious Fable of it, concerning Jupiter being ‹ turn'd into a Bull, and ſo carrying away Eu- ‹ ropa.' Her Authority when living (l) made her afterward to be worſhipp'd as the Queen of Heav'n, and the horn'd Moon was pictur'd over her Head. Hence ſhe (m) was ſo often called the Goddeſs of the Zidonians. And as ſhe was ſuch a neighbouring Deity; ſo (n) the Children of Iſrael did frequently worſhip her, when they fell off to Idolatry.

131. And now Ham being at Babylon, and reſolving to revenge the Curſe, which had been before pronounc'd againſt him, and being alſo jealous, that there was an Intention of planting more of the Sons of Japhet and Shem near him, by which means he might be more and more ſtraightned in his own Dominions; he ſets upon his aged Father Noah by ſurprize, and expels him by Force from his own Country. Sanchoniatho relates the whole Story of Noah thus: That he taking the Kingdom of his Father, married his Siſter (o) Ge, and had by her four Sons, the (p) laſt of which was called Atlas. That (q) Noah had many Children by other Wives, and therefore (r) his Wife Ge, being griev'd at it and jealous, reproach'd him, ſo that they parted from each other. That (s) Noah, tho' he parted from her, yet invading her by Force, and lying with her, whene'er he thought fit, went away again; and (t) he alſo attempted to kill the Children which he had by her: That Ge (u) did alſo often defend and avenge herſelf, gathering auxiliary Powers unto her. But when Ham came to be of full Age, he us'd Hermes Triſmegiſtus (or Thoth, who was all this while with him at Berytus, and was his Secretary) and then he oppos'd his Father Noah, and revenged his Mother's Quarrel. After this Thoth, ſpeaking to the Aſſiſtants of Ham with a great deal of Eloquence, ſtirr'd up in them a very great Deſire to fight againſt Noah in the Behalf of his Wife Ge. And thus Ham warring againſt Noah, drove him out of his Kingdom, and ſucceeded in his imperial Power and Office. But after ſome Time Noah being in Flight or Baniſhment, ſends his Daughter (x) Aſtarte with two other Siſters Rhea and Dione, to cut off Ham by Deceit; whom Ham taking, made Wives of theſe Siſters. Noah underſtanding this ſends, (y) Eimarmene and Hora with other Auxiliaries to make War againſt him. But Ham having gain'd the Affections of theſe (they being repreſented as Women) kept them alſo with himſelf. And (z) Noah

(n) Jud. 2. 13, and 10. 7. 1 Sam. 7. 3, 4. and 12. 10. (o) This Story is taken out of Gen. 9. 20. where it is ſaid, that Noah began to be an Husbandman; in Hebrew איש אדמה the Man or Husband of the Earth, in Greek γῆ Ge. (p) This is directly contrary to Scripture, particularly Gen. 9. 19 and 10. 32. and it is very improbable in itſelf, Noah being then above ſix hundred Years of Age. (q) As he was the only Perſon ſav'd from the old World; ſo they look'd upon all, who were before the Flood, to be his Children by other Wives. (r) The Parting of Noah from his Wife Ge or the Earth, ſeems to be no more than what is mention'd Gen. 7. 17. The Waters increas'd and bore up the Ark (in which Noah was) and it was lifted up above the Earth, and ſo ſeparated from it. And thus (ſ) his coming to her again refers to Gen. 8. 4. And the Ark reſted on one of the Mountains of Ararat. So that the Heathens, who would fain aboliſh, what is mention'd of the Flood, the better to countenance their own Idolatry, do at the ſame Time declare, that they had a Notion of it. And thus will Truth at laſt appear throughout all Oppoſition. (t) Noah's attempting to kill the Children which he had by Ge, or the Earth, is no more than the Deſtruction of the old World by the Flood. And it is repreſented among the Heathens by Saturn's devouring all the Male Children, which he had by his Wife Ops. But ſhe preceiving it, when ſhe brought forth Twins, Jupiter and Juno, ſhe ſent only Juno to him, but ſent Jupiter to be nurs'd in Mount Ida, or preſerv'd by landing on one of the Mountains of Ararat; and by the ſame Trick ſhe alſo ſav'd Neptune and Pluto from her devouring Husband, which there anſwer to the three Sons of Noah, or Shem, Ham, and Japhet. (u) This ſignifies no more than the Repeopling the World ſoon after the Flood, Gen. 9. 19. by the peculiar Bleſſing of GOD. Gen. 9. 1. (x) Cumberland's Sanchoniatho pag 31. (y) Ibid. Thus by Sanchoniatho's Deſcription Ham had many Wives, which Vice, it is probable, that he took from the Example of Lamech, whoſe Daughter Naamah or Aſtarte he married before the Flood. (z) Ibid. Pag. 32. This ſeems as if Sanchoniatho repreſented Noah as the Promoter of Idolatry, the better to vindicate it by ſuch an Example.

(whom he here calls a God) invented Bætulia, or Stones, which ſeem'd to move, as if they had Life. And he makes War againſt Pontus, and being ſeparated from him joins with Demaroon. And after this Ham, having laid an Ambuſcade for his Father Noah in a certain midland Place, (a) wounds him, ſo that he died. There (ſaith he) Noah was conſecrated, and his Spirit and Breath was ſeparated, and his Blood drop'd into the Fountains and Waters of the Rivers, and the Place is ſhewn unto this Day.

132. Tho' Noah was (b) a juſt man, and perfect in his generation, and one who walked with GOD; yet it may be obſerv'd, that Sanchoniatho gives him no good Character. He ſaith, that Noah was very unkind to his Wife, that he had other Wives, and was parted from the firſt, and attempted to kill the Children, which he had by her, and that he was of a turbulent Temper. But the Reaſon of all this Calumny is plain: It was the Deſign of Sanchoniatho ſo to compile his Hiſtory, that it might be a Vindication of the falſe Worſhip begun by Thoth at Berytus, and carry'd on in latter Ages. For this Reaſon it was neceſſary for him to thwart with the Hiſtory of Moſes, and repreſent Noah, the Preſerver and Propagator of the true Religion, in a different Light. And he who would repreſent Noah as a Promoter of Idolatry (from which nothing could be more averſe than Noah was) would never ſcruple to blacken his Character in any other Manner.

133. The Character which Sanchoniatho gives of Ham is, beſide what is already mention'd, that he had Children (c) Perſephone and Athena, the former died a Virgin, but by the Counſel of the latter Athena, and of Hermes, Ham made of (d) Iron a Scimeter and a Spear. After theſe Things, he (e) built a Wall round about his Houſe, and founds Byblus the firſt City in Phœnicia. And after this, Ham ſuſpecting his own Brother Atlas, with the Advice of Thoth threw him into a deep Hole of the Earth, and there bury'd him alive. And he alſo having (f) a Son call'd Sadid, diſpatch'd him with his own Sword, having a Suſpicion of him, and he depriv'd his own Son of Life with his own Hand. And he alſo cut off the Head of his own Daughter; ſo that all the Auxiliaries, who were on his Side, were amaz'd at his barbarous Inhumanity. That he begat on Aſtarte ſeven Daughters call'd Titanides, or Artemides, and he begat on Rhea ſeven Sons, the Youngeſt of which, as ſoon as he was born (dying in his Infancy) was conſecrated as a GOD. He had alſo Daughters by Dione, and he had alſo two Sons by Aſtarte, who were call'd (g) Pothos and Eros. And (h) Ham was not only circumcis'd himſelf, but he alſo forc'd his Auxiliaries to ſubmit to the ſame. And not long after that, he conſecrated another Son, (immediately after his Death) which he had by Rhœa, call'd Muth; for ſo the Phœnicians call Death, or Pluto. And after theſe Things Ham gives the City of Byblus to the Goddeſs Baaltis, which is (i) Dione; and Berytus he gave to Poſeidon, and to the Cabiri, and to Husbandmen and Fiſhermen, who conſecrated the Remains of Pontus in, or to Berytus.

134. Here we may obſerve the great Progreſs of the baſeſt ſort of Idolatry in the Time of Ham, even the making Gods of dead Men and Women, which without Doubt was to pave the Way more eaſily for his own Conſecration after his Deceaſe. And tho' this was the Religion, which Sanchoniatho profeſſes to vindicate, and therefore would in Juſtice ſpeak as honourably as poſſible of its Founder and Promoter; yet he repreſents him as a revengeful, bloody-minded, and unnatural Man; one who had many Wives (which Vice he probably learned from his Father-in-Law Lamech, before the Flood) and one, who like the Impoſtors of all Ages, would ſtick at nothing to obtain his Ends.

(a) Ibid. pag. 34. Sanchoniatho's Words are theſe. And Chronus (or Ham) having laid an Ambuſcade for his Father Ouranus or Noah, and having got him into his Hands, cuts off his Privities near Fountains and Rivers. There Ouranus or Noah was conſecrated, &c. Hence came the Story of Venus, ſpringing from the Froth of the Sea (ſo much talk'd of by the Greeks and Latins,) when they cut off the Privities of Ouranus or Noah, and threw them into the Sea. And therefore ſhe was call'd in Greek Ἀφροδίτη, from ἀφρὸς Froth. Thus Heſiod in his Theogonia, Verſe 147, &c. where he ſpeaks at large concerning the Offspring of Ouranus and Ge. (b) Gen. 6. 9. (c) Cumberland's Sanchoniatho Page 30. (d) Ibid. He was the Beginner of all the Wars ſince the Flood, and arm'd himſelf for this Purpoſe. (e) Ibid. He fortify'd Towns and Houſes. (f) Theſe his Cruelties after the Expulſion of his Father Noah, caus'd the Poets to feign, that then the Golden Age ceas'd, and a worſe ſucceeded. (g) That is, Deſire and Love, or a corrupted Story concerning Venus and Cupid. Or elſe it may myſtically ſignify, that his Affection to his Wife Aſtarte, who was of a proud Temper, was the Cauſe of his eager Deſire to enlarge his Dominions. (h) Hence it came to paſs, that (as Herodotus tells us) the Ægyptians and Æthiopians, who were the Poſterity of Ham, were circumcis'd; ſince it is abſurd to think, that they learn'd it from the Poſterity of Abraham, whom they always hated, together with their Religion, and all their Rites and Cuſtoms; and when the Iſraelites dwelt among them, they kept them in the utmoſt Subjection and Slavery. (i) Concerning this Name, and the others of Rhæa, Hora, and Eimarmene, the learned Dr. Cumberland, Page 333. ſaith, that he believes, they are Greek Tranſlations of the Titles giv'n to them at their Conſecration after Death, but not at their Birth. Accordingly we meet with theſe Names, or moſt of them, in the Memoirs, which we have of the Heathen Worſhip among the Greeks, deriv'd from the Eaſtern Idolaters. Among them ſhe was reckon'd a Sea Nymph, the Mother of Venus by Jupiter, who was therefore call'd Dionæa by Virgil.

135. Noah being thus driv'n from his Habitation, if we will believe the Chineſe Hiſtorians, came to them, and reign'd among them an hundred and fifteen Years, by the Name of Fohi. But this is improbable. He who views the Map of Aſia, and ſees the vaſt Tract of Land between Babylon and China, and that they, who went that Way to plant new Colonies, had no Seas to hinder them in all their Journies from Extending themſelves either Northward or Southward, as well as Eaſtward, may juſtly queſtion, whether China was inhabited at that Time. Beſides, Noah was now eight hundred and thirty Years old, ſo that he was very unfit for Undertaking ſo great a Journey. And we may as well ſuppoſe, that a Man about ſeventy Years old in this Age of the World, being beat'n in Spain, would travel as far as Hungary in a Fright, as that Noah, being beat'n at the Foot of the Mountain of Ararat, would ſet out at once for China. The moſt probable Account of the Story is this. When Ham ſet upon his Father Noah, he came from the Weſt, or from Babylon; and conſequently, Noah flying from him, would fly to the Eaſt, and perhaps to the fartheſt Country inhabited at that Time. Here they receive him as their common Father, and make him their King. Now China being the moſt eaſtern Country of all Aſia, and uſing the Manner of Writing firſt in Uſe ſince the Flood, had a real Hiſtory of the eaſtern Kingdoms ſince the Building of the Tower of Babylon, and ſo they took the Hiſtory of the moſt eaſtern Kingdom for the Hiſtory of China, and perhaps made ſome Variations, the better to fit it for that Purpoſe, until China was really inhabited. However Noah goes ſo far eaſtward, as to be without the Bounds of all the eaſtern Hiſtorians in the Aſſyrian Empire, ſo that they knew not what was become of him, until he died. And hence aroſe the Story of Jupiter Hammon's driving his Father Saturn out of his Country into Latium, ſo call'd a latendo, becauſe he lay hid there, and it was not known whither he went. However (k) the Chineſe Hiſtorians tell us of Fohi, or Noah their firſt Emperor, that he was rais'd to ſo great Fortune, for his excellent Qualifications; that he was eminent for Virtue, and skill'd in Aſtronomy. He made good Laws for the Kingdom, fenc'd their Towns with Walls, and gave Names for the better Diſtinguiſhing of Families. He introduc'd a Diſtinction of Apparel for both Sexes, and appointed Marriage; whereas before they liv'd promiſcuouſly like Brutes; he alſo prohibited Marrying with ſuch as were near of Kin; he was the Author of a muſical Inſtrument of thirty ſix Strings, and was ſucceeded by the ſecond Emperor Xinnum.

136. However the Report going in Aſſyria, that Noah was dead, being generally believ'd, and the Place, where he was ſuppos'd to be kill'd, being ſhewn for a Confirmation of it, and there being a great Plague or Mortality, and the Country being probably afflicted with War at the ſame Time, Ham offers up his only Son (who is therefore call'd Jeoud) whom he had by Anobret, a Nymph of that Country, to appeaſe the Ghoſt of his Father Noah, who was then conſecrated by Ham as a God, being ſuppos'd to be kill'd at this his Expulſion. The Reaſon of this Conſecration was, becauſe Ham thought, that it would be more honourable to himſelf to be believ'd, whilſt he liv'd, to be the Son of a Deity, and that after his own Death it would alſo pave the Way for his own Conſecration. This was the Original of that inhuman Offering of their Children to the Idol Moloch in the Land of Canaan, when they were burnt to death; which was afterward practis'd among the Paſtors in Lower Egypt: An Abomination, which the Iſraelites were notoriouſly guilty of in following ſuch a curs'd Example, and which GOD frequently complain'd of; and perhaps from them the wild Indians in America might take up this Cuſtom, who once a Year offer a Sacrifice to the Devil in this Manner, who appears to them on a Hut (call'd a Wigwam) made for this Purpoſe, when the poor Wretch after all the Torments, which their Prieſt (whom they call a Pauwaw) ſtirr'd up by the Inſtigation of the Devil, can invent, is caſt alive into a Fire, prepared for that Purpoſe, and ſo burnt to Aſhes.

137. About this Time Melchartus, or the old Phœnician Hercules liv'd, who is reported by Sanchoniatho to be the Son of Demaroon, and conſequently the Grandſon, or rather the great Grandſon of Noah, and was in Part contemporary with him. He was famous for finding out the purple Dye: Hence the Country in the North of Canaan is call'd Phœnicia. This Dye being invented and appropriated to Kings in the Reign of Ham, is a ſufficient Reaſon, why the Greeks might call him Porphyrion, that is, a King wearing Purple. This is the Hercules, who went to Tangier, or Tingis, where he fought with Antæus the firſt Founder of the Place, and Governor there: But not being able to take Poſſeſſion of that Country, he ſails through the Straights of Gibraltar, and comes to an Iſland near the Spaniſh Coaſt, where he built a Temple, and call'd the Name of the Place Gadira from the Phœnician or Hebrew Word גדר or a Hedge, becauſe it was a Place hedg'd in by the Sea, that he could go no farther. It was ſince call'd Gades, and now Cadis, and was reckon'd the utmoſt weſtern Limits of the ancient World; as a Token whereof the Pillars call'd Hercules his Pillars were erected there, and a Part of Morocco was call'd the Promontory of Hercules, which ſeems to intimate, as if ſome of thoſe at leaſt, who ſail'd with him, ſettled there. And it is a great Mark of the Antiquity of that Temple, that there were no Images in it.

138. The Town of Aſhtaroth having been built by Ham, as is before mention'd, in reſpect to his Wife Aſtarte or Aſhtaroth, and ſhe having put on her Head a Pair of Bull's Horns, as a Token of her Authority and Power, ſhe caus'd the Town to be call'd Aſhtaroth Carnaim, or Aſhtaroth with two Horns, as a farther Teſtimony of her Supremacy in her Husband's Abſence.

139. But as Cain (l) after the Murder of his Brother was afraid, leſt every one who met him, ſhould ſlay him; ſo Ham, after this unnatural Act to his aged Father, ſeems very apprehenſive of the like Misfortune; or at leaſt, that as he had ſurpriz'd Noah, ſo the Children of Shem would ſurprize him, and return the Wrong done upon his own Head. To prevent this, he ſends for ſome of his Poſterity to come and live nearer to him, that ſo he might be the Stronger in Caſe of any Deſign. It happen'd, that Cuſh his eldeſt Son with his Families were the moſt ſtraighten'd for want of Room, having the Children of Mizraim and Canaan behind them, the Red Sea on the one Side, and the River Jordan on the other, and the Deſerts of Arabia before them. Accordingly Cuſh removes with a conſiderable Part of his Family to live near his Father, and ſettles in the ſouth Part of Babylon, in the Country ſince call'd Caduca, but anciently Chuſca from his Name. And as (m) the wicked are apt to fly when no man purſues, and there needs no Judge or Accuſer, but a guilty Conſcience; ſo Ham, being more and more terrify'd in his Mind, retires from Babylon, and returns into Canaan, and ſo he leaves his Son Cuſh, who is alſo call'd Belus the ſecond, behind him, to ſucceed in the Government of that Country, where he reigns five and fifty Years. And about this Time the reſt of the Coptick Letters are ſaid to be invented, which was fifteen Years before the Time of Ægialeus. About this Time more Canaanites go into Egypt and joyn with the Paſtors, who were before in that Country; ſo, that they are very ſucceſsful againſt the Kingdom of Upper Egypt, and reduce it to the laſt Extremities.

140. Upon this theſe Canaanitiſh Paſtors being fluſh'd with Succeſs, form a Conſpiracy againſt Mizraim the King of Egypt, at which Time he is ſlain by (n) a Wound in his Thigh, of which he bled to Death. Upon this the Egyptians compos'd a lamentable Song, (n) which was call'd Linus, or in their own Language Maneros, whereby (o) they lamented his Death every Year, and made it a part of their ſacred Rites. This occaſion'd the Lamentation of Venus for Adonis among the Greeks, and the (p) Weeping for Tammuz among the Idolatrous Jews. The Story among ſome is this: That Typho, who is reported to be the Brother of Pontus and Son of Japhet, reſolving to be reveng'd on his Kinſman Mizraim, for his Attempting to rob his Father Japhet of his Countries in Grecce, and actually Seizing on Lydia in the Leſſer Aſia, and alſo reſolving, if poſſible, to prevent ſuch Invaſions for the future, comes into Egypt by Sea, joyns the Phœnician Paſtors, and kills Mizraim. For this Reaſon the Egyptians repreſent him as an Hippopotamus or a River Horſe, and abhor'd him, and call'd all the Paſtors by the Name of Typho, to ſhew their utter Deteſtation of them; and thus the City of Pelusium or Abaris, which Salatis fortify'd, was call'd Urbs Typhonia. Iſis, the Widow of Mizraim, puts his dead Body into a Coffin, and ſails with it to Ham, who was then at Berytus, where he is honourably bury'd; and then Iſis deſires Directions from Ham, what ſhe ſhould do in theſe preſent Difficulties. Upon this Ham ſends Thoth or Athothes the Son of Mizraim to ſucceed his Father, as the ſecond King of Egypt; and Cotys ſucceeds him, as the ſecond King of Lydia.

141. Upon the Arrival of Thoth in Egypt, he meets with a vigorous Oppoſition; for the Canaanitiſh Paſtors accuſe him of being a Baſtard, and conſequently affirm, that he had no Right to the Kingdom, and then they abſolutely refuſe to be govern'd by him. And taking the Advantage before the Kingdom was thoroughly ſettl'd, they make an Inroad into the Provinces of Upper Egypt, and after they had encamp'd there for ſome Time, until the reſt of their Forces had joyn'd them, they (q) carry all before them without Oppoſition, putting their Princes in Chains, cruelly laying their Cities in Aſhes, demoliſhing their Temples, and miſerably Oppreſſing their Inhabitants, of whom ſome were cut to pieces, and others with their Wives and Children were ſent into Bondage.

142. Upon this, Iſis the Widow of Mizraim makes a great Addition to the Egyptian Religion, by introducing thoſe Rites, which were call'd the Sacra Iſiaca. The chief Deſign of which was to animate their Subjects to a ſtout Defence upon a religious Account, repreſenting the Paſtors of Lower Egypt as Enemies to, and Fighters againſt their Gods. Mizraim is now conſecrated into the Conſtellation of Orion, whom the Phœnicians and Paſtors in Deriſion call'd (r) כסיל or the Fool. And Iſis after her her Deceaſe was conſecrated into the Dog-Star. And as theſe Egyptians, at this Time, had no Images in their Temples; ſo they repreſented their Gods by ſuch Animals, which might be moſt expreſſive of their Actions. And thus Mizraim was repreſented by a Cat, to ſignify his quick Diſpatch, in Laying hold of all Opportunities to ſieze the Enemy; ſo that a Cat was conſtantly kept in the Temples dedicated to him, and eſteem'd ſacred for his Sake.

143. In the mean Time Thoth neglects nothing, by which he might put his Kingdom into a Poſture of Defence; which being done, he prepares to attack his Enemies, and finds out the way of Fighting on Horſeback; whereas before they only fought upon Aſſes, or chiefly on Foot. At this Time ſome of the Phœnician Paſtors being diſcourag'd, as expecting nothing but Wars, return into the Land of Canaan, where they hop'd to live in Peace and Quietneſs, which was a Weak'ning and a Diſcouragement to the reſt. Thoth perceiving this, reſolves to take the Advantage of it, and being well prepar'd, he fights three ſeveral Battles with the Phœnician Paſtors; the firſt of which laſted for ſeveral Days; and thus he reveng'd his Father's Death, and reduc'd the Paſtors again to ſome Extremities. He was a Philoſophical Man, and an eminent and a learned Writer. He was Secretary and Counſellor to Ham, and after his Death he was conſecrated into the Planet Mercury, and was call'd by the Greeks, Hermes. He makes ſome Alteration in the Egyptian Religion, by cauſing the plain hiſtorical Account of the Allegories to be writt'n. He promoted all Learning, eſpecially the Skill of Phyſick, whence Ibis was conſecrated to him. His Mother, who taught him ſome Medicines, when he was young, and probably learn'd more of him, when he was old, was the Goddeſs of Health, and call'd Ὑγίεια in Greek, and Salus in Latin. And as he was of the ſame Temper with his Father in purſuing the Enemy; ſo a Hound, the Symbol of his Sagacity, was conſtantly kept in the Temples dedicated to him, and eſteem'd ſacred for his Sake. And in the later Years, when Images were worſhipp'd, his Statue was made with a Dog's Head in Commemoration hereof.

144. The Character, which Sanchoniatho gives of him, when he was in the Land of Canaan, is this, Thoth was the Son of Mizraim, who found out the Writing of the firſt Letters, whom the Egyptians call Thoor, the Alexandrians Thoyth, and the Greeks Hermes. And when Ham came to be of Age, he us'd Thoth as his Counſellor and Aſſiſtant (for he was his Secretary) when he oppos'd his Father Noah, and aveng'd his Mother. And after this the God Thoth, having formerly imitated, or repreſented Noah, made Images of the Countenances of the Gods Ham and Dagon, and form'd the ſacred Characters of the other Elements. He contriv'd alſo for Ham the Enſign of his Royal Power, four Eyes partly before and partly behind, two of them winking as in Sleep, and upon his Shoulders four Wings, two as flying, and two as let down to reſt. The Emblem was, that Ham, as a God, when he ſlept, was yet watching, and when waking, yet ſlept: And ſo for his four Wings, that even reſting he flew about, and flying yet reſted. But the other Gods had each of them two Wings upon their Shoulders, to intimate that they flew about with or under him. He had alſo two Wings on his Head, one for the moſt governing Part, the Mind, and the other for the Senſe. But Ham coming into the ſouth Country, gave all Egypt to the God Thoth, that it ſhould be his Kingdom. Theſe things (ſaith Sanchoniatho) the Cabiri, the ſeven Sons of Sydyc, and their eighth Brother Aſclepius firſt of all ſet down in Memoirs, as their God Thoth had commanded them.

145. Soon after this Ægialeus founded the moſt ancient Monarchy in Greece, of which we have any hiſtorical Account, which was that of the Sicyonians, ſituated on the north weſt ſide of the famous Peninſula, which is beſt known by the Name of Peloponneſus. This Kingdom was firſt call'd Egialea, either from the Name of its firſt King, who probably came thither by Sea from another Shore or Country, or becauſe it lay near the Shore, Αἰγιαλὸς on that ſide of the Peninſula.

146. And now the Paſtors in Lower Egypt, finding that their Enemies had better Succeſs againſt them under a Monarchical Government, than they had formerly under an Ariſtocratical, reſolve alſo to follow their Example, and alter the Form of their Government. Accordingly they choſe Salatis for their firſt King, whoſe Courage and Conduct anſwer'd to the utmoſt of their Expectation. By his Management he puts another Turn to the Face of Affairs, and having retak'n all that was loſt in Lower Egypt, he marches into the upper Country. He takes the famous City of Memphis, and having ſubjected the upper and lower Provinces he lays them all under Contribution, and bends his Forces toward Thebes the capital City of that Kingdom, which he very much ſtraightens, 'tho' he was not able to take it. During his Stay in the Province of Thebais, he puts Garriſons into all tenable Places. He plunders many of their Goods. He kills ſome of the Egyptians, and carries away others into Slavery. He rifles ſome of their Temples, and pulls down or burns others; and particularly he deſtroys all the Dogs, Cats, and other conſecrated Animals, which he could meet with, which was the greateſt Affront, that poſſibly could be offer'd, and laid the Foundation for a religious War in ſucceeding Generations. For the Religion of Upper Egypt conſiſting in Magnifying and Adoring their Kings, which fought againſt their Enemies,

Anno Mundi 1925.

Enemies, and in Repreſenting them by the fitteſt Animals, which they could think of, and in Vilifying and Deteſting the Paſtors of Lower Egypt under the Name of Typho, occaſion'd alſo thoſe of Lower Egypt to deify their Kings, and make Images of them, which were ſet up in their Temples, and alſo to exclaim againſt the others in their Turns. Thus the very Principles of their Religion caus'd a mortal Hatred one of the other. And as the one deſtroy'd all theſe Animals; ſo the others took Care to revenge it, whenever they had an Opportunity, in Deſtroying the Temples, and Breaking down all the Images, which they could meet with. All which only ſerv'd to increaſe the Rage and Fury of one againſt the other.

147. Among the Captives which Salatis took, there were two Women, who were Prieſteſſes, one of which he ſells into Africa, who founded the famous Oracle of Jupiter Hammon there; and the other he ſells into that Part of Greece, which was call'd Theſprotis, who ſo far prevail'd with the Pelaſgi there ſeated, that they founded the no leſs famous Oracle of Jupiter Dodonæus. They were call'd by the Greeks metaphorically two black Doves, who ſpoke with human Tongues and did chatter, or talk with ſuch Voices, as at firſt they did not underſtand. Thus Jupiter Hammon came to be worſhipp'd by the Sons of Japhet. And accordingly Herodotus (s) aſſures us, that when he was at Dodona, and inquir'd of thoſe who liv'd there, and were beſt skill'd in their Antiquities, he found the Reports of their Religion to agree in Subſtance, with that which he had been inform'd concerning the ſame Matter by the learned in Egypt.

148. About this Time Ham dies (for we hear no more of him afterwards) and leaves his Son Canaan to be the Governor of that Country, which was afterward call'd from him, The Land of Canaan. After the Death of Ham, the eleven Tribes, which deſcended from him (being encourag'd by the Example of the Philiſtins, and the Phœnician Paſtors, who ſettl'd among them in diſtinct Bodies) ſet up for themſelves, and ſo they are divided into eleven Kingdoms diſtinguiſh'd from each other, according to their ſeveral Names, as (t) they are mention'd by Moſes; and afterward they were ſub-divided, ſo that there were no leſs than (u) one and thirty Kings, when Joſhua took Poſſeſſion of that Country.

149. Salatis finding the Town of Thebais impregnable, reſolves to loſe no more Time before it, but to open for himſelf an eaſy Paſſage to and from the Land of Canaan, that ſo his Army might be recruited, as Occaſion ſhould require. For this Purpoſe he lays cloſe Siege to the Town of Abaris or Peluſium, the chief Security of thoſe Parts, and takes it from the Inhabitants of Upper Egypt. Manetho (x) thus deſcribes it. He fortify'd to the eaſtward in a more eſpecial Manner, for fear of an Invaſion from the Aſſyrians, whom he was then afraid of, as the greateſt Power in Aſia, and as a much more formidable Enemy, in caſe of a Rupture, than the Egyptians. He found in the Country of Saites, a City formerly call'd Abaris, which was ſituated very conveniently for his Purpoſe, to the Eaſt of the River Bubaſtis. This City he improv'd and repair'd, and fortify'd it with ſtrong Works and Walls, and a Body of two hundred and forty thouſand Men to cover it. He made choice of harveſt Time for the Execution of his Deſign, with Regard both to the Plenty of the Seaſon for Proviſions, and alſo to the Means of Paying his Soldiers. And he alſo took hereby, and by his excellent Diſcipline and Conduct, an effectual Care to ſecure himſelf againſt all Aſſaults and Invaſions. During the Siege this Town was defended by the Philiſtins, who were one of the Tribes of Egypt, and particularly dwelt in thoſe Parts. The Town took its Name from them; and they alſo call'd it frequently Caphtor, it being a Place of the utmoſt Conſequence, which made them defend it with the greater Vigour. However being reduc'd to the utmoſt Extremities, they compound with Salatis to deliver up the Town to him, upon Condition that they might retire out of the Country. Accordingly they quietly retreat into the Land of Canaan. But when they were there, remembring that the Avim or Hivites had formerly ſtirr'd up their Brethren to come into Lower Egypt, and ſo had been the Ringleaders of all the Miſchief there, theſe Philiſtins, in Revenge for their paſt Sufferings, fall upon them, and ſeize upon their Land. This Example, among others, Moſes uſeth to encourage the Iſraelites to believe that GOD could, and would, according to his Promiſe, ſubdue the Canaanites before them, and place them in their Land. For (y) He had caſt out the Zamzummims before the Ammonites, and the Horims before the Children of their Brother Eſau. And as for the Avim, who dwelt in Hazerim even unto Azzah, the Caphtorim, which came forth out of Caphtor, deſtroy'd them, and dwelt in their Stead. Theſe Philiſtins afterward divided themſelves into five Lordſhips, under five Lords, who ſettle in five diſtinct Cities, namely, in (z) Aſhdod, Gaza, Aſhkelon, Gath, and Ekron, who ſometimes had a King over themſelves, as (a) Abimelech was in Abraham's Time.

150. When Salatis had reign'd nineteen Years, in ſo ſucceſsful a Manner, he dies, and was ſucceeded by Bæon the ſecond King of Lower Egypt, who reign'd four and forty Years; and he alſo carried on a vigorous War. It is probable, that about this Time they might invent the Way of Fighting (b) with Chariots of Iron, beſet on each Side with ſharp Scythes, that when the Horſes ran with full Speed, they might cut in two thoſe, who ſtood in their Way. Thoſe look'd very formidable at firſt, and are (c) taken notice of accordingly in Scripture. But in Time, like the Elephants, they were found not to be ſo uſeful, as they were imagin'd, being too heavy for Speed, and even prejudicial to thoſe, who rode in them, or their own Army, in caſe any Horſe ſhould be frightn'd, kill'd, or wounded; and ſo they were laid aſide again.

151. However Thoth was not ſo intent upon the Wars, but he alſo took Care for the Advancement of Learning, which ſeem'd to be his peculiar Talent. And therefore, having formerly ſettl'd the publick Records at Berytus, he takes the ſame Method, and founds a Library in Thebais, and appoints his Scribes to write down an hiſtorical Account of all the memorable Tranſactions of the World, and to preſerve it there for the Benefit of future Ages. And as (d) Moſes is expreſsly ſaid, to have been learned in all the wiſdom of the Egyptians; ſo it is probable, that out of theſe Records he took the Account, which he hath mention'd in the Book of Geneſis, and ſo proceeded to continue the Hiſtory in the four other Books, whilſt the HOLY GHOST aſſiſted and directed him in this Undertaking, that he could not miſtake.

152. We are now come to (e) the Birth of Haran the Son of Terah, and eldeſt Brother of Abraham; about which Time alſo it is probable, that Cuſh, who was ſeated on the ſouth Side of Babylon, paſſes over the Phaſitigris, and invading Perſia with his Forces, ſeizes upon that Country, which he afterwards call'd by his own Name Chuzeſtan, or the Province of Cuſh. Upon this Joktan, who was the Brother of Peleg, of the Race of Shem, having a very numerous Family ſituated in thoſe Parts, being ſtraightn'd for Room, and fearing ſuch a powerful Invaſion, paſſes over the Perſian Gulf, and ſettles in Arabia the Happy, where he founds a Kingdom; and not only reigns himſelf, but (f) the learned Dr. Pocock reckons up out of the Arabick Writers no leſs than eight and forty of his Poſterity, who ſucceeded him in the ſame. Here he changes his Name, ſo that he is no longer call'd Joktan, which ſignifies the younger Brother, but Kahtan. And ſoon after this Obal, one of his Sons, paſſes from thence into Africa over the Red-Sea, at the Straights of Babelmandel, and ſettles on the other Side. And thus the Poſterity of Ham, when they ſeiz'd on that Part which was allotted to Shem by their Father Noah, loſt a better and larger Country, which they neglected, or perhaps knew nothing of, and ſo they paid dear for their Conqueſt.

153. About this Time Thoth rectifies and ſettles the Egyptian Year, of which I ſhall add this following Account. Tho' the reſt of the Oriental Nations had Lunar Years, yet it ſeems moſt probable, that the Egyptians, from the Time of their firſt inhabiting that Country, reckon'd only by thoſe which were Solar, and conſequently moſt eaſy to compute. Accordingly the Zodiack having twelve Signs, they divided the Year into twelve Months; and every Sign having thirty Degrees, they ſuppos'd, that the Motion of the Sun was always equal, and that it mov'd an exact Degree in a Day, ſo that they made every Month to conſiſt of thirty Days. This Form being eſtabliſh'd by Mizraim the firſt King of Egypt, one of the Months, by a Corruption of his Name, was call'd Meſori; and this, it is probable, was the firſt Month in his Time. Now their Year conſiſting of three hundred and ſixty Days, was five Days and a Quarter ſhorter than the real Revolution of the Sun; ſo that in about ſeventy Years there were but ſixty nine Revolutions, and the Beginning of the Year paſs'd through all the Seaſons, and came to the ſame Time again. From thence aroſe the (g) Egyptian Fable, that in the Time of their eldeſt Kings (or from the Time that the Kingdom was inhabited, which was in the Year 1815) the Sun had twice chang'd its Riſing and Setting; which muſt happen in ſuch a Caſe in 140 Years, and was only caus'd by the Variation of their Months, and not by any Alteration in the Courſe of the Sun. Now the Egyptian Prieſts obſerving this Defect, ſaw a Neceſſity of (h) adding five Days to the End of the Year, which were therefore call'd ἐπαγόμεναι or ſuper-added, and implies, that they were not anciently in Uſe among them, being afterward added, to make up the Courſe of the Year. This was the Way of Computation in the famous Æra of Nabonaſſar, and perhaps continu'd in uſe wherever Solar Years took Place, until they were farther rectify'd by Julius Cæſar. Of this the Egyptians give us an Account under this (i) Fable,

That Mercury (or Thoth) being once at Dice with the Moon, he got from her a ſeventy ſecond Part of the Year, and theſe he afterward added to the 360 Days, which were anciently the Days of the Year, and therein he celebrated the Feſtivals of their Gods. And as Thoth ſucceeded Mizraim in the Kingdom, ſo the Month of Thoth ſucceeded Meſori in the Calendar, until they afterward chang'd the Order of the Months; when by putting Thoth for the firſt Month (for a better Commemorating of ſuch an Alteration) which before might be the Second, the Month Meſori, which before was the firſt, came of Courſe to be the laſt of all, as it is in the preſent Catalogue.

154. Cuſh or Belus the Second being now dead, his Son Nimrod, who is often call'd Ninus by the Heathen Writers, ſucceeds him in the Empire of Aſſyria. It is certain, that he was not the eldeſt Son of Cuſh, but ingratiated himſelf into the Affections of the People, during the Life of his Father, and ſo ſeiz'd upon the Government at his Deceaſe; and therefore Moſes calls him Nimrod, or the Rebel. But when he had gott'n Poſſeſſion by the Sword, he was willing to keep it by an Hereditary Right, and therefore call'd himſelf Nin or Ninus, נין or the Son, thereby ſhewing that he was the Son of the late King, and therefore had a Right to rule after him. He is reputed to be the Founder of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and to have reign'd two and fifty Years. Hence we may conjecture, that Nimrod is the ſame with him, who among the Greeks was call'd Bacchus, this Name being but an Abbreviation of the Chaldean Words בר כוש Bar Cuſh or the Son of Cuſh; and therefore his Conqueſts in the Eaſt as far as India, are nothing elſe but the Expeditions of Nimrod and his Succeſſors. The Arabians ſay, (k) that he ſaw the Reſemblance of a Crown in Heaven, and ſent for a Smith, who ſhould make the like in Gold, and put it upon his Head. And the Report went of him throughout all the Country, that the Crown came down to him from Heaven. They alſo add, that whereas before his Time the Babylonians worſhipp'd the Sun, Moon and Stars, he (l) was the firſt, that taught the Aſſyrians to worſhip the Fire, having ſeen an Emblem of the divine Majeſty, which commonly appear'd in a glorious Flame; and he appointed a Prieſt, who ſhould daily attend it, and frequently throw Frankincenſe into it; and that from his Time the Magi in the Eaſt were Worſhippers of Fire. Ur a City in Chaldea ſeems to have had its Name from the Fire, which was there worſhipp'd; and ſome of the Jews think, that Ur in Meſopotamia, whence Abraham came, had the ſame Original. This Empire ſtood from the Time of Nimrod to the Time of Cyrus, who put an end to it, and eſtabliſh'd the Perſian Monarchy. It is repreſented in Daniel by (m) a Head of an Image, the firſt and principal Part made of pure Gold, the Emperor whereof was King of kings, to whom the GOD of heaven had given a kingdom, power, and ſtrength, and glory, and had given all into his hand, and made him ruler over all; and alſo by (n) a Lyon, a Creature moſt fierce and terrible, which had eagles wings, to repreſent the Swiftneſs of its Conqueſts at the Beginning, tho' afterward the wings were pluck'd, and it conquer'd no longer, but even loſt a conſiderable Part of the Empire; and it was lifted up above the earth, reckon'd greater than all the reſt of the World, tho' afterward it was made to ſtand upon the feet as a man, continu'd it ſelf within its own Limits, and a man's heart was given to it, its Government was more mild and gentle, and not ſo ſavage and barbarous as it was at firſt. And it is mention'd by (o) Joel, as the Palmer-worm, which afflicted the Iſraelites, when they were carry'd away Captives. As for Nimrod himſelf, Moſes ſaith, (p) He began to be a mighty one in the earth: He was the firſt great Warrior and Conqueror; and as ſome will have it, a more ſevere Governor than any others had been, who only exercis'd paternal Authority. For he was the firſt, that put down the Government of Parents or elder Brethren, and laid the Foundation of ſoveraign Rule, which, as it muſt be begun with Violence, ſo it needed the greater Violence to ſupport it.

Anno Mundi 1960.

155. To this Moſes adds, that (q) he was a mighty hunter, or mighty in hunting, inſomuch that it became a Proverb in his Days, when Men would expreſs how exceeding great any Man was, they ſaid, He was like Nimrod, the mighty hunter before the LORD. This ſhews by what means he came to be ſo great a Monarch. He hardned himſelf to Labour by this Exerciſe, which was very toilſome, and drew together a great Company of ſtout young Men to attend him in this Sport, who were hereby alſo fitted to purſue Men, as they had done wild Beaſts. And it may be obſerv'd, that in this Age of Nimrod the Exerciſe of Hunting might well be the more highly eſteem'd, and win the Hearts of Men, becauſe he deliver'd them by this Means from thoſe wild Beaſts, to which they were very much expos'd, and by which the Country was much infeſted, whilſt they were but few, and liv'd ſcatter'd up and down in the open Air, or in Tents weakly defended. The Deſtroying of wild Beaſts, and perhaps of Thieves alſo, whom he might hunt, was a great Service in thoſe Times, and made many join with him in greater Deſigns, which he had at laſt, to ſubdue Men, and make himſelf Maſter of the neighbouring Country. The Memory of this his Hunting was preſerv'd by the Aſſyrians, in making Nimrod the ſame with Orion, and joining the Dog and the Hare with this Conſtellation.

156. When he had thus provided himſelf, he ſeizes on the City of Babylon. This Moſes expreſsly (r) tells us was the Beginning of his Kingdom. Babylon was built before the Confuſion of Languages, but it ſeems to have been but ſmall; for (s) at that Time they left off to build it, which ſhews, that they intended to have made it larger. After this it is probable, that it might be enlarg'd by Ham and his Son Cuſh or Belus the Second; but all this was inconſiderable, to what Nimrod did afterward, when he reſolv'd to make it the Capital City of the whole Empire. The Grandeur of this Town was extraordinary, and is exactly deſcrib'd, by (t) the eminent Hiſtorian of our own Country. Particularly the Walls were every Way prodigious. For they were in Thickneſs 87 Feet, in Height 370 Feet, and in Length 480 Furlongs, which make Sixty of our Miles. This is Herodotus his Account of them, who was himſelf at Babylon, and is the ancienteſt Author, who hath wrote of this Matter. The Walls were drawn round the City in the Form of an exact Square, and ſurrounded on the outſide with a vaſt Ditch fill'd with Water, and lin'd with Bricks on both Sides, and the Earth which was dug out of it, made the Bricks, whereby the Walls were built; and therefore from the vaſt Height and Breadth of the Walls may be inferr'd the Greatneſs of the Ditch. On every Side of this great Square there were 25 Gates, or 100 in all; and there were two hundred and fifty Towers, each of them being ten Feet higher than the Walls. So that it was juſtly reckon'd to be one of the ſeven Wonders of the World. It is very probable, that Nimrod began to build theſe Walls, as ſoon as he was in Poſſeſſion of the City, not only for Grandeur and Magnificence, but alſo for Strength, and to ſecure himſelf in his Uſurpations; and his Widow Semiramis finiſh'd them, from whence ſhe was ſaid by ſome to be the Builder of them: And indeed conſidering (u) how they were employ'd in other Affairs, it may eaſily be judg'd, that here was Work enough for them both.

157. Here we may obſerve how exact Moſes is in telling us, what Cities Nimrod built, and what he did not. The (x) Cities which he found already built were Erech, Accad, and Calneh in the Land of Shinar. As to Erech, there is no doubt, but it is the ſame, which is mention'd by Ptolomy under the Name of Arecca, and by Ammianus is call'd Arecha. Here were the Arecæi campi mention'd by Tibullus. And from hence it is ſuppos'd, that the Country below it was call'd Iraque by the Arabian Writers. And here were the Colony of (y) the Archevites, mention'd by Ezra as Neighbours to the Babylonians; and it is plac'd by him at the laſt or moſt ſouthern Turning of the Chanel of the Tigris and Euphrates, in the Country of Chuzeſtan.

158. The next is Accad, which lay Northward of the other, and probably at the common Joyning of the Tigris and Euphrates. The Septuagint calls it Archad, and the Footſteps of this Name may be thought to remain in Argad a River of Sittacene in Perſia. And it is probable, that when Cuſh ſeiz'd upon the Provinces of Chuzeſtan, he built theſe two Towns upon the River, thereby to ſecure its Communication, and open Paſſes into his former Country, the better to bring Reinforcements over as Occaſion ſhould require; and ſo Nimrod found it in the ſame Condition, in which his Father left it.

159. The next is Calneh, the laſt of thoſe, which are mention'd in the Land of Shinar. It was call'd by (z) Iſaiah, Chalno, and by (a) Ezekiel, Channeh. It is ſaid by the Chaldee Paraphraſt, and alſo by Euſebius and St. Jerom, to be the ſame with Cteſiphon upon the Tigris, about three Miles diſtant from Seleucia, and for ſome Time the Capital City of the Parthians. For this Reaſon the Country about Cteſiphon is by (b) the Greeks call'd Chalonitis. And it is probable, that this Town was firſt built by the Poſterity of Shem, to be a Curb to the Inhabitants of Babylon, and prevent their Incroachments; but when they were attack'd by Nimrod with a ſuperior Force, they retir'd from it, and left him in Poſſeſſion.

160. Nimrod having ſecur'd his Dominions in the Eaſt, by the Inlarging and Fortifying theſe three Towns, he now thinks of new Con-

queſts in the Weſt; and accordingly he (c) marches with his Army from Babylon on the north Side of the Tigris, and ſeizes on Aſſyria, which was allotted by Noah to Aſſur the Son of Shem. Here it is probable, that he found no Cities, but the Inhabitants dwelt in Tents, according to the ancient Cuſtom of thoſe Times; and therefore being overpower'd they fled from him without any Reſiſtance. And paſſing over the Tigris they were forc'd by Neceſſity to ſeize on the Country of Japhet, where the Inhabitants were but few, becauſe the greater Part had not only ſeated themſelves in Aſia the leſs, but had alſo peopl'd Greece before this Time. And thus from the Poſterity of Aſſur the Country on the other Side of the Tigris is alſo call'd Aſſyria. And theſe obſerving with what Induſtry the Subjects of Nimrod built Cities upon the Rivers, to ſecure their Communication on the Tigris, to prevent the like on the other Side, they built a ſtrong Fort in the Iſland of the Euphrates, and in the utmoſt Limits of their Country toward Babylon, which (d) they call'd Telaſſar, or the Fortification of Aſſur or the Aſſyrians.

161. Nimrod having thus ſeiz'd on the Country of Aſſur one of the Sons of Shem, goes on Weſtward, and attacks the Country of Aram, another of his Sons, with the ſame Succeſs; who alſo paſs the Tigris, where the Waters were more fordable, and ſeizes upon the other Part of the Country of Japhet, adjoining to what was ſeiz'd by Aſſur, and ſo forces them farther Weſtward. Hence that Country was call'd (e) Aram nabaraim (Aram between the Rivers of Tigris and Euphrates) and (f) Padan aram, or פדן ארם the Camp of Aram, alſo Aram of Zobah, Aram of Damaſcus, Aram of Bethrehob, and Aram of Maacha, all which we call the Syrians from the later Name of the Inhabitants of theſe Countries.

162. Upon this Nimrod ſets himſelf to build Cities, and the firſt which he builds was Nineveh. Here he is ſuppos'd to have dwelt for ſome Time, the better to ſecure the Country, and therefore it was call'd נין נוה or the Habitation of Ninus. From whence we may ſuppoſe, that his real Name was Ninus, as he is call'd by Heathen Authors; tho' Moſes calls him Nimrod or The Rebel, to deſcribe his Temper: And whoever conſiders the Character of him giv'n by (g) Juſtin, and compares it with the Commentators on Geneſis, may eaſily conclude it to be the ſame Perſon. This City really ſtood on the north Side of the Tigris, tho' in a Place where the Stream ran from North to South, and therefore is ſaid to ſtand on the weſt Side.

163. Nimrod having before laid the Foundation of prodigious Walls in Babylon, in the Form of an exact Square, when he liv'd there, lays alſo the Foundation of vaſt Walls in this Town: And tho' the Situation would not allow it to be an exact Square like the other, yet he endeavours to reſemble it as much as he could, ſo that it was made in the Form of a Parallelogram, and the whole Circuit of the one was exactly the ſame with the other. And and it is probable that by this Method he kept his Soldiers employ'd, that they might be more ſtrong and hardy, and conſequently the better able to fight, and endure the Hardſhips of a Campaign at another Time.

164. The Walls of this City were (g) an hundred and fifty Furlongs, or near nineteen Miles in length, and ninety Furlongs or ſomewhat above eleven Miles in breadth, and, like Babylon, an hundred an eighty Miles in Compaſs. The height of thoſe Walls was an hundred Feet, and the breadth ſo much, that three Carts might go a breaſt on the Top thereof (which we may ſuppoſe to be about thirty Feet) and along theſe Walls there were fifteen hundred Turrets, each of them two hundred Feet high. But whoever compares them with (h) the Walls of Babylon, may obſerve, that the ſame number of Men, which would take up eighty Years to finiſh the one, would finiſh the other in eight Years Time. Hence it is call'd an (i) exceeding great city of three days journey, that is, not as to its Length, but as to its Compaſs, accounting twenty Miles for a Day's Journey, according to the common Eſtimation of thoſe elder Times, as alſo of the Greeks and Romans in the ſucceeding Ages, as the learned Bochartus hath prov'd by many Inſtances Againſt this (k) an Objection hath been rais'd from the following Verſe, where it is ſaid, that Jonas began to enter into the city a days journey, which ſeems plainly to intimate, that the meaſure of three days journey mention'd in the foregoing Verſe, is to be underſtood not of the Compaſs, but of the inſide of the City. But this Objection will be anſwer'd, if we conſider, that the (l) Hebrew Word doth not only ſignify a Journey, but alſo a large broad Walk, ſuch as was upon the Top of the Wall; and that, which we tranſlate a Day, (m) ſignify's ſometimes the firſt Day, and then the Senſe will run thus: Jonah enter'd into the City in the neareſt Part to the Land of Canaan, by paſſing over the Tigris, and he ſtood upon ſome part of the Walk on the Wall, which belong'd to the first Day, or was near the Entrance.

145. However it may eaſily be ſuppos'd, that there were (m) in Nineveh more than ſix ſcore thouſand perſons, who could not diſcern between their right hand and their left. For (n) Nineveh was without any void Ground, that we are told of, and (o) it contain'd 14400 ſquare Furlongs, or 225 ſquare Miles in the whole; ſo that if we allow but nine Infants to every ſquare Furlong, or 533 Infants to every ſquare Mile, reckoning thoſe of two Years old and under, it will make up the whole Number: And this is ſo moderate a Computation, that the like or more may be obſerv'd in moſt of the Cities of England at this Time.

146. Nimrod being thus ſeated in Nineveh for ſome Time, his Subjects went farther into Aſſyria, and built three other Cities, which Moſes (p) takes Notice of; and thus what is done by them, is more particularly ſaid to be done by him their Emperor. But theſe having been ſince ruin'd, there is nothing mention'd of them, which will amount to more than a bare Conjecture. The firſt is Rehoboth, which Word in the Hebrew ſignifies Streets, and hath the word City added, to ſhew that here it muſt be tak'n as a proper Name, diſtinct from thoſe before and after. And there being no Footſteps of the Name in theſe Parts, but there being a Town call'd Birtha by Ptolomy, which in Chaldee ſignifies Streets, as the other doth in Hebrew, we may conclude, that they are only two different Names of the ſame City, which ſtood upon the Tigris at the Mouth of the River Lycus.

147. The next City built was Calah, which ſtood about the Head of the River Lycus, and was probably the capital City of the Country call'd Calachene, as it is mention'd by Strabo, and Calacine by Ptolomy. Here alſo Pliny mentions a People call'd Claſſitæ, which is moſt probably a Corruption from Calachitæ. This Town with a little Variation was probably call'd Halah, and is therefore ſuppos'd to be the City and Country, into (q) which Shalmanezer King of Aſſyria tranſported ſome of the ten Tribes of Iſrael.

148. The laſt Town, as mention'd by Moſes to have been built by Nimrod, was Reſen, which is ſuppos'd to be mention'd by Zenophon, under the Name Lariſſa. For firſt, the Situation of this Lariſſa lying on the Tigris, agrees very well with the Situation of Reſen, as it was mention'd by Moſes, who tells us (r) that it was between Nineveh and Calah. Secondly, Moſes obſerves, that it was a great City, and Xenophon tells us, that Lariſſa was a ſtrong and great, but then a ruinated City, being eight Miles in Compaſs, and its Walls an hundred Feet high, and twenty five Feet broad. Laſtly, Lariſſa appears to be a Greek Name; but there were no Greek Cities in Aſſyria in the Days of Xenophon or before Alexander the Great, and conſequently no Lariſſa. And therefore it is probable, that the Greeks asking what City thoſe were the Ruins of; the Aſſyrians might anſwer, Lereſen, that is, of Reſen, which Word Xenophon might expreſs by Lariſſa, a World well known to him, being the Name of ſeveral great Cities, and particularly of one in Theſſaly, where Achilles was born.

149. Nimrod having thus conquer'd his Neighbours the Aſſyrians, which lay on the North and Weſt of Babylon, proceeds toward the (s) South weſt, where he meets with a People unskill'd in War, and conſequently not able to reſiſt him; by which means he makes an eaſy Conqueſt as far as the ancient Limits of Africa, and daily gathering ſtrength by his new Victories, he is ſaid to ſubdue all the People of the Eaſt; and ſo he eſtabliſhes the Aſſyrian Monarchy, of which more hereafter.

150. It is not improbable, but Nimrod's Coming toward Egypt might cauſe Thoth to draw a great Part of his Forces toward Peluſium, and ſo ſecure the Paſſes into that Country; and they being veteran Soldiers, and advantagiouſly poſted, oblig'd Nimrod to lay aſide all his Deſigns on that Country, which he ſaw, muſt be attended with Difficulty and Hazard. Anno Mundi 1970. However the Canaanitiſh Paſtors take the Advantage of the Army being thus divided, and ſet upon Thoth, who being taken Priſoner, they moſt barbarouſly tear him Limb from Limb; and Thoth or Athothes the ſecond ſucceeds him in the Kingdom of upper Egypt, where he reigns two and thirty Years.

151. Soon after this Bæon King of lower Egypt dies alſo, and Apachnas ſucceeds him, who was always a ſtout Warrior, and reign'd ſeven and thirty years. Anno Mundi 1983. And Tyrrhenus or Tyrſenus, the the fourth King from Mizraim incluſivly, begins to reign in Lydia. 1991. And not many Years after, the Chineſe obſerv'd on the twenty ſixth Day of February a very remarkable Conjunction of five Planets in the Sign Xe, and the Moon chang'd about ſix of the Clock in the Morning on the next Day; which, tho' the Chineſe tell us, happen'd in the Reign of their Monarch Chuenhio, 1996. who according to their Accounts began to reign in the Year before CHRIST 2513; yet it being calculated with the greateſt Exactneſs by the famous Monſieur Caſſini, Aſtronomy Profeſſor of Paris, happen'd to be in the Year before CHRIST 2012, five hundred Years later than their Computation, and in the latter End of the Life of Noah, or Reign of their firſt Monarch Fohi.

152. The Year after this Peleg dies, who was born in the Year, when Noah commanded his Children to diſperſe themſelves, and take to the Countries allotted to them. It is very probable that he, or ſome of his Poſterity in Memory of him, gave the Name to a Town upon Euphrates call'd Phalga, before his Grandfather Arphaxad and his Family were driv'n out of thoſe Parts by Nimrod. It was ſituated not far from the Place, where Euphrates receives the River Chebar, mention'd by (t) Ezekiel, upon which Charræ or Haran ſtood, and was the Place through which Abraham paſs'd in his Journey to Canaan. Peleg was the firſt Perſon, whoſe Death Moſes mention'd before the Flood, and is ſuppos'd by (†) ſome to have been the Father of Melchiſedeck.

The Year after that Serug dies, from whom Bochartus thinks, that ſome of his Deſcendents might call the City Serug, which was near to Charræ or Haran: And as Suidas reports, he was the firſt, who began to celebrate every Year, the Memory of famous Men, after they were dead, and commanded them to be honour'd as Benefactors. And ſoon after this Thoth the ſecond, King of upper Egypt, dies, and is ſucceeded by Diabies the fourth King of that Kingdom, who reign'd nineteen Years.

154. We have now finiſh'd the Hiſtory of the World for the firſt two thouſand Years, concerning which it hath been anciently obſerv'd by Chriſtians, and probably by the moſt ancient Jews, That (u) the World was created to laſt ſix thouſand Years; that is, two thouſand Years (x) before the Law, two thouſand Years under the Law, and two thouſand Years under the Meſſias; that theſe are the ſix Days of the Week before GOD, with whom (y) one day is as a thouſand years, and a thouſand years as one day. And thus the ſeventh Day or the Sabbath is an eternal Reſt in the Kingdom of Heaven. If the latter Jews had kept to this Notion, there had been an end of all their Controverſies concerning the Meſſias. But this Account is not exact. It is agreed by all, that the Law was giv'n in the 2513th Year after the Creation, and that from thence to the Birth of CHRIST is not full fifteen hundred Years. Others therefore divide it thus; Two thouſand Years before the Promiſe was giv'n to Abraham, and two thouſand Years before it was fulfill'd in the Birth of CHRIST. But this, tho' exacter than the other, is not exactly true, becauſe the Promiſe was not giv'n until the Year of the World 2083. I ſhall therefore divide the Ages of the World in the following Method. Firſt, I ſuppoſe, that at the end of two thouſand Years Noah died, who was the Father of the new World, and was immediately ſucceeded by the Birth of Abraham the Father of the faithful. Secondly, that the ſix Days of Labour may repreſent a State of Labour and Trouble to the Church of GOD, for ſix thouſand Years; and as the firſt three thouſand Years did end in the Perfecting of the material legal Temple built by Solomon; ſo the other three thouſand Years will end in the Perfecting of the ſpiritual evangelical Temple, of which JESUS CHRIST is the (z) chief corner ſtone. Or thus, Two thouſand Years before the Birth of him, to whom the Promiſe of the MESSIAS was giv'n; two thouſand Years before the Birth of the MESSIAS, in whom the Promiſes were fulfill'd; and under him, two thouſand Years of Labour and Trouble, anſwering to the ſix Days of the Week, and one thouſand Years of Peace and Reſt, anſwering to the ſeventh Day or the Sabbath. This thouſand Years, which immediately ſucceeds in the courſe of the Hiſtory, may alſo be divided into two Parts nearly equal, that is, five hundred Years before the Law was giv'n, and five hundred Years before the Temple was compleated.

155. For an Introduction into the Hiſtory of the next thouſand Years, I ſuppoſe, that it will not be unacceptable to the Reader, to give him an Account of the Riſe and Progreſs of Idolatry, ſtrictly ſo ſpeaking, in thoſe early Ages of the World. When the Flood ſwept away all Mankind, Noah and his Family excepted, it ſwept away all the Remembrance of the Idols worſhipp'd in thoſe Days. But as Ham marry'd into the Idolatrous Race of Lamech, ſo he retain'd a ſtrong Inclination to ſuch a falſe Worſhip, eſpecially after he was not only curs'd by Noah, but alſo ſeparated from the Poſterity of Shem, among whom the Worſhip of the true GOD conſiſted. Ham being therefore willing after his Deceaſe to be eſteem'd as a GOD, reſolv'd to introduce an Example of this Nature in his Life Time. And there being no one, who could be introduc'd, except Noah, Ham conſecrates him upon his Expulſion out of his Habitation, and when the Report ran, that he was really dead. To make this the more obſervable, when there was a Plague and Mortality, (t) Ezek. 1. 1, 3, and 3. 15, 23, and 10. 15, 20, 21, and 43. 3. (†) Elmachinus. (u) The firſt Occaſion of this Notion was the obſerving ſome of the Hebrew Letters in the firſt verſe of Geneſis thus, the firſt Letter is ב or Beth, which in Hebrew ſignifies the number two, and implies (according to the Rabbinical Fancies) that In the beginning GOD created two Worlds, viz. that which is preſent, and that which is to come. In this verſe there are alſo contain'd ſix א or Alephs, each of which ſignifies a thouſand, and accordingly intimates, that this World, which was thus created, was to laſt ſix thouſand Years. (x) This the Hebrews call'd תהו ובהו or The Age of Emptineſs. lity, Ham offers his only Son, whom he had by a Nymph of that Country call'd Anobret, as a whole burnt Offering to appeaſe the Ghoſt of his Father Noah; and as before they had worſhipp'd the Sun, Moon and Stars, ſo to give the better Grace to this new Idolatry, Noah was conſecrated into the Planet Saturn. Hence aroſe the Story of Saturn's being driv'n out of his Kingdom by his Son Jupiter, ſo much talk'd of among the Heathen Poets. And as none of their Hiſtory went before the Flood, but the Account of Time began with the Hiſtory of Noah; ſo the Planet Saturn was call'd Chronus or Time by the Greeks.

156. This Offering of Cain's Son by his own Father gave Riſe to the (a) Offering of their Sons and their Daughters to ſtrange Gods, both in the Land of Canaan and in lower Egypt, and (b) particularly to the Idol Moloch, ſo often mention'd in the Sacred Scriptures, where he is ſometimes called Moloch, ſometimes Molech, and ſometimes Milcom, and was the reputed God not only of the Ammonites, but alſo of the Moabites: He had his Name from the Hebrew Word מלך which ſignifies a King or a Prince, and the Septuagint give him ſometimes the one Title, and ſometimes the other. And it is probable, that Noah was meant by this Word, becauſe he was a King over the new World, and that Noah after he was conſecrated, is probably thought to have been worſhipp'd under the Name of Chronus or Saturn. His Temple was built (c) without Jeruſalem in a ſeparate Place, where he had ſeven Chappels, and his Image made of Braſs was plac'd before them. He had the Face of a Bullock, and his Hands were ſpread abroad like a Man who opens his Hands to receive ſomething from another, and they ſet it on Fire within, for it was hollow, and every Man ſeverally enter'd according to his Offering. He who offer'd a Fowl went into the firſt Chappel, he that offer'd a Sheep went into the ſecond, a Lamb into the third, a Calf into the fourth, a Bullock into the fifth, an Ox into the ſixth, and he that offer'd his Son went into the ſeventh. When they ſacrific'd their Children, they plac'd them in the Arms of this Image, which was made red hot by Fire in the Inſide on Purpoſe to receive them, and ſo contriv'd, that they might claſp together and hold them faſt; and at the ſame Time they did beat upon Tabrets or Drums, that the Cry of the Child might not be heard by the Father. For this Reaſon the Place was call'd תפת Tophet, from תף which ſignifies a Drum; and the Chappels were in גי הנם Gehinnom or the Valley of Hinnom; and the Word γεεννὰ, Gehenna in the (d) Greek, which ſignifies Hell, alludes thereto; the reſtleſs Torments whereof were repreſented by the bitter Cries of thoſe poor Infants; as well as its Perpetuity, by the other Fire kept continually burning, for the Conſuming of the dead Carkaſſes, and the Filth and Garbidge, which was brought out from Jeruſalem. This is the God, to whom the (e) Sepharvites burnt their Children in the Fire, by the Name of Adrammeleck, or אדיר מלך the mighty Moloch, whom they repreſented, as an evil GOD, the Origine of Miſchief, and a bad Genius, and therefore worſhipp'd him for fear, as ſome Indians worſhip the Devil, reckoning him to be the Planet Saturn; to prevent whoſe Effects, they alſo worſhipp'd Anammelech, or ענן מלך the Cloud, Protector or Defender from Moloch, whom they repreſented as a good GOD, the Origine of Bleſſings, and an happy Genius, and therefore worſhipp'd him for Love, reckoning him to be the Planet Jupiter, or Ham the Expeller of Noah, by which Means the one grew into leſs Eſteem, and the other into greater. And this may be the Reaſon, why Saturn is reckon'd the greateſt malevolent Planet, and Jupiter the greateſt benevolent among the Aſtrologers. It is probable, that Noah was worſhipp'd by the Philiſtins under the Name of (f) Dagon, from the Hebrew Word דג, which ſignifies a Fiſh, and (g) it was made from the Navel downward in the Form of a Fiſh, but from the Navel upward in the Form of a Man. The Deſign whereof was to ſhew us, that he, whom they worſhipp'd, had liv'd among the Waters of the Flood, which deſtroy'd the reſt of the World, and afterward liv'd as a Man upon the Earth. And thus when Dagon was puniſh'd by GOD, and fall'n upon his Face to the Ground, we read of no Legs, which he had, but that the Head of Dagon and both his Arms were cut off upon the Threſhold of his Temple, and only the Stump, or the fiſhy Part of Dagon (as it is in the Margin of our Bibles) was left unto him. But that Noah was worſhipp'd, is plain from the Account, which Lucian gives us of the Adytum or moſt holy Place of the Temple at Hierapolis, where there were three Statues; the two outermoſt whereof he judg'd to be Jupiter and Juno, but they had no proper Name for the middle Statue; however he judg'd it to be the elder Deucalion, who came from the Mountains of Scythia and Ararat, and can be no other than Noah, the Father of this Ham or Jupiter. To confirm this he tells us, that there was a golden Dove, which ſtood upon his Head, and is a fair Intimation of Noah's Dove, which Bird was ſo ſacred there, that they never did eat any Pidgeons about Hierapolis. This Dove (ſaith he) flew away twice a Year, as they reported, at the Time of the Commemoration there made of the Flood, by pouring out Abundance of Water, which not only the Prieſts but numberleſs other Men brought from all Syria, Arabia, Arabia, from beyond Euphrates, and even from the Sea, which being pour'd down into the Temple ran all into a Chaſm or Cleft of the Earth, which was formerly ſo great, that (as they ſaid) it ſwallow'd up all the Flood, that drown'd the World. He doth not tell us, that he ſaw the golden Dove fly, that was only a thing told him, and its Flight was miraculouſly manag'd in the Temple, and directed by an Oracle; in which we may ſuppoſe, that there were many Arts of Deluſion to abuſe the credulous People. However the Story is ſo applicable to Noah, that any one, who hath read his Hiſtory in the ſacred Scriptures, will readily underſtand it.

157. The next in Order to be conſecrated muſt be the Wife of Noah. As he is ſaid in Scripture to be an Husbandman, or as it is in the Hebrew, the Husband of the Earth; ſo from hence the Greeks at firſt call'd his Wife Ge, or the Earth. And there being no fitter a Husband for the Earth than the Heavens, hence they call'd Noah by the Name of Ouranus or Heaven. And as they reckon'd all Creatures to ariſe from a Mixture of celeſtial and terreſtrial Elements, hence they might reckon theſe two to be the firſt Producers not only of all Mankind, but of all other Creatures whatſoever. It is not therefore probable, that the Wife of Noah was conſecrated into any Star, but only reputed to be the Earth it ſelf; and as ſhe was the Mother of all thoſe, who in after Ages were reputed as Gods, ſo ſhe was worſhipp'd among the Lydians and Grecians by the Name of Cybele, the Mother of the Gods. The Head of her Image was crown'd with many Towers, to ſhew the many Towers and Caſtles built upon the Earth. In her Hand ſhe carry'd a Key, becauſe in Winter the Earth locks up thoſe Treaſures, which ſhe brings forth with ſo much Plenty in the Summer. Her Garments were painted with ſeveral Colours, and figur'd with the Images of ſeveral Creatures; ſhe was call'd Cybele, from a Hill of that Name, where ſhe was chiefly worſhipp'd, and Ops from Wealth and Help, becauſe all Riches come from her, and ſhe is ſtill aſſiſting of us. She was alſo call'd Rhea, from the Greek Word ῥέω to flow, becauſe ſhe abounds with all good Things, or perhaps from the Hebrew Word רעה to feed, as Shepherds do their Sheep; and hence the Greeks might learn ſuch Epithets and Phraſes, as do ſuit well with this Notion.

158. As Noah was thus deify'd, and his Wife (whoever ſhe was) was reckoned the Mother of the Gods; ſo we may expect to hear the ſame of his three Sons Shem, Ham and Japhet. Accordingly we are told, that Saturn had three Sons by Ops, who were Pluto, Jupiter and Neptune, anſwering to the three other Names. As the Right of Primogeniture was lodg'd in Shem, tho' he was not the eldeſt, and he had the greateſt ſhare in his Father's Bleſſing; ſo he was the moſt hated by the other two. For this Reaſon they repreſent him ſo deform'd, that none of the Goddeſſes would marry him, and therefore he ſtole away Proſerpina, and carry'd her off by Force. And to render him as deſpicable as poſſible, they repreſented him and his Wife as King and Queen of Hell.

159. The ſecond which I ſhall mention, is Japhet or Neptune. As he and his Poſterity paſs'd over the Sea from Aſia, and ſettl'd in Europe; ſo he was afterward repreſented and worſhipp'd as the God of the Sea, and the Father of Rivers and Fountains. His Sailing into Greece is repreſented under this Fable, That he took Amphitrite or the Sea to Wife, but being repuls'd by her a great while he at laſt gain'd her by the Power of Flattery, and the Aſſiſtance of a Dolphin. To recompence which Kindneſs, the Dolphin was exalted to the Stars, and made a Conſtellation. The learned Bochartus derives his Name from the Egyptian Word Nephthyn, which ſignifies the Extreme Parts of the Earth, and the Promontories, which touch the Sea. So that he was a God worſhipp'd by the Africans, and no other People originally us'd this Word but they: And therefore it is probable, that when thoſe Parts adventur'd to put to Sea, they worſhipp'd Japhet under this Name, and the Latins took the Name from thence, when their Idolatry was propagated in thoſe Parts.

160. But as Ham was the chief Promoter of Idolatry, and his Poſterity was chiefly addicted to it; ſo he was the moſt celebrated Deity in thoſe Times, and moſt univerſally worſhipp'd. He was call'd Jupiter Hammon. Heav'n is ſaid to have fall'n by Lot to him, and therefore he is frequently ſtil'd the Ruler and Governour thereof, and always honour'd with Phraſes and Epithets of the higheſt Reſpect and Eſteem, as The almighty Father, the Thunderer, the King and Father of the Gods and Men, with many more. The Polygamies of Ham gave Occaſion to a Multitude of Stories concerning the Adulteries, Rapes and Whoredoms of Jupiter in ſeveral Shapes, ſo common among the Heathen Poets. He was at firſt conſecrated into the Planet Jupiter, a Word from him in ſo great Eſteem, that Varro ſaith, That there were in his Time no leſs than three hundred Gods, who were call'd Jupiter, and worſhipp'd by this Name, and others count almoſt an innumerable Company of them; for there was hardly a Nation, which did not adore a Jupiter of their own, and ſuppoſe him to be born among themſelves.

161. The firſt Image of Ham was made and ſet up in the Tower of Babylon, and is ſuppos'd by ſome to be contemporary with the Building of the Tower itſelf; inſomuch, that (*) the Builders are ſaid to ſpeak to one another in this Language, Let us make to ourſelves an Image to be worſhipp'd. () Targum on Gen. 11. 3.

Top of the Tower, and let us put a Sword in his Hand, and let him manage our Battles for us, before we are dispers'd over the Face of the Earth. Beſides this (as Suidas (g) tells us from Achilles Statius) there was a Temple upon Mount Caſſius near the north Part of Egypt, where there was an Image of Jupiter holding a Pomegranate in his Hand, which had a myſtical Reaſon. And Pauſanias (h) ſaith, that not far from the Ruins of Mycœnæ, he ſaw an Image of Juno holding a Pomegranate in her Hand, the Explication whereof was a wonderful Secret. But the Myſtery or Secret is no more than this, That the Pomegranate, when open'd diſcloſing a great number of it's Seeds, ſignify'd only, that theſe Deities, being long liv'd, were the Parents of a great many Children, and Families, which ſoon grew into Nations, whom they planted in large Poſſeſſions, when the World was newly begun to be peopl'd, and were Benefactors to them by Giving them Laws, and other Inventions to make their Lives comfortable. This was a Myſtery not to be reveal'd by the Heathens, becauſe it was ſo agreeable to the Hiſtory of Moſes, leſt the Truth being known might have deſtroy'd their Religion, and eſtabliſh'd the other in it's Place. Like to this were Images made in other Places, and as Rimmon in the Phœnician and Syrian Language ſignify'd a Pomegranate, hence the Idol itſelf was call'd Rimmon, and was (i) a God worſhipp'd by the Syrians in the Time of Naaman. And as they call'd their Towns from the Names of the Gods, which were there worſhipp'd; ſo we find (k) Gathrimmon, or the Winepreſs of Rimmon, and (l) Enrimmon or the Fountain of Rimmon in the Land of Canaan.

159. As it is natural for thoſe, who are in Places of Authority, to take Names to themſelves, by which their Authority might be known; ſo when Ham was at Babylon, and rul'd that Country, he took to himſelf the Name of Baal, which in Hebrew ſignifies a Lord or Governour. The Reaſon whereof may probably be, becauſe (m) Cain in a Time of great Drought, worſhipp'd the Sun, as thinking him the only Lord of Heaven, who could or would help him, and therefore he call'd the Sun בעל שמים Baal Shamaïm or The Lord of Heaven, and thus in Imitation hereof he might afterward ſtile himſelf בעל הארץ Baal haarets, or The Lord of the Earth, as a Word, which after his Death might make way for his own Conſecration. And perhaps this Name being giv'n to him in common with the Sun, whom they call the Lord of Heaven, might, by Leaving out the laſt Word, be the Reaſon, why that Part of the Univerſe call'd Heaven might ſo ſoon be allotted to him for his Juriſdiction. This Word was ſoon contracted into the (n) Name Bel, the great Idol of the Baby'onians: And hence Ham was call'd Belus the firſt; and his Son Cuſh, Belus the ſecond by the Greeks and Latins of later Ages. And as he was alſo conſecrated after his Death, and had Images made of him to be worſhipp'd under the ſame Name with his Father; ſo it is impoſſible at this Diſtance of Time to gueſs, which of them were dedicated to the one, and which to the other. However they ſeem to be diſtinguiſh'd in the Time of the Iſraelites, and therefore they are (o) call'd בעלים Baalim, which Word might originally be of the dual Number, and ſo ſignify both. To diſtinguiſh theſe one from the other, and ſometimes for other Reaſons, there is an Addition frequently to the Name. Thus Baalberith was an Idol of the Shechemites, who had (p) a Temple among them: And as the Word ברית Berith ſignifies a Covenant; ſo the (q) Septuagint call him The God, unto whom they bound themſelves by Covenant. I rather ſuppoſe, that by this is only meant Ham, who liv'd for ſome Time at Berytus, and was afterward worſhipp'd there, and might therefore properly be call'd (r) the God of Berytus. And it is the Opinion of (s) a very Learned Prelate, that generally where Baal is ſet alone, and no other Circumſtances determine it to another Deity, Ham, as the moſt eminent, is to be underſtood. There are alſo two other Titles, but ſuch as muſt belong to Ham and no other. The firſt is (t) Baalzebub, or The God of Flies. This Idol was worſhipp'd by the Cyrenians, but principally by the Ekronites; and they give this Reaſon for it, becauſe whenever they ſacrific'd unto him, the ſwarms of Flies died, which moleſted their Country, and therefore (u) the Inhabitants of Elis ſacrific'd to Ham or Jupiter under the Name of ἀπομύιος, or the Driver away of Flies. But it is certain, that this was not the only Reaſon, for (x) they frequently conſulted him as an Oracle. However the Word זבוב in Hebrew ſignifies a Flye, and the Word Baalzebub may ſignify the maſter Flye, which hath Power and Authority over the reſt; and in the new Teſtament it is (y) apply'd to him, who is call'd The Prince of the Devils. Some Greek Copies of the new Teſtament read Βεελξεβὰλ, Beelzebul, which Change is interpreted to ſhew the great Contempt of the Idol, by calling it, as it is in the Hebrew, The Lord of Dung, it being the deſpicable Place, to which ſuch Inſects uſually reſort. And laſtly, he was alſo call'd Baalzephon, and was thought by the Hebrews, to (z) have been an Idol made by the Egyptian Magicians to obſerve and to ſtop the Iſraelites in their Departure from Egypt. Hence he was call'd Zephon or צפון from צפה Zapha, to watch, and obſerve in the manner of a Watchman; ſo that from this Office we may call him Baal ſpeculator, as Jupiter among the Romans was call'd (a) Jupiter ſtator, becauſe he was ſuppos'd to ſtop them, when they were flying from the Enemy. This muſt be Ham or Belus the firſt, the Father of the Egyptians, ſince Cuſh or Belus the ſecond, was the Father of another Nation, and therefore would not be deify'd by them, or eſpecially be look'd upon as their Protector or Guardian Angel. However (b) GOD commanded the Iſraelites in their March to encamp before him, that all might know, that none of thoſe Idols could prevent, what he reſolv'd to do.

160. But tho' Ham was call'd Jupiter in other Places; yet among the Egyptians he was call'd Saturn or Chronus, and was conſecrated into that Planet. When he took to himſelf קרן Keren a Horn, or the Mark of Honour in thoſe Nations, he might eaſily be call'd Chronus by a ſmall Variation of the Word; and then the Egyptians, who in thoſe early Times did boaſt, that they were the ancienteſt Nation in the World, were more fond of giving that Title to the Father of their Nations, which others gave to Noah the Father of the whole World.

161. And as the Wife of Noah was conſecrated by the Name of Ge or the Earth; ſo Aſtarte the Wife of Ham was, after her death, conſecrated by Ham himſelf, and a Temple built by him for her in Zidon. Hence ſhe was call'd (d) Aſhtaroth the goddeſs of the Zidonians, and being a very handſome Woman was the ſame with Venus the Goddeſs of Beauty among the Greeks and Romans, and was alſo reputed to be the Planet Venus. Lucian acknowledges, that her Statue bore upon her Head Beams and a Tower, and the Ceſtus, wherewith they only adorn Urania or Venus. The Phœnicians call'd her the greateſt Goddeſs, and ſhe was therefore moſt likely to be joyn'd with the Image of Ham their greateſt Male Deity. Cicero ſaith, that (e) the Syrian Aſtarte is call'd Venus. She was ſav'd with Noah and Ham in the Ark, and hath therefore been repreſented like Dagon, with the upper Part reſembling a Woman, and the lower Part reſembling a Fiſh, and in her Temple at Hierapolis there was conſtant Commemoration made of the Flood and it's Drying up in their Service. Sanchoniatho ſaith of her, that (f) travelling about the World, ſhe found a Star falling from the Air or Sky, which ſhe taking up, conſecrated in the holy Iſland of Tyre. And Lucian, among other Ornaments of her Statue, tells us, that ſhe had a ſplendid Stone upon her Head, which was call'd λυχνὶς, which in the Night gave much Light to the Temple, but ſhone weakly in the day Time, and look'd like Fire. This no doubt was the ſame Star, and is ſuppos'd to be only a Carbuncle plac'd upon her Head, which () the Prieſts could by rubbing make to ſhine, when they thought fit to allow any Man the great Favour of ſeeing the Temple, and this Statue in it; that thereby the Image might become the more venerable to the Beholder, who muſt be preſum'd to be prepar'd before-hand with great Devotion to receive this religious Cheat as a ſignal Favour.

162. As Ham was frequently call'd Baal, ſo he had a Wife, who was call'd Baaltis, which ſeems to be but a Tranſlation of the ſame Word from the Maſculine into the Feminine Gender. Who ſhe was is uncertain. Sanchoniatho only ſaith, that Ham (g) gave the City of Babylon to the Goddeſs Baaltis, which is Dione, and (h) that he had Daughters by Dione. And ſome others ſay of her, that ſhe was a Sea Nymph, and the Mother of Venus by Jupiter: For this Reaſon Virgil (i) calls her Dionæa, and Julius Cæſar is alſo (k) call'd by him Dionæus, as deſcended at a great Diſtance from her.

163. When Ham was at Berytus, his Son Phut was with him, and moſt probably he was one of the Cabiri at that Time. After his Death he was deify'd, and call'd Apollo, and was reputed to be the God of Wiſdom, of Muſick, of Phyſick, and Shooting with Bows and Arrows, and conſecrated into the Sun: And as Ham retain'd both Names, and was call'd Jupiter Hammon; ſo it was the ſame with Phut, who was call'd Apollo Pythius, where each of the radical Letters are preſerv'd, with ſuch Alterations as are uſual in Tranſlating of ſuch Words into different Languages. The Greeks and Latins reckon'd him to be the Son of Jupiter by Saturn: The learned Bochartus tells us, that there have been ſome among the ancients, who have writt'n, that Apollo was an African, the Son of Hammon, and the fifth of that Name. And he adds, that the Hiſtory of the large Dragon kill'd by him is an Evidence of it, ſince there were hardly any Dragons to be met with of ſo great a Bulk, except in Africa or in India, which he ſuppos'd to be utterly unknown in thoſe early Ages after the Flood; and all this exactly agrees with the firſt Situation of him and his Poſterity in this Country, adjoining to Egypt, on the eaſt Side. And therefore it is moſt probable, that he not only went with Ham to ſettle a Colony in Africa, but alſo accompany'd him in his Return to Berytus.

164. As

164. As Ham had many Wives beſides Aſtarte, who was the firſt and moſt principal; ſo thoſe ſeven Daughters, which he had by Aſtarte, were for Diſtinction Sake call'd Titanides or Artemides. The Word in the ſingular Number is Artemis, by which Name the great Diana of the Epeſians was commonly known among the Greeks. The Word is of an eaſtern Derivation, and comes from חרטום Hartom a Diviner, by which Name the Chaldean Wizards in Daniel are often call'd, it being an honourable Title among them, altho' among us it is in deſerv'd Contempt. She was afterward conſecrated into the Moon. She was at firſt call'd triformis or one of three Shapes; becauſe the Moon had no Light at the Change, had no dark Part at the Full, and was partly light and partly dark at other Times. Hence aroſe the three Names, which were giv'n her, and the three Places for her Abode; that ſhe was Luna in Heaven, Diana upon Earth, and Hecate in Hell. Sacrifices were made to her in the open Streets, and in them the Athenians made a ſumptuous Supper for her every new Moon, which was eat'n in the Night by the poor People of the City. She was call'd by the Egyptians Bubaſtis; her Feaſts were nam'd Bubaſtea, and the City, where they were yearly celebrated, was alſo call'd Bubaſtis. And it is obſervable, that the Greeks and Latins did look upon all their principal Sorceries and Magick to (*) be perform'd by moon Shine.

165. I ſuppoſe, that theſe were the Idols, which the Iſraelites afterward worſhipp'd, as Repreſentations of the Sun and Moon. For tho' the very Bodies of thoſe, and all the other Planets were worſhip'd by the Poſterity of Shem in the more eaſtern Nations; yet this ſoon wore out, and was ſucceeded by Images to repreſent them. Beſides, tho' the Poſterity of Ham, ſoon went off to Idolatry; yet the Iſraelites who liv'd among them, were never charg'd in the old Teſtament for worſhipping the Bodies of thoſe Stars; and (l) when they were in the Wilderneſs, Chiun or Remphan, and Moloch or Saturn and Mars were worſhipp'd by Figures, or Repreſentations made for that Purpoſe. The Charge brought againſt them by (m) the Pſalmiſt is, that they were mingl'd among the heathen, and learn'd their works, and ſerv'd their idols, particularly, the idols of Canaan, which were a ſnare unto them. For tho' ſtrictly ſpeaking, the Worſhip of theſe Idols was begun in that Part of Canaan, which the Iſraelites never conquer'd; yet there is no Doubt, but it ſpread it ſelf throughout the whole Country of their common Father; and it was even begun and carry'd on in thoſe Parts of the Land about Tyre and Sidon, with whom the Iſraelites always maintain'd a fair Correſpondence. Beſides, the Worſhip of the Sun and Moon began very late among the Iſraelites, and not until they were univerſally worſhipp'd by ſuch Images as theſe. It is certain, that Moſes (n) forewarn'd them of this; but the firſt Account, in (o) which we find that the Children of Iſrael were guilty of it, was in the Days of King Joſiah, who put down the idolatrous prieſts, whom the kings of Judah had ordained to burn incenſe in the high places to the ſun, and to the moon, and to the planets, and to all the hoſt of heaven. And he took away the horſes which the kings of Judah had given to the ſun, and he burnt the chariots of the ſun with fire. It is certain, that Horſes throughout all the Eaſt (p) were dedicated to the Sun, and it was a Cuſtom among the Perſians, Armenians, and Maſſagetæ to dedicate Horſes, and ſacrifice them to the Sun; and among others, to bring Horſes forth early in the Morning, with a great deal of Pomp to meet the Sun riſing; and thus the Horſes of King Cyrus were brought forth to meet him on ſuch an Occaſion. And both (q) Xenophon and Herodotus tell us, that Horſes were brought forth to the Sacrifices of the Sun, and a white Chariot was drawn after them, and therefore both the Horſes and the Chariots were accounted ſacred. And it is probable, that the moſt ſolemn Worſhippers of the Sun did ride in thoſe Chariots. Hence we read ſo often in the Heathen Poets of the Chariots of the Sun, and this might give the firſt Riſe to the Story of the Sun's being drawn by (*) four Horſes, and his Picture being frequently made in the ſame Manner. And tho' good King Joſiah aboliſh'd theſe Horſes and Chariots, yet the Idolatry continu'd ſtill; inſomuch that it was repreſented (r) to Ezekiel as the moſt heinous Provocation of the Iſraelites, that ſeveral of them were with their backs toward the temple of the LORD, and their faces toward the eaſt, and they worſhipped the ſun toward the eaſt.

166. And as Cain when he firſt worſhipp'd the Sun, call'd him בעל שמים the King or Lord of Heaven; ſo it is probable, that the Iſraelites might call him by the ſame Name, and from hence they might call the Moon, or the great Goddeſs Diana, whom they worſhipp'd as her Repreſentative, (s) The queen of heaven, for which Reaſon ſhe was call'd Baaltis or the Queen or Lady. Of this the Prophet Jeremiah complains, That the children gathered the wood, and the fathers kindled the fire, and the women knead their dough to make cakes to the queen of heaven, upon which they were ſuppos'd to make the Picture of the Moon at the Full, which might well be plac'd on any thing, that was round, and then to eat it as a ſolemn Commemoration of the Benefits, which they receiv'd from her. To her they alſo burnt Incenſe in the Night, of which ſhe was the ſuppos'd Miſtreſs, and were ſo obſtinate in their Way, that after the Captivity of Babylon, the Remainder, which fled into Egypt, both Men and Women, with the Conſent of each, practis'd the ſame, and not only vindicated it before the Prophet Jeremiah, but alſo declar'd their Reſolution of continuing in it.

167. Phut or Apollo having marry'd one of theſe Artemides, who might probably be, not one of the Daughters of Ham, but rather one of his Grand-daughters, and call'd by the ſame Name, had a Son by her, whom he call'd Aſclepius or Æſculapius. There are ſome, who make him to be the Son of Sydyck, or The Juſt, or Melchiſedek, who is ſuppos'd to be Shem the Son of Noah, and that from him came the Dioſcuri, or Cabiri, Corybantes, or Samothraces. But this is improbable. It is uncertain, that (t) Melchiſedek left any Children behind him. It is unlikely, that he would leave them with Ham, who was ſo notoriouſly guilty of Injuſtice and Idolatry, he himſelf being ſo religious and juſt a Man; and if the Arabick Hiſtorians may be credited, he was not in Canaan, until after the Death of Noah. And therefore it is more likely, that he was the Son of Phut, or Apollo, by one of the Artemides, whom they call the Nymph Coronis, as ſhe is commonly reputed to be. His Father took Care that he ſhould be bred up to the Practiſe of Phyſick, which before his Time was but little underſtood; which Art he ſo much improv'd, that he was afterward reckon'd as the God of it. He was ſo ſucceſsful in Reſtoring of Health to the Sick, and Safety to thoſe whoſe Condition was thought to be deſperate, that he was ſaid to have the Power of Reſtoring the Dead to Life again. His Picture was made with many Dogs about him, as the Sign of the Diſtempers, which prey upon Mankind; and the Goats were ſacrific'd to him, as Beaſts which deſtroy'd the Vines, whoſe Fruit did chear the Heart of Man. The Cabiri originally were but Seven; but he was Sir-nam'd Eſmuni in Hebrew השמיני or the Eighth; ſo that it is probable, that he was added to the Number. Apulcius, in his Book concerning the Virtues of Herbs, ſaith, that Phut or Apollo gave to Æſculapius the Herb Solanum or Night ſhade, acquainting him (as it is probable) with its Virtues and Uſes. And from his Name that Herb is call'd חציר השמיני or the Herb of Eſmini, in the Auctuarium of Dioſcorides. And therefore the Character which Sanchoniatho gives of the Children of the Cabiri, that they had Skill in Herbs, and the Cure of Bitings, and alſo of Charms, is very probable; ſince they might learn the one from Æſculapius, who was ſo well inſtructed by Apollo, and they might learn the other from the Artemides. He was worſhipp'd firſt at Epidaurus (which was ſuppos'd to be the Place, where he was born) and afterwards at Rome, becauſe when he was ſent thither, he deliver'd that City from a dreadful Peſtilence. For which Reaſon a Temple was dedicated to him at the Mouth of the Tiber, where he was worſhipp'd under the Form of a great Serpent. And Pauſanias in his Corinthiaca, mentions a Temple to Æſculapius, Apollo, and Hygieia or Health; and the Goddeſs Salus had a Temple built to her in Rome, near the Gate call'd Porta Salutaris, who was ſo much honour'd by the Romans, that anciently ſeveral Holy Days were appointed, in which they worſhipp'd her.

168. Another Son of Ham was Canaan. He was ſuppos'd to be the (u) Planet Mercury. 1. Canaan was the Son of Ham, and Mercury the Son of Jupiter Hammon, or the ſame Perſon. 2. The Etymology of their Names is the ſame. Canaan in Hebrew ſignifies a Merchant, and Mercury in Latin comes from a Word, which ſignifies Merchandiſe. 3. Canaan was curs'd by Noah that he ſhould be a ſervant of ſervants to his brethren, and Mercury is generally repreſented as a Servant to the reſt of the Gods. 4. Mercury is reputed to preſide over the Highways, and the Phœnicians, who were of the Race of Canaan, were the firſt, who adventur'd to ſail into foreign Countries. 5. Mercury was always accounted as a Thief, and Ham the Father of Canaan was the great Incroacher upon the Dominions of his Brethren. 6. Mercury was always eſteem'd as a ſubtil cunning Fellow in all his Dealings, and the Phœnicians had the ſame Character among their Correſpondents. 7. Mercury is eſteem'd as the Father of Eloquence, and Sanchoniatho repreſents one of this Name as the firſt Inventer of Letters, which firſt came from Phœnicia or the Country of Canaan into Greece. 8. Mercury is ſaid to be the Inventer of the Harp τῆς κιθάρας, and and the Phœnician Word כנור plainly ſhews, from whence it had its Original. 9. Mercury is reckon'd by ſome to be the Inventer of Aſtronomy, and the Phœnicians directed the Courſes of their Sailing by Aſtronomical Obſervations, and the Skill of Aſtronomy, as Strabo tells us, was tranſmitted from them to Greece. 10. Canaan was curs'd becauſe he delighted himſelf with his Father Ham in viewing the Nakedneſs of his Grandfather Noah; and Mercury the Son of Jupiter is repreſented as a Pimp and Procurer to him in all his Intreagues. And laſtly, Milk and Honey was offer'd to Mercury, the Cauſe whereof ſeems to be, becauſe the Land of Canaan, which fell to his Share, is ſo frequently mention'd in Scripture as abounding with thoſe Commodities.

169. Mel-

169. Melchiſedeck liv'd in the Land of Canaan, who is generally ſuppos'd to be Shem the Son of Japhet. Accordingly Sanchoniatho tells us, that Ouranus or Noah had three Sons, Chronus or Ham, Sydick or Shem, and Nereus or Japhet, and he gives us ſome Account of him under the Name of Sydyk or the juſt Man, particularly that he had ſeven Sons, who were the Cabiri, by one of the Artemides, and their eighth Brother Aſclepius or Æſculapius, who firſt of all ſet down in Memoirs the ancient Hiſtory of the World, as their God Taautus or Thoth commanded them. The Occaſion hereof I take to be this, Melchizedeck or Sydyck was a juſt and a peaceable Man, endu'd with all good Qualities, and moſt exemplary for his Piety, and old enough to be the Father of any Man in the World; for theſe Reaſons the Cabiri, willing to do themſelves the greater Honour, might reckon themſelves to be his Children, eſpecially in the large Senſe of the Word, which Sanchoniatho might take more ſtrictly, and be more fond thereof, as beſt ſerving his Purpoſe, which was to write ſuch a Hiſtory, as might eſtabliſh the Religion, that they had invented. It is therefore no Wonder, if the Cabiri ſhould make him a God, and tranſform him into the Planet Jupiter. Hence Sanchoniatho ſaith, that from Sydyk came the Dioſcuri Διόσκουροι, or the Children of Jupiter, and the Hebrews did anciently call the Planet Jupiter צדק or Sedeck, as appears (x) by the moſt ancient Records, which were extant among them, the Scriptures excepted.

170. The next is Nimrod. He was the Founder of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, the Capital whereof was Babylon, a Place moſt remarkable for Idolatry. He was the great Promoter thereof towards his Parents in his Life Time, and therefore it is no Wonder, if the ſame was paid to him after his Deceaſe. After Nimrod (y) had conquer'd many Nations far and near, and had built the City call'd Nineveh, he in a publick Aſſembly of the Babylonians extoll'd his Grandfather Ham as the Founder of the City and Empire of Babylon in an extravagant Manner, as he uſually did, and repreſented him not only as worthy of perpetual Honour among all Poſterity, but alſo of Immortality among the Gods above. Accordingly to immortalize his Name, he exhibited a Statue of him, which was curiouſly and neatly made; and commanded, that they ſhould worſhip him with divine Honour, and pay the ſame Reverence to him dead, which they would pay to him, if he had been alive; and that if at any Time an Offender ſhould fly to this Statue, he ſhould not be forc'd away from thence to be puniſh'd, becauſe it was appointed to be a common Sanctuary to the unfortunate. This thing eaſily procur'd an Opinion of a Divinity in their dead Parent Ham; ſo that he was created as a God, under the Title of Jupiter the Son of Noah or Saturn and a moſt magnificent Temple was erected for him in Babylon, and dedicated with variety of Sacrifices a little before the death of Nimrod. Thus Nimrod paves the way for his own Conſecration, and Sanchoniatho calls him Adodus the King of the Gods, and ſaith, that he reign'd over the Country by the Conſent or Authority of Ham himſelf. As (≈) the Auxiliaries of Ham were call'd אלהים Elohim or Gods; ſo Nimrod's Kingdom being much more extended, even to Aſſyria and it's ſeveral Parts, he might have many ſubordinate Kings or Governours under him, and ſo be call'd by this Title. And hence it was that (a) Adad was in thoſe early Times known to be the common Title of Kings in thoſe Parts. He ſeems to be conſecrated into the Sun, and accordingly Macrobius tells us, that (*) the Aſſyrians had a great Opinion of the Power of the Sun, and they gave it the Title of Adad, whom they worſhipp'd as the higheſt and the greateſt, and the Interpretation of the Name ſignify'd The only or eminent one: So that, as Nimrod was the moſt eminent Perſon on Earth, he might after his deceaſe, be reckon'd the moſt eminent Light in the Heavens.

171. I ſhall only add farther, that Nimrod is the ſame, who in after Ages was (b) call'd Bacchus. For 1 Bacchus is the ſame with בר כוש Bar cuſh, or the Son of Cuſh, and ſo was Nimrod. 2 Thus Barcus and Bacchus are the ſame; as in the Hebrew Dammeſek and Darmeſek are both put for Damaſcus. 3 Bacchus was the Son of Jupiter, and Nimrod was reckon'd to be the Grandſon, or Son in a larger ſenſe, of Ham or Jupiter. 4 It is probable, that his Name was ſoon alter'd from Nimrod to נמרא Nimra, which Word in the Chaldee ſignifies a Tiger, and hence the Poets feign'd the Chariot of Bacchus to be drawn by Tigers, and himſelf to be cloath'd with the Skin of a Tiger. 5 Others derive the Name from νέβρις Nebris, the Skin of a fallow Deer, and therefore (c) they call Bacchus, Nebrodes, as if he was cloath'd with ſuch a Skin, not knowing that it was the very Name of Nimrod, as us'd by the Septuagint, Joſephus and other Greek Authors. 6 The moſt ancient Name of Bacchus in the Greek Fables is ζάγρευς, which ſignifies a mighty Hunter; and this is the Character, which Moſes gives of Nimrod. 7 Homer (d) tells us, that Bacchus was Born in Arabia, near the Rivers of Egypt; and this was the Country allotted to Cuſh and his Family, who probably liv'd there at the Time, when his Son Nimrod was born. 8 Bacchus was eſteem'd to be the God of Wine, and Nimrod was the firſt, who reign'd in Babylon, and the adjacent Parts, where there was the beſt Wine, which the Ancients call'd Nectar, or the Wine of the Gods, who firſt liv'd in thoſe Countries, and were afterward deify'd. And laſtly, the Expeditions of Bacchus into the eaſt as far as India, contain not only the Acts of Nimrod, but alſo of his Succeſſors.

172. It is Time to leave Aſia, and return to Egypt in Africa, where the Wars between the upper and lower Country brought in the Cuſtom of deifying the Kings, who fought for them. Upper Egypt being peopl'd in the early Ages of the World, before Images were ſet up to be worſhipp'd, they choſe ſome Animals, as the fitteſt Repreſentations of their deceas'd Kings, which might beſt recollect their Tempers, or ſome Benefits, which when living, they had conferr'd on their Country. Herodotus (e) who travel'd into Egypt, was acquainted with their Prieſts, and by them inſtructed in their ſacred Rites, aſſures us, that they did not ultimately terminate their Prayers in the Beaſt, which was conſecrated for that Purpoſe, and before whom they paid their Devotions; but they directed their Prayers to the particular Deity, to whom each Beaſt belong'd. But if the religious Worſhip of dead and conſecrated Benefactors was lawful, and it was alſo true, that ſuch Worſhip was to be giv'n to the Image as belongs to the Perſon repreſented thereby, becauſe it all paſſes to the Prototype (which are the current Doctrines in the Romiſh Church) all this Egyptian Service paid to Bulls, Cats, Dogs and Monkies, will be excus'd from Blame; for it is all founded upon the ſame Principles.

173. But the Inhabitants of Lower Egypt not coming thither until Image Worſhip had ſpread it ſelf in the Land of Canaan, they brought with them this Superſtition; and as they renounc'd the Gods, which the others worſhipp'd, as their utter Enemies; ſo they abhor'd the Manner, by which they worſhipp'd them. And indeed all the other Heathens, eſpecially the Roman, Greek, and Phœnician Idolaters deteſted this Folly of Giving religious Worſhip to Beaſts, tho' it was declar'd to be only relatively, as conſecrated living Images of Deities, and that Prayer was not directed ultimately to them. But then they would not be ſenſible, that they themſelves did as abſurd a Thing in Giving as much Adoration to Images of Wood, Stone, and Metal, which were without Life, and ſo had leſs Likeneſs to the Souls of the Heroes, whom they worſhipp'd thereby.

174. Mizraim was call'd by ſeveral Names, as Oſiris, Hyſiris, Shiran, Minaios, and Timaios, with many others. As he was the great Improver of Husbandry in that Country; ſo he was repreſented by the Bull or Ox Apis, and Mnevis or Menis. And the Bull and Ox being the chief Helpers in Plowing the Ground, Carrying in and Treading out the Corn, according to their ancient Method, did bring him beſt into their Mind, who brought their Labours to ſo great a Perfection, and was ſo beneficial thereby. And after his Death he was conſecrated into the Sun, the Bringer forth of all Fruits. In Scripture he is repreſented under three ſeveral Names, relating to the Worſhip giv'n him. The firſt Name is Mæon. This is the ſame with Menes with a little Alteration, and the Country of Mæonia was ſo call'd from him. The Name in Hebrew ſignifies a Dwelling-Place, a Refuge, or an Habitation, and might therefore at firſt be given to him as the Founder of the Egyptian Monarchy, and the Maker of it both habitable and fruitful. This Name in Moſes his Time was thought to ſignify ſo great an Honour to this Deity, that (f) when the Towns of Nebo and Baalmeon were in the Poſſeſſion of the Reubenites, on the other Side of Jordan, who rebuilt them, after they had been much ruin'd by the War, it was thought fit, that their Names ſhould be chang'd, that they might the better obſerve (g) the Command, Make no mention of the names of their gods, neither let them be heard out of your mouth, eſpecially ſuch Names, which ſignify'd Reſpect and Eſteem, as this did. Meon ſignify'd this falſe God to be the Founder of the Happineſs of that Place, and therefore the Jews, and even Moſes himſelf gives this Title to the true GOD, (h) LORD, thou haſt been מעון our dwelling place or refuge in all generations. And (i) Thou haſt made the LORD, which is my refuge, even the moſt high, מעונך thy Meon or habitation. So that this Title was thought too great to be allow'd to the falſe God, within the Dominions of the Worſhippers of the true one.

175. Another Title by which Mizraim was call'd as a God, was Baal peor; or the Lord and Maſter of Nakedneſs and Obſcenity. It is probable, that this Name was not giv'n him by any of his Worſhippers; but it is often mention'd in Scripture, thereby to render the Image of him as contemptible as it ought to be. The Occaſion whereof was this: As the Image of Ham or Jupiter was firſt made with a Pomegranate in his Hand to ſhew, that he was the Father of the Nations, which peopl'd all Africa, and Part of Aſia; ſo Mizraim being the Father of Egypt, his Picture was made in the moſt beaſtly Poſture, as a Token thereof. The Chaldee Paraphraſe upon (k) the before mention'd Verſe calls Baal meon A City of Balak, in which Iſrael deſtroy'd the Idol Peor in the Houſe of Altars, and the City, whoſe Wal's encompaſs'd that Temple, and were remarkable for the Names of the Men, which were writt'n upon them, and (for the Name of) Shiran, Oſiris or Mizraim. Here it is plain, that Baal-meon and Baal peor was the ſame Idol, whom the Egyptians and all his Worſhippers deſign'd to honour, when they call'd him Meon, as a Perſon who gave them Habitations, Eſtates, Refuge, and all the Benefits of a Colony. But Moſes, and the later Jews call'd him Peor, to let us know, that he was the God, who ſhew'd himſelf boaſtingly and publickly in the moſt ſcandalous Manner, as a Friend to Debauchees. St. Hierome, who very well underſtood the eaſtern Learning, often tells us, that Peor is Priapus, the God of Gardens among the Romans, whoſe Picture was plac'd there to frighten away not only Crows and ravenous Birds, but (one would think) all rational Creatures, who had any Shame or Modeſty left them. Lucian ſufficiently derides this Image among the Egyptians. Herodotus deſcribes it too ſcandalous to be tranſlated, and tells us, that he had ſeen it, as the ordinary Image ſacred to Oſiris. Diodorus Siculus tells us, that in their Worſhip of him, not only toward his lifeleſs Image, but alſo toward the Goat at Mendes, and perhaps alſo in the Bull Apis, and in Pan or Faunus, the Sileni and Satyrs; they gave Thanks for the numerous Iſſue of their Progenitors. And Plutarch ſaith, that in the Feaſts dedicated to Oſiris call'd Pamylia or Pamylitia, this ſhameleſs Image was carry'd in Proceſſion.

Image

176. Tho' the Children of Japhet and Shem had the ſame Reaſon to expreſs their Gratitude for the ſame Bleſſing; yet no Heathens deſcended from them were anciently ſo ſhameleſs in their Religion, as thoſe were, who deſcended from Ham and Mizraim; eſpecially until the Time, when their Off ſpring mingling with them in after Ages, did corrupt ſome Part of Aſia the leſs, and Greece alſo and Rome in ſome Meaſure, with a Mixture of their immodeſt Practices. And it is certain, that Moſes took the beſt Courſe to ſecure the Memory and Acknowledgement of GOD's Increaſing Mankind ſo wonderfully in the firſt Ages after the Flood, by a modeſt Hiſtory of the whole World in general, without Applying it more particularly to any Place or Nation. And when there was an Occaſion for a particular Commemoration, it was excellently and modeſtly done in a Pſalm of David for that Purpoſe; in which this (l) one Verſe, He increaſ'd his people greatly, and made them ſtronger than their enemies, proves to their Eyes, that the true GOD did multiply his People before the Faces of the Egyptians, and in their own Land; more than all the ſhameleſs Gods of Egypt were able to do for their Worſhippers.

177. Another Title, by which Mizraim was call'd as a God, was Tammuz. For him there was an annual Lamentation, which the Scripture calls (m) Mourning for Tammuz. The Original of the Story is reported in this Manner. That Mizraim the firſt King of the Egyptians, and his Wife Iſis, having built many Cities, ſecured their Land from the Damage of the Nile, improv'd the Art of Husbandry, and done many other good Acts, were ſo honour'd by the People, that they were thought to be immortal, becauſe their Subjects wiſh'd, that they might be ſo. However he was kill'd in Battle by the Soldiers of Lower Egypt. His Wife Iſis fought him a great while before ſhe could find him, his Body being (as ſome ſay) cut into many Pieces. But when ſhe had found him, ſhe laid him in a Coffin, carry'd him firſt to Ham in Canaan, and then brought him back and laid him in a Monument in an Iſland near Memphis encompaſs'd by the Lake call'd Styx, which was therefore reckon'd ſacred by the deify'd Gods of his Poſterity, and afterward by all. This tragical Story was the Subject of an ancient Song, call'd in the Egyptian Language Maneros, from Manes or Mnes one of the Names of Miſraim, which was ſung ſolemnly once a Year, in which they lamented him as cut off in the Prime of his Youth, and was the Occaſion of the Lamentation (n) of Venus or Iſis among the Greeks, for the Youth Adonis, whom ſhe greatly lov'd, which in Hebrew is אדון Adon, a Lord or Husband; and is the Word by which (o) Sarah call'd her Husband Abraham. And becauſe when Iſis ſought her Husband thus dead, ſhe us'd Dogs, who by their excellent Smelling might diſcover where he was hid, therefore the ancient Cuſtom was, that Dogs went firſt in an anniverſary Proceſſion in Honour of Iſis. After the Body of Mizraim was interr'd, the Story goes, that there appear'd to the Egyptians a ſtately beautiful Ox, which they thought was the Ghoſt of Mizraim, and therefore they worſhipp'd it, and call'd it Apis, which in their Language ſignifies an Ox. And becauſe his Body after his Death was, as ſome ſay, found ſhut up in a Cheſt, or put in a Coffin,

Coffin, call'd in Greek σορὸς Soros, he was afterward call'd Sorapis, and then Serapis by the Change of a ſingle Vowel. The Marks of this Ox or Apis were (p) theſe, His Body was to be all black, except a ſquare Spot on his Forehead. He was alſo to have the Figure of an Eagle, as ſome ſay, or of a half Moon, as others tell us, upon his Back, a double Liſt of Hair on his Tail, and a Scarabæus or Knot under his Tongue; and others ſay, that he hath Horns like the Moon in its Increaſing. When they had found ſuch a one, they brought him with great Rejoycing to the Temple of Mizraim, and there they kept him, and worſhipp'd him for that God, as long as he liv'd; and when he was dead, they bury'd him with great Solemnity, and then the Prieſts ſhav'd their Heads, and mourn'd and lamented, and ſought for another with the ſame Marks to ſubſtitute in his Room, which ſome Times it was many Years, before they could find. It was in Imitation of this Idolatry, that Aaron made the golden Calf in the Wilderneſs, and Jeroboam thoſe in Dan and Bethel, and did ſet them up there to be worſhipp'd by the Children of Iſrael, as the Gods who brought them out of the Land of Egypt.

178. Beſide this, the Egyptians worſhipp'd him alſo in the Shape of a Hawk, becauſe they ſay, that this Bird carry'd once in his Beak to Thebes out of ſome remote Country, a Book writt'n with red Letters, containing ſeveral religious Ceremonies. Hence they ſay that their Prieſts us'd to wear a red Cap with a Hawk's Wing in it. Some think, that by the Ox and Hawk they only meant the Sun, who is ſtrong as an Ox, or as (q) David ſaith, as a giant to run his courſe. And as the Hawk is ſwift in his Flying, and hath a piercing Eye; ſo the Sun is unſpeakably ſwift in his apparent diurnal Motion, and is (r) the piercing Eye of the World, that ſeeth all Things. Some derive his Name from Os, which they ſay, in the Egyptian Language ſignifies much, and Iris an Eye, and if ſo, then Oſiris is many ey'd, which alſo agrees very well to the Sun, who ſeems to have as many Eyes as he hath Rays, by which he ſees, and makes all Things viſible. And therefore his Image in ſome Places was a Scepter, on the Top of which was plac'd an Eye. In (s) other Places, a Flasket was plac'd upon his Head to ſignify the Advantages, which the Nation receiv'd by his Improvement of Husbandry; and near him lay a Creature with three Heads, a Dog's, a Wolf's, and a Lyon's between them, to ſignify his quick eſpying of Advantages in War, and Valour upon ſuch Occaſions. Theſe were encompaſs'd by the Fold of a Snake, whoſe Head was near the right Hand of the Image, and ſeem'd to bridle the terrible Monſter, to repreſent how his Courage and Valiant Acts were manag'd with Prudence and Conduct. They, who repreſent Egypt as many thouſand Years older, than it really was, ſay, that the Egyptians were not ſo much overcome by his Arms, as oblig'd to him by his Courteſies and great Kindneſſes toward them; but the true reaſon of his being their firſt King was, becauſe he was the Father of the Nation. There was almoſt in all the Temples, where he was worſhipp'd, the Image of Silence preſſing it's Lips with it's Finger, and there were ſeveral Images of Sphinx about his Altar. Varro ſaith, that the Meaning of this was, that no one ſhould dare to ſay, that theſe Gods had been Men formerly. And the Laws inflicted Death upon him that ſaid, that Serapis was once a mortal Man, tho' it might be prov'd by the Derivation of his Name. Others ſay, that the Reaſon of this Privacy was, becauſe the Myſteries of this Idolatry were too filthy to be known; or, as the Apoſtle (t) ſaith, It is a ſhame, even to ſpeak of theſe things, which were done of them in ſecret. When theſe Ceremonies were tranſlated into Rome, much (u) Filthineſs was committed in the Temple of Iſis, which was near the Ovile, (for ſhe had two other Temples at Rome beſide this) as may be ſeen in (x) Ovid. And therefore (y) Tiberius, who was not the beſt of Emperors, overthrew that Temple, but Domitian ſet it up again, and (z) effeminate Otho was not aſham'd in a white Garment to perform thoſe Ceremonies. Maacha the Mother of Aſa King of Judah (a) erected this Idol, which was call'd in Scripture מפלצת a horrible thing, and ſhe was the chief Prieſteſs at the Ceremonies. Chemoſh, the (b) abomination of the Moabites, is (c) thought to be the ſame God, and the Name כמוש ſignifies Like one, who gropes about or feels for his way in the dark, as if his Delight was in the works of Darkneſs; and therefore a Grove was near his Temple, as the fitteſt Place for ſuch Impurities: And to make it ſtill more Abominable, there were (d) Houſes erected for the vileſt of theſe Purpoſes, near the Houſe of the LORD, where the Women alſo wove Hangings for the Groves, that there might be more private Places, in which they might commit all manner of Iniquity.

ſo the Jews went into the ſame Cuſtom, with a little Variation. The Prophet Ezekiel (e) deſcribes it by Women weeping for Tammuz. As Mizraim was conſecrated into the Sun, ſo Tammuz is ſuppos'd by ſome to ſignify the Sun. In Arabick it ſignifies the Summer; and the fourth Month among the Jews, when the Sun enter'd into Cancer was call'd Tammuz, and the entrance of the Sun at the Tropicks into Cancer or Capricorn is in the Jewiſh Aſtronomy call'd תקופת תמוז or the Revolution of Tammuz. In the Rites of Mizraim there were two things remarkable. Firſt, the Death or Loſs of him, and Secondly, the Finding of him again. Accordingly there was a great Lamentation at his Loſs, eſpecially (f) among the Women. And there was a great Joy at his Finding. And the Sun alters his Revolution or Courſe twice a Year. Firſt, after he is in the Tropick of Cancer, or the fartheſt Degree northward, he goes from us; and Secondly, after he is in the Tropick of Capricorn, or the fartheſt Degree ſouthward, he returns to us. And either of theſe in a different Senſe may be call'd the Loſs of the Sun, or the Finding it again. So that the Egyptians celebrated their Adonia, when the Sun was fartheſt ſouthward, and had immediate Rejoycings, becauſe they apprehended his Return again; but the Jews celebrated their Mourning, when the Sun began to depart from them; but we read of no Rejoycing afterward, becauſe it did not return again until the following Winter.

180. Neither were the Solemnities of Iſis the Wife of Mizraim, leſs regarded than thoſe of Mizraim himſelf. After her Death ſhe was tranſlated into the Dog Star, and this might be the reaſon that the Image of her Husband Oſiris or Mizraim was always attended with that of a Dog, and Mizraim himſelf might be reckon'd by ſome to be the Conſtellation of Orion, which was near it. She inſtituted the Sacra Iſiaca among the Egyptians, or thoſe myſtical Solemnities, which was a Commemoration of the prime Founders of their Monarchy, and eſpecially of her own Husband, as Gods or Dæmons, who were honour'd and lamented as both doing and ſuffering much for their Country, and ſtruggling under the Phœnician Powers. And as ſhe began to honour others in her Life Time; ſo the ſame Honours redounded to her after her Deceaſe. As ſhe joyn'd with her Husband Mizraim in Improving the Art of Husbandry both in Egypt and Greece; ſo ſhe was honour'd as the Goddeſs of Corn. She was call'd by the Greeks Demeter or the Mother Earth, and afterward by the Romans, Ceres, which word is often us'd for Corn itſelf. Sometimes ſhe was painted with Horns, and therefore ſome reckon'd, that ſhe repreſented the Moon, tho' perhaps the Reaſon was only becauſe, like Aſtarte, ſhe took to herſelf theſe Enſigns of Authority, as they ſignify'd in the eaſt Countries, and govern'd the Country, whenever her Husband Mizraim was abſent. She was cloath'd ſometimes in white Garments, ſometimes in black, and ſometimes in red or yellow. They who attributed all this to the Moon, gave this reaſon, becauſe ſhe look'd white in clear Weather, but red againſt Wind, and her black Garment was to repreſent her Colour at the change, and in an Eclipſe. But as ſhe was the Goddeſs of Corn; ſo after Harveſt ſhe might be cloath'd in black, in the Summer in white, and at Harveſt in red or yellow, to repreſent the Face of the Earth and the Weather at thoſe reſpective Seaſons. In her right Hand ſhe held a Cymbal or muſical Inſtrument, to ſignify, that Muſick was firſt after the Flood invented or improv'd in that Country; and the Reeds, which grew in the River Nilus, contributed much to that purpoſe: In her left Hand ſhe held a Bucket, thereby repreſenting the annual Inundation of that River, and the Repletion of all the Channels. Her Head was crown'd with the Feathers of a Vultur, and they adorn'd the Tops of her Porches with the ſame. And therefore among the Egyptians this Bird was conſecrated to her. Her Prieſts were call'd after her own Name Iſiaci; they were initiated by Water and Blood, they abſtain'd from Wine and the Fleſh of Sheep, and us'd no Salt to their Meat; and perhaps the Reaſon of that might be, becauſe they look'd upon the Sea, which ſometimes might happen to overflow the lower Lands, as an Enemy to their Country. They ſhav'd their Heads and Beards, and wore paper Shoes, and a linnen Veſt, becauſe Iſis firſt taught the uſe of Flax, and was therefore call'd Linigera. Upon the Pavement of her Temple, there was this (g) Inſcription, I am every thing, that hath been, and is, and ſhall be, neither hath any Mortal open'd my Veil. Becauſe ſhe was brought to Egypt at firſt in a Ship, and did afterwards upon frequent Occaſions ſail in the Mediterranean, therefore they made her a Goddeſs over the Winds and Seas. They reſerv'd her Hair at Memphis as a ſacred Relick, and dedicated a holy Day every Year to the Honour of the Ship, which brought her firſt into that Country. Near to her Image alſo ſtood the Image of Harpocrates the God of Silence, who was reputed to be the Son of Mizraim and Oſiris, intimating thereby that the Secrets of their Religion ſhould not be divulg'd, but that their Prieſts ſhould be ſilent; and it is probable, that they had this Reaſon for it, becauſe they knew, that the leſs it was known, the more it wou'd be admir'd. Her Worſhip in Greece and Rome by the Name of Demeter and Ceres, the ſacra Eleuſinia, and the Nature of her Image is too well known to need any Deſcription. idolatrous Worſhip of Iſis; and the Impunities in her Temple at Rome, which were tranſmitted thither from Egypt, and were blam'd, even by (i) their own Poets, as not to be endur'd.

181. It muſt not be omitted, that Herodotus tells us, of a Temple built by Menes or Mizraim to Hephæſtus or Vulcan. Vulcan was without Doubt the ſame with Tubalcain, of whom (k) Moſes ſaith, that he was the Son of Lamech, the Brother of Naamah, who was in all Probability the Wife of Ham before the Flood, and conſequently he was the Uncle of Mizraim, and he was the Inſtructor or Whetter on of every artificer in braſs and iron. Sanchoniatho (l) tells us, that he liv'd in the ſeventh Generation before the Flood, and was call'd Chryſor, (a Word deriv'd from the Hebrew, חרש which ſignifies an Artificer) and is the ſame with Hephæſtus or Vulcan. He was the Contriver of ſeveral things uſeful to Mankind, and was therefore after his Death worſhipp'd for a God, and they call'd him Diamichius, or Jupiter, the great Inventer or Contriver. His Name in the Egyptian Language was Phtha, and ſuppos'd to be of the ſame ſignification with the other, and from hence it is ſuppos'd, that the Greek Word was firſt deriv'd, tho' with much Change, as is very uſual in Paſſing out of one Language into another, eſpecially in Words of ſuch great Antiquity. It could not be practicable for Mizraim to deify his Father or any of his Relations being then alive, and therefore he could think of no one more proper for him to honour in this Manner, than his own Uncle, who was accounted as a God even before the Flood. The Time when Mizraim did this, was moſt probably in the Beginning of the Egyptian Wars, when they had Occaſion to make Swords, Spears and all ſorts of Armour and Chariots. For then the Deifying of Tubalcain or Vulcan as the God of the Smiths, might whet on thoſe Artificers to perform their Work with greater Care and Exactneſs, and invent more Inſtruments of War for the Service of their Country.

182. The next to Mizraim was Thoth the ſecond King of Egypt. He was call'd Thouth, Athothes, Orus, Hermes, Anubis and Hermanubis. He was ſaid to be the Planet Mercury. A Dog was conſecrated to him, and kept in the Temples dedicated to his Service. His Picture was like a Man, only he had the Head of an Hound, whoſe quick Scent was an Emblem of the great Sagacity, which was in him, when alive, and therefore he was call'd half a Man, and half a Dog. The Idol Nibhaz, which was worſhipp'd (m) by the Avites, is ſuppos'd to have repreſented him. The Word is ſometimes Nibkan, and comes from a Verb, which in the Hebrew and Chaldee ſignifies to bark like a Dog; and is ſuppos'd to be the ſame with (n) Anubis in Virgil, which was ſo call'd, becauſe he was painted with a Dog's Head.

183. The next to Thoth the ſecond King of Egypt was Thoth the ſecond of that Name, and the third King of Egypt. It is certain, that he was conſecrated as a God; but very uncertain under what Shape, or in what Manner. And as in Babylon Belus the firſt had all the Rights perform'd to him, which were intended for Belus the ſecond; ſo in Egypt Thoth the firſt, who was in Reality an extraordinary Perſon, ſeems to have eclips'd all the divine Honours intended for Thoth the ſecond, or at leaſt in Proceſs of Time they were all appropriated to him. Thus the Children and Grandchildren of Noah were deify'd after their Deaths, which occaſion'd the (*) Poets to ſay, that Berecinthia or Cybele, by which they meant Ge, the Earth, or rather the Wife of Noah had ſuch a numerous Offspring of Gods.

184. And as they deify'd their Kings in the Upper, ſo they did the ſame in Lower Egypt, particularly Salatis, Bæon and Apachnas their three firſt Kings. But the Honours paid to them were not ſo laſting, as thoſe which were paid to the others. For when the Kings of Upper Egypt had driv'n out the Paſtors and their Kings, they would not endure long, that any ſuch Reſpect ſhould be paid to thoſe, who had been in Effect, Rebels to them, and had giv'n them ſo much Trouble. In ſhort, it was abſolutely inconſiſtent to worſhip both; ſo that the Conquerors kept up the Worſhip of their own Kings, and the Gods of the conquer'd Nations ſoon dwindl'd into nothing.

185. Beſide theſe, there were (o) four other Gods, whom the Samaritans worſhipp'd, when a great Number of ſtrange Nations had been mix'd among them. The firſt which I ſhall mention is Succoth-benoth, who was one of the Gods of Babylon. The Word Succoth ſignifies Booths, and is therefore the Name of one or more Places, where Booths had been built for the Conveniency of ſuch, as ſtay'd there for ſome Time. Thus (p) Jacob journeyed to Succoth, and built him an houſe, and made booths for his cattle, therefore the name of the place was called Succoth. However it may probably be the Name of a Place, particularly in (q) Egypt, where this Deity was worſhipp'd. The Words in the Original ſignify Booths of or for Daughters, and was us'd metaphorically to ſignify a Hen and Chicken, who were protected or cover'd under the Hen, as Children or the Young of any Creatures were protected by Booths from Wind, Cold, or Rain. The (r) Hebrew Commentators ſeem to agree, that it was the Picture of a Hen with her Chicken, and the Occaſion of it might probably be thus. Before Idolatry or the Worſhip of Images was eſtabliſh'd at Babylon, they might worſhip Ham, who had rul'd over them, and ſettl'd their Form of Government under this Repreſentation; and the Egyptians knowing him to be their common Father, might continue the ſame Cuſtom, and think, that they had greater Reaſon for it. Hence they might build a Temple; and the Place where the Temple was built, and ſuch Animals as were kept therein, might be firſt call'd Succoth Benoth, and afterward only Succoth, becauſe the Young ones were not always with their Hen. But becauſe Succoth Benoth ſignifies The Tabernacles of Daughters, therefore others call them Houſes or Temples dedicated to the Pleiades. It is certain, that the Babylonians worſhipp'd the Stars, and were the firſt, who call'd the Conſtellations by particular Names. So that Succoth Benoth may not ſignify a God or Goddeſs, but rather the Tabernacle, and ſeveral Rites, which were us'd, when it was carry'd in Proceſſion; and any of their Goddeſſes might be call'd Daughters, or κόραι, ſince it was the Name by which Proſerpine was call'd among the Greeks. And thus Amos ſpeaks of the Idolatry of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs, (s) Ye have born the tabernacle of Moloch, and Chiun your images, and the ſtar of your God, figures which ye made to worſhip them. This Name gave afterward an Occaſion for much Wickedneſs; for ſuch Booths being call'd Boooths for Daughters made lewd Men come thither to find ſuch Women, and the Women to come thither on Purpoſe to be found by them. This grew up to be a Part of their Religion, which made (*) the Babylonians to become a vile and profligate People. Hence it was uſual for the Women once in their Life to ſit in a part of the Temple of Venus, which they call Succoth Benoth for the Uſe of Strangers. And when any Stranger came there, the Woman, whom he pitch'd upon, and offer'd Money to, let it be ever ſo little, was obliged to follow him, and lie with him. Beſides, The men of Cuth made Nergal a God, who is ſuppos'd to have been worſhipp'd under the Shape of a Partridge; and it is probable, that as Jupiter held a Pomegranate, ſo ſhe might hold a Palm Branch in her Hand, or they who worſhipp'd her, might carry ſuch Branches in Proceſſion, and hence they might be call'd Nergil by the Arabians and Perſians. Others ſay, that Nergal was the conſtant Fire in the Temple, which was moſt carefully preſerv'd, and worſhipp'd by the Magi. Aſhima the God of the Men of Hamath was a Goat. Nibhuz one of the Gods of the Avites was a Dog, and the other call'd Tartak was an Aſs. Adrammelech one of the Gods of Sepharvaim, was a Mule, and the other call'd Anammelech was a Horſe: To theſe may be added Niſroch, who was (t) the God of the Aſſyrians, and had a Temple at Nineveh. This is ſaid (u) to be a great Idol made out of the Remains of Noah's Ark, and was call'd נשר נוח or the Eagle of Noah, becauſe he was worſhipp'd by the Aſſyrians under that Shape. Thus we may obſerve, that the Original of all Idolatry at firſt ſprang out of Babylon and Egypt: And tho' it may ſeem ridiculous, that ſuch brute Beaſts ſhould be worſhipp'd as Gods; yet profane Authors ſufficiently teſtify, that the ſame hath been practis'd in other Parts of the Heathen World. The (x) Cock was worſhipp'd as a God among the Syrians; a (y) Goat by the Mendeſii; and (z) a Dog by others; and they have added to the Number of their Gods Oxen, Lyons, Eagles, Wolves, Crocodiles, Cats, Rats, and Mice; and many other deſpicable Animals. And others have digg'd their Gods out of their Gardens, as (a) Garlick, Leeks, and Onions. So that when every Nation had the Liberty to conſecrate as many Stars, Men, Beaſts, or any other Creatures for Gods, as they thought fit, and to receive any Gods from all other Countries of the World, without Reſtriction or Limitation, it is no Wonder, if Idolatry increas'd at a prodigious Rate, and that the Number might be vaſtly more, than what is mention'd in our Pantheon. And if, as Varro ſaith, they had three Hundred different Jupiters, the Reſt of their Gods might well be without Number. And therefore when the Jews learn'd Idolatry from the Heathens round about them, the Prophet Jeremiah might (b) without any Hyperbole uſe this Expreſſion. According to the number of thy cities are thy Gods, O Judah.

186. I ſhall mention but one more, viz. Prometheus, who is ſuppos'd to be Magog. For 1. Magog is by Moſes ſaid to be the Son of Japhet, and Prometheus by the Greek Poets is call'd the Son of Japetus. 2. Prometheus is ſaid to be fix'd to the Mountain of Caucaſus, becauſe that either he or his Poſterity ſettl'd in Scythia near that Mountain; and this is true as to Magog and his Poſterity. 3. Prometheus is ſaid to have brought Fire from Heaven to the Earth, becauſe when Metals were digg'd in Colchis or Iberia or the neighbouring Countries he found out the Art of Melting them by Fire, or reſtor'd it, as it was invented by Tubal-cain, and therefore Æſchylus the moſt ancient Greek Tragedian brings in Prometheus, uſing this Expreſſion, Who ſhall ſay, that he found out the Metals of Gold and Silver, and Braſs and Iron before me. 4. Prometheus with his Fire put Life into Clay; which is an Indication of the Neceſſity of preſerving Life by Fire in ſuch a cold Country, as Scythia the Country of Magog was. 5. For the Crime of Prometheus in bringing Fire from Heaven Jupiter is ſaid to puniſh him with an Eagle, which was continually feeding upon his Heart or Liver. This is only an Alluſion to the Word Magog, which (c) ſignifies to be diſſolv'd or conſume, and conſequently to be brok'n or tormented either in Body or Mind. Thus (d) the Pſalmiſt uſes the Word, when he ſpoke of Seamen in a Storm, Their ſoul melted away becauſe of trouble; and Ezekiel (e) That their heart may faint, which the Chaldee and Septuagint render thus, That their heart may be brok'n or wounded. And Laſtly, The City Aleppo or Hierapolis is (f) by Pliny call'd Magog, and ſeems to have taken its Name from Magog or Prometheus, becauſe Deucalion the Scythian, the Son of Prometheus, (g) is reported to have built it, and therein to have conſecrated the Temple to the Syrian Goddeſs. And therefore the Name of Magog was giv'n to the City, either by the Founder himſelf, or by the Syrians in Memory of him, who was ſuppos'd to be the Son of Magog, and to have came into Syria from the Country of Magog or Scythia.

187. I have been much longer on this Subject, than I at firſt intended, becauſe it not only gives an Account of the Original of the Idolatry of the Jews, ſo often complain'd of in the Scriptures, and conſequently helps to explain ſeveral Texts; but alſo, becauſe the pagan Worſhip not only in Europe, but in all other Parts of the World, of which there is ſo much Mention in all the Greek and Latin Authors, had their Riſe from hence. It is now high Time to return to the Hiſtory of the World, and here the firſt Thing worthy of our Obſervation is (h) the Death of Noah in the three hundred and fiftieth Year after the Flood, and in the nine hundred and fiftieth Year of his Age, whereas there was no one born after the Flood mention'd in Scripture who liv'd half ſo long. The (i) Arabick Hiſtorian gives this Account of his Death. That when it was near, he commanded his Son privately, ſaying, Take with thee the Body of Adam out of the Ark, and alſo take Bread and Wine for the Journey, and Melchiſedek the Son of Peleg, (another (k) calls him Melchizedek the Son of Shem) for he ſhall be the Prieſt of the moſt High, and carry the Coffin and his Body, until ye lay it down in the Place where the Angel of GOD ſhall direct you. Command alſo Melchizedek to fix his Abode there, and that he may devote his whole Life to Piety, becauſe the LORD hath choſen him for his immediate Service. He may not build him an Houſe, nor offer in that Place the Blood of any Beaſt, Bird, or any other Animal, nor any other Offering there except Bread and Wine, which he ſhall offer to the LORD. Let his Cloaths be of the Skin of a Lion, let him not ſhave his Head, nor cut his Nails, and let him remain alone, for he is the Prieſt of the moſt high GOD. And the Angel of the LORD ſhall go before you until ye ſhall come to the Place, where ye ſhall bury the Body of Adam. And when Noah had giv'n this in Charge to Shem, he died. And Shem obey'd his Command, and the Angel of the LORD directed him to a Mountain, where they bury'd the Coffin and the Body of Adam, and Shem return'd to his own People, but Melchizedek ſtay'd behind, and there he built the City of Jeruſalem, which he call'd Salem or Peace, and from hence he is call'd the King of Salem, that is, King of Peace, where he ſpent the reſt of his Life, devoted to the Worſhip of GOD, liv'd a ſingle Life, and his only Sacrifice was Bread and Wine. And in the Mountain where Adam was bury'd, CHRIST was afterward crucify'd. If any Credit can be giv'n to ſuch romantick Stories as theſe, it is certain, that the Cabiri at Berytus, of whom Thoth was Preſident, could not be the Sons of Melchizedek, ſince he came not into Canaan until almoſt an hundred Years after Thoth remov'd from thence into Egypt. There are ſome who ſuppoſe him to be Shem himſelf, and it is certain from Scripture Chronology, that Shem liv'd until Abraham was an hundred and fifty Years old. The Apoſtle rightly obſerves, (l) that the Name of Melchizedek is by Interpretation King of righteouſneſs, and Shem is call'd by Sanchoniatho Sydyck or The Juſt, and by the Jewiſh Writers Shem the Juſt. I ſhall mention one (m) Quotation for this Purpoſe, concerning the City of Jeruſalem, The Name of that Place is (n) Jehovah jireh. Abraham call'd the Place Jireh, Shem call'd it Shalem. Then GOD ſaid, If I ſhall call it Jireh, it will diſpleaſe Shem the juſt, If I ſhall call it Shalem, it will diſpleaſe Abraham the juſt. I will therefore put that Name upon it, which was put upon it by both. Jireh Shalem (he ſhall ſee Peace) or (in the plural Number) Jeru-Salem. However Noah or Fohi (as he is call'd by the Chineſe) dying, he was ſucceeded in the moſt eaſtern Kingdom at that Time, which the Chineſe will have to be their own by Xinnum the ſecond King or Emperor, who reign'd an hundred and forty Years, in the ſeventy ſixth Year of whoſe Reign the Promiſe was giv'n to Abraham. He (*) was the Inventer of the Plough, and the Improver of Husbandry, and eſtabliſh'd the Art of Phyſick among them. He was a very merciful Prince,

189. About this Time Tyrrhenus or Tyrſenus the Son of Atys, and third King of Lydia after Mizraim, takes with him a conſiderable Number of Men from thence, who from him were call'd Pelaſgi Tyrrheni, and from their ſacrificing Rites, they were call'd by the Greeks Thuſci. With theſe he ſails into Italy, and poſſeſſes that Part, which was call'd afterward Tuſcany, and takes three hundred Towns from the Umbri, who were the moſt ancient People of that Country. They ſettl'd themſelves near the River Tibur, which was therefore call'd (p) Lydius Tibris by Virgil; and Horace, who reckons (q) Mœcenas to be ſprung from ancient Kings, plainly intimates, that they were Lydians. And Pliny reckons the Lydi amongſt the old Planters of Tuſcany. The Ornaments of their ancient Kings, which Tarquinius Priſcus receiv'd from them, and with which they had been uſually adorn'd, were a Crown of Gold, an Ivory Seat, a Scepter with an Eagle upon it's Head, and a Purple Robe embroider'd with Gold. This Country was a conſiderable Part of the Roman Empire, and the Aſſiſtance, which it had from thence, was a principal Cauſe of Raiſing it ſo ſoon to it's ancient Grandeur. And it is probable, that about this Time ſeveral of the Poſterity of Tarſhiſh, who before had ſettl'd a Colony there, and were well provided with Ships of large Bulk and good Sailing, according to the Model of thoſe, which they brought with them from Aſia the leſs, being alſo afraid of ſo potent an Enemy and Neighbour, might ſail to Spain, and build the Town call'd by them at firſt Tarſhiſh, and afterward Tarteſſus, a Seaport Town, lying to the north of Cadis, or Gades. Euſebius (r) ſpeaking of Tarſhiſh the Grandſon of Japhet ſaith, that from him came the Iberians, which Name it is probable came from the Phœnicians, who ſettl'd in Carthage, and ſpoke the Hebrew Language, and conſequently call'd the Bounds or utmoſt Limits of any thing עברים Ebrim or Ibrim, a Word often us'd in (s) the Syriack Tranſlation of the old and new Teſtament. From whence it is not unlikely, that the Spaniards were call'd by this Name of Iberi, becauſe they were thought to poſſeſs the utmoſt Ends of the Earth toward the Weſt. Beſides, Polybius repeating the Words of a League made between the Romans and Carthaginians, mentions a Place call'd Tarſejum, and Stephanus expreſly ſaith, that Tarſejum; was a City near to Hercules his Pillars, the Situation whereof agrees very well with that of Tarteſſus. The Word might be eaſily chang'd to Tarteſſus by an Alteration of ſh into t, than which nothing was more common in the Eaſtern Languages. Thus Aſſyria in Chaldee is Attyr, and Baſhan in Greek is Butaniæa. The Prophet Ezekiel (t) ſpeaks of Tyre, Tarſhiſh was thy merchant by reaſon of the multitude of all kind of riches; with ſilver, iron, tin and lead they traded in thy fairs. This is generally ſuppos'd to be Tarteſſus in Spain. And the learned Bochartus (x) hath prov'd out of many Authors, that theſe were the Commodities, in which that Country abounded, and that in theſe particulars the Phœnicians were greatly enrich'd by Trading with them. And the extraordinary Riches of this Country might be the great Inducement to the Poſterity of Tarſhiſh to plant a Colony there, rather than in any other Country, which lay nearer to Italy.

190. Thus have we ſeen, how Italy was firſt peopl'd by Ham, Tarſhiſh and Tyrrhenus. But as it lay open on all ſides to the Sea, and eſpecially to the Eaſt; ſo it was peopl'd at ſeveral Times, and accordingly it (y) contain'd many diſtinct Nations, the principal of which were the Sabines, Hetrurians or Tuſcans, Umbri, Samnites, Campani, Apulii, Calabri, Lucanii and Brutii, and other of inferior Note; As for the reſt of what is now call'd Italy, it was principally poſſeſs'd by the Gauls, who had driv'n out the Hetrurians, and ſettl'd themſelves in thoſe Parts, being diſtinguiſh'd into ſeveral Names, as the Senones, the Inſubres, &c. This Part was almoſt the ſame with the preſent Lombardy, and went by the Name of Gallia Ciſalpina and Togata, to diſtinguiſh it from Gallia Trans-alpina, which is now call'd France. But as Livy only begins his Hiſtory from the Landing of Æneas in Italy about three hundred Years before the deſtruction of Troy, from whence the firſt Epocha began in the Heathen World; ſo we have but little Account of what happen'd before, and all that is conſiderable relate only to thoſe who were afterwards call'd Latines, and call'd themſelves Aborigines. Neither was there any particular Excellency in them, only they were better known, and much more inquir'd after by all Hiſtorians. Theſe (z) were of the Poſterity of the Oenotrians, and came thither under the Conduct of Oenotrus the Son of Lycaon King of Arcadia, who had driv'n out the Siculi the firſt Inhabitants of thoſe Parts. This Country was afterward call'd Italy from Italus a King of Sicily, who planted a Colony in thoſe Parts, and made great Improvements there by Teaching the Inhabitants the Art of Husbandry. And when their Neighbours learnt this Art from them, they alſo extended the Name throughout the whole Country thus improv'd. At firſt the Country of Latium, which they poſſeſs'd, was but a ſmall Country, ſituated near the River Tibur, about thirty Miles in Length and ſixteen in Breadth, containing near a fourth Part of that little Province in the Pope's Dominions, now call'd Compagna di Roma. This Country was govern'd by their own Kings, above 1300 Years before CHRIST, and were the firſt Kings, which we hear of in Italy, or in all Europe, except Greece, and perhaps Germany. Theſe Kings kept their Courts at Laurentum, which was a City about five Miles diſtant from the Mouth of the River Tibur, and were Governours of a mix'd People. Firſt, ſome Pelaſgi out of Italy ſettl'd among them; and we are told by ſome Authors, that Saturn came thither from Crete, when he fled from his Son Jupiter, which occaſion'd their Changing of their Names to Latini, from Lateo, becauſe of his Hiding there. Then came Evander from Arcadia, and afterward Hercules from Greece with their ſeveral Followers.

191. About this Time Nimrod or Ninus the Founder of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, having conquer'd almoſt all the People of the Eaſt, carries on a vigorous War againſt the (a) Bactrians, who inhabited a part of Scythia; and when he had ſlain their King he himſelf alſo died, leaving behind him a young Son call'd Ninyas, and his Wife Semiramis. The Shortneſs of the Moſaical Hiſtory would not permit any farther Account to be giv'n of this Empire; but the Silence of this Writer is abundantly made up by other Authors. Upon the Death of Nimrod or Ninus, Semiramis was much perplex'd, what Courſe to take. She did not dare to commit the Government to a Child ſo young; ſhe thought that ſo many and ſo great a People would not obey a Woman, who could hardly be govern'd at laſt by her Husband when alive; ſhe was not willing to quit the Government, and had not Time to conſider how to ſettle it. She therefore ſoon reſolves to feign herſelf to be the Son of Nimrod inſtead of his Wife, and a Man inſtead of a Woman: Accordingly, being of an active and a maſculine Spirit, ſhe puts on man's Apparel, and was eaſily acknowledg'd ſo to be, by her chief Favourites, who were privy to the Deſign, and whom ſhe could promote in the Empire. And it happen'd, that ſhe had a manly Look, ſhe was of the ſame Size with her Son, who was but ſhort, and their Features did very much reſemble each other; and the better to conceal this Deſign, ſhe order'd him to be cloſely confin'd, and perhaps took a more effectual Care to ſend him out of the way. And as her Husband ſpent his later Years at Nineveh, by which Method he very much diſoblig'd the Babylonians, and made them ready for a Revolt; ſo ſhe at his Death remov'd immediately to Babylon, where neither ſhe nor her Son were perſonally known, and therefore the Cheat could be the leſs diſcover'd, and by which Method ſhe knew, that ſhe ſhould gain their Affections to ſtand by her in Caſe of Extremity. Upon her coming thither, ſhe beſtirs herſelf to do many great and glorious Actions, and when by theſe ſhe had gain'd the Love of all her Subjects, that neither Envy nor Malice could detract from her real Merit, ſhe confeſſes who ſhe was, and whom ſhe had counterfeited. This inſtead of Leſſening her Character occaſion'd the greater Admiration, that ſhe being a Woman ſhould excel not only her own Sex, but even all Mankind in ſuch a prudent and popular Management. And her Acts are reported by all Hiſtorians to be many and famous. It is probable, that Ham himſelf began to build the Walls of Babylon, when the work of the Tower was laid aſide, he having deſign'd it for the chief Seat of his Empire, and that after this they were carry'd on by his Son Cuſh, and his Grandſon Nimrod in the Beginning of his Reign; but when he dwelt at Nineveh, and built the Walls of that City, the other were much neglected. Semiramis well knew, that ſhe could not ſet about a more acceptable Act, than to repair the City, and finiſh the Walls, which ſhe perfected to Admiration, having Brick well burnt inſtead of Stone, and a glutinous Slime call'd Bitumen inſtead of Mortar, which boyl'd up continually out of many Places in that Country. Upon this ſhe follows the Example of her Husband Nimrod, being not content with thoſe Kingdoms, which he had conquer'd; and as Juſtin tells us, ſhe added Ethiopia to her Empire. It is certain, that by Ethiopia he doth not mean the Country now call'd by that Name, becauſe ſhe muſt have conquer'd Egypt in her way to it, which was never made a Part of the Aſſyrian Empire, but was always govern'd by Kings of their own. And therefore we muſt by Ethiopia mean thoſe Places, which the Jews call the Country of Cuſh, and in the ſame Senſe, as the Septuagint ſeems to underſtand the Word. And it is plain, that Strabo and Homer and the eldeſt Greek Writers, took the Word Ethiopia in that Latitude, that it took in all the ſwarthy-fac'd Nations, which were either to the Eaſt of the Tongue of the Red Sea, or the Weſt of it, eſpecially adjoyning to it. Thus Plutarch (b) taking Occaſion to commemorate the Heroical Deeds of Semiramis, affirms, that ſhe built Navies, and ſail'd round about the Red Sea, overthrowing the Ethiopians and Arabians; whereby he ſeems to imitate, that they were Neighbours to each other. And accordingly (c) in her latter Years ſhe erected a Pillar with this Inſcription, I reigning in Nineveh, made the River Inamane the Bounds of my Kingdom toward the Eaſt, and it is bounded toward the South by the Land which bears Frankincenſe and Myrrh. This River Inamane is without Doubt the ſame, which Pliny call'd (d) Iomane, and is by him placed in India beyond Ganges. The moſt ſouthern Bounds were the moſt ſouthern Parts of Arabia, which were remarkable for theſe Commodities, and it is plain, that the eaſtern Parts of Arabia, in which the Horites, and the Cuſhites dwelt, were within the Limits of her Empire.

192. Apachnas, the King of Lower Egypt dying about this Time, is ſucceeded by Apophis, who carries on the War againſt Upper Egypt with greater Vigour, which ſeem'd before to decline, either through the Age or Infirmities of his Predeceſſor. We are told, (*) that in his Succeſſor's Time the Kings of Lower Egypt began to call themſelves Pharoah, which is ſuppos'd in their Language to ſignify a King. But the warlike Acts of this King may make us rather believe, that he took the Name to himſelf, thereby to reject all Propoſals of Accommodation with his Enemies, and oblige his Subjects to fight the more deſperately, and hold it out to the laſt. Before his Time the War ſeems to be carry'd on principally by Land, but he reſolves to attack his Enemies by Sea; and for this Purpoſe he invades the Coaſts, which lay moſt expos'd, and frequently either plunders the Inhabitants or puts them under Contribution. Before his Time the Kings of Lower Egypt were content with their own Forces, or what they could get from their Brethren out of the Land of Canaan; but he invites Semiramis to aſſiſt him, and enters into a League for this Purpoſe, who having a little before extended her Conqueſts into the neighbouring Parts, reſolves to lay hold on this Opportunity, not with an Intent to aſſiſt Apophis, but if poſſible, to make herſelf Miſtreſs of Upper Egypt; and for this Purpoſe, ſhe joins with the Canaanitiſh Paſtors in their civil Wars againſt that Country. The Egyptians call'd her Aſo, Queen of the Ethiopians, and Plutarch tells us, that (e) Typho conſpir'd againſt Oſiris or Egypt, with ſeventy two Aſſociates or Aſſiſtants, ſworn to adhere to him, and had the foreign Aid of Aſo, Queen of Ethiopia. Theſe Ships were without Doubt built at Babylon, a Place remarkable for fit Timber for ſuch a Purpoſe, and ſo they ſail'd down the Euphrates to the Perſick Gulph, and then into the Red-ſea. And ſhe might reaſonably hope, that by Joining the Forces of her Subjects in Arabia to thoſe of the Canaanites or Phœnicians, who were now warring in Egypt, ſhe might bring that Kingdom into a perfect Subjection to the Aſſyrian Empire, of which ſhe was Queen. It is alſo certain, that Diodorus Siculus reckons the Egyptians among the Nations, which were ſometime ſubject to Ninus her Husband, who was now dead, and thence ſhe had a Claim or Title to govern there, which we cannot think, that a Perſon, ſo eager to enlarge her Dominions, would eaſily recede from. Ham the Grandfather of Nimrod was the Sovereign Lord of Egypt, and ſent them their two firſt Kings, Mizraim, and his Son Thoth; and Nimrod as Succeſſor to Ham had a farther Claim to the Government; and his Title, deſcending to his Widow, makes it very probable, that ſhe would ſend Forces to ſubdue thoſe Egyptians, who were minded to ſet up their Kingdom as independent upon hers. Laſtly, The greateſt Part of the Canaanitiſh Paſtors in Egypt were Horites, who were originally Hivites, and of the ſame Tribe with thoſe, who (f) dwelt in Hazerim unto Azzah: Semiramis might have a peculiar Reaſon to aſſiſt them, becauſe Diodorus Siculus ſaith, that ſhe was born at Aſhkelon, which was in their Country. And ſhe might alſo be prompted to revenge her ſelf on that Kingdom, becauſe the Caphtorim, a Part of them (who came from Peluſium) had before fall'n upon ſome of theſe Hivites, and deſtroy'd them, and taken Poſſeſſion of their Land.

193. But the People of Upper Egypt had ſo well ſecur'd the Banks of the Red-Sea, that the Fleets could either not attempt to land, or if they did, it was to no Purpoſe, but they were forc'd to put to Sea again: And tho' ſhe pretended a great deal of Affection to Lower Egypt; yet Apophis who was the King there in her Time, was not willing to truſt her, and car'd as little to be ſubject to the Aſſyrians, as to the Egyptians, and fortify'd the Paſſes ſo ſtrongly againſt her Army, that it was not thought practicable to force them; ſo that ſhe withdrew from thence, and bent her Forces againſt the Indians, into which Country, ſaith Juſtin, no one ever enter'd in ſuch a Manner, except herſelf, and Alexander the Great.

194. The Number of Forces which ſhe is ſaid to bring with her is incredible; and yet the Hiſtorian tells us, (g) that Staurobates the King of India gather'd together a greater Number than thoſe to oppoſe her. However ſhe conquer'd him twice, once in a Sea Fight at the River Indus, and the other Time in a Land Battle, and took Part of his Country; but at laſt being conquer'd by him and wounded, and having loſt a third Part of her Army, ſhe retreated; and it is probable, that ſhe made no more Attempts of the like Nature. And the Bounds of her Kingdom ſeem to be the ſame, as it was afterward in the Time of (h) Abaſhuerus one of the Perſian Emperors, even from India to the Land of Cuſh, containing in all an hundred and ſeven and twenty provinces.

195. Thus have we ſeen the Riſe of the Aſſyrian, or rather of the Babylonian Empire, begun by Nimrod, and enlarg'd to its utmoſt Bigneſs by his Widow Semiramis. This was the Palmer worm, which the Prophet Joel (i) ſpeaks of, and which began to peel the Children of Iſrael, by Carrying of them Captives into Babylon. As it was the firſt; ſo in Nebuchadnezzar's Dream it is repreſented as the Head of an Image, which was made of pure Gold, whereas the other Parts were made of a baſer Metal, or Mixture. For thus he ſaith to the Emperor then reigning, (k) Thou, O king, art a king of kings: for the GOD of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, and power, and ſtrength, and glory. And whereſoever the children of men dwell, the beaſts of the field, and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler over them all: thou art this head of gold. And (l) The tree, which grew, and was ſtrong, whoſe height reached to the heaven, and the ſight thereof to all the earth; whoſe leaves were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all; under which the beaſts of the field dwelt, and upon whoſe branches the fowls of the heaven had their habitation: It is thou, O king, that art grown, and become ſtrong: for thy greatneſs is grown, and reacheth unto the heaven, and thy dominion to the end of the earth. And (m) The moſt high GOD gave unto him a kingdom, and majeſty, and glory, and honour. And for the majeſty, that he gave him, all people, nations and languages trembled, and feared before him: whom he would he ſlew, and whom he would he kept alive, and whom he would he ſet up, and whom he would he caſt down. And tho' this was ſpok'n only of Nebuchadnezzar; yet it was equally true of all his Predeceſſors. Beſides, Daniel (n) ſpeaking of the four Monarchies, which were to ariſe out of the earth, or be in the World, deſcribes this, being the firſt of all, more exactly. The firſt under Nimrod and Semiramis was like a lion, a Beaſt of Prey, exceeding fierce, and had eagle's wings, very ſwift in their Conqueſt, extending itſelf like two Wings from India to the Borders of Egypt. I beheld, 'til the wings thereof were pluckt, it fled and conquer'd no farther; and at the end of the Reign of Semiramis it's Briſkneſs was chang'd into Dulneſs, and it's Swiftneſs into Heavineſs. It's Wings were pluckt at the fall of Sardanapalus, and a great Part of the Empire was divided from it. And it was lifted up from the earth. It was tak'n away, ſo that it was an Empire no longer, but it was ſubdu'd and ſucceeded by the Perſians. And it was made to ſtand upon the feet as a man, they who before fled in the Air, and ſeem'd to deſpiſe others, as looking down from on high, contain'd themſelves within their own Bounds, and were reduc'd to the common Lot of their Neighbours: אנוש like a weak and feeble Man, and ſuch whom they before had conquer'd. And a man's heart was given to it. It had no longer the Fierceneſs of a Lion; but according to the Deſcription of (o) Iſaiah, others might ſpeak and ſay unto it, Art not thou alſo become weak as we? Art not thou alſo become like unto us.

196. During this ſpace of Time we find but little recorded of things done in other Parts of the World. Sarah is born in Meſopotamia, who was afterward the Wife of Abraham, and (p) ten Years younger than he. In upper Egypt Diabies their fourth King dies, and is ſucceeded by Pemphos, who reigns eighteen Years: And in the eaſtern Parts of Germany Tuiſco their firſt King dies, and is ſucceeded by Mannus, who reigns ſixty ſix Years; in the ſixtieth Year of whoſe Reign the Promiſe is giv'n to Abraham. And ſoon after this (q) Reu the Son of Peleg dies, being two hundred and nine and thirty Years old. Some pronounce the Word Reu by Ragau, who gave the Name to (r) a Field near Aſſyria, or as (s) Tobit ſaith, in Media. Beginning of the Assyrian Empire at Babylon by Nimrod. 2 The Beginning of the Kingdom of Germany or Bohemia, the Metropolis of which in later Times was Prague. 3 The beginning of the Kingdom of Egypt. 4 The Beginning of the Kingdom of the Amazons, which they say, continu'd to the Time of Alexander the great, and of which Justin gives us a more particular Account. 5 The Increase of Idolatry and false Worship of all Sorts. 6 The beginning of the Kingdom of Sheba as govern'd by Women, the first of whom is reported by them to have built the City of Sheba, and from her the same Form of Government continu'd until the Days of Solomon. 7 The Invention of Chymistry, and 8 The Making of Money and Appointing it to be us'd in Commerce between Man and Man.

197. After Pemphos King of Upper Egypt was dead, he was succeeded by Anno Mundi 2039. Toegar Amachus, their sixth King, who reign'd seventy nine Years, in the forty fourth Year of whose Reign the Promise was giv'n to Abraham. About (*) the ninth Year of his Reign there reign'd in Crete one Cres, who was one of the Curetes, who are said to have brought up Jupiter. These built Gnossos in Crete, Anno Mundi 2048. and in it the Temple of Cybele the Mother of the Gods. From hence we may suppose, that this Cres was not a Cretian by Birth, but one who came from Lydia, and being also of the Posterity of Ham he was more easily admitted to live among them. For it is evident, that this Cybele was the great Lydian or Phrygian Goddess, and the Daughter, or rather the Wife of Menes or Mizraim, the first Founder of that Monarchy, was was also afterward the first King of Egypt, and was the Mother of such Men, as the Heathens worshipp'd. The Likeness of his Name hath made some think, that he first planted a Colony in that Island, tho' the Island had been peopl'd by the Egyptians, as is before mention'd. The Likeness of the Name might be some Inducement to their Choosing him to be their first King, and his Anno Mundi 2064. building a Temple, not only to the Goddess of the Lydians, but also to one who was in as great Esteem among the Egyptians, and consequently among the Cretians, was a politick Contrivance to engage and secure their Affections. In the eleventh Year of his Reign Serug the great Grand-father of Abraham dies, Anno Mundi 2050. being two hundred and thirty Years old. It is (u) reported of him, that he begun every Year to celebrate the Memory of famous Men, and commanded them to be honour'd as Benefactors. And it is suppos'd, that in Memory of him some of his Descendants might call that City Sarug, which, as the Arabian Geographer saith, lay near to Haran, the Place to which Abraham first came, when he departed out of his own Country.

198. Some Years after Semiramis had return'd from her Expedition into the East Indies, and seem'd resolv'd to spend the Rest of her Anno Mundi 2054. Days in Peace and Quietness, her Brother Ninias Zames, (tho' Justin saith her Son Ninia) succeeds her in the Empire, who is said to have kill'd her under Pretence, that she would have lain with him. For when any Person is willing to obtain a Crown, either by Right or Wrong, and scruples not the Committing of Murder for such a Purpose, he will not long want Pretences. He being content with the Empire obtain'd for him by the Labours of his Predecessors, laid aside the Study of War, and as if he had chang'd his Sex with this warlike Queen, was seldom seen of Men, and spent his Age in the Company of Women. His Posterity also, following such an Example, are said to have giv'n themselves to Ease and Luxury, and gave Answers to foreign Ambassadors not in Person, but by their Agents; so that we have little left of them, but their Names, which are hardly worth Mentioning. And thus the Assyrian Empire continu'd for thirteen hundred Years, from the Founding of it by Nimrod to the Death of Sardanapalus, when the famous Æra of Nabonassar began, and when it was divided into two Parts, viz. the Assyrian, and the Babylonian Empire, from which Epocha the learned Dr. Prideaux began his famous Connexion of the History of the old and new Testament.

What hath been mention'd in this Chapter may ſerve to explain ſome Texts of Scripture, concerning the Canaanites, which have given much Perplexity to many Commentators, and ſome have affirm'd, that thoſe Words were not inſerted by Moſes, but by another Perſon of a later Date, either Ezra, or Joſhua, or they know not whom. But this inſtead of Solving the Difficulty makes it greater, and gives Occaſion for freſh Objections. The firſt Text is, (x) where Moſes gives an Account of the eleven Sons of Canaan, who were all originally ſettl'd in the Land, which was given to their Father. And then he adds, And afterward were the families of the Canaanites ſpread abroad. Now the Meaning of theſe Words is no more than this. The eleven Sons of Canaan were all ſettl'd according to their Families; out of all thoſe a mixt Multitude went into Lower Egypt under the Name of the Canaaniti∫h Paſtors; theſe mixing together for about two hundred Years, could hardly diſtinguiſh of what Family they were, and coming back from Egypt, they were not willing to ſeparate from their old Acquaintance, but kept themſelves in large Bodies, and ſpread themſelves into ſuch Places of the Land of Canaan, as were not inhabited before. In this Senſe it is, that (y) Moſes tells us, that when Abraham came into the Land of Canaan, the Canaanite was then in the land, which Words are not only clear and plain, but are of great Uſe to fix the Time of their Coming thither. And as they were in great Bodies, and the Land was not fully inhabited at that Time; ſo Abraham had room enough for his Family and his Cattle. After this Abraham went into Egypt, and upon his Return (z) the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelt then in the land. The Perizzite was not mention'd before and yet they are a Nation conſtantly mark'd out to be deſtroy'd by the Iſraelites. The Perizzites in Hebrew ſignify the Inhabitants of ſmall Villages; theſe having liv'd a paſtoral Life in Egypt, were willing to continue the ſame Employment, and ſeparated into ſmall Companies, for the Conveniency of their Cattle, whilſt the Canaanites kept in large Bodies in a military Poſture, and dealt in Merchandiſe. Now when Abraham came out of Egypt, the Perizzite, and the Canaanite were then there, the latter of theſe had fix'd themſelves in Cities, which they had built; and the others had ſpread themſelves abroad for the Conveniency of Paſturage. And this Moſes gives as a Reaſon, why at Abraham's Return he was more ſtraighten'd than before, which occaſion'd a Neceſſity for him and Lot to ſeparate themſelves, according as it is deſcrib'd in the ſacred Scriptures.

201. Laſtly, From hence we may obſerve the great Wiſdom of GOD, in Setting down the Length of the Lives of thoſe, who liv'd after the Flood; and his wonderful Providence, in Ordering them to be much longer than they are now, and alſo gradually to decreaſe 'til the Time of Moſes, not only for the ſpeedy Peopling of the World, but alſo for Settling the Chronology of thoſe early Ages, and Vindicating the Authority of the Hebrew Text. We find Ham alive 'til about the Time of Abraham's Birth, and we find nothing of him, when Abraham came into the Land of Canaan, ſo that he muſt be dead before that Time, and therefore he might be about four hundred and fifty Years old, when he died. Now it is certain, that he liv'd not to the Age of Shem, for People born at the ſame Time, uſually die before one another; beſides being a wicked Man, his Age might be judicially ſhorten'd, and being of a turbulent Spirit, he might impair his own Conſtitution. However he liv'd ſomething longer than Arphaxad, Selah and Eber born ſince the Flood, and therefore died at a fit, Age for one that was born before them. In Greece we find the ancient Names of Places exactly agreeing with the Names of the Sons of Japhet; and thus it was in Aſia the leſs, before Greece was inhabited; which is an Argument, that the Fathers of all theſe Families were then alive, and that theſe Countries were peopl'd in their Time, and perhaps by their Direction. In Babylon we may alſo obſerve, that Nimias Zames, who was Brother to, and contemporary with Nimrod the Grandſon of Ham, died about the ſame Time with Selah the Grandſon of Shem. In Germany we may obſerve, that Tuiſco the firſt King came to the Throne about the Year 1847, and if we may ſuppoſe him to be then about ſixty Years of Age, which was a fit Age for Conduct and Action, he will then be born about the ſame Time with Reu the Son of Peleg, and alſo die about the ſame Time with him. Mannus the ſecond King reign'd ſixty ſix Years. It is uncertain at what Age his Reign began; ſo that he might poſſibly live as long as Terah and Abraham, with whom he was contemporary. In Lower Egypt the five Kings after Salatis the firſt King reign'd two hundred forty one Years, and as Hercules Aſſis retreated from thence into Canaan about the Time of the Death of Abraham, ſo that it is uncertain how long he might live after; yet the Reign of each one with another is little leſs than fifty Years, which may give a near Approach to the Lives of their Contemporaries. In Upper Egypt the Caſe is more remarkable. Mizraim or Menes, being the Son of Ham, may be thought to be born near the Time, which is aſſign'd by Moſes to Arphaxad the Son of Shem, whom all allow to be in the ſecond Year after the Flood, or the Year 1659, eſpecially when we conſider, that he was firſt plac'd by Ham to reign in Egypt, a rich Country and known to him. Now the Egyptian Hiſtories agree, (x) Gen. 10. 18. (y) Gen. 12. 6. (z) Gen. 13. 7.

that he was cut off by a violent Death, before the Courſe of Nature in thoſe Days would have remov'd him. However the Table of Eratoſthenes allows him to have liv'd to the Year 1912, from which if we ſubſtract the ſuppos'd Time of his Birth 1659, his Age at his Death will be 253 Years, which is a conſiderable Time for a Man, whom the Egyptians lament to be cut off in the Flower of his Age, which is above half the Time that Arphaxad liv'd, or 438 Years. And according to this the Beginning of his Reign will not be 'til he was 191 Years old, which agrees well with thoſe Times, in which Mens Lives were ſo long; and there is no Reaſon to ſuppoſe him to begin to reign, when he was older. The next is Thoth or Athothes the ſecond King, whom we may ſuppoſe to be born about the Time of Selah, Anno Mundi 1694, and the Beginning of his Reign being in the Year 1912, he came to the Throne at about 218 Years old, and died about 277, which is a good Approach to the Longevity of thoſe Times, tho' not ſo long as Selah's Life, which many Accidents might hinder, particularly Salatis the firſt King of lower Egypt was engag'd againſt him, and Manetho declares him to be ſo formidable a Warrior, as muſt ſhorten his Days, ſince by all Accounts he died a violent Death. As to the other Kings, ſince they went always out to Battle, they might meet with the ſame Fate, or begin later to Reign, ſo that nothing can be gueſs'd at from them: however Toegar Amachus, who liv'd in the Time of Abraham, reign'd ſeventy nine Years, which ſhews, that his Predeceſſors either did, or might have liv'd longer, and that he might equal the Lives in the Race of Shem in thoſe Days. So that even the Branches of Ham and Japhet, tho' omitted by Moſes is a farther Confirmation of the Scripture Chronology, according to the Hebrew Text; and ſhews, that the Times, in which they liv'd, are rightly plac'd by our beſt Hiſtorians. Beſides, there is another Branch of Shem as remarkable as any of the reſt; I mean thoſe, from whom China was afterward inhabited, Let us ſuppoſe Foh i their firſt King to be Noah who died Anno Mundi 2008. He was ſucceeded by Xinnum, who reign'd an hundred and forty Years, and let us but ſuppoſe, that he came to the Throne, when he was between ſixty and an hundred Years of Age, which was a fit Time in thoſe Days, he will die between 200 and 240 Years old, which was the Age of Peleg, Reu, Serug and Terah his contemporaries, and near the Age of Abraham, who was born in the ſecond Year after his Reign. So that all theſe Particulars coming from ſo many particular Kings, ſo remote from each other, and which had ſo little Correſpondence with one another, and moſt of which pretended, that their Nation was the moſt ancient, and deſpis'd others for that Reaſon; I ſay, all theſe put together muſt infallibly confirm the Truth of the Hebrew Chronology; unleſs we can ſuppoſe, that Greeks, Egyptians, Chineſe, Germans, Babylonians and Canaanites could agree together to impoſe upon the World in a Caſe of this Nature, or that they could have hit upon it by Accident.

2083	1925	2788	426	GOD reveals himself to Abraham by the Name of the most high GOD, the Creator and Possessor of heaven and earth. Gen. 14. 22, and commands him publickly to pray to him, which Abraham did, and the heavy Judgment of the ravenous Birds is remov'd. Upon this GOD commands Abraham to burn the idolatrous Temple, which he did by Night, and his Brother Haran endeavouring to extinguish it, perishes in the Flames. The Inhabitants being enrag'd for this Fact, and vowing the Destruction of Abraham and his Family, GOD commands Abraham to depart from Mesopotamia, and go into a strange Country with the Promise of a Blessing. Accordingly Abraham sets out from Ur, and comes to Haran, and settles there.
2084	1924	2789	427	Terah, Abraham's Father dies, and Abraham having no Promise from GOD, that he should inherit the Land, where he then was, he departs from thence, and settles in Canaan, where he receiv'd a Promise, that GOD would give it to him, and to his Seed.

The Assyrian or the Chaldean History: Or, The History of the Families of Ham.

1758 2250 2463 101. Japhet and Ham departs with their Families or Posterity from Noah to inhabit the Countries appointed by GOD for them. They were sent away by Noah to avoid the Effects of their Rage, occasion'd by Japhet's losing his Birthright, and Ham's being curs'd. When they come to Babylon, they resolve to go no farther, but to build a Tower, as a Means to unite themselves under one Head, not only for their Security if another Flood should happen; but also to be near at hand, to revenge themselves on the Posterity of Shem, when Occasion should present. Ham is also call'd Belus the first, and is the Governour of the Babylonians, tho' the younger Brother, being of a more aspiring Temper. Ham having marry'd Naamah the Daughter of Lamech of the idolatrous Race of Cain, and being the principal Person in the Country, Idolatry is soon resolv'd upon. Ham governs the Assyrian Monarchy 137 Years.

1776 2232 2481 119. Astronomical Observations are begun by the Chaldeans from the highest of the Towers in Babylon.

1782 2226 2487 125. The City of Babylon is finish'd, and all Hands are at Work to build the Tower.

1798 2210 2503 141. The Languages are confounded at Babylon, and the People are dispers'd according to their Families into different Nations.

1799 2209 2504 142. Ham and the greatest Part his Posterity come to Canaan and settle there, leaving some of them behind to take Care of the Government of Babylon, and the Country round about.

1810 2198 2515 153. The Posterity of Cush settle in the South East Country near the Land of Canaan, and from thence they extend themselves into Arabia.

1852 2 56 2557 195. Ham being of an aspiring and an ambitious Temper, not only keeps Possession of what he had in Asia, which was allotted to Shem; but he resolves also to incroach upon the Territories of his Brother Japhet. And having settled the Children of Mizraim in Egypt, he takes a Part of th: Ludim, who were the Sons of Mizraim, and plac'd on the Southern Part of the Nile. With these he sails along the Mediterranean Sea, and seizes on the Country, which is call'd Lydia.

1870 2138 2575 213. Ham sails about this Time from Lydia into Italy, where he reigns for a little while, and then leaves a Colony there, who from him were call'd חמים or, The Umbri.

1877 2131 2582 220. About this Time Ham sails into Sicily, where he also reigns for a little While, and leaves a Colony there.

1882 2126 2587 225. About this Time Ham returns to Babylon.

1892 2116 2597 235. Ham resolving to revenge his Father's Curse, and being jealous that his Father Noah intended also to plant others of his Sons in Countries near him, by which Means he might be straightned in his own Dominions, he sets upon his aged Father by Surprize, and expels him by Force from his own Country. Upon this Noah retires into China. Hence arose the Story of Jupiter Hammon's driving his Father Saturn out of his own Country into Latium, so call'd a latendo, because he lay hid there and it was not known whither he went.

1902 2106 2627 245. About this Time Cush brings a Colony with him from his own Country, and settles there on the South Side of Babylon in a Country call'd Chuduca, but formerly Chusea.

A Continuation of TABLE the Twenty Sixth.

Col. 7.

1905 2103 2610 248. Ham finally retires from Babylon into Canaan, and leaves his Son Cuſh, or Belus the Second, to ſucceed him in the Government of Babylon, where he reigns 55 Years.

1920 2088 2625 263. About this Time Cuſh invades Perſia and ſeizes upon the Country, which was call'd Chuzeſtan, or the Province of Cuſh.

1954 2054 2259 297. About this Time the Families of Shem being made uneaſy by the Incroachments of Cuſh, Joctan, with his numerous Family, paſſes into Arabia Felix at the Streights of the Perſian Gulph, where he founds a Kingdom, and divides it among his Sons.

1960 2048 2665 303. Cuſh, or Belus the ſecond, dies, and Ninus or Nimrod's Son ſucceeds him in Babylon. He builds the Cities of Erec, Accad and Calneh in the Land of Shinar, and went out from thence into Aſſyria and built Nineveh, and the City call'd Rehoboth and Calah. Gen. 10. 8. to 13. He marries Semiramis, ſettles the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and reigns two and fifty Years.

2012 1996 2717 355. Semiramis ſucceeds her Huſband Nimrod. She made great Enlargements of the Empire. Plutarch ſaith, That ſhe built Navies, and ſailed round about the Red Sea, overthrowing the Ethiopians and Arabians. She aſſiſted the Phœnician Paſtors againſt the Kings of upper Egypt, hoping by this Method to bring that Kingdom into Subjection to her Empire. The Egyptians call'd her Aſo. She reign'd two and forty Years.

The Grecian Hiſtory: Or, The Hiſtory of the Families of Japhet.

1697 2311 2402 40. Some make Nereus to be born about this Time, as one of the Sons of Japhet, if he was not Japhet himſelf.

1701 2307 2465 44. Some place Prometheus about this Time, as one of the Sons of Japhet, born alſo after his ſeven eldeſt Sons. Gen. 10. 2.

1705 2303 2410 48. About this Time Pontus might alſo be born unto Japhet.

1745 2253 2540 88. About this Time Poſeidon might be born unto Pontus, who was call'd Neptune, and oftentimes miſtak'n for Japhet.

1788 2210 2503 141. Japhet comes from Babylon Weſtward.

1800 2208 2505 143. Japhet and his Families ſettle themſelves between the Tigris and Euphrates; but being ſtraightned for want of Room, they ſoon extend themſelves Weſtward.

1805 2203 2510 148. So that about this Time Part of Japhet's Family, together with himſelf, might ſettle in Natolia or Aſia the Leſs, being parted from the Poſterity of Ham by the Mountains of Libanus, Antilibanus and Amanus. Sometimes they live peaceably with the Poſterity of Ham, and ſometimes they have Wars, which are generally of a ſhort Continuance; the grand and famous Scene of Action being between the Upper and the Lower Egypt.

1810 2198 2515 153. About this Time the Poſterity of Japhet might ſettle themſelves in Lydia.

1815 2193 2520 158. About this Time they might people part of Phrygia.

1820 2188 2525 163. About this Time they might enlarge their Dominions as far as the Helleſpont.

1830 2178 2535 173. About this Time ſome of the Poſterity of Japhet might paſs over into Greece by the Helleſpont, and ſettle the Countries after their Families, and according to their Names. And ſoon after the Reſt of the Families, which lay upon the Ægæan Sea, hearing that there was a Country to be inhabited, might ſail from their reſpective Harbours, and take Poſſeſſion thereof accordingly in the oppoſite Countries. And this was the firſt peopling of Europe.

1831 2177 2536 174. There ſeems at preſent to be a good Agreement between the Families of Ham and Japhet, which had laſted to this Time, becauſe it was their common Intereſt to improve as much Land as they could, for the Maintenance of their Families, and to deſtroy the wild Beaſts.

1832 2176 2537 175 About this Time Ham being deſirous to enlarge his Dominions, goes into the Country of Japhet, and ſettles a Colony there, being ſome of the Ludim by his Grandſon Mizraim, which is accordingly call'd Lydia. Here Ham governs for ſome Time. And it is probable, that to prevent a Miſunderſtanding between him and Japhet on this Occaſion, Ham quietly permits ſome of Japhet's Poſterity to ſettle in Berytus, and Mizraim the Son of Ham, marries Iſis the Daughter of Japhet.

1840 2168 2545 187. About this Time Mizraim paſſes over into Europe, where he leaves one of his Sons to be King of Macedonia.

1842 2166 2547 185. About this Time Ham goes into Greece, where he gives Attica to his Daughter Athena; but he could make no good Title to it, becauſe it had been inhabited before by the Sons of Japhet, or, as they ſaid, Neptune had ſeiz'd upon it by the Stroke of his Trident. During his Travels he leaves his Son Mizraim to reign over his Poſterity in Lydia, and ſoon ſails from Greece to Italy Athens being thus peopled partly by the Poſterity of Ham, and partly by the Poſterity of Japhet, was therefore call'd Athenæ in the Plural Number.

1850 2158 2155 193. About this Time the Phœnician Paſtors being quiet, Mizraim and Iſis his Wife, ſail to Greece to enlarge their Dominions on that Side; but the Egyptian Wars breaking out, they make no long Stay there, and the Colonies planted by Mizraim, are either ſoon driven out again, or elſe they mix with the Poſterity of Japhet, and ſo they are all loſt except Lydia.

1860 2148 2565 203. About this Time Mizraim ſends Triptolemus to take Care of and improve the Tillage of Attica, and probably to be accountable to his Son in Macedonia.

1865 2143 2570 208. At this Time Wars break out between the Families of Japhet and Ham, which Sanchoniatho thus deſcribes, Demaroon (who was born in the Houſe of Ham*)* invades Pontus (the Son of Japhet*)* but Pontus puts him to flight, and Demaroon vows a Sacrifice for his Eſcape.

1925 2083 2630 268. Salutis comes to Thebes the Metropolis of Upper Egypt, and carries away Captive two Priestesses, one of which he sells into that Part of Greece, which was afterwards call'd Thesprotis, where she so far prevail'd with the Pelasgi, who were seated there, that they have founded the Oracle of Jupiter Dodonæus.

1972 2036 2677 315. Europs succeeds Ægialeus in the Kingdom of Sicyonia.

2017 1991 2722 360. Telchin succeeds Europs.

2064 1944 2769 407. Cres builds Gnossus and the Temple of Cybele in Crete.

Col. 9.

The History of Canaan the Son of Ham and his Posterity, intermix'd with more of the History of Ham.

1758 2250 2463 101. Ham and Japhet come from Noah to Babylon, where they resolve to build a City and a Tower, and so to settle there.

1798 2210 2503 141. Their Languages are confounded, and they disperse from thence.

1799 2209 2504 142. Ham and his Posterity come toward Canaan, and first settl'd in that Country, which was call'd Ham, or Hamath, and where he built a City since call'd Hammath

1805 2203 2510 148. Sidon was built about this Time by Sidon the first born Son of Canaan.

1807 2201 2512 150. Phut settles in Africa.

1810 2198 2515 153 About this Time the Land of Canaan is distributed among the Sons of Canaan according to their Families.

1810 2198 2515 153. Ham lives in Peræa beyond Jordan.

1812 2196 2517 155. About this Time the Horites settle near to Mount Seir, being Hivites of the Posterity of Canaan.

1821 2187 2526 164. The Phœnician Pastors go in great Numbers from Canaan, and settle in lower Egypt. These were partly Hivites and partly Jebusites, and were joyn'd with some of the Horites, and some of the neighbouring Parts of Arabia, whom the Egyptians call Hyc-si, that is, King's Shepherds, who dwelt in Hazerim or small Villages. See their History in lower Egypt, Col. 10.

1825 2183 2530 168. Hebron is built about this Time.

1832 2178 2537 175. About this Time Ham being ambitious to enlarge his Dominions, goes into Lydia the Country of Japhet, and settles a Colony there, where he resides for some Time, and then makes his Son Mizraim King over these Ludims or Lydians, being his Posterity. This Country is accordingly call'd Mæonia, from Mæon, Menes or Mizraim. And it is probable, that to prevent a Misunderstanding between him and Japhet on this Occasion, Ham quietly permits some of Japhet's Posterity to settle in Berytus, a Town on the Borders of both Countries, and his Son Mizraim marries Isis the Daughter of Japhet.

1835 2173 2540 178. About this Time the Cabiri settle at Berytus, who were certain Priests appointed to take Care of the Affairs of Religion, and with whom Shem and Melchisedek is suppos'd to have afterward held a fair Correspondence. Ham quietly yields up the Town of Berytus to this Branch of the Family of Japhet. They build Ships, and improve the Art of Navigation. Phut or Apollo the Inventor of Physick, and the Son of Ham, is among them, and also Æsculapius the Son of Phut or Apollo, who afterward brought Physick to a greater Perfection. Thoth the Son of Mizraim, and Grandson of Ham, who is frequently call'd The Egyptian Mercury, because he was afterward King of Egypt, is with them as their President. He invents Letters, which in all Probability were the ancient Samaritan Characters. He was a Man eminently learned, and a great Restorer and Encourager of Learning. He gives an Account to the Cabiri or Priests of all the Transactions since the Creation of the World, which he order'd to be written or kept in the Records of that Town, from whence Sanchoniatho transcrib'd his History. The Cabiri consecrate the Relicks of Pontus, who is suppos'd to be one of the Sons of Japhet, and being drown'd by Adventuring too far to Sea in a Ship, caus'd the Sea to be call'd by his Name Πόντος. The Cabiri are also call'd Corybantes and Dioscuri, Διόσκουροι; so that they soon fell into Idolatry, and first worshipped Ham or Jupiter, and after that Pontus or Neptune.

1837 2171 2542 180. About this Time some of the Cabiri having built some tumultuary and other Ships, sail into the Mediterranean Sea, but being over-against Mount Cassius, they are cast away, and coming to Shore, they consecrate a Temple there.

1840 2168 2545 183. About this Time Mizraim being ambitious to enlarge his Dominions, passes into Europe, where he leaves his Son to be King of Macedonia, and returns to take Care of his other Kingdoms.

1842 2166 2547 185. About this Time Ham goes into Greece, where he gives Attica to his Daughter Athena, but he finds the Country inhabited before he came thither He leaves his Son Mizraim to reign in Lydia. Pausanias calls Ham by the Name of Porphyrion, or a King wearing Purple, and affirms, that he built for the Lydians the Temple dedicated to Venus Urania, or to his Wife Astarte after her Decease.

1845 2163 2550 188. About this Time Mizraim conquers Part of Phrygia, and settles some Inhabitants there.

1849 2159 2554 192. Ham sends his Son Mizraim to be King of Egypt, and makes Demaroon Governour of Lydia and Phrygia.

1850 2158 2555 193. About this Time Ham sails from Lydia into Italy, and reigns there for some Time. He leaves a Colony there, who are call'd the Umbri or חמים the Hammites, and by some The Aborigines.

1852 2156 2577 195. About this Time Ham sails into Sicily, where he reigns for a little while, and leaves a Colony there.

A Continuation of TABLE the Twenty Sixth.

Col. 9.

1854 2154 2559 197. About this Time Ham returns into Canaan, and ſome Philiſtins or Cherethites take Poſſeſſion of Crete.

1862 2146 2567 205. Ham ſets himſelf up as independent from, and undutiful to his Father.

1865 2143 2570 208. Demaroon the Son of Ham invades Pontus on the South Part of the Euxine Sea, with a Deſign to enlarge the Dominions of Ham in Aſia; but Pontus puts him to Flight, and Demaroon vows a Sacrifice for his Eſcape. This Defeat puts a Stop to all future Attempts on that Side.

1890 2118 2595 233. Ham going from Babylon, his Wife Aſtarte governs in his Abſence, and accordingly ſhe wears upon her Head a Bull's Horns, as an Emblem of Power and Sovereignty.

1892 2116 2597 235. Ham drives his Father Noah out of his own Country; and there being a Peſtilence and a great Death of his Subjects, he offers up his only Son, whom he had by Anobret, a Nymph of that Country, to appeaſe the Ghoſt of his Father Noah, who was then conſecrated as a GOD, being ſuppos'd to be kill'd at this his Expulſion. The Reaſon of this Conſecration was, becauſe Ham thought, that it would be more honourable to himſelf to be believ'd, whilſt he liv'd, to be the Son of a Deity; and that after his own Death it would alſo pave the Way for his own Conſecration.

1895 2113 2600 238. About this Time Melchartus or the old Phœnician Hercules, who is reported by Sanchoniatho to be the Son of Demaroon and great Grandſon of Noah, liv'd. He was in part contemporary with Noah, and famous for finding out the purple Dye. This Dye being firſt appropriated to Kings in the Reign of Ham, is a ſufficient Reaſon why the Greeks might call him Porphyrion, that is, A King wearing Purple. This Hercules leads a Colony to Cadis, ſailing through the Straits of Gibralter, where he built a Temple upon the Iſland, to which he gave the Phœnician Name Gadira, that is, a Place hedg'd in by the Sea that he could go no farther. Since that Time it was call'd Gades, and now Cadis. He plac'd no Images in the Temple

1900 2108 2605 243. About this Time, whilſt Aſtarte thus reign'd, ſhe built the City call'd Aſhtaroth Carnaim, or Aſtarte with two Horns, as a farther Teſtimony of her Authority and Power. Here Chederlaomer ſmote the Rephaims or Giants. Gen. 14. 5.

1905 2103 2610 248. Ham quits Babylon, reſigning the Government to his Son Cuſh, or Belus the ſecond, and returns into Canaan.

1906 2102 2611 249. About this Time more Canaanites go into lower Egypt, and joyn with the Phœnician Paſtors.

1911 2097 2616 254. Mizraim is ſlain in Egypt by a Conſpiracy. His Wife Iſis puts his Body into a Coffin, and ſails with it to Ham (who was then at Byblus) for Directions. Upon this Ham ſends Thoth or Athothes to be King of Egypt, and Cotys ſucceeds him, as the ſecond King of Lydia.

1915 2093 2620 258. About this Time ſome of the Phœnician Paſtors might return into Canaan.

1925 2083 2630 268. Ham dies about this Time, and leaves his Son Canaan to be the Governour of that Country, which was afterward call'd from him The Land of Canaan. After the Death of Ham, the eleven Tribes, which deſcended from him (being encourag'd by the Example of the Philiſtins, and the Phœnician Paſtors, who ſettl'd among them in diſtinct Bodies) ſet up for themſelves, and ſo they are divided into eleven Kingdoms diſtinct from each other.

1926 2082 2631 269. About this Time Salatis King of the lower Egypt, having beat'n the Philiſtins, or one of the Tribes of Egypt, which dwelt about Caphtor, Abaris or Peluſium (from whence they took their Name) and tak'n their ſtrong Paſs they compound with him to retire out of the Country, who accordingly retreat into Canaan, and in Revenge for their Sufferings they fall upon the Avites or Hivites (whoſe Anceſtors came into The lower Egypt leaving theſe behind them) and deſtroy their Country, Deut. 2. 23. Theſe divide themſelves into five Lordſhips, under five Lords, who ſettle in five diſtinct Cities, viz. in Aſhdod, Gaza, Askelon, Gath and Ekron. Joſ. 13. 2, 3 Jud. 3. 3. 1 Sam. 6. 17, 18. who ſometimes had a King over themſelves, Gen. 20. 2. as Abimelech was in Abraham's Time 1951 2057 2656 304. About this Time Atys the third King reigns in Lydia, whoſe Succeſſors were call'd from him Atyadæ.

1991 2017 2696 344 About this Time Tyrrhenus or Tyrſenus the fourth King, reigns in Lydia.

2011 2997 2716 364. Tyrrhenus or Tyrſenus brings a Colony of the Lydians into Italy, where he ſettles in Tuſcany, and expels the Umbri.

2063 2245 2768 416. Cres builds Gnoſtus and the Temple of Cybele in Crete.

2064 2244 2769 417. Cres is made King of Crete.

2082 2926 2787 435. The Phœnician Paſtors being under ſome Diſadvantage in Egypt, remove in a greater Body into Canaan, which ſo weaken'd the Reſt, that their Power afterward ſeem'd to decline, until they were totally diſpers'd. Theſe Paſtors keep together in large Bodies for ſome Time, ſo that they did not ſtreighten Abraham and Lot at their firſt coming into Canaan.

Col. 10.

The Hiſtory of Upper Egypt and Africa.

1798 2210 2563 141. The Languages are confounded at Babylon, and the People are diſpers'd according to their Families into different Nations.

1802 2206 2705 142. Ham and his Poſterity come from Babel and ſettle in Canaan

1805 2203 2510 148 After they had been but a little Time in Canaan ſome of the Poſterity of Mizraim enter into Upper Egypt, and ſettle there under the Government of Ham, who dwells in Canaan, and keeps his Son Mizraim with him. Hence Egypt is ſo often call'd The Land of Ham, Pſal. 78. 51. Pſal. 105. 23, 27, and Pſal. 106. 22. The Children of Mizraim diſperſe, and ſettle there according to their reſpective Families. Gen. 10. 13, 14. And particularly the Caſluhim (out of whom came the Philiſtim and Caphtorim, Gen. 10. 13, 14.) ſettle themſelves about Sin or Peluſium. Thus the Upper Egypt was peopl'd ſooner than the Lower Egypt, becauſe it was not ſubject to ſuch great Inconveniencies by the Overflowings of the Nile, as the other was, it lying much higher, and yet lying ſo as to receive a great Benefit, and leſs Trouble from its Overflowings.

A Continuation of TABLE the Twenty Sixth.

Col. 10.

1810 2198 2515 153. About this Time ſome of the Poſterity of Japhet might ſettle themſelves in Lydia.

1815 2193 2520 158. About this Time ſome of the Poſterity of Mizraim might probably begin to people that lower and moſt fruitful Part of Egypt, which is call'd Delta, and this being obnoxious to the annual Inundation of the Nile, there was a Neceſſity for them to make Banks and raiſe Mounts in the moſt proper Places, where they might build ſuch Houſes or Cities, which they might inhabit ſafely, when the greateſt Part of the Country was cover'd with Water.

The Egyptians bring with them the Skill in Aſtronomy, which they had at Babylon, and for this Reaſon they ſoon fell off to the Worſhip of the Sun, Moon and Stars; and according to them the Great Bear was call'd Typho, which lay northward from them toward Canaan, from whence came their Enemies the Paſtors. Iſis was conſecrated into the Dog Star call'd Syrius, and Mizraim into Orion. And when the Affairs of Upper Egypt were almoſt reduced to Deſtruction, it is probable, that then the Phœnicians their Enemies, might begin to call this Conſtellation כסיל or The Fool.

1825 2183 2530 168. About this Time Atlas, who is reckon'd by ſome to be the Brother of Prometheus, and conſequently the Son of Noah, or who might be rather one of the Sons of Ham, plants Ethiopia by bringing thither the Poſterity of Phut and Lud, the Sons of Ham, from whence came the Atlantidæ.

1832 2176 2537 175. Ham takes a great Part of the Ludim, who were the Sons of Mizraim, and with theſe he ſails along the Mediterranean Sea, and ſeizes on that Part of the Country of his Brother Japhet, which was ſince call'd Lydia.

1848 2160 2553 191. The Canaanitiſh Paſtors make War againſt the Inhabitants of the Upper Egypt, and diſtreſs them, who accordingly ſend into Canaan to Ham for his Direction. This is the Beginning of a moſt famous War, which laſted above three hundred Years, in which the Fighting with Bows and Arrows, and alſo on Horſeback and in Chariots of Iron, which were arm'd with Scythes on each Side, were firſt invented; and if we could have a full Account of this War both by Land and Sea, it would be, perhaps, in all its Circumſtances, the moſt famous Hiſtory, which we have in the World.

1849 2159 2554 192. Ham ſends his Son Mizraim to govern in Upper Egypt, who is accordingly made their firſt King, and is call'd Menes by Herodotus and other Authors, and he is alſo ſometimes call'd Oſiris, Iſiris, Tammuz and Adonis. He was a Lover of moſt Arts beneficial to human Life, and a good Judge of the Uſefulneſs of ſuch Inventions. He builds Memphis, and makes it the Capital City. And his Wife Iſis builds Abaris, which is alſo call'd Peluſium or Sin, which guarded the Paſſages by Land from Egypt into Aſia. And as it alſo ſtood on the Taanitick Mouth or Oſtium of the Nile; ſo it was a great Paſs by Water, and was always eſteem'd and fortify'd, as the great Frontier Garriſon of the Kingdom of Egypt, and is by the Prophet Ezekiel, Chap. 30. 15. call'd The Strength thereof.

1851 2157 2556 194. About this Time Mizraim and Iſis his Queen ſail into Greece, the better to ſecure their Government there.

1853 2155 2558 196. About this Time Mizraim takes Poſſeſſion of the Iſland of Crete, and leaves ſome of his Offſpring the Philiſtins to keep it, who gave the Name to the Iſland, and were call'd Cerethites, becauſe they were us'd to fight with Bows and Arrows. Mizraim ſeeming thus to neglect his own Dominions, and being intent upon new Acquiſitions, the Paſtors in Egypt take this Opportunity to ſend for more Forces from Canaan, who accordingly come down into Egypt, and joyn with the reſt, ſo that they are now grown very formidable. This turns the Thoughts of Mizraim from farther Travels to enlarge his Dominions in Europe.

1855 2153 2560 198. About this Time Mizraim returns into Egypt.

1860 2148 2565 203. About this Time Mizraim ſends Triptolemus into Attica to improve it by Sowing of Corn.

1862 2146 2567 205. Mizraim makes great Alterations in the Egyptian Religion by Allegorizing, and for this Purpoſe he had the Aſſiſtance of Thabionides the Author of the Sect of Zabii. This new Method of Religion he firſt learn'd, before he went from Canaan to govern Egypt, whilſt Thoth was at Berytus, recording the hiſtorical Part of their Religion.

1890 2118 2595 233. About this Time Mizraim invents three Letters. It is probable, that he receiv'd the other Letters from Thoth at Berytus; which, tho' ſufficient for the Canaanitiſh Language, yet it cou'd not ſerve for the Egyptian, without a further Addition.

1905 2103 2610 248. About this Time the reſt of the Coptick Letters ſeem to be invented 15 Years before Ægialeus.

1907 2101 2612 250. About this Time it is probable, that more Paſtors come from Canaan, and ſettle in Lower Egypt.

1909 2099 2614 252. About this Time the Kingdom of Upper Egypt is reduc'd to the utmoſt Extremities.

1911 2097 2616 254. The Canaanitiſh Paſtors flush'd with Succeſs, form a Conſpiracy by the Aſſiſtance of ſome of Mizraim's Subjects, by which he is ſlain. The Egyptians compoſe a Song, which is call'd Linus, or in their own Language Maneros, whereby they lamented his Death every Year. This occaſion'd the Lamentation of Venus for Adonis among the Greeks, and the Weeping for Tammuz among the idolatrous Jews. Iſis brings his Corps to Berytus in a Coffin to Ham, where he is bury'd, and ſhe deſires Directions from Ham, what ſhe ſhould do in the preſent Difficulties. Ham ſends Thoth or Athothes, the firſt Son of Mizraim, from Berytus to ſucceed his Father as King of Egypt, Mizraim is conſecrated into the Conſtellation of Orion, and Iſis into the Dog Star after her Deceaſe Thoth is accus'd of Baſtardy by the Paſtors of Lower Egypt, ſo that they abſolutely refuſe to pay him any Allegiance. He prepares to attack his Enemies, and finds out the Way of Fighting on Horſeback, whereas before they fought only upon Aſſes. He fights three Battles with the Phœnician Paſtors, the firſt of which laſted for ſeveral Days; and thus he revengeth his Father's Death, and reduceth the Paſtors to Extremities. After his Death he was conſecrated into the Planet Mercury, and was call'd by the Greeks Hermes. He makes ſome Alteration in the Egyptian Religion by cauſing the plain Hiſtorical Account of the Allegories to be writt'n. And his Statue was made with a Dog's Head, the Symbol of his Sagacity, intimating him to be like a quick ſcented Hound.

1916 2992 2521 529. Iſis the Widow of Mizraim makes great Additions to the Egyptian Religion by the Sacra Iſiaca.

A Continuation of TABLE the Twenty Sixth.

Col. 10.

1917 2991 2522 260. Thoth finds out the Way of Fighting on Horſe-back.

1918 2990 2523 261. Several Battles between Upper and Lower Egypt.

1920 2988 2625 263. The Paſtors of Lower Egypt having chos'n Salatis to be their King, who was a ſtout Warrior, he puts another Turn to the Face of Affairs. He overruns the Lower Egypt and Part of the Upper, and lays the Country under Contributions. He rifles their Temples, and plunders them of their Gods, and kills the Dogs, Cats and other Animals, which were worſhipp'd as the Repreſentatives of their canoniz'd Kings. He takes the Women Captives near Thebes in the Province of Thebais, and ſells them for Slaves. Particularly he ſells one of them, being a Prieſteſs, into Lybia, who founded the Oracle of Jupiter Hammon there.

1940 2068 2645 283. Thoth having formerly ſettled the publick Records at Berytus, it is probable, that he about this Time endeavours to do the ſame in Upper Egypt, whereby they might have an hiſtorical Account of all the memorable Tranſactions from the Beginning of the World.

1955 2053 2660 268. Thoth rectifies the Egyptian Year.

1970 2038 2675 313. Thoth or Athothes the firſt is alſo torn to Pieces, and is ſucceeded by Thoth or Athothes the ſecond.

2002 2006 2707 345. Diabies ſucceeds him.

Col. 11.

The Hiſtory of Lower Egypt, being a mix'd Multitude.

1821 2187 2526 264. The Phœnician Paſtors, being a mix'd Multitude of all the Families of the Canaanites, but eſpecially of the Hivites, joyn'd with ſome Horites, and others of the neighbouring Parts of Arabia, whom the Egyptians call'd Hyc-ſi, that is, Kings Shepherds, come into Lower Egypt, and ſettle in Goſhen, and the other Parts adjoyning to the Mediterranean Sea, where they live peaceably for ſome Time, and are call'd Canaanites.

1832 2176 2537 165. They build Zoan or Tanis at the Oſtium of the Nile, which is call'd Taniticum, Num. 13. 22, and make it their Metropolis.

1832 2176 2537 165. About this Time theſe Canaanitiſh Paſtors divide themſelves into thirty ſix Nomi or Counties, whence they are call'd Nomades, and appoint two from each of the Nomi, being ſeventy two in all, as a grand Council to manage their whole Concerns, which Council the Men of Upper Egypt call'd Typho. Theſe warring againſt the Kings whom the Egyptians deify'd, are therefore ſaid to fight againſt the Gods. And hence ſprang the firſt Stories of the Wars with the Gods, and of Typho in the Greek and Latin Writers. And this without Doubt was a Part of the Heroick Age, which Heſiod mentions.

1848 2160 2553 191. Theſe Canaanitiſh Paſtors make War againſt the Inhabitants of Upper Egypt, and diſtreſs them.

1853 2155 2558 286. The Canaanitiſh Paſtors grow formidable. See a more particular Account of their Wars in the 9th Column.

1906 2102 2611 349. More Canaanites go into Lower Egypt.

1909 2098 2614 352. And reduce it to the laſt Extremities.

1911 2097 2616 254. Theſe Canaanitiſh Paſtors ſo far prevail, as to reduce Upper Egypt to great Difficulties, when they form a Conſpiracy, in which Mizraim falling into their Hands, is torn to Pieces Limb from Limb, τῇ διαμελήσει.

1912 2096 2617 255. The Canaanitiſh Paſtors accuſe Thoth of Baſtardy, and then they abſolutely refuſe to be govern'd by him.

1915 2093 2620 258. About this Time theſe Paſtors make an Inroad into the Provinces of Upper Egypt, and encamping there, they at firſt take ſome Towns by Force, and thus ſtriking a Terror into the People, they enlarge their Conqueſts with little or no Reſiſtance, putting their Princes in Chains, cruelly laying their Cities in Aſhes, demoliſhing their Temples, and miſerably oppreſſing the Inhabitants, of whom ſome were cut to Pieces, and others with their Wives and Children were ſent into Bondage. Manetho in Joſephus againſt Apion.

1920 2088 2625 263. Theſe Paſtors ſet up Salatis for their firſt King, who was a formidable Warrior 1925 2083 2630 268. Salatis marches into Upper Egypt as far as Memphis, and having ſubjected the Upper and Lower Provinces, he puts them under Contribution. He puts Garriſons into all tenable Places. He overthrows their Temples, kills ſome of the Egyptians, and carries away others into Slavery. Among them he takes two Prieſteſſes, and ſells one of them into Africa and the other into Greece, who firſt founded the two famous Oracles of Jupiter Hammon and Jupiter Dodonæus.

1926 2082 2631 269. Salatis takes the Paſs of Abaris or Peluſium from the Inhabitants of Upper Egypt. 2020 1988 2720 353. Apachnas dies, and Apophis ſucceeds him, who built a great Navy, and invaded the Sea-Port Towns.

2025 1983 2730 358. About this Time Semiramis Queen of Babylon builds a Navy, and ſails about the Red Sea, overthrowing the Cuſhites and Arabians. She aſſiſts Apophis againſt the Kings of Upper Egypt, with a Deſign to bring thoſe Countries under the Power of the Aſſyrian Empire.

OBSER-

CHAP. VII.

OBSERVATIONS upon the WHOLE.

HAVING thus finiſh'd the hiſtorical Part of the moſt obſcure Time of the World, I ſhall now gather ſuch Obſervations from the Whole, as will be neceſſary for the Uſes, which were formerly mention'd, and ſo conclude this Book.

2. And here it may be obſerv'd, that tho' this ſecond Book contains but five Chapters of the Hiſtory of Geneſis; yet there are ſeveral Particulars mention'd herein, which will confirm the Authority of theſe Books, and that Moſes, who wrote them, was a divinely inſpir'd Writer.

3. Firſt, No one, but ſuch an Author, could give us ſuch an Intimation, as (a) he hath done, whereby we might gueſs, from what particular Seas this general Inundation came, that ſo we might the better find out the Courſe of the Ark, and the Place of its Landing.

4. Secondly, No one but ſuch an Author could give us (b) a particular Account of eleven remarkable Days during the Time of the Flood, from all which we are the better enabl'd to find out the true Time of the Antemoſaical Sabbath, and the Year of the World in which the Flood happen'd by Aſtronomical Calculations.

5. Thirdly, There were anciently many Diſputes concerning what Part of the World was firſt inhabited. This (c) ſeems to have been at firſt begun between the Egyptians and the Scythians, when each Nation brought particular Arguments to ſupport their Pretenſions. After this other Nations, particularly the Babylonians, the Phœnicians, the Greeks, and the Chineſe laid in their ſeveral Claims, and for this Purpoſe extended their Chronological Accounts in a moſt fabulous Manner, inſomuch that it was impoſſible for the Wit of any meer Man to find out the Truth: But Moſes, by telling us (d) on what Mountain, and (e) in what Part of the World the Ark reſted, hath given us an Opportunity to know certainly, what Country was inhabited immediately after the Deluge, and how (f) the whole earth was gradually overſpread from thence.

6. Fourthly, It may ſeem ſtrange to ſome, that Moſes ſhould be ſo particular, as he was in (g) Setting down the Genealogies, not only before, but alſo immediately after the Flood; but he who conſiders, that this was the ancient Method of Recording Hiſtory, may conclude, that there was a very good Reaſon for what he did, viz. that he might give a full Satisfaction to that preſent Age. And if we farther add, that all the other ſacred Hiſtorians have gone on in the ſame Method, whereby all the Genealogies (h) are kept exact until the Birth of OUR BLESSED SAVIOUR, and may eaſily be computed from thence to this preſent Age, may plainly diſcern the Effects of divine Wiſdom to be diſplay'd therein, in Settling ſuch a Method from the Beginning of the World by Moſes, and Carrying on the ſame by the Prophets, as might have been of Uſe, as long as the World ſhould laſt. And as this gave Occaſion to the Jews to keep an exact Account of all their Genealogies; ſo when CHRIST came into the World, it was evident beyond Diſpute, that he was of the Seed of Abraham, of the Tribe of Judah, and of the Poſterity of David, according to the Promiſes, which had been from Time to Time recorded of him.

7. Fifthly, It may ſeem ſtrange to ſome, that Moſes ſhould be ſo particular in Recording the (i) Ages of the Patriarchs, when they died both before and after the Flood, and even to his own Time. But there is great Reaſon, why he ought to be ſo exact. Firſt, That we might obſerve, that as the (k) Sin of our firſt Parents brought Death into the World; ſo the Sins of ſucceeding Ages did proportionably ſhorten the Lives of future Generations. Thus for Example. Before the Flood Men (l) frequently liv'd to be nine hundred and ſixty Years old. The Wickedneſs of Men, which brought the Flood, ſhortn'd their Lives one half, ſo that they, who (m) were born after that, ſeldom arriv'd to the Age of four hundred and eighty Years. The Revolt at the Building the Tower of Babylon ſhortn'd their Lives another half; ſo that they, who were

(g) Gen. 5. throughout, and Gen. 11. 10, to the End. (h) Matth. 1. 1, to 18. and Luke 3. 23, to the End. (i) Gen. 5. throughout, and Gen. 11. 10. to the End. (k) Rom. 5. 12, 14, 17. born born after, (n) ſeldom arriv'd to the Age of three hundred Years. The general Falling off to Idolatry, about the Time of Abraham, ſhortn'd the Lives of Men another half, ſo that they, who were born after, (o) ſeldom arriv'd to the Age of an hundred and fifty Years. And the (p) Murmuring of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs (who were GOD's only People) ſhortn'd their Lives, and the Lives of others, ſo that ſeventy five Years of Age was look'd upon as equal to the uſual Number. And thus Moſes reckon'd (q) the Days of our Age as ſeventy Years, but that fourſcore were more than could be expected: And thus it hath continu'd from that Time 'till now. Secondly, From hence we may gueſs at the Time (r) when Job liv'd, and his Age, when he was afflicted with ſore Boils. And laſtly, we may the better gueſs from hence concerning the Antiquities of other Nations, it being obſervable, that in the eaſtern Countries toward China, as alſo in Babylon and Egypt, and perhaps in other Countries, the Age of Men was uſually the ſame with their Contemporaries recorded in the ſacred Scriptures, and their Agreement therein is of wonderful Uſe to confirm unto us the Authority of thoſe Particulars, which Moſes hath mention'd.

8. Sixthly. It may ſeem ſtrange to ſome, that Moſes ſhould take up a whole Chapter, in (s) Recording the Names of the Poſterity of Shem, Ham, and Japhet; but when we conſider how (t) they were divided in their families, after their tongues, in their countries, and in their nations, we find ſuch an exact Account of the firſt Peopling of the World, which otherwiſe could never have been thought of, and ſufficiently confutes the Pretenſions of other Nations to be the firſt Original, or to be ſprung out of the Earth: And herein we ſhall find Cauſe to admire the Providence of GOD, that after ſo many Ages, the Change of Languages, and the Alteration of Names brought in by various Conqueſts, there ſtill are ſuch Footſteps of theſe Names, that by them we are able to find out the moſt ancient Nations, from whom they were deſcended, and how they came to be inhabited, which was never gueſs'd at by the Heathen World with the leaſt Shadow of Reaſon.

9. Seventhly. Tho' the Tower of Babylon was ſtanding in the Time of Herodotus, and ſome other ancient Writers, and they give us ſome ſmall Accounts of the Building of it; yet none of them tell us the Occaſion or Deſign of erecting ſo vaſt a Fabrick, which was really one of the Wonders of the World: Much leſs do they tell us, by what Means the Variety of Languages in the ſeveral Nations did firſt happen. But here we have an exact Account of this Particular, as coming (u) from that GOD who did firſt occaſion this Variety for the Obſtinacy of the World, who knew all Things which had happen'd, before this Confuſion was introduc'd, and whoſe Providence brings Good out of Evil; inſomuch that on the Day of Pentecoſt, when the Apoſtles were inſpir'd, (x) Perſons out of every nation under heaven heard them ſpeak in their own tongues, wherein they were born, the wonderful works of GOD, which ſurprizing Story being told in all Countries, made a more eaſy Way for the Propagating of the Goſpel among them; and the early Tranſlation of the Bible into their ſeveral Languages made it impoſſible, that it ſhould be corrupted by the Malice or Craft either of Men or Devils.

10. In this Part we may alſo obſerve a Plurality of Perſons in the Deity. When GOD (y) made man, who alone was to be endu'd with Speech, he ſaid, Let US make man. This the ancient Chriſtians look'd upon as a plain Intimation of a Plurality of Perſons in the Godhead. Epiphanius particularly ſaith, (z) This is the Language of GOD to his WORD, and only begotten, as all the faithful do believe. And (a) Adam was form'd by the Hand of the FATHER, and of the SON, and of the HOLY GHOST. The Jews to avoid the Force of theſe Words fancy a Senate or Council of Angels, without whom, they ſay, that GOD doth nothing, whereas there was not then the leaſt Signification of any ſuch Being, much leſs, that they had any Hand in the Making of Man, who was not made in their Image, but in the (b) image of GOD. And at the Building the Tower of Babylon, GOD is pleas'd to uſe the ſame Expreſſion. (c) And the LORD ſaid, Go to, let us go down, and there let us confound their language. This Novatianus, one of the Primitive Fathers, expounds, That it was ſpoken of GOD the FATHER to his SON. Here the Rabbins alſo Acknowledge a Plurality, but have Recourſe to the ſame Shift as before. Thus Jonathan explains the Text. The LORD ſaid unto the ſeventy Angels, who ſtood before him, Come now, and let us go down, and there confound their Language. But it is beyond the Power of Angels ſo to alter Men's Minds in a Moment, that they ſhall not be able to underſtand what they did before; and no one but he, who at firſt taught Men to ſpeak, could in an Inſtant make that Variety of Speech, as was ſufficient to ſcatter ſo many People abroad throughout the Face of the Earth, and yet to do it in ſo regular a Manner, that the Poſterity of Noah ſhould diſperſe to diſtant Parts according to their Families, in their reſpective Nations. So that GOD the FATHER ſpoke to GOD the SON, and to GOD the HOLY GHOST, and this Phraſe implies, that there are more Perſons than One in the Godhead. The Chaldee Paraphraſe goes farther, and ſaith, The WORD of the LORD was reveal'd againſt that City, and his ſeventy Angels with him, and he (not the Angels) wrote with his Hand, and diſpers'd them from thence over the Face of the whole Earth into ſeventy Languages. And from thence did the LORD JEHOVAH mix the Tongues of all the Inhabitants of the Earth, and from hence did the LORD JEHOVAH diſperſe them over the Face of the Earth. Here the Paraphraſt ſpeaks of the Word of the LORD or the ſecond Perſon, as the Confounder of the Languages, and the Diſperſer of the People. And tho' his Angels were with him; yet no Part of this Work is aſcrib'd to them, but to him alone, whom the Jews alſo own by the Name of JEHOVAH. And therefore St. Paul, who was brought up at the Feet of Gamaliel, and well skill'd in all the Jewiſh Traditions, knew very well, that he ſpake their own Sentiments, when (e) he ſpake of the SON of GOD, as one, who was appointed Heir of all things, and by whom alſo he made the worlds, Who was the brightneſs of his glory, and the expreſs image of his perſon, and upheld all things by the word of his power. Who was made ſo much better than the angels, as he had by inheritance obtained a better name than they. Of whom he ſaid, (f) Thou art my ſon, this day have I begotten thee. And again, (g) I will be to him a father, and he ſhall be to me a Son. And again, (h) Let all the angels of GOD worſhip him. And he alſo knew, that he could accordingly vindicate his (i) Applying thoſe Texts to the SON of GOD, in which he is call'd GOD and LORD, and own'd to be moſt juſt, omnipotent and eternal. And that GOD the FATHER ſaid to his SON, or his WORD, (as (k) the Paraphraſt expounds it) Sit thou on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footſtool.

11. Laſtly, the remarkable and ſhort Prophecy of (l) Noah, concerning what ſhould happen to the Poſterity of his three Sons from that time to this, and perhaps to the end of the World, plainly ſhews, that it came from that GOD, who knew all things, and to whom alone all future Tranſactions are preſent. When Ham and his Son Canaan had beheld the indecent Poſture of their Father, and ſeem'd to make but a Sport of it; but Shem and Japhet cover'd him in a modeſt manner, and Noah being recover'd from his Drunkenneſs knew what had happen'd, he pronounc'd their future Fate in the following Manner.

12. Firſt, he ſaith, (m) Curſed be Canaan, a ſervant of ſervants ſhall he be to his brethren, that is, the Vileſt of Servants. Theſe Words are ſpok'n primarily of Canaan, whoſe Name is mention'd, and ſecondly of all the Poſterity of Ham, who muſt be imply'd in the Curſe, becauſe all the Poſterity of Shem and Japhet are expreſly mention'd in the following Bleſſings. Thus the Canaanites were firſt made Slaves to the Iſraelites, who were of the Poſterity of Shem, when they took Poſſeſſion of their Land, ſubduing one and thirty of their Kings, killing moſt of the Inhabitants, laying heavy Taxes upon the reſt, and uſing the Gibeonites (who ſav'd themſelves by a Stratagem) tho' not as Servants to them, yet to be Hewers of Wood and Drawers of Water, and performing ſuch laborious Works for the Service of the Tabernacle. And (n) Solomon made all the Remainder of the People of Canaan ſubject to ſervile Labours, when all the Iſraelites were free. Beſides, they were alſo Servants to Japhet. The Greeks under Alexander the Great conquer'd Canaan, and the Romans afterward; and whatever Remains there were of the Canaanites in any Place (for Inſtance at Tyre built by the Sidonians, at Thebes by Cadmus, or at Carthage by Dido) they were cut off by the Greeks or Romans. The learned Mr. Mede hath obſerv'd, (o) that there have been never yet a Son of Ham, that hath ſhak'n a Scepter over the Head of Japhet. Shem hath ſubdu'd Japhet, and Japhet hath ſubdu'd Shem; but Ham never ſubdu'd either. This made Hannibal a Son of Canaan (p) cry out with an Amazement of Mind, I acknowledge the Fate of Carthage. So that as it was thus with Canaan in particular, it was alſo the ſame with the whole Race of Ham in general.

13. It is true that the firſt Monarchy was begun by the Race of Ham, which we call the Aſſyrian, but more properly the Babylonian Monarchy. But whoever conſiders the Time, when it began, may eaſily obſerve, that they could enſlave few or none except their own Family. It was begun by Nimrod the Grandſon of Ham in a Time, when the World was not very populous, and they had but lately been ſeparated to plant new Colonies, ſo that they could eaſily go farther, and avoid their Enemies, when they were preſs'd with any Difficulty or Danger. Accordingly when Cuſh the Son of Ham invaded the Country of Elam, and took from him the Country ſince call'd Chuzeſtan, or the Province of Cuſh,

there is no Doubt but the Inhabitants went northward, and ſettl'd in the Country call'd Elymais. And when Nimrod took Poſſeſſion of Babylon, and afterward went northward into the Country of Aſſur and Aram, two other Sons of Shem, they croſs'd the Tigris, and one of them with his Poſterity ſeated himſelf in the Country call'd, in Hebrew, Aſſur or Aſſyria; the other ſettl'd himſelf in the Country call'd in Hebrew, Aram between the Rivers or Meſopotamia. And whatever Authority the Succeſſors of Nimrod might have over them was afterward broken to Pieces by (d) Tiglath Pileſer, who ſet up a diſtinct Kingdom from that of Babylon, and fix'd his Royal Seat at Nineveh, where it continu'd (e) under his Succeſſors. And the Babylonian Empire was afterward torn to Pieces by Cyrus, who founded the Perſian Monarchy: After this Alexander the Great, who was of the Race of Japhet, conquer'd all thoſe Parts, and reſided particularly at Babylon to keep the reſt in Subjection. And Laſtly, the Romans, who deſcended originally from the ſame Stock, made themſelves Maſters of the ſame Country. So that what the Prophet Joel (f) ſpoke more particularly concerning the Jews in the Land of Canaan may in ſome Meaſure be apply'd to the whole Poſterity of Ham; That which the palmer worm (the Aſſyrian Monarchy under Tiglath Pileſer) hath left, hath the locuſt eaten; and that which the locuſt (the Perſian Monarchy) hath left, hath the canker worm (the Grecian Monarchy) eaten, and that which the canker worm hath left, hath the caterpiller (the Roman Monarchy) eaten. And at this Time the Blacks, which are brought from Africa into Europe, are all of them in a ſervile Condition; and the vaſt number of Slaves, which are bought every Year at Guinea and the adjacent Countries, and carry'd into America to manure and improve the European Plantations there, is a full Confirmation of the Truth of this Propheſy.

14. Noah having thus curs'd Ham and his Son Canaan, he afterward proceeds to bleſs his other two Sons, and (g) begins with Shem. And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD GOD of Shem. Shem ſeems to be the firſt Perſon concern'd in Covering the obſcene Poſture of his Father, and probably perſwaded his Brother Japhet to aſſiſt him in it. For which Reaſon the Right of Primogeniture is conferr'd on him, tho' he was younger than the other. The LORD was the GOD of Shem after a peculiar Manner, as he was afterward the GOD of Abraham one of the Poſterity of Shem, becauſe of the gracious Covenant made with him. For GOD ſettl'd his Church in the Family of Shem. His true Religion and Worſhip continu'd among them, when the reſt were over-run with Superſtition. CHRIST was born of his Poſterity, and he himſelf in all likelyhood was Melchiſedeck the Prieſt of the moſt high GOD, who kept up his Worſhip, and oppos'd Idolatry, which increas'd in other Places. Accordingly GOD would beſtow all manner of Bleſſings upon his Seed, and the Poſterity of Canaan ſhould be ſubject to them, as it hath been mention'd already

15. After this Noah bleſſes Japhet in (h) theſe Words. GOD ſhall enlarge Japhet. His Poſterity ſhould be very numerous, and take up a great Tract of Land, particularly all Europe, the moſt fruitful and populous Part of the World. To this may be added Aſia the leſs, Media, Part of Armenia, Iberia, Albania, and the vaſt Regions toward the North, as Muſcovy, and that which anciently the Scythians, and now the Tartars, do inhabit. And to give a later Inſtance of his Enlargement, ſince the Diſcovery of America, the vaſt Tracts of Land, which have been peopl'd there from other Countries, have been only peopl'd by his Poſterity the Europæans. Beſide this it is alſo ſaid, That he ſhall dwell in the tents of Shem. His Poſterity ſhall be ſo enlarg'd, that in future Times he ſhall poſſeſs ſome of his Brother's Countries. This alſo was propheſy'd of by (i) Balaam, where he ſaid, That ſhips ſhould come from the coaſt of Chittim, and ſhould afflict Aſhur, and ſhould afflict Eber. They ſhould afflict the Aſſyrians and the Hebrews, who were of the Poſterity of Shem. And thus both the Greeks and the Romans in their Turns did invade and conquer thoſe Parts. But as for Eber, the Hebrews or the Jews, that People ſhould be diſpers'd and ſcatter'd throughout the Face of the Earth. The Romans ſhall come and take away both their Place and Nation; as it is at this Time; and thus they ſhould periſh from being a People, if not for ever, as we tranſlate it, yet during the Time of their Obſtinacy and Infidelity, and until the Age comes, in which they ſhall be converted, as may be plainly gather'd from the Hebrew Text.

16. Beſide this, theſe Words may alſo be tak'n in a ſpiritual Senſe. Japhet ſhall dwell in the Tents or Tabernacles of Shem. When Balaam ſpoke theſe Words, the publick worſhip of GOD among the Iſraelites was in the Tabernacle, which was made for that purpoſe, of the beſt Materials which could be had, and was the (k) tent, which he placed among men; and to this he himſelf alluded, (l) when he ſaid, How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob! and thy tabernacles, O Iſrael! So that to dwell in the tents of Shem may ſignify to be of the true Religion, and frequent accordingly the publick Worſhip. Thus the Chaldee Paraphraſe renders theſe Words. The Gentiles ſhall come into the Church, which was in the Family of Shem. CHRIST ſhould publiſh, and the Apoſtles preach the Goſpel to all Nations. And that, which is obſerv'd by (m) our learned Mr. Mede, is very remarkable, that all the Offspring of Japhet are at this Day Chriſtians, Magog, or the Turks only excepted, whom GOD ſeem'd to reſerve for a great while, as he did ſome of the Canaanites in the Land of Iſrael, to prove and puniſh us by them. However, as Aſia generally belongs to Shem, and Africa to Ham, and Europe to Japhet; ſo Africa at this Time is totally involv'd in Mahometaniſm and Paganiſm: And it is generally the ſame in Aſia, only that there are many poor Chriſtians in that Country; but every true National Church is either in Europe, or thoſe Parts of America, which are inhabited by Europæans; and Mahometaniſm or Paganiſm prevails in none of theſe Countries. Thus doth Japhet at this Day dwell in the Tents of Shem in ſuch a Manner, as none, but a divinely inſpir'd Writer, could have foretold it in the Days of Noah, or would have recorded it in the Time of Moſes.

17. Laſtly, There being no Chronological Diſlocations in that Part of the old Teſtament, which is the ſubject of the hiſtorical Part of this Book, read Gen. Chap. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11; only with Gen. Chap. 10 read 1 Chron. 1. 4 to 24, and with Gen. 11. 10 to 27. read 1 Chron. 1. 24, 25, 26, 27.

BOOK

CHAP. I.

From the Promiſe giv'n to Abraham until the Departure of the Iſraelites out of Egypt.

FROM the Promiſe giv'n to Abraham (a) upon his Departure from Ur of the Chaldees, in the Year before the Death of his Father Terah in Haran, to (b) the Deliverance of the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt, and (c) to the Giving of the Law in the ſame Year from Mount Sinai, is ſo plainly mention'd in the ſacred Scriptures, to be four hundred and thirty years, that there can be no Diſpute about it.

2. This Sum being added to that in the former Table of two thouſand and eighty three years, proves, that the Iſraelites were deliver'd out of Egypt, and that the Law was giv'n to them from Mount Sinai, in the Year of the World two thouſand five hundred and thirteen, and is the Year aſſign'd for theſe Occurrences by the moſt Learned Arch-biſhop Uſher, Dr. Lightfoot, and all the beſt of our Chronologers.

3. This Space of four hundred and thirty years between the Promiſe and the Giving of the Law, the Divine Wiſdom and Providence hath divided into ſeveral Parts.

Particularly, one year from the Beginning of the Promiſe to Abraham, and his Departure from Ur of the Chaldees, to the Death of his Father Terah, and his Departure from Haran, as (d) before.

Five and twenty years between (e) the Giving of the Promiſe and the Birth of Iſaac.

Sixty years between (f) the Birth of Iſaac and the Birth of Jacob.

An hundred and thirty years between (g) the Birth of Jacob and his Going down into Egypt.

(a) Gen. 11. 31, 32, and Gen. 12. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. (b) Exod. 12. 40. (c) Galat. 3. 17. (d) Book 2. Chap. 1. (e) Comp. Gen. 12. 4 with Gen. 21. 5. (f) Gen. 25. 26. (g) Gen. 47, 9.

Ninety four years from Jacob's (h) Going into Egypt to the Death of Levi.

Forty years from (i) the Death of Levi to the Birth of Moſes.

Eighty years from (k) the Birth of Moſes to the Deliverance of the Iſraelites out of Egypt.

4. As there is a certain and fix'd Epocha of four hundred and thirty years from the Promiſe giv'n to Abraham to the Departure of the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt; ſo there is another Epocha of four hundred years, which muſt begin thirty years later, becauſe it ends at the ſame Time. This is (l) call'd the Time, when the Iſraelites ſhould be ſtrangers in a land, which was not theirs, and ſhould both ſerve the Egyptians, and be afflicted evilly by them. This muſt begin, when Iſaac was five Years of Age, and therefore there is no doubt, but it commenc'd from the Time, (m) when he was weaned, and when Abraham made a great Feaſt upon that Occaſion. For then Iſhmael the Son of Hagar the Egyptian, not being able to endure ſuch a Reſpect ſhewn to the Younger Brother, mock'd at him and derided him in ſo cruel and reflecting a Manner, that St. Paul calls it (n) a Perſecuting of him that was born after the Spirit, by him that was born after the Fleſh. There is no Doubt, but it was manag'd in a very ſevere and inſulting Manner, inſomuch that (o) Sarah could not endure it, but required of Abraham, that he would caſt out the bondwoman and her ſon; for the Son of the bondwoman ſhould not be heir with her ſon Iſaac; to which Abraham ſubmitted by the expreſs Command of GOD, tho' otherwiſe it would have been more grievous to him. What this Mocking was is not expreſſly deſcrib'd. The Jews, who make Iſaac older than he really was, look upon it as a Mocking of his Piety and Devotion. Others (p) form different Conjectures from the different Senſe of the Hebrew word in Scripture. Some ſay, (q) that Iſhmael endeavoured to draw him off to Idolatry; others (r) that he us'd many obſcene and unfit Expreſſions; and others (s) that he ſeverely beat him, and endeavour'd to kill him. But the moſt probable Opinion is, that he boaſted of himſelf as the Heir, being the firſt born, and by the Right of that to have the Priviledge of Fulfilling the Promiſe of the Meſſiah, and ſo he deſpiſ'd Iſaac as the younger Brother, or like Eſau (t) reſolv'd to kill him, who had the Bleſſing, rather than loſe the Inheritance; ſo that there was a Neceſſity of Separating them to a ſufficient Diſtance. However, be it what it will, it fixeth the Time, when Iſaac was wean'd, at the Head of the above mention'd Epocha.

5. When Jacob was threeſcore and ſeventeen Years old, he covenants with Laban to ſerve an Apprenticeſhip of ſeven Years for one Wife, and ſoon after that to ſerve another Apprenticeſhip of ſeven Years more for another. He was an old Man to endure ſuch a Fatigue even in thoſe Days; ſince his Father Iſaac, and his Brother Eſau were both (u) married at forty Years of Age, and (x) his Son Judah and his Grandchildren Er, Onan and Pharez were married much ſooner, and moſt probably before they were twenty Years old. That this was the Year of Jacob's Age at this Time, will appear by Computing the Story of his Life backward, in this Manner. Joſeph the Son of Jacob was (y) thirty Years old, when he ſtood before Pharaoh. Then came (z) ſeven Years of Plenty, which made Joſeph ſeven and thirty Years old. Then there were (a) two Years of Famine, before Jacob came into Egypt. And now Joſeph was nine and thirty Years of Age. When Jacob came, and (b) ſtood before Pharaoh at the End of the two Years of Famine, he was an hundred and thirty Years old. Now take the thirty and nine Years of Joſeph out of the hundred and thirty Years of Jacob, and it appears that Joſeph was born when Jacob was ninety and one Years old. But Joſeph was born (c) in the laſt Year of the ſecond ſeven, or in the fourteenth Year of Jacob's Service with Laban, and in the Concluſion of that Year. Take therefore fourteen Years out of ninety one, when Joſeph was born, and the Remainder ſeventy ſeven was the Age of Jacob, when he enter'd upon theſe fourteen Years Service.

6. When Jacob had ſerv'd (d) ſeven Days as an Earneſt for ſeven Years, Leah was giv'n him for a Wife; and when he had ſerv'd ſeven Days more in the ſame Manner, he was alſo married to Rachel. They who ſuppoſe, that he ſerv'd ſeven Years, before he married Leah, and eſpecially that he ſerv'd ſeven Years more, before he married Rachel, involve themſelves under unſurmountable Difficulties in Fixing the Births of the twelve Patriarchs; but in this Method we may eaſily account for the whole as (e) in the following Table. And that it was thus, ſeems clear from the Text it ſelf. Jacob (f) covenants to ſerve ſeven Years for Rachel. But (g) he demands her as ſoon as the ſeven Days were fulfilled, which he ſerv'd as an Earneſt. When he ſaw that he was deceiv'd by Laban in Placing Leah inſtead of Rachel, he (b) covenants for ſeven Years more, but (i) ſerves only a Week or ſeven Days as a ſecond Earneſt for the remaining Time. The Reaſons why (k) Reuben, Simeon and Levi were ſo call'd, appears to be, becauſe Rachel was then marri-ed, and they rival'd each other in Jacob's Affec-tions. And GOD gave it as a Recompence to (l) Leah, that ſhe bore even her firſt Son, becauſe ſhe was hated. Neither could Ra-chel, if ſhe had continu'd ſingle for ſeven Years, (m) have envy'd her Siſter's Bearing only four Sons (when ſhe bore more afterward) be-cauſe ſhe her ſelf was barren; nor could Jacob have anſwer'd to Rachel's complaint, as (n) he did, if that had been her Caſe.

7. It is impoſſible abſolutely to fix the Time, when Job labour'd under his ſevere Afflictions. I have plac'd his Death in the Year before the Departure of the Iſraelites out of Egypt. And conſequently (o) his Troubles were in the hun-dred and forty firſt Year before it, or in the 289th Year of the Promiſe; ſo that his Death about this Time might make his Story to be more freſh in the Memory of the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs. His Years, as well as Subſtance, are ſuppoſed to be doubl'd, and that (p) the Hebrew Phraſe doth plainly intimate the ſame. And if ſo, then as (q) he liv'd an Hundred and forty Years after his Troubles; ſo he muſt be ſe-venty Years Old, when his Troubles began, and conſequently was born in the 219th Year after the Promiſe, and died at 210 Years of Age, the longeſt Liver born ſince Terah, whereas (s) a leſs Age was very old in the Time of the Pa-triarchs. And ſince that, in the Time of Mo-ſes (t) the Life of Man was the ſame as in the preſent Age; and we read not of any one in Scrip-ture born afterward, who liv'd an hundred and forty Years, and but (u) one, who exceeded an hundred. So that the Length of his Life ſhews him to be born before the time of Moſes. That Job was of a conſiderable Age, when his Trou-bles happen'd, is plain, becauſe (x) he had ſe-ven Sons and three Daughters, (y) who had Houſes of their own to dwell in at that Time. And that he was not very old is as evident, becauſe Elihu, who gave Way to Job's three Friends to ſpeak what they had to ſay, becauſe (z) they were elder than he, did yet think himſelf to be of a ſufficient Age to reprove Job very ſmartly. And Eliphaz tells him (a) that with them were both the grey headed, and very aged men, much older than his fa-ther. And therefore if we can ſuppoſe, that when GOD gave him a new Life as a Re-ward for his Piety and Patience, by Reco-vering him out of his Afflictions, he lengthen'd that Life to the uſual Length of that Age, he muſt then live between the time of Abraham and Mo-ſes, becauſe it was the uſual Age of the Pa-triarchs in thoſe Days, when they died. How-ever that he liv'd about that time is very plain from other circumſtances. It is evident, that theſe things happen'd, (b) when the Chaldean Mo-narchy was ſettl'd, and had extended its Con-queſt near to the Land of Uz, and when (c) they, and the Sabeans, and others plunder'd their Neighbours. Such Practices were common in (d) the time of Ephraim the Son of Joſeph, ſince ſome of his Sons (whom (e) Joſeph liv'd to ſee) were ſlain by the Men of Gath, who came to rob them of their Cattle. That his Misfor-tunes happen'd before the time of Moſes, is as evident, becauſe (f) he, and (g) his three Friends being the Fathers of their Families, offer'd Sacrifices, as Prieſts, for themſelves and their Children, which (h) was the Ante-moſaical Method. Secondly, Job liv'd in or near Idumea, and was moſt probably of the Poſterity of Eſau, and he alſo liv'd in a time, when Religion flouriſh'd there (as appears from the Diſcourſe of himſelf and all his Acquain-tance) which was ſoon loſt in that Country. Thirdly, The (i) Land of Uz took its Name from (k) Uz the Son of Diſhan the (l) Son of Seir, the (m) Horite, which were Names of the Countries, before Eſau came to inhabit there, and ſome of them might probably be ſoon chang'd into the Names of his Poſterity. Fourthly, Eliphaz the Temanite is ſuppos'd by moſt Commentators to be the Son of Teman, and Grandſon of Eliphaz (keeping up his Grand-father's Name) and ſo he was (n) the great Grandſon to Eſau. Bildad the Shuhite is (o) ſuppos'd to be deſcended from Shuah the Son of Abraham by Keturah, whilſt the name of Shuah continu'd freſh in Memory. Elihu the (p) Buzite was probably deſcended from (q) Buz the Son of Nahor, Abraham's Bro-ther. Hence there are many, who ſuppoſe (r) Job to have been Jobab the ſecond King of the Edomites, who was ſucceeded by ſix more, none of them being hereditary, and the laſt of them probably dead before (s) the Form of Government

Government was ſettled in the time of Joſhua. Laſtly, The Matter contain'd in the Diſcourſes between Job and his Friends may help us to fix the time. Zophar alludes to (t) Iſhmeal's ſavage Way of Living, as it was (u) propheſied of him. Others ſpeak more plainly of (x) the Creation of the World, and (y) of Man, and of (z) Adam's Hiding himſelf after the Fall. They alſo (a) ſpeak of the Flood, of (b) the Drying up of the Waters, with the Promiſe that they ſhould return no more to deſtroy the World, of (c) the Overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, and (d) the Death of the firſt Tyrants in the Chaldean or Aſſyrian Monarchy. They ſpeak of (e) the Dwelling in Tents and Tabernacles, as it was the (f) Cuſtom of the Patriarchs, Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, with others in thoſe Times, and of the (g) Law being deliver'd by Revelation from GOD, as the only Way, whereby they knew his Will. And in the whole Book there is not the leaſt Hint of the Jewiſh Religion, of the Law or of the Prophets, of the Troubles of the Iſraelites in Egypt, or of their Wandering in the Wilderneſs, when the Mention thereof would have been ſo much to their Purpoſe, and they could not but have heard of it, had they liv'd either then or ſince, (e) becauſe they were well acquainted with Idumea, Egypt, (h) Jordan and the Parts adjacent. And when Job vindicates his Innocency, he ſpeaks only of the Worſhipping of (i) the Sun and Moon, the firſt method, whereby they denied the true GOD that is above, and fell off from his Service; but he ſaith not a Word of Idolatry, tho' (k) it was the conſtant Abomination of the Canaanites, and (l) of the Egyptians, and other Nations near them in the Time of Moſes. And tho' it might have been before his Time among the Poſterity of Ham; yet it had not taken any Footing in Idumea, where he liv'd, and whoſe Anceſtors had been taught better things from the Patriarchs Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, from whom they deſcended. Beſides, if Job's Troubles happen'd about an hundred and forty Years before the Delivery of the Iſraelites out of Egypt, they muſt be ended, before the extreme Servitude of the Iſraelites began; ſince (m) Joſeph died but 144 Years before their Deliverance, and their Bondage did not begin (n) until a King reign'd, who knew not Joſeph, and (o) in whoſe Time Moſes was born, who was but (p) eighty Years old, when he was the Inſtrument to deliver them. So that the Troubles and Death of Job could not be far diſtant from the Years, in which they are plac'd.

8. There have been ſome of an Opinion, that the Troubles of Job laſted a great while, and ſome ſay near ſeven Years, becauſe he is (q) recorded as ſo great a Pattern of Patience. But it is more probable, that they did not laſt above a Month, and that his Patience was tried, not ſo much by the Length, as by the Severity of his Affliction. GOD doth not (r) afflict willingly, nor grieve the children of men, eſpecially his faithful Servants, any longer than Neceſſity requires it. Beſides, the Hiſtory it ſelf ſhews, that it could not be long. His (s) firſt Troubles came immediately one upon the other. His three Friends were without Doubt great Men in the Country, where they liv'd, and had a great Deal of Buſineſs of their own, ſo that they could not ſtay long in a ſingle Viſit, and eſpecially upon ſo melancholly an Occaſion; and they (t) came to viſit him as ſoon as they had heard of all the evil, that was come upon him, and (u) ſtay'd with him, 'till his Troubles were over. They liv'd near one another, becauſe all this was done by an appointment; and liv'd near to him, becauſe they were his intimate Friends and Acquaintance. It could not be long, before they heard of it, nor could it be long after they heard of it, before they came to him. When they came, they (x) ſpent ſeven Days in Silence. After this they diſcours'd with him for ſome Time, as it is recorded in the whole Book. Immediately upon this (y) GOD ſpeaks to Job; upon which (z) Job humbles himſelf before GOD, and then his Troubles were ended. And therefore the Nature of the Fact is ſuch, as could not require ſo long a Space of Time, as hath been generally imagin'd.

9. The (a) Book of Job ſeems to have been penn'd by Elihu, one of the Speakers in it, as may appear from theſe two Reaſons. Firſt, becauſe (b) when Job's Friends, who came to lament with him, and to comfort him, are number'd by name, Elihu is not nam'd among the Number, becauſe he himſelf was the Hiſtorian and Penman, who gave this Account, and therefore he nam'd not himſelf, when he nam'd the Reſt. And as he probably liv'd near; ſo

he could know more exactly the certainty of what he wrote. And ſecondly, becauſe (c) he ſeems to ſpeak of himſelf as of the Hiſtorian. They were amazed, they anſwered no more, they left off ſpeaking. When I had waited, for they ſpake not, but ſtood ſtill, and anſwered no more; I ſaid, I will anſwer alſo; I alſo will ſhew my Opinion. And it is generally ſuppos'd, that after it had been written originally in Arabick, the Language of that Country, it was tranſlated into Hebrew by Moſes, and by the Direction of the HOLY GHOST, whilſt the Iſraelites were in the Wilderneſs, to teach them Patience under their Afflictions. If ſo, then this is the Reaſon, that the Style is not like to the reſt of the Books of Moſes, or indeed to any other Parts of the Old Teſtament, but more conciſe and obſcure, and that there are (d) ſuch a vaſt number of Arabick Words and Phraſes to be found in it. Neither is it ſtrange, that the Language was not more alter'd from the Time of Job to the Time of Mahomet, it being an inland Country, ſubject to no Commerce, fully peopled, and therefore uncapable of receiving new Inhabitants, and ſituated among other Languages of the greateſt Affinity to it. And tho' our modern European Languages have been vaſtly alter'd in a few Centuries; yet it was not ſo in thoſe Parts. The Greek remain'd the ſame from the Time of Homer to the Time of St. Chryſoſtom. The Hebrew remain'd the ſame from the Time of Moſes to the Time of Malachi; and more particularly, the Chaldee remain'd the ſame from the (e) Time of Jacob to the Date of the Babyloniſh Talmud.

10. It is certain, that (f) all the ten Plagues of Egypt happen'd in one Year. Moſes was (g) eighty Years old when he ſtood before Pharaoh, before any of the Plagues were begun. He was (h) an hundred and twenty Years old when he died, and he (i) was with the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs forty Years. So that had the Plagues continu'd longer, either he muſt have been younger when they began, or have liv'd to be older than the Age which is mention'd. The Jews make theſe Plagues to continue a whole Year, and put particular Diſtances between them. But (k) others more probably make them to end in leſs than the ſpace of a Month, as in (l) the following Table.

11. At this Time (m) the Beginning of the Year is chang'd, but there is not the leaſt Intimation of any Change in the Months. The Command was not given until the firſt Month was began, and therefore it went forward in the uſual Method. But as they had began their Year from the Autumnal Equinox; ſo they begin it for the future near the Vernal. And as they made their former Obſervations in the Autumn, ſo now they make them in the Spring. And when the Year was begun, each Month conſiſted of thirty Days, except the laſt, as it did before. And thus it is probable, that it continu'd until the Days of Solomon, who being the wiſeſt of all Men, and conſequently having better Skill in Aſtronomy than others, and being about to dedicate the Temple at the Feaſt of Tabernacles in the ſeventh Month, might, in order to be more exact, make an Obſervation of the Moon's φάσις or firſt Appearance near the Autumnal Equinox, and ſo introduce the Method of obſerving at that Time, as it was uſed in after Ages; and thus began the Diſtinction among them of the Sacred and Civil Year.

12. That the Obſervations made at Autumn, in the ſame manner with all the Eaſtern Nations (who reckon'd their Years by Lunar Months, and conſequently rectify'd their Months every Year) was very early among the Jews, is evident. Firſt, becauſe this ſeventh or Autumnal Month had many more ſolemn Feaſts than any Month beſides. The (n) firſt Day was a more ſolemn new Moon than the reſt, and therefore call'd The Feaſt of Trumpets. The tenth Day (o) was the ſolemn Expiation, when the High Prieſt enter'd alone into the Holy of Holies, and bleſs'd the People in the moſt ſolemn manner, when he came out from thence. And (p) the fifteenth Day began the Feaſt of Tabernacles, which laſted eight Days, whereas no other Feaſt laſted above ſeven. And ſecondly, tho' the Jews obſerv'd their ſacred Year from the Vernal Equinox; yet they obſerv'd their civil Year from the Autumnal. Thus it was ſettled by Rabbi Hillel according to the Ante-Moſaical Cuſtom; ſo that it ſeems that their ſixth and laſt Months were antiently about two or three Days ſhorter than the reſt; but that all their other Months were equal, and conſiſted of thirty Days as before. And this Method was probably obſerv'd by the Jews until the Babyloniſh Captivity, when they were oblig'd to compute their Years, according to the manner of reckoning in uſe among them, whoſe Captives they were; and ſo they laid aſide their Vernal Obſervations, and alter'd their Months, (q) which before only conſiſted of thirty Days, ſo that afterward one of them conſiſted of thirty Days, and the next of nine and twenty. However, that in the Days of Solomon the Jews rectified their Year at the Autumnal Equinox, will appear from an Aſtronomical Calculation in its proper Place.

13. And as the beginning of the Year was alter'd from one Seaſon to another; ſo the Day of the Sabbath was alſo alter'd from one Day of the Week to another. That which was (r) the ſeventh Day from the Creation was the firſt Day of Adam's Life, and ſo it was the firſt Day of the Week according to their Computation. But now it is alter'd to the ſeventh Day of the Week to be obſerv'd by the Iſraelites as a Sabbath in Commemoration of their Deliverance (s) out of the Land of Egypt, and out of the Houſe of Bondage. The fourth Commandment, as it (t) was deliver'd by GOD in Exodus, contains the Reaſon, why one Day in ſeven ſhould be obſerv'd by all Mankind, For in ſix days the LORD made the heaven and the earth, the ſea and all that therein is, and reſted the ſeventh day. Wherefore the LORD bleſſed the ſeventh day, and hallowed it. And it hath been accordingly obſerv'd in all Nations, and by all Perſons, whoever obſerv'd any Sabbath, the Iſraelites only excepted. The fourth Commandment as it was deliver'd by Moſes in Deuteronomy, contains the Reaſon, why the ſeventh Day of the Week ſhould be obſerv'd by the Iſraelites alone, and not by any other Nation, and is ſo full to this purpoſe, that one would wonder how it can admit of any Diſpute (u). And remember that thou waſt a ſervant in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy GOD brought thee out thence by a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched out arm: therefore the LORD thy GOD commanded thee to keep the ſabbath day. The Sabbath, or one Day in ſeven, was not at firſt inſtituted in Commemoration of this Deliverance, becauſe it was ſet apart from the Creation of the World for another Reaſon. But now another particular Day of the Week was ſet apart to be obſerv'd for the future, inſtead of the former Day. And this was the Day, in which the Iſraelites were finally deliver'd from the Egyptians. In which (x) GOD ſhewed his wondrous works in the land of Ham, and terrible things by the Red ſea. This Day, in that Year, happen'd to be on the twenty firſt Day of the firſt Month, after they had paſſed the Red ſea by a hard March all that Night, and reſted the next Day from ſo great a Fatigue, and when in the Morning they ſaw their Enemies dead upon the Shore, and ſang the firſt Song, which is recorded in the ſacred Scriptures for ſo glorious a Deliverance. How this Alteration came, is evident from the Command concerning (y) the Feaſt of unleavened Bread. Seven Days (the firſt of which was always the Day after the Paſſover, or the fifteenth Day of the firſt Month) ſhall ye eat unleavened bread, even the firſt day ye ſhall put away leaven out of your houſes: for whoſoever eateth leavened bread from the firſt day until the ſeventh day, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from Iſrael. And in the firſt day there ſhall be an holy convocation, and in the ſeventh day there ſhall be an holy convocation to you; no manner of work ſhall be done in them, ſave that which every man muſt eat, that only ſhall be done of you. And ye ſhall obſerve the feaſt of unleavened bread; for in this ſelf ſame day have I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt; therefore ye ſhall obſerve this day in your generations by an ordinance for ever. In the firſt month on the fourteenth day of the month at even, ye ſhall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at even. This firſt Day of unleaven'd Bread was the Day which follow'd the Paſſover, and was the fifteenth Day of the firſt Month, even the (z) Day in which they came out of Egypt. They eat the Paſſover at three of the Clock in the Afternoon (the Time when our bleſſed SAVIOUR died) on the fourteenth Day; the fifteenth Day began in that Evening at Sun-Set; and at Midnight the firſt born of Egypt were all ſlain. Upon this (a) the Egyptians were urgent upon the people, that they might ſend them out of the land in haſte; for they ſaid, we be all dead men. And the people took their dough before it was leavened, their kneading-troughs being bound up in their cloaths upon their ſhoulders. In Commmemoration whereof (b) the fifteenth Day was obſerv'd as an holy Convocation, being the firſt Day in which this Feaſt began, and the twenty firſt Day was obſerv'd as an holy Convocation, being the ſeventh Day on which the Feaſt ended. This firſt Day was the Day of their old Sabbath, or Sunday, and this ſeventh Day was the Day of their new Sabbath, or Saturday. And ſo it appears to be by (c) Aſtronomical Calculations. This firſt Day was an holy Convocation according to Cuſtom, in an Age where we have not the leaſt Hint, that any ſuch Days were obſerv'd except their Sabbaths; and the ſeventh Day was an holy Convocation by divine Appointment, becauſe their Deliverance was then completed: And thus, as GOD before made the World in ſix Days, and when it was finiſh'd he reſted on the ſeventh Day and ſanctified it; ſo the Iſraelites travell'd and were in danger during the ſix Days after the Paſſover; but when they ſaw their Enemies dead on the Sea-Shore, they accordingly reſted on the ſeventh Day, and ſanctify'd it. And the firſt and ſeventh Days were obſerv'd in the time of the Jewiſh Law in Commemoration of the old Sabbath, which ended on the one, and the new Sabbath, which began on the other. And the more effectually to prevent the future Obſervation of it, GOD by his Providence order'd it on this Year to be a Day of extraordinary Labour, that (d) ſuch an abſolute neceſſity as their Marching out of Egypt ſhould drive away their old Sabbath, and cauſe it to be obſerv'd no more among them, and ſo bring in the new to ſucceed in its Place.

14. But for the Proof of this by Aſtronomical Calculations. Jeruſalem (b) is plac'd by our beſt Geographers in the Latitude of 32 Deg. 50 Min. and the Difference of Longitude between London and Jeruſalem is 38 Deg. 20 Min. But Rameſes, the Place whence the Children of Iſrael march'd, ſeems to be diſtant from Jeruſalem in Latitude about 1 Deg. 30 Min. and in Longitude toward the Weſt about 3 Deg. 14 Min. ſo that the Latitude of Rameſes is 31 Deg. 20 Min. and its Longitude from London is 38 Deg. 5 Min. which converted into Time is 2 H. 32 Min. 20″. It appears alſo from (f) theſe Tables, that the Year of the Departure of the Children of Iſrael out of Egypt, was in the 3218th Year of the Julian Period, which (g) Number divided by 28, the Remainder is 16, ſo that the Dominical Letter for that Year is C.

15. It appears alſo by (h) Calculation, that in the preceding Year, being a Biſſextile Year, the Sun came to the Autumnal Equinox on the ſixth Day of October in the Longitude of Rameſes, and that in that Year the Moon was viſible on the twenty eighth Day of September in the Evening; ſo that the twenty eighth Day of September was the laſt Day of that old Patriarchal Year. And therefore it appears by (i) Computation, that the fifteenth Day of the ſeventh Month in the old Year, or the fifteenth Day of the firſt Month, as the Year was then chang'd, happen'd to be on the eleventh Day of April at their Departure out of Egypt, whoſe Dominical Letter was C, which ſhews, that this Day happen'd on the Day of the Ante-Moſaical Sabbath as aforeſaid. Thus (k) the firſt Day of that Week was an holy Convocation, or a Sabbath, and the ſeventh or laſt Day of that Week was an holy Convocation or a Sabbath, and ſo the Sabbath was alter'd.

CHAP. II.

An OBJECTION Answered.

THERE is one material Objection againſt this Part of the Chronology, which deſerves to be conſider'd, viz. The Number of Men at their Coming out of Egypt, which is expreſly ſaid (a) to be ſix hundred thouſand beſides children; or as we may reaſonably conclude from (b) a parallel Text, to be ſo many, who were able to go forth to war in Iſrael, beſides Women and Children; ſince when theſe alone were number'd in the Beginning of the next Year, they were found to be 632850.

2. To give this Objection its greateſt Weight, it muſt be own'd, that when Jacob went into Egypt, the Number of his Poſterity, who went with him, were but (c) threeſcore and ten in all, and the Sojourning in (d) Egypt was but four hundred and thirty years, and it ſeems ſtrange, that in ſuch a Space of Time there ſhould be ſo great a Nation from ſo ſmall a Beginning. But it is ſtranger ſtill, when we conſider, that theſe 430 Years muſt be reckon'd from the Time of the Promiſe given to Abraham; and that from the Time when Jacob went into Egypt, to the Departure thence, it was but half ſo much, or 215 Years. It ſeems ſtranger ſtill, that (e) Judah had but two Sons and two ſmall Grandchildren living at that time, and yet his Tribe was increaſed to be 74600; and that (f) Dan had but one Son, whoſe Tribe was increaſed to be 62700: And the ſtrangeſt of all, that Ephraim the Son of Joſeph could not be above ſeven Years of Age, when Jacob went into Egypt, and yet the Number of Males above twenty Years old at the Departure thence, which had been deſcended from him, were no leſs than 40500 in all.

3. To anſwer this Objection, which at firſt Sight looks very formidable, it muſt be own'd, that if a fair Account can be given of the Poſterity of Ephraim, all the other Parts thereof will fall of courſe. To do this it muſt be allow'd, that there was a particular Bleſſing promis'd to the World immediately after the Flood, that (g) they ſhould be fruitful, and multiply, and repleniſh the earth. This general Promiſe was more particularly (h) confirm'd by GOD to Abraham, and afterward (i) to Iſaac, and then (k) by Iſaac to Jacob. After this (l) Jacob bleſſed Joſeph, that he was, or ſhould be a fruitful bough by a well, whoſe branches ran over the wall, and the arms of whoſe hands were made ſtrong by the hands of the mighty GOD of Jacob. And when (m) he bleſſed both the Sons of Joſeph, and foretold, that they ſhould grow into a multitude, or increaſe as Fiſhes do, in the midſt of the earth, he gave Ephraim the preference before Manaſſeh, and ſaid, that he knew that Manaſſeh ſhould become a people, and he alſo ſhould be great; but his younger Brother ſhould be greater than he, and his ſeed ſhould become a multitude of nations. And it is ſaid of the Children of Iſrael in Egypt, that they were (n) fruitful, and increaſed abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty, and the land was filled with them. And (o) the more the Egyptians afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. So that conſidering the many Promiſes, which were given to that Age of the World in general, and to that People in particular, whatever can in ſuch a caſe be granted without a Miracle, may be allowed to the Children of Iſrael in Egypt, and more eſpecially to the Family of Ephraim. I will therefore ſuppoſe theſe following Particulars: Firſt, that Ephraim and all his Poſterity might marry, and have Children at thirty Years of Age. This may reaſonably be granted, ſince it is particularly mention'd, that immediately after the Flood ſeveral of (p) the Patriarchs had Children at that Age, even when they liv'd much longer; and we are not ſure, that any of thoſe, which were mentioned, were their firſt born; and it is certain, that Judah, Er, Onan, and Pharez were married when they were not above twenty Years of Age. Secondly, I ſuppoſe that each of theſe had but one Wife at the ſame Time, tho' many of them might have more. Thirdly, I ſuppoſe that the common Age of Mankind at that Time was about an hundred and twenty Years. This was the Age of (q) Moſes, and (r) Caleb might live as long, or (s) Aaron ſomething longer; Joſeph and Joſhua (t) came but little behind it; the other Patriarchs, whoſe Names are mention'd, did exceed it; and it was not till their being in the Wilderneſs, when the Age of Man was ſhorten'd (u) eighty Years, as it hath continu'd ever ſince. Fourthly, I ſuppoſe that the Men had Children till they were arriv'd to half their Age, or were ſixty Years old; and therefore if they were married at thirty, they might have Children for thirty Years. Thus it is poſſible, for Men in this Age of the World to marry and have Children from the Time when they are ſixteen Years of Age, until they are ſix and forty. Thus Noah, who (x) did not live to be a thouſand Years old, had his three Sons, who were preſerv'd with him in the Flood, (y) after he was in his five hundredth Year. Terah liv'd (z) but two hundred and five Years, and he was (a) Father to Abraham at an hundred and thirty Years old. Moſes (b) was born in the 135th Year after the going down into Egypt, and yet he was the ſecond Generation; for (c) Amram was born to Kohath, and (d) Moſes to Amram. Achan the Troubler of Iſrael could not (e) be twenty Years old when he came out of Egypt, and his Father Zerah, (f) being a Twin with Pharez, could not be leſs when he went thither; and yet there ſeems to be but three Generations between them in that ſpace of time, which was about 215 Years. For (g) he was the Son of Carmi, the Son of Zabdi, the Son of Zerah, of the Tribe of Judah. Joſeph was born to Jacob, when he was (h) ninety and one Years old, and Benjamin after that, and it is very well known, that (i) Jacob was above ſeventy Years old, before he was the Father of any Child. Beſides, if we reckon the Time, in which (k) the children of Abraham were to be ſtrangers in a land that was not theirs, from the Time when Jacob went into Egypt, we muſt allow more than ſixty Years for ſome Generations. GOD told Abraham, that (l) in the fourth Generation they ſhould come again into the Land of Canaan. Now it was two hundred and fifteen Years from the going down of Jacob into Egypt to their Deliverance from thence, and forty Years after that to their Entrance into Canaan, or 255 Years in all; and therefore theſe four Generations, according to this reckoning, muſt contain ſixty four Years one with another, or ſome more, and ſome leſs. So that the Generations in the ſame Family might be many more or leſs, according as we reckon by the elder or younger Branches. For the better Illuſtration hereof I ſhall lay down the Genealogies of Caleb and Bezaleel, and the Age at which each reſpective Perſon may reaſonably be ſuppos'd to be born. Theſe two were both active Men, and Contemporaries in the Wilderneſs; the one a Searcher of the Land, and the other a famous Workman in the Tabernacle. It is certain, that (m) Caleb was forty Years old, when they were both employ'd in the ſame Year, and (n) the Character of the other gives Ground to conjecture, that he muſt be near the ſame Age; ſo that the one was, and the other might be born in the 176th Year after Jacob went into Egypt; and the Genealogies, with the Texts of Scripture that prove them, will ſtand thus,

4. Fifthly, I ſuppoſe that theſe Patriarchs might have a Child once in two Years, and conſequently a Son once in four Years. This may be more readily granted, ſince many of them might have a Child every Year. Benjamin, the Brother of Joſeph, could not be leſs than ſeven Years younger than he, and ſome think much more. Joſeph was born (o) ſix Years before Jacob departed from Laban, and there were many (p) Occurrences, which happen'd afterward before the Birth of Benjamin, and could not all happen in one Year. And therefore as Joſeph was nine and thirty Years old, when Jacob came into Egypt; ſo Benjamin could not be above two and thirty: and yet he had (q) ten Sons at that Time. So that if we may ſuppoſe him to be married at two and twenty Years of Age, he muſt have a Son every Year, even altho he had no Daughters. To make this Allowance more reaſonable, I alſo lay aſide all others, which might be crav'd from Twins, and alſo from their having Children ſooner; ſince it is evident from the preceding Genealogy of Caleb, that it was very common to have Children at twenty Years of Age. I alſo ſuppoſe, that the Number of Daughters were equal to the Number of Sons, whereas GOD by his Providence might have ſo dain'd it, that there might have been on ſuch an Occaſion a greater Number of Sons. And as Moſes married a (r) Midianite, or (s) a Cuſhite, ſo they might marry Egyptian Women, and increaſe their Families by ſuch a Method. I alſo lay aſide all ſuch as may be ſuppos'd to be born, after their Fathers were ſixty Years of Age. And I alſo ſuppoſe Ephraim (t) to be born the Year before the Famine, whereas he might have been born four or five Years ſooner. And according to theſe Suppoſitions, the Number of Men of twenty Years old and upwards, which might have been born to Ephraim, when his Poſterity (u) was number'd by Moſes, will appear to be in every Year as in the following Table.

Total from twenty Years old to an hundred and twenty is 175,794
The half whereof ſuppos'd to be Males is 87,897

5. According to theſe Suppoſitions it is evident, by Adding of the Years of the Promiſe from 311 excluſive to 411 incluſive, that the Number of Ephraim's Children from twenty Years old and upward, even to 120, might without a Miracle have been 175794 at the Going out from Egypt, the half whereof being ſuppos'd to be Males, is 87897, which is above double the (x) Sum mention'd by Moſes, or 40500; and therefore more than half may at laſt be abated for uncertain and accidental Caſualties.

(x) Num. 1. 33.

6. The manner of Calculating this Table is thus, In the Column for the Children of Ephraim place the Number 1 oppoſite to the Year, in which Ephraim is ſuppos'd to be thirty Years old, and continue them on for every ſecond Year, until he is ſuppos'd to be ſixty Years old, then add together, as occaſion requires, all the Numbers which are in all the preceding Years, not leſs than thirty, or more than ſixty incluſive of both, and the Total ſhall be the Sum for the Year deſir'd.

CHAP. III.

Of the EGYPTIAN Year.

AS Moſes in this Interval confines himſelf principally to the Egyptian Hiſtory, ſo I ſuppoſe that it will not be unacceptable to give an Account of the Egyptian Year, by which they computed and ſettled the ſame in a Chronological Order.

2. Adam being created on the ſixth Day in the Evening, began to compute Days, Weeks, Months, and Years from the Beginning of his Life. This is the Reaſon that the Day began in the Evening, and ſo an Evening and a Morning (a) made up a natural Day, which Method continu'd in moſt of the Oriental Countries, and in all other Places, where they obſerv'd the Lunar Year. Adam being created ſoon after the Sun had touch'd the Autumnal Equinox occaſion'd thoſe Countries to begin their Year from the ſame Time. And being created when the Moon was a great Light, and very near her Full, occaſion'd theſe Countries to begin the Year from the Change of that Moon, whoſe Full happen'd immediately after the Autumnal Equinox. He being alſo created on the ſixth Day of the Creation, the firſt Day of his Life was the ſeventh, from whence he began to compute his Days, and Weeks, and Months, and Years, and ſo according to the Example of GOD, who (b) reſted on this Day, bleſſed it, and ſanctified it, Adam obſerv'd it as a holy Reſt, in the Praiſing and Adoring of his great Creator, and ſo he ſpent his firſt Day, or the firſt Fruits of his Time, in the Exerciſes of Religion. From hence began the Computation of Weeks (as it hath been before obſerv'd) and ſo the firſt Day thereof was the Antemoſaical Sabbath. And as the Moon was originally deſign'd to determine the (c) Seaſons; ſo from her firſt Appearance after the Change they began the Months, whilſt the Revolution of the Sun from Setting to Setting made a natural Day, and its Revolution from the Autumnal Equinox to the ſame, made a natural Year: And this Method continued in Babylon till the Æra of Nabonaſſar, where the plain level Country gave them greater Opportunities to make their Aſtronomical Obſervations for this Purpoſe in thoſe early Times.

3. But when the Poſterity of Mizraim or Miſor came from thence, and ſettled in Upper-Egypt, which was a mountainous uneven Country, they could not ſo well obſerve this Method. Such, who lay more open toward the Weſt, could obſerve the Appearance of the Moon a Day ſooner than others, who had Mountains or Hills toward that Part of the Heavens, which occaſion'd a Confuſion in their Beginning of the Year, and conſequently in all the ſubſequent Days and Months. To remedy this Inconveniency, they laid aſide the (d) Lunar and invented a Solar Year, conſiſting of as many Days as they thought would exactly contain the Number, in which the Sun paſs'd from one Point of the Ecliptick to the ſame again, which they thought at firſt to be three hundred and ſixty Days. Whether this was begun, before Mizraim the Son of Ham was eſtabliſh'd as their firſt King, or ſince, is uncertain; however, it was confirm'd by him, and in Commemoration thereof one of the Egyptian Months was call'd Meſori, by a ſmall Variation from his Name introduc'd by Length of Time. And as Thoth ſucceeded Mizraim in the Kingdom; ſo the Month following was called Thoth, in the ſame manner as July and Auguſt were ſo call'd from Julius and Auguſtus Cæſar, upon the Settling of the Julian Year among the Romans.

4. Thoth,

4. Thoth, the ſecond King of Egypt, and Succeſſor of Mizraim, who is often call'd Hermes or Mercury, being the greateſt Philoſopher that ever govern'd that Kingdom, finding that this Method was not exact, applies himſelf to rectify it. The Time, when this Rectification was made, may be obſerv'd from Herodotus, who tells us, that (e) in the Time of their oldeſt Kings, or from their firſt Settling in Egypt, the Sun had twice chang'd its Riſing and Setting. That is, the Beginning of any particular Month had ſo chang'd its Place, as to run twice thro' all the Signs of the Ecliptick, and return to the Point, where it was at firſt, which was only caus'd by a Variation of their Months, and not by any Alteration of the Courſe of the Sun. The Egyptian Year being five Days leſs than the real Solar Year, this Alteration muſt happen twice in 137 Julian Years. For this Number being multiply'd by 365, the Days of a common Julian Year, the Total is 50005, to which add 35 for Biſſextile Days, and the Total is 50040, which divided by 360, the Quotient is 139 without any Remainder, from whence it appears, that in 137 Julian Years there are 139 Egyptian Years of 360 Days, or that the Beginning of any Egyptian Month had ran twice round the Ecliptick Line in ſuch a Space; ſo that this Alteration was made by Thoth about 137 Years after Egypt was firſt inhabited. And therefore if to 1807, or the Year of the World when Egypt was firſt inhabited, there are added 137 Years for the Time of theſe Alterations of the Months, the Total is 1944, or the Year of the World, when the Calendar was thus fix'd by Thoth, which was the Year before CHRIST 2064. And according to all theſe Accounts, the Egyptian Chronicle will ſtand thus.

5. When the Egyptians perceiv'd this Defect in their Year, they remedied it in a great meaſure by Adding five Days to the End of it, which they therefore call'd ἐπαγόμεναι or ſuperadded, thereby implying, that they were not antiently in uſe among them, but afterward added to make up the Courſe of the Year. Of this (f) the Egyptians give an Account, (as Plutarch tells us) under this Fable; Mercury being once at Dice with the Moon, he got from her a 72d Part of the Year, and added it to the 360 Days, which were antiently the Days of the Year, which were call'd ἐπαγόμεναι, and in which they celebrated the Feſtivals of their Gods. Thence the Names of the ſeveral ἐπαγόμεναι were taken from their Gods, as dedicated to them; the firſt to Oſiris, the ſecond to Ἀρουήρις, the third to Typho, the fourth to Iſis, and the fifth to Nephtha, the Wife of Typho, and the Siſter to Iſis. The only Difficulty is, what is meant by the ſecond of theſe. Now Sanchoniatho tells us, (g) that in the next Generation before the Flood except one, there was Ἀγρέυης, which Name implies a God of Husbandry, like Pan, Pales and Sylvanus among the Greeks and Romans, who had a much worſhipp'd Statue, and a Temple carried about for that purpoſe. And Plutarch mentions not only Pan, but alſo Aroueris, as a moſt antient Deity among the Egyptians, and intimates, that it is uncertain, who he was; tho' from the Likeneſs of the Name we may ſuppoſe him to be the Agrouerus mentioned by Sanchoniatho. The firſt was Oſiris or Mizraim the Father of Thoth. The fourth was Iſis the Wife of Mizraim or Oſiris. The fifth was Nephtha the Siſter of Iſis, and Wife of Typho, and the third was Typho himſelf. So that four of theſe were in the immediate Generation before Thoth, being his Father, Mother, Uncle and Aunt, and the other was an antient Deity worſhipp'd before the Flood, and is a farther Sign, that the Days dedicated to them were ſuperadded to the Year by Thoth their Succeſſor. And there is no Doubt, but other Days were alſo dedicated to other Deities, either before the Flood, ſuch as Tubalcain or Vulcan, or immediately after, ſuch as Noah and his Wife, whom they call'd Οὐρανὸς and Γῆ, or Heaven and Earth, as alſo to Ham or Jupiter Hammon, and his Wife Aſtarte or Aſhtaroth, who was afterward the great Goddeſs of the Zidonians; and alſo others to later Deities, ſuch as Thoth himſelf, and his Succeſſor Thoth the ſecond, and other Kings of Upper Egypt, who were likewiſe deified after their Deceaſe, and of whom Moſes upbraided the Children of Iſrael, (h) that they ſacrificed to devils, Dæmonibus, or to Men departed, and not to GOD, to gods whom they knew not, that came newly up, and whom their fathers feared not. Of this Idolatry the Iſraelites were guilty in the Wilderneſs, when (i) they joined themſelves unto Baal-peor, and did eat the ſacrifices of the dead. And therefore when the Iſraelites offer'd the Basket of the firſt ripe Fruits in the Land of Canaan, they were oblig'd every Year to purge themſelves of this Sin with this ſolemn Expreſſion; (k) I have not eaten thereof in my mourning, (that is for Menes, Mizraim or Tammuz, according to the Cuſtom of the Egyptians) neither have I taken away ought thereof for any unclean uſe, nor given ought thereof for the dead.

6. As the other Nations, which computed by Lunar Years, began them from the Autumnal Equinox; ſo when the Egyptians firſt ſettled their Solar Year, they began it from the firſt Approach of the Sun toward them from the Winter Solſtice, which could be obſerv'd in thoſe early Times. So that when the Egyptian Rites of Mourning for the Death of Menes, Oſiris or Mizraim, their firſt King, were obſerv'd on one of theſe Days, which they call'd Επαγόμεναι, the Song (as Herodotus (l) tells us) which they us'd on this Occaſion, was call'd Linus, or in the Egyptian Language Maneros: And when the Year was thus ſettled by Thoth, the firſt Month of it was call'd Thoth by his Name; ſo that the preceding Month of Meſori was the laſt, and the Days call'd Ἐπαγόμεναι were inſerted between them.

7. However this Rectification made it not ſo exact, but that in four Years Time they loſt a Day, and in the Space of 1461 Years, the Beginnings of each Month went backward thro' all the Signs and Seaſons to the ſame Point, from whence it began, as it did before in a much leſs Compaſs, which Defect Julius Cæſar obſerving, rectified the Roman and introduc'd the Julian Year by adding a Biſſextile or Leap-Day once in four Years, according to the Method, which is now in uſe among us, and this was done Anno ante Chriſtum 46.

8. The Eaſineſs of Computing the Days and Months of this Year, without the Trouble of Aſtronomical Computations, occaſion'd the Introducing this Method in the Babyloniſh Monarchy at the Beginning of the Reign of Nabonaſſar, and hence aroſe that famous Æra call'd by his Name, which began Anno ante Chriſtum 746, by which Method Ptolemy hath given us an Account, in his Canon, of all the Aſſyrian Emperors, from that Time to the Death of Antoninus the Roman Emperor in the Year of CHRIST 161, containing in all 907 Years. And it is probable, that this Method was ſoon after ſettl'd in the Roman Empire by Numa Pompilius their ſecond King, and it continu'd without Alteration until the Reign of Julius Cæſar.

9. However the Introducing of this Method into the Aſſyrian Empire in this Manner was a particular Providence of GOD, that thereby we might be able more certainly to infer the Time, when Thoth fix'd the Egyptian Year, and conſequently when he reign'd, in ſuch a Method as is agreeable to the Scripture Hiſtory of that Kingdom, compar'd withthe Catalogue of thoſe Kings mention'd by Eratoſthenes, and with the Obſervations made on this Subject by Biſhop Cumberland, that they all ſerve to explain and confirm each other.

10. For when the Æra of Nabonaſſar was ſettl'd in the Year before CHRIST 746, both the Babyloniſh and the Egyptian Year began on the twenty ſixth Day of February according to the Julian Account; and therefore by Computing it (m) backwards it is eaſy to know, when it began, at the Time that the Regulation was ſuppos'd to be made in the Reign of Thoth, by which it will evidently appear, that they did not begin from the Sun's Approach to either Equinox, but rather from the Winter Solſtice. Now when Menes or Mizraim was dead, and deify'd, he was conſecrated into the Sun, or reckon'd to be that intelligent Being, which regulated the Sun's Motion. And therefore when the Egyptian Rites of Mourning for the Death of Menes or Mizraim their firſt King were firſt obſerv'd on the firſt of thoſe Days call'd Επαγόμεναι, it was a kind of Weeping out of the old Year, or a Lamentation for the Sun's utmoſt Diſtance, and when they rejoic'd on the firſt Day following it, it was a joyful Uſhering in of the new Year, occaſion'd by their being firſt ſenſible of the Sun's Approach toward them. This made the Iſraelites fall into that Idolatry of (n) Weeping for Tammuz, or the Sun, which the Jews call'd תקופת תמוז Tekuphath Tammuz, or the Revolution of the Sun, or of the Year. And therefore when Thoth, Anno Mundi 1944 (as it is ſuppoſed) ſettled the Year, the Beginning thereof, or of the Month Thoth was as near to the Winter Solſtice, as the Approach of the Sun Northward from thence could be obſerv'd in thoſe early Times, as will appear from the following Calculation.

11. Thus alſo when Julius Cæſar rectify'd the Roman, and introduc'd the Julian Year, Anno ante Chriſtum 45, he ſettl'd the Beginning on the firſt Day of January, when the Sun was in ♍ 08 Deg. 20 Min. 0″. and the Diſtance of its Declination from the Tropick 00 Deg. 18 Min. which probably was as little, as could be commonly obſerv'd at that Time.

12. To this I ſhall add, That according to this Computation, the Beginning of the Egyptian Year, when the Iſralites came out from thence, happen'd according to the Julian Account, to be on the firſt Day of September, and therefore the Change of the Beginning of the Year at that Time, was from the Autumn to the Spring, as is agreed upon by all Hiſtorians, Chronologers and Commentators. The Calculation follows.

which anſwers to the firſt Day of September, and makes the Alteration more remarkable.

13. From hence we may obſerve the great Wiſdom of GOD in the Alteration of the Year among his own People the Iſraelites at their Departure out of Egypt. The principal Deſign was to prevent their Participating with the idolatrous Nations in any Part of their Worſhip, and therefore it was alter'd in ſuch a manner, that the particular Days appointed for ſuch Feſtivals could not be ſo well known and obſerv'd. The Egyptian Year being Solar, conſiſted of 365 Days: The Jewiſh Year being Lunar, conſiſted ſometimes of 354, ſometimes of 355, and ſometimes of 384 Days; ſo that the Days, which were fix'd in the one, were moveable in the other, and conſequently could not be ſo eaſily known and diſtinguiſh'd. Had the Jews obſerv'd the Egyptian Year, the Days of their idolatrous Worſhip would have returned among them in their proper Order. When the Lunar Year was introduc'd, had they began it from the Autumnal Equinox, the idolatrous Worſhip of the Babylonians might alſo have return'd in the ſame Manner. But by Fixing it at the Spring, the Time of their Deliverance, it put them directly in Mind of the LORD their GOD, who brought them out of the land of Egypt, and out of the houſe of bondage, that ſo they might learn to have no other gods but him. And when the Antemoſaical Sabbath was every where profan'd by the Worſhip of the Sun, and was therefore call'd Dies Solis or Sunday, GOD was pleas'd to alter it from the firſt Day of the Week to the ſeventh, that ſo his Worſhip and Service might be ended, before the other began, and his own People might be under the leſs Temptation either to quit the Service of the Creator, or to join in the Worſhip of the Creatures; according as it hath been already inſiſted on, and ſhall alſo be mention'd in its proper Place.

CHAP. IV.

The Hiſtory of the WORLD.

AS the Scripture Hiſtory confines it ſelf from the Calling of Abraham to what happen'd principally among his Poſterity; ſo I ſuppoſe, that it will not be unacceptable to the Reader, to begin this Chapter with the beſt Account which we have of him, from his Birth until that Time. He was the Son of Terah (a), and the tenth from Noah. And thus, as there were ten Generations incluſive from Adam to the Flood; ſo there were ten Generations incluſive from the Flood to Abraham. Moſes mentions him as the firſt among his Brethren, as he mention'd Shem the firſt among the Sons of Noah, becauſe he was the firſt in Dignity, the Promiſe being given to him and to his Seed, and the ſacred Hiſtory being principally confin'd to him, and to his Family; but not becauſe he was the eldeſt: For his Brother Haran was born when (b) their Father Terah was ſeventy Years of Age, but Abraham was not born until he was an hundred and thirty Years old, it being evident, that (c) Abraham was but ſeventy and five Years old, when his Father died, who was at that Time two hundred and five Years of Age. The Place where he was born is expreſly ſaid to be Ur, a City lying between Nineveh and Niſibis, on the north Side of the River Mygdonius, Southward from the River Tigris, and in the Country of Meſopotamia. And as (d) the Aſſyrian Monarchy is often called the Land of the Chaldeans, and St. Stephen expreſly calls the Land, where Abraham dwelt, (e) the Land of the Chaldeans; ſo we may infer, that either Nimrod, who (f) built Nineveh, or his Succeſſor Semiramis had before this Time conquer'd that Part of Meſopotamia, and their Succeſſor was in Poſſeſſion of it in the Time of Abraham, as a Part of that Monarchy; and that this occaſion'd the Sons of Japhet to flee from thence, and to people the leſſer Aſia firſt, and Greece afterward, in ſo early an Age as Moſes mentions. There is another City of this Name, which lay near Babylon on the North, and a third call'd Urchoa, which lay Southward of it in the ſame Country. But neither of theſe was the Place, from whence Abraham came; becauſe no good Reaſon can be given, why he ſhould go ſo far round about toward the North thro' Meſopotamia and Haran, when there was a much ſhorter Way to the Weſt thro' Arabia, if he had come from Babylon to go to Canaan.

Anno Mundi 2009.

2. The Country of Chaldea, where Abraham liv'd, was ſtrangely addicted to Superſtition, inſomuch that the (g) Chaldeans in Daniel's Time were reckon'd as a diſtinct ſort of Diviners from the Magicians, Aſtrologers, and Soothſayers or Sorcerers. And it is probable, that from ſuch Sort of Men the Anceſtors of Abraham might be infected with the Errors of the Country. Joſhua expreſly charges them with it, when (h) he ſaid to the Iſraelites, Your fathers dwelt on the other ſide of the flood (or of Euphrates) in old time, even Terah the father of Abraham and the father of Nahor, and they ſerved other gods. The (i) Jews tell us, that it is certain, that Abraham was bred up in the Religion of the Zabii, who in thoſe early Times made Images, or Repreſentations of the Sun, Moon and Stars to worſhip them; and that his Father Terah was a Maker and Seller of thoſe Images. That Abraham being well skill'd in the Aſtronomy of thoſe Times, learn'd from thence that thoſe Bodies could neither make nor move themſelves by their own Power, but that there was one only GOD, who created, preſerv'd, and govern'd all other things, and that therefore they ought to worſhip him alone. That his Father Terah going from home about particular Buſineſs, and leaving Abraham in the Shop to ſell the Images, he in his Father's Abſence broke them all except the largeſt of them. Upon this Terah being angry, brought Abraham before the chief King of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, to be puniſh'd for this Crime. This King being one of the Magi commanded Abraham to worſhip the Fire, and upon his Refuſal he made this Anſwer: Since thou mockeſt me, who only worſhip the Fire, it is my Reſolution that thou ſhalt be thrown into it, that I may be a Witneſs, whether the GOD whom thou worſhippeſt, will come and deliver thee. Upon the Refuſal of Abraham, he was immediately caſt into the Midſt of a burning fiery Furnace, but came out unhurt, hurt, in the Preſence, and to the Admiration, of all. Some (k) think, that this Story roſe from Taking the Word Ur to ſignify the Fire, as it is in Hebrew, and therefore they interpret the (l) Saying of GOD to Abraham thus, I am the LORD, that brought thee out of the Fire of the Chaldeans, to give thee this land to inherit it. But ſince it is expreſly ſaid, that (m) Terah, Lot, Abraham, and Sarai his Wife came forth together out of Ur of the Chaldees; it may therefore more properly be taken as a City dedicated to the Fire, which was principally worſhipp'd there, and ſo call'd by this Name in Commemoration thereof. One (n) of the Arabick Hiſtorians tells us, that Nimrod the firſt Aſſyrian Monarch, was the firſt who worſhipp'd the Fire, and having ſeen a Flame at a great Diſtance in the Eaſt, aſcending out of the Earth, he ador'd it, and appointed a Prieſt, who ſhould continually attend it, and throw Frankincenſe in it; and that from his Time the Magi began to worſhip and adore the Fire in a ſet and ſolemn Manner. And (o) he farther adds, that Terah was the Father of Abraham by his firſt Wife, whoſe Name was Yuna, and after her Deceaſe he married another call'd Tohwait, by whom he had Sarah, whom Abraham married; and this is the Reaſon, that (p) Abraham ſaid of her, Indeed, ſhe is my ſiſter, the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and ſhe became my wife. Another (q) Arabick Hiſtorian ſaith, that in his Time the Country of the Chaldeans was very much infeſted with Magpies, which laid it waſte, and eat up all the Seed, that was ſown in the Ground; and when the Chaldeans pray'd to the Sun, Moon, and Stars, and their Images, as alſo to the Fire, and had no Redreſs, Abraham afterward pray'd to the true GOD, who heard his Petitions, and deliver'd the Country, and upon this Abraham burnt the Idol Temple in Chaldea, which his Brother Haran endeavouring to extinguiſh periſh'd in the Flames. And thus (r) Haran died before his father Terah in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Chaldees; where (as Joſephus tells us) there was to be ſeen in his Time a Monument erected in Honour of his Memory.

3. This bold Attempt of Abraham enrag'd the whole Country againſt him and his Family, ſo that there was no Staying any longer there for them. Upon this GOD himſelf appears to Abraham, and commanded him (s) to depart from his country, and from his kindred, and from his father's houſe, and to dwell in a ſtrange Land. Abraham communicates this Viſion to his Father Terah, and his Reſolution thereupon, who probably communicates it to the reſt of the Family, and they reſolve not to ſtay behind him, but to accompany him in his Journey. It is probable, that they fear'd the Rage of the Country, who might ſuſpect them as guilty of Favouring Abraham's Eſcape; and that Terah and his Family, tho' they had been Idolaters, were now convinc'd by the Miracles, which they ſaw, and the Arguments, which they heard from Abraham, and brought over to the Worſhip of the true GOD. For it is hard to gueſs what elſe ſhould move them to accompany Abraham, except an Obedience to the divine Direction, which he had receiv'd, to which they would not have agreed, if they had not believ'd in the ſame GOD. Terah himſelf being old and infirm, ſeems to encourage all the reſt, and to be the principal Agent in their Removal. For Moſes ſaith, (s) that Terah took Abraham his ſon, and Lot the ſon of Haran his ſon's ſon, and Sarai his daughter in law, his ſon Abraham's wife, and they went forth with them from Ur of the Chaldees to go into the land of Canaan; and they came to Haran, and dwelt there. And tho' there is no mention of Nahor in the Text, becauſe he did not go into the Land of Canaan with the reſt; yet there is no doubt, but he came with them at this Time to Haran, ſince (t) there we find him afterward with his Poſterity. And it is as evident that he forſook the Idolatry of the Country, ſince his Grand-daughter Rebeccah was married to Iſaac, and his Great Grandchildren Rachel and Leah were married to Jacob.

Anno Mundi 2433.

4. They had not travell'd far, before the Death of Terah drawing nigh, he was viſited with ſuch Sickneſſes, as made him uncapable of Travelling any farther. Upon which Abraham reſolves to ſettle in that Country, as long as his Father liv'd. For this Reaſon they built a City, which they call'd (u) Haran, or (x) Charran, in Commemoration of their Brother Haran, whom they left behind them. It was call'd in Latin Charræ in the plural Number, becauſe its Inhabitants came from more Nations than one, conſiſting partly of the old Inhabitants, and partly of Abraham's or rather Nahor's Family, and was afterward remarkable for the total Defeat of the Roman Army under Craſſus by the Parthians. And here (y) Terah died, being two hundred and five Years old, which was a great Age in thoſe Days, and more than is recorded of any one in Scripture ſince his Time, Job excepted.

5. Joſephus

5. Joſephus ſeems to agree with others of the Eaſtern Writers in ſome of theſe Tranſactions. He tells us, (z) that Terah the Father of Abraham had contracted ſuch an Averſion to Chaldea for the Loſs of his Son Haran, that he went away, and all his Family into Haran in Meſopotamia, where Terah died and was buried. And (a) he gives him this Character, that he was a Man equally wiſe and eloquent, of a piercing Judgment, and an univerſal Knowledge, and famous for his celeſtial Obſervations. That he had the Reputation of an Underſtanding beyond other Men. And as he wanted no Skill; ſo he had alſo the Courage to attack the moſt daring Iniquities of the Times, and by Dints of Authority as well as of his Reaſoning to tear up falſe Opinions in Religion by the Roots, and to terrify wicked Men into the Love and Fear of that GOD, whom they deſpis'd. That Abraham was the firſt, who adventur'd to preach up the Doctrine of one GOD, the Almighty Maker and Creator of all things both in Heaven and Earth, and that we ſtand indebted to his infinite Goodneſs, and not to any Power in our ſelves, for all the Comforts, which we enjoy in this World. And this he argued from the orderly Courſe of things both by Sea and Land in their Times and Seaſons, and from his Obſervations upon the Motions and Influences of the Sun, Moon and Stars, inſomuch that without an overuling and an adminiſtring Providence to keep the Wheel going, the whole Frame of the Univerſe muſt drop into Confuſion, and conſequently that all, which we have to truſt to for Matters either of Profit, Pleaſure or Neceſſity, depends ſingly upon the good Will and Bounty of the firſt Mover: ſo that it is to him alone, that we are to render all Honour and Thankſgiving, without Aſſuming any thing to our ſelves. And that the People of Chaldea were ready to fly in his Face for this Doctrine, ſo that by GOD's Order and Aſſiſtance he convey'd himſelf from thence. And he adds, that Nicolaus of Damaſcus, who might well know what paſs'd in the neighbouring Country of Haran, ſaith of Abraham, that he, tho' a Stranger, commanded in Damaſcus, to which Place he came with a great Train from a Country call'd Chaldea. And that at Damaſcus the very Name of Abraham was in his Time had in great Veneration, and that there was alſo a Village, which even then bore the Name of Abraham's Habitation. And another Author (b) informs us, that Abraham took an Houſe, which fronted Haran, where according to the antient Piety, he kept great Hoſpitality, and invited thoſe who came in or went out of Town to refreſh themſelves, if they pleas'd, and endeavour'd to teach them, whilſt they eat and drank with him, That there was but one GOD in the World.

6. Abraham had not been long there, before the Inhabitants (c) roſe againſt him, as they had done in Chaldea, for the Sake of his Doctrine, and therefore having no Promiſe from GOD that he ſhould inherit the Land, where he then was, but rather the contrary, and (d) probably GOD appearing again to him, commanded him to depart from that Country alſo, and to go into the Land of Canaan. Upon this Abraham remov'd from Haran, not only with his own Relations, but alſo with all the Slaves born in his Houſe, or bought with his Money, and (as the (e) Chaldee Paraphraſts add) all the Proſelytes, which he had gain'd over to his Religion. It was a wonderful Effect of Abraham's Faith to move him to leave his own native Country, and go to Haran. It was more wonderful, that he ſhould quit Haran, where he was ſettl'd, and remove farther. And it is alſo as ſtrange, that all theſe ſhould be ſo unanimous as to go with him (for we read only of Nahor and his Family, who ſtay'd behind) that they ſhould go three hundred Miles from thence, to a Country of which they had no Manner of Knowledge, nor had ſent any Body before them to diſcover it, under the Conduct of a Foreigner, whom they had not known a Year before, and having nothing to ſupport them but the Promiſe of GOD. However they took their Journey thro' (f) the dangerous and barren Deſarts of Palmyrena, climbing over the high Mountain either of Libanus, Hermon or Gilead, and fearing no Dangers, but ſurmounting all Difficulties, they at laſt came to the Land of Canaan, the Place of their Reſt and ſettl'd Abode. And to aſſure Abraham hereof, there (g) came a Voice to him from the Shechinah or Divine Glory which appear'd, and told him, that this was the Country intended to be beſtow'd on his Poſterity. So that having left his own People and his Father's Houſe, he ſhould become the Lord of the whole Land of Canaan, and his Seed ſhould become a mighty Nation, which mov'd him accordingly to offer up a ſolemn Sacrifice to GOD, and build an Altar for ſuch a Purpoſe.

7. In the mean time the Canaanitiſh Paſtors in Egypt under the Command of Janias their fifth King, had not ſuch good Succeſs in Carrying on the Wars, as they had before, but being defeated and ſtreighten'd by the Courage and Conduct of Toegar Amachus the ſixth King of Upper-Egypt, many of them willing to live in Quiet quitted the Country of Lower-Egypt, and retir'd into the Land of Canaan. Theſe having been call'd Canaanites in Egypt, call themſelves by the ſame Name at their Return from thence, and either not knowing to which of the ſettl'd Tribes in the Country they did belong, or the others being not willing to receive them, or perhaps they being not willing to ſeparate for Fear of more Wars, they ſettl'd themſelves upon the (b) Coaſt of the Mediterranean Sea, and upon the weſtern Banks of the River Jordan. This Retreat of theirs ſo weaken'd thoſe which were left behind them, that they could never afterward make Head againſt their Enemies, as they had done before, but declin'd more and more, until they were utterly expell'd from that Kingdom in the next King's Reign.

7. For the better Underſtanding of this Hiſtory, it will be convenient to obſerve, that among the Sons of Canaan there is mention made by Moſes of (i) the Sinite. Theſe lay in the moſt ſouthern Parts of Canaan towards Egypt, where they built the Town of Sin, on the moſt weſtern Branch of the Nile, near the Mediterranean Sea, and extended their Country as far as Mount Sinai. In the Beginning of the Egyptian Wars, the (k) Caſluhim their Neighbours being under Mizraim King of Upper-Egypt, took this Town of Sin from the Canaanites, becauſe thereby they might more eaſily prevent the Bringing in of Reinforcements from that Country, and ſo was a Paſs of the utmoſt Conſequence, which they could not be without, and therefore it was often call'd Abaris, or a Paſſage, from the Hebrew Word עבר Abar, which ſignifies to paſs over. When Salatis, who was a formidable Warrior, was made the firſt King of the Canaanitiſh Paſtors in Lower-Egypt, and began to extend his Conqueſts, his firſt Care was to retake this Paſs, to open a Communication between him and the Land of Canaan, which he did accordingly; and in Commemoration thereof he alter'd the Name, and call'd it Peluſium, from Peles, which, in the Samaritan and Æthiopick Languages, ſignifies a Removing or Wandring from one Country to another; to ſhew, that the preſent Poſſeſſors were not the antient Natives. And from the Name of this Town the Inhabitants of the Country were call'd Philiſtines. This is the Reaſon that among the Inhabitants of Canaan, which were to be deſtroy'd, Moſes never reckons the Sinites; becauſe they had before been conquer'd, firſt by the Egyptians, and then by their own Country Men, who had taken Poſſeſſion of their Land, and call'd it by another Name. And as the greateſt Number of thoſe who return'd into Canaan came from thence; ſo they are alſo frequently call'd Philiſtines in that Country, and the Sea-Coaſt on the Mediterranean was from thence call'd Paleſtina. Thus Moſes tells us, (l) that from the Country of the Caſluhim came the Philiſtines, and (m) the greateſt Number of them ſettl'd near Beerſheba in the Southern Parts of the Land of Canaan, and conſequently not far from the Country from whence they came. And he alſo reckoning up the eleven Sons of Canaan the Son of Ham, according to their Tribes, ſaith not only that their (n) dwelling was from Zidon, the moſt northern Part of the Land, to Laſhah near Egypt; but that (o) after their firſt Settlement the Families of the Canaanites, who return'd out of Egypt, were ſpread abroad among them; and ſo it was, for (p) when Abraham came into Canaan, theſe Canaanites were juſt then enter'd into the Land. Theſe Canaanites kept themſelves in great Bodies, and carried on a conſiderable Trade with their Neighbours, and for this Reaſon ſeated themſelves near the two great Seas; and therefore the Word Canaan in Hebrew ſignifies a Merchant, and keeping together did not ſtreighten Abraham and Lot at that Time.

8. Theſe Canaanites or Philiſtines (for they went by both Names) well knew the fatal Conſequence of Admitting a foreign Nation to enter peaceably and dwell among them, ſince this was the Cauſe of the Egyptian Wars in the former Century, which continu'd with great Violence at that Time; and therefore they reſolve, if poſſible, to prevent it in the Beginning. For this Purpoſe they choſe a King, whom they call (q) Abimelech, who dwelt at Gerar, ſince call'd Aſhkelon on the Bank of the Mediterranean near the River Sorek: And as the Name in Hebrew ſignifies My Father the King; ſo it ſeems to be a common Name to all the ſucceeding Kings of the Philiſtines. Upon his Acceſſion to the Government he chuſes (r) Phicol to be the General of his Army, and puts himſelf in a Poſture of Defence. But Abraham hearing how the Philiſtines had ſeated themſelves, and of their Military Preparations, reſolves not to travel into their Country, and therefore takes the middle Way between Jordan and the Sea, and intended accordingly to ſettle at (s) a conſiderable Diſtance from them in the Plain of Moreh near Sichem; and for this Purpoſe he builds an Altar here, and offers a ſolemn Sacrifice to GOD. And it being the firſt that he built in this Country, it was accordingly the firſt Place which was eſtabliſh'd for publick Worſhip, after the Iſraelites had conquer'd the Land of Canaan. A (t) learned Author of our own Nation gives good Reaſons to conjecture, that Abraham built on ſuch Occaſions as theſe a Place like the Proſeuchæ, or Places of Prayer among the Jews, ſo that the Ground whereon the Altar ſtood was encompaſs'd with a Wall or ſome ſuch Encloſure, and open above, but ſhaded with Trees, and ſo ſet apart for the other Exerciſes of divine Worſhip. The Septuagint (u) ſpeaks of the high Oak at Shechem, or a Grove of Oaks on an Hill which was there, where Jacob purg'd (x) his Houſhold of their Idols, and (y) here was the Sanctuary of GOD in Joſhua's Time, near this very Grove where Abraham firſt pitch'd his Tent and built an Altar, and (z) it continu'd famous in after Ages. Such was the Care in thoſe early Times, that Places conſecrated or ſet apart to the Worſhip of GOD ſhould not afterward be profan'd by common Uſe. In the ſame manner Abraham (a) did afterward plant a Grove at Beerſheba as a Place for divine Worſhip, and there he called on the Name of the LORD, the everlaſting GOD; and more particularly the Antients very much reverenc'd an Oak. The Angel of the LORD (b) appear'd to Gideon under an Oak, which ſeems to be a Place where they did offer Sacrifices. And (c) of all other Trees an Oak was held moſt ſacred by the Heathen, and particularly by the Druids.

9. But the Temper of the People, who inhabited thoſe Parts, making it very inconvenient for Abraham to ſettle there, he goes about twenty Miles farther ſouthward, and reſolving to fix in that Place, he builds another Altar in the ſame Manner upon a Mountain, where they antiently choſe to ſacrifice rather than in other Places. And here he offer'd Sacrifices of Thankſgiving to GOD, and implor'd his continu'd Favour. For which Reaſon the Place was call'd Bethel, or The Houſe of GOD. And as he offer'd no Diſturbance to others, ſo they gave him none; and therefore being very rich in all Sorts of Cattle, he could not think fit abſolutely to fix here, but he made a farther Progreſs into the ſouthern Parts of the Country, partly for the Conveniency of Paſturage, and partly that he might ſee the reſt of that good Land, which GOD had promis'd to give him.

10. He had not been long in the Land, but (d) there happen'd a very great Famine, which made him think it convenient to go into Egypt for ſome Time, and to return again, when the Famine was over. Joſephus (e) tells us, that Abraham, underſtanding that there was a great Plenty in Egypt, reſolv'd upon a Journey thither, not only to get a Part of their Plenty, but alſo to conſult the Prieſts in their Profeſſion about divine Matters, with an impartial Deſire and Diſpoſition to find out the Truth, and either to give or receive Satisfaction, according as the Subject in Queſtion did require. Pharaoh Janias the King of Egypt being weaken'd by the Departure of his own Subjects ſo lately into Canaan, and reduc'd to Difficulties by an overpowering Enemy, was glad to encourage others to come and ſettle in his Kingdom at any Rate, and therefore admits them to live near him; by which (f) Means he was inform'd of the Beauty of Sarah, and intended to have made her one of his ſecondary Wives or Concubines, according to the Cuſtom in thoſe Days. But GOD to prevent this Deſign viſited him (as (g) Joſephus ſaith) both with a Plague and Sedition at once. In this Diſtreſs Pharaoh conſulted his Prieſts to know the Cauſe of ſuch Calamities, and what ought to be done to remove them. The Prieſts after Sacrificing gave this Anſwer, that it was a Judgment upon him, for the Violence and Abuſe which he deſign'd upon the Wife of a Stranger. Upon this Pharaoh reſtores Sarah to Abraham, and excus'd himſelf by Diſclaiming all Intentions of Abuſing another Man's Wife (for even theſe Idolaters had a Senſe of Virtue and Morality) and declar'd that he only deſir'd a fair Alliance, without the leaſt Thought of any ſcandalous Indignity to her Perſon. Joſephus alſo adds, that after this he made Abraham a Preſent of a conſiderable Sum of Money, and gave him the Liberty of Aſſociating himſelf with the moſt learned and excellent Men in his Dominions, by which Means he became better known, and conſequently more eſteem'd for his excellent Qualities and Virtue. By the Allowance of which Freedom of Conference and Communication, Abraham had an Opportunity of Obſerving all their Diviſions about Rites, Ceremonies and Opinions, their Factions and Animoſities, and their reciprocal Contempt and Hatred one of another; ſo that upon the Whole he made no Difficulty to pronounce them to be Men, who acted in Contradiction to themſelves, as well as to one another, and without any Foundation of Truth to build upon. By ſuch Diſcourſes as theſe, he gain'd to himſelf a very great Credit, not only for the Solidity of his Judgment, and an admirable Felicity of Elocution, but alſo for his inſtructive Method of Informing and Convincing his Auditors; and he alſo read to them Lectures of Aſtronomy and Arithmetick. Pharaoh alſo gave ſtrict Orders, that none ſhould hurt him, nor any thing belonging to him. And when the Famine was ended in the Land of Canaan, he gave him a free Liberty to return, whenever he thought convenient.

11. During the Time of the Famine in Canaan, the Canaanites, who had kept together in great Bodies, were very much ſtreighten'd for Want of Proviſion and Paſturage, and therefore ſeveral of them, who had Flocks and Herds, divided from the Reſt in ſmaller Companies, and call'd themſelves by the Name of Perizzites, which Word in Hebrew ſignifies ſuch Men as live in ſmall and open Towns, and were thus diſtinguiſh'd from the Canaanites, who dwelt in Fortifications, or (as (h) the Scripture expreſſeth it) in cities great and fenced up to heaven. Theſe Perizzites, having been us'd to a paſtoral Life in Egypt, carry on the very ſame Way of Living, and probably, like (i) the Rechabites, dwelt in Tents, and mov'd from Place to Place for the Conveniency of Paſturage; ſo that their Memory was not preſerv'd by the Name of any Place in the Country, the Names of (k) Baal Perazim, and (l) Perez Uzzah being given for other Reaſons: So that when Abraham and Lot return'd out of Egypt, they found, that (m) both the Canaanite and alſo the Perizzite were then in the land. Theſe with their Cattle had eaten up their Paſturage, ſo that Abraham and Lot could not ſubſiſt together, but they were alſo (n) oblig'd to ſeparate into ſmaller Bodies, as the others had done before them. Hence appears the (o) Reaſon, why Moſes (when he reckons up the Hivite, the Girgaſhite, the Amorite, the Jebuſite, and the Hittite, among the Sons of Canaan, being the Nations whom the Iſraelites conquer'd) doth not mention the Canaanites and the Perizzites, tho' they make up the ſeven, and were (p) always mark'd out for utter Deſtruction. For theſe were but late Inhabitants, and coming from the Egyptian Wars were the more formidable Enemies, if they ſhould have been ſuffer'd to live among them. And thus when Simeon and Levi had (q) deſtroy'd the Shechemites for the Indignity done to Dinah their Siſter, Jacob ſeems only to be afraid of the Canaanites and the Perizzites, leſt they ſhould come againſt him in an hoſtile Manner; but he expreſſes no Concern for the other Tribes, who had been long before ſettl'd in the Land of Canaan; becauſe they had not been train'd up to War like theſe.

Anno Mundi 2086.

12. When Abraham and Lot were return'd into this Country, they (r) intended to ſettle at Bethel, which was the ſecond Place where they dwelt after their firſt Entrance, that ſo he might be near that Ground which he had devoted to the Service of GOD. The firſt thing that he did was to repair the Altar, which ſeems to have been fall'n or thrown down, and to offer Sacrifice thereon, commending himſelf and all that he had to the divine Protection, who had before promis'd to beſtow this Country upon him; and then to ſeek out for Suſtenance for himſelf and his Cattle. But here he finds a Difficulty; the Canaanites continu'd in their old Poſts, but the Perizzites had ſcatter'd themſelves abroad in all the adjoyning Lands, had eaten up ſome of the beſt Paſturages, and ſeiz'd the reſt, ſo that they could not live together in that Part of the Country. This occaſion'd a Contention between their Servants, each endeavouring like the Perizzites to get the beſt Paſtures, and the beſt watering Places for their Flocks; which being told to Abraham, and he being inclin'd to Peace, and reſolving to yield in order to preſerve it, makes an Offer to Lot to take his Choice, and live where he thought fit, with a Promiſe to ſeparate from him. Lot on the other hand not willing to take the Advantage of his Uncle, but knowing that it was the Cuſtom, in Peopling of the World, for the Younger to ſeparate from the Elder, pitch'd upon Dwelling in the Plains of Jordan near Sodom, as being a very fruitful Country, and where he could not want Water for his Flocks in the drieſt Seaſon. So that Lot remov'd, and Abraham ſeems to continue ſtill at Bethel; becauſe he might be near the Place of religious Worſhip.

13. It is obſervable, that GOD never gave to Abraham the Promiſe of this Land whilſt Lot was with him, except at (s) his firſt Coming to Shechem. When he firſt commanded him to depart out of his Country, and told him, that he would (t) make him a great nation, the Text plainly intimates, that he was alone. When he was (u) firſt at Bethel, and when (x) he return'd from Egypt thither, he had no ſuch Promiſe; and the Reaſon ſeems to be this: Had the Promiſe been repeated, whilſt Lot was with him, the Children of Lot might have had ſome Pretence to it, as well as the Children of Abraham; but whatever was done in his Abſence, could no Way affect them. But (y) as ſoon as Lot was ſeparated from him, the Promiſe was repeated in a moſt ample Manner. And tho' this was a ſufficient Encouragement for him to continue at Bethel, in Hope of more Manifeſtations of

14. For (as (a) Joſephus obſerves) whilſt the Empire of Aſia was in the Hands of the Aſſyrians, in the latter End (b) of the Reign of Zameis or Ninyas the Succeſſor of Semiramis, and about four Years before the Departure of Abraham from his native Country, when Sodom was in a Condition ſo rich and populous, that five Kings had the Adminiſtration of the Government, who (c) in Scripture are call'd Bera King of Sodom, Birſha King of Gomorrah, Shinab King of Admah, Shemeber King of Zeboim, and the King of Bela, which is Zoar, and whilſt each of theſe Kings was abſolute in his own Territory, in thoſe Days the Aſſyrians took the Field with a mighty Army, and march'd againſt Sodom in four ſtrong Bodies, well officer'd and diſciplin'd, gave them Battle, and after a bloody Fight utterly defeated them. Zameis being an old and unactive Prince, makes Chedarlaomer, then his Viceroy in Elam or Perſia, to be Governor of this Country, and lays heavy Taxes upon them to keep them in Subjection.

Anno Mundi 2082.

Zameis dying ſoon after, was ſucceeded by Arius, who reign'd thirty Years, and is in Scripture call'd Tidal King of the Nations, or all thoſe Countries ſubject to the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and the Samaritan Verſion calls him The Sultan, or Emperor of the Hammites, or of the Empire erected by Nimrod the Son of Ham, a Part of which was Elam, where Chedarlaomer firſt govern'd, ſince (d) Erec and Accad, the Beginning of this Monarchy, or the two firſt Cities, which Nimrod built, were in Elam on the Banks of the Euphrates near the Perſian Gulph. Arius or Tidal ſucceeding Zameis in the Empire, confirms Chedarlaomer as Governor over theſe Countries, and ſeems to have his chief Reſidence at Nineveh, where Nimrod ſpent his latter Days, ſo that he makes (e) Amraphel his Deputy at Shinar, who, as the Samaritan Verſion plainly intimates, dwelt at Babylon, and Arioch the Governor of Cœloſyria, who dwelt at Ellaſar, or (f) Ellas, a City in thoſe Parts on the Borders of Arabia.

15. In this Poſture the Aſſyrian Monarchy continu'd for (g) twelve Years, when all the neighbouring Country near Sodom enter'd into a Confederacy to ſhake off the Yoak; the five Kings before-mention'd ſeem to be the Principal, and were join'd for this Purpoſe by the adjacent Country. The moſt reſolute of theſe were the Horites, who were a Colony of the Hivites, planted there by Canaan the Son of Ham almoſt two hundred Years before, who to maintain themſelves in their antient Poſſeſſions, following the Example of the Philiſtines, being a Barrier to them, and therefore expecting to be ſuccour'd by them, ſet up (h) a King of their own, call'd Bela the Son of Beor, who liv'd afterward in a City call'd Dinhabah, of which he was probably the Governor, before he was made their King. Chedarlaomer ſends to Tidal the Emperor, and to the other Governors already mention'd, to join him with all the Forces, which they could get together, to ſuppreſs this Inſurrection in the very Beginning, who accordingly join him with the utmoſt Expedition, and ſuppoſing that they had Forces enough for their Purpoſe, they wait not for more, but quarter the reſt in ſuch Places, as might beſt ſecure the other Countries from the like Revolts; and Tidal himſelf, tho an unactive Prince, marches at the Head of them the better to encourage his own Army, and be a Terror to the Enemy. Upon this they march immediately againſt the Rephaims, a warlike People (i) of the Poſterity of Canaan, who dwelt on the other Side of Jordan in Baſhan or Batanea; the Name ſignifies Men of a Giant-like Stature, and therefore the Septuagint calls them Giants. They ſeem to be gather'd together to oppoſe their Paſſage into Sodom; ſo that theſe were firſt attack'd, that the Conquering of them might ſtrike a greater Terror among all the reſt. After this they fall upon the Zuzims, which was a populous Country, full of large tall and warlike Inhabitants, whom (k) the Ammonites their Neighbours call'd Zamzummims, from their Dreadfulneſs, the Word in the Arabick ſignifying a Rattling like Thunder. From thence they ſet upon the Emims, who were alſo a (l) gigantick People, who poſſeſs'd Ar and the Fields of Kirjathjearim, until they were driven out by the Moabites, and ſo the Country was call'd Moab; and having ſubdu'd them, they alſo attack the Horites, in Revenge for their ſetting a new King over them, who dwelt in Mount Seir, until they were driven out by the Children of Eſau, and ſo their Country was call'd Edom. ter this they return back again, and fall upon the Country of Enmiſhpat; ſo call'd, becauſe (m) GOD did here judge the Iſraelites for their Murmuring againſt Moſes; and thus they paſs thro' the Country, which afterward belong'd to the Amalekites, and ſo to the Amorites, who dwelt in Hazazon Tamar, or Engaddi, near the Dead Sea; ſo that now the Country of Sodom lay open before them, and they had no other Enemy near them, which could give them any Diſturbance.

16. The King of Sodom and the four other Kings knowing themſelves to have been the firſt Occaſion of theſe Misfortunes could expect to fare no better than their Neighbours, and therefore they join all their Forces together, with a Reſolution to hazard a pitch'd Battle, and ſo to regain or loſe all. They knew, that all theſe Conqueſts muſt coſt the Aſſyrians a great many Men, and they were tir'd out with long Marches, and therefore theſe Kings march out to the (n) Vale of Siddim, which was full of Slime-Pits, and encamp there, expecting an Attack, and hoping, that their Enemies might in the Heat of Battle fall into thoſe Pits, and ſo periſh, and others to avoid them might break their Ranks, and ſo the whole Army might be eaſily put into Diſorder, not being acquainted with the Nature of the Ground.

17. But the Succeſs did not anſwer their Expectation. The Aſſyrians after a terrible Battle gain'd an entire Victory, ſo that the other Army was forc'd to fly away to any Places of Defence, which they could meet with; and leaving all open their Enemies plunder the Country, and take not only all the Priſoners, whom they could light upon, but particularly they take Lot with his Goods and Cattle, and carry him off among the reſt. Tidal finding that he had loſt a great many Men in this Battle, that many more were wounded, and the reſt fatigu'd with ſo long a Campaign, the Winter approaching, and being on the Weſt Side of Jordan, in an Enemies Country, where it would be difficult to raiſe Recruits, they march Northward thro' Canaan, and paſſing by Abraham, who had not intereſted himſelf in the Quarrel, they give him no Diſturbance, and take the direct Road to Nineveh, where Tidal their Emperor formerly liv'd, and ſeems to have ſpent the Remainder of his Days. However, (o) Abraham hearing that Lot his Brother's Son was taken Priſoner, arms all his own houſhold Servants, being 318 in Number, and perſuades his three Neighbours Aner, Eſhcol and Mamre to join with him, who had before enter'd into a League offenſive and defenſive for their common Intereſt. What Number of Soldiers they had is uncertain, but marching all together with the utmoſt Secrecy, they purſu'd them to Dan, ſituated on the north Part of the River Jordan, and having Intelligence where they were, Abraham divided his Army into four Parts, and ſo with his (p) freſh Men, well train'd up to War, he fell upon them by Surprize (q) in the Night, when they had been tir'd with long Marches, and an heavy Battle, and moſt of them wounded, and were careleſs and ſecure at the Running away of the other Army, and their being march'd to ſo great a Diſtance. Thus they were attack'd at once in the four Quarters of their Camp, that they might be the more diſtracted, and apprehenſive that their Enemies were much more numerous than indeed they were; when they knew not who were Friends or who were Enemies; and ſo many of them were kill'd in their Sleep, and might kill one another in Diſorder at their firſt Waking; and Abraham gain'd an entire Victory, and purſu'd them to the Borders of their own Country, when he did not think fit to follow them any farther, leſt his own Retreat ſhould be intercepted; and ſo he return'd with all the Spoil, and all the Priſoners, which had been taken. Hence we may ſee, that in antient Times there was Policy in War, and many favourable Circumſtances attended Abraham in this Expedition. But the chief Cauſe of all his Succeſs was the Providence of GOD, who had (r) promis'd to bleſs Abraham and preſerve him, to proſper his Friends, and confound his Enemies, who could eaſily ſo order it, that (s) one man ſhall chaſe a thouſand, and two put ten thouſand toflight, and to him (t) was the Glory of all aſcrib'd.

18. The Conſequences of this ſignal Victory were in all Reſpects very great and glorious to Abraham. For firſt, it confirm'd all the neighbouring Kings in their own Poſſeſſions, and they could not but acknowledge him to be their great Preſerver, and treat him always after that with the utmoſt Reſpect and Eſteem. Secondly, it put an end to the Power of the Aſſyrian Monarchy on that Side, and thus (as (u) Daniel ſaith) tho' it had been before as ſwift as an Eagle in its Conqueſts; yet now the ſouthern wing was pluckt, and the Feathers taken away. And tho' Cuſh, the Son of Ham and Father of Nimrod, had been ſeated here with all his Family; yet his Removal from thence to Chuſcha on the ſouth of Babylon, when that Monarchy began, ſo weaken'd thoſe which were left behind, that they were an eaſy Prey to their Neighbours, firſt the Horites, and then the Iſhmaelites and Edomites, that we hear but little more except the Name, which might continue in the Country even whilſt poſſeſt with other Inhabitants. And as for Tidal or Arius the Emperor, he was ſufficiently disheartened by these Misfortunes, and glad to be at Quiet in his own Country, rather than march again to a Place at such a Distance, when he had Cause to think that the Success would be uncertain, and that another Defeat would be attended with the most fatal Consequences. And this is the Reason, that the Scriptures speak so little afterwards of the Assyrian Monarchy, not only because it did little, the Kings for thirty Generations (as Diodorus Siculus tells us) giving themselves wholly up to Ease and Luxury; but also because that little which they did, was without the Bounds of the sacred Story. And lastly, it gave Abraham a Right to take Possession of those Countries, as he had recover'd them out of the Hands of the Assyrians; so that when Abraham sent (x) the Sons which he had by Keturah eastward, to settle themselves in Arabia, they had a free Liberty to travel thither. And when he afterward sent the Ishmaelites to take Possession of that Country, the King of the Horites his Neighbours was so sensible of his Obligation to Abraham on this Occasion, and of the Right which Abraham had by Conquest, that he gave them no Disturbance, which we read of.

19. However we must not conclude from the Scripture Silence, that there was no Assyrian Monarchy at that Time. The Jewish Writers, and all the Latin, Greek and Arabick Historians are full in this Case, and Moses himself may be call'd in as a farther Evidence, who not only tells us, how it was founded by Nimrod; but (y) when he describes the Country in which Ishmael's Children were settled, between Havilah, which is near to Babylonia, and Shur, which is near to Egypt, and is the Country thro' which was the Passage from thence into Babylon, and Nineveh, and even to the Persian Gulph, he saith, It is the Country thro' which is the Passage to Assyria. The Septuagint renders it, to the Assyrians, or Part of their Dominion; for so Babylonia was from the Beginning of its Plantation to that Time; either when the Ishmaelites were settl'd, or when Moses wrote Genesis. The Assyrians had two Royal Cities Babylon and Nineveh; and the Way for Commerce between the two old Kingdoms was then so well known, that Moses chuses to describe the Country of the Ishmaelites by that Road. Or if we render the Words thus, The Sons of Ishmael dwelt from Shur, which is toward Egypt, unto Havilah, which is toward Assyria in the way from Egypt thither, it will plainly intimate, that the Parts near Havilah was call'd Assyria, as under that Monarchy; and therefore tho' they lost some of their Country toward the South of Arabia, yet they lost none toward the East.

20. When (z) Abraham return'd from this signal Victory, the King of Sodom, whose Crown and Kingdom he had thereby secur'd to him, went out to meet him, and congratulated him upon the same, and generously offer'd to Abraham the whole Spoil, which he had retaken (since had it not been for him it must have been carry'd off) and only desir'd that the Persons might remain his Subjects. Abraham readily granted the latter Part (and so Lot return'd to dwell in Sodom) and as generously refus'd the other, declaring that he was absolutely resolv'd to make no Advantage of the Booty to himself, more than to supply his Men with Provisions; reserving also the Right of his other three Confederates to deal with their Country Men as they pleas'd, because he could not give away their Right, when he so generously parted with his own.

21. But before this Concession to the King of Sodom, Abraham had made a Present to Melchizedeck, which could not be recall'd. Who this Melchizedeck was is uncertain. Some think him to be the Son of Shem, others the Son of Peleg. The Jews unanimously reckon him to be Shem himself, who according to the Scripture Account liv'd till Isaac (who was not born at this Time) was fifty Years old. The Scripture tells us that (a) he was the Priest of the most high GOD, and King of Salem, which the Jews also unanimously reckon to be Jerusalem. It lay near to Abraham's Road, at his Return from the North of Canaan, and was (b) antiently call'd Salem. Josephus saith, that (c) he treated Abraham's Followers and Soldiers with great Bounty and Hospitality, (the Scripture only saith, that (d) he brought forth bread and wine, which may comprehend all sorts of Provision for their Refreshment) and that he extoll'd Abraham himself, at the Table, up to the Skies for so noble an Enterprize, and glorify'd GOD's holy Name for the Blessing of so signal a Victory, in a Thanksgiving worthy of his sacred Character. And Abraham on the other Hand presented Melchizedeck with the Tenth of the Spoils that he had taken, which he thankfully accepted of. It is certain, that he was a Type of our blessed SAVIOUR, of whom David saith, (e) Thou art a priest for ever, after the order of Melchizedeck. CHRIST himself (f) applies this Psalm as spoken of the MESSIAH, which the Jews never deny'd, when the Denial thereof would have been very much to their Purpose. St. Paul (g) expressly expreſly quotes the Words of David in this Senſe, and (h) carries on the Parallel to this Purpoſe. Melchizedeck was the Prieſt of the moſt high GOD; ſo was CHRIST. His Name in Hebrew ſignifies the King of Righteouſneſs, or the righteous King; ſuch a one was CHRIST. He was King of Salem, which ſignifies Peace; ſuch a one was CHRIST. He was without father, and without mother, that is, He (i) was born of ſuch Parents, by whom he could lay no Manner of Claim to any Prieſthood in the Land of Canaan, no more than if he had no Parents at all; and the Apoſtle (k) ſaith of CHRIST, It is evident, that our LORD ſprang out of Judah, of which tribe Moſes ſpake nothing concerning prieſthood. And it is far more evident; for that after the ſimilitude of Melchizedeck there ariſeth another prieſt, who is made not after the law of a carnal commandment, but after the power of an endleſs life. He was ἀγενεαλόγητος, His Name was not mention'd in the Genealogies, which Moſes reckons up, and therefore he might be thought to have none at all; and thus CHRIST had no earthly Father, but was the Son of GOD. He was without Deſcent or Pedigree. There is no Mention made of his Offspring; and thus CHRIST had none at all. He had neither beginning of days, nor end of life. Moſes doth not tell us, that he was ever born, how long he liv'd, or that he ever died. Thus (l) who ſhall declare the generation of CHRIST, he being from and to all Eternity? He abided a Prieſt for ever, that is, as long as the true Worſhip of GOD continu'd in Paleſtina; and CHRIST hath ſuch a Prieſthood, which is never to be ſucceeded by any other. And he brought forth Bread and Wine, which ſome look upon as a Type of the Sacrament of the LORD's Supper. The (*) Arabick Hiſtorian adds, that when the Fame of Melchizedeck was known to the twelve neighbouring Kings (whoſe Names he reckons up) they came to him, and when they had ſeen, and talk'd with him, they deſir'd, that he would go and live among them, who anſwer'd, that he could not go from that Place. Upon this they took Counſel together to build a City, ſaying, This Man is indeed the King of all the Earth, and the Father of all the Kings. And when the City was built, they made him King of it, and afterward Melchizedeck call'd it Jeruſalem. And when the Fame of Melchizedeck came to Machul the King of Teman or the South, he came to ſee him, and brought him a great Quantity of Wealth, and after this Melchizedeck was greatly reſpected among them.

22. After this great Victory, the ſecond Perſon (m) of the Trinity, who is frequently call'd The WORD, and The WORD of the LORD, who is alſo (n) call'd The LORD, and (o) The LORD GOD by Abraham, appear'd unto him, encouraging his Hope in GOD, and aſſuring him, that he and Lot ſhould be ſafe from any new Invaſion by theſe or any other Enemies; for GOD would protect and defend him, and give him far more than what he had ſo lately refus'd. And GOD, according to his Promiſe, ſo reſtrain'd this mighty Empire, that we hear but little of it for ſome Centuries, except the Names of the Emperors, and the Time when they reign'd, as it hath been handed to us (p) by Cteſias, in his firſt ſix Books of the Hiſtory of the Aſſyrians and Babylonians, from the Time of Ninus and Semiramis to that of Cyrus, out of which Photius hath written Extracts, which are all the Remains that we have of his Writings. It is true, that (q) there is but a poor Account of him among the Antients, who generally ſpeak of him but as a fabulous Writer. However, ſomething may be ſaid in his Behalf. He was a Native of Cnidos, a City of Caria, in Aſia the leſs. He was taken in a Battle by Artaxerxes Mnemon King of Perſia, who made uſe of him as a Phyſician, to cure him of the Wounds which he had receiv'd in that Battle, and having had good Succeſs he continu'd as the chief Phyſician to that King for ſeventeen Years; ſo that whilſt he reſided at the Court, he took the beſt Care, and had the beſt Opportunities to inform himſelf in the Hiſtories of thoſe Countries. His Works were probably written in the Perſick Language, and the Extracts of them were in Greek. So that the Objection againſt him, that the Names mention'd by him have no Affinity with the Names mention'd in Scripture, is of no Weight. The Perſians deſcending from Shem, worſhipp'd none of thoſe Gods, which were us'd in Babylon among the Poſterity of Ham, and therefore might not call the Aſſyrian Kings by the Names of their Idols, as the Babylonians did, but by other Names, which they had in the Perſick

Language,

Language, and theſe might again be alter'd, to fit them to the Humour of the Greeks at that Time. The Author might ſuffer in his Character by being tranſlated, and much more by being abridg'd, and the beſt Proofs of his Hiſtory might be omitted; and therefore the Greeks, who were not well acquainted with theſe Hiſtories, might call them fabulous, tho' they were really true. Diodorus Siculus, and Trogus Pompeius (of which Juſtin is an Epitome) took moſt of that from him, which they had written of the Aſſyrian Affairs. And it is certain, that there were royal Records then in Perſia, in which all the Affairs and Tranſactions of the Government were faithfully recorded; for (r) the Books of Ezra and Eſther give us a particular Account of them. It is alſo very probable, that the Aſſyrian Monarchy kept Records of the ſame Nature either in Sippora or Babylon; and therefore when this Empire was ſubdu'd by the Perſians, their Hiſtorians might be well acquainted with both. And therefore as Cteſias (s) profeſſes his Sincerity, and appeals to the publick Records, as a Teſtimony of the Truth of what he wrote, he may be allow'd as an Author of Credit, eſpecially becauſe he exactly agrees with the Scripture Chronology.

23. But to return to the Hiſtory of Abraham. He (t) having no Child prays to GOD for an Heir, upon which GOD repeats his former Promiſe, with this Addition, that his Poſterity ſhould be as the Stars of Heaven for Number. Accordingly he believ'd (u) in the ſecond Perſon of the Trinity, who appear'd to him; he relied and depended upon him and his Promiſe, who in due Time ſhould be made Man of his Seed, whoſe (x) Righteouſneſs ſhould be imputed to all thoſe who are juſtify'd, and whoſe Death ſhould be a Satisfaction for their Sins, and in Commemoration hereof he offer'd Sacrifices at the ſame Time. Thus the Promiſes were ſign'd and made over to him; and as he is call'd the Father of the faithful, ſo he is propos'd as an Example, to ſhew that we muſt be juſtified by ſuch a Faith which (y) hath good Works join'd with it. And GOD farther declar'd to him, that his Poſterity ſhould be (z) afflicted by the Egyptians four hundred Years, which began at (a) the Weaning of Iſaac, and ended at their Paſſing over the Red Sea. Upon this GOD repeats his Promiſe, to give to Abraham's Poſterity not only all the Land of Canaan, which the Iſraelites poſſeſs'd, but other Places which fell to his other Sons. The firſt of theſe, which are mention'd, are (b) the Kenites. Theſe may be ſuppos'd to be of the Poſterity of Cuſh, who were firſt ſeated between the Red-Sea and Jordan near Egypt, and were much weaken'd by their Father's Going off toward Babylon to eſtabliſh the Aſſyrian Monarchy, and ſo they became an eaſy Prey to the Children of Eſau the Son of Iſaac; after this ſome of them dwelt among the Family of (c) Amalek the Son of Eſau, whilſt others of them remov'd to the Country of Midian, where they were again conquer'd by (d) another of the Sons of Abraham. This is the Reaſon that (e) Hobab, or Jethro, the Father-in-Law of Moſes, who dwelt in Midian, is call'd in Hebrew (f) a Cuſhite; and of theſe Balaam (g) had a full Proſpect from the Top of Peor. They were call'd Kenites, either from the Word, which in Hebrew ſignifies a Neſt, and the Reaſon (h) is given by Balaam, when he ſaid, Strong is thy dwelling-place, and thou putteſt thy reſt in a rock. Or elſe in a reproachful Manner, as deſcending from Ham, who married Naamah the Daughter of Lamech of the Race of Cain. And therefore (i) what we render Nevertheleſs the Kenite ſhall be waſted, is in Hebrew, But Cain ſhall be waſted.

Anno Mundi 2092.

24. The next is the Kenizzite. Theſe being mention'd (k) by Moſes between the Kenites and the Kadmonites may make us think, that they were alſo ſituated between them. And it is the more probable, becauſe they were afterward ſubject to the Iſraelites and Edomites, the Poſterity of Abraham by Iſaac, as well as the Kenites and Kadmonites themſelves. It is not likely, that the ſacred Hiſtory ſhould paſs them over in Silence; and if he mention'd them, they muſt be mention'd by the Name of the Kenizzites. And it is alſo probable, that one of the Grandſons of Eſau was (*) nam'd Kenaz, to ingratiate themſelves the more with theſe People, who at that Time were their Subjects.

25. The other is the Kadmonites. This Name in Hebrew ſignifies the Inhabitants of the Eaſt; and therefore they muſt lie oppoſite to Hebron on the other Side of Jordan. This is the Reaſon, that Abraham (l) ſent thither the Sons whom he had by Keturah, during his Life Time, as knowing it to be the Country which GOD had promis'd to give him.

The Kenizzites and Kadmonites being thus conquer'd, their Names ſeem to be quite extinct between the Time of Abraham and Moſes; and not being given to the Iſraelites, we find no Mention of them by Joſhua in the Diviſion of the Land of Canaan, nor in the Account, which he gives us of any Country, that they inhabited. As for the (m) Rephaims, or Men of gigantick Stature, as their Name ſignifies in Hebrew, and as they (n) are expreſly call'd in Scripture, they (o) dwelt at Aſhtaroth Karnaim in Baſhan, and the Iſraelites conquer'd their Country, when Og was their King, and gave it (p) to the half Tribe of Manaſſeh.

26. After Abraham (q) had dwelt ten Years in the land of Canaan, waiting for the Fulfilling of GOD's Promiſe of a Son, but not ſeeing as yet any Fruit of it, it being deferr'd for the greater Trial of his Faith, and being not yet inform'd, whether the Promiſe ſhould be fulfill'd by Sarah his Wife or not, he alſo having acquainted her with it, and ſhe being impatient to have it fulfilled ſome Way or other, gives Hagar her Maid, an Egyptian by Birth, to Abraham to be a ſecondary Wife. But ſhe being with Child, and deſpiſing her Miſtreſs upon that Account, was ſo hardly treated by her, that ſhe ran away with a Deſign to go to Egypt, and came to a Fountain in the Wilderneſs of Shur, which is upon the Borders of that Country. Here (s) the ſecond Perſon of the Trinity, whom Moſes calls, The angel of the LORD, and (t) afterward the LORD himſelf, and whom Jacob calls, (u) The angel which redeemed him from all evil, appears to her, and commands her to return again, with a Promiſe that ſhe ſhould have a Son, who ſhould be the Father of a numerous Offspring; and in Commemoration that GOD had heard her Affliction, his Name was to be call'd Iſhmael, which ſignifies in Hebrew GOD will hear, and the Well, by which ſhe ſat, was call'd Beerlahairoi, or The Well of him who liveth and ſeeth me. Of this Iſhmael it was not only propheſy'd at the ſame Time, that (x) he ſhou'd live near the reſt of his Brethren, which was in a great Meaſure in Abraham's Power to perform; but alſo that he ſhould be (y) a wild Man, as fierce and ungovernable as a wild Aſs, which loves to ramble in Deſarts, and is not eaſily tam'd to live in Societies. That he ſhould alſo be very warlike, and infeſt his Neighbours, and be infeſted by them. And tho' this Prophecy was ſpoken almoſt five hundred Years before Moſes wrote it, and above three thouſand Years ago, yet it is ſuch an exact Deſcription of the Poſterity of Iſhmael formerly, and of the Turks, who boaſt that they are deſcended from him, who dwell in the Deſarts of Arabia and other Parts of Aſia, who have been continually at Wars, and have been generally inclin'd to Inſurrections and Mutinies, that the Prophecy ſhews it ſelf to have come from that God, who knew what ſhould happen from that Time to this, and who alone hath over-rul'd and govern'd them ever ſince, and according to whoſe Promiſe, Iſhmael was born in the next Year. And two Years after this (z) Arphaxad the firſt Perſon recorded to be born after the Flood dies.

27. For ſome Years after there is nothing recorded either in ſacred or profane Hiſtory. The next Occurrence is, the Inſtitution of (a) Circumciſion. When GOD was willing to call out of the World a peculiar People to himſelf, he inſtituted this as a peculiar Rite, by which they and their Children ſhould be initiated. So that here was an outward and viſible Sign inſtituted by GOD himſelf; and an inward and ſpiritual Grace repreſented thereby. The Cutting off a ſmall Part of the Fleſh ſignify'd the Caſting off of the inherent Pollution of their Natures, occaſion'd by the Tranſgreſſion of our firſt Parents, and the Conformity to the outward Act was a Sign of a more inward and ſpiritual Conformity to the whole Law; whence Moſes commands them (b) to circumciſe the foreskins of their hearts, and to be no more ſtiffnecked. Thus in the Chriſtian Church Baptiſm is appointed for our Admiſſion into the Church, and to ſeal unto us (c) the Remiſſion of our Sins. And from hence our Church affirms, (d) that it is certain from God's Word, that Children which are baptized, dying before they commit actual Sin, are undoubtedly ſaved. For as the Guilt of Original Sin is thus waſh'd away (it being impoſſible, that the Sacrament could be ineffectual to the End deſign'd) and they have nothing elſe to anſwer for, they muſt be the Objects of GOD's Favour and Mercy to their eternal Comfort. And Baptiſm is a Preparation for an holy Life, ſince hereby we are made Partakers of the Benefits, which CHRIST hath procur'd, (e) that like as he was raiſed from the dead for the glory of the father, even ſo we alſo ſhould walk in newneſs of life. And therefore as Children were admitted into Covenant under the Law; ſo they may be admitted under the Goſpel, ſince CHRIST came to open a Way for (f) all, and not to exclude any. There are indeed ſome, who deny this; but their Arguments are not concluſive. They ſay, that in Circumciſion there was a Mark left always in the Fleſh; but in Baptiſm there is none. And indeed there was a good Reaſon for it: When GOD would have his Will revealed only to the Jews, he took Care that they ſhould be diſtinguiſh'd from the reſt of the World; but now he is willing to bring all Nations home to himſelf, it is more proper that ſuch Marks of Diſtinction ſhould be laid aſide, and ſomething elſe appointed in its Place. Secondly, They ſay, that only Men could be circumciſed, but Women are baptized. And there is good Reaſon for this, that when GOD inſtead thereof appointed an Ordinance ſo plain and ſo eaſy, both Sexes ſhould equally partake of the Benefit and Comfort thereof. Thirdly, They ſay, that Circumciſion was only adminiſter'd on the eighth Day, but Baptiſm is adminiſtred on any Day. And there was a particular Reaſon for it. At that Time there were ſeveral legal Impurities, which incapacitated any Perſon from Partaking of the holy Things, particularly if a Woman had brought forth a Man Child, (g) ſhe and her Child ſhould be unclean ſeven days, and in the eighth day he ſhould be circumciſed, which was as ſoon as poſſible. And therefore ſince all theſe Uncleanneſſes and Separations are aboliſh'd by CHRIST the Argument turns thus: Under the Law they were admitted into Covenant by Circumciſion as ſoon as poſſible, without Omitting a Day, and therefore under the Goſpel they ſhould be admitted without Delays, leſt Danger of Death ſhould happen in the mean Time. Fourthly, They ſay, that Children ought to be taught before they are baptiz'd. But that is a Miſtake: The (h) Word, from whence they ground this Notion, ſignifies only making Diſciples, or Admitting them into the School of CHRIST, which (i) St. John tells us, is done by Baptiſm. And indeed we admit of Children into Schools, not becauſe they are taught, but that they may be taught. So that the Command of our SAVIOUR to his Apoſtles runs thus, Go ye, and make diſciples of all nations, Men, Women and their Children, by Baptizing them in the name of the FATHER, and of the SON, and of the HOLY GHOST; and as ſoon as they are come to Years of Diſcretion, then teach them to obſerve all the other things, whatſoever I have commanded you. And laſtly they ſay, that none ought to be baptiz'd but Believers; but Infants cannot believe, therefore they ought not to be baptized. But to this it may be anſwer'd, That CHRIST tells us, that (k) little Children do believe. Little Children are Sinners by Adam's Sin imputed to them, and little Children are Believers by the Faith, which either of their Parents profeſs imputed to them; ſo that ſince (l) the Promiſe is given to Parents and their Children, and (m) they have a Federal Holineſs by Virtue thereof, they ought as certainly to be admitted Partakers of ſuch Promiſes as more aged Perſons.

28. At this Time Iſhmael the Son of Abraham was circumcis'd, being thirteen Years of Age. He is reckon'd to be (n) the Father of the Arabians, particularly of Mahomet, and the Saracens: And as the Mahometans are circumcis'd at this Time; and they boaſt much of their being Iſhmaelites; ſo it is probable, that we had never known the Original of this Cuſtom among them, if it had not been recorded by Moſes. And as the Jews continue to circumciſe at eight Days old, according to the Command given to Abraham, and the Example of Iſaac; ſo the Turks even at this Time do not circumciſe until they are thirteen Years of Age, according to the Example of Iſhmael.

29. But the Continuance of it among the Jews is more remarkable, as they deſcended from Iſaac, and ſo are the Sons of Abraham. GOD hath promis'd great and glorious things, (o) which ſhall happen to them as a Nation, when they ſhall be converted to the Chriſtian Faith; and therefore when other Nations incorporated into one another, and the Families intermix'd, ſo as not to be diſtinguiſh'd after their Dwelling in other Countries; yet the Jews, by Means of this Rite, being alſo of a different Religion, and a different Language, have always been kept diſtinct and ſeparated from all others. So that the Appointer of Circumciſion muſt be an all-wiſe Being, who appointed it ſo many Ages, or even thouſands of Years ſince, to be a Means in due Time of Explaining thoſe Prophecies, which are yet to be fulfill'd.

30. At this Time the Name of (p) Abraham is chang'd as a farther Confirmation of the promis'd Bleſſing. He was before call'd Abram, which in Hebrew ſignifies (q) a glorious father. And now he is call'd Abraham (r) from Ab a Father, and the Arabick Word Raham, which ſignifies a thick and continual Rain, and metaphorically ſuch a vaſt Multitude, as like the Drops cannot be number'd. Thus GOD himſelf (s) explains it, Neither ſhall thy name any more be call'd Abram; but thy name ſhall be call'd Abraham; for a father of many nations have I made thee. And (t) GOD himſelf alludes to a like Metaphor, I will make thy ſeed as the duſt of the earth; ſo that if any man can number the duſt of the earth, then ſhall thy ſeed alſo be number'd. And Sarah's Name was alſo chang'd from Sarai, which ſignifies My Princeſs, as of one, to Sarah, a Princeſs in more general and univerſal Terms. Upon this (u) GOD promiſes, that Abraham ſhou'd have a Son of her, that ſhe ſhou'd be a Mother of Nations, that many Kings, and probably the Meſſiah ſhould come of her, in whom all the Nations of the Earth ſhou'd be bleſſed. Abraham receiv'd this Promiſe by Faith, relied and depended upon it, and therefore he fell upon his Face and laugh'd. For this Reaſon he had a Command to call his Son Iſaac, which ſignifies He ſhall laugh, becauſe (x) a Covenant ſhould be eſtabliſh'd with him, and eſpecially with the MESSIAS his Offſpring. Thus (y) Abraham in the ſupernatural Birth of Iſaac, foreſaw the ſupernatural Birth of CHRIST, and rejoic'd. And Iſaac was not ſo nam'd only becauſe of Abraham's Joy for him, but eſpecially becauſe of his Joy in him, who was to come after, and ſaid to the Jews, (z) Your father Abraham rejoic'd to ſee my day, and he ſaw it, and was glad.

31. Soon after this, (a) in the Middle of the Summer, there was another Appearance of the divine Majeſty to Abraham. It is obſervable, (b) that when he looked, he ſaw three Perſons ſtanding by him, and yet he ſpeaks to them (c) as to one, from whence ſome infer it to be a Repreſentation of the Trinity in Unity. Abraham (d) calls them My Lord, and Moſes (e) calls them the LORD. The (f) firſt Perſon ſeems to talk with Abraham, and reveal to him, that he ſhou'd have the promis'd Seed in its due Time, and alſo, that Sodom and the neighbouring Cities were in great Danger of being deſtroy'd for their Wickedneſs, with whom Abraham interceded as with GOD, and of whom it is ſaid, (g) And JEHOVAH, or the LORD, went his way, as ſoon as he had left communing with Abraham; which (h) the Paraphraſts interpret of the Glory of the LORD, or the divine Shechinah. The other two, when with Lot, ſeem (i) plainly to acknowledge another, We (ſay they) will deſtroy this Place; becauſe the cry of them is waxen great before the LORD, and the LORD hath ſent us to deſtroy it. The ſecond ſeems to be the Perſon, who deſtroy'd thoſe Cities, of whom it is ſaid, (k) that the LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimſtone and fire, from the LORD out of heaven. He is call'd by (l) the Chaldee Paraphraſts, the Word of the LORD, as he was before call'd (m) in Scripture, and is ſaid to rain Fire and Brimſtone from the other out of Heaven, who (n) had ſo lately ſeem'd to aſcend thither. The third ſeems to come to deliver Lot and his Family, of whom it is ſaid, that (o) the LORD was merciful to him, and (p) GOD remember'd Abraham, and ſent Lot out of the midſt of the overthrow: And tho' (q) at firſt he ſpake to both as unto two; yet now (r) he ſpeaks to this alone as unto one. And as Abraham pray'd in general for all the Cities, and had his Petitions granted, as far as he preſum'd to ask; ſo Lot pray'd (s) for one, that he might eſcape thither becauſe it was a little one; for which Reaſon, the Name of it was alter'd (t) from Bela to Zoar, which Word in Hebrew ſignifies little, and was preſerv'd accordingly, when the (u) other Cities were deſtroy'd with Fire and Brimſtone, and were made examples unto thoſe, who ſhould live ſuch ungodly Lives as they did. And it is obſervable, that (x) many Heathen Hiſtorians ſpeak of the ſame Cities, as deſtroy'd by Lightning. The Country is ſince turn'd into a large Lake, ſometimes call'd the Lake of Sodom, ſometimes Lacus Aſphaltitis or The Lake of Brimſtone, ſometimes the Salt-

Sea, and ſometimes the Dead-Sea, becauſe they ſay, that no Fiſh can live in it. And we are told by (y) one, that the black Ground being turn'd into Aſhes, is a Sign that it was ſtruck with Lightning. And that the Apples which are there, tho' they look very fine, cannot be eaten, for when they are touch'd, they partly vaniſh into Smoke, and partly diſſolve into Aſhes. And (z) Joſephus agrees with (a) the Scripture in telling us, That the Wife of Lot, who went out with her Husband, whether out of Curioſity or Tenderneſs, could not forbear looking behind her, tho' directly contrary to the Command of GOD, and was turn'd into a Pillar of Salt; or as others will have it into a firm and durable Pillar, compar'd (b) to Salt: There being, as ſome tell us, a (c) Metallick Salt, which keeps out Rain, and upon the Account of its Firmneſs is uſeful in Building, and (d) is digg'd like Marble out of the Mountains. Joſephus tells us, (e) that he had ſeen it himſelf, and it remain'd in his Time. Another ſaith, that (f) even to his Time the waſte Land that ſmoaks, and Plants bearing fruit, that never come to Ripeneſs, is an evident Teſtimony; and a ſtanding Pillar of Salt, remains for a Monument. And there have been (g) much later Travellers in thoſe Parts, who teſtify the ſame.

32. Upon this Abraham (as ſome think) not able to endure the very Stench of the Lake of Sodom, which was offenſive to him in Mamre, but more probably fearing that the juſt Judgments of GOD might fall upon other Parts of the Country for their Wickedneſs, from which his Piety might not be able always to ſecure them, any more than that of Lot's, he goes from thence, and dwells in Gerar, the Metropolis of the Philiſtines on the the Coaſt of the Mediterranean Sea, ſince call'd Aſhkelon. Here he was in Danger of having his Wife Sarah taken from him by Abimelech King of the Philiſtines, in the ſame Manner as before by Pharaoh King of Egypt, which was alſo prevented by the ſame Providence of GOD, that continually watch'd over him. This made him afraid to ſtay there any longer, or return toward Sodom, and therefore he travels ſouthward, and dwells at Beerſheba, a Town (h) well known to be the utmoſt Limits of the Land of Canaan. Here he digs a Well for the Watering of his Cattle. And (i) after that, Abimelech finding that GOD did proſper him in all his Undertakings, comes thither with the General of his Army to enter into a League with him, that one would neither moleſt or injure the other, which was confirm'd with an Oath at this Well; for which Reaſon it was call'd Beerſheba, or The Well of an Oath. This encourages Abraham to ſettle there for a conſiderable Time. And here accordingly he builds an (k) Altar, and plants a Grove for a ſolemn and retir'd Place in which he might worſhip GOD.

33. Lot had not been long in Zoar, but he was afraid, that a new Storm ſhould come from Heaven and deſtroy it after the reſt; and therefore (l) he removes from thence into a Mountain (which is generally thought to be in the Land of Moab, and ſince inhabited by his Poſterity) where he dwelt a ſolitary Life, with his two Daughters, by whom he was ſo impos'd upon, that they were with Child by him; which unnatural Acts made him live a more ſolitary Life, or probably ſo ſhortned his Days, that this is the laſt Act which we hear of him.

34. But GOD not ſuffering his Truth to fail, Abraham had a Son the next Year according to the Promiſe, whom he circumcis'd on the eighth Day, that he might be admitted into Covenant, and call'd him Iſaac according to the Command. And it was not long after, before the two Daughters of Lot had each of them a Son. The Son of the eldeſt was call'd Moab, which ſignifies in Hebrew, Of my Father, who was the Father of the Moabites: The Son of the youngeſt was call'd Ben-ammi, which ſignifies, The Son of my People, who was alſo the Father of the Children of Ammon; both which Nations were afterward ſituated near the Iſhmaelites on the Eaſt ſide of Jordan, (m) and the Country of Moab extended it ſelf to the Banks of that River. And we may ſuppoſe, that Lot was dead when they were born; for otherwiſe he would never have ſuffer'd them to have had ſuch Names, which would have kept his Sins in perpetual Remembrance. St.

St. Paul ſaith of it, that (o) he who was born after the fleſh, perſecuted him, that was born after the ſpirit. So that from hence began (p) that famous Epocha of 400 Years, in which Iſaac and his Seed ſhould be evilly treated, and afflicted by the Egyptians. Upon this (q) Sarah was importunate with Abraham to expel Hagar and Iſhmael out of the Family. Abraham yields to it with ſome Reluctancy, and perhaps had never conſented, if GOD had not appear'd to him, and perſuaded him to it, with a Promiſe, that he would protect his Son Iſhmael in all his Difficulties, and make him a great Nation; but that Iſaac ought to have the Pre-eminence, becauſe (r) the promis'd MESSIAH ſhould be of his Poſterity. Upon this Abraham ſends them away the next Morning, with ſuch Proviſions as were neceſſary to ſupport them, until they came to the Place, where he intended they ſhould ſettle. Accordingly they went ſouthward, and dwelt for ſome Time in the (s) Wilderneſs of Paran: And his Mother took him a Wife out of Egypt, being her own Country, where ſhe was beſt acquainted. An (t) Arabick Hiſtorian tells us, that he inhabited the Country of Yathreb, where Mecca is ſituated, and Yaman or Arabia Fælix, where he dwelt, and had Sons by his Wife. But theſe two Countries are too far diſtant to be ſo eaſily join'd together. The Turks, who derive Mahomet from Kedar the Son of Iſhmael, are glad to place him there, it being the Place where Mahomet alſo was born. But the Tents or Country of (u) Kedar, ſo often mention'd in Scripture, lie too far diſtant, and too near the Land of Canaan for ſuch a Situation. They alſo make a great Noiſe concerning the Wilderneſs of Paran, and quote (x) the Words of Moſes in Favour of Mahometaniſm, where he ſaith, The LORD came from Sinai, and roſe up from Seir unto them, he ſhined forth from mount Paran, and he came with ten thouſands of his ſaints; from his right hand went a fiery law for them. Upon theſe Words they ſay, that (y) Sinai was the Mountains where Moſes appear'd, Seir was the Mountains at Jeruſalem, where Jeſus appear'd, and Paran was the Mountains at Mecca, where Mahomet appear'd. By this we may gueſs at the Weakneſs of their Arguments. Mount Seir lay in Idumæa; ſo that GOD's Riſing from Seir ſignifies no more than the March of the Iſraelites thro' the Wilderneſs, after they had (z) compaſs'd the Land of Edom. Thus (a) Deborah and Barak ſpeak of it, LORD, when thou wenteſt out of Seir, when thou marchedſt out of the field of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heavens dropp'd, the clouds alſo dropp'd water. The mountains melted from before the LORD, even that Sinai from before the LORD GOD of Iſrael. And therefore it is ſo far from Jeruſalem, as not to be in the Land of Canaan, or in any Place, where our SAVIOUR preach'd the Goſpel. Mount Paran was a Mountain in Arabia Petræa not far either from the Red Sea or the Borders of Egypt and Palæſtina, where (b) the Cloud reſted, and the Iſraelites encamp'd, and from whence they ſent forth Spies to ſearch the Land of Canaan. It was five hundred Miles diſtant from Mecca, and a Place which Mahomet never ſaw in his Life. And therefore the Prophet Habakkuk, when he tells us, (c) how glorioufly GOD came from Teman, and the holy One from Mount Paran, and ſeems to paraphraſe on the before mention'd Verſe, he only relates the Acts of the Iſraelites under the Command of Moſes and his Succeſſor Joſhua.

36. The Jewiſh Writers (d) tell us an odd Story, That three Years after the Expulſion of Iſhmael, Abraham by the Leave of Sarah went into the Deſart to viſit him, taking an Oath, that he would not come off from his Camel's Back. When he came to his Houſe, he found his Wife, whoſe Name was Ayeſha (a Name of one of the Wives of Mahomet afterward, who was the Daughter of Abubeker) and asking of her where Iſhmael was, ſhe anſwer'd, that neither he nor his Mother was at home. And Abraham asked her to give him ſome bread and Water, becauſe he was weary; which ſhe churliſhly denied. Upon which Abraham mention'd ſome Expreſſions, by which Iſhmael might know who he was, and ſhe telling him upon his Return, he gave her a Bill of Divorce, ſent her away, and married another, whoſe Name was Phatimah, the ſame Name alſo with one of Mahomet's Daughters, who was afterward Wife to Hali his fourth Succeſſor. In the ſame Manner after three Years more, Abraham returns to Iſhmael's Houſe, where ſhe entertain'd him civilly and gave him what he wanted. Upon which Abraham pray'd to GOD for Iſhmael, who hearing of theſe things at his Return, was glad to find that Abraham had a fatherly Affection toward him. And accordingly Iſhmael, when he was 50 Years old, went to viſit his Father Abraham. It is not improbable, but Abraham might go to ſee how his Son liv'd, or that Iſhmael might ſometimes wait on him; or that Iſhmael finding the Country poſſeſs'd by the Horites, and the neighbouring Parts to be barren, might come back again, and even live with Abraham in the Land of Canaan. That which gives Ground for ſuch a Conjecture is, that (e) Abraham in his Life-Time gave Gifts to the Sons of the Concubines, which he had, and ſent them away eaſtward into the eaſt Country from Iſaac his Son; and we find the Habitations of the Iſhmaelites to be in thoſe Parts, and not only in the South near Paran. It is certain, that (f) Iſhmael as well as Iſaac took care of Abraham's Funeral, which ſhews, that they had ſome Correſpondence, and that Iſhmael, tho' of a ſavage Temper, retain'd a filial Affection to his deceas'd Father. And (g) the Mention of the Hagarenes, as a diſtinct Nation from the Iſhmaelites, hath (h) afforded a Conjecture, that Hagar was afterward married again in that Country; ſo that the Hagarenes deſcended from Hagar by another Husband, and not by Abraham.

37 About this Time Ægydrus (i) ſucceeds in the Kingdom of Sicyonia: the (k) Phœnicians being ſtreighten'd for want of Room, ſend more Colonies into more diſtant Places of Aſia, and alſo into Europe; (l) Stoechus ſucceeds Toegar Amachus, in the Kingdom of Upper-Egypt, and ſix Years after Goſormies ſucceeds him, of whom there is not any thing recorded ſufficient to interrupt the Thread of the ſacred Story. Salah (m) the great Grandſon of Noah dies being 433 Years old, or 403 Years after the Birth of Eber; and (n) Hercules Aſſis ſucceeded Janias as King of Lower-Egypt among the Canaaniti∫h Paſtors, who carried on a vigorous War againſt Goſormies and his Succeſſor Mares the Kings of Upper-Egypt, (o) for the Space of 49 Years and two Months, and at laſt retreated with his Forces into the Land of Canaan, which put a final End to the Wars in thoſe Parts. He was call'd Melcartus by the Phœnicians, a Word compounded of (p) מלך Melech a King, and קרתא Kartha a City; becauſe he was the King of a City among them, moſt probably Zidon. A (q) learned Country-Man of our own faith, that he was call'd by the Greeks Palæmon. He was ſuppos'd to have been drown'd, and afterward deify'd to be one of the Gods of the Sea, or more particularly of the Sea-Ports and Havens; from whence he was call'd by the Latins Portunus, and the Iſthmian Games were celebrated in Memory of him. Perhaps his being made a God of the Harbours was only becauſe he was King either of Tyre or Sidon, which was a large Sea-Port Town. His Solemnities were perform'd in the Night, becauſe a Haven receives a Ship toſs'd by daily Storms as into a quiet Reſt from Labour, and a ſleeping Place. As Melech ſignifies a King, and Baal a Lord; ſo theſe Words might eaſily be chang'd one for the other. And therefore he is ſuppos'd to be (*) Baal the God of the Zidonians, whoſe Worſhip Ahab introduc'd into Iſrael, when he married Jezebel out of that Country. Sanchoniatho (s) makes him to be the Son of Demaroon, who was, as he ſaith, a Grandſon of Noah. Herodotus, who liv'd long in Egypt, tells us, that Hercules was an Egyptian Name, and therefore Manetho in Africanus uſes the Name Arcles, as beſt known in his own Country. The Name ערקל Hercules in (t) Chaldee ſignifies a ſwift or haſty Man. Joſephus, in quoting Manetho, calls him (u) Aſſis, which ſignifies the ſtrong or valiant; and as both Names ſignify a ſtout Warriour, ſo Joſephus only calls him by a Name of the ſame Meaning, but better known in Phœnicia or Syria than the other. He therefore ſeems not to have been a Canaanite by Birth, and to be choſen King of Lower-Egypt for his Valour and Conduct; ſince in thoſe Times, which were troubleſome from the Beginning of Kingdoms, they did not ſucceed by Inheritance, but ſuch were choſen, who might be moſt likely to do Service to their Country in the greateſt Difficulties. He was famous for (x) Finding out the purple Dye, which was firſt made with the Liquor of a Shell-fiſh, call'd in Latin Murex. This was the Colour, with which the Kings were adorn'd in thoſe Days, and therefore a King was call'd Porphyrion, or one who wore Purple, and Hercules himſelf was ſometimes call'd Hercules Tyrius, ſometimes Hercules Ægyptius, and ſometimes Hercules Phœnicius. And the Country near Tyre and Sidon, and eſpecially the Sea-Coaſt, where they caught theſe Fiſh, and carried on the purple Trade, was call'd Phœnicia. Hence appears the great Miſtake of ſome, who affirm'd, that theſe Phœnicians came from Idumæa, which was grounded upon the Likeneſs of the Names, becauſe both ſignify Red. But Idumæa had its Name from Eſau or Edom the Son of Jacob, who long'd (y) for red Pottage, which made him ſo call'd; and Phœnicia had its Name from the above-mention'd Reaſon. Idumæa was always call'd ſo from the Hebrew Word, and Phœnicia from the Greek; ſo that Idumæa was never call'd Phœnicia, and Phœnicia was never call'd Idumæa. The antient Name of the Red-Sea adjoining to Idumæa throughout the Hebrew Bible is the Sea of Reeds and Bulruſhes, and I ſuppoſe, that it was call'd the Red-Sea from the Sands on the Shore being of that Colour. And ſecondly, they infer it from (z) the Teſtimony of Herodotus. But Herodotus firſt tells us the Story only as he had it by Hearſay, or granting it to be true it is nothing to the Purpoſe. The Greeks call'd their neighbouring Shore firſt Phœnicia, and then call'd the Shore as far as Egypt by the ſame Name. Now Herodotus expreſly ſpeaks of the Phœnicians, who dwelt in Palæſtina, even as far as to Egypt, and not of thoſe, who liv'd northward about Tyre; and ſaith, that they formerly liv'd near the Red Sea. This is true, for they came from Peluſium, and the Country round about as far as the Red-Sea, about the Time when Abraham came into Canaan, as is already mention'd; ſo that Herodotus ſpeaks of ſome who came from Egypt, not from Idumæa, and came into Palæſtina ſtrictly ſo ſpeaking (it being his own Word) but not into the Parts near Tyre and Sidon.

38. Another thing obſerv'd of this Hercules or Aſſis is, that (a) knowing the Kings of Upper-Egypt to uſe a Year of 365 Days, and finding it to be more exact according to the annual Motion of the Sun, he introduc'd the ſame Way of Reckoning into his Kingdom, which continu'd the ſame for many Ages afterward; and ſhews him to be a Man well acquainted with the Philoſophy of thoſe Times,

39. In the Time of this Hercules King of Lower-Egypt, (b) Jobab the Son of Zerah of Bozra, the ſecond King of the Horites, began to reign at the Death of Bela their firſt King. The Time is thus computed: When (c) Chedarlaomer over-ran the Horites, as is already mention'd, they ſet up Bela their firſt King, having learn'd by what they ſuffer'd in that Invaſion to have a Monarch, under whom they might be better united to defend themſelves in any Difficulties, which ſhould follow. Now from the Time when the Horite Kingdom began, Anno 2093, to the Departure of the Iſraelites out of Egypt, Anno 2513, are 420 Years, in which Time there happen'd ten Succeſſions, viz. eight of Kings, and two of Dukes. This Number equally divided allows 42 Years to each Succeſſion; and it is pitch'd upon, not becauſe it is ſo in Truth and Reality, but becauſe there is no Foundation to go upon, by which a more accurate and real Diviſion can be made; and becauſe even ſuch a Diviſion may afford a little Light into the Times, in which the Life and Death of Eſau and of his Sons Eliphaz and Revel might happen in the Land of Seir; and therefore ſuppoſing the firſt King of the Horites to be as above mention'd, the Reign of the ſecond King will begin nearly as in the Margin.

40. The next thing, which follows in the Hiſtory of Abraham, is his Intention of Offering his Son Iſaac upon the Altar. What Time this happen'd is uncertain. Some think it was when Iſaac was thirteen Years old; but we can hardly think, that he could (d) carry on his Shoulders at that Age, as much Wood, as was ſufficient for a Burnt-Offering; Joſephus (e) thinks that he was five and twenty, others (f) 30; the (g) Jews and (h) Arabians reckon him ſeven and thirty, and ſay, that it happen'd a little before the Death of Sarah, that (i) it was on the Feaſt of Expiation, and (k) that in Commemoration hereof the Turks obſerve a yearly Feaſt, not much unlike to that of the Paſſover. The Place, where this Offering was made, was at firſt call'd the Land of Moriah, which ſignifies the Doctrine or Fear of the LORD, or The LORD is my Teacher. The Divine Majeſty appear'd to Abraham, and commanded him to go thither upon this Errand, which Abraham immediately obey'd. The Jews ſay, (l) that when GOD bade him go thither and offer his Son, he ask'd, How he ſhou'd know it? The Anſwer was, That whereſoever he ſhould ſee the Glory of the LORD, that ſhould be the Place; and accordingly he beheld a Pillar of Fire reaching from the Earth to the Heavens, and thereby he knew, that it was the Place. This was the Place where (m) David ſtay'd the Peſtilence, and GOD anſwer'd him by Fire from Heaven, where he (n) pitch'd a Tabernacle for him, and where (o) Solomon after that built him an Houſe. Joſephus frames a long Speech, which he ſuppoſeth Abraham to have made to Iſaac on this Occaſion, and after that Iſaac readily complied to lay down his Life, which had been effected, if the ſecond Perſon in the Trinity, who is call'd here, (p) The Angel of the LORD, had not prevented it by a Voice from Heaven, and after that (q) ſwore by himſelf (which no Angel would do) that he would bleſs Abraham and his Seed. And that (r) in his Seed, that is (s) in CHRIST JESUS all the Nations of the Earth ſhould be bleſſed; ſo that (t) he ſhould not be the GOD of the Jews only, but of the Gentiles alſo. The Jews ſpeak very particularly concerning the Binding of Iſaac, which the Scripture only mentions in general Terms, (u) He bound him, and laid him on the altar on the wood. They add, that Iſaac (x) ſaid to his Father, Bind me, O Father, and tie both my hands and my feet, leſt I ſhould be provok'd to violate the Command, Honour thy Father. He therefore, ſay they, bound both his Hands, and both his Feet, and then laid him upon the Altar, and ſet the Wood and the Fire in Order, and plac'd him upon the Wood, and put his Foot upon him, as a Man doth when he kills a Beaſt, leſt it ſhould reſiſt. When the Gentiles offer'd human Sacrifices, they (y) tied both their Hands behind their Backs; and tho' we cannot tell what Ceremony was here us'd, yet the Jews lay a great Streſs upon it. Tho' they look not unto the Antitype, who was ſlain (z) to take away the ſins of the world; yet they attribute a great Efficacy to the Type, even the Binding and Placing of Iſaac on the Altar, for the Expiating of their Sins, and therefore on the yearly Day of their Expiation in the ſeventh Month, they (a) not only put GOD in Mind of the Blood of the Circumciſion, and of the Paſchal Lamb, but alſo of the Sacrificing of Iſaac, that ſo he may blot out the Iniquities of his People; and they particularly mention, that GOD would remember the Binding, with which Abraham bound his Son Iſaac upon the Top of the Altar. The (b) Arabian Writers ſay, that when Sarah heard, that Abraham took her only Son into the Mountain to ſacrifice him to GOD, ſhe fell into a very great Agony, which brought on a Fit of Sickneſs, and ſo coſt her her Life; and if that could be prov'd, it would be plain, that Iſaac was then in the thirty ſeventh Year of his Age. It is obſervable, that when (c) Abraham and Iſaac went together, Iſaac ſaid, Behold the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering? And Abraham ſaid, JEHOVAH Jireh, or GOD will provide. And ſoon after Abraham ſaw a Ram caught in a Thicket by his Horns, which he offer'd up inſtead of his Son. And therefore he call'd the Name of the Place JEHOVAH Jireh, or GOD will provide. Inſomuch that it became a common Proverb בהר יהוה יראה In the Mountain, or in Difficulties, GOD will provide, or as we commonly ſay, Man's Neceſſity is GOD's Opportunity. The Jews, who ſuperſtitiouſly leave out the Word JEHOVAH, ſay, (d) Abraham call'd the Place Jireh; Shem (by whom they mean Melchizedeck) call'd it Shalem. Therefore GOD ſaid, If I ſhall call it Jireh, it will diſpleaſe Shem the juſt; If I ſhall call it Shalem, it will diſpleaſe Abraham the juſt; I will therefore put that Name upon it, which was put upon it by both, יראה שלם or יראו שלם He will provide Peace, or they ſhall ſee Peace, which tho' not literally true in the earthly Jeruſalem, ſhall be compleated in the heavenly, even in that (e) Jeruſalem, which is from above, and which is the mother of us all. St. Paul ſaith, (f) that By faith Abraham offered up his only begotten ſon. And the Reaſon was, becauſe he counted, that GOD was both able and willing to raiſe him up from the dead; from whence alſo he received him ἐν τύπῳ in a figure, or as a Type of CHRIST. Thus (g) in Abraham's Seed all the families of the earth ſhould be bleſſed, in his natural Seed Iſaac, and in his ſpiritual Seed CHRIST. Iſaac was accounted the only Son of his Father; ſo was CHRIST. He was the beloved Son; ſo was CHRIST. He was the Heir of all; ſo was CHRIST. Abraham and Sarah laugh'd at the News of his Conception, when ſuppos'd to be ſpoken by an Angel; and an Angel told the Shepherds, that the Declaring the Birth of CHRIST was Tidings of great Joy, which ſhould be to all People. Iſaac was born, when his Father was paſt Age, and ſo it was ſupernatural. CHRIST had no Father on Earth, but only one in Heaven. Iſaac was given up by his Father to Death, and GOD ſo lov'd the World, that he gave his only begotten ſon for us all. Iſaac bore the Wood, which was to bear him, and as (h) the Jews expreſs it, like a Man, who bears his Croſs, putting it upon his Shoulders, which was moſt true in CHRIST. Iſaac was deſign'd for a Sacrifice in the 37th Year of his Age, and ſo was CHRIST. Iſaac freely reſign'd himſelf to Death, ſince it was impoſſible for his Father to force him, and CHRIST ſaith of his own Life, (i) No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of my ſelf, I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. On (k) the third Day after Abraham departed from his Houſe, Iſaac was reſtor'd alive to him; and CHRIST on the third Day after his Crucifixion roſe from the Dead. Iſaac was ſacrific'd and yet liv'd, to ſhew that CHRIST

ſhould truly die, and truly live again. In Abraham's Intention Iſaac died, in his Expectation he was to riſe again, and in his Acceptation being ſpar'd he was receiv'd from the Dead. All which was acted to foreſhew that the only Son of GOD was really and truly to be ſacrific'd and die, and after Death was really to be rais'd to Life. So that what was the Intention of our Father Abraham, and not perform'd, the ſame was the Reſolution of our heavenly Father, and actually fulfill'd. And (l) Abraham offer'd up the Ram inſtead of his Son, to ſhew that the Offering of CHRIST ſhould be deferr'd for a Time, and in the mean Seaſon the Offering of Beaſts ſhould be accepted; and the more lively to expreſs this, GOD ſo order'd it, That the very Place, where the Ram was offer'd inſtead of Iſaac, ſhould be the Place of Sacrificing for Iſrael.

41. Upon the Death of Sarah Abraham, having perform'd a decent Mourning (m), bargains with Ephron the Hittite for a convenient Place to bury her, and the reſt of the Family there. Accordingly this was the Place, where (n) he, Iſaac, Rebeccah, Jacob, Leah and Joſeph were buried. When the Bargain was made, it is ſaid, that he weighed the money, that it was all in Silver, and that it was not of any ſort of Silver, but ſuch as was current with the merchant, and cou'd not be refus'd when offer'd in Buying and Selling. So that here is ſome Silver diſtinguiſh'd from the reſt by being current, which moſt probably muſt be by having ſome particular Stamp or Mark upon it by a publick Authority. Theſe Pieces ſeem not at that Time to be of a certain Weight or Value, but valu'd by their Weight, the Standard whereof was a Shekel, and ſo they might have Weights of 1, 2, 4, 8, 10, 20, 30, or 100 Shekels, with which they weigh'd their Silver. This manner of Buying and Selling was (o) uſed before, and thus it is probable, that Abimelech (p) gave to Abraham a thouſand (not Pieces of Silver, as in our Tranſlation, the Word being not in the Original, but) Weight, and probably the Weight of a thouſand Shekels of Silver. Theſe Shekels (as Joſephus (q) tells us) contain'd four Athenian Drachms, or about half an Ounce. So that theſe 400 Shekels ſeem to be about 50 Pound in the Value of our preſent Money. This Method laſted not long, it being very inconvenient for all Traders to carry Weights and Scales with them. And therefore they firſt coin'd ſuch Coins as were of an equal Weight, which made (r) ſingle Shekels, and half Shekels ſo common in the Wilderneſs, among the Iſraelites both rich and poor, and the Standards of theſe were (s) kept in the Sanctuary to prevent any Fraud. And thus in Proceſs of Time they coin'd more different Pieces of different Weights.

Anno Mundi 2145.

42. Hence we find, that making Incloſures, and other Conveniencies for the Burial of Relations together, was as antient as Abraham's Time, not only in his Family, but (t) even among others. Among thoſe who believ'd the Reſurrection of the Dead they were call'd Κοιμητήρια, or ſleeping Places. And they were frequented by ſuch, as Places where they perform'd many religious Acts of Devotion, to teſtify their hopes of Riſing and Joining together in one Body in the other World to worſhip GOD in a more perfect Manner. Thus St. Paul argues from this Cuſtom, (u) If the dead riſe not at all, why ſhould they, who are baptiz'd ὑπὲρ νεκρῶν, over the Graves of thoſe who were deceas'd, meet there for religious Worſhip more than in any other Place? Or if the dead riſe not at all, why ſhould Men be baptiz'd in ſuch Places rather than in any other? And thus when Churches were built and ſet apart for religious Worſhip, they were built in thoſe Places, which were us'd in this Manner and for this Reaſon, or (as we commonly ſpeak) in the Church-Yards.

43. Soon after this (x) Thurimachus ſucceeds Ægydrus as one of the Sicyonian Kings; and Hoamti the third Emperor of China begins to reign, and reign'd 100 Years, and therefore if we ſuppoſe him to begin his Reign at about 70 Years of Age, his Life will very well agree with the (y) Length of the Lives of Abraham and Iſaac, with whom he was contemporary. In his Time (z) the Chineſe us'd Lunar Years, and added a Month (as Occaſion requir'd) to make them equal with the Solar. This, without Doubt, they had from Noah or Fohi their firſt King; and is an Argument that the Babylonians receiv'd the ſame Method from him as their common Parent. The Empire is now ſaid to have extended it ſelf to the Eaſt-Sea; ſo that we may conclude, that the Hiſtory of China takes in the Countries which lay more eaſtward, until the Inhabitants came to ſettle there. And as the River Kiang, which now divides the Kingdom into two Parts, was the Bounds of the Empire at this Time; ſo it is almoſt certain, that the Parts ſouthward thereof were not then inhabited. It is moſt likely, that when the Country became inhabited, the ſouthern Kingdom was diſtinct from the northern, or govern'd by a Viceroy under the northern King, who being reckon'd as diſtinct Kings, tho' they liv'd at the ſame Time, extended their Annals above eight hundred Years beyond the true Account. The late Inhabiting of the ſouthern Kingdom confirms the Report among them, that China was firſt inhabited on the north-weſt Side, which is moſt agreeable to the Scripture Geography. In the twenty eighth Year of this Emperor's Reign, his prime Miniſter Tanaus invented a Cycle of ſixty Years, to begin from his firſt Year, as a ſure Method whereby to keep a Chronological Account of their Hiſtory. This, like the Golden Number of nineteen Years, was firſt ſettl'd upon a Suppoſition that the Moon, in ſuch an exact Space of Time, return'd to the ſame Point of the Ecliptick, whereas there is ſomething above three Days and ſeven Hours Difference. Had they kept always exactly to this Cycle from the Beginning in the Account of the Years of their Kings Reigns, it would have kept them in the Truth; whereas the Alteration by ſome Perſon unknown confirms them in their Error.

44. When Abraham came from Haran into Canaan, he left his Brother Nahor in that City, where (a) his Poſterity dwelt afterward. We hear nothing more of them, but that he had a numerous Family. They liv'd near together in the Country of Aram or Syria, and therefore (b) Bethuel his Son, and (c) Laban his Grandſon are call'd Syrians. So that they all probably inhabited that Country. The (d) firſt-born was call'd Uz, and it is ſuppos'd by ſome (e) eminent Perſons, that Job came from this Uz, and not from him, who was (f) of the Race of Edom. The Land of Uz is (g) frequently mention'd in Scripture. The (h) Septuagint calls it Auſitis, and Ptolomy calls the Inhabitants Auſitæ, who were a People of Arabia Deſerta near Chaldea not far from Euphrates.

45. The next was Buz, from whom came (i) Elihu the Buzite. There was a People in the ſame Country, or near it, call'd in Jeremiah by this Name; but it being ſmall, and the Name ſince extinct, it is impoſſible to give any farther Deſcription of it.

46. The next is Kemuel, who left no Name in the Country behind him. He had a Son call'd Aram, who inhabited ſome Part of Syria, but there being another of that Name, who was the Son of Shem, and dwelt in thoſe Parts, the Family of this Aram was ſoon mix'd, and ſo the Name was ſwallow'd up in the other.

47. The next is (k) Cheſed. He was the Father of the Chaldeans who were call'd in Scripture Chaſdim or the Chaſdites from this Cheſed. His antient Situation was in the Country round Ur, where (l) Abraham liv'd, which is therefore call'd Ur of the Chaldeans. The whole Babyloniſh Empire was afterward call'd the Chaldean, but it is difficult to aſſign the true Reaſon of it, which probably may be this: The Babylonians were famous for the Study of Aſtronomy, to which the Chaldeans added that of Aſtrology, for which they (m) were moſt famous. This made them invited to live in all Parts of the Kingdom, where they were generally reſpected by that ſuperſtitious People. Hence all that ſtudied Aſtrology were call'd Chaldeans, and ſo from them the whole Country took its Name. There are other Sons of Nahor by Milcah, viz. Hazo, Pildaſh and Jidlaph; and by his Concubine Reumah, viz. Tebah, Gaham and Thahaſh, of whom there is no Account where they ſettl'd, or whether they had any Poſterity or no. Bethuel the Son of Nahor liv'd at Haran, and there (n) his Son Laban ſettl'd, but they left no Name behind them in any Part of the Country. And Maachah the Son of Nahor by Reumah, dwelt among the Syrians in thoſe Parts. His Name alſo ſeems to be extinct, and the (o) Syrians of Maachah, who had a King over them, and the (p) Maachathites, who dwelt beyond Jordan among the half Tribe of Manaſſeh, are ſuppos'd (q) by the learned Bochart to have come from the Canaanites, and not from this Family.

48. When three Years were expir'd after the Death of Sarah, Abraham being willing to take a Wife for his Son Iſaac, and reſolving that he ſhould not marry any of the Canaanites, he calls the (r) eldeſt Servant of his Houſe (whom he had appointed to take Care of all his Concerns, and (s) who was probably Eliezer of Damaſcus, who had been his Steward above fifty Years before) and obliges him by an Oath to Fidelity in this Matter. As Oaths cannot be adminiſter'd without ſome Ceremonies; ſo that which was us'd on this Occaſion was remarkable. Abraham (t) ſaid unto his ſervant, Put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh, and I will make thee ſwear by the LORD, the GOD of the heaven, and the GOD of the earth. And the ſervant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his maſter, and ſware to him concerning this matter. The ſame (u) Ceremony was us'd by Joſeph, when he ſware unto Anno Mundi 2148.

Jacob.

Jacob, that he would not bury him in Egypt, and by no other Perſon, whom we read of in the Scriptures. And the Reaſon ſeems to be this: The Hebrew Phraſe (x) to expreſs the Children of a Man was frequently The ſouls which came out of his thigh. Now Abraham and Jacob had expreſs Promiſes, that the MESSIAH ſhould be of their Seed, and particularly of the Tribe of Judah, ſo that this ſeems to ſignify a Swearing by the MESSIAH who was to come (as the Hebrew Word expreſſeth it) out of their Thigh, and if ſo, then it is plain, that Abraham knew, that he would be true and very GOD, becauſe he calls it, A Swearing by JEHOVAH, the GOD of the Heaven, and the GOD of the Earth. This being done, Abraham gives him his Commiſſion and Inſtruction, with full Power and Authority to treat about, and conclude ſuch a Marriage, furniſhes him with rich and choice Preſents, and all other Neceſſaries for his Journey, and ſo ſends him on this Errand. Joſephus tells us, (y) that his Way lay thro' Meſopotamia, which was very dirty in the Winter, and deſtitute of Water in the Summer, and where the Danger of Robbers was very great, if Travellers were not extremely cautious, and therefore it was a difficult and dangerous Journey. And beſide this, Abraham (z) dwelt at Beerſheba, near Beerlahairoi, ſo that he had the whole Land of Canaan to travel thro'. However he had the utmoſt Succeſs which could be imagin'd, and return'd home with Rebeccah the Daughter of Bethuel, whom Iſaac married (a) in the fortieth Year of his Age.

49. Soon after this, Aralius the Emperor of the Aſſyrian Monarchy dies, and is ſucceeded by Xerxes, who reign'd thirty Years. And at the ſame Time (b) Inachus comes from Egypt, and founds the Kingdom of the Argives, where he reigns fifty Years. His Name is certainly deriv'd from the Eaſtern Word ענק, and ſignifies a Man, that wore a Chain of Silver or Gold as a Badge of Honour. The Children of Anak or the Anakims were a People (c) remarkably tall, who liv'd in the Land of Canaan, and probably deſcended from ſome of the Canaanitiſh Paſtors; ſo that Inachus's Leaving them at this Time, muſt weaken them more and more. Archbiſhop Uſher informs us from Euſebius, that this Kingdom was begun 1080 Years before the firſt Olympiad, and that from the Time of Inachus to the Palilia, or Feaſts dedicated to Pales, as Varro informs us, were 1102 Years. And it is remarkable, after he was made King he had a Son, who ſucceeded him, whom he call'd Phoroneus, which ſeems to be deriv'd from the Word Pharaoh, with the Addition of a Greek Termination, which was the Name of (d) the Kings of Lower-Egypt in Abraham's Time, and is a farther Proof of his Coming from that Country.

Anno Mundi 2152.

50. The Land of Canaan by this Time, and the adjacent Countries being full of People, and Abraham having a numerous Family not only by Iſhmael the Son of Hagar, but alſo by another Wife, whom (e) he call'd Keturah, he was willing in his Life-Time to divide his Money and moveable Goods (f) among them, and ſend them into diſtant Countries. And it being natural to people the more fruitful Places firſt, Arabia the deſert, and Arabia the ſtony was but thinly inhabited, and therefore Abraham ſent them thither, and into the adjacent Countries, where we ſtill find ſome antient Footſteps of their Names; and they ſpeaking the Hebrew Tongue, brought thither ſo great a Number of Hebrew Words, which at this Time we find to have antiently been in the Arabick Language. For the Finding out of the Places which they firſt poſſeſs'd, it will be neceſſary to obſerve, that Iſhmael was at this Time with Abraham, and whatever Miſunderſtandings happen'd they might be reconcil'd during the Life of Sarah, or much more probably after her Death. And therefore either he hearing that Abraham intended to divide his Subſtance among them, came thither of his own Accord with ſome of his Family, or he might be ſent for on that Occaſion. Abraham ſeems to have (g) divided his Goods among them at one and the ſame Time; they went all from him eaſtward into the eaſt Country, or into Arabia Deſerta, ſo that they went together and ſettl'd near to one another. As for Iſhmael's Poſterity, their antient Bounds are expreſly declar'd, (h) that they dwelt from Havilah, which lay toward Aſſyria, unto Shur, which is before Egypt, that is, throughout Arabia both Petræa and Deſerta. He firſt (i) dwelt in the Wilderneſs of Paran, in Arabia Petræa, where he left ſeveral Families, and after that he went with the Sons of Keturah eaſtward from Canaan into Arabia Deſerta, and this is the

Reaſon

Reaſon that we find the Iſhmaelites in both Countries. As for Iſhmael himſelf, our Tranſlation ſaith, (k) that he died in the preſence of all his brethren. The Hebrew ſaith, He fell, or rather (l) His Portion or Lot fell to him in Arabia Deſerta near to the other Sons, which Abraham had by Keturah; there he afterward liv'd, there he died, and there we find the Remains of ſeveral of his Poſterity. And as the Country was very barren; ſo when their Families increas'd, ſeveral of them remov'd from thence, and ſettl'd in other Places, which were not as yet fully inhabited, particularly in Arabia Fælix, and where we ſhall find ſome Footſteps of their Names.

51. The firſt Son of Abraham by Keturah was (m) Zimran, and the ſecond was Jockſhan. If a Liberty of Conjecture may be granted after ſo many learned Men, who have written on this Subject, it ſhould be this; that theſe Men coming into a barren and deſart Country, ſoon found a Neceſſity of betaking themſelves to ſome particular Buſineſs, the better to ſupport themſelves and their Families. The Word Zimran comes from a Hebrew Verb, which ſignifies to cut or prune Vines, and therefore may imply, that this was his Buſineſs, and accordingly we find (*) Abel-ceramim, or the Plain of the Vineyards, in the Country of the Iſhmaelites. The Word Jockſhan comes from a Hebrew Verb, which ſignifies to lay Nets for the Catching of ſuch Birds and Beaſts, as were fit for Food, and may alſo intimate, that this was his Buſineſs. Theſe two Brethren having thus learn'd to get their Living in any Country, ſoon remove into Arabia Fælix, where they might carry on their Employments with better Succeſs. Zimran removes before he had any Family, or carries all with him, and therefore Moſes mentions none of his Sons, and from him we may ſuppoſe, that the Zamareni, a People in Arabia Fælix were deſcended, who (as (n) Pliny tells us) inhabited the Towns of Saiaces, Scantules, Bacaſcamis, and Riphearma.

52. The Name of Jockſhan being ſoon alter'd into Joktan, the Name of the Brother of Peleg, who firſt inhabited Arabia Fælix with a numerous Family, makes it very difficult to diſtinguiſh between them, and to find out the antient Situation of both. Theophanes (o) a Geographer of Note in the Beginning of the ninth Century ſpeaking of Mecca, where Mahomet was born, immediately adds, that there were other People more in the Bowels of Arabia, who were not of their Tribe, but of Jektan, and theſe are they, who are call'd Amanites or Homerites; and (p) Euthymius tells us the very ſame. A learned Author of our own Country adds, (q) Perhaps it ſhould be written Jockſhan not Jektan. And (r) Philoſtorgius ſaith expreſly of the Homerites, that they are one of the Nations deſcended from Abraham by Keturah. And there is this ſtrong Proof of their Deſcent from ſome of Abraham's Family, that they retain'd the Rite of Circumciſion, even when they were Idolaters, and they were alſo circumcis'd upon the eighth Day. Theſe could not therefore be deſcended from Joktan the Brother of Peleg, who did not circumciſe at all; nor from the Iſhmaelites, who did not circumciſe ſo ſoon, and therefore muſt be deſcended from Abraham by Keturah.

53. However Jokſhan went not with his whole Family into thoſe Parts; for he left two of his Sons behind him, whoſe (s) Names (as Moſes tells us) were Sheba and Dedan. Now (t) there were two Sons of Raamah, and Grandſons of Cuſh, exactly of the ſame Name. And as theſe were ſettl'd near to their Father in the eaſtern Parts of Arabia Fælix; ſo (u) it is eaſy to ſuppoſe, that theſe, having all Arabia then before them, would chuſe the moſt fruitful and pleaſant Parts thereof to dwell in. But the Deſcendants of Abraham going into the eaſt Country from Canaan, or into Arabia Deſerta, Sheba muſt ſettle there; and therefore ſince we find in Heathen Writers a People in thoſe Parts call'd Saba, or Sabai, and there is mention made in the Book of (x) Job of the Sabæans, who liv'd not far from him, it may reaſonably be concluded, that theſe were the Offſpring of Sheba the Deſcendant of Abraham. The Land of Uz the (y) Son of Nahor, or the (z) Country of Auſitis as it is call'd by the Septuagint, in the ſouthern Part whereof Job liv'd, extended it ſelf ſouthward from the Banks of Euphrates, even to the Country of Sheba or the Sabæans, who inhabited from thence, as far as to the Entrance of Arabia Fælix. Strabo tells us, that they and the Nabatæi were the very next People to Syria, and were wont to make Excurſions upon their Neighbours. They were ſo inclin'd to Robbery, that the Devil knew them to be the fitteſt Perſons to plunder Job of his Oxen and Aſſes, and conſequently that his Suggeſtions meeting with their own Inclinations would be more readily comply'd with.

54. The other Son of Jokſhan was Dedan, who is ſuppos'd to be the Founder of a People call'd (a) Dedanim in the Plural Number upon the Borders of Idumæa, the chief City whereof is (b) call'd Dedan. The Sons of this Dedan are ſaid to be (c) Aſhurim, and Letuſhim and Leummim. If theſe were Heads of Nations or Families, the Memory of them is loſt; and therefore as they are Words of the Plural Number, ſo they are ſuppos'd to be particular Trades and Employments. Onkelos ſuppoſes them to be Dwellers in Camps, and in Tents and Iſlands; the other Targums call them Merchants, and Artificers, and Heads of the People.

55. The next Son by Keturah is (d) Medan. Theſe alſo remov'd into Arabia Fælix, and planted themſelves in the ſouthern Part of it, near to their Brother Jokſhan in the Country call'd Madiania, where there is the famous Town of Meccah, in which Mahomet was born.

56. The next is Midian. His Poſterity are frequently mention'd in the Scripture Hiſtory, and call'd the Midianites. They dwelt not far from the Iſraelites on the other Side of Jordan, and did very often oppreſs and annoy them; and therefore they ſeem to have kept their original Settlement in the eaſt Country. They lay near to the Iſhmaelites, with whom they had a good Correſpondence, and the firſt Account, which we have of them as a Nation, is (e) their Trading into Egypt with Spicery, and Balm, and Myrrh, which they carry'd upon Camels. And as they join'd with the Iſhmaelites in theſe Expeditions; ſo their Caravans or Companies, which went to Egypt, are (f) ſometimes call'd Iſhmaelites, and (g) ſometimes Midianites. This occaſion'd their Extending into thoſe Parts, ſo that a great Number of them ſettl'd themſelves to the South-eaſt of the Salt-Sea, adjoining to the Moabites. Hence we read, that (h) whilſt the Iſraelites encamp'd at Shittim, they committed Whoredom with the Daughters of Moab, and one of them with a Midianitiſh Woman; and (i) we find Moab and Midian mention'd together as a neighbouring People; and in the (k) Time of the Judges they join'd with the Amalekites, who (l) dwelt in the South, to invade the Tribe of Judah. Hence we read of the (m) Land of Midian lying in the Neighbourhood of Mount Sinai; and we find a City call'd Madiana in theſe Parts by the Red-Sea mention'd in Heathen Writers. So that in Proceſs of Time, as his Offspring increas'd, they ſpread themſelves farther and farther wherever they could find any Room, and ſo they came to that Tract by the Red-Sea, where Jethro the Father-in-law of Moſes liv'd; and therefore it lay not diſtinct or quite ſeparated from the firſt Settlement, but ſo as to be contiguous, and thus it all went under the common Name of the Land of Midian.

57. To make this more plain, Moſes tells us, (n) that one of the Sons of Midian was Ephah. As this Generation was born ſo late, and when Aſia was full of People; ſo the utmoſt, which we can expect, muſt be ſome ſingle Town, that retain'd their Names, or a ſmall Tract of Ground near it. However this Name continu'd for a great while; for Iſaiah (o) mentions Midian and Ephah as near Neighbours, and adjoining to Sheba. (p) Joſephus, Euſebius, St. Jerom, and (q) Abulfeda expreſly mention a City call'd Madiana on the Shore of the Red Sea; near to which was Epha in the ſame Province. Epha or Hipha is in (r) the Arabick Language עיפה Gaiphat. And therefore the Greeks have ſometimes call'd it Γαιφὰ Gaipha, and ſometimes Γαιφὰρ Gaiphar. The moſt common Name, by which they call it, is Ἵππος Hippus, and Ptolomy mentions both a Village and a Mountain of this Name on the ſame Shore, a little below Madiana. The Prophet Iſaiah (s) mentions the Camels as coming from Midian, and Ephah, and (t) no Country abounded more with them than this. So that Epha muſt be ſituated on the Red-Sea, his Father Midian lying to the Weſt, and his Uncle Sheba to the North.

58. The next is Epher. It is probable, that he went with his Uncles Zimran and Jokſhan into Arabia Fælix, ſince there are no Remainders of his Family to be found except among the Homeritæ already mention'd, (u) whoſe Metropolis was call'd Tapharum. Arianus expreſly calls the Metropolis of the Homeritæ by the Name of Aphar, which makes it the more probable, that it was ſo call'd from Epher.

59. The next is Hanock. He is alſo ſuppos'd to have gone with his Uncles, who filling the inland Country, he went farther into the utmoſt Parts of Arabia toward the ſouth eaſt, where we find a great Number of the Adramites and Homerites. In theſe Parts (x) Ptolomy tells us, that there is a great trading Town and a Promontory call'd Cane. And Pliny mentions (y) a Country in Arabia, which he calls Regio Canauna, and may be thought to have taken its Name from this Perſon and his Poſterity.

60. The next is Abidah. If we invert the two laſt Syllables (as is uſual in ſuch Caſes as theſe) the Relicks of this Name will remain in the People call'd Dibeni, who liv'd in an Iſland call'd Διβῦ or Διβῦς between Arabia and India, and is ſaid by ſeveral Authors to belong ſometimes to one, and ſometimes to the other. Philoſtorgius ſaith, (z) that they only bear the Name of Indians. Pliny (a) reckoning up the Tracts of Arabia, places the Iſle call'd Devadæ (which we may ſuppoſe to be this) over-againſt the beforemention'd Region call'd Canauna. And Strabo, Agatharcides and others call'd it Διβαι; and therefore we ſuppoſe, that Abidah came into theſe Parts with his Brother Hanoch.

61. The laſt Son of Midian is Eldaah. He ſeems to have ſtay'd with his Father; tho' there are very little Remains of his Name, unleſs it is in the City Elana, which might eaſily be form'd from Eldaah, by leaving out the Daleth, and changing the Hebrew Guttural into a Nun, as is very uſual in ſuch Caſes. This City was ſeated on the Red-Sea, call'd alſo Sinus Arabicus, toward the eaſt Part thereof. Others (b) call it Ælanah; from whence the Bay it ſelf was call'd Elanites, and the People who liv'd in it Elanitæ. A very learned Author ſuppoſeth it to be the ſame with Elath, (c) by which the Iſraelites paſs'd, near Eziongeber, which (d) Azariah reſtor'd to Judah, and (e) Rezin the King of Syria took it away again, and it is (f) alſo call'd Eloth. But we have no Reaſon to think, that the Name was alter'd ſo much in Moſes's Time, or if it was, that he would have took no Notice of it. And therefore we may conclude, that this Elanah was not on (g) the weſt Side of Eziongeber in the Land of Edom, but on the eaſt Side of it in the Land of Midian.

62. The next to Midian is Iſhbak. There are no Footſteps of his Name to be found, unleſs it is among the Bacaſcami, which Pliny ſaith (h) was one of the Towns of the Zamareni; who deſcended from his eldeſt Brother Zimran. He (i) alſo tells us, that there were a People not far from them, who were call'd Bachilitæ. And perhaps Iſhbak might at firſt ſignify no more than A Man of that Country.

63. The laſt Son of Abraham by Keturah is Shuah. He is ſuppos'd (k) to have dwelt in that Part of Arabia, which lies next to Egypt, becauſe Pliny mentions a Town there, which is call'd Suaſa. And it is probable, that (l) Bildad the Shuhite, one of Job's three Friends, came from that Country.

64. Theſe were (as near as we can gueſs) the antient Habitations of the Sons of Abraham by Keturah. It will now be requiſite to conſider where the Sons of Iſhmael, the Son of Abraham by Hagar, ſeated themſelves. Here alſo Moſes muſt be our Guide, who tells us, that (m) he dwelt in the wilderneſs of Paran, and his mother took him a wife out of the land of Egypt. This Wilderneſs of Paran was to the ſouth of Judæa near Egypt; and here we find a great Number of the Iſhmaelites. When Abraham was old, he (n) gave gifts to the ſons of the concubines, which he had, and ſent them away from Iſaac his ſon, eaſtward unto the eaſt Country, that is, over Jordan, into Arabia Deſerta. And as both (o) Hagar and (p) Keturah are call'd his Concubines; ſo he ſent their Poſterity together into thoſe Parts. Of Iſhmael it is ſaid, (q) that his Lot fell for his Poſterity to dwell in the Preſence of all his Brethren, or near to the Sons of Keturah. And there we find a great Number of the Iſhmaelites, and Hagarenes, or Poſterity of Hagar by another Husband. When (r) Abraham pray'd to GOD, ſaying, Oh that Iſhmael might live before thee! GOD gave him this Anſwer, As for Iſhmael I have heard thee: Behold, I have bleſſed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly; twelve princes ſhall he beget, and I will make him a great nation. And therefore Moſes, (s) to ſhew how GOD fulfill'd his Promiſe, reckons up the twelve Sons of Iſhmael by their Names, according to their Generations, by their Towns, and by their Caſtles, and according to their Nations. Not that all of theſe had Towns, Caſtles and Nations; but that we might reckon up as many as poſſible by ſuch Circumſtances as theſe, and particularly as many as we have any Footſteps remaining of them. As the Canaanites, when they firſt came out of Egypt, kept ſome of them in great Bodies, and others liv'd a Paſtoral Life without any ſettl'd Habitations; ſo when the Iſhmaelites came firſt into theſe Parts, ſome of them fix'd there in Towns and Caſtles; others, whom they call'd Scenitæ, dwelt in Tents, fix'd no where, but went about from Place to Place, wherever they could find any Suſtenance for their Cattle; and others, like the Sons of Keturah, travell'd to remoter Places for their better Conveniency, where they fix'd. And this is the Reaſon, that we meet with a great Number of them toward the ſouth of Canaan, and a great Number beyond Jordan toward the Eaſt, ſeveral of them ſeparated to a greater

Diſtance,

Diſtance; and others, whoſe Names are loſt, that we know not where to find them.

65. The firſt born of Iſhmael is expreſly (s) ſaid to be Nebajoth. The Right of Primogeniture in thoſe Days, which was ſtrictly obſerv'd, gave him an Opportunity to ſettle, where he pleas'd, and leave his younger Brethren to ſeek for more diſtant Habitations. Accordingly he and his Poſterity took to the beſt Part of Arabia Deſerta, and even Part of Arabia Petræa. Pliny, Strabo, and Ptolomy call it Nabatæa, and ſometimes other Authers call it Nabathis. Ovid (t) takes particular Notice of it, as lying directly eaſt from Rome, and at a very great Diſtance. The Inhabitants were call'd Nabatæi by Dionyſius Periegetes in his Deſcription of the World, and by Plutarch in the Life of Demetrius, who, as he ſaith, was ſent to ſubdue the Arabians call'd Nabatæi, when he was in great Danger of Loſing the Army by Going into Places, where there was no Water. Theſe are commonly in Scripture call'd Iſhmaelites, as if they had been the ſole Heirs of their Father. They dwelt near the Midianites, the Sons of Keturah on the one Side, being Neighbours and Copartners in Traffick; and thus in one Place Joſeph is ſaid (u) to be ſold to the Iſhmaelites, and (x) in another to be ſold to the Midianites. And they lay near the Moabites on the other Side. For (y) Epiphanius ſpeaking of the Countries, which lay beyond the Dead-Sea, mentions the Region of Nebajoth, Ituræa, and Moab. It ſeems to be one of the beſt Countries for Paſture, and therefore the Prophet Iſaiah (z) mentions at the ſame Time the Flocks of Kedar and the Rams of Nebajoth. It is probable, that ſome of them ſtay'd in the ſouth Country, and others went with their Father to the Eaſt, and by Extending their Colonies one toward the other, they came at laſt to be united.

66. The ſecond Son of Iſhmael is Kedar. It is certain, that his whole Family ſtay'd behind in the ſouth Country, and were ſeated in Arabia Petræa near to ſome Part of the Country of their elder Brother Nebajoth, which makes (a) the Prophet Iſaiah to join them together. The ſacred Scriptures take more Notice of this Name, than of any other, and the Prophet Iſaiah, ſpeaking of the burden of Arabia, expreſſes it among other things by the (b) fall of the glory of Kedar. And ſome Authors call the whole Country by this Name. Thus the Language of Kedar is the Arabian Language; and when David (c) complain'd, that he had long dwelt in Kedar; the Chaldee expounds it, in the Dwellings of the Arabians; and it is particularly call'd (d) the wilderneſs of Paran, which was (e) Iſhmael's firſt Place of Settlement. Theſe are they, whom Ptolomy calls Pharanitæ. Pliny ſaith, that Pharanitis lay on the Borders of Arabia, and (f) later Writers make Paran and Arabia Petræa to be near Neighbours. Here the Iſraelites (g) encamp'd, when they ſent the Spies to ſearch out the Land of Canaan; ſo that it was ſituated near it, and ſouthward toward the Red-Sea. They are (h) alſo mention'd by Pliny under the Name of Cedreni or Cedareni, and plac'd by him next to the Nabathæans. They like the Perizzites led a paſtoral Life, and dwelt in Tents for that Purpoſe, and therefore we read of (i) the tents of Kedar, and (k) the flocks of Kedar, with which they not only ſupplied the neighbouring Country, but even (l) the Markets as far as Tyre, and others of them were alſo (m) excellent Soldiers.

67. The next Son of Iſhmael is Adbeel. Of him and alſo of Mibſam, Miſhma and Maſſah, we find no ſatisfactory Account, and therefore may ſuppoſe them to have led a paſtoral Life, and to have dwelt in Tents for that Purpoſe; of which there were many Sorts, ſome (n) near Euphrates, and others in Arabia Fælix, whom they call'd Scenitæ, who fixing in no particular Place left no Memory of their Name behind them. They were call'd, (o) the men who dwelt in tents; their (p) Tents are call'd Tents of Cattle. We read of them among the Cuſhites and Midianites, where they are call'd (q) the tents of Cuſhan, and the curtains of the land of Midian, and from their Example (r) began the Order of the Rechabites.

68. The next is Dumah. The Prophet Iſaiah (s) places him near to Seir or Idumæa, or in the Foreſts of Arabia, where Stephanus the Geographer mentions a City call'd Dumatha, which the Chaldeans might ſo call from Dumah, by the bare Addition of the Feminine Gender, as it is in their Language.

69. The Word Iſhmael ſignifies in Hebrew, GOD will hear, and he was ſo nam'd by the (t) Angel of the LORD, before he was born, and the Reaſon was given to his Mother Hagar, becauſe the LORD had heard her Affliction. He had three Sons, (u) which are mention'd all together in one Verſe: Miſhmah, which ſignifies Obedience; Dumah, which ſignifies Silence; and Maſſah, which ſignifies Patience. And this may teach us, that when GOD doth hear us in Afflic-tion, or when we truſt in him, that he will hear us, we ſhould learn from thence to be obedient, ſilent and patient. And if Iſhmael intended this Leſſon, when he gave them their Names, it ſhews, that in his latter Years he was a good Man, and had probably (x) learned obedience by the things which he had ſuffered.

70. The next is Hadar. Some think, that the Athritæ, who liv'd in Arabia Fælix came from him. And therefore he muſt be one of the younger Brothers, who remov'd to a conſiderable Diſtance. The (y) Inhabitants of Arabia Fælix make a Diſtinction between the Arabians, who were the Sons of Jokſhan the Brother of Peleg, whom they call Arabians of the Natives, and the Sons of Iſhmael, whom they call Arabians from Strangers; and it will be hard to find, that any of the Sons of Iſhmael ſettl'd there except theſe. It is alſo ſaid, that there is a City call'd Tema from the next Son of Iſhmael; but it will be hard to prove, that any of the Prophets ſpoke of a Country ſo far diſtant. As therefore there is the Country of Tema joining to the Sabæans the Poſterity of Jokſhan their Brother; ſo we may ſuppoſe this to be the antient Settlement of this Son of Iſhmael. Job ſpeaks of the (z) troops of Tema and the companies of Sheba as joining to each other, and well known to him; and it is probable, that (a) Eliphaz the Temanite liv'd here, and that he was not deſcended from (b) Teman the Grandſon of Eſau. The Prophet Iſaiah mentions (c) Tema as a Part of Arabia Deſerta, or Petræa, and therefore joins it with Seir, Dumah, Dedan and Kedar, which lay in thoſe Parts. And the Prophet Jeremiah (d) mentions Tema with Edom, and Moab, and Ammon, and Dedan and Buz; whilſt he takes no Notice of thoſe in Arabia Fælix, unleſs (e) it is in general Terms. So that here we ſuppoſe was the City of Tema mention'd by Ptolomy, and that it is the ſame, which Strabo calls Tamna.

71. The two next Sons of Iſhmael are (f) Jetur and Naphiſh. Of theſe it is ſaid, that (g) the Reubenites and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh made war with them. And the children of the half tribe of Manaſſeh dwelt in the land from Baſhan unto Baal-hermon and Senir, and unto mount Hermon. So that they were ſituated on the northern Parts of Canaan, and on the Borders both of Arabia and Syria. And therefore it is evident, that the Country of Ituræa mention'd by St. Luke, of which Philip Herod's Brother was Tetrarch, was ſo call'd from Jetur the Son of Iſhmael. The Name of Naphiſh ſeems to be extinct; however it is probable, that he firſt inhabited the Country of Trachonitis, which was join'd to the other to make one Province. It lay near to the Country of Baſhan, and from hence the adjacent Lands were call'd Batanæa: (h) Strabo and (i) Pliny mention it. And Joſephus (k) adds, that Herod by his laſt Will gave Gaulonitis and Trachonitis and Batanæa and Paneas to Philip, who was his own Son, and the Brother of Archelaus, to be a Tetrarchy.

72. The laſt Son of Iſhmael is Kedemah, who is ſuppos'd to have dwelt near his Brother Kedar not far from Mount Paran, in the antient Settlement of his Father Iſhmael. That which gives Ground to this Opinion, is the (l) Words of Jeremiah, Go up to Kedar, and ſpoil the men of Kedem, which we tranſlate the men of the eaſt. This is ſpoken of the Kingdoms, which Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon ſhould conquer, and would be very ill apply'd to Kedar, becauſe it lies ſouth weſt from Babylon; and therefore it may rather ſignify this other Son of Iſhmael, whom he might leave in the Country, when he firſt came from thence.

73. But to return to the Hiſtory. Soon after Inachus had founded the Kingdom of the Argives in Greece, Goſormies King of Upper-Egypt dies, and was ſucceeded by Mares, who (m) reign'd ſixteen Years; and about the ſame Time (n) Shem the Son of Noah, who was born before the Flood, and is ſuppos'd by ſome to have been Melchizedeck, dies; having ſeen many of his Sons and Grandſons, who were born ſince the Flood, go before him, and ſeen his Son Iſaac married, who was of the tenth Generation from him. Anno Mundi 2158.

74. The World being now grown populous, and the Earth being (o) repleniſh'd according to the Bleſſing of GOD, there ſeems not now to be ſo great an Increaſe as before, unleſs on ſome particular Occaſions. Abraham was 86 Years of Age before he had Iſhmael, and he was an hundred Years old when Iſaac was born. Iſaac was forty Years old when he married Rebecca, who continu'd barren for twenty Years longer. Iſaac (p) knowing that the MESSIAH was to come of his Seed, but not knowing that he ſhould come of Rebeccah, whom he intirely lov'd, was very importunate that ſhe ſhould be the Mother of him. At laſt (q) Iſaac went with her to Mount Moriah, where he ſhould have been offer'd, and there they both together made Anno Mundi 2167.

fervent Prayers for a Son, and putting GOD in Mind of the ſame Promiſe which he had here made, that (r) he would multiply Abraham's Seed as the Stars of Heaven. Upon this Rebeccah conceiv'd, and knowing it to be ſo, ſhe went to the Place of Worſhip to enquire about her Caſe. Eutychius (s) ſaith, that ſhe went to enquire of Melchizedeck, who gave her an Anſwer; but it is probable, that he was dead before this Time. Maimonides (t) is of the Opinion, that ſhe went to the School of Heber, the great Grandchild of Shem, who was then alive, and he anſwer'd her. The Scripture only ſaith, (u) that the LORD ſaid unto her, Two nations are in thy womb, and two manner of people ſhall be ſeparated from thy bowels, and the one people ſhall be ſtronger than the other people, and the elder ſhall ſerve the younger. When the younger was born, it is ſaid, (x) that he took his elder brother by the heel, which made thoſe who were preſent to think of the Prophecy, and call his Name Jacob. The Word in Hebrew which ſignifies a Heel, comes from a Verb which ſignifies to ſupplant, and the Word Jacob is in the future Tenſe, and ſignifies He will ſupplant. And thus his elder Brother Eſau (y) when he loſt the Bleſſing, ſaid to his Father, Is he not rightly called Jacob? For he hath ſupplanted me theſe two times: he took away my birthright, and behold now he hath taken away my bleſſing.

Anno Mundi 2168.

75. We muſt now return toward Egypt, and take the Horites in our Way, where we find, that (z) Jobab their ſecond King dies, and is ſucceeded by Huſham their third King. Mares King of Upper-Egypt being of a great Age, and not fit to go to War, keeps his Son Anoyphes with him at Thebais, to ſucceed him in the Kingdom in Caſe of Mortality, and ſends Tethmoſis or Amoſis, who we may ſuppoſe was his ſecond Son, to carry on the Wars againſt the Canaanitiſh Paſtors of Lower-Egypt. Of this Manetho, as (a) he is quoted by Joſephus, gives us this Account, That theſe Paſtors had kept the Government of Lower-Egypt in their own Hands for the Space of (b) five hundred and eleven Years. But the King of Thebes, and the Country of Upper-Egypt, which was not as yet ſubject to theſe Shepherds, made a violent and an obſtinate War upon them, and routed them under the Command of Haliſphragmuthoſis, which was alſo the Name of Mares: And when the greateſt Part of them were driven out of Egypt, the reſt withdrew into a Place call'd Abaris, of ten thouſand Acres in the whole. And this the Shepherds (according to Manetho) inclos'd with a ſtrong ſubſtantial Wall, which ſecur'd them all Neceſſaries within themſelves. He ſaith farther, that Tethmoſis the Son of Haliſphragmuthoſis laid Siege to it with (c) four hundred and eighty thouſand Men, but when he found that the Place was not to be carried by Aſſault, they agreed upon Articles that they might depart Egypt, and to have ſafe Convoy to go whither they would. Upon theſe Terms they march'd out with their Goods and Families to the Number of (d) two hundred and forty thouſand Souls, by the Way of the Wilderneſs into Syria; and for Fear of the Aſſyrians, who were then Maſters of Aſia, they retir'd into a Country, which is now known by the Name of Judæa, where they built ſeveral Cities large enough in the whole to receive this vaſt Multitude. Manetho ſaith, that they only built one City large enough for this Purpoſe, and call'd it Jeruſalem. The ſmall Quantity of Ground which they inclos'd, not being enough to maintain ſuch a vaſt Number of Men, makes it probable that they were not only much fewer in Number, but alſo that they had Store of Ships, by which they were ſupplied with Proviſions from the Land of Canaan; and this made them the more willing at their Expulſion, to go into a Country, with whoſe Inhabitants they had been well acquainted for ſome Time before. By their Coming in ſo great a Body into the Land of Canaan, they ſoon fully peopled that fruitful Country; and therefore it is often mention'd as an Act of GOD's ſignal Providence in Diſpoſſeſſing them, that they were (e) much more in Number than the Iſraelites, and much more mighty, as having been train'd up to Wars, and accordingly they took Care to (f) fortify their Towns, to prevent a Surprize, and make the better Defence in Caſe of an Attack. And this occaſion'd the Diſputes concerning the Right of Paſturage never knowu before, but which ſoon happen'd upon the following Occaſion.

77. In the mean time Tethmoſis having driven out theſe Paſtors from Lower-Egypt is made their King, where he governs them 25 Years, and four Months, and ſo begins a new Race of Kings, who being related to thoſe of Upper-Egypt, and of the ſame Religion, and tir'd out with theſe long Wars, were willing to live peaceably with each other; ſo that we hear of no Diſturbances between them. When he came there, he found a vile Practice of Sacrificing Men to the Gods of Lower-Egypt. There were two Reaſons for this: One was, that the Inhabitants of Upper-Egypt having deify'd their Kings, who fought for them in the Defence of their Country, the Inhabitants of Lower-Egypt did the ſame, and having taken Captives in the Wars, they thought that there could be no more grateful Oblation to their Anceſtors when dead, than the Lives of ſuch, who gave them ſo much Diſturbance, whilſt they were alive. The other was, that (as (m) Sanchoniatho tells us) formerly when there was a Plague and a Mortality, Ham made his only Son, which he had by a Nymph of that Country call'd Anobret, a whole Burnt-Offering to appeaſe the Ghoſt of his Father Noah; and from hence they learn'd to offer up even their Sons and Daughters to theſe their Deities. However Tethmoſis aboliſh'd by a Law this vile Practice of Sacrificing Men, which had there taken Place in the Times before him, and caus'd Men of Wax to be offer'd inſtead of Men of Fleſh and Blood. From hence our learned Biſhop Cumberland hath (n) very juſtly inferr'd theſe Particulars.

78. Firſt, That Tethmoſis having been of Thebais or Upper-Egypt, before his Conqueſt over the Phœnicians, who dwelt in Lower-Egypt, might (as Plutarch informs us) be a Worſhipper of their God Cneph, whom they own'd to be an infinite and eternal Being, the ſole Maker, Governor and Preſerver of all things, and from the Dictates of natural Religion toward him had learn'd to abhor ſuch cruel Sacrifices. However it is probable, that he had ſome Mixture of Idolatry in him, or otherwiſe he would not have ſubſtituted theſe Men of Wax to be ſacrific'd to thoſe Deities, who formerly had real Men offer'd to them.

79. Secondly, This Cuſtom being remov'd out of Egypt, either before, or about the Time that Abraham died, gives us the Reaſon why Egypt was never accus'd of this Crime (tho' (o) their Neighbours the Canaanites often are) either by Moſes or any of the Prophets. And it is alſo a Reaſon, why the Iſraelites neither did nor could learn this Practice in the Egyptian Bondage, tho' they did learn other Parts of Idolatry there.

80. Thirdly, It ſerves to confute an Opinion, which (as he ſaith) ſome have taken up without ſufficient Reaſon, viz. that the Canaanites or Phœnicians follow'd the Example of Abraham in their inhuman Sacrifices of their Children. The Trial of Abraham was a Secret between GOD and himſelf and his Son, and no one knew beſides, how far he went toward the Obeying of that Command, which GOD ſolemnly reſcinded, before it could be effectually executed, and it was but 46 Years before the Conqueſts of Tethmoſis in Egypt, and the Expulſion of ſuch Sacrifices from thence. It was well known, that Iſaac liv'd long after, which muſt effectually confute a Cuſtom of Murdering others from his Example, and therefore muſt be taken from Ham's Sacrificing his Son. And it ſeems to be too little a Time for the Settlement of ſuch an unnatural Practice, which had taken ſuch deep Root among them, that even when by Law it was bury'd, yet the Lawgiver thought fit ſo far to comply with it, as to ſubſtitute Men of Wax in the Place of true Men.

81. Fourthly, From hence ſome Light will break out to clear the State of the Times, which were before the Expulſion of this Phœnician Power by this Thebaick King. For it's rational to think, that theſe Phœnicians or Canaanites, who had reign'd in Egypt, all thoſe ſix Succeſſions already mention'd, had for the moſt of their Time, if not all along, practiſed this great Inhumanity of Sacrificing Men in Egypt, which Tethmoſis thought fit to aboliſh, when the Introducers of that Barbarity were caſt out by him. Now this Phœnician Dynaſty continu'd in Egypt 259 Years, according to Joſephus's Account, which being ſubſtracted from 2179, the Year of the World in which Tethmoſis expell'd the Phœnicians, there will remain 1920 for the Beginning of the Reign of Salatis, which is the very Year, where it is plac'd according to Eratoſthenes's Canon. And if they then began to uſe ſuch Sacrifices there, it is plain, that they us'd them long before Abraham was born, his Birth being Anno Mundi 2009, and therefore they could not learn it by Imitating him.

82. Our Learned Primate of Armagh (p) obſerves, that Ptolomæus Mendeſius, a learned Egyptian Prieſt (whom Voſſius (q) affirms to have liv'd in Auguſtus Cæſar's Time, and who is cited ſoon after by Apion in Tiberius's Time) doth affirm, that this Tethmoſis took and ruin'd Avaris or Abaris the laſt Hold of the Paſtors, and was contemporary with Inachus the firſt King of the Argives, who was now in the eighteenth Year of his Reign, and reign'd fifty Years. This Teſtimony is alſo cited by (r) Clemens Alexandrinus, Tatianus, and Juſtin Martyr; ſo that it was valu'd as credible both by the Heathen Apion, and the Chriſtian Fathers. Now (s) our learned Biſhop Cumberland exactly agrees with Archbiſhop Uſher, in the Year when Tethmoſis expell'd the Paſtors, as already mention'd, and hath ſo fully confirm'd it by many Arguments, particularly by the Catalogue of his Succeſſors taken from Manetho, until the Time of Pharaoh Amenophis who was drown'd in the Red-Sea, as may ſet this Matter without Diſpute.

83. The Egyptian Hercules, having carry'd off his Men with their Arms and Goods into the Land of Canaan, ſtay'd not long there, but went to Tyre, and afterward ſail'd into Greece to conſult the Oracle of Jupiter Dodonæus. His Succeſſors ſeem to have honour'd him with the Title of Hercules the Saviour; and we are told of a Coin among the Thaſians, on which he ſtood with this very Title inſcrib'd on it in Greek Characters. He had Temples built to him both at Tyre, in the Iſle of Thaſus, and at Gades or Cadis; all which are evidently prov'd to be much elder than the Theban Hercules's Time, and to be for the Honour of this Phœnician or Egyptian Hercules. From Greece he went to Italy, France, Spain and the Coaſt of Africa, leaving Colonies behind him in moſt Places, to whom the Phœnicians ſent Reinforcements, as Occaſion required, and by whoſe Example they alſo learn'd to ſettle new Plantations; which is the Reaſon of ſo vaſt a Number of Towns, Seas, Rivers, Mountains and Countries, both in Europe and Africa, whoſe Names were derived from the Phœnician Language, as the learned Bochart hath prov'd throughout his Treatiſe call'd Canaan. It is particularly mention'd, (t) that his Son Sardus came from Africa with Ships, and ſettl'd in Sardinia, ſo calling it from his own Name; whereas before it was call'd (u) Sandaliope and Ichneuſa from the Sole of a Foot, which the Figure of this Iſland repreſents. And this muſt be done in this Expedition; ſince we cannot ſuppoſe, that the Father would leave his Son in Egypt, or that the Egyptians would let him ſtay there, when the Father was expell'd. And thus Biſhop Cumberland ſaith, (x) that from this Retreat of Hercules or Aſſis into Phœnicia, he judges that the Foundation of all the Colonies muſt be laid, which are deriv'd from the Phœnicians, either in the neighbouring Part of Canaan, or in the Iſles of the Mediterranean Sea, or in the Continent of Greece eſpecially in Argos; tho' he could not deny but there were ſome Phœnicians, who fled later into the Parts of Mauritania about Tangier, when Joſhua conquer'd the Land of Canaan, and he ſuppoſes they went ſo far (as ſome of them certainly did) becauſe the Iſles, and the more neighbouring Countries, were inhabited by the more antient Colonies brought out of Egypt and Phœnicia.

84. When Hercules came to Tangier, he had ſeveral ſharp Engagements with Antæus the King of that Country, who had lately taken Poſſeſſion of it. He is reckon'd by ſome to be the Son of Atlas (whom Sanchoniatho makes to be one of the Sons of Noah) and to have been in Favour with Mizraim the Son of Ham in Upper-Egypt, and ſent from him to govern Ethiopia and Africa. But this is inconſiſtent with Chronology. It is more probable, that the Poſterity of the firſt Antæus might people Africa from the Parts of Ethiopia toward the Weſt, by the Banks of the River Niger, as before mention'd, till they came to Cape St. Verde, where one of their Rulers might be call'd Atlas, and from him the high Mountain in that Country, ſo fam'd among the Poets for Bearing up of the Heavens, might take its Name. This Atlas might have a Son, whom like the other he call'd Antæus, and ſo the Hiſtorians might eaſily miſtake the one for the other. This Antæus (y) was the Founder of Tangier. He is ſaid to have been a large Giant, and of vaſt Height, who wreſtled with Hercules, and as often as he was weary or faint, he would but touch the Earth and be in perfect Strength again; but Hercules cruſh'd Antæus to Death between his Arms, and after that carry'd the Axle-Tree of the Heavens to relieve Atlas. which which myſtical Story can be no more than this: That Hercules landed in thoſe Parts; that Antæus was a famous Warriour, and almoſt a Match for him, and when he was conquer'd in ſeveral Battles, he went into his Country, where he rais'd Recruits, which enabled him to hazard ſeveral other Battles, until at laſt he was conquer'd, and ſo Hercules took Poſſeſſion of the Country, and ſuſtain'd the Weight of the Government, which Antæus and his Father Atlas had done before. And in Commemoration hereof, the Country thereabout is call'd by the antient Geographers Hercules's Promontory. From hence he paſs'd thro' the Streights, and came to the Iſland of Cadiz, which being bounded with the weſtern Ocean, he thought to be the fartheſt Part of the World, where he ſet up the two famous Pillars ever ſince call'd by his Name as a Sign, that it was impoſſible to ſail any farther. Here was a Temple built to him, of whoſe Antiquity there is this Token, that antiently no Images were found there; and the learned Bochart hath (z) fully prov'd from ſeveral Authors, that all the Cuſtoms us'd in this Temple were deriv'd from the Egyptians, and not from the Grecians. Here he ſlew Geryon, whom the Poets feign to have three Bodies, either becauſe he was King of the three Spaniſh Iſlands, or becauſe there were three Brethren of that Name, who rul'd ſo lovingly together, as if their three Bodies had been enliven'd by the ſame Soul. After this, being willing to return into his own Country, he carry'd off ſeveral Cattle from that Iſland, and came back as far as Greece, from which Time we hear no more of him. Herodotus tells us, that there were (a) eight Gods of a ſuperior Order, by which he probably means Noah, his Sons, and their Wives, the (b) eight Souls who were ſaved from the Flood, and by whom the whole Earth was re-peopl'd; and that this Hercules and three more were added to the Number, ſo that afterward they had twelve in all, and therefore the Kings both in Upper and Lower-Egypt, who had been deify'd before, were only advanc'd to a lower Degree of Godſhip, or into the Number of the Heroes, as (c) Heſiod expreſly mentions of the Men of that Age. The Grecians, who would allow no People to be more antient than themſelves, have ſo confounded the Stories of this Egyptian and their Theban Hercules, who was concern'd in the Argonautick Expedition, that it is a hard Matter from their Authors to diſtinguiſh between them. Herodotus (d) tells us, that he could not hear a Word of the Grecian Hercules in any Part of Egypt; that the Name was of an Egyptian Derivation; ſo that the Egyptians did not take it from the Greeks, but the Greeks from the Egyptians, and eſpecially they, who gave this Name to Hercules the Son of Amphitryon, or rather of Jupiter by Alcmena the Wife of Amphytrion. He adds, that being (e) willing to be ſatisfy'd as well as he could concerning this Hercules, he ſail'd to Tyre a City of Phœnicia, becauſe there was (as he had heard) a Temple dedicated to him. Here diſcourſing with one of thoſe Prieſts he ask'd, How long it was that the Temple was built? but he could only learn from them in general Terms, that it was built at the ſame Time with the City. When he was at Tyre, he found another Temple dedicated to Hercules by the Name of the Thaſian. Upon this he went to the Iſland of Thaſus, where he found a Temple built by the Phœnicians, who went abroad to ſearch for new Colonies in Europe, and he was inform'd, that they had inhabited Thaſus five Ages, or five hundred Years, before the other Hercules appear'd in Greece. So that from what hath been mention'd, we may learn ſome other Arguments to fix the Time of this Egyptian Hercules. He reign'd near fifty Years in Egypt, and as he muſt be in the Prime of his Age when he began to reign, ſo we cannot ſuppoſe him to be leſs than forty at that Time, and therefore he muſt be ninety when he went from thence. His many Voyages along the European and African Shores, and his many Wars ſhew him to be of a ſtrong Conſtitution, inſomuch that he might live eighty or ninety Years longer, and ſo be (f) about the Age of Abraham or Iſaac at his Death, and alſo contemporary with him, as he is plac'd. And if ſo, then he might live till within five hundred Years of the Argonautick Expedition, as it is plac'd by Marſhal, and others of our beſt Chronologers, which exactly agrees with the Account that Herodotus mentions.

85. We may now the more readily return to the Hiſtory of Abraham and his Poſterity, ſince we ſhall find but little more to interrupt the Account thereof, which the Scriptures give us, and which is ſo plainly recorded by Moſes, that it will need the leſs Explication. The firſt thing mention'd after the Expulſion of Hercules or Aſſis out of Egypt, is (g) the Death of Abraham, when he was 175 Years of Age, and conſequently his Son Iſaac was 75, and Jacob and Eſau 15. He was bury'd by his Sons Iſaac and Iſhmael, in the Burial Place which he had formerly bought for that Purpoſe; ſo that there ſeems to have been now a good Underſtanding be- Anno Mundi 2183.

tween them, and that they both liv'd with their Father. The Particulars, which were nearly Contemporary with his Death are these: Armamitres was made Emperor of the Assyrian Monarchy, and reign'd 38 Years; Hermion was the third King of Germany, who reign'd 63 Years; Eber the third from Shem dies, being 467 Years of Age. He was the longest Liver born since the Flood. The eastern Writers mention him as a Prophet. Religion staid in his Family, when all the World lost it besides, and he lives to see it gloriously settl'd in the Families of Abraham and Isaac. And Eratus succeeds Messapus in the Sicyonian Kingdom, where he reigns 46 Years.

86. The first thing remarkable, which happen'd in the Family of Abraham after his Death, was Jacob's Getting the Birth-right from Esau. We have only a bare Conjecture concerning the Time, when it happen'd, which is this: Moses, in Giving an Account of this History, calls them (b) Boys or Lads, a Word which generally signifies a Person very young, and sometimes (i) a Child. The oldest, that we are certain of, is (k) thirty Years of Age, as appears in the Case of Joseph, or thirty three, as in (*) the Case of Benjamin; and therefore we may venture to place it about that Time. Esau endeavours to gain the Affection of his Father Isaac, and Jacob endeavours to gain the Affection of his Mother Rebeccah. Jacob dwelt in the Tent at home with his Mother to please her; and Esau hunted for Venison to entertain his Father with it at his Table to please him. It happen'd, that Esau had over-tir'd himself with too violent and long Pursuit of his Sports; so that he was faint at his Returning home, and seeing some Pottage made of (l) Egyptian Lentiles, which were in great Esteem and much (m) commended by the Antients, and gave it a red Colour. Esau begs some of Jacob, in such a Manner as shews him so faint, that he could not tell how to bring out his Words. Edom in Hebrew signifies Red, and (n) in the Speech of Esau the Word Pottage is left out; so that in Hebrew it runs thus, Feed me, I pray thee, with that Edom, with that Edom, that, that; therefore his Name, most probably in Derision, was call'd Edom, and from him the City which he built, and the Country which his Posterity inhabited, was call'd Edom, and by the Greeks Idumæa. There were several Privileges which were annex'd to the Birth-right in those Days, among which some reckon the Promise of the MESSIAH as coming from the elder, and the Priesthood, and to have a double Portion of the Father's Estate. Jacob would not part with his Pottage, unless Esau did part with all these to him, and also bind it with an Oath for the greater Security, to which Esau thinking himself ready to die consented; and therefore he is said to despise his Birth-right, and that afterward, when he knew what he had done, (o) was sorry for his Folly, (p) and lamented his Misfortunes with many Tears to no Purpose; for what was done was irrevocable.

Anno Mundi 2198.

87. There are some, who vindicate this Fact of Jacob's, and also his Gaining the Blessing afterward by Imposing on his Father Isaac, because it was design'd to bring about what GOD had promis'd, and because the Scriptures always represent him as a good Man. But we need not carry Matters so high. Moses, who records the Stories, doth not commend him for them, and therefore we are left at Liberty to judge of them, as we shall think most reasonable. The Promises will not warrant us to take any ill Method to obtain them; for then David might have kill'd Saul in the Cave. And tho' GOD can and often doth bring Good out of Evil; yet we are not to do Evil that Good may come out of it. Neither can we excuse Jacob, because he is represented as a good Man; for the Scriptures have carefully recorded the Failings of the best Men, with this View, that we may learn from hence, that all are Sinners.

88. Soon after this (q) there was a famine in Canaan, and at the same Time a great Plenty of every thing in Egypt. Isaac, upon the Death of his Father Abraham, having probably remov'd to Mamre near Hebron, where his Father had often dwelt, was afflicted with it, insomuch that hearing that there was great Plenty of every thing in Egypt, he resolves to go thither, as (r) Abraham his Father had done in the like Case; but the Glory of the LORD appear'd to him, and diverted him from it, and directed him to stay in the Country at Gerar near Beersheba, which lay in his Way to Egypt, with a Promise to provide for him, to give him all the Blessings which he promis'd to Abraham, and particularly that the MESSIAH should be of his Seed. This being an hundred Years after Abraham was there, it cannot be suppos'd, that the same King govern'd at that Time, tho' he was call'd by the same Name, or Abimelech; but that it was rather a Son or a Grandson, and that Abimelech was only a common Title, as in David's Time (s) Achish

the King of the Philiſtines was call'd Abimelech, and conſequently that (t) his General Phicol was not the ſame with the other, but only one who ſucceeded in the ſame Office: and it is the more probable, becauſe the Word in the Arabick Language ſignifies, In every thing, or In every Place, and ſhews that a General ought to be concern'd in all publick Tranſactions, and to have a watchful Eye in every Place. Iſaac truſting in GOD's Providence, and being obedient to his Command, goes not down into Egypt, as he firſt intended, but ſtays among the Philiſtines, where like (u) Abraham he ſaith of his Wife, that ſhe was his Siſter, or his Couſin German, as the Word is frequently us'd in thoſe Languages. We need not excuſe the Fact in either. The beſt Men have their Failings, and it was an Equivocation occaſion'd by Fear, which led the Philiſtines into an Error in Abraham's Time, and might have done the ſame now, had not the other Example and the Effect thereof continu'd in their Memories, and therefore when Abimelech diſcover'd it, he gave ſtrict Charge to his Subjects, that none ſhould do them any Injury. Iſaac tarrying here by GOD's Appointment grew very rich, and had great Poſſeſſions of Flocks and Herds, and a great Number of Servants, ſome of whom he employ'd to open the Wells which his Father had digg'd to water the Cattle, and call'd them by their former Names, the better to ſecure his Title. Theſe being not ſufficient, they digg'd more, and the Herdſmen of Gerar having fill'd the Country by the Retreat of the Canaanitiſh Paſtors out of Egypt, diſputed his Title, and contended with him, ſaying, The Water is ours; and therefore he call'd it Eſek, or Contention. In the ſame Manner they contended for another, and he call'd it Sitnah or Enmity; and from this Word the Devil is call'd Satan, or an Adverſary. It is probable, that Iſaac for Quietneſs ſake yielded up what Right he had to thoſe Wells, and digg'd another, which they on the other hand yielded to him; and therefore he call'd the Name of the Place Rehoboth, which ſignifies Room or Enlargement, or Streets; For now, ſaith he, the LORD hath made room for us, and we ſhall be fruitful in the land. Near to this Place there was afterward a City built, which was call'd (x) Rehoboth by the river; by which we may obſerve, that it lay by the River Sorek, which runs to Askelon or Gerar, and there empties it ſelf into the Mediterranean Sea, and was famous for the Birth of one of the Kings of Edom.

89. After the Famine was over, Iſaac remov'd from thence to Beerſheba, where he and his Father had antiently liv'd. Here GOD appear'd to him, encourag'd him, and promis'd to bleſs him, and multiply his Poſterity for the Sake of his Father Abraham. Here he re-built (y) the Altar which Abraham had before built, and was now deſtroy'd, and ſet apart for a Place of divine Worſhip, and Iſaac accordingly dedicates it to the ſame Purpoſe. Here he alſo digs again (z) the Well of Beerſheba, which ſeems like the reſt to have been fill'd with Dirt by the Philiſtines, to prevent his Claim to it. And (a) at this Well Abimelech and Phicol make a new League with him, and confirm it by an Oath, in (b) the ſame Manner as their Anceſtors had done with his Father Abraham. Anno Mundi 2202.

90. Soon after this Amoſis or Tethmoſis King of Lower-Egypt dies, and is ſucceeded by Chebron, who (c) reign'd thirteen Years. And within a few Years (d) Eſau being forty Years old marries Judith the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Baſhemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite. His very Marrying with them greatly afflicted his Father and Mother, which Grief might be increas'd by their Idolatry and undutiful Behaviour. Joſephus ſaith, that (e) they were Perſons of great Fame and Blood among the Canaanites. He adds alſo, that Eſau did this upon his own Head and Fancy, without ever Conſulting his Father, or if he conſulted him, yet he had no Conſent; for his Father had taken up a firm Reſolution never to enter into any Sort of Alliance with that People. But however the thing being done, could not be undone; and Iſaac thought it his beſt Courſe rather to paſs it over in Silence, than to put it to the Extremity of Turning his Wives away. The Names of theſe Wives are not the ſame with thoſe whom he is afterward (*) ſaid to have married, viz. Adah the Daughter of Elon the Hittite, and Aholibamah the Daughter of Anah the Daughter of Zibeon the Hivite; and therefore it is probable, that theſe died without Iſſue. And ſo he took another Daughter of Elon, when Judith was dead, call'd Adah; and the Daughter of a Man call'd Anah, by whom he had (†) ſeveral Children. Anno Mundi 2205. 2208.

91. It may here be ask'd, Why Eſau ſhould be call'd (f) a profane Man, and eſpecially (g) a fornicator, when no Act of this Nature appears, except his Marrying of theſe two Wives, and yet Jacob, who marry'd two Siſters and their Handmaids, was never branded with any Mark of Infamy for the ſame Reaſon? To this it may be anſwer'd, That the Canaanites were abominable Idolaters, under the Curſe of GOD, and devoted to utter Deſtruction. For this Reaſon (h) Abraham made his Steward ſwear, that he would not take a Wife for his Son Iſaac from the Daughters of the Canaanites, among whom he dwelt. Iſaac gave the (i) ſame Charge to Jacob, and no doubt to Eſau alſo, and it was (k) afterward forbidden the Iſraelites to take any of their Daughters, or indeed to make any Marriages with them. And then it was a very undutiful, and even a wicked thing to marry with thoſe People, who were under the Curſe of God. So that the Scripture might well call him profane, who as before he had deſpis'd the Bleſſing, ſo now he ſeems not to value the Diſpleaſure of his Father. And as the Reaſon of this was to prevent Idolatry; ſo for the Preſerving of the true Religion in their Families there ſeems to be another Command, that they ſhould particularly marry their near Relations. Abraham is generally ſuppos'd to have marry'd his Brother Nahor's Daughter; however ſhe is (l) own'd to be a near Relation; and (m) he commanded his Steward to go to his own Country and to his Kindred, and take a Wife for his Son Iſaac, and Iſaac (n) gave Jacob the ſame Charge: And therefore Eſau's Marrying of ſuch as were at that Time prohibited, ſeems to be the Reaſon of his being call'd a Fornicator.

92. Among the Reſt of the Colonies planted in Europe at the Expulſion of the Paſtors, there was one in Greece, which was brought thither by Ogyges, who is reckon'd to have been the Builder and King of Thebes, which was ſometimes call'd from him by the Poets Ogygiæ. His Name ſeems to be of an Oriental Derivation, and the ſame with Og, afterward King of Baſhan, by a Doubling of the laſt radical Letter, as it is very common in thoſe Languages. In his Time there happen'd a very great Flood in Greece, which ſome have confounded with Noah's Flood. Cedrenus, a Grecian Monk, (o) places it 32 Years after the aforeſaid Expulſion, and our learned Primate exactly agrees with him, in (p) Placing it 1020 Years before the firſt Olympiad.

Six Years after Amenophis the firſt ſucceeds Chebron as King of Lower-Egypt, who reigns (q) twenty Years and ſeven Months: And Cnubus Gneurus ſucceeds Syrius as King of Upper-Egypt. After Abraham had been dead 40 Years, Huſham (r) the third King of the Horites died, and Hadad the Son of Bedad reigned in his ſtead, and the name of the City, where he dwelt, was call'd Arith. Of him there is this remarkable Paſſage, that he ſmote Midian in the field of Moab. Moſes probably recorded this, becauſe it was a Calamity to the Anceſtors of (s) Jethro his Father-in-law the Prieſt of Midian. Our learned (t) Biſhop Cumberland adds, that from this Circumſtance, we may make an Approach either to the End, or to the Beginning of the Reign of this Hadad, and ſee about what Time of Midian's Age this fell out, which he endeavours to prove after this Manner.

Anno Mundi 2220. 2222. 2223.

93. According to what he had before laid down, which is mention'd at the firſt Riſe of the Horite Kings 126 Years before this Time, he ſuppoſes, that the End of Hadad's Reign was about the Year of the World 2261. Now Midian being the Son of Keturah, whom Abraham is ſuppos'd to have marry'd about the Year 2148, and being the fourth Son might probably be born about the Year 2152; and by Deducting this out of 2261, there remains 109. This aſſures us, that Midian muſt be ſmitten by Hadad, before he was 109 Years old; tho' this Blow ſhould be given in the laſt Year of his Reign, but probably it was done much ſooner. And this Prelate farther adds, that this Example gives us an Argument to prove that the Kings of Seir are juſtly plac'd before any of Eſau's Family were Dukes there, which he ſuppoſes to have began about the Year 2429; ſo that there was Room enough left for four Kings to reign after Midian was ſmitten, and before the Ariſtocracy under the Dukes began.

94. It is recorded (u) of Iſhmael, that he was to be a fierce Man, engag'd in Wars againſt others, and others againſt him; and therefore he probably commanded in this Expedition to invade the Inhabitants of Mount Seir, and took his Brother Midian with him, and when they came into the Fields of Moab, with a Deſign to poſſeſs themſelves of the neighbouring Country, Hadad march'd out and met them upon his own Frontiers, and ſo gain'd a great Victory over them. And if we ſuppoſe, that Iſhmael was ſlain in the ſame Battle, when (x) he was 137 Years, it will fix the Time with a greater Certainty to be when Midian was 79 Years of Age, and in the twelfth Year of Hadad's Reign. It is obſervable, that from Adam even to Levi the Age of them, who deſcended to him in a direct Line, are only mention'd, except Iſhmael. This being therefore a very particular Caſe, muſt be mention'd for a particular Reaſon, and perhaps no particular Reaſon can be given but this: If we allow, that (y) the Words,

He fell in the preſence of all his brethren, may intimate his being ſlain in the ſight of his Relations, as (z) the Word frequently ſignifies, it may ſtrengthen this Conjecture. And if ſome of his Sons were ſlain with him at the ſame Time, this may be a good Reaſon, why we hear nothing of any from his two firſt Wives, or of the Settlements of (*) ſome others in the eaſtern Countries.

95. After this Amenophis dies, and (a) Ameſſis his Siſter ſucceeds him in the Government of Lower-Egypt, where ſhe reigns twenty Years and ſeven Months; and Euechous (b) ſets up a new King in Chaldæa among the Arabians, which (c) plucks the Feathers of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, or weakens its Power on that Side, and was providentially ordain'd by GOD, that the Iſraelites might afterward travel in the adjacent Countries without any Diſturbance.

96. Iſaac being now 137 Years old, (d) intended to give the Bleſſing to his eldeſt Son Eſau, whom he lov'd beſt. This Bleſſing is ſuppos'd to be the Land of Canaan, with which GOD promis'd Abraham, that he would bleſs his Poſterity. For the laſt Benediction of theſe great Men was the Settling of their Inheritance, and Making thoſe their Heirs, upon whom they beſtow'd it. So that tho' the Birthright, which Eſau had ſold Jacob, gave him a Right to (e) a double portion of Iſaac's Eſtate; yet the Land of Canaan was to be diſpos'd of by him according to the divine Direction. Rebeccah, who lov'd Jacob beſt, puts him upon a ſubtle Deſign to ſupplant his Brother, which he effected by a Diſguiſe, by ſeveral Lies, and obſtinately Perſiſting in ſome of them. Iſaac, by a prophetick Inſtinct, foretells what ſhould happen to Jacob's Poſterity, long before Moſes had recorded it; that (f) they ſhould dwell in the Land of Canaan, where there would be Plenty of all things, and GOD's Providence ſhould watch over them for this Purpoſe; that they ſhould make (g) the Canaanites hewers of wood and drawers of water; that in the Time of David they (h) ſhould conquer the Moabites, Ammonites, Syrians and Philiſtines, and that (i) the Edomites alſo ſhould be ſubdued by him. He alſo tells Eſau, that he ſhould inhabit a poor Country, deſtitute of Corn and Wine, (as ſome think that (k) the Hebrew expreſſes it) that he ſhould live upon the Spoil, and maintain himſelf by the Sword, and be in perpetual Wars to defend his Country. He makes no Mention of the Plenty of Corn and Wine; only that in Length of Time they ſhould grow ſtronger, and ſhake off their Subjection to the Iſraelites, as (l) they did in the Time of Joram. Eſau being thus diſappointed, reſolves to kill his Brother Jacob, when a convenient Opportunity ſhould preſent. This being told to Rebeccah, ſhe takes Care to prevent it, by (m) Perſuading her Husband Iſaac to ſend him into Syria to take a Wife from among his own Relations. Iſaac accordingly bleſſeth him with a ſolemn Bleſſing, in which he ratifies what he had done before, ſettles the Land of Canaan more fully and diſtinctly upon him, and propheſies, that he ſhould be the Father of the promis'd MESSIAS.

Anno Mundi 2245.

97. When Jacob was gone upon this Errand, Eſau finding (n) that his Marrying the Canaanitiſh Wives was a great Trouble to his aged Parents, who (o) often reflected upon it, and that Iſaac had ſent Jacob to marry a firſt Couſin, he goes alſo into the Country of Nebajoth, and there he marries a firſt Couſin, who was call'd Mahalath the Daughter of Iſhmael. Some think, that there was a prudent Deſign in this to pleaſe his Father, in hope of Obtaining the Bleſſing. However he ſhew'd himſelf to have no great Regard to the Divine Revelation; for he could not but know, that this Family, being deſcended from a Bondwoman, was not to inherit the Promiſes made to Abraham and Iſaac, and it looks as if he went about to ſet up the Pretenſions of that Family, who was the elder by Birth, in Oppoſition to the other. She is alſo call'd (†) Baſhemath. And the Reaſons of it are ſuppos'd to be, that ſhe might have two Names given her at the firſt; or that Eſau chang'd her Name from Mahalah, which ſignifies ſickly and infirm, into Baſhemath, which ſignifies aromatick and fragrant, either becauſe the Name better pleas'd him, or becauſe he thought, that it would better pleaſe his Father, or elſe ſhe might grow more healthy after Marriage.

94. After (p) Jacob had parted from Beerſheba, where his Father Iſaac liv'd, he happen'd on a certain Place, which was call'd Luz from the many Almond Trees, which grew there; for the Word Luz (q) in Hebrew ſignifies an Almond-Tree. Theſe Trees affording a cool and large Shade, and being a Covering in caſe of Rain, Jacob took up his Lodging there, and choſe one fit Stone from among the reſt for a Pillow. Here

he had a Dream to comfort him in his ſolitary and poor Condition, which was this: A Ladder was ſet upon the Earth, the Top of it reach'd to Heaven, the Angels of GOD aſcended and deſcended upon it, and (r) the divine Glory or Majeſty appear'd on the Top of it, which aſſur'd Jacob of his Protection, and confirm'd to him all the Promiſes, that had before been made to Abraham and Iſaac. Maimonides (s) tells us, that in this Viſion every Word hath its Weight, and accordingly expounds it thus: The Ladder repreſents the divine Providence, which governs all things, and particularly now directed Jacob in his Journey, every Step whereof was under the divine Guidance. Its being ſet upon the Earth ſignify'd the Stedfaſtneſs of Providence, which nothing is able to ſhake. The Top of it reaching to Heaven ſhews, that it extends it ſelf all the World over, to every thing great or ſmall, high or low. The ſeveral Steps in the Ladder ſignify the various Motions of the Divine Power and Wiſdom. The Angels which went up and down are the great Miniſters of GOD's Providence, by whom he manages all things here below, who are never idle, but always in Motion to ſuccour and aſſiſt the Servants of GOD. Their Aſcending ſhews their Going to receive the divine Orders and Commands, and their Deſcending the Execution of them. Or to ſpeak more particularly of Jacob's preſent Condition, one ſignify'd their ſafe Conduct of him in his Journey to Padan-aram, and the other their Bringing of him home again. And GOD appear'd above it as the unmovable Mover of all things; from whom all things come as the firſt Cauſe, and return as the laſt End. Here was the Place, which Abraham dedicated to the Worſhip of GOD by (t) Building an Altar there, and Calling on his Name; tho' it is (u) more than probable, that Jacob knew nothing of it at that Time. When he awoke, he was poſſeſs'd with an awful Apprehenſion of the divine Preſence, and ſaid, This is no other but Bethel, or the houſe of GOD, and this is the gate of heaven. The (x) Preſence of GOD in one Place more than another, conſiſts in his Train or Retinue. A King is there, where his Court is; and GOD is there eſpecially preſent, where the Angels keep their Station. And the (y) Opinion, that the Angels were preſent in the publick Aſſemblies, occaſion'd a greater Reverence for thoſe Places by the primitive Chriſtians. The Gate was alſo uſually the Seat of Juſtice, where the Kings and Senators uſually ſat, attended by their Guards and Senators. And the Gate of Heaven ſignify'd only the Court of GOD.

95. To conſecrate this Place more effectually (z) Jacob takes a ſtone, and ſets it up for a pillar upon the Top of ſome other Stones, which he had heap'd up together, that it might remain as a Monument of GOD's Mercy to him, and preſerve the Memory of this heavenly Viſion, and that by this Token he might know the Place, and commemorate GOD's Goodneſs to him, whenever he return'd hither again. And perhaps before the Building of Churches our Anceſtors might have ſome Reſpect to this, when in Places appointed for religious Worſhip they erected ſome Croſſes, as we now call them, with Steps to go up, and a Pillar on the Top; of which there are ſeveral, which remain to be ſeen in many Parts of Great Britain at this Time.

96. From the Word Bethel came the (a) Word Bætulia among the Heathen, by which they meant ſome unpoliſh'd Stones, which they worſhipp'd as Symbols of the Deity, or as true Gods animated by ſome heavenly Power. The Jews (b) were of the Opinion, that the Phœnicians firſt worſhipp'd this very Stone which Jacob ſet up, and afterward conſecrated others in Commemoration of it. Sanchoniatho, whoſe Buſineſs it was to frame an antient Hiſtory for the Encouragement of Idolatry, ſaith, that (c) Noah deviſ'd Bætulia, or Stones that mov'd, as if they had Life. And he ſaith, that (d) in the fifth Generation before the Flood two unpoliſh'd Stones or Pillars were conſecrated by Uſous to Fire and Wind, who worſhipp'd them, and pour'd out to them the Blood of ſuch wild Beaſts, as had been caught in Hunting. And when this Generation was dead, they who remain'd alive, conſecrated other Pillars and Stumps of Wood, and kept anniverſary Feaſts to them. So that the Converſion of theſe Pillars to an idolatrous Uſe before the Time of Moſes, was the Reaſon, that (e) GOD forbad the Iſraelites to erect any.

97. To conſecrate it more effectually, Jacob (f) pour'd oil upon the top of it. From whence it appears, that the Setting apart of Things, and perhaps of Perſons, by Anointing them with the holy Oil, was a Cuſtom more antient than Moſes's Time, who moſt probably retain'd it as he found it. It was an Act of Jacob, with which GOD was well pleas'd, and therefore he ſaid to him at another Time, (g) I am the GOD of Bethel, where thou anointedſt the pillar, and where thou vowedſt a vow unto me. Prophets, Prieſts and Kings were anointed among the Jews, as Types of CHRIST. Kings were anointed uſually at their Coronation. The Tabernacle and its Utenſils were anointed at their Dedication. The Name, by which our SAVIOUR is called, is in Hebrew (h) MESSIAS, and in Greek CHRIST, and in both Languages ſignifies The Anointed; and it is ſaid of him, as of the Antitype, (i) The LORD thy GOD hath anointed thee with the oil of gladneſs above thy fellows.

98. The firſt religious Act, which we read of, that Jacob did afterward perform in this Place, was a ſolemn Vow, that if GOD (k) did protect and preſerve him, ſupply him with Neceſſaries, and bring him back to his Father's Houſe in Peace, he would ſuffer no Idolatry in his Family; the Place, where this Pillar ſtood, ſhould be always dedicated to his Worſhip, and he would conſtantly give the Tenth of all, which he ſhould have, the more effectually to ſupport it. He knew, that Abraham when (l) he came from the Slaughter of the Kings, did voluntarily make this Offer to Melchizedeck the Prieſt of the moſt high GOD, and now he obligeth himſelf by a Vow to perform the ſame. Jacob promis'd to pay them to GOD, that is, to the Perſon who was GOD's Repreſentative in his Family, either in a ſpiritual or temporal Reſpect, that is, to Iſaac, who being the common Father was both King and Prieſt in his own Houſe. This he did no Doubt to Iſaac, as long as he liv'd, the better to ſupport him in his old Age; but when Iſaac died, the Obligation ceas'd; becauſe as he ſucceeded his Father in both theſe Reſpects, ſo he could neither receive them from, nor pay them to himſelf. Hence aroſe the antient Cuſtom among the (m) Kings of the Eaſtern Countries, and particularly (n) at Babylon, to receive the Tenths from their Subjects, which afterward was (o) alſo at Athens tho' a Commonwealth, and alſo (p) among the Romans; and GOD himſelf had particularly appointed, that in the Land of Canaan (q) the Tythes ſhould be paid to the Tribe of Levi.

99. From Bethel Jacob ſets forward to go to Meſopotamia, which the Scripture now calls (r) the Land of the children of the eaſt. This made ſome think, that he travell'd eaſtward; but that was a Miſtake; becauſe Meſopotamia and particularly Haran lay northward from Bethel. The Truth is this, Babylon lay eaſtward from both Countries. The Babylonians might therefore well be call'd the People of the Eaſt, ſo that Jacob only went into a Country, of which they were Lords and Maſters; and plainly ſhews, that whatever Loſs they had ſuſtain'd in Arabia, yet their Empire ſtill remain'd abſolute in thoſe Parts.

100. Jacob (s) coming to the Well of Haran, ſoon grew acquainted with Rachel, by Aſſiſting of her to water the Sheep. Upon this he tells her who he was, and ſhe brings him to her Father's Houſe. Here he ſtays a Month, and being very ſerviceable among them as a Shepherd, Jacob being 77 Years old, makes a Bargain with Laban to ſerve ſeven Years Apprenticeſhip for Rachel, and having ſerv'd ſeven Days, as an Earneſt for the ſeven Years, he claims his Bargain, but was put off with Leah. He had deceiv'd his Father with a ſuborn'd Perſon, taking upon himſelf to be Eſau, when he was Jacob; and he is deceiv'd by his Father-in-Law with a ſuborn'd Perſon, and ſo embraces Leah, whilſt he thought that he had embrac'd Rachel. In his Thoughts and Intentions the Birthright was to belong to the firſt-born of Rachel, and ſo it really was in due Time, for (t) it was given to Joſeph.

101. When Jacob ſaw that he was thus impos'd upon, and that there was no Remedy, he covenants with Laban to ſerve another ſeven Years Apprenticeſhip for Rachel, and ſerves ſeven Days for an Earneſt as before, after which he takes her alſo. Thus Rachel and Leah are Figures of the two Churches, the Church of the Jews under the Law, and the Church of the Gentiles under the Goſpel: The youngeſt is the more beautiful, and was more in the Thoughts of CHRIST, when he came in the Form of a Servant; but the other like Leah was firſt embrac'd and taken to Wife.

102. They who reckon, that Jacob ſerv'd ſeven Years before he had either of his Wives, involve themſelves in endleſs Difficulties to ſettle the Births of the Patriarchs. It could not be fourteen Years before he married Rachel, becauſe at fourteen Years End (u) Joſeph was born, and then Jacob had eleven Sons and a Daughter. It could not be ſeven Years between the Marriage of Leah and Rachel; for (x) Leah's firſt Son was given her becauſe ſhe was hated, whilſt Rachel was barren, and conſequently married alſo. And therefore if (y) the Fulfilling of a Week was thought ſufficient to make a Bargain for ſeven Years in the Caſe of Rachel, the (z) Fulfilling of as many Days might be reckon'd as ſufficient in the Caſe of Leah. And therefore taking it for granted, that Jacob married both in ſix Weeks after he came to Haran, the Births of the Patriarchs may be computed in the following Manner.

In ſomething more than the Space of a Year Leah had a Son, (a) whom ſhe call'd Reuben, that is, Behold a Son; For ſhe ſaid, Surely the LORD hath looked on my affliction; now therefore my husband will love me. Anno Mundi 2246.

At a convenient Diſtance after this, Leah had a ſecond Son, (b) whom ſhe call'd Simeon, that is, Hearing; For ſhe ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hath heard that I was hated, he hath therefore given me this ſon alſo. Anno Mundi 2247.

At a convenient Diſtance after this, Leah had a third Son, (c) whom ſhe call'd Levi, that is, Joined; For ſhe ſaid, Now this time will my husband be joined unto me, becauſe I have born him three ſons. Anno Mundi 2249.

At a convenient Diſtance after this, Leah had a fourth Son, (d) whom ſhe call'd Judah, that is, He ſhall be praiſed; For ſhe ſaid, Now will I praiſe the LORD. Anno Mundi 2251.

Upon this (e) Rachel gives her Handmaid Bilhah to Jacob, who bears a Son, whom Rachel calls Dan, that is, Judging; For ſhe ſaid, GOD hath judged me, and hath alſo heard my voice, and hath given me a ſon. Anno Mundi 2252.

At a convenient Diſtance after this, Bilhah bears Jacob a ſecond Son, whom (f) Rachel calls Naphtali, that is, My Wreſtling; For ſhe ſaid, With great wreſtlings have I wreſtled with my ſiſter, and I have prevail'd. Anno Mundi 2253.

Leah all this while having (g) no more Children, gives Zilpah her Maid to Jacob, as Rachel had done before, who in due Time bears a Son, whom Leah calls Gad, that is, A Troop; For ſhe ſaid, A troop cometh. Anno Mundi 2254.

At a convenient Diſtance after this, Zilpah bears (h) Jacob a ſecond Son, whom Leah calls Aſher, that is, Happy; For ſhe ſaid, Happy am I; for the daughters will call me happy. Anno Mundi 2255.

At this Time Reuben being nine Years old goes into the Field, and finds a Fruit which we call (i) Mandrakes, perhaps becauſe we have no Name in Engliſh, whereby to expreſs it. It is (k) a Fruit, which in Syria they call Mauz, growing upon a Plant, on the Top of which there are great Bunches of it like ſeveral Cucumbers. It had (l) a very pleaſant Smell, and a moſt delicious Taſte. From their Growing together in Branches, they were call'd in Hebrew Dudaim, which ſignifies properly Kinſmen, Neighbours and Friends, and is metaphorically apply'd to this Fruit, as growing together in Cluſters, and ſprung from the ſame common Branch or Stock. Reuben brings them to Leah, Rachel deſires to eat ſome of them, which Leah refuſes, but upon Condition, that Jacob ſhould be with her that Night; which Leah told Jacob ſaying, (m) I have hired thee. Leah having on this Occaſion another Son, calls him (n) Iſſachar, that is, There is the Hire; For ſhe alſo ſaid, GOD hath given me my hire. Anno Mundi 2256.

At a convenient Diſtance after this Leah bears Jacob (o) a ſixth Son, whom ſhe calls Zebulun, that is, Dwelling together; For ſhe ſaid, Now will my husband dwell with me, becauſe I have born him ſix Sons. Anno Mundi 2257.

At a convenient Diſtance after this, (p) Leah bears a Daughter, whom ſhe calls Dinah, that is, Judgment. What Words ſhe us'd are not mention'd; but they muſt probably be like thoſe of Rachel at the Birth of Dan. Anno Mundi 2258.

Soon after this Rachel bears a Son, whom (q) ſhe calls Joſeph. There (r) are two Hebrew Verbs, from whence this Word may be deriv'd. If from one it ſignifies, He ſhall take away; If from the other, it ſignifies, He ſhall add. Rachel alludes to both, and ſaith, GOD hath taken away my reproach, and, The LORD ſhall add to me another ſon. There are ſeveral other Names, as we go along, which may ſeem to be of an oriental Derivation. Laban in Hebrew ſignifies White, and in Arabick Milk; and may ſeem to intimate, as if at the Time of his Birth the chief Part of his Parents Eſtate conſiſted in great and ſmall Cattle, and their Product. Rachel ſignifies a Sheep, perhaps for the ſame Reaſon, or that ſhe was intended to take Care of the Sheep, or to recommend to her the Virtues of Meekneſs and Patience, which is in Sheep. And for ſuch Reaſons others (s) had Names from other Animals. Leah ſignifies For a Brother, as if her Father intended her from the Beginning to marry a Relation. But where the Scriptures do not give us an Account of the Reaſon of the Anno Mundi 2259.

Names,

Names, it will be to little Purpoſe to be over curious about them.

103. Jacob having now ſerv'd (t) two Apprenticeſhips, and being above ninety Years of Age, is willing to return home to his Father. Laban deſires him to ſtay longer. Jacob conſents by Making a cunning Bargain, by which he gets all Laban's Cattle for his own. Laban agrees to the Bargain, thinking to trick Jacob, whereby he is trick'd himſelf. It is a Queſtion, whether Jacob got all his Riches honeſtly; becauſe Laban did not think of Uſing any Art, but only of a bare caſual Production. Some ſay, that whatever was not directly againſt the Contract, may be thought to be allow'd by it. But this Anſwer will leave too great a Latitude for every Buyer, or Seller, or Maker of Bargains to impoſe upon the Ignorance of the other. Others ſay, that he did that which was really evil, but GOD turn'd it to his Advantage. The beſt Excuſe is, that (u) GOD appear'd to him, and directed him by his Angel to uſe this Method, or at leaſt teſtified his Approbation of it, when it was done, and thus gave him a Reward for what he did at Bethel, when he anointed the Pillar, and where he vow'd his Vow. So that GOD intended by that Method to transfer to Jacob the Wealth of Laban, as (x) he gave the Riches of the Egyptians to the Iſraelites. And therefore as (y) the whole World is his, and the fulneſs thereof; he may juſtly diſpoſe of every thing in it, as he pleaſes, and his Commands will juſtify us in Acting accordingly. So that Jacob's Example will not excuſe the like Practice at this Time, becauſe GOD doth not appear to give Directions now in ſuch Caſes, as he did in former Ages; but inſtead thereof hath left us his holy Word to direct us, which poſitively forbids all ſuch Methods as theſe.

104. At the End of (z) twenty Years, he had ſo many Affronts, that he could not bear them. Laban's Sons utter'd many diſcontented and threatning Speeches, and ſo ſpoke of him, that they made him ſuſpect he would be us'd accordingly. He alſo ſaw by Laban's Looks, that things were not likely to go well with him, if he ſtay'd there any longer. But above all, the divine Majeſty appear'd to him, and order'd him to return, with a Promiſe to protect him. Upon this he reſolves to be gone, and conſults his two Wives Leah and Rachel about it; and finding them as willing as he, he immediately marches off with all his Family and Goods, and paſſes over the River Euphrates. Laban had a Knowledge of the true GOD, whom he calls (a) JEHOVAH, (b) the GOD of Abraham, and the GOD of Nahor, and the GOD of their Father: However he ſuperſtitiouſly fell into the Idolatry of the Country, and had a Teraphim or Set of Idols for this Purpoſe. They had in their Temples large Images, which they publickly worſhipp'd, and they had the Pictures of theſe caſt or engrav'd in Braſs or Silver, as People were willing to pay for them. Theſe Joſephus calls, (c) the Images of the Gods of the Country, and the Romans call'd them their houſhold Gods. A Set of theſe exactly like the Pictures in the Book call'd Pantheon, being about four Inches high, was lately digg'd up in Wiltſhire, and ſhewn about the Country. The beloved Rachel ſteals away theſe Images, and carries them with her. Joſephus ſaith, that (d) ſhe did not this out of any Reſpect, which ſhe had for the Idols, for her Husband had taught her better things, and to contemn them; but ſhe fancy'd to her ſelf, that in Caſe they ſhould be purſu'd and overtaken, by their Help Matters might be brought to a Compoſition. It is more likely, that ſhe retain'd a Mixture of the ſame Superſtition, which her Father had. For if ſhe had thought them to be of no Efficacy, ſhe needed not to have taken them away. If ſhe knew that they could do no Good; ſhe could not but know, that the Taking of them might have been diſcover'd, and that muſt have done Harm. She might have ſent them back again, if ſhe had no Value for them; and beſides, ſhe kept them till GOD's Judgments had overtaken the Family, and upon that Jacob forc'd her to part with them.

105. At the End of ſeven Days after Jacob's Flight, Laban overtakes him, and after ſome Debates, and ſeveral hard Words on both Sides, they mutually agree to forgive all paſt Injuries, and to commit none for the Time to come, and confirm this Agreement with an Oath. For a farther Teſtimony hereof they ſet up a Pillar, and (e) lay together an Heap of Stones, which Laban calls Jegar Sahadutha. This Expreſſion in Chaldee ſignifies, The Heap of Witneſs, and is an Argument of the Antiquity of that Language; and Jacob calls it Gilead, which ſignifies the ſame in Hebrew. After this they call it (f) Mizpeh, which probably ſignify'd A watch Tower in both Languages at that Time, ſaying, The LORD watch between us both, when we are abſent one from another. After this they feaſted together, and Laban return'd to Haran, and Jacob went on his Journey.

107. When Jacob was gone to Haran, Eſau finds that Iſaac had bleſs'd him again, and ſent him thither for a Wife, that he grew more and more in his Father's Affections, and eſpecially that the Land of Canaan, where Iſaac now dwelt, was given by GOD to Jacob and his Poſterity for an Inheritance; ſo that if Eſau had ſtaid in that Country, a Time would come when his Family muſt be all deſtroy'd, and therefore he leaves his aged Parents, and goes into the Country of the Iſhmaelites to his laſt Wife's Relations. He knew, that (g) his Poſterity ſhould be a great Nation, and finding that Country too ſtrait for him, being in Effect encompaſs'd by ſeveral other neighbouring Nations, ſo that the Iſhmaelites had not Room for themſelves, but ſome of their Families were forc'd to remove and ſettle at the eaſt Side of Jordan in Arabia Deſerta; and finding alſo that the Horites had a more open Country toward Arabia, he reſolves to ſettle among them, particularly at Mount Seir; ſo that the Country was afterward from him call'd Idumæa. It is alſo probable, that Iſaac had ſent him thither, as Abraham had done before by his other Sons; eſpecially finding that ſince the Return of the Egyptian Paſtors into Canaan, they had not Room for all their Cattle, but were forc'd to ſeek out for ſomething at a farther Diſtance; and that Jacob and Eſau might part from their Father about the ſame Time. The Scripture (h) mentions this Separation much like to that of Abraham and Lot. Eſau took his wives and his ſons and his daughters, and all the perſons of his houſe, and his cattle, and all his beaſts, and all his ſubſtance, which he had gotten in the land of Canaan, and went into the country from the face of his father Iſaac. For their riches were more than that they could dwell together: and the land wherein they were ſtrangers, could not bear them becauſe of their cattle. And ſo Eſau dwelt in Mount Seir. Hadad the King of the Horites ſeeing a ſingle Family come to live with him with ſo much Wealth, was glad to receive them; eſpecially ſince the Egyptian Paſtors came not into thoſe Parts, there was Room enough in the Land, they were contented to live in a mountainous and barren Part, and Hadad might think this to be a Strengthning againſt a future Invaſion, of which he had Cauſe to be apprehenſive. Eſau therefore comes in quietly and peaceably at firſt, and gets the Love of his Neighbours, by which Method his Family had afterward a Share in the Government, which prov'd (i) in the End to be the Overturning of it.

108. The Mountains of Libanus, Antilibanus and Amanus, in the Way from Haran to Canaan, being hardly paſſable with Flocks of large Cattle, Jacob chuſes to travel on the eaſt Side of Jordan. As he came along, GOD, who had promis'd to be with him, gave him a viſible Token of his Preſence and Aſſiſtance; for (k) the holy Angels met him in a viſible Shape like two Armies. Jacob knew them, and ſaid, This is GOD's hoſt. And he accordingly call'd the Name of the Place Mahanaim, which ſignifies two Armies or Camps. It was (l) alſo the Place, where David encamp'd when he fled from Abſalom. Jacob being encourag'd by this, ſends Meſſengers to the Land of Seir to Eſau, to court his Friendſhip, and to ſpy out the neighbouring Countries, whether or no he was like to meet with any Oppoſition. In the mean Time he encamps at Mahanaim, having the River Jabbok on his Front, that he could not eaſily be attack'd, which ran into the River Jordan a little below the Lake of Genneſaret. In the mean Time, Eſau had rais'd an Army of 400 Men, with whom he marches to deſtroy Jacob. The Meſſengers return in all Haſte with this News, which puts Jacob into a terrible Fright, and makes him take all Precautions for his Security. Jacob particularly prays to GOD, and it is probable, that GOD gave him a farther Promiſe of Succeſs; for immediately upon this he quits his ſtrong Camp, and marches forward to meet his Brother. Having (m) tried the Ford, and found it paſſable, he return'd, and caus'd all his Company to paſs over, and ſtaid behind them to (n) recommend himſelf and his Family to GOD by Prayer, as he had done before. When he had ended his Prayers, an Angel encountred him in the Shape of a Man, with whom he wreſtled, taking him for one of Eſau's Attendants come to ſurprize him. For it was ſo dark, that he could not ſee what Kind of Countenance he had. Many look upon this not to have been a created Angel, but the Angel of the covenant, or the eternal Λόγος or WORD, and it is plain, that Jacob afterward took him ſo to be, for he prays to him to bleſs him, and ſaid, that he had ſeen GOD face to face, and his life was preſerved. The End and Deſign of this Combat was to ſhew, that Jacob (o) having ſuch Power with God as to prevail at this Time, needed not to fear his Brother Eſau. However by a light Touch upon the Thigh he made him know, that he could as eaſily have overthrown him as he made him halt. This diſcover'd to Jacob, that it was more than a Man, and therefore he did not prevail by his own Strength, but by the Power of GOD. Upon this it was alſo reveal'd to Jacob, that he muſt not depart from him without his Conſent, and Jacob anſwer'd, that he would not let him go without a Bleſſing. To this it was reply'd, That his Name ſhould be call'd Iſrael, and (p) his Poſterity Iſraelites, or the Children of Iſrael, which Word ſignifies, (q) A mighty Prince, or A Prince with GOD, and the Reaſon is added, (r) For as a prince thou haſt power with GOD, and with men, and (s) thou ſhalt prevail. And as a farther Proof, he (t) renews the Bleſſing, which GOD had ſo often promis'd to Abraham and his Seed, and (u) particularly to Jacob himſelf, which was ſtill a farther Demonſtration, that he and his Family ſhould be preſerv'd. For this Reaſon (x) Jacob call'd the name of the place (y) Peniel, which ſignifies, I have ſeen GOD. When he overtook his Family, he was probably told, that they had alſo ſeen a Viſion of the ſame Nature, which made Jacob call that Place (z) Penuel, or, They have ſeen GOD. The Name Peniel was loſt, and we find it in no other Text, to ſhew, that (a) no Scripture is of any private interpretation. But the (b) Name Penuel remains; becauſe the Promiſes belong to all.

109. When (c) Jacob met Eſau, he found accordingly that GOD had turn'd his Heart, for he (d) receiv'd him with all the Demonſtrations of Love and Affection. When (e) a man's ways pleaſe the LORD, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him. Jacob urg'd Eſau (f) to accept of a Preſent. Eſau refus'd it, ſaying, I have enough. Jacob urg'd him with this Anſwer, (g) I have every thing, as the Hebrew expreſſeth it. Eſau's Portion was in this World, and having Plenty of worldly Goods, he thought he had enough; for he look'd no farther. GOD was Jacob's Portion, and in GOD he had every thing, which could be deſir'd. Eſau was willing to accompany Jacob in his Journey, or at leaſt to leave ſome of his Forces with him for his Security. Jacob was afraid to truſt them, and deſir'd their Room rather than their Company. Upon this Eſau returns to Mount Seir; and Jacob came to a Place, where he built him an Houſe, and made Booths for his Cattle, and for this Reaſon he call'd it Succoth, which in Hebrew ſignifies Booths. After this, he came (h) to Shalem, a City of Shechem, or as ſome render it, He came peaceably to the City of Shechem, or the City where Shechem liv'd, and which was (i) afterward call'd by his Name. Others ſay, He came perfectly ſafe and ſound thither, that is, his Leg was ſo perfectly well, that he halted no longer. Here he buys a Field for a Sum of Money, (as (k) St. Stephen calls it) more particularly (l) an hundred pieces of money. In our Margin, it is an hundred Lambs, and ſignifies (m) a Piece of Money with the Picture of a Lamb ſtamp'd upon it. So that by this Time they were grown more exact in their Coining. The Value of it is uncertain, but as before they traded by Exchanging of Goods, particularly living Cattle; ſo it ſeems by the Stamp to be about the Value of a Lamb, and therefore was a fit Standard for all the Reſt. Here Jacob reſolves to ſettle; and accordingly he lays aſide a Part thereof as a Place for divine Worſhip, where he builds an Altar, and calls it El Elohe Iſrael, or, The mighty GOD, the GOD of Iſrael.

110. Whilſt Jacob was here, his Son Judah being about fourteen Years of Age, (n) marries a Canaanite from the Town of Adullam, which (o) afterward fell to his own Tribe, and was famous for the (p) Cave, where David hid himſelf. This is the firſt Inſtance of the Patriarchs Marrying out of their own Kindred, Anno Mundi 2265.

eſpecially thoſe to whom the Promiſes of the MESSIAH were given. Whether he did well or ill in it is not ſaid, and therefore every one is at Liberty to conjecture as he pleaſes. Rachel had before ſtol'n the Images, and the Family was not yet purg'd from them; ſo that they ſeem not to have that Averſion to Idolatry as they ought, and therefore were the more eaſily reconcil'd to marry one of an idolatrous Nation. Judah had three Sons, Er, Onan, and Shelah. Er was a wicked Man, and perhaps by his Mother's Example; and Onan was but little, if any better. Judah marries his Sons at fourteen Years of Age, which was very young, eſpecially in that Age of the World. The Reaſon hereof might probably be this, that Judah might have had ſome particular Promiſe, that the MESSIAH ſhould be born of his Poſterity, and therefore he was reſolv'd to have a numerous Poſterity as ſoon as poſſible. But it could not be otherwiſe, as appears from the following Account.

111. Some Time after this, Dinah the Daughter of Jacob being about fifteen Years of Age, went into the City of Shechem (as (q) Joſephus tells us) to ſee the fine Sights and the Faſhions of the Place upon a great Feſtival, which happen'd to be there. Shechem (r) the Son of Hamor fell in Love with her, took her away with him, and raviſh'd her. This gives Cauſe of Tears to (s) the tender Eyes of her Mother Leah, and was the firſt Miſcarriage in Jacob's Houſe. It is no Wonder if GOD overtakes him with ſome Scourge, when he is ſo ſlack to purge his Family, and to perform that Part (t) of his Vow, that the LORD alone ſhould be the GOD of his Houſhold. It is now ſeven or eight Years ſince GOD brought him from Haran, and yet he thought not of the Vow which he made twenty Years before, when he went thither. However Shechem begs his Father's Leave to marry Dinah, who not only conſents to it, but goes himſelf to Jacob to treat for his Son. Jacob conſulting with his Sons about it, they propoſe the Condition of Circumciſion to the Shechemites, who accepted of it by the Perſuaſions of Hamor and Shechem. Simeon and Levi the Brethren of Dinah by the ſame Mother, reſolv'd to be reveng'd for this Fact, without ſpeaking a Word to their Father about it; and therefore upon the third Day after, when they were feveriſh and diſorder'd with their Wounds, and (u) it being another Feſtival, they fell upon the Guards late in the Night, and eaſily maſter'd them, finding them drunken and ſecure in their Revels. They took Poſſeſſion of the City, and kill'd all the Males which they could meet with, the King and his Son being of the Number, ſparing only the Women: and upon this the (x) reſt of Jacob's Sons, who were able to bear Arms, came to the Aſſiſtance of their two Brethren, help'd to plunder the City, and upon the Finiſhing of this Exploit, they brought home their Siſter again to their Father. Jacob was highly incens'd againſt his Sons for what they had done, and ſtruck with Horror at the Barbarity of ſo bloody an Action, inſomuch that he reſented it (y) even upon his Death-Bed; and he was more particularly afraid of the Canaanites and the Perizzites, thoſe veteran Soldiers in the Egyptian Wars, leſt they ſhould revenge the Quarrel, and deſtroy both him and his Family. His Sons excus'd themſelves, becauſe the Injury done was againſt the Law of Nations, and the ſeven Precepts given to the Sons of Noah, and that they had no other Way to right themſelves but by the Sword. Upon this, (z) GOD appear'd unto Jacob, and commanded him to go Bethel, and dwell there, and erect an Altar unto him alone, who would have no other God to be worſhipp'd but himſelf. Jacob immediately purg'd his Houſhold of all their Idols, broke them in Pieces, and hid them under an Oak, that they might never be found again. The Jews thought he had not Time to deſtroy them, and ſo he hid them; and particularly that (a) there was one Idol, which had the Shape of a Dove, which the Samaritans found afterward, and plac'd upon the Top of Mount Gerizim. Upon this, Jacob immediately marches off, and whatever Wars there might be before, GOD ſtruck his Enemies with a panick Fear, that they did not think it adviſeable to follow them any farther. Here were many Accidents, which happen'd in this Journey, and they were all probably in the ſame Year. Jacob comes to Bethel, and (b) builds an Altar there, which he calls El Bethel, or the GOD of Bethel. Rebekah's Nurſe died, and was bury'd under an Oak, which (c) was call'd Allon bachuth, or The Oak of Mourning. GOD (d) appears to Jacob, bleſſeth him, and tells him, that his Name ſhould be Iſrael, and he ſhould inherit the Land of Canaan. Jacob dedicates a Pillar in Commemoration hereof, as (e) he had done before in the ſame Place. From Bethel, there was but (f) a little more than half a Mile to Ephrath, where Rachel died in Child-Birth. She had before ſaid (g) to Jacob, Give me children, or elſe I die, and when ſhe had more than one, they coſt her her Life. Rachel call'd this (h) Son Benoni or The Son of my Grief, and Jacob call'd him Benjamin, or The Son of the Right-hand.

112. It may here be obſerv'd, that Judah and Pharez had each of them a Son at fifteen Years of Age, but Jacob had not this Son till he was 106 Years old, at a Time when the oldeſt Liver or Iſaac was (i) 180 Years at his Death, which ſhews, that they had Children very young, and continu'd to have them until they were of a great Age; and therefore it ſeems to be the viſible Method of Providence, by which the Earth was repleniſh'd ſo ſoon after the Flood.

113. Jacob travels with the Corps of Rachel until he comes to another Place, call'd alſo Ephrath near Bethlehem, and from whence Bethlehem is (k) call'd Bethlehem Ephratah in the Land of Judah. There he buries her, and ſets up a Pillar over her Grave, which is ſince call'd The Pillar of Rachel's Grave. And then he pitch'd his Tent at a little Diſtance, in a Place call'd The Tower of Edar, where he ſtays for ſome Time, perhaps (l) about forty Days, until his Mourning for Rachel was ended. Whilſt he was here, Reuben, Jacob's eldeſt Son, lay with Bilhah the Handmaid of Rachel, whom ſhe gave to Jacob for a Wife, which entail'd the Curſe of his Father upon him inſtead of a Bleſſing; ſo that he loſt all the Rights of Primogeniture, or (m) the double Portion of the Eſtate, which was given to Joſeph; the Prieſthood, which was given to Levi; and the Kingdom, which was given to Judah: It was alſo foretold of him, that he ſhould not excel, there ſhould nothing great be ſaid to be done by this Tribe in all the Scripture; becauſe he had debas'd himſelf and his Family in ſo ſcandalous a Manner.

114. The Tower of Edar, where Jacob pitch'd his Tent, was about a Mile Diſtance from Bethlehem. It was call'd ſo, or The Tower of the Flock, perhaps from Rachel's being buried there, whoſe Name ſignify'd A Sheep, and the great Number of Cattle which Jacob brought with him thither. The Prophet Micah (n) ſpeaks of the Tower of the Flock, the ſtrong hold of the Daughter of Zion; but this is not ſuppos'd to be the ſame, but only to have taken its Name from hence. The (o) Chaldee Paraphraſt obſerves, that the Tower of Edar is the Place, from whence the King MESSIAS ſhall be reveal'd in the laſt Days. And (p) one of the Antients tells us more than once, that the Tower of Edar was the Place, where Jacob fed his Flocks, that it had its Name from thence, and that the Shepherds watch'd there by Night, at the Time of our SAVIOUR's Birth, when (q) they heard the heavenly Hoſt praiſing GOD, and ſaying, Glory be to GOD on high, and on earth peace, and good will toward men. However after Jacob had ſtay'd here a convenient Time, and after near thirty Years Abſence from his Father, he returns to him with his Family and Subſtance to Hebron, the Place which he then inhabited, and where his Father Abraham had liv'd long before him.

115. Jacob had not been long with his aged Father, before the (r) Amonites, who dwelt near Shechem, reſolve to revenge themſelves upon him for the Murder of the Shechemites. Accordingly they ſeize upon that Piece of Land, which (s) he had bought of Hamor, and reſolve not to part with it. Upon this Jacob arms all the Men, whom he could get together, marches on a ſudden, gives them Battle, forces them to quit it, and ſo recovers by Force of Arms, that which he had before purchas'd with his own Money. The better to ſecure his Title, he (t) digs a Well, which was afterward call'd Jacob's Well. And when he was near his Death, he gives it (u) by a verbal Will to his Son Joſeph. And calls it (x) a portion of ground, which he took out of the hand of the Amorite, with his ſword, and with his bow. And the (y) Jews tell us, that there happen'd to be grievous and cruel Wars between Anno Mundi 2274.

116. About this Time the Ammonites, the Children of Lot, begin to ſtir. Whilſt they were but few in Number, they were quiet; but now they grew populous, they deſtroy the Inhabitants, and ſeize upon the Land for their own. The Scripture ſaith, (a) that it was formerly accounted a land of giants, giants dwelt therein in old time, and the Ammonites call them Zamzummims, or thundering Fellows, a people great and many, and tall as the Anakims; but the LORD deſtroy'd them before the children of Ammon, and they ſucceeded them, and dwelt in their ſtead. Anno Mundi 2274.

117. Neither were the Moabites, the other Branch of Lot's Family, idle about the ſame Time. They alſo growing numerous, (b) ſeize upon the Country of Ar, and deſtroy the antient Inhabitants, who were famous in Abraham's Days; and ſo take Poſſeſſion of that Country alſo. The Scripture deſcribes them thus, The Emims dwelt there in times paſt, a people great, and many, and tall as the Anakims; which alſo were accounted giants as the Anakims, but the Moabites call them Emims. Moſt of theſe Emims being thus cut off, they who remain'd, retir'd into the Wilderneſs of Idumæa, which border'd upon Moab. And there Anah (c) the Horite met with them, as he was feeding the Aſſes of Zibeon his father, and gave them ſuch an Overthrow, that we hear no more of their Names in any future Action. Our Engliſh Tranſlation, following the Paraphraſe of Jonathan and the Arabick Verſion, renders it thus, This is that Anah, who found the Mules in the wilderneſs. And it is commonly interpreted, that he invented an unnatural Mixture, and ſo produc'd this very Kind of Creature. But there was no Occaſion to record this Act in Scripture. Onkelos ſaith, that he found the Giants in the Wilderneſs. The Samaritan Verſion calls them Giants, or Emathites, a Word of near Affinity with the Emims. In the Hebrew it is the Yemims, from whence the other Word may be form'd by (d) the Change of a Quieſcent Letter, as it is uſual in the Oriental Languages. And therefore (e) the learned Bochart hath confirm'd this Opinion with many ſubſtantial Reaſons; That by Yemim we are to underſtand Emim, a gigantick Sort of People, mention'd in Scripture, and next Neighbours to the Horites. Theſe Anah is ſaid to find, or to meet withal and encounter, or rather to have fall'n upon them on a ſudden and unexpectedly, as this Word frequently ſignifies in Scripture. Anno Mundi 2274.

118. The Reaſon, why theſe Actions are plac'd about this Time, is this, Jacob was now 106 Years of Age, and Eſau being a Twin with him muſt be of the ſame. Eſau (f) at forty Years of Age marry'd Adah, by (g) whom he had Eliphaz his eldeſt Son. Eliphaz marry'd Timnah the Daughter of Seir the Horite, who firſt inhabited Mount Seir, and call'd it by his Name. Timnah had (h) two Brothers, Lotan and Zibeon, and Zibeon was the Father (i) of this Anah: So that he was Contemporary with the Grandchildren of Jacob and Eſau. If his Grandfather Seir came up with the reſt of the Canaanites from the Egyptian Wars, when they firſt took Poſſeſſion of the Country, he muſt be older than them; and conſequently his Grandſon Anah might be of a fit Age for ſuch Exploits at this Time.

119. Jacob being now at Hebron, carried on a great Trade of Paſturage, and employs all his Sons about this Affair except Benjamin, who was too young, being but eleven Years of Age. The ten eldeſt feed their Flocks at Shechem, and ſo being at a conſiderable Diſtance, Jacob ſends Joſeph backwards and forwards to them for Intelligence. As their Flocks increas'd; ſo they enlarg'd their Paſture, but they continu'd moſtly here, that they might ſecure this Ground, which was their own by Purchaſe, and afterward by Conqueſt, from any freſh Pretence or future Invaſion. However the Amorites ſtreighten them very much, ſo that they are forc'd to go to Dothan, a Place ſituated twelve Miles ſouthward from the City of Samaria. The Iſhmaelites, whom Abraham had ſent to live on the other Side of Jordan eaſtward, having extended themſelves to the north, carry on a great Trade from Mount Gilead (where Laban overtook Jacob) into Egypt, and croſs Jordan into Canaan, chuſing much rather to travel in a plentiful Country than in the Deſarts of Arabia. Accordingly they came near to the Place where the Sons of Jacob were, who reſolving to do Joſeph a Miſchief, they, by the Advice of Judah, ſell him to be a Slave, as CHRIST was ſold by the Villany of Judas, another of the ſame Name. And ſo the Iſhmaelites carry him to Egypt, and ſell him to Potiphar, an Officer of Pharaoh, Captain of the Guard, who bought him for a Slave, little thinking that he ſhould afterward be his Lord and Maſter. To deceive their aged Father they kill a Kid, and dip his Coat in the Blood, and ſend it to him, who knowing it, concluded that Anno Mundi 2276.

Joſeph was torn in Pieces by ſome wild Beaſt. So that Jacob is deceiv'd by the Blood of a Kid, inſtead of Joſeph's, by his own Sons, as he had deceiv'd his own Father with the Fleſh and Skin of a Kid, inſtead of Veniſon, and his own Skin. Judah who depriv'd his Father of his beloved Son, was not long after depriv'd of his two eldeſt Sons, Er and Onan, before they came to the Age of Joſeph. And he who had loſt the two, who were born in the Beginning of his Strength, had two others inceſtuouſly by his own Daughter-in-Law to keep his Shame in continual Remembrance; the eldeſt of which might well be call'd (k) Pharez, or a Breach in his Family, tho' his Name was given for another Reaſon. And at this Time, according to the Computation of the Arabick Hiſtorian (l), Kohath the ſecond Son of Levi, and Grandfather of Moſes was born.

120. Joſeph benig (m) in his Maſter's Houſe, his Miſtreſs would fain have lain with him, which he peremptorily refuſes. Upon this ſhe accuſes him to his Maſter of Incontinency, with ſuch Circumſtances as could not fail of being credited. His Maſter throws him into Priſon. The Keeper puts him into (n) the Dungeon, which was the loweſt and moſt diſmal Part of all, ſo that (o) they hurt his feet in the ſtocks, and the iron enter'd into his ſoul. However, that GOD who ſuccours the Injur'd, and relieves the Oppreſſed, gave him Favour in the Sight of the Keeper; ſo that inſtead of a Priſoner, he makes him an Officer, and commits the reſt to his Care, among whom there was the chief Butler and the chief Baker of the King of Egypt. They dream two Dreams, which Joſeph interprets, viz. That at the End of three Days the Baker ſhould loſe his Life, and the Butler ſhould be reſtor'd to his former Dignity, which happen'd accordingly. Of theſe, like the two Thieves with CHRIST, the one is ſav'd, and the other is condemn'd. Joſeph ſaith to one of theſe, Remember me, when it ſhall be well with thee, and he was forgotten; but when the other ſaid to CHRIST, LORD remember me, when thou comeſt into thy Kingdom, he was regarded. Thus as the Telling the Meaning of two other Dreams had brought Joſeph into Miſery; ſo the Interpreting of theſe proves in Time to be the Means of his Delivery. However as yet the chief Butler fills and drinks Wine in Bowls; but (p) he is not griev'd for the Affliction of Joſeph.

121. The Year after this (q) Iſaac dies, being an hundred and eighty Years of Age. The (r) Arabian Hiſtorians ſay, that in the Time of Iſaac Jericho was built by ſeven Kings, and ſurrounded by ſeven Walls, each of them building a Wall. The Scripture (s) ſaith, that when Iſaac was dead, his Sons Jacob and Eſau bury'd him, as Iſaac and Iſhmael bury'd Abraham, in the (t) Cave of Mackpelah, which had been bought for that Purpoſe. So that at Iſaac's Death, Jacob and Eſau ſeem to be good Friends. The Jews and Arabians tell us, (u) that Jacob and Eſau ſoon parted upon the Dividing of the Inheritance, upon which Eſau went off and rais'd War againſt Jacob, until in a Battle Jacob kill'd Eſau with a Dart, and ſo brought it to a final End; for they who were with Eſau, immediately fled away. If this is true, and (*) that the Arabick Hiſtorian can be depended on, who ſaith, that Eſau liv'd 129 Years, then his Death happen'd nine Years after Iſaac's Death, or the Year before Jacob went into Egypt.

Anno Mundi 2288.

122. From this Time, to the Departure out of Egypt, the Scripture is principally confin'd to the Hiſtory of Jacob, Joſeph and Moſes. Joſeph was now in Egypt. Pharaoh dreams two Dreams, (x) which all the Magicians and wiſe Men of Egypt could not interpret. The chief Butler remembers how exactly Joſeph had interpreted his and the Baker's Dream in the Priſon. Joſeph being thirty Years old is now ſent for, and interprets the Dreams to ſignify ſeven Years of great Plenty of Corn, and ſeven other Years of Famine, which ſhould immediately come upon the whole Land. Upon this Pharaoh makes him Governor over all the Land of Egypt, and calls him (y) Zaphnath Paaneah, which moſt Interpreters mention to ſignify The Revealer of future things, or The Interpreter of Secrets. There are ſome, (†) who have endeavour'd to make out this Senſe from the Hebrew Language, and think that they have done it with Succeſs; but their Derivations ſeem to be ſtrain'd too far. Joſephus ſaith, (z) that it is taken out of the Egyptian Language. And (a) as the Egyptian Kings gave Names of Honour and Glory to their Favourites in Token of their Greatneſs and Authority; ſo it was moſt for the Reputation of their own Nation to give them Names out of their own Language. From hence a learned (b) Prelate judges, that the antient Hebrew and Egyptian Languages might have a great Affinity with each other. This Conjecture is the more probable, becauſe Egypt and Canaan ſprang at firſt from one common Father Ham, who ſometimes liv'd in one Country, and ſometimes in the other. And if (c) the Word Abreck, which we render Bow the knee, was alſo taken out of the Egyptian Language (as ſome will have it) it might farther ſtrengthen this Opinion. On the other hand it ſeems very probable, that the Language of Canaan and Egypt might be diſtinct ever ſince the Diſperſion from Babylon, which occaſion'd Mizraim and his Family to ſeparate ſo early from his Brother; and that the Words, which are common to both Languages, were brought into Egypt by the Coming of Abraham firſt, and his Poſterity afterward into that Country from the Land of Canaan.

123. Immediately upon this the ſeven Years of Plenty begin, and Joſeph like a prudent Governor takes Care to provide for the worſt. Accordingly he (d) gathers a fifth Part of the Corn for the Uſe of Pharaoh, to be ſold whenever Occaſion ſhould require it. It is not probable, that he did it by an arbitrary Power according to the Cuſtom of Kings in thoſe Times; for then it would have made him hated by all, eſpecially being a Foreigner; and yet we find that he was in great Eſteem (e) after that, and his (f) good Deeds were gratefully acknowledg'd, as long as he liv'd; and it would alſo be an Injuſtice in him to have ſold to them, that which he never bought of them, which they would not have endur'd for ſo many Years together. The Scripture therefore not mentioning by what Method he procur'd this fifth Part, we may ſuppoſe it to be thus: The Kings of the eaſtern Countries had (g) a Right to one Tenth Part by antient Cuſtom, as their own. During thoſe ſeven Years, when Corn was ſo plenty, every one had an Occaſion to ſell, and none to buy, which made it very cheap. Joſeph therefore takes the Advantage to buy the other Tenth for Pharaoh, and ſo both Parts belong'd to him, one by Right, and the other by Purchaſe. This ſtops all Ground for Complaint, and made them eaſy. During this Time Joſeph marries the Daughter of Potipherah the High Prieſt of On, or Heliopolis, which, as (h) Joſephus obſerves, was a Match of the King's making and a very great Honour, and ſhe was probably a near Relation to the King, or otherwiſe there had been no need of his Conſent, becauſe Parents might marry their own Daughters as they pleas'd, and it was uſual in thoſe Times even for Kings (i) to be Prieſts themſelves, much more to be related to thoſe who were Prieſts.

Anno Mundi 2290.

124. Joſeph now proſpering in Egypt hath (k) two Sons. The firſt of them he calls Manaſſeh, which ſignifies Forgetting, For GOD (ſaith he) hath made me forget all my labour, and all my father's houſe. The other he calls Ephraim, which being in the dual Number ſignifies two fruitful Perſons, and intimates alſo, that each of theſe ſhould have a numerous Poſterity, For GOD (ſaith he) hath cauſed me to be fruitful in the land of my affliction.

Anno Mundi 2296.

125. When the ſeven Years of Plenty were ended, the ſeven Years of Famine began. They had liv'd as if they ſhould never have wanted, and therefore they want the ſooner. And expecting every Year as good an Harveſt as before, they were ſtreighten'd ſoon after the firſt Diſappointment. Upon this they come to Joſeph, who ſells to them, what he had before bought of them. The Famine being alſo in the Land of Canaan, Jacob ſends the reſt of his Sons, Benjamin excepted, to buy Corn of Joſeph. Joſeph charges them (l) with being Spies, and coming from Canaan to ſee the Nakedneſs of the Land. This Charge was moſt heavy, and it was neceſſary to clear themſelves from it. The Canaanitiſh Paſtors had came into this Country before, had carry'd on a long War, committing all Sorts of Outrages, and were expell'd in the Memory of many then alive: And therefore there might be juſt Cauſe of Jealouſy, that they came to view the Paſſes, the Weakneſs and Diſcontents of the Nation; and if ſo, then they could not be watch'd too narrowly, leſt they ſhould involve them in the ſame Troubles, from whence they were ſo lately deliver'd. When they endeavour'd to clear themſelves, Joſeph tho' a good Man, being corrupted by bad Examples, ſwears twice to them, (m) By the life of Pharaoh, that they were Spies. The Egyptians had before deify'd their Kings after their Deaths, who had fought againſt their Enemies in the Defence of their Country, and ſo they fall from one Error to another, and Flattery or Fear makes them treat others (n) in the ſame Manner, whilſt they were alive.

alive. Upon this he puts them into Priſon, and then at about two and twenty Years Diſtance, they reflect upon their Cruelty to Joſeph, which we read not that they did before. Thus Afflictions bring our Sins to Remembrance, and they in particular obſerve their Guilt in their Puniſhment. As they had thrown Joſeph into a Pit; ſo now they were thrown into a Priſon themſelves. And as nothing which he could ſay, would incline them to ſpare him; ſo now they found Joſeph inexorable to them. Joſeph hearing them mention their younger Brother born of the ſame Mother with himſelf, makes the Bringing of him into Egypt the Proof of their Sincerity, and for Security ſeizes on Simeon, and binds him, and ſends the reſt home with Corn to their Father. The Jews ſay, that Simeon was the Perſon who put Joſeph into the Pit, and now Joſeph ſerves him in his own Kind. It is certain, that Reuben was reſolv'd to ſave him, and Judah ſpoke favourably of him, ſo that if Simeon had join'd with them, their Authority as being the eldeſt Brethren might have prevail'd upon the reſt. Joſeph's Brethren returning to their Father, perſuade him to ſend Benjamin with them, when they went next. For this Reaſon Joſeph receives them kindly, brings out Simeon to them, and makes a Feaſt to entertain them, in which there was this remarkable (o) Ceremony: They ſet on for him by himſelf, and for them by themſelves, and for the Egyptians, which did eat with him, by themſelves; becauſe the Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews, for that was an abomination to the Egyptians. They reckon'd all to be Hebrews, Paſſengers or Runagates, who came out of Canaan into Egypt, and ſo paſs'd over the River Sihor; and (p) Joſeph himſelf was known to be of the Number. As thoſe People by their Coming thither before had rais'd ſuch a bloody War; ſo they juſtly hated them, and kept them at the utmoſt Diſtance. They ſhunn'd their Company, and would not eat with them, leſt they ſhould be ſuſpected of Carrying on a Conſpiracy againſt the Government. And the Egyptians were ſo tenacious of their Cuſtoms, that they ſeem to obſerve this in the Caſe of Joſeph, even whilſt he was the Governor of the Land.

126. Immediately upon this, Joſeph orders his Steward to ſend them away with every thing to their Minds, but to put the Cup, which they had drank out of, into Benjamin's Sack. This he did (ſaith (q) Joſephus) to try whether the reſt would ſtand by Benjamin in Caſe he ſhould be charg'd with the Theft, or forſake him in Danger, and ſo return to their Father without him. When they were gone a little Way, the Steward overtakes them, charges them with the Theft, and asks them, (r) Is not this the cup, in which my lord drinketh, and whereby indeed he intended to make an Experiment, by Laying it in your Way, when you feaſted with him, whether you were honeſt Men, as you pretended to be, or Thieves, as ye are found to be? And thus Joſeph ſpeaks in the ſame Language, (s) Could not you imagine that ſuch a man as I would certainly make ſome farther Trial, and not depend upon your bare Words? The Cup being found in Benjamin's Sack, they return all to the City, and Joſeph ſeeming to demand him for a Priſoner, Judah makes a moſt paſſionate Speech in his Behalf, which oblig'd Joſeph to make himſelf known to them, confeſſing (t) that he was exceedingly delighted to find them ſo friendly and compaſſionate to his Brother, which he was doubtful of, conſidering the former Circumſtances of his own Caſe. Benjamin at this Time was three and thirty Years of Age, and (u) the Father of ten Children, ſo that like Judah himſelf he was married when he was but young. And if we allow a Year and an half between every Child, we may ſuppoſe him at that Time to have been about eighteen. However Judah in his Speech calls him (x) a Lad, (y) a Child, and (z) a little one. But neither of theſe Expreſſions are ſufficient to interrupt the Chronological Order. A Lad or a Youth may mean any Perſon not yet arriv'd at the fourth Part of the Age of Man, which then was about 160 Years. And his Brother Joſeph was call'd (a) a Lad, when he was thirty Years old. Joſeph was not call'd barely a Child, but a Child of Jacob's old age, or born when he was old, and ſo he was; and the Word a little one, in the Hebrew ſignifies only the youngeſt of all, and ſo was Benjamin, not only then, but for ever after as long as he liv'd.

127. Upon this Joſeph invites his Father to come into Egypt, and dwell with him, ſending him, by the Conſent of Pharaoh, all Neceſſaries for the Journey. Jacob finding Joſeph to be alive, ſets out accordingly from Hebron, where he then liv'd, and came to Beerſheba, in the ſouthern Parts of Canaan, near the Wilderneſs which leads to Egypt. Worſhip Worſhip of GOD, and where (c) GOD had appear'd to Iſaac, and given him the Promiſe of a Bleſſing. Here therefore Jacob chuſes to offer Sacrifices, recommending himſelf and his Family to GOD's Protection in their Journey to Egypt, and to his Preſervation when they came thither. And here alſo GOD appears to Jacob, promiſing to protect and preſerve him, to make him a great Nation, and bring them from thence in due Time; that he ſhould die in Peace having his Children about him, and particularly Joſeph ſhould outlive him, ſo that all things ſhould be ſafe under his Authority. When Jacob came to Egypt, he (d) did not think it proper to live in the Heart of the Country, or even at Court with Joſeph, becauſe he would give no Occaſion of Umbrage to the Egyptians. He knew, that they (e) mortally hated Shepherds, and they knew them to be ſuch. They contemn'd them as People of very mean Employments, and took Care that they ſhould never riſe any higher, nor be about the Court. They well knew, that the Phœnician Shepherds, who came out of that Country, had rais'd a Rebellion in Egypt, ſet up a King of their own, and erected that which was call'd the paſtoral Kingdom; and therefore it was no Wonder, if they hated all Shepherds, particularly Strangers, and more eſpecially ſuch as came from Canaan. For this Reaſon Jacob, by the Conſent of Joſeph, choſe to be in Goſhen, as a Place which was liable to the feweſt Exceptions.

128. There is a conſiderable Variety in the ſeveral Accounts of the Number of thoſe, who went down into Egypt at this Time, which makes ſome Difficulty; and this Difficulty is increas'd by Reckoning up the Names, which Moſes mentions as a Proof of his Account. In (f) one Verſe in Geneſis he reckons them to be threeſcore and ten. In the (g) Verſe immediately before it, he reckons thereeſcore and ſix; and St. Stephen (h) mentions threeſcore and fifteen. If we compute the Numbers, which Moſes gives us, we ſhall find, that Jacob and his Wives are excluded, when he reckons up the ſeventy.

The Sons of Leah	33.	Gen. 46. 15.
The Sons of Zilpah	16.	Gen. 46. 18.
The Sons of Rachel	14.	Gen. 46. 22.
The Sons of Bilhah	7.	Gen. 46. 25.
Total is	70

If we alſo look into the Account of the Children of Leah, we ſhall find them to be thirty three, beſide Dinah, who is particularly mention'd; tho' afterward Serah the Daughter of Aſher muſt be reckon'd among the Number. And on the other hand, Er and Onan are reckon'd among thoſe, who went down into Egypt, tho' they both died in the Land of Canaan.

129. To obviate all theſe Objections, which are very conſiderable, we muſt obſerve, that Moſes, in Reckoning up the Seventy, mentions all the Sons of Jacob both dead and alive, and only thoſe Daughters of his, who went into Egypt. For this Reaſon Dinah, tho' mention'd in the Text, muſt be excluded; becauſe it is probable that ſhe was married and ſettl'd in the Land of Canaan: And Serah the Daughter of Aſher is mention'd, becauſe ſhe was ſingle, and ſo went with them. And it is but reaſonable to think, that after Dinah had been defil'd by Shechem, her Father might be willing to marry and part with her at any Rate. As to the Reckoning of Seventy, tho' Er and Onan were dead, it is plain, that Moſes mentions (*) their Death in expreſs Terms, and therefore can be the leſs ſuſpected of any Miſtake. He added them in the Text only to make up the full Number, as is uſual on other Occaſions. Thus in a College, Hoſpital or other Societies, we uſually ſay, that there is ſuch a Number there as was intended to be when full, tho' there may be a Vacancy of one or ſeveral at the ſame Time; and (i) our SAVIOUR is ſaid in the Evening to come with the twelve, tho' (k) Judas was gone from them to the chief Prieſts and Captains. As for the Number of threeſcore and ſix, we muſt take them (l) as Moſes ſtates them. All the ſouls, which came with Jacob into Egypt, and which came out of his loyns, beſides Jacob's ſons wives, all the ſouls were threeſcore and ſix. So that we muſt exclude thoſe, who were in Egypt before he came. Now (m) Joſeph and his two Sons were in Egypt at that Time, and (n) Jacob had ſent Judah before him to give him Notice of his Coming, that ſo he might meet them upon the Frontiers of Egypt, and particularly in Goſhen; and therefore if we ſubſtract theſe four, who were then in Egypt, out of ſeventy, the Remainder, according to this Way of Reckoning, will be threeſcore and ſix. As for the threeſcore and fifteen mention'd by St. Stephen, he computes in another Manner, and particularly mentions all the Kindred of Jacob, πᾶσαν τὴν συγγένειαν αὐτοῦ, all the People of his own Genealogy and their Offſpring, including their Wives, and excluding Jacob and his Wives, if he had any, for (o) Rachel and Leah had been dead long before, and we read nothing of the other two. It is (p) particularly mention'd, that the ſons of Iſrael carried Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives, in the waggons which Pharaoh had ſent to carry him; ſo that he brought with him into Egypt his ſons, and his ſons ſons, his daughters, or Daughters-in-Law, and his ſons daughters, including their Wives, and all his ſeed. From theſe ſixty ſix let us then ſubſtract Er and Onan, who were dead before, and the Number will be ſixty four. To theſe let us add the twelve Wives of Jacob's Sons, and the Number will be ſeventy ſix. Out of theſe we muſt again ſubſtract three, viz. Joſeph's Wife, who was in Egypt; ſecondly, the Wife of Judah, who (q) was dead; and (r) Tamar his Daughter-in-Law was diſcarded after her Inceſt; ſo that (s) Shelah had no Children. And (t) Simeon's Wife was dead, ſo that he had afterward a Son by a Canaanitiſh Woman, who went not with them into Egypt. So that ſubſtracting the three Wives of Joſeph, Judah and Simeon, from the former Number of 76, the Remainder is 73: And as (u) Pharez and (x) Beriah, the Grandchildren of Jacob, had Children; ſo if their two Wives are added, the Number who went with Jacob into Egypt, will appear to be exactly threeſcore and fifteen, as St. Stephen mentions.

130. The Famine having continu'd two Years, and the Egyptians having in this Time eaten up all the Stores, which they had of their own, they now buy Corn of Joſeph, as long as they had any Money left, which (y) ſupported them the third, and probably the fourth and fifth Years. The ſixth Year (z) they ſold their Cattle, and the next Year, or the laſt, (a) they ſold themſelves and their Lands. This being therefore the laſt Year of the Famine, he not only gives them Food, but (b) alſo Seed to ſow their Land; and makes a Law, that as a Token of their Subjection, they ſhould every Year bring the fifth Part of the Product to Pharaoh, whereas before he had but the Tenth. In this Law he excepted all the Lands of the Prieſts. Some think, that he did this becauſe of their great Authority at Court, that ſo he might keep their Favour, by Countenancing thoſe who were devoted to the Service of Religion. But as their Religion was Superſtition and Idolatry, we cannot ſuppoſe this to be the Reaſon, becauſe he might be in Danger thereby of Loſing the Favour of GOD. Others think he had a particular Reſpect to them, becauſe he was married into the chief Family among them. But there is another Reaſon for this: The Prieſts were generally of the royal Family at that Time, and therefore they had a royal Allowance out of the publick Revenue; they were Princes as well as Prieſts. They had (c) a portion aſſigned them of Pharaoh, and did eat their portion, which Pharaoh gave them, and therefore they were under no Neceſſity to ſell their lands. The Country of Egypt was (d) divided into three Parts, of which their King had one, their Prieſts a ſecond, and their Soldiers a third, and under them they had Herdſmen, Artificers, and Husbandmen, who ſpent all their Time in Manuring their Ground for ſmall Wages. This is probably (e) the publick Maintenance, which Herodotus and Diodorus tell us did belong to them. The Prieſthood being confin'd to certain Families, they were held in ſuch Veneration, that they were all not only free from paying Tribute, and next to the King in Honour and Power; but receiv'd this ample Income, out of which they maintain'd the publick Sacrifices and their Servants, and provided for their own Neceſſities. But beſide theſe three Parts, there were Eſtates which belong'd to private Perſons, as in other Countries. And there is Reaſon to believe, that the Portion which was given to the Soldiers, was not ſettl'd in Joſeph's Time; but by Seſoſtris, after the Departure of the Iſraelites out of Egypt.

131. Thus have we brought another Century to an End, in the Concluſion of which we have been principally confin'd to the ſacred Story. The other Occurrences, which happen'd in the mean Time, are chiefly theſe:

Saophis ſucceeds Biyris in the Kingdom of Upper-Egypt, where he reigns 29 Years, and is ſucceeded by Senſaophis, who reigns 27 Years. Miſphragmuthoſis ſucceeds Mephres in the Kingdom of Lower-Egypt, where he reigns 25 Years and 10 Months, and is ſucceeded by Thmoſis, who reigns 9 Years and 8 Months, beginning his Reign the Year after Jacob came into Egypt. Eratus ſucceeds Meſapus in the Kingdom of Sicyonia, where he reigns 46 Years. Cambrivius ſucceeds Marſus in Germany, where he reigns 44 Years. Saul (f) ſucceeds Samlah in the Kingdom of the Horites, and is ſuppos'd to reign 42 Years. And Altadus ſucceeds Balæus as Emperor of the Aſſyrian Monarchy, where he reigns 32 Years. And Amenophis ſucceeds Thmoſis in the Kingdom of Lower-Egypt, where he reigns 30 Years and 10 Months.

him in the Land of Canaan; and (h) in his Sickneſs Joſeph brought his two Sons to him, that he might bleſs them. Jacob was then ſo weak, that he could not ſit upright upon his Bed, and therefore (i) he ſupported himſelf, by Leaning upon his Staff. St. Paul (k) expounds it thus, By faith Jacob, when he was dying, bleſſed both the ſons of Joſeph, and worſhipped upon the top of his ſtaff. Our Tranſlation hath very judiciouſly added the Word leaning, that is, He worſhipped GOD, leaning upon the top of his ſtaff. The Vulgar Latin moſt ridiculouſly hath it, he worſhipped the top of his ſtaff; but all the other Tranſlations keep exactly to the Original. It is plain, that he repeated the Promiſes which GOD had formerly given him, and gave him the Glory of all his Succeſſes. In Bleſſing Joſeph's two Sons, Jacob ſaith, that (l) Ephraim and Manaſſeh ſhould be his. That is, they ſhould be reckon'd as if he had begotten them; and accordingly they ſhould each of them have a diſtinct Inheritance with the reſt of his Sons, and be diſtinct Tribes. Thus they (m) were number'd diſtinctly by Moſes, and (n) St. John reckoning the twelve Tribes mentions both of them, tho' he omits another, leſt they ſhould be thirteen. He foretold, (o) that Ephraim, tho' he was the younger Brother, ſhould be more fruitful than Manaſſeh, and ſo (p) he appear'd to be at the Numbering of the People. And ſaith to Joſeph, (q) The iſſue, which thou begetteſt after theſe, ſhall be thine. He would make no diſtinct Proviſion for them, as he had done for theſe two; but they ſhall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritance. They ſhould not make diſtinct Tribes like Ephraim and Manaſſeh, but be comprehended in them. This ſeems to be a Prophecy, that Joſeph ſhould have more Children, tho' we have not the leaſt mention of their Names; and if ſo, then we may the better account for (r) the vaſt Number of the Sons of Joſeph, and particularly of Ephraim, who came out of Egypt about two hundred Years after. At laſt Jacob concluded with (s) a ſolemn Benediction of them both: And when he pronounc'd it, he worſhipp'd GOD, leaning ſtill on the Top of his Staff. Thus he was ſupported from Falling, of which he would have been in Danger when he bow'd, if he had not reſted upon it.

133. Upon this (t) Jacob calls all his twelve Sons together to bleſs them, and tell them what ſhould happen in future Times, and very probably he uſeth the ſame Poſture and Geſtures as before with Joſeph. He (u) puts Reuben in Mind of his Inceſt with Bilhah, and ſaith, that for this Reaſon he ſhould not excel. He ſhould loſe all the Benefits of his Birthright. The double Portion ſhould be given to Joſeph, the kingly Power to Judah, and the Prieſthood to Levi. There ſhould be nothing great ſaid to be done by this Tribe in Scripture, but that (x) they ſhould be weaken'd by their own Diviſions. And (y) they were not ſo numerous by more than a third Part, as Judah, Joſeph or Dan, when Moſes took the Sum of all the Congregation, and allotted their Inheritance accordingly.

134. He reminds Simeon and Levi of (z) their Cruelty when they kill'd the Shechemites, and therefore he foretels, that they ſhould be diſperſed among the reſt of the Tribes. This was evidently accompliſh'd in Levi, who had no Inheritance allotted them among their Brethren, except eight and forty Cities with their Suburbs, ſcatter'd about in every Part of the Land of Canaan. As for Simeon, it is a conſtant Tradition among the Jews, that a great many of the Tribe wanting a Livelihood, applied themſelves to the Teaching of Children, and were diſpers'd as Schoolmaſters among the reſt of their Brethren. When they enter'd Canaan, they had not a ſeparate Inheritance for themſelves, but only (a) a Portion in the Midſt of the Tribe of Judah, or rather in the ſouthern Part adjoining to Egypt, and accordingly (b) they aſſiſted each other to enlarge their Border; and this being ſtill too ſtrait for them, they in after Times acquir'd Poſſeſſions for themſelves wherever they could, tho' at a great Diſtance from the reſt, and particularly (c) 500 of them under ſeveral Captains went to Mount Seir, and there ſettled themſelves among the Idumæans.

135. He alludes to the Name of (d) Judah, which ſignifies Praiſe, and tells him, that his Brethren ſhall praiſe him accordingly. His Name was (e) given him by his Mother in Thankfulneſs to GOD for him. And his Father gives another Reaſon for his Name; becauſe all his Brethren ſhould praiſe GOD for all the noble Acts perform'd by this Tribe. That he ſhould overthrow his Enemies, and bring them under, (f) which was eminently fulfilled in David; that the other Tribes ſhould acknowledge him their ſuperior, and their Kings ſhould be regularly of this Tribe. That he ſhould give an early Proof of his Valour when he was very young, or like a lions whelp: And thus he was the (g) firſt, who went againſt the Canaanites after the Death of Joſhua. That he ſhould be like a Lion of a warlike Temper and undaunted Courage, and that having ſubdued his Enemies, he ſhould live in Peace, free from their Incurſions, when none ſhould dare to invade him, That his Country ſhould abound with Vineyards and Paſtures, That the Vine of Sorek, which was the moſt choice and noble Vine of all, ſhould be in their Country, it being but a Mile and an half from the Valley of Eſhcol, from whence the Spies brought the large Cluſter, which was carried on a Stick between two. And their Vines and Cattle ſhould be ſo fruitful, that they ſhould have great Plenty of Wine and Milk. And more particularly, that tho' the ten Tribes ſhould be carried away Captives, and their Names ſhould be extinct, yet Judah ſhould remain (h) as a Tribe, and the royal Power, which ſhould be eſtabliſh'd in their Poſterity, ſhould not be utterly taken from them, or at leaſt, that they ſhould not be deſtitute of Rulers and Governors, when they ſhould be in their declining Condition, until the Coming of the Meſſiah. And after that he was come, there ſhould be no Difference between the Jews and other Nations, who ſhould be obedient to him, but they ſhould be gather'd into one Church. But after that, the Poſterity of Judah ſhould have neither King nor Ruler of their own. But the whole Commonwealth of Judah ſhould loſe all Form, and never recover it again, until by their Converſion they ſhould be re-admitted into the Church of CHRIST.

136. He ſaith of (i) Zebulun, that he ſhould dwell near the Lake of Tiberias, which is call'd in Scripture, The Sea of Galilee, and ſhould extend to Mount Carmel, which border'd upon the Zidonians, and particularly ſhould trade with them by Sea, as (k) it was eaſy for them ſo to do.

137. He foretold of Iſſachar, that (l) he ſhould be like a ſtrong Aſs, very patient and unwearied in all ruſtical Employments. They ſubmitted to the moſt toilſome Labour, finding the Land which was allotted to them to be exceeding pleaſant and fruitful. In particular, (m) the famous Valley of Jezreel was in this Tribe, whoſe Border extended as far as Jordan. They took a great Deal of Pains to till the Land, and to carry in the Corn, and other Fruits of the Earth. They ſubmitted to the heavieſt Taxes rather than loſe their Repoſe, and were content to give any Money to redeem their Services in the Wars, or otherwiſe by large Contributions. And thus as (n) Zebulun did rejoice in their Ships, when they put out to Sea; ſo did Iſſachar in their Tents, when they ſtay'd at home.

138. He alludes to the Name of Dan, which ſignifies a Judge, and ſaith, (o) that tho' Dan was the Son of an Handmaid, whereas the reſt before-nam'd were the Sons of Leah; yet that ſhould not hinder him from the Privileges belonging to all the reſt, but he ſhould judge his People, like any other of the Tribes of Iſrael; and that (p) Sampſon of this Tribe ſhould be an eminent Judge and Deliverer of his People, and tho' he ſhould not overcome the Philiſtines with a numerous Army, and in pitch'd Battles, yet he ſhould deſtroy them ſubtilly, when they were leaſt aware of him, like a Serpent by the Way, or an Adder in the Path; and thus the whole Tribe did manage the Wars rather by Cunning and Craft than by open Hoſtility.

139. He (q) alludes to the Name Gad, which ſignifies a Troop, and ſaith, that a Troop ſhould invade him, but he ſhould overcome them. As they lay on the other Side of Jordan; ſo they were expos'd to the Incurſions of the Ammonites and Moabites, and the reſt of thoſe Neighbours, who dwelt in and near Arabia. But as the Gadites were a fierce and valiant People; ſo Jephthah the Gileadite, who was of this Tribe, (r) fought with the Children of Ammon, and ſubdued them before the Children of Iſrael. And at another Time this Tribe, (s) together with their Brethren of Reuben and Manaſſeh, made War with the Hagarites, ſubdued them with a great Slaughter, poſſeſs'd themſelves of the Country, and dwelt in it until the Captivity, becauſe the War was of GOD.

140. He (t) propheſies of Aſher, that in his Country there ſhould be excellent Proviſion of all Sorts for the Suſtenance of human Life. And (u) as Part of it lay about Mount Carmel, where there was a moſt delicious Valley; ſo it ſhould yield the choiceſt Fruits, fit to be ſerv'd up at a King's Table.

141. He ſaith of (x) Naphtali, that he ſhould be a People ready to encounter with others, like a Hind let looſe. They (y) jeoparded their lives unto the death in the high places of the field, when (z) Barak their Kinſman commanded them againſt Jabin King of Canaan. And as they were not raſh in making War, ſo they were tractable and willing to live at Peace, being (a) contented with their Lot, and ſo far from provoking others to quarrel, that they were courteous and civil in their Converſation. The Septuagint altering the Punctation of the Hebrew Words, render it thus, Naphtali is a well- ſpread tree, which puts out beautiful Branches. And the Situation of this Tribe ſuits very well with this Compariſon. It was (b) ſituated upon the Waters of Jordan, and the Lake of Genneſareth, which Name hath been obſerv'd to be ſo call'd from Words in the Hebrew, which ſignify the Gardens of Noblemen or Princes.

142. He propheſies of Joſeph, that (c) he ſhould have a very fruitful Offspring, and they ſhould be ſeated in a very fruitful Country, and this we find to have been literally fulfill'd, even in (d) Joſhua's Time. That from him ſhould come (e) many famous Men to rule, govern and protect the People of Iſrael, ſuch as (f) Joſhua, who ſucceeded Moſes, and Abdon one of the Judges of the Tribe of Ephraim, and Gideon, Jair and Jephthah, who were of the Tribe of Manaſſeh. And as his Sons ſhould be fruitful to increaſe their own Tribe; ſo their (g) Daughters ſhould go even to the Enemy, or to repair the hoſtile Tribe of Benjamin, who otherwiſe had decay'd for Want of Wives.

143. He alſo compares (h) Benjamin to a Wolf, for his warlike Courage and Succeſs againſt his Enemies, who in the Morning of their Commonwealth, or Beginning thereof, ſhould alone (i) maintain a War againſt all the other Tribes, in which they overcame them in two Battles, tho' they had ſixteen to one againſt them, and kill'd more Men of the Iſraelites than they had in their whole Army. Thus (k) Ehud deſtroy'd Eglon King of Moab. Thus Saul (l) deſtroy'd the Ammonites, the Amalekites, the Philiſtines, and (m) others, and (n) rag'd about like a Wolf in Purſuit of David, the great Shepherd of his Flock, and his little Company; and in the Evening, or (o) latter Part of their Polity, (p) Mordecai of this Tribe, and his Adherents, deſtroy'd Haman and all the Enemies of the Jews, like ſo many unſatiable Wolves, when beſet and ſtanding for their Lives.

144. Soon after this (q) Jacob dies, and Joſeph (r) cloſeth his Eyes as one of the neareſt, and deſervedly the beſt belov'd of the Family. And they who were uſually employ'd to embalm Bodies, (in which Art, (s) the Egyptians were moſt eminently famous) employ'd the beſt of their Skill about Jacob's Body. Herodotus (t) gives us the Receipt, which they follow'd, thus, They took out the Bowels of the dead, then they cleanſed them, and waſhed them with the Wine of Dates, and after that again with Odours. Then they fill'd the Bowels, and perhaps all the hollow Parts of the Corps, with pure Myrrh beaten and Caſſia, and other Odours, except Frankincenſe. This Method, it is probable, might laſt (u) forty Days, and during this Time they took out the Spices, and added freſh, as they knew that there was Occaſion. Then they ſewed up the Body, and after this they cover'd it with Nitre ſeventy Days, and not longer. During thoſe ſeventy Days, the Children of Iſrael made a great Mourning for their Father, according to the Cuſtom in thoſe Times. After ſeventy Days they waſh'd the Corps, and wrapp'd it in fine Linen Cloth gumm'd, which Gum the Egyptians often us'd inſtead of Glew. And then they (x) deliver'd the Body to the Kindred of the Deceas'd, intire in all its Features, the very Hairs of the Eye-lids being preſerv'd. The Charge was uſually computed at a Talent of Silver, or in Value according to our Coin 187 Pounds and 10 Shillings. Several of ſuch Bodies remain to this Day, and are brought into this Kingdom under the Name of Egyptian Mummies. During thoſe laſt ſeventy Days, they made a great Mourning for their Father, according to the Cuſtom of the Country, which for a King was (y) ſeventy two Days. Thus as they gave to the King the fifth Part of the Increaſe of the Land, when he was alive; ſo they thought it requiſite to beſtow the fifth Part of the Year in Mourning for him, when he was dead. And as a Father was a King in his own Family; ſo the Sons of Jacob might the better join to ſhew this Reſpect to him; eſpecially as his Son Joſeph was next to the King, and the Governor over the whole Land. When this was ended, Joſeph by the Leave of Pharaoh went with a numerous Retinue to bury his Father in Canaan among his Anceſtors. It is generally allow'd, that he went thro' the Deſarts, which was very much round about, and ſo paſs'd over Jordan as the Iſraelites did afterwards; for which two Reaſons may be given, The firſt is the Danger of Wars, if they had gone the neareſt Way: For the Canaanites having been lately expell'd out of Lower-Egypt, had a violent Antipathy againſt all its Inhabitants, and the ſtouteſt Men among them liv'd in the ſouthern Parts. Thus it is expreſs'd in (z) another Caſe. When Pharaoh let the people go, GOD led them not thro' the land of the Philiſtines, altho that was near, For GOD ſaid, Leſt peradventure the people repent, when they ſee war, and ſo return into Egypt. Another Reaſon might alſo be, that they might have ſeveral others of Jacob's Relations, as the Idumæans, the Moabites, the Ammonites, and the Iſhmaelites to accompany the Corps, and make the Solemnity ſo much the greater. When they came into Canaan on the weſt Side of Jordan, to a Place call'd, The threſhing-floor of Atad, ſo nam'd in Hebrew, either from the Number of Brambles, which grew in it, or from the Name of the Man, who was the Owner of it, they ſpent ſeven Days in a publick Mourning. Why they made it at this Place rather than at the Grave, is not eaſy to determine. Perhaps they might not think proper to march directly into the Country, leſt the Inhabitants might conclude, that they came to invade them; and therefore they were willing to ſtay, till by this Ceremony they might fully ſhew to the World their real Deſign. It was ſo exceeding great and publick, that the Inhabitants of the Land alter'd the Name of the Place, and call'd it Abel Mizraim, or The Mourning of the Egyptians, for this very Reaſon.

145. When the Funeral was over, Joſeph's Brethren, being ſenſible of their former Guilt, ſend a ſubmiſſive Meſſage to him, and he returns an Anſwer full of Affection, and ſo they live peaceably together in the ſame Country. The Scripture tells us, (a) that he was an hundred and ten Years old when he died, and therefore he liv'd four and fifty Years after his Father. The Scripture gives no Account of any Tranſactions during this Time. The (b) Arabick Hiſtorians tell us, that Joſeph ſet up Stones for Way-marks, and made Contrivances to meaſure the River Nile at Memphis, and digg'd a River for that Purpoſe, which was call'd Monha. That (c) there is a Fabrick ſupported round with Pillars, and in the Middle of the Court there is a large deep Ciſtern, to which there is a Deſcent with marble Steps. In the Middle of this Ciſtern there is a marble Pillar, where there are plac'd the diſtinct Number of Cubits: That the Water comes into this Ciſtern by a large Channel, cut from the River Nile, and begins to enter, when the River is up to the Bank. Such a Contrivance as this muſt be of excellent Uſe, if, as Pliny ſaith, it could ſerve to foretel Dearth and Plenty. For (d) he obſerves, That when Nile roſe only twelve Cubits, a Famine follow'd; when thirteen, great Scarcity; when fourteen, they had a good Year; when fifteen, very good; and if it roſe to ſixteen, it made a luxuriant Plenty; and the greateſt Increaſe which they ever knew, was to eighteen Cubits. The Arabick Geographer adds, that (e) when it riſeth to eighteen Cubits, it overflows all the neighbouring Country, and if it increaſes more than eighteen Cubits, it brings Damage, becauſe it plucks up even the Trees by the Roots.

146. A little before the Death of Joſeph, he ſpoke of their Deliverance out of Egypt, and was ſo confident of it, that he deſir'd his Bones might remain in Egypt till that Time, upon Condition they ſhould be remov'd then, which (f) was perform'd accordingly; tho' Joſephus tells us, (g) that the Bodies of the other Patriarchs were buried ſoon after their Deaths in the Land of Canaan. It is ſaid, (h) that he liv'd to ſee the Great Grandchildren of his Son Ephraim, which was not improbable. For as Ephraim was born when Joſeph was at moſt but 37 Years old; ſo if we allow 20 Years to each Generation, in the Line of Ephraim, the firſt-born of the fourth Generation from Joſeph would have been thirteen Years of Age at his Death. Thus Jacob's Prophecy of Ephraim's Fruitfulneſs, (i) began to be fulfill'd in Joſeph's Time. The Arabian Hiſtorian (k) tells us of a Report, that he was put into a marble Coffin, and laid in the River Nile. But that was very unlikely. We are (l) ſure, that he was embalm'd like his Father, and ſuch Bodies ought to be kept in the dry to ſecure them from Putrefaction. And it would have been impoſſible, in ſuch a Caſe, for the Iſraelites to have fetch'd his Body from the neareſt Branch thereof, when they march'd in haſte from Rameſſes, the contrary Way toward the Land of Canaan.

147. Among all the Sons of Jacob, Moſes only tells us the Age of Joſeph and Levi. Joſeph was 110 Years old when he died; ſo that Levi being about ten Years older than he, muſt be 120 Years old at that Time; and as he was (m) 137 Years of Age when he died, ſo he liv'd ſeventeen Years after Joſeph. Some of the Jews have thought, that Joſeph died the ſooneſt, and (n) Levi liv'd the longeſt of all the Patriarchs; and if ſo, the other ten died in a very little Compaſs of Time. That Joſeph died firſt, they conjecture from the Words of Moſes, (o) who puts Joſeph firſt when he ſaith, And Joſeph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation. But it is more probable, that his Name and Age is mention'd there, becauſe of his Authority and Pre-eminence in the Land, than for any other Reaſon. And the (p) Eaſtern Writers tell us, with greater Probability, that the Reaſon why the Age of Levi was mention'd, and not his Brethren, is becauſe Moſes and Aaron were deſcended from him, and the Prieſthood was continu'd in his Line. The Jews obſerve, that from the Death of (q) Levi the Servitude of the Iſraelites began; and they ground it from this (r) Text of Moſes, Joſeph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation. And the children of Iſrael were fruitful, and increaſed abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty, and the land was filled with them. Now there aroſe a new King over Egypt, who knew not Joſeph. And he ſaid unto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Iſrael are more, and more mightier than we, Come on, and let us deal wiſely with them: leſt they multiply, and it come to paſs, that when there falleth out any war, they join alſo to our enemies, and fight againſt us; and for this Reaſon they did ſet over them task-maſters to afflict them with their burdens. However the Jews allow, (s) that this Bondage might not begin immediately from the Death of Levi, They ſay, (t) that it could not laſt above 116 Years, which they reckon from the Death of Levi, nor be leſs than 87 Years, which they reckon from the Birth of Miriam, who, they ſay, was ſeven Years older than Moſes, and (u) big enough to watch what might happen to him, when he was laid in the Flags by the River Side. The Occaſion of this Cruelty ſeems to be this: The King of Egypt was very ſenſible, from the Records of this Country, what Miſchief the Wars occaſion'd by the Canaaniti∫h Paſtors had done in a former Century. He knew, that Jacob and all his Family came from Canaan, and might ſuppoſe them related to others, who were left behind. He knew, that what had happen'd once, might happen again; and therefore he reſolv'd to keep the Iſraelites low, that if another War ſhould break out, they might not be capable of doing much Miſchief.

148. But the Time when the Bondage of the Iſraelites began, may be the better gueſs'd at by two other Texts of Scripture. The firſt is (x) the Account of St. Paul, where he ſaith, that when GOD had deſtroy'd ſeven nations in the land of Canaan, he divided their land unto the Iſraelites by lot; And after that (as we tranſlate it) he gave unto them judges for about the ſpace of four hundred and fifty Years, until Samuel the prophet. If we begin to compute theſe four hundred and fifty Years, from the Time when Joſhua divided the Land by Lot, in the Year of the World 2560, it will bring us up to the Middle of Solomon's Reign, and therefore we muſt begin this Date from ſome Time in Samuel's Life. The laſt Action, which we hear of him, was, that (y) he and David dwelt together at Najoth in Ramah, Anno 2943, and he was dead before Saul (z) conſulted the Witch of Endor, Anno 2949. If then we count theſe Years backward, from the Time when the Iſraelites gather'd together at Mizpeh, and Samuel by his Prayer obtain'd a ſignal Victory (a) over the Philiſtines Anno 2908, it will bring us to the Year of the World 2458, which is 25 Years after the Birth of Moſes; ſo that we muſt begin it ſooner. The Jews reckon that Samuel liv'd 98 Years, and therefore might be born about the Year 2850, in the Beginning of the High Prieſthood of Eli. And therefore theſe 450 Years could not begin before the Year 2400, but might begin ſoon after. So that the Words of St. Paul may be thus render'd, (b) The Children of Iſrael dwelt as ſtrangers in the land of Egypt, and GOD with an high arm brought them out of it; he ſuffered their manners in the wilderneſs, he divided the land of Canaan to them by lot. Καὶ μετὰ ταῦτα, and about the time of theſe things, or whilſt theſe things were tranſacted, he ſet over them Officers, Taskmaſters and Judges, who continu'd four hundred and fifty Years until Samuel the Prophet. St. Stephen farther explains this in the other Text; (c) When the time of the promiſe drew nigh, which GOD had ſworn unto Abraham, the people grew and multiplied in Egypt, till another king aroſe, who knew not Joſeph. The ſame dealt ſubtilly with our Kindred, and evil intreated our Fathers, ſo that they caſt out their young children, to the end they might not live; in which time Moſes was born. From whence I think we may infer, that the King of Egypt, who knew not Joſeph, and began the Oppreſſion of the Iſraelites, was the King in whoſe Time Moſes was born. Now it appears from (d) Manetho's Catalogue of the Kings of Lower-Egypt, that Pharaoh Amenophis, who was drown'd in the Red-Sea reign'd 19 Years and 6 Months, and his Predeceſſor Rameſſes Miamun reign'd 66 Years and 2 Months, ſo that both together might make near 86 Years; and therefore Moſes being 80 Years old when they paſs'd the Red-Sea, was born in the ſixth Year of this King's Reign, who immediately began to oppreſs the Iſraelites, and ſet the Officers over them for this Purpoſe. The Scripture ſeems plainly to intimate the great Length of this King's Reign, and that his Succeſſor was as bad as he, in theſe Words, (e) And it came to paſs in proceſs of time, (or after a long Time, as the other Tranſlations do more fitly expreſs the Senſe of the Hebrew Language) that the king of Egypt died, and the children of Iſrael ſighed by reaſon of the bondage, and they cried, and their cry came up to GOD by reaſon of their bondage. And therefore (f) the Jew was very near the Truth, who ſaid, that the Oppreſſion began at the Birth of Miriam 87 Years before the Deliverance out of Egypt, whereas it really began the Year following, Anno Mundi 2427. To this let us add the 450 Years mention'd by St. Paul, and the Total is 2877, or the 29th Year of Eli's Prieſthood, when Samuel, as the Jews reckon, was about 27 Years old; and conſequently this might be the Time, when (g) Samuel prophely'd againſt Eli, and GOD directed him in other Predictions, inſomuch that all Iſrael from Dan even to Beerſheba knew, that Samuel was eſtabliſhed to be a prophet of the LORD. The Time of the Decree to deſtroy the Iſraelitiſh Children may be more nearly gueſs'd at. It is certain, that it was after the (h) firſt Setting the Task-maſters over them to afflict them with their Burdens, and we read nothing of it when Aaron was born, who (i) was but three Years older than Moſes, and therefore it ſeems to be order'd the Year after the Birth of Aaron, ſo that it was of full Force when Moſes was born, which occaſion'd his being plac'd in the River, if poſſible to preſerve him.

Anno Mundi 2431.

149. The Arabick Hiſtorians (k) tell us, that Amram was born to Kohath when he was ſixty Years of Age, and Miriam was born to Amram at 73, Aaron at 77, and Moſes at 80; and conſequently as Moſes was 80 Years old at the Deliverance of the Iſraelites, ſo Kohath muſt be born 220 Years before that, which was five Years before (l) Jacob went with him into Egypt, according to the Scripture Hiſtory. We are told alſo, that Kohath liv'd 133 Years, and Amram 130, which agrees well with the Ages of the Patriarchs, who were contemporary with them.

150. Another (m) Arabick Hiſtorian gives us a long Account of the Kings of the Perſians about that Time. This is an Argument, that the Feathers of the Aſſyrian Monarchy were alſo pluck'd from it on that Side, which ſtill made it ſo much the weaker. He tells us, that Aphridoun was made King of the Perſians about the Time of the Death of Terah, the Father of Abraham, and in the four hundredth Year of the Monarchy of Nimrod. Now as Terah really (n) died, when Abraham receiv'd the Promiſe in the Year of the World 2083, the ſubſtracting of 400 Years from thence will bring it to the Year 1683, which is but 15 Years after the Flood. To reconcile this Account, we muſt conſider, that this Author makes Terah to live (o) 265 Years, whereas the Scripture plainly ſaith, that he liv'd only 205 Years: So that he puts his Death 60 Years later. Secondly, the Arabians in their Chronology follow the Septuagint, and not the Hebrew Bible. Now the Hebrew Bible ſaith, (p) that Nahor was twenty nine Years of Age at the Birth of Terah, but the Septuagint ſaith, that he was 179 Years old at that Time. And conſequently, according to this Reckoning, the Monarchy of Nimrod began when Nahor was 44 Years of Age. The Account is thus:

From the Birth of Nahor to the Birth of Terah	179
Terah's Age at his Death	265
Total is	444
Duration of the Aſſyrian Monarchy ſubſtract.	400
The Age of Nahor	44

Which according to the Hebrew Account was the Year of the World 1894, and differs but ſeven Years from the Time where it is really plac'd.

Aphridoun reigns 95 Years, and dies at 140 Years old (q).
Shaharnaz, his Son, ſucceeds him, and reigns 93 Years (r).
Aſphidbaz, his Son, ſucceeds him, and reigns 71 Years (s).
Ruſtan, his Brother, ſucceeds him, and reigns 65 Years (t).
Waſhliman ſucceeds him, and reigns 77 Years (u).

In which Catalogue it is obſervable, that the Years of their Lives and of their Reigns do well agree with the Lives of the Patriarchs their Contemporaries, eſpecially if we only ſuppoſe, that they began to reign, when they were of a mature and an active Age.

151. Tho' Joktan, (x) of the fourth Generation from Shem, had formerly brought his numerous Family into Arabia, and the Arabians generally ſay, that Joktan founded that Kingdom; yet we do not find, that they had a King over them till now. However they now (y) take their Advantage, and (z) pluck off more of the Feathers from the Chaldean Monarchy; ſo that having conquer'd them, they now ſet up a King of their own call'd Mardocentes, who reign'd 45 Years. Our (a) learned Primate ſuppoſes him to have been call'd Merodach, who was afterward accounted (b) as a GOD among the Babylonians, from whom alſo their Kings Merodach-baladan and Evil-merodach took their Names. This happen'd within fifty Years of the Departure of the Iſraelites out of Egypt, and was a particular Providence of GOD to weaken the Power of the Babyloniſh Monarchy, ſo that neither Kingdom was in a Condition to attack them in the Wilderneſs. Our learned (c) Countryman Dr. Pocock reckons 22 of theſe Kings until the Time of the Queen of Sheba, who came to hear the Wiſdom of Solomon: and as that was 550 Years after; ſo one with another each of them might reign about five and twenty Years. And therefore it is probable, that the Arabians might miſtake, who report, that Yaarab, who was their firſt King, was the immediate Son of Joktan; and that they take no notice of all the intermediate Space, only to raiſe the Antiquities of their Nation as high as poſſible.

152. Soon after the Death of Joſeph, a Misfortune befel the Poſterity of Ephraim. He muſt at that Time be above ſeventy Years of Age, and had a numerous Family, of whom there are nineteen Sons and a Daughter reckon'd up in (d) the ſacred Scriptures. The Text ſaith, (e) that the men of Gath ſlew them, becauſe they came down to take away their battle. The learned Dr. Lightfoot (f) ſuppoſes the Men of Gath to have been the Plunderers. But others (among whom is the (g) Author of the Jewiſh Targum) more juſtly lay the Blame on the Poſterity of Ephraim. The Scripture ſeems to me to determine the Caſe, which ſaith, that the men of Gath, who were born in the land, where the Battle happen'd, ſlew them. Had the Battle been in Egypt, the Men of Gath muſt have been the Invaders; but as Gath was in the Land of Canaan, and the Battle there, the Ephraimites were the firſt Aggreſſors. The Jews think, that (h) they miſtook their Computation of the End of the Years, in which they were to be Slaves in Egypt, and imagining them to be near expir'd, made an Inroad into the Land of Canaan to take Poſſeſſion of it before the Time. But as they liv'd in that Part of Goſhen, which border'd upon the Land of Canaan, and applied themſelves to Paſturage; ſo it might rather proceed from a Deſire of Prey and Spoil, which they thought they might lawfully get from thoſe, whoſe Country they were to poſſeſs: And they preſum'd the more to make this Attempt, becauſe they were valiant Men, and proud of the great Power and Authority, which their Grandfather Joſeph had in Egypt. And it is probable, that theſe Philiſtines had formerly infeſted them in the Land of Goſhen, which provok'd theſe Sons of Ephraim to break into their Country, and make Repriſals upon their Cattle. Ephraim their Father on this ſad Occaſion mourneth for them many Days; and the more, becauſe he might think, that it would fruſtrate the Prophecy of Jacob concerning his being more fruitful than his Brother. However he ſoon after had another Son, whom he call'd Beriah, that is, In an ill State, becauſe it went ill with his Houſe at that Time.

153. But the moſt remarkable Occurrence in this Epocha is that of Job, which takes up a whole Book in the ſacred Story. In the Account hereof, there are two things to be conſider'd, viz. the Place where, and the Time when he liv'd. The Place where he liv'd is generally ſuppos'd to be Idumæa; becauſe we meet with a Perſon (i) call'd Uz among the Sons of Eſau, from whom (k) a Part of Idumæa was antiently call'd, The land of Uz. We meet alſo with (l) Eliphaz the Son of Eſau, and (m) Teman his Son, and therefore it is probable that Eliphaz the Temanite the Friend of Job, might be the Son of this Teman, and Grandſon of the other Eliphaz; and therefore many think, that Job might be (n) Jobab, one of the Kings that reign'd in the Land of Edom. But in anſwer to all this, it may be conſider'd, that there is another (o) Uz the Son of Nahor, (p) Abraham's Brother, who married (q) Milcah of the ſame Family, from (r) which Family Iſaac and Jacob took Wives by the Direction of their Parents, and conſequently moſt likely to be a Family, in which Religion might be kept up in that Purity, as we find it to be in Job. As to the Land of Uz, (s) the Septuagint calls it Auſitis, but never calls (t) that Uz in the Land of Edom by this Name. Nahor liv'd at Haran on the South of Euphrates, and no doubt his Son might live with him, and his Family give a Name to this Country. plainly to intimate the great Length of this King's Reign, and that his Succeſſor was as bad as he, in theſe Words, (e) And it came to paſs in proceſs of time, (or after a long Time, as the other Tranſlations do more fitly expreſs the Senſe of the Hebrew Language) that the king of Egypt died, and the children of Iſrael ſighed by reaſon of the bondage, and they cried, and their cry came up to GOD by reaſon of their bondage. And therefore (f) the Jew was very near the Truth, who ſaid, that the Oppreſſion began at the Birth of Miriam 87 Years before the Deliverance out of Egypt, whereas it really began the Year following, Anno Mundi 2427. To this let us add the 450 Years mention'd by St. Paul, and the Total is 2877, or the 29th Year of Eli's Prieſthood, when Samuel, as the Jews reckon, was about 27 Years old; and conſequently this might be the Time, when (g) Samuel prophely'd againſt Eli, and GOD directed him in other Predictions, inſomuch that all Iſrael from Dan even to Beerſheba knew, that Samuel was eſtabliſhed to be a prophet of the LORD. The Time of the Decree to deſtroy the Iſraelitiſh Children may be more nearly gueſs'd at. It is certain, that it was after the (h) firſt Setting the Task-maſters over them to afflict them with their Burdens, and we read nothing of it when Aaron was born, who (i) was but three Years older than Moſes, and therefore it ſeems to be order'd the Year after the Birth of Aaron, ſo that it was of full Force when Moſes was born, which occaſion'd his being plac'd in the River, if poſſible to preſerve him.

Anno Mundi 2431.

149. The Arabick Hiſtorians (k) tell us, that Amram was born to Kohath when he was ſixty Years of Age, and Miriam was born to Amram at 73, Aaron at 77, and Moſes at 80; and conſequently as Moſes was 80 Years old at the Deliverance of the Iſraelites, ſo Kohath muſt be born 220 Years before that, which was five Years before (l) Jacob went with him into Egypt, according to the Scripture Hiſtory. We are told alſo, that Kohath liv'd 133 Years, and Amram 130, which agrees well with the Ages of the Patriarchs, who were contemporary with them.
